Women's Senior Dorm May Open In Towers

Applications are presently being accepted by Miss Joan McCall in the Women's Office for residency in the proposed Senior Women's Dormitory to be located in the Towers dorm nearing completion.

Presently in the planning stage, the Senior Dorm would be organized under the guiding principle of providing a place for the more responsible women, a place of more privileges, a place as an experiment in living segregated by classes.

"I'd like to see it come about," Miss McCall stated. She further stated that she had come the "full circle" since last year. In a year she has decided on the merit of such a system and is anxious that it should come to fruition. "It has a lot of merit," she said.

Midnight Curfews

In enumerating the advantages in such a system, Miss McCall said that the women in such a dorm would probably have midnight curfews Sunday through Thursday. She was doubtful that this privilege would be extended to senior women all over campus.

Towers or Nowhere

In further comment on the probability of this plan coming into realization, Miss McCall stated that if there is enough favorable response, there will be one or two units in the Towers. If not, she is not sure if the Senior Dorm will be able to locate elsewhere because of the displacement it would involve.

Miss McCall further expressed the hope that this attempt on the part of the University Administration to provide more progressive housing for its students would not be met with the same inflexibility that was exhibited when coed campuses were being discussed two years ago.

In wrapping up, Miss McCall said that the matter is now completely out of her hands and depends upon the response of the women students.

RA's Successful In South Hall Administration Seeks 6 More

A survey to determine the favorability of attitude towards the Resident Advisor and group systems presently in operation in South Hall, has resulted in an overwhelming endorsement by the residents of South Hall.

It was also announced that applications for the position of Senior Resident Advisor for South Hall are now being accepted.

Overwhelming Majority

The attitude survey resulted in a 90-95 per cent preference for the group system and the maintenance of resident advisors. The girls' decision was necessarily based somewhat on the special limitations imposed by the size of the South Hall dormitory. The survey further revealed that 95 per cent of the girls believed that the present Resident Advisors were doing a good job.

Applications Open

Applications for Senior Resident Advisor will be open until March 29. There are six positions available and it is hoped that many girls will apply in order to assure the selection of the more qualified girls through competition.

Qualifications

The qualifications include a minimum 25 QPR, freedom to devote a minimum of 15 hours a week to the position including weekends, and a willingness to accept ineligibility for participation in residence hall student government and student counseling program.

Such personal characteristics as integrity, dependability, sincerity, and warm personality are also desired.

Girls in all majors are eligible although those in physical therapy, education, and Home Economics may be restricted due to outside affiliations, which may interfere with counseling.

Compensation

Resident Advisors receive room and board seven days per week. Those assigned to the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth floors, receive rooms with private baths.

Women interested in applying should address a letter of application to Miss Nofsker. She and Miss McCall will review all applications and make the appointments.

Information Needed

The following information should be included in your letter of application: Present semester and school, present residence hall, birth date, home address, major, number of credits you expect to carry each semester next year, activities and offices you have held during your first three years of college, anticipated activities and offices for next year.

Also the source and amount of financial aid you receive for college expenses, summer work experience, part-time work experience while in college, whether or not you are willing to be here most weekends, why you feel you are qualified for the position, and what you think your role should be as a Resident Advisor.

U.S.A.'s Cassidento, Twachtman Seek Top Senatorial Positions

By PETER KIERYS

The U.S.A. nominating convention Thursday night opened with a keynote address by Al Medieros, the winner of the First Award in the U.S.A. party. Medieros's speech stressed the importance of student government on campus. Despite the advantage of large turnout, the convention chiefly with campus problems and the solving of these problems before dealing with affairs outside the Uconn life. Walt Twachtman the nominee for the position of vice president, gave a short speech in support of Cassidento's principles and further stressed the idea of solving campus problems first.

Senatorial Candidates

Students nominated for the seats of Senior Senator were Louis Ricciuti, Bill Hait, Sue Murphy, Wayne Mortberg, Jeff Linfert, Jack Hiller, Bill Loehr, and Joel Hirschhorn. Nine candidates were selected for the seats of Junior Senator: Jeff Widen, Nancy Roth, Bill Ward, Steve Heiber, Jerry Wallach, Anita Palermo, Marge Morrison, Brian Mahoney and Bob Hammond. Nominated for Sophomore Senator were Pete Francese, Ginny Mitchell, Hank Cormier, Claudia Yunker, Pat Sheehan and Trudy Kernan.

New Policy

The USA party does not follow the practice of deciding a definite set of party platforms at their nominating convention. This year the party has eliminated the process of constructing a harsh system of planks and instead has adopted a system dealing with

"areas of consideration". Subsequently, the candidates themselves prepared final drafts concerning the areas to be considered at a campaign meeting following the convention.

Areas of Consideration

Three main points composed the "areas of consideration" of was relatively quiet with no real contention for seats. However, the nominating slate was filled with the exception of two Junior nominees which have since been filled by appointments of the U.S.A. Executive Board.

Nominations

Following Medieros' address the convention rapidly moved into nominations. Ron Cassidento was nominated for the president of ASG by the unanimous approval of the convention body. Cassidento, present senator, emphasized the primary role of the Student Senate, serving the needs of the student body at the University of Connecticut. In his acceptance speech he emphasized the need for ASG to be concerned

Chad Mitchell Trio Sings At CCC Concert; April 22

The 1963 Campus Community Carnival, sponsored by the brothers of Alpha Phi Omega National service fraternity, will be held on a weekend, and will include a Sunday Concert.

The CCC is run by students and sponsored by students with the support of the University Administration, Faculty, and surrounding community. The proceeds of the carnival are donated to various worthwhile charity organizations.

Floats

This year's carnival will be held on Saturday, April 21 and Sunday, April 22. The Parade of Floats, Uconn's answer to the Rose Parade, will open the event, featuring bands and floats built by various houses on campus.

Immediately following the parade, the Queen of the CCC, Miss University of Connecticut, will cut the ribbon in front of the Field House, marking the opening of the Midway.

Here the spectators will enjoy games, shows, laughs, prizes and clowns. Refreshments will be available. Trophies will be awarded that afternoon for the best booths, men's, women's and combined. The houses with the best floats will be awarded trophies at this time, as will the house selected to construct the Queen's

Senate Hopefuls Must Petition

The Senate Elections Committee announced today that the Spring Senate Election will take place on Wednesday, April 3, 1963. The committee headed by Senator Jim Gadarowski and Bob Calder has begun the necessary arrangements for the election which is highlighted by the contest for presidency of Associated Student Government.

The Committee also made known today a new ruling which requires all candidates running either on a major party or as an independent to secure a petition with one hundred (100) names on it. This petition must be turned into the Senate Office or to either Gadarowski or Calder by noon, March 25. This new innovation was made in order to see whether or not the candidate really wants to run, to publicize the election, and to give more students an opportunity to meet the candidates.

Cut-off Date

The presidents of both parties are reminded of the cut-off date, March 25, and also that lists of candidates should be submitted as soon as possible to the committee co-chairmen. Any person desiring to run as an independent should also contact the co-chairmen as soon as possible.

Petitions for the candidates may be secured from the control desk of the Student Union or from the Senate Office also located in the Student Union.

A Democrat Views His State Party

"Connecticut Democrats—Liberal or Conservative?" A disillusioned Democrat takes a long hard look at the State Democratic party tonight as Dr. Curt Beck, assistant professor of Political Science, presents a personal discussion at 8:00 p.m. in HUB 103.

Dr. Beck has been active in the local Democratic party in the past but is presently involved in a group which he describes as "on the outs" with the party.

In a recent interview Dr. Beck stated that he was "very disturbed by the lack of liberal programs supported by the Democrats in the last couple of years." He also expressed concern over the fact that young idealists and other people who join the party only lose their enthusiasm by the time they have achieved positions of prominence.

Press Freedom Subject Of Talk

Mr. Neil Kleinman will speak on Freedom and the Press Wednesday evening at 8:00 in the Community House. His topic deals with the limitation of the news in relation to the question of national security.

Mr. Kleinman's lecture is being sponsored by the Storrs Peace Center as the first in a series of discussions which will center on the problems involved in establishing a peaceful world community.

Progressive Housing Up To You

We students have the tendency to look at Administration as the big, bad bogey, which stands in the way of any progressive moves in education. We see them as clamping down on anything which recognizes the responsibility of students. We rally around students' rights, we jump up and down and yell.

It is time for this erroneous notion to be dispelled. The Women's Office is presently in the midst of plans for the establishment of a Senior Women's Dorm in the newly constructed dormitory in the Towers area. This dorm will be set up with more privileges for the upperclassmen.

Miss Joan McCall, has stated that she is in favor of the establishment of such a dorm. The question is now in the hands of the students. Depending upon the response of the present junior women, this house will or will not come into existence.

The idea for a Senior Dorm was presented to the Council of House Presidents. It was their responsibility to present the idea to their respective dormitories. Depending upon the response from the various dorms, this attempt toward progressive housing on the part of the University administration will be accepted or rejected.

Now is the time to take advantage of our "students' rights." If we as junior women vote down the proposition, we have seriously injured the cause of more progressive housing for women. Two years ago, the women on campus voted down coed campuses for the alleged reason that "it was too long a walk from the Towers to class." If this attempt on the part of the Women's Office meets similar defeat, we as students have no right to "bellyache" about our rights and their infringement.

It is our responsibility now to take advantage of a marvelous opportunity for a more sensible housing arrangement. A Senior Dorm would provide a more serious atmosphere for women in their last year. It would involve opportunities for student-faculty rapport.

Campus response will determine whether or not these opportunities are to materialize. Act now. Reserve your room in the new Towers dorm.

Guest Editorial:

Maturity Essential

In the past the student body of the University of Connecticut has displayed its position on issues through mass demonstrations and riots. The effectiveness of these methods is dubious.

Today, as you all know, the open hearing regarding the tuition bills will be held at the State Capitol Building. This is the type of issue which can arouse very strong emotions on the part of those affected, that is we the students. Strong support is important, however our cause will not be best served by demonstrations but by cold reason.

As recipients of state support we must show the legislators that the money they have spent on our education has not been in vain. We must convince them that higher education for the masses is not an extravagance but a necessity. Therefore, when we go to Hartford today, we go not as a mob but as thinking individuals who have benefited from public education and who hope to perpetuate these benefits.

KEVIN DUNNE, President ASG.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Too Much Tax?

To the Editor:

In your editorial, "Uconn: Not a Private Institution" you ask, "Why should half of the student body be expected to provide scholarships for the other half that can't pay?"

Probably for the same reason that you expect all the taxpayers of Connecticut to support your education — regardless of whether or not you are economically able to help pay your own way or not. Surely one cannot defend one argument, without logically also being for the other.

As for getting your extra million by collecting thirty-five cents per person throughout the state: Beware the straw that breaks the camel's back. No camel—no work. No work—no taxes. No taxes—no state university, and none of us want that.

I enjoy my daily copy of the Campus, and hope to be able to support your next crusade.

John J. Keogh
New Haven, Conn.
Class of '48

P.S. My four children will soon be ready for Uconn. I will be happy to pay an increased tuition, particularly if the money was to go into a scholarship fund to help those students less financially able.

Academic Handicap

(Ed. Note: The following letter was received by Dick Kosinski and Norm Bloom, members of the Uconn track team, in reference to their articles on athletic scholarships which appeared in the Campus. The spelling is Mr. Maxon's.)

Dear sir:

Probably your main trouble is that you guys have a jealous streak, and you don't have the athletic ability some of the boys on scholarship have, and don't have a scholarship but you wish you had.

I have tried from time to time to interest Uconn in good outstanding athletes, but I know they won't take anyone unless he is a very good student. This is a handicap to your University when most of their opponents have lower admission standards. Some universities take athletes recommended by paid recruiters but your University won't. It may do some recruiting but it is done only by the coaches and only the better students are selected.

You should have been at the Palestra Monday night when your teams was booed when it was too big and too slow to cope with West Virginia. West Virginia as you know is highly recruited, has good players, etc.

Don't you know that Elgin Baylor of Seattle, Happy Hairston of NYU, Marty Lentz of WVA tried to get into Uconn but were rejected? So how can you write stuff like you do in the Campus. Boy, you don't know the half of it, what other colleges do and what your University has to compete with.

With your type of recruiting you will be sunk in years to come and your college will be unknown. Bob Cousery is going to Boston College and he is going all out for athletes, scholarships, and you holler because a few of you so called athletes don't get one. Where will Uconn be with Providence taking all the good D student athletes, Ivy League taking all the A students, Wake up man, and know what is going on around you.

My nephew attended Uconn and he sent me the article and letters. You are not being loyal to your University writing the way you two guys are.

Disillusioned Greeks

To the Editor:

Wednesday night at 7:30 in the Community House a debate was held concerning the Fraternity System. It's too bad that there weren't more than 15 or 20 interested people on this campus present. If you Greeks, or you independents, don't like the present Fraternity System, speak up! Speak your views! Let's do something! As Mr. Donald Morse stated, fraternities have come to an end, especially with the increasing heterogeneous nature of the university population. He tells of a specific fraternity at Williams College, to name one, which no longer exists. Better food and better social life aren't good enough reasons for fraternities to exist. A university is a place of further independence, and getting into this system doesn't promote independence, creativity, important values (not superficial ones like dating only the prettiest, "sharpest" girls), and a greater understanding and broadening of one's experiences with persons of varied background. It promotes: superficial values, conformity to an absurd degree, and bigotry. There are people who are against the "Greek Myth." Evidence of this was clear when a show of hands showed that the majority present at the debate were associated with the Fraternity System, including house officers and IFC representatives; most of them disillusioned. Still A Menace

To Selective Service No. 6-6-43-316:

Perhaps, No. 6-6-43-316, it has never occurred to you that this country, and the rest of the Western world, is faced by the greatest menace man has ever beheld. To eliminate any guessing on your part, and anyone else's, that menace is communism, which is dedicated to the violent overthrow of the Western governments.

You said that "There is only one thing worse than war, and that is the willingness to accept and propagate it." I'll tell you what's just a little worse than war. It's the brutal, ruthless subjugation, indeed, elimination, of an individual's mind. If you really believe that the United States of America willingly accepts and propagates war, then you do not deserve to live in this country. Why don't you go and live in Red China, or Albania, or possibly the U.S.S.R.? Do some reading about these countries, won't you? You might even try to get around to reading a little Marx, and more important, Lenin and Mao Tse-Tung. Perhaps such excursions into the world of communist literature will enlighten you.

Our armed forces exist for one purpose: to defend the United States. And by God, buster, if you don't answer the call when this country's in trouble, then get out! Leave! We don't want you, or anyone else like you! You should answer the call anyway, whether the country's in trouble or not. Show some interest in perpetuating your way of living.

Fortunately, for the United States, there are almost enough volunteers to fill the needs of the armed forces. But there is always a gap, due to the great turnover of men. Men are always needed, and the best way our government has found to fulfill this need has been conscription.

So, No. 6-6-43-316, shape up or ship out. This country needs less people like you.

Economic Ties Topic Of President's Meeting

San Jose, Mar. 18 — (AP) — President Kennedy has been greeted in San Jose, Costa Rica, by a crowd estimated at more than 250,000 persons. The rip-roaring welcome is said to be unequalled in Costa Rica's history.

He's in San Jose for conferences with six other presidents on Central American problems.

Great Responsibility

Costa Rican President Francisco Orlich welcomed Kennedy, terming him a man who carries the responsibility of the free world on his shoulders. Kennedy told an airport crowd of several thousand that the three-day conference of presidents is designed to strengthen our defenses against the forces of foreign imperialism.

President Kennedy spoke of the Caribbean area as being the home of an old associate which has temporarily lost its freedom to foreign rule, a clear reference to Fidel Castro's Cuba. The Latin American presidents want stronger measures against Cuba, and informed sources at the conference say they will ask for stronger measures to prevent the spread of Castro's Communism.

President Kennedy left Palm Beach, Florida, Monday for Costa Rica where he will meet for three days. Kennedy and the presidents of five Central American republics and Panama will concentrate on economic ties. But they will also deal with the topic of Castro Communism, at least briefly.

Military Aircraft

Because of tensions and dangers present in the Cuban situation, Navy and Air Force jet fighters were deployed along the path of the President's plane. He didn't have a fighter escort, as such, but armed military aircraft were within hailing distance of Kennedy's plane at all times. Normally the President could have travelled over Cuba.

In San Jose, it's reported that Kennedy asked that the three-day conference concentrate on such problems as economic integration of the Central American states and that they avoid consideration of joint measures against Castro at this time. However, some of the Latin American presidents have indicated that the check of Castro Communism is a prime topic with them. It appears doubtful that Kennedy will be able to sidestep the Cuban problem altogether.

Avoid Cuba Issue

Informants in San Jose say Kennedy sent a message asking that the conferees avoid considering at this time joint measures against Fidel Castro. But such leaders as President Luis Somoza of Nicaragua are understood to be urging joint action against subversion of a Castroite nature. Prime Minister Castro of Cuba, in Havana, says of the San Jose Conference: "The imperialists know they are sitting on a volcano all over the Americas."

Security measures have been taken in San Jose for the visitors, particularly for Somoza. There have been rumors that Nicaraguan exiles might demonstrate or try to attack him.

Kennedy is being accompanied to the San Jose meeting by Secretary of State Rusk, other government officials and six members of Congress.

Printers Reject New Contract; New York Strike To Continue

New York, March 18—(AP)—Printers have voted to continue their strike. This dims hopes of getting eight New York City newspapers back on the streets this week. The union rank and file rejected a contract previously agreed to by union negotiators.

Strike 101 Days Old

Meanwhile, the printers International President, Elmer Brown, told the New York printers they might find themselves hanging on a limb by rejecting the proposal. The New York strike now is 101 days old. In Ohio, negotiators make another attempt to settle a strike that has blacked out Cleveland's two newspapers for 109 days.

Prospects Doubtful

New Yorkers still don't know when they may get their regular daily newspapers back. The prospect that eight dailies might resume publication this week was thrown into doubt Sunday when a printers union membership meeting rejected proposed terms for settling the 101-day-old strike.

Settlement Terms Rejected

The settlement terms approved by publishers and union negotiators were rejected at the membership meeting by a margin of 64 votes. Publishers' representatives expressed regret. Observers wondered whether the printers union leadership might submit the proposed settlement to a referendum of the entire membership of the striking local, which includes both commercial and newspaper printers.

In Philadelphia, the steelworkers union executive board is holding meetings, and the industry will be waiting to know whether the union plans to reopen its two-year contract, which it can do at anytime after April 30.

Other Developments

In another labor development, general counsel Stuart Rothman of the National Labor Relations Board says he is filing an unfair labor practices complaint against a local of the AFL-CIO rubber workers at Gadsden, Ala. The specific charge: Racial discrimination, involving workers at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. For one thing, the local is accused of refusing to process negro workers' grievances against segregated employment conditions.

GOP Argues Is New Cuba Blockade Needed

Washington, Mar. 18.—(AP.)—Two Republican Senators said Monday it may become necessary to reimpose a blockade on Cuba. A third Senator said he thinks the Communist threat in Cuba can be countered by other actions.

Republican Senators Clifford Case of New Jersey and Jacob Javits of New York said in separate taped radio-television programs they don't believe Congress should tell President Kennedy what kind of action to take at this point.

But Javits said the proper occasion for a blockade may arrive if the Russians show intentions of leaving a substantial number of troops in Cuba for a very long time to come.

Case said there may have to be action similar to last October's quarantine if the situation becomes more serious.

Blockade Unnecessary

Republican Senator Kenneth Keating of New York said on another taped radio-TV program that he is not convinced that a blockade or a quarantine will become necessary, provided the US takes other steps in its power.

Keating proposed that, in his meeting with Central American presidents in Costa Rica, President Kennedy take steps to fashion a united front between members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the organization of American States to resist Communist infiltration and subversion.

He said, "The two hemispheres could benefit by putting their common interests in perspective and by a mutual exchange or clearing house of data and experience."

Javits said he thinks it is important that Kennedy make it clear he would reimpose a quarantine anytime he feels developments in Cuba threaten hemispheric security.

Case said he thinks the President's approach to the Cuban administration's handling of the matter have not been satisfactory.

President Angry

Brazil, March 18—(AP)—Brazil's President Goulart has reacted angrily to US assertions that Communists have infiltrated his government. He demands that President Kennedy personally clarify the charge made by our State Department. In the meantime, Goulart has ordered his envoy in Washington not to negotiate for any additional US aid, which could run into many millions of dollars.

Israeli Agents Waging War Against Arab Arms Suppliers

Bern, Mar. 18.—(AP)—Informed sources say that Israeli agents are believed to be waging a cloak-and-dagger operation against European scientists and industries working on arms for the United Arab Republic.

The sources say two men arrested as Israeli agents by Swiss police earlier this month were implicated in a plot to kidnap German missile expert Dr. Hans Kleinwaechter. Dr. Heinz Krug of Munich, another German scientist on the same UAR project, disappeared last September.

Trap Set

Swiss police informants confirmed an Israeli radio report that the alleged agents, an Israeli and an Austrian, fell into a trap set by the daughter of another German scientist.

They were said to have been arrested on March 2 after meeting Heidi Goerke, daughter of Dr. Jens Goerke, in a restaurant in Basel, Switzerland. Basel is across the border from Loerrach, Germany, where Kleinwaechter lives. Swiss police had been informed. A microphone was concealed at their table and their waiters were Swiss detectives.

Weapons

The Israeli radio said the men tried to get Miss Goerke to persuade her father to abandon his work for the UAR, claiming that he was helping develop weapons of mass destruction to be used against Israel. The Jerusalem Post said these are believed to be cobalt warheads for Egypt's Al Kahir missile.

The Swiss informants said, however, that their recorded conversation revealed the agents' part in an undercover operation directed at European scientists and industries working for Egypt.

The sources stated: "This affair has ramifications in several other countries of west Europe, including Britain."

Kidnap Attempt

Police say an attempt was made to kidnap Kleinwaechter on February 20. The sources say the arrested agents were involved in the plot.

The agents will be tried before a Basel criminal court on charges of violating Swiss neutrality laws. The trial date has not been set.

US Asks Russia For Test Decision

Geneva, Mar. 18.—(AP)—The United States asked the Soviet Union Monday to state clearly whether it has decided to back out of its agreement to permit on-site inspection to enforce a nuclear test ban.

U.S. Ambassador Charles Steele told the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva that Russian tactics in the test ban negotiations raise doubts over what the West had assumed to be a firm Soviet commitment.

No Agreement

Stelle said Soviet Ambassador Semyon Tsarapkin told the conference on March 13 that he could not discuss on-site inspection methods because "so far we still have no agreement that there will be inspections."

Stelle added:

"My delegation believes that there will be on-site inspections. We do not question this point." He said acceptance of on-site inspections is a central part of the letters exchanged between Chairman Khrushchev and President Kennedy. He added:

Unclear Situation

"If the Soviet representative really does not believe that we have agreed that there will be on-site inspections, I hope he will clarify this for us right now. For we have been operating under the assumption that there is clear agreement on the principle of on-site inspections as a necessary, indeed an essential, part of the verification system."

Miss Skinner Illuminates U.S. Female In Festival Opening

by William McGovern

Cornelia Otis Skinner opened the Fine Arts Festival last Thursday evening with resounding success. Her one-woman show consisted of a series of character sketches, each a delightful, satiric study of the American woman. Done with remarkable insight, her performance offered the audience an evening of sophisticated wit and showed Miss Skinner's versatility as both an accomplished actress and writer.

Faithful Interpretation

Each sketch represented a certain "type" of person, exhibiting regional outlooks, marked dialect, and subtle references to provincial thought. Miss Skinner not only observed her characters faithfully, but played them with genuine sensitivity. Whether it was a slice of thick southern dialect or a brisk "Ma Kettle" catcall Miss Skinner delivered her speech in a hilariously authentic way.

The show could rightfully have been called an evening of verbal manipulation. For at times a slight variation in accent was all that separated one character from another, yet the distinction was always clear and the change never tiring. Her gestures and facial expressions were the result of a perceptive character study, at times unbelievably accurate.

Evening Highlights

The two highlights of the evening were sketches entitled "Genealogy: a Study in American Ancestry" and the "Yearly American Invasion." In the former, Miss Skinner assumed the roles of regional women boasting of their American heritage. She then reversed the scene and presented to the audience what the ancestors were really like. Perhaps the best illustration would be the supposed Spanish Gran-dame, Californian society woman whose great-great-grandmother turned out to be quite an attraction for the sailor boys in Tiahuanna. The motif of the second sketch can be summed up in Miss Skinner's words, "All Good Americans, when they die, go to Paris—especially women." She ran the gamut of every conceivable tourist that annually jaunts to Paris. She did this with the aid of a red-velvet pouch hat, which she contorted to match her character studies.

A slight distortion of character is the basis for Miss Skinner's humor. There were times, however, when in an attempt to remain loyal to her creation, she chose not to exaggerate, but rather present a character study as life-like as possible. The sketches were not humorous at this point, nor am I sure they were meant to be.

A domineering mother at a seashore resort and a tourist who was sincerely bored with Paris ceased to be comical, and due to their pathetic nature became almost repugnant. Once again, this is a credit to Miss Skinner's accurate depiction, but I wonder how consistent with her light, comical theme.

Genuine Creation

Her most sincere creation was a middle-class American woman doing Paris on a budget. Her exasperated "gosh" and "gollies" were never done in ridicule, and when in a French restaurant she reacted to fresh strawberries with the customary and trite expression, "spring flowers," we sensed a genuine sincerity. Only Miss Skinner could have put that one across. No character escaped the witty tongue of Miss Skinner, but underneath her satiric sketches, there were real people groping around.

Dept. Of Health Gives OK On Vaccine

(AP.)—(Washington)—The way will be cleared tomorrow for immediate licensing of two types of measles vaccines—a landmark achievement in preventive medicine.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Anthony Celebrezze announced today that additional standards to govern the manufacture of both "live" and "killed" virus measles vaccines will be published tomorrow, and will be effective immediately.

This is the final step before eligible drug manufacturers may be licensed to market the vaccines in interstate commerce for general use by physicians.

Deputy Surgeon General David Price of the Public Health Service told the Associated Press:

"Up to the present time we have had no effective means of dealing with this very common childhood disease which causes a considerable amount of disability and is also a killer, though the death toll is much greater in other parts of the world than here in the United States. He added:

Both the "live" virus vaccine—known technically as live attenuated—and the "killed" virus vaccine—known technically as inactivated—have been under test in human beings for several years, both in this country and in foreign nations.

They stem from the work of Dr. John Enders of Harvard University, a Nobel Prize Winner, and an associate, Dr. Thomas Peebles, who isolated a strain of the measles virus in 1954.

New Britain Man Buried Twice

New Britain, March 18.—(AP.)—A second burial was held Saturday in New Britain for a young New Britain man who died of a heart attack in New York City and was buried in an unmarked grave when he could not be identified.

The body of 25 year old Ignatius Paul Alvick was identified later by the FBI on the basis of fingerprints in Alvick's service record.

Members of his family in New Britain said today that he had been living in New York City and played small parts in television shows. The heart attack occurred on February 18th.

Alvick had led an eventful life. His twin brother, Ralph, said Alvick served under Fidel Castro in the Cuban revolution, later had a falling out with Castro and was marched before firing squads on three occasions.

The brother explained that each time the weapons proved to be unloaded. He said the mock firing squads were used to impress on the victims that they had incurred the displeasure of the Castro regime and might face a real firing squad the next time.

But his brother said that Alvick was allowed to leave the island, Alvick's body was found on a New York street with no identifying papers. An autopsy disclosed that death was caused by a heart attack.

Mona Lisa

Paris, Mar. 18.—(AP.)—Parisians treated the Mona Lisa as if the old gal hadn't taken her celebrated smile away to America for two months.

There were no crowds, no lines at the Louvre Museum when the Leonardo da Vinci painting went back on public display Monday. Only the usual handful of Louvre visitors turned up and there she was, back in her old spot between two paintings by Titian.

Some Frenchmen inspected the painting closely to make sure that she had weathered the good-will tour to Washington, D.C., and New York. There had been criticism in France for permitting the 400 year old masterpiece to leave the country.

UCF Plans Drama Seminar This Month

The University Christian Fellowship has planned a New York Drama Seminar for the weekend of March 29, 30, 31 to offer students on the University Campus an opportunity to see and discuss some of the finest contemporary drama.

The number of spaces available in this special program is limited and therefore those students who are interested in participating are asked to respond immediately by calling either Warren Molton at 429-5900 or Fran Tiller at 429-9481. The final date for registration is March 24, Sunday.

Three Types

Three types of theater will be included in the program. They are equally excellent and each is a representative of a distinct drama form. The program is:

Friday, March 29:

Leave Storrs at 3:00 p.m.
Arrive New York City at 7:00 p.m.
Check in and eat.
Meet to discuss weekend plans

at 9:00 p.m.
BRECHT'S "A Man's A Man"
at 10:00—Off-Broadway.

Saturday, March 30:

Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid Of Virginia Woolf," 2:00 p.m.
Seminar on Brecht and Albee at 7:30 p.m.
"SECOND CITY AT SQUARE EAST" at 10:30 p.m.

Sunday, March 31:

Return to Uconn.

The program has been arranged through Norman Dietz, director of the Theater of Religious Concern. The seminar price, to be paid to the University Christian Fellowship is $17.50. This includes the price of tickets to all three productions, the seminar and the fee for the help of Mr. Dietz. The UCF will also make arrangements for housing those who wish them. The price of housing, food, and transportation is not included in the overall fee. The seminar is open to all students on campus until the quota is filled.

Students Urged To Apply Now For Scholarship Aid

A University of Connecticut official urged students today to apply early if they wish to improve their chances of obtaining one of a limited number of scholarships that will be awarded during the coming academic year.

In making the announcement, Joseph Macione, financial aid counselor, said all applications from upperclassmen should be filed by June 1. This will make it possible for the University's Scholarship Committee to give maximum consideration to each applicant, he explained.

300 Scholarships

Outlining the procedure for obtaining one of the 300-odd scholarships awarded by the University, Mr. Macione said:

"High academic standing, need, leadership qualities and evidence of potential contributions to University life are some of the factors used to determine student eligibility for scholarship aid. However, students who possess some, but not necessarily all, of these basic criteria should not hesitate to file applications."

Early Application

Mr. Macione emphasized that students should pick up application forms at the Scholarship Office in Koons Hall as soon as possible. Students already holding scholarships were urged to re-apply before the June 1 deadline if they wish to be considered for renewals.

The Uconn scholarship official also urged all high school students in Connecticut planning to enroll at the Uconn this fall to complete and return their scholarship forms to his office by April 1.

Presenting Miss DeIcer:

She is not petite, nor is she an Amazon. She is not a brunette or a redhead, but she is a blonde. Yes, we are talking about Uconn's Miss De-Icer, lovely Jan Prahovic.

Balloting for Miss De-Icer, took place February 6-19. A simple plurality of the votes cast was necessary to select a winner. Miss Prahovic obtained that plurality over the other nineteen candidates.

The Miss De-Icer contest was sponsored by the makers of "Prestone" Spray De-Icer, who are awarding Jan with a cash prize of $50. She now enters the National Miss De-Icer Competition. First prize for the National Miss De-Icer will be a weekend in Bermuda for two.

She is the past Junior Miss Connecticut and a member of the Co-ed Colonel's Court at the Military Ball 1962. (Campus Photo)

Marc Connelly Appears Tomorrow As Part Of Fine Art Festival

Marc Connelly, one of the nation's most versatile men of the theater, will tell a University of Connecticut audience about the techniques of his trade March 20, when he appears at the University's Fine Arts Festival.

A successful writer-director-actor, Mr. Connelly will deliver a public lecture at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

As a playwright, Mr. Connelly co-authored with George Kaufman such hits as "To the Ladies," "The Fortyniners," "Merton of the Movies," "Helen of Troy New York," and "Beggars on Horseback."

His solo efforts include the stage classic, "The Green Pastures," and "The Wisdom Tooth." Four years ago he produced and directed a British Broadcasting Co. production of "The Green Pastures."

Mr. Connelly's talent as a director was earlier displayed in the original Broadway productions of "Berkeley Square," "Having a Wonderful Time," "Two Bouquets," etc.

Meantime, as an actor he gave an outstanding performance of the "Stage Manager" in Jed Harris' production of "Our Town" which played at New York's City Center and in London.

His most recent stage role was that of "Professor Osman" in Lindsey and Crouse's "Tall Story." After appearing in the New York play, he performed the same role in a motion picture version.

He is an alumnus of the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO.

the USA party. One of the most important points is the proposal that Senate elections be held twice a year instead of once as at present. The term of office of the Senators would still be one year but the number of candidates will be cut in half which will enable the student body to know better the candidates that they are voting for. The new system will also make the Senators more responsible since lax treatment by a particular party could lead to loss of elections in the following semester.

Another proposal is that Student Government reform within before extending itself to a great degree on the outside. There are many important matters on campus which must be further considered and solved before a governing body can indulge in outside activity.

A third important point is the proposal of financial autonomy for the Uconn communicative organs, the Connecticut Daily Campus and WHUS. Financial autonomy can be established by allowing the University Board of Directors to allocate funds to these two organizations or by the creation of a separate board to deal specifically with such matters. The establishment of such an entity should alleviate the problem of pressure being brought to bear on these media because of conflicting policy.

Quarter Finals Of NIT Tourney To Be Tonight

(AP) — College basketball's tournament activity resumes tonight with a pair of quarter-final games in the National Invitation Tournament in New York. The NCAA Tourney, which has reached the semi-final stage, won't pick up again until Friday night.

NIT Parings

The NIT parings for tonight are Marquette against St. Louis and Providence against Miami of Florida. The two winners will meet in one semi-final game Thursday night, along with Villanova and Canisius, who already have qualified for the semifinals. The championship game will be played Saturday afternoon.

The four remaining NCAA teams will take a combined record of 100 and 12 into Friday's semi-finals at Louisville, Kentucky. Top ranked Cincinnati, seeking an unprecedented third straight title, has a 25 and one mark.

The Bearcats' opponent, Oregon State, is 22 and seven. Second-ranked Duke stands at 26 and two, and the nation's number three team, Loyola of Chicago, is 27 and two. The championship game is set for Saturday night.

One of the club's weak spots was the lack of right-handed hitting power. But that should be changed this season with the club counting on full-time service from outfielders Ken Hunt and George Thomas. Hunt played only 13 games last year before being sidelined by a severe shoulder injury. Thomas spent a good part of the season in the Army. Both swing from the right side and both are potential long ball hitters.

Catcher Bob Rodgers is a switch hitter, but he is at his best when he is hitting left-handed.

Rodgers was one of the biggest bright spots last year. He set a record for rookies by playing in 155 games. He has a strong arm and baseball savvy, as good a combination as anyone can ask in a catcher. Concentrating more on his hitting, Rodgers could boost his batting average over the .258 he hit last year. Incidentally, as a left-hander, Rodgers batted .285.

Infield Set

Rigney's infield seems fairly well set. Lee Thomas is riveted at first after his fine 1962 showing. He batted .290, and drove in 104 runs and hit 26 homers. Billy Moran rates an encore for his job at second base, both fielding and hitting. He batted .282 and drove in 74 runs at short, it's a toss-up between Joe Koppe and Jim Fregosi.

Fregosi split his season between the Angels and the minor leagues last year, batting .291 in a brief time with Los Angeles. With a year of seasoning behind him, Felix Torres could do a better job at third.

In the outfield, the Angels have power hitting Leon Wagner, Hunt, George Thomas, and Abbie Pearson. Wagner hit only .268 last year, but he belted 37 home runs and drove in 107 runs.

Hunt and Thomas indicate that with a chance to play full-time, they can be top-grade outfielders.

Looseness

The Angels had a quality last year that did not show up in the statistics, looseness. Everything was a lark, it was all a big game, and everyone had a great deal of fun. Off course, after having finished third last year, the players may start taking themselves seriously, and tighten up.

But, if the Angels turn out to be the same happy go lucky team, and use the potential they show on paper, there is no telling what they can do. They aren't expected to win the pennant . . . but don't try and tell that to the Angels.

Frosh Basketball . . .

the 15 members of the Freshman squad will ever wear a varsity uniform. Actually, the coaches aren't as interested in the number of games won by the Pups as they are in the improvement and experience gained by the individual players. The freshman squad designs its tactics according to the varsity model so that a member of the Frosh team would be better prepared for varsity competition. Since the Huskies will be losing Gerry Manning, Dale Comey, Andy Czuchry, Bill Hulteen and Bob Haines, due to graduation, there are good opportunities for varsity berths next year.

Varsity Prospects

When asked about varsity prospects from the Freshman team, Coach Carlson commented, "Thus far, Hesford, Libertoff, Whitney, Huckaby, and Kidd, are all primary candidates for a varsity uniform next year."

Congratulations go to Lenny Carlson, who successfully filled the position of Freshman Coach when George Wigton became acting Head Coach of the varsity team. Both men's efforts will be tested when their boys compete for varsity positions next year.

Milwaukee Acquires Cleveland's Cline

The Milwaukee Braves acquired outfielder Ty Cline from the Cleveland Indians and the Washington Senators purchased pitcher Ron Kline from the Detroit Tigers for slightly over the waiver price.

Milwaukee's acquisition of Ty Cline completes the deal which sent first baseman Joe Adcock and pitcher Jack Curtis to Cleveland for pitcher Frank Funk and outfielder Don Dillard last November 28th. However, the two teams still are not finished trading. The Indians say they will receive cash and a player to be named later, wrapping up the deal.

Strong Comeback:Frosh Basketball

By Lou Matsikas

"I was certainly satisfied with the progress of the Freshman squad," remarked Freshman Coach, Lenny Carlson, when asked for a summary of the season. The ex-Husky basketballer gave three main reasons why the Pups won four out of their last seven games: Team play, hustling defense, and good offensive passing.

Five Straight Losses

The Freshman team began their season with five straight losses. These losses did not mean that the squad had inadequate personnel, but they were the result of poor team play. Some early flashes of fine shooting by Ken Whitney, Dan Hesford and Ken Libertoff, along with some sharp floor play by Elbert Huckaby, proved that the squad had the elements of a winner, but just couldn't pull itself together.

Semester break had both good and bad effects on the squad. A bad break was to lose six men due to scholastic difficulties; but the recess did give the boys a chance to re-evaluate themselves and also a new big man was gained by the squad, Don Bogucki.

The New Team

The new team, backed with game maturation and a "big man" was now ready to finish the second half of their schedule with a little more confidence. There was less pressure on Ken Libertoff and Dan Hesford in the rebounding department because of the addition of Dan Bogucki who led in that department for the rest of the season.

Ken Libertoff at the end of the season came into his own. Simply by the attainment of confidence, the 6-2 New York City native, moved very well and showed a fine shooting ability. Ken's good corner jump shot helped him net the season's individual high of 30 points against the Waterbury Branch.

Dan Hesford, although sick part of the season, played very well in spots. He has good leg spring, an unorthodox but adequate shot, and plays good defense. His fierce competitiveness has sparked the team in times of need.

Whitney Has Talent

Ken Whitney of Bregton, Maine, has played very well in spots and probably possesses the most natural talent of any squad member. With more experience and court knowledge, this writer agrees with Coach Carlson, that Whitney will become a very fine ball player and a definite prospect for a varsity berth.

Elbert Huckaby, Wilbur Cross' contribution to Uconn this year, earned a starting berth in the latter part of the season. Although not an exceptionally good scorer, "Huck" proved that his smart floor play, along with his stability under pressure, was valuable enough to place him on the first team. "Huck" also played a good defensive ball game and rebounded exceptionally well for his size.

Big Man

Don Bogucki joined the squad at the mid-way mark on the request of Coach Len Carlson. As far as attitude and sacrifice is concerned, the coach can't say enough for him. He quickly got into shape, after a layoff from basketball, and became the team's leading rebounder.

Henry Racki, a Naugatuck native, through his fine shooting and hustling, came off the bench and sparked the team near the end of the season. Coach Carlson summarized his play by saying, "Henry progressed steadily and certainly made the most of his physical talents."

John Kusk did not see action early in the season but stuck with it and provided the team with some good reserve floor play and scoring. Coach Carlson remarked, "John is one of the best Freshman press men seen here in recent years."

Brian Kidd, who left the team at mid-season, is still a student at the University. Although not a giant, Brian is a fierce competitor, good shooter, and steady ball handler. We may see this boy in a varsity uniform in the future.

Others Added Depth

Joe Battaglia of Bridgeport, Pat Sheehan, Mike Beal, Bill Milkowski, Glen Olmstead, and Morgan Winson, all helped the Pups in their successful finish. The depth that these boys gave the team provided that extra punch which gave the surging Pups a 4-3 won-lost record for the second half of the season.

The big question in everybody's mind is, how many of

NOT YET, but baseball season is coming believe it or not. Though scenes like this have yet to be witnessed at Gardner Dow Field this year, the Uconn baseball team is still in the midst of preparations for the coming campaign.

They are working out in the Field House with their eyes set on the April 5 opener at American University. Nine lettermen are included in the 28 players presently working out. (Campus Photo)

Twenty-Two Games On Schedule For Baseball Team This Year

A group of 28 candidates for the University of Connecticut baseball team is busy preparing for a heavy 22 game schedule beginning April 5 at American University.

Nine Lettermen

Coach Panciera, beginning his second season at the helm, has nine lettermen included in the group. They are pitchers Ed Jones, and Jim Parmelee; Catcher Don Warzocha; infielders Frank Biondi, Doug Gaffney, and Jimmy Penders; and outfielders Jimmy Bell, Ken Gilkes, and Dorrie Jackson.

Bell was the leading hitter on last year's team which closed out with a 7-7-1 record, and Jones led the pitchers with a 2.24 ERA.

Listed among the 15 sophomores in the group are six pitchers, who paced the freshman team to a 7-1 record a year ago, and five batters who socked the ball for a better than .300 clip.

Soph Hurlers

The pitchers, with their freshman record in parenthesis, are Richard Branowski (2-0), Leo Bravakis (1-0), Stephen Gulyas (1-1), Ray Hartmann (0-0), Russ Rotko (3-0), and David Werner (0-0).

Top freshman hitters who are working out are: Doug King (.429), Pete Mottla (.375), Mike Haiday (.333), Dave Rosano (.333) and Dave Prybyla (.323).

Jim Loscutoff Applies For Job As Hoop Coach

"Jungle Jim" Loscutoff, the Boston Celtics' rugged corner man, has made formal application for the job as head basketball coach at Uconn.

Loscutoff, a veteran of National Basketball Association play, told a luncheon meeting in Boston yesterday he is seeking the Uconn slot, as well as one vacant at the University of Massachusetts.

The Uconn opening occurred after veteran coach Hugh Greer died at mid-season of a heart attack. Freshman coach George Wigton took over the helm and guided the Huskies to the Yankee Conference championship and a NCAA tournament berth.

Wigton, although he was named only as interim mentor, probably is a strong candidate for the regular job. Loscutoff said if he didn't get the Uconn or Umass jobs, he would be back with the Celtics next year.

'Angels To Do Better' Says Manager Rigney

(AP)—Nobody is supposed to take the Los Angeles Angels seriously, including the Angels themselves. Yet, when Manager Bill Rigney says the club can do better than its third place finish of last year, his comment cannot be tossed off too lightly. The fact is only two teams in the American League did better than the Angels last year and, on paper, the club looks at least as good as it did in 1962.

The Angels seem to have strength in pitching, a very crucial spot in which to be strong. There even is talk of the team having two potential 20-game winners in Dean Chance and Ken McBride. Chance wound up with 14 victories and ten defeats last year after taking over as a regular starter in mid-season.

Chance had been used mainly as a reliever for the first half of the campaign, then moved into the starting rotation when McBride suffered a cracked rib and was sidelined for two months. Up to the time McBride was injured, he had won eleven games.

Backing up this promising duo is Bo Belinsky, the fun-loving, hard-throwing left-hander who seems to have the potential to be a good pitcher. After a very strong start last year, including a no-hitter, Belinsky tailed off and wound up with a record of ten victories and eleven losses. He has promised to cut down on his time spent on recreation, and he says the world this year will see a new Belinsky. Time will tell.

Don Lee and Eli Grba figure to round out the Angels starting rotation, but there is a chance that former Yankee Bob Turley can make the grade. Turley is working on a trial basis with Los Angeles. Also hoping to win a spot on the pitching staff are veterans Sam Jones and Art Fowler. The bullpen brigade is headed by Tom Morgan and Dan Osinski, both of whom showed well in spots last year.

The Angels pitching staff had an earned run pitching average of 3.69 last year, second only to the Baltimore Orioles.
