DADS AT THE GAME: An enjoyable 'day of celebration was in store for many students' dads as Dad's Day was held Saturday on the Uconn campus. Teas, coffees, brunches and the game were all part of the events to honor dads. (Campus Photo—Zilinsky)

Registration Is Held Tonight For Fraternity Fall Rushing

John Evans, fiscal vice-president of the University of Connecticut, will be the guest speaker at the annual Interfraternity Council Rush Smoker this evening at 7:30 in the HUB Ballroom.

The subject of Mr. Evans' talk will be "The Responsibility of a College Student in the University Community." In addition, a movie depicting fraternity life will be shown.

The smoker annually marks the official opening of the fall rush program. At this time, all freshman men interested in rushing a fraternity this semester must register in order to be eligible for rush.

Talk To Men

Rushes will be welcomed at the smoker by fraternity men who will be present to answer questions about the fraternity system. Six men from each of the twenty-three fraternities represented on campus will be present.

The remainder of the fall rush period will consist of seven rush parties; four open round robin parties and three invitational parties.

Open rush parties will be held

Counseling Week

Registrar Franklin O. Fingles announced that Counseling Week will begin today and run through Friday of this week. During this week students will indicate by signing their "desired program cards" and their registration cards, that they have seen their counselor.

The "desired program cards" will be obtained from the resident counselors. Students would have the number one registration card filled out by registration time next week. Copies of the schedules of classes have been delivered to living units and students should check these schedules to make sure that courses are offered this week on Wednesday and Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m.

Round Robins

The purpose of the Round Robins is to let Freshmen visit as many different fraternities as possible. The parties consist of an informal gathering of brothers and rushees where the rushees have the opportunity to find out information about the individual houses.

In addition to serving as a means of letting the brothers and rushees get to know each other, the round robins provide an opportunity for the rushees to observe the fraternity system first hand and to find out just what a fraternity has to offer him.

Bids will be issued at formal tapping ceremonies on November 28.

Panhel To Begin Freshman Rush

Registration for all Freshmen and upperclassmen women who are interested in rushing begins tomorrow in the Hub Lobby. The Panhellenic Council will have a booth there for registration tomorrow and Wednesday from 1-5 p.m.

Rushees will receive their nametags for the Round Robin parties at this time and be assigned to groups for rotation.

Sunday Party

Round Robin parties will be held Sunday, November 12, from 5:30-9:30 p.m. Dress for this party is flats, sweaters and skirts. Rushing will continue in the Spring semester with the open houses.

This new rush system is designed to acquaint the freshmen women with the sororities early in the year, and to provide them with the opportunity to meet sorority women before the concentrated rush period begins in the Spring.

Breakfast

This Saturday, Panhel is presenting their annual "Mother-Daughter Breakfast" for new pledges from 9:30-11:30 a.m. at the Community House of the Storrs Congregational Church.

Chairman of the affair is Marge Barrie, Pi Beta Phi. Entertainment will consist of groups from each sorority. The "Blue Notes" from Pi Beta Phi, the "Kappetes" from Kappa Gamma; the "Sour Notes" from Phi Sigma Sigma and other entertainment groups will entertain the mothers and daughters at this time.

The idea of having a joint Mother-Daughter Breakfast is to allow members of the various sororities to meet with and talk to members of other sororities.

Inside Pages

"Cry The Beloved Country" will be presented tonight at the Storrs Congregational Church . . . see page 3.

A picture-feature of the first Department of Theatre's play, "The Rivals" is presented on page 4.

Hopes To Raise $2,000 For Rights, Student Senate

WHUS has set up a goal of $2000 to be collected in the first Students' Rights Marathon in the history of Uconn. Last year's CCC Marathon made a record high in grossing $1,400, but this year Station Manager Bill Grimes said, "If each of 8000 students at Uconn pledge one quarter, we will reach our goal."

The Marathon will run for fifty-seven consecutive hours, beginning today at 2 p.m. and continuing through Wednesday at 11 p.m. Students may donate money in three ways during the Marathon. They may call in their pledges, may come to the WHUS station in person to either donate or pledge, and may give their money to certain authorized students who will be circulating throughout the campus to collect money from those not available to phone.

The WHUS office is located in HUB 114, on the North Mezzanine of the Student Union. The phone is either GA 9-4726 or GA 9-9321, ext. 380. The students authorized to collect money are Brooks Chamberlin, Bob Calder, Judy Gilbertson, Bob Alexander and others not known at this time.

Veep Says

Al Medieros, vice-president of the Associated Student Government, stated, "The Student Senate is deeply grateful to WHUS for initiating this Marathon. We lend 100% support as evidenced by the fact that many Senators have pledged themselves to perform several activities. We strongly urge all to take an active part by pledging. The Senators are looking forward to meeting as many people as possible in collecting the pledged money."

Some of the "pledged services" are as follows: President Judy Vibert of the ASG, and Senator Marlene Freedman, Joan Marino, and Ann McLaughlin have pledged to waitress in the male house to pledge the most money to the Marathon. Senators Dennis Lepak, Al Medieros, and Sam Nemirow have pledged to act as waiters in the women's house pledging the most money to the Marathon. Senators Karen Dunn, Helen Sharp, Ann Lovelace, and Fran Tiller have pledged to serve as hostesses from 7-10 p.m. for four nights following the Marathon for the men's house donating the second highest amount of money to the Marathon.

The staff of WHUS has pledged its time and energy into making this Marathon a success. Bill Grimes states, "By actively supporting the Marathon, each student can express his belief in the basic premise that students are individuals capable of managing and governing themselves."

You probably have already noticed that page two has a different appearance today. Instead of the three previous columns there are now two wider ones with white space between them. We hope that this new format will make the various articles easier to read. We would like to get as many readers as possible exposed to the varied articles on this page.

In an effort to give adequate coverage to the large number of Letters To The Editor that we receive, we have decided to reduce the length of the Drew Pearson column. "The Washington Merry-Go-Round."

We would appreciate suggestions concerning the improvements that students would like to see in the paper, as well as comments on the nature and quality of the paper in general. Please address all comments to the Daily Campus, Student Union U-8.

Meet Goes Well: Caution Necessary

On Friday the heads of the Daily Campus, WHUS, the NUTMEG, and the Student Senate met with President Jorgensen and four members of the Board of Trustees.

At this meeting the President outlined what he felt to be the problems in Student Activities. These were:

1. Student control of student activities fees.
2. Administrative audit of student monies.
3. Professional advice for student communicative organs.
4. Financial difficulties of the Nutmeg and the Student Senate. He also offered several detailed suggestions for solving the current problems. Among these were the establishment of three committees to assist with immediate and long range planning.

In the discussion that followed, the President along with the Board members stated that the University did not want to control the allocation of the activities fees.

A meeting was scheduled for later this week between the students and the President to write detailed solutions.

We feel that this first meeting between the students, the President and the Board of Trustees was the first positive step forward in the efforts of both the students and the University to settle the dispute. Although nothing specific was accomplished, we had a chance, as did the representatives of the University, to find out what misunderstandings had developed and where. Our primary complaint turned out to be a lack of definition of the basic powers of the Administration and those of the students. Both sides expressed the desire to do the proper thing. The students indicated that they were desirous of more advice and counsel while the University expressed the desire to let student activities run their own affairs.

We were all happy over the outcome of this first meeting. However, in the past students have developed a false sense of accomplishment from similar meetings. (We would like to point out the meeting that Mr. Evans had with the Student Senate where he said that he could see no reason for not accepting the student's concept of a balanced budget. The next day he refused to consider the matter further.) We are hopefully awaiting the outcome of further meetings with the President to see if the expressed intentions of these people will be clearly outlined in writing. We want to cooperate fully, but not to the extent that we are "snowed" by diplomacy.

The chances for an agreeable solution were never greater. But, before complete agreement is arrived at, both sides will have to do a great deal of work and serious thinking.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson says: After nine years HST comes back to the White House; JFK nettled by Ike but bows to him; Lyndon Johnson works at people-to-people friendship.

WASHINGTON—Harry Truman came back to the White House for a state dinner in his honor—the first meal in the White House since he left it nine years ago. He comes back after being boycotted by the former incumbent, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and after seeing the present incumbent, John F. Kennedy, lean over backward toward Ike as if Ike hadn't left JFK a single thing to worry about.

HST has been back to pay President Kennedy a courtesy call, but this is the first time he has been given recognition by his fellow Democrat with a lunch, dinner, or even a cup of tea. He will find things around the White House changed a bit, but not too much. The "back porch" which Harry built on the South portico, and which caused such a rumpus, is still there. It looks out on the same splashing fountain, but Caroline's white ducks now give the fountain more life and color. And he will find a few scooters down in the "basement" corridor, and quite a few new etchings and new Colonial furniture around the place.

But you can't really change the White House, and it will seem about the same to Harry, for whom it was home for almost eight years.

Unrest?

What naturally has riled the former president has been the loving tenderness with which the present president has treated the man who gave Truman the nine-year straight-arm.

The reason for Ike's boycott was Berlin and the speech Truman made in October 1952, pinning the responsibility for the Berlin fiasco on Eisenhower. As commander-in-chief in Europe, Truman said, Ike had failed to provide for the right of access up the 110-mile corridor to Berlin. And this is what the chief trouble is all about right now.

Truman was by no means as harsh in his criticism of Eisenhower as Winston Churchill, who laid it on the line in scathing language. But Ike never forgave Harry, and the two men haven't spoken since.

Since then the Kennedy Administration has sided with Eisenhower and even censored out of a state department report on Berlin an indirect reference to Ike's error.

Harry hasn't said anything about this "whitewash Ike" policy of the Kennedy Administration, and won't. But his friends have. And they represent a potent segment inside the party which elected JFK.

Kennedy's Patience

One thing that HST doesn't know, however, is that Kennedy has been on the verge of sounding off against Eisenhower almost in the same manner that HST used to sound off against Drew Pearson. He was on the verge just before his North Carolina speech. And he got on the verge again after Ike's crack about sending the peace corps to the moon as an undeveloped country.

It so happens that Kennedy has the documents in the White House to prove what he inherited from Ike. He can show the papers to prove that Eisenhower was all set for an invasion of Cuba. The papers regarding Berlin are damning. And the records on Laos show that Eisenhower pulled the run from under Neutralist Souvanna Phouma, sent millions of dollars into Laos to overpay Laotian soldiers for a war for which they had no stomach. Kennedy inherited this predicament. It was one in which he could either withdraw or send American troops 6,000 miles into an area immediately adjacent to Red China, a country with millions in surplus manpower.

Second In A Series

Nuclear Blast Effects

FROM THE COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE NEWSLETTER

The levels of radioactivity behound the immediate area, out to Mystic, Norwich or Niantic, would never become so great as close in near the point of detonation and also would fall off rapidly with time. In these communities a person could avoid serious injury from radiation by taking shelter immediately and remaining inside for a few days. Although the levels of direct radiation from fallout would drop to small fractions of their original killing power within a few days, there would be serious dangers for some weeks. It would be necessary to decontaminate most of the built up areas and to completely avoid using some facilities which are normally a part of our lives.

It would be particularly necessary to protect children from radiation. The double reasons of genetic damage to those who will be the parents of the next generation and very much greater susceptibility of growing children to radiation damage would limit the lives of children in these communities to total protection (that is, constant living in an adequate shelter) for a few weeks and to very carefully restricted time outside of uncontaminated and adequately shielded buildings for a few months. The parents of these children would probably be willing to risk some levels of radiation damage (provided they were also willing never to have more children) in order to do the necessary jobs of supporting life in a shelter.

Contamination

The most serious source of radiation damage would be the ingestion of particles of radioactive fallout. This could be done through breathing contaminated air (even the most elegant shelters usually do not have adequate supplies of clean air), through contaminated food or water, or through open wounds such as cuts or burns. Buildings or open areas could ultimately be decontaminated but once radioactive material gets inside the human system it remains there as a subtle and virulent source of radioactive poison throughout the lifetime of the radioactivity—or the poisoned individual.

tion Council on the West Coast, Mr. Horn has been actively affiliated with the Zionist movement and youth work for many years. While attending Brooklyn College, he was field supervisor for Brooklyn Young Judaea and president of the Student Zionist Organization Chapter. He has lived in Israel and is a graduate of the Jewish Agency Institute for Youth Leaders in Jerusalem and was also a leader of the Israel Summer Institute in 1959.

Outing Club To Have Varied Year

On October 28 the Uconn Outing Club attended an Intercollegiate Square Dance at Smith College. Outing clubs from Yale and R.I.P. along with the American Appalachian Club and the Interstate Outing Club Association were present at the festivities. Refreshments and folk singing followed the dance. About sixteen members of the Uconn Outing Club left from the Student Union at 6:30 p.m. and traveled by car to Storrs the same evening.

The Smith College Square Dance was one of the more recent activities which the Outing Club has participated in. Earlier this month they attended a Square Dance at Conn. College for Women and they are planning to take part in another at Vassar on Nov. 18. During the Fall they have sponsored trips to local trails and caves in addition to trips to Mt. Monadnick, Eldon's Cave, and Lake George. Many of the trips have been for beginners during which lessons were given in canoeing, hiking, and rock climbing.

Several of the events to come are being organized in cooperation with the I.O.C.A. Lodges have been set up throughout the east coast by individual outing clubs and they are available to other clubs for skiing and hiking trips. The four major events that are scheduled for the Thanksgiving vacation are; a cave exploring expedition to West Virginia, a rock climb to Mt. Katahdin, Maine, a hiking trip to White Mountain National Forest in New Hampshire and a trip to Toronto, Canada with the Outing Club from the University of Massachusetts. Four or five ski weekends are scheduled for this winter and a special trip to the Florida Everglade is being planned for the winter vacation.

The Outing Club provides a means of participating in outdoor activities that would not be possible without group organization. Transportation and equipment are pooled to reduce expenses which are kept a minimum for each event. The other costs are then divided among the members. Often the activities are impromptu. Someone will suggest a canoe trip for the weekend and the other members who are interested will get together and plan an itinerary. In addition to all the rugged outdoor sports, the Outing Club also sponsors movies, lectures, picnics, dances and clam bakes.

Building 'The Rivals'

Probably the most unrewarding job of the theatre is that of the scenic designer and his crew. Here is the group of people who work the hardest and get the least bit of praise.

As you can see through the eyes of the Daily Campus camera building the sets for "The Rivals" is by no means an easy job.

Carol Zilinsky

In these pictures we see the many facets that go into the making of the final product of a fine production. Designing, building, painting, counter weighting, lighting, and many other minute details of work are all necessary for the end product which is a praise worthy piece of art.

When you see the final product of Sheridan's "The Rivals", which will be presented in the Little Theatre starting this evening, think of all the work the backstage technical crews does and give praise where praise is more than justly due.

Between The Lines

Burmese U Thant Interim UN Chief

BY GEORGE BRIA
ASSOCIATED PRESS

The man likely to be named the interim UN chief today, U Thant of Burma, is a dedicated believer in world organization.

In a speech he made in the General Assembly last year, the 52-year-old diplomat declared:

"The world has never so desperately needed an organization whose existence expresses not a utopian fantasy but the biggest reality of all."

The big power agreed last night to name Thant as Interim Secretary-General in place of the late Dag Hammarskjöld. The Security Council is scheduled to recommend him at a meeting this morning, after which it will be up to the General Assembly to appoint him. But no difficulty is expected.

Tireless Bargainer

Like Hammarskjöld, Thant is known as a tireless bargainer in behind-the-scenes negotiations. He also has expressed himself as opposed to any scheme that would modify the Secretary-General's powers.

U Thant speaks flawless English and has many friends among the British. A graduate of Rangoon University, he began his career as a schoolteacher but soon entered public life. He was named to Burma's UN delegation in 1952 and took over as Chief Delegate in 1957.

Burma is considered a middle of the road U-N member, subjected as it is to pressures from neighboring Communist China. And as a practicing neutral Thant has sought to maintain friendly relations with both sides in the eastwest conflict.

Modern Diplomacy

Watching the conduct of both sides in the diplomatic area has provided Thant with a definition of modern diplomacy. In most cases, he says, it is a series of conditioned reflexes. As he puts it:

"Whatever proposals come from Moscow or Peking are sure to be denounced by the West as propaganda. Whenever the West comes up with a really worthwhile proposal, it often gets the same treatment from its antagonists."

But although he is a neutral, Thant has declared that a neutral who truly serves the UN must be what he calls an active neutral.

In his words to the assembly last year:

"Peace cannot be achieved through passive neutralism, which would mean a withdrawal from the battle for peace."

If appointed, his philosophy will be tested under fire.

General Walker Quits Army In Storm Of Controversy

Washington, Nov. 3 —(AP)—Controversial Major General Edwin Walker is quitting the army and giving up annual retirement pay of more than $12,000 because he believes it's his duty to speak out on Communism. Walker had been stripped of his divisional command in Germany on the ground he had made inflammatory statements about former President Truman and others and had tried to influence his troops' voting in the last congressional elections.

The 51-year-old West Point graduate's decision to leave the army was announced in a statement supplied to a Senate Armed Services Subcommittee. Last night, in San Antonio, Texas, Walker declined to say whether he expects to enter politics.

In a bulky statement issued in Washington Walker said his removal as Commander of the 24th Division destroyed his 30-year career in its usefulness to the country. However, the army said it has not received any request from Walker for either retirement or resignation.

The troop education and indoctrination program Walker sponsored while heading the 24th Division led to the official rebuke.

The charge was denied by Defense Secretary McNamara and other Pentagon officials. But Democratic Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina succeeded in getting the Armed Services Subcommittee to investigate charges that military officers trying to speak out against Communism have been muzzled.

Walker contended that Communist agents and sympathizers have been able to infiltrate government agencies, the teaching profession, entertainment media and even the free press.

JFK To Maintain US Nuclear Lead

Washington, Nov. 2 —(AP)—

Administration sources say that if President Kennedy decides to order nuclear test firings in the atmosphere, the U.S. can be expected to explode several new types of improved weapons. Kennedy had said yesterday he is determined to maintain the U.S. lead over Russia in nuclear weapons strength and that he was ordering necessary preparations. Actually, he's reported reluctant to order such explosions.

U.S. Russia Lose

The U.N. political committee gave overwhelming approval last night to a call for a voluntary unpoliced moratorium on nuclear test. The U.S., Russia and 19 other countries voted against the proposal but 72 nations approved it. Thus it appears certain to get the two-thirds majority needed in the General Assembly.

Last night's balloting came shortly after two more Soviet nuclear blasts were disclosed and President Kennedy said this country was making the preparations necessary to conduct nuclear blasts just in case free world security demanded them.

Before the vote, the U.S. and its western allies said Russia's scrapping of the previous voluntary moratorium on August 31st pointed up the futility of any agreement that made no provision for enforcement. Russia, which now has had upwards of two dozen recent test, called the moratorium unfeasible unless it was made part of an over-all disarmament agreement.

Lose Propaganda Bonus

Some delegates predict that the strong support given the moratorium appeal would place the U.S. in an awkward position if it resumes atmospheric tests. They say the propaganda bonus the Americans won from the worldwide indignation over Russia's violation of the last moratorium would be canceled if the U.S. follows suit. But the U.S. and its major allies believe it would be better to be unpopular with some of the self-styled neutrals and others than be at a military disadvantage.

Thus far, the U.S. has begun a survey of the types of nuclear weapons which are ready or can be made ready for testing and picking the sites at which the tests would be conducted.

Royal Baby Boy Born To England's Princess Meg

London, Nov. 3 —(AP)—A new member was born today in Britain's royal family.

Thirty-one-year-old Princess Margaret, the Countess Snowdon, gave birth to her first child, a boy.

Royal physicians said mother and son were doing well.

The baby was born in Clarence House, where his mother lived until her marriage May 6, 1960, to Anthony Armstrong-Jones.

Huskies Outscore Wildcats, 30-23

YanCon Race

Conference Chatter

By NED PARKER

The Yankee Conference race this year is going to be a close one, with the winner possibly being decided by the last game of the season. The only Yankee Conference game played last weekend was the Uconn-New Hampshire game, the winner being Uconn 30-23. This loss to the Huskies put the Wildcats out of contention for the YanCon Beanpot since there are two teams still in the conference that are undefeated in conference play. These are of course Maine and Umass. If Umass can defeat the New Hampshire Wildcats in two weeks, they will be in a tie for first with Maine and the winner of the conference laurels will be decided November 25 when the Maine and Umass teams meet for a rematch of the game between the two that was called off earlier in the season.

Automatic Tie . . .

Should the Wildcats defeat the Redmen, then Maine will have at least an automatic tie since their only YanCon defeat could possibly be at the hands of the Redmen when they meet over the vacation. If Maine wins this contest, it will take sole possession of the beanpot while if Umass defeat the Wildcats the 18th and then down Maine over the vacation, they will win the YanCon honors.

There is a lot of ifs in the Umass path to the Beanpot but if comparative showings have anything to do with it then they must be given a slight nod. However it should be noted that this New Hampshire club will put up a good fight against Umass and the game between the two will be the turning point of the Conference for the Redmen. If they can defeat the Wildcats then they should take Maine and the Beanpot. So the game to watch in the Yankee Conference race is the New Hampshire-Umass game two weeks from now.

Umass. Defeated by BU

This past weekend the Umass team was handed its second loss of the season as the Boston University Terriers scored a pair of fourth period touchdowns for a come-from-behind win. Both teams tallied in the first period but the Redmen went ahead by a point when Bamberry kicked the extra point conversion after the Terriers had failed at their conversion attempt. Next weekend the Terriers play host to the Uconn Huskies in Boston. The Terriers, after three straight wins, must be given the nod in this contest. They should have little trouble with the Uconn team that broke into the win column for the first time last weekend.

The Redmen, on the other hand, carry their 4-2 record into a contest with Holy Cross. The Crusaders, after a 28-0 romp over Dayton, are definitely favored in this contest. Look out for that Umass team though, they put up a surprisingly good fight against Villanova as well as the BU Terriers and are capable of pulling off an upset against the Crusaders.

Other Action . . .

In other action this weekend the Rhody Rams were tied to a 6-6 tie by Springfield. After upsetting the Brown Bruins last weekend the Rams apparently just couldn't get up for the game with the Gymnasts. Next weekend the Rams play Hofstra, one of the finest small college teams in the country. Looking at previous performances of the Rhody team Hofstra will have to be favored in this game. Springfield plays host to the Wildcats next Saturday and here the New Hampshire team, led by a fine quarterback in Bo Dickson, must be given the advantage.

Soph Sparks First Victory Of Season

By Wayne Mortberg

Uconn finally drowned the bitterness of five consecutive defeats in the heady wine of victory as the Huskies triumphed over the Wildcats of New Hampshire in a 30-23 scoring deluge at Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon.

Sophomore halfback Sean Sgrulletta sparked the Uconn victory as he scored twice and added the two extra points twice. His second touchdown came on a one-yard play with one minute remaining in the game and was the winning margin in the fierce battle.

Ample Support

Sgrulletta received ample support from Dave Korponai and Pete Barbarito who ripped off fine gains. Korponai especially impressed with a 30-yard punt return in the second quarter which set up the second Uconn touchdown.

New Hampshire coach 'Chief' Boston remarked that, "I never suspected and not many other suspected that Korponai could be such a spectacular runner," when queried about the Huskies' performance against Boston's Wildcats.

Best Game

Uconn had to play its best game of the season in order to beat UNH and its inspired field general, Bob Dickson, who called an exceptionally brilliant game and passed as prolifically as many a professional quarterback. Dickson completed 16 passes out of the 25 passes that he attempted, garnering 157 yards on his aeriels and passing for two of the Wildcats' touchdowns.

And as Husky coach Bob Ingalls remarked after the high scoring battle, "I never thought the boys would have to score 30 points to win a ball game."

In fact the Wildcats took the kickoff following Sgrulletta's last minute score and marched to the Uconn three yard line mainly on the passing of Dickson until they were thwarted by fleeting seconds of time.

Final Drive

The decisive touchdown drive began at the Uconn 42 with the Huskies trailing 23-22, where Joe Klimas recovered a fumbled pitchout from Dickson to John Magner.

Klimas then threw two incomplete passes, but on the second one a Wildcat defender was detected interfering with Uconn end Ron Noveck and the Huskies were awarded a first down on the UNH 42. On third down Klimas lofted a mighty aerial to Sgrulletta, but the young soph could not reach the throw.

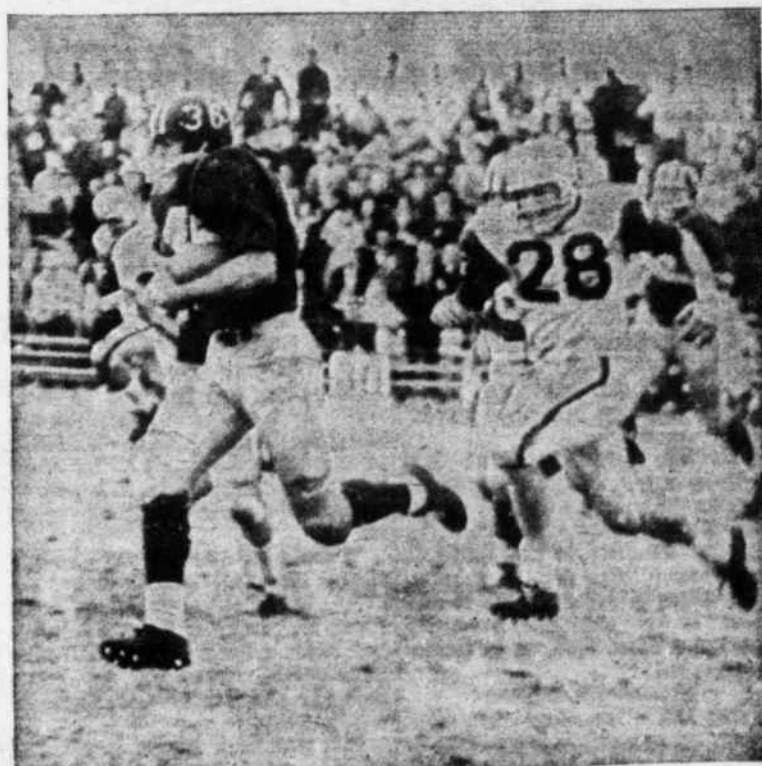

However the head linesman, Zen Zecher, detected pass interference by the Wildcat defender Ed Facey and Uconn found itself knocking on the UNH goal line only seven yards away.

Sgrulletta Scores

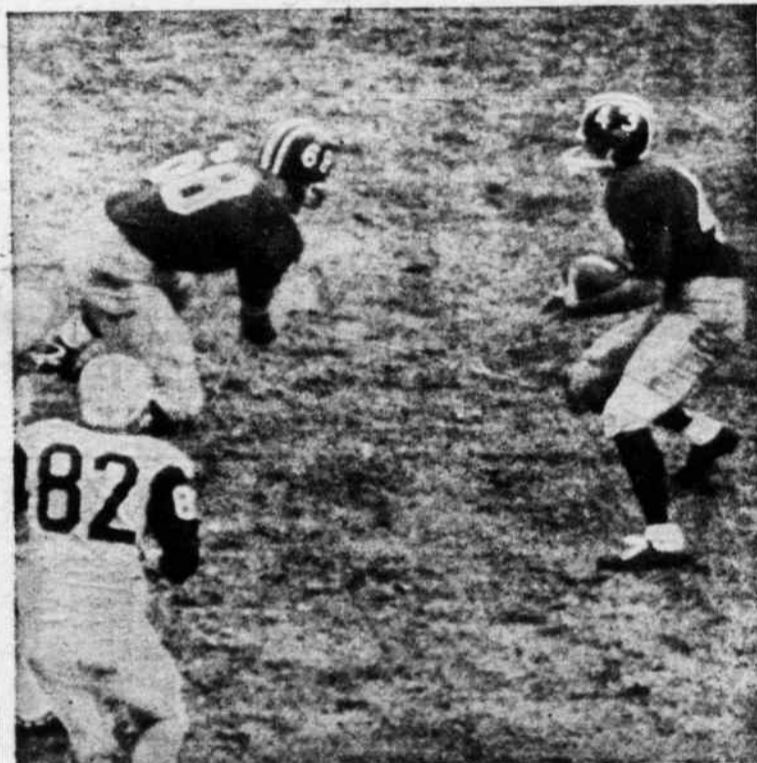

Then the powerful Sgrulletta crashed to the one yard line and on the next play he smashed for the remaining yard that stood between Uconn and the winning touchdown. Klimas completed a pass to Noveck for the two point conversion which made the final tally 30-23.

tally 30-23.

After the kickoff Dickson went to work and he completed two passes, one to Dan Serieka and one to Bob Weeks who lateraled to Serieka who scampered to the Uconn 12 before Korponai knocked him out of bounds.

With seven seconds left in the game Dickson saw a receiver in the end zone, but his pass was battered down by Uconn's Gerry White.

There still remained one-second to play, enough time for Dickson to complete a short swing pass to Jim Edgerly who drove to the Uconn three, before he could be brought down by Fred Stackpole and a couple other Huskies after the gun had gone off.

Pups Top UNH Frosh, 28-0

The injury ridden Husky Pups helped to make it a clean sweep over New Hampshire in football over the weekend as they easily handled the UNH frosh 28-0 in Durham Friday.

The Pups entered the game weakened especially at the end positions with injuries. Only three men were available to play at end.

Second Win

In their second straight win of the season the highly spirited frosh again recorded a resounding win as they scored once in each period and held the Cubs scoreless in the game.

Uconn Coach Nick Rodis' remarked, "There were no outstanding players in the game, but rather it was a solid team effort."

Scored Early

The Pups wasted no time in taking the initiative as halfback Bedard scooted 80 yards for a touchdown. Little Dick Novera ran for the two point conversion and the Pups went ahead 8-0 in the first period.

In the second period the Pups scored again on a Jack Redmond to Conner pass. It was a 28 yard pass play and the run for the two points failed but the Uconns had a commanding 14-0 lead.

In the second stanza the fired up Cubs were just unable to move against the firm Uconn defense. And the Uconns kept grinding out the yards against the Cub defense.

Lengthened Lead

In the third period the Pups lengthened their lead to 20 points when Garofono plunged over the line from the two yard line. Once again the run for the two point conversion failed.

Neither club was able to move the ball in the final period until Dick Novera added another TD to his belt with a four yard sweep around the end. And this time the rush was good as Garofono plunged over for the two points as the Uconns put the game on ice with a 28-0 score.

Smith Injured

Early in the game Brian Smith, the Pups' outstanding fullback bruised his hip and had to be taken out.

The game was the second straight win for the Uconn frosh who are guaranteed of at least an even season with only two games remaining on their schedule. This coming Friday the Uconn football fans will get a chance to see this fine frosh football team when the Pups host the University of Massachusetts frosh.

The Umass team has some very fine performers and the Pups will have to play as well or better than they have been in order to register their third win.

Harvard Frosh

The following Friday the Pups host the Harvard frosh in what is always one of the best freshman games of the year.

It is interesting to note that this Uconn frosh team, not picked as too strong before the season, has registered two straight wins, racking up a total of 64 points on offense and holding its opponents to but 20 points.

Texas Batters SMU 27-0; Lays Top Rating Claim...

There seems little doubt today that a new team will be on top when the Associated Press poll is released later this week. And the name of that team is expected to be Texas.

The Longhorns put on a dazzling exhibition Saturday in putting in a claim for the number one ranking and a potential national championship.

Two of the mighty fell by the wayside during Saturday's firing. Michigan State, the number one team in the latest ranking, was bumped out of the way by last year's national champion, Minnesota. Mississippi, standing right behind the Spartans in the rankings, also was clawed by the Bayou Tigers of Louisiana State for the third year in a row.

Thus, the path was cleared for Texas to move ahead.

Four members of the top 10 were beaten Saturday. The other six did their best to advance claims for higher recognition.

First, let's look at Texas and the battle in the southwest conference race.

Longhorns Win

The Longhorns battered Southern Methodist, 27 to 0, for their seventh victory in a row. Jim Saxton raced 79 yards for a touchdown to break a scoreless tie in the third period. After that it was just a question of the winning margin.

The Longhorns still have to face Baylor, Texas Christian and Texas A and M before they can march to the conference crown and a berth in the Cotton Bowl. But it looks like easy sailing from here in for the nation's number one offensive team.

"Minnesota just wanted to win more." That was the first statement made by Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty after his Spartans had just dropped a 13 to 0 verdict to the Gophers.

Minnesota coach Murry Warmath said the victory was a team effort. But he did single out his great passer, Sandy Stephens, and Bill Munsey, who scored both touchdowns, as the key men in the upset.

Minnesota now is tied for the big 10 conference lead with Ohio State. The Buckeyes posted a convincing 29 to 13 victory over Iowa. And their path to a possible league title appears a little easier than Minnesota's.

Long Way To Go

Minnesota still has to face Iowa, Purdue and Wisconsin. Ohio State next meets Indiana, plays non-conference opponent Oregon, and then ends its league campaign with Michigan.

Michigan State had been rated at number two, Ohio State at number five and Iowa at number nine in the national rankings. Minnesota did not make the top 10. However, the Gophers may enter the picture when the new ratings are announced.

Mississippi coach Johnny Vaught wrapped up the story of his team's 10 to 7 loss to Louisiana State quite crisply when the dust settled last night.

Said Vaught:

"Well, at least Old Miss was number one for a few hours today."

He was referring to the fact that Michigan State had lost in the afternoon and Mississippi had a golden opportunity to replace the Spartans on top.

But the Tigers of L-S-U had other ideas as they have had in the past few years. In particular, Jerry Stovall upset the apple cart by running 57 yards to set up his team's touchdown in the 3rd period. Wendell Harris carried the ball over for the touchdown that snapped Mississippi's hopes of becoming national champions this year.
