Broadhurst, McLaughlin 17 Junior Women Tapped For Receive Faculty Award Highest Honor: Mortar Board

The Academics Committee of the Student Senate has announced the selection of two faculty members who have received the Distinguished Faculty Award. It has also announced the selection of ten other faculty members who have received honorable mention.

Twelve Members Nominated

The twelve faculty members were chosen from nomination forms submitted by juniors and seniors and further evaluated by the Academics Committee.

Recipients of the award are: Alan Broadhurst, of the Speech Department, and Charles McLaughlin of the English Department.

Honorable Mention

Recipients of honorable mention are: Frank Ballard, theater; Thomas Cary, English; Jack Davis, English; Rheinhold Dewart, history; Fred Kort, political science; Lewis Lipsitz, political science; Harry Marks, history; Benson Saler, sociology and anthropology; Morris Singer, economics; and Milton Stern, English.

A banquet will be held in their honor on Wednesday, May 8, at 5:30 (corrected from 6:30) at the Clark House in Willimantic.

Winners Comments

Mr. Broadhurst, when asked to comment on the honor, said that he was "amazed." "What can I say?" he continued, "I'm a speech teacher at a loss for words!" However, he went on to reply that he was both "pleased and excited" by the award.

Mr. Broadhurst is currently in his second year at Uconn teaching in the fields of Communication Theory and Public Speaking.

Mr. McLaughlin, who has been teaching at Uconn for eleven years, specializes in Eighteenth Century literature and Shakespeare. He remarked that the news of his honor was "kind and overwhelming" and "very wonderful."

The seventeen most outstanding junior women at the University were tapped at dawn this morning by Mortar Board, the national senior women's honor society. Chosen for scholarship, leadership and service, these women were awakened by this year's Mortar Board, dressed in cap and gown and singing the traditional song, "We Mortar Board, receive you . . ."

Each of these girls was presented a rose, an invitation to breakfast at Phi Sigma Sigma this morning, and to the annual banquet at the Altnaveigh Inn this evening, and a letter of congratulations by the sponsor. Initiation will precede the banquet this evening, and the dinner will be followed with an address by Dr. Max Thatcher, Associate Professor of Political Science.

During the day, those tapped this morning will wear caps and gowns on campus. Senior members will wear the Mortar Board outfit, black sweater and skirt and white blazer. Each of those selected for this highest general honor given to a woman student will wear the pin of a present Mortar Board member until she receives her own.

Also present at the banquet tonight will be the advisors of the present Mortar Board; Miss Frances Tappan, Assistant Dean of the Physical Therapy department, Dr. Gene R. Powers, Assistant Professor of Speech, Dr. Gardiner H. London, Assistant Professor of Foreign Languages.

Those women tapped this morning are the following:

Kathleen Adams, Alsop A. House Treasurer, House Council, Gamma Sigma Sigma, Biology Club, Honor Court, Student Counselor, House Chairman, CCC financial secretary, recipient of Mortar Board scholarship.

Noreen Bartolomeo, South Hall, acted in Guys and Dolls, Romeo and Juliet, The Rivals, Five Finger Exercise, Angel Street, Midsummer Night's Dream, and Electra; costumes for Roshomon, Oklahoma, and others; assistant director of Woman of Paris; Tassels.

New President Opens Meeting With 'State Of Senate' Speech

Editor's Note — For Complete Text Of Speech, See Page Two.

Victor Schacter, newly elected President of the ASG, opened Wednesday night's senate meeting with a speech to clarify the coming year's "Era of Achievement."

In his opening address, President Schacter enumerated the past and continuing efforts of the student senate in areas pertaining to the University such as academics, housing, alumni, adjudication, and student personnel relations.

He also mentioned the direction of student efforts in areas of citizen responsibility such as the NSA and the Hartford tutorial program.

In addition he talked about forthcoming student achievement in areas of student counseling, scholarship funds, course critiques, faculty rating, and academic policy. Specifically relative to housing he talked of improving the physical aspects of the residence halls and the dining facilities and of the institution of a faculty resident advisor.

President Schacter also discussed public relations on a campus and a community basis. With a stress on student responsibility and academic excellence he expressed the hope that better communication between the student body and student leaders would result in more students assuming active roles in University and community affairs.

On community relations, Pres. Schacter pictured the student building the image of a University of which he can be proud and which is a credit to public education. He also emphasized continuing contact with state legislators in matters relating to the welfare of the University.

Turning directly to the senators, he expressed the urgency in establishing a constitution which, in his words, is "essential if student government is ever to justify its existence . . . in some lasting, effective, form." He relied on the senators to utilize proper parliamentary procedure and to rise above party bias in order to benefit the University as a whole.

In summation we can quote Pres. Schacter's closing paragraph to the senators. "Regardless of my confidence the 'we' depends on you you who have made promises and commitments to the student body, you who are a senator and yes, you who are also a student, but a very special one. It will not only be an era of achievement, but it will also be

WHUS Marks College Milestone; Inaugurates All Night Broadcasting

Wednesday night, April 24, 1963 marked one of the milestones in college radio broadcasting when WHUS at the University of Connecticut inaugurated 24 hour-a-day, independently programmed broadcasting. The system, called Continuous Music for Continuous Listening, utilizes a specially designed tape system constructed by Project Engineer Eugene A. Roure, Jr. Alan Robbins and Jeff Tellis, coordinators of the project have announced that the system is already in operation providing continuous broadcasting service to the campus. Programming is designed to fit into any part of the nighttime or morning and it features long segments of straight instrumental music with announcements every 15 minutes. All tapes are produced by the station itself and no pre-recorded tapes from outside sources are used.

CMFCL, as the system is nicknamed, takes over when live broadcasting ends. Thus, at 11:30 Monday through Thursday, the control operator presses a single button activating the tape system which automatically takes over from that time until 2 the next afternoon when live broadcasting resumes.

CMFCL will only be heard on WHUS-AM, the carrier-current, closed-circuit operation of the station. Due to FCC regulations concerning personnel required to be on duty, the system cannot be used on WHUS-FM. This is believed to be the first such automatic system at a college station entirely staffed by volunteer student help. Other college stations often utilize broadcasts of commercial radio stations in order to stay on the air all the time. With this system, the entire operation is produced by the station with no rebroadcasting of other stations involved.

In commenting on the start of 24 hour-a-day broadcasting, Station Manager Steve Primack said that it would provide even better service to the students of the University than is now available with most commercial stations. "For the first time this year, WHUS will remain on-the-air during final examinations through the use of the CMFCL system. Personnel will not be necessary during that time, as operation will be completely automatic."

WHUS and CMFCL can be heard on campus at 670 on your AM dial, WHUS-FM operates at 90.5 mc.

Distinguished Alumni To Get O'Neill Athletic Awards

A Brigadier General in the U.S. Air Force, the vice president of a utility company and the director of alumni relations at the University of Connecticut are alumni selected to receive the Uconn Club's 1963 Dr. Martin L. (Red) O'Neill Awards.

The awards will be presented at the Uconn Club's 10th annual sports award dinner to be held on May 8 at Waverly Inn.

Uconn Club president John J. Blake announced today that Brig. Gen. Philip H. Greasley, class of 1936; Reuben B. Johnson, class of 1936; and Joseph R. McCormick, class of 1934, will receive the award named after one of Uconn's greatest athletes.

The O'Neill Award is presented annually to former Uconn athletes who have been graduated for at least 25 years and have gone on to achieve distinction in their

Era Of Achievement

Many critics have referred to the cyclical pattern of history. Uconn too has its cycles. People come and go. Student organizations revolve and you see types come in and go out and new types come in to take their places. Specifically, the cyclical pattern can be readily seen in the activities of the Student Senate.

Once again the Student Senate is promising a new constitution. Only this time it is to be completed by the end of this spring. In the words of President Victor Schachter, "It is essential that if Student Government is ever to justify its own existence, it must define its own functions, its powers, its limitations, and its rights in some lasting and effective form. It is of primary importance that we get a constitution written, a good one, and there is no reason why it cannot be done before we leave this spring..."

We doubt that the Student Senate can work "diligently and earnestly" and write a constitution in the next three weeks which will be approved on the floor of the Student Senate and further approved by the University administration. This goal is idealistic and very impractical. Last fall President Dunne returned from the summer with a constitution. The senators discussed and discussed and ran into the proverbial forest which they could not see for the trees. "Which is appropriate in this case, 'an' or 'the'..." seemed to be the basic problem.

The Student Senate in the past has argued long and loudly about specifics, totally ignoring the broader scope and purpose of a resolution. But this is a new Student Senate. The majority of the senators are there for the first time. If the senate does not step out on a new foot with their new faces next year's student Senate president will be making the same glittering promises that President Schachter made Wednesday night.

President Schachter and the Steering Committee have drawn up a very pretty committee structure. But it's the people who are serving on the committees that count, not the definition of what the committee is supposed to do, but what it actually accomplishes. If this has been a true election, and a popularity contest it is often tagged, the performance of the new senators will show it.

Another question arises in looking at the President's state of the Senate message. There has been an ideological conflict for some time regarding the realm of student government. One view has been to restrict the action to the Storrs campus of the University. The opposing view has been to carry the Student Senate to active involvement off of the Storrs campus.

We must realize that we are citizens not only of Storrs but also of a much wider community. We must not be afraid to shake off the protection in which the University has shrouded us. We cannot fear involvement outside of these isolated acres. But this "community involvement" is only effective if maintained in balance with activities on the home front.

This balance must be sought before a logical and meaningful constitution can be drawn up. It is possible to set our own house in order simultaneously to exerting influence on the outside. Because of the split on the Student Senate this dual role may be possible. But by the same token, this must be an organized duality, it cannot be merely headed in two directions.

If through effective leadership, the Student Senate can fulfill its glittering promises this will truly be an era of achievement. If not, the Student Senate will wallow in limbo for another year and the cycle will repeat itself to the increased boredom of the average student.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thank You, Security

To the Editor:

On behalf of Photopool we would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation for the splendid efforts of Security in recovering our stolen equipment.

We would like to apologize to all the people who have been bothered by our lack of cameras.

The equipment stolen represents a total of eight years work to obtain the necessary funds. It is the work that goes into making good pictures for both the Daily Campus and the Nutmeg that we talk about, not those that are led astray by a promise of easy money.

As soon as our equipment is returned, we will continue to make a great effort to serve all.

State Of Senate Message

By Vic Schachter
ASG President

The senate is no longer just a social sounding board for the students, but it is a growing and vital organ of student expression. I realized this more than ever the other day, when beginning to straighten out the senate office, I came across some of the old senate committee structures.

They were deeply involved with such areas as Dad's Day, Homecoming, Blue and White, activities and other programs along these lines. I then went ahead to begin my work on the present committee structure, and I couldn't help recognizing the contrast between the two, for in it lay the very growth and maturation of the SS.

Serious Needs

The senate has developed to the point where it is facing and acting in areas of serious student needs such as academics, housing, alumni, adjudication, and public relations.

At the same time, the Senate has not failed to meet its responsibilities to the citizen community in its work with NSA and community involvement projects, such as tutorial programming in Hartford.

Inroads

New inroads have been made in communications with the senate's work on the student university relations, the division of student personnel, and with the creation of a BOG liaison. Yes, the senate has truly grown and matured, but let us digress for a moment and discuss the role of student government to clarify this further.

In discussing the role of student government we cannot help but discuss the concept of self-government, which has long been a sacred tradition of American institutions, and certainly, we, who are to assume our role as full-time citizens, must learn the responsibilities that accompany self-government.

Central Principle

The central principle of student government is to represent and act upon the student body's needs and desires through a democratic and representative system of self-government.

It is our responsibility through such a body, first to meet those needs that challenge us here on the Storrs campus. Of primary importance is academic excellence, a goal with which all students should be concerned and with which the student senate must meet its obligations. Working in such areas as student counseling, scholarship funds, library facilities, course critiques, faculty rating, and academic policy formation are just a sampling of how we can begin to meet this need.

Need To Integrate

Since we spend so much of our time in our living units during our educational experience, there exists a great need to integrate the living unit experience with the academic one, so that we may truly build an academic community and perpetuate the educational experience throughout our college lives.

We must also look into the improvement of present housing conditions, which in the past senate sessions have shown to be far below standards, and find new solutions to these problems.

Therefore, work in living unit systems, study conditions, dining facilities, and off-campus living must be given considerable attention. Following closely to this is the nurturing of student cultural opportunities through such programs as inter-session seminars, and other academic programs.

Concept

Continuing with the concept of self-government as it relates to on campus issues, we must recognize the student's right to be judged by his peers and the right to due process must not be infringed upon. Through work in the establishment of an all-campus student judiciary, we can provide the most equitable means of student justice at Storrs.

The idea of full control of student disciplinary and academic adjudication is one which must be kept in mind, but always with the patience and realism necessary to create the most feasible solution.

Another concern deals with the age old problem of communication for an informed constituency is vital to the growth and perpetuation of any student government. It is only through recognizing that communication is a two way process, a mutual exchange between informed parties, that the senate can align its activities with the needs of the students, and stimulate student interest to the point of non-senatorial participation in student government action.

Expand Base

It would certainly follow from a realization of this that we could expand the base of qualified students who will take future leadership roles in the perpetuation of student government. It is through a thorough public relations program that we can overcome this communications barrier on campus.

Secondly, then, let us now turn to that area which is so nebulous to many of us known as community involvement. I'm sure that many of you have heard me speak on this topic before, so I'll try to keep my remarks as concise as I can. We have a very difficult role as young adults for we are not only students, but we are citizens as well, and we cannot fail to meet our responsibilities.

Obligation

We have an obligation to the outside community, as well as our own at Storrs, concerning our university and concerning the non-academic world. Our experience in the past year has shown the considerable power we can utilize in the state legislature in furthering improvement in areas of student concern.

We should continue to work here not only in the area of tuition, but also scholarships, library appropriations, building plans, faculty salaries and other legislative programs directly affecting the University and therefore the students.

Recognize Responsibilities

In addition to this, we must recognize our responsibility to the Negro that is being discriminated against, the legislator in Washington who is working on the passage of federal scholarship aid to public institutions, and the student or faculty member who is fighting to preserve his academic freedom.

Programs like the Hartford Tutorial Project, past action on the Meredith issue and NSA are certainly in the periphery of student government, although they must be properly emphasized. In being Americans, and the future leaders of our country we cannot afford not to be challenged by these issues when countered with them for it is certainly our responsibility to uphold those principles that we believe in.

Public Relations

Also within the realm of community involvement is our public relations responsibility to the state and to the various academic communities across the nation. We must build the image of a University in which we take pride, a University which is a credit to the concept of public education, an institution which is now taking its place as one of the finest in the community of state universities.

This not only means the state legislature, and student leaders of other schools, but also the citizens of the state. We have to begin within our own homes through the students themselves as well as in our actions and in the use of publicizing techniques. To this, the committee on public relation will direct themselves, a program not to be underestimated in importance.

Senate Role

So we see the Senate does not simply perform one role, but a multitude of roles, and it is then we can begin to see why its growing pains have been so painful. It is not only a representative body, it is a pressure group, it is an initiator, it is an actor, it is a researcher, it is a developer of leaders, it is an innovator, and it is a contributor to the effort in bettering the world we live in.

But with all of this, we must set a balance. Our first concern is with the students on this campus, and then with the outside community. THE STUDENT MUST COME FIRST, if we are truly to represent his needs. But in your effort to carry out our dual roles simultaneously, we must have the whole-hearted support of all of the senators or else chaos and failure will be inevitable.

Senate Itself

That brings me to that which is closest to all of us sitting here, the SS itself. I have left this for separate discussion as I feel it deserves the greatest attention by us. In looking through the old committee structures I also found a Constitutions Committee for the writing of a new constitution several times.

It is essential that if student government is ever to justify its own existence, it must define its own functions, its powers, its limitations, and its rights in some lasting and effective form. It is of primary importance that we get a constitution written, a good one, and there is no reason why it can't be done before we leave this Spring if we do our work diligently and earnestly. With this we cannot only gain more respect for ourselves as an entity but also that of the student body and the administration we will be working with. What more can be said than it must be done, and is up to US to do it?

Paradoxically, the SS in its maturation and its accomplishments hasn't gained the student's respect. It is partially the fault of poor leadership and participation, partially with our lack of communications and public relations work.

Improve Stature

But we ourselves can do much to improve the stature of this body. We can utilize parliamentary procedure to our needs rather than abuse it, we can rise above our tendency to bias our views only thinking in party lines and not of the University and the SS as a whole. I, as a chairman can promise you to be fair and neutral and to work with every one of you, but it is you who will create a fruitful and meaningful student government.

Administrative steps have already been taken to improve the Senate's efficiency. Bills and resolutions will not come to the floor (except under special parliamentary circumstances before being brought to steering committee and mimeoed for your convenience. Committee reports given through formal procedure will be the rule instead of the exception.

Committees

The next finance committee will write up an efficient and feasible finance policy so that our financial obligations will be most responsibly handled.

Finally, we must recognize that it is through the committee structure that the bulk of the Senate's work must be done, and the Senate floor must not be made a substitute for committee discussion and activity.

"No Question"

Yes, we have much to do. But there exists no question in my mind that we can do it. Because of this confidence, I would like to call the coming year, "The Era of Achievement." We ARE going to achieve; We ARE going to reassert student government as the very center of our student community; We ARE going to earn the title "The Era of Achievement."

In, all of this, regardless of my confidence, the "we" depends on you, you who have made promises and commitments to the student body, you who are a student senator, and yes, you who are also a student, but a very special one. It will not only be an era of achievement, but it will also be an era of consequence.

It will be so because in the coming year we will be determining whether or not student government can justify its own existence, whether or not student government can serve the student's needs, whether or not we are capable of self-government.

There will be many obstacles along the way, but we can face the challenges with integrity, accomplishment and success if we all earnestly contribute the best of what we can offer. It is with confidence and these high standards that I am proud to enter with you the coming "era of achievement."

doesn't sound spectacular it is very commendable considering the fact that many of the top track performers in the country were on hand for the competition.

The mile relay came just after the sprint medley and the rested Luther Durant and Bob Dodson stayed up with the field in the first two 440 legs but the next two Uconn runners fell behind. Two of Duff's top men in the 440, Payne and Oberg could not run because they had just been in the sprint medley.

Fast Three Quarter

The Huskies also failed to place in the 880 yard relay and in the distance medley even though Oberg ran a fast 3:10 three quarter mile in the latter.

The next regular meet for the Huskies, 1-1 in dual meet competition thus far, will be Wednesday afternoon up in Amherst, Mass., against the Umass Redmen.

SPU Plans Protest Demonstration Against Military Influence On Campus

Editor's note: The following statement was released today by the Uconn Student Peace Union discussing the reasons for and the nature of its protest demonstration on Military Day. The statement, which is designed to cover three divergent approaches to the nature of the military on a college campus, will be distributed on Military Day, May 16. The SPU has stated that they will welcome all concerned student, faculty, and staff members to join them in their protest.

Three Positions

There are those of us who regard the existence of the military in any form, in the modern age, as such a threat to the future safety of mankind that we call upon our own country to take the lead in reversing the movement toward war by de-emphasizing the role of the military; for example, removing all forms of ROTC from college campuses.

There are others among us who recognize a need for the existence of the military in some greatly curtailed form but who regard the existence of the ROTC on a college campus as unwarranted military influence in civilian affairs and a misuse of the purposes of an academic community.

There are those of us who while recognizing even the validity of the existence of the ROTC on a college campus, feel that the program, as implemented here, is in need of serious revision.

Further Action Needed

We recognize that the Land-Grant (Morrill) Act of 1862 requires, as one of the provisions for the existence of this university as a "land-grant" school, that it offer some sort of program in national defense. And we further recognize that the university has already taken one significant action toward reducing the undue influence of the military by ending the system of compulsory ROTC for all undergraduate men. We highly commend the university for having taken such action here.

Nevertheless we continue to regard the unwarranted influence of the military on the campus to be subtle and complex. There are serious problems included in correcting the situation. Yet we believe there are a number of constructive steps which can be taken now.

Narrow View of Defense

A university is neither a boot camp nor an indoctrination center. Yet this is the level of instruction currently being offered by the Uconn Department of National Defense. Presumably such a department, operating as an academic department of the university should examine more than just a single brand of military dogma. But we find that only standardized military texts, which accept without question a single view of defense, which tell it and implement it, are being used.

A Proposal

We therefore ask that, in compliance with the more traditional functions of an university, divergent views (such as unilateral disarmament, unilateral initiatives, non-violent defense, etc.) as well as the government theory of deterrents. Such a course might use works by Ghandi, Erich Fromm, Norman Cousins, Albert Camus, and others as texts, and be taught by a team of professors from the Political Science, Economics, Sociology, History and Philosophy departments. We believe that such a program could be implemented immediately, within the context of the Morrill Act. Such a program, though sacrificing the short-range comfort of indoctrination, would ultimately produce a more valuable brand of officers.

Unnecessary Glorification

Further, in the present manner of teaching ROTC, with its "leadership labs" (a fancy word for military drill), its system of cadet officers, promotions, and awards, there is a value system operating which the ROTC cadet is not allowed to question. There is no glory in war. To adorn it with all the trappings of honor and respectability in order to encourage young men to seek it as a profession is a flagrant violation of the essentially intellectual approach which should be manifested on a college campus as well as an encouragement to regard war as something other than an extremely unpleasant extension of foreign policy having a moral basis which is open to question. We therefore call for the abolition of the military day ceremonies and the honors which constitute an encouragement to regard success in solely military terms.

Military indoctrination as it is now practiced is designed to produce young officers who will accept and obey. The traditional function of the college campus is to produce young men who will question and make up their minds for themselves. But the military fears that this kind of man may end up doubting whether the army should exist—a more valuable citizen, but a dubious fellow to rely upon as an officer.

Conscientious Objection

Nor is the military willing to tell the entire story of its own position. Within the context of ROTC, virtually no mention is made of the legality of Conscientious Objection and the basis on which such claims can be made. We regard this as a serious omission from a program aimed in the main at young men approaching or having just entered the "draft age." Every possible course of dealing legally with the draft except conscientious objection is explored. At a time when students are making what may be one of the most important decisions of their lives, it seems to us that all the avenues should be explored.

We therefore call for an incorporation into the national defense program a confrontation with the question of Conscientious Objection, perhaps implemented by the campus religious leaders (ministers of the various churches) and that the university provide, along with the ROTC program, at least one competent person on the university staff as a C.O. advisor. One of the reasons we picket is to confront the students becoming officers today with the fact that they have made a moral choice as well as a pragmatic one.

Finally we recognize that the influence of the military on the campus is not confined to the Department of National Defense alone. We wish to point out that all of the research that is being done here on campus towards applying technology, directly or indirectly, to military problems involves this same kind of moral choice.

We ask that the faculty and staff members so engaged seriously consider the possible consequences of their actions with an eye toward refusing money offered for such research and confine themselves to the peaceful applications of their profession. We ask that the university work to discourage and curtail research programs and that they not accept any further programs.

Notice

All students who are interested in joining the Feature Staff of the Daily Campus for next semester please contact William McGovern during this week. The newspaper office, located in the Student Union building, is open daily from 12:30 to 3:00 for those interested in submitting their names or acquiring further information.

The Feature Staff needs writers for covering cultural events and lectures on campus, proof-readers, lay-out staff members, typists, and those equipped for general office work. This is your opportunity to join a worthwhile activity and make your college days more rewarding—Don't miss it.

ISO Executive Board Elections Scheduled For Tonight At 7:30

The elections for the I.S.O. Executive Board will be held in Hub 201 tonight at 7:30. There are 15 positions on the Executive Board with the term of office lasting for one year.

Richard Morgen, first vice president outlined and explained the offices as follows: President — general overseer of the party; 1st vice president, who aids and assists the President; 2nd vice president, who acts as campaign manager; and 3rd vice-president, in charge of membership.

He went on to say that there are two secretaries, corresponding and recording; a treasurer, historian, and Social Contacts Chairman.

The office of Publicity Chairman and Public Relations require people with writing ability and at times an artistic touch. Mr. Morgen went on to say.

There have been three new positions created to help spread out the task of running the Party. These will be a Convention Organizer, and a Special Events Director, whose job will be to arrange for speakers for the coming year and the last office will be that of Political Intelligence Agent.

Mr. Morgen said that only those holding I.S.O. membership cards will be allowed to vote. He also said that these people would be eligible to run for any of the above mentioned offices. The voting will be done by secret ballot with no proxy votes being accepted.

Photopool Theft Case Solved: Two Arrested

Bond was set at $500 each for William Schleicher and Richard Pacter, both residents of Tau Epsilon Phi who were accused of breaking and entering and larceny over $250 in appearance in Circuit Court in Plainfield Friday. Judge John Daly of Circuit Court 11 set the arraignment for May 21 in Willimantic.

Both were apprehended by Uconn Security after it was reported that they broke into the Student Union office of Photopool and stole $1300 worth of equipment.

Berlin Industrial Evangelist Speaks Tonight On His Work

The Rev. Robert B. Starbuck, a representative of the United Church of Christ serving as an industrial evangelist with the Gossner Mission in the divided city of Berlin, Germany, will speak tonight at 8:00 in the Community House Auditorium.

Mr. Starbuck, now in this country on furlough, began his work in the industrial ministry of the mission at Mainz-Kastel in 1957, transferring in 1960 to Berlin. Here he has served on both sides of the Berlin wall and is so well known at the major checkpoints that he is seldom stopped for anything more than a routine question or two.

He has shared in much of the program of the Gossner Mission, including the development of new group ministries in both East and West Germany, institutes on the church in an industrial society, conferences and work camps.

A native of Philadelphia, Mr. Starbuck was educated at the University of Pennsylvania (A.B. 1950) and the Yale University Divinity School (B.D. 1953).

Mrs. Starbuck, who assists her husband in his work at the Gossner Mission, was graduated from the Women's College of the University of North Carolina and received her Master's from the University of North Carolina.

Uconn Rated 'Outstanding' In IG Inspection

The U. S. Army Instructor Group, the ROTC Cadets and the entire University of Connecticut were in good spirits Tuesday after receiving a rating of "Outstanding" from the annual Inspector General's Inspection.

Colonel Russel Hawkins, Professor of Military Science, commented to the cadre and cadets that he was especially pleased with their efforts. In a special memorandum read to all cadets, Col. Hawkins said that "the senior member of the team stated that the Inspector Group was unanimous in the opinion that of all institutions inspected the training program here at the University of Connecticut was by far the best that they have seen."

The Purpose:

ABC's Of A Marking System

Editor's Note: This is the second of three articles reprinted from The Fordham Ram, the student newspaper of Fordham University.

Unfortunately or not the clock refused to be turned back and examinations gradually assumed a dominant role in university life. Today, to a greater extent than ever before, the index determines the hierarchy of a school. Replacing "God" at the top of the chain of being is the 4.0 index (this, of course applies only to those institutions not engaged in professional athletics.)

Wondering just what the instructors here at Fordham thought of marks in general and the system at Fordham in particular the RAM decided to question a number of professors on their views.

The first question posed was: "What do you think the purpose of marks is?" The responses ranged from a bewildered smile to a philosophical analysis! The latter came, appropriately, from a philosophy instructor:

"The intellectual life is based to a great extent on a business ethic. You work for the production of a definite article and the excellence of that article is the reward you get. Education forms an essential part of the social structure. It allows you to assert your freedom. Without education you couldn't break the bonds of your past tradition."

Other answers saw marks in a less hierarchical manner. Most deemed them a necessary part of the educational process by which a teacher could determine the relative abilities of his students, while at the same time, it enabled both the student and teacher to know how well they were doing in their respective roles. Others emphasized the incentive motive, one saying that they were a good "threat."

A number of those interviewed stressed the utilitarian angle of marks: namely their post-graduate studies were both seen as obviously dependent on one's standing in the class. This raised the question of whether marks were a means to an end or an end in themselves. Opinion was divided; most said that it of course varied with each student but the trend seemed to be toward making them an end exclusively. One professor, Dr. Leo Yanowski, stated that he found that premed students, understandably, were extremely mark-conscious compared to chemistry and physics majors.

When asked about Fordham's system of letter grades which was instituted several years ago, opinion went from "best possible" to "any grade system is a nuisance." Several instructors wished that minus grades be allowed for final marks, the present categories being too broad at several points. Some in the natural sciences preferred numerical grades since in their subjects, the specific calculation of marks is much easier than in most of the humanities courses. Father Charles J. Lewis, chairman of the mathematics department, who favors a numerical system, sug-fied with the "D" grade. They felt that such a mark, especially since there is a gap between it and "C," served no useful purpose. Professor Walsh said that as a result of this most teachers shy away from giving such a grade.

On the whole, those interviewed gave the impression that the marking system as it is now is the best possible at the present time.

When questioned on their individual approach to marking, those interviewed generally approximated one another in their responses. All those asked stated that they avoided marking on a curve. When asked if they graded on a relative or absolute basis most said they tried to approach the latter. Some said they had an absolute standard which they expected their students to reach. If none of them did so, they said, they had few qualms about giving the whole class a mediocre or failing grade. This opinion was an exception however. The majority felt that one cannot give marks completely on the basis of one or the other. If, to go to the opposite extreme of the absolute, they are made to depend wholly on the merits of a particular class then the standard of the particular teacher is obliterated in the process.

gested that perhaps "something could be worked out combining the two" (i.e. numerical and letter grading systems).

Professor Charles Walsh, head of the department of economics, said that when the present system of letter grades was instituted a number of teachers were dissatis-chosen careers.

O'Neill was a 1925 graduate and one of Connecticut's greatest football players. In 1924, he captained Uconn's only unbeaten football team.

After graduating from Connecticut with top honors, he entered the Yale School of Medicine and then went on to a distinguished medical career. He died in 1953.

General Greasley

General Greasley is currently serving as Commandant of the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va.

A native of Chicago, Ill., Greasley matriculated at Connecticut in 1932, graduating four years later with an engineering degree. He was on the varsity basketball team for three years and captained the 1935-36 team. He received an Air Force commission in 1938 and by 1957 achieved the rank of Brig. Gen.

During World War II the Uconn alumnus flew 80 combat missions in the South Pacific Theater, receiving the Legion of Merit, Air Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, one silver and two bronze stars. During the South Pacific action he served as Commander of the famed 85th Fighter Wing.

His military career has included such assignments as Air Force Representative to the Air Force's Policy Council, served as director, Office of Planning to the assistant Secretary of Defense; and in 1959 was named Chief of the Air Force Group in the Joint U.S. Military Mission for Aid to Turkey.

Johnson

Johnson, a fullback, graduated with honors and then went on to earn his Sc.M. degree from Brown University in 1938. He also did graduate work at Boston University and the University of Maryland.

He taught at Canaan High School and John Fitch High School in Windsor before returning to the University of Connecticut in 1946 after a distinguished military career. In 1948, Johnson was named Uconn's dean of men.

In 1960 Johnson, a full colonel, was called back to Washington to serve with the Chief of Staff as a resident member of the General Staff Committee of Army National Guard Policy.

After completing his most recent Washington assignment, Johnson returned to the University of Connecticut in the new post of director of alumni relations. Colonel Johnson's present assignment is as a member of the State Adjutant General's staff.

Like Gen. Greasley and Johnson, McCormick also captained an athletic team as a Connecticut undergraduate. He was captain of the Husky track team and also played football.

McCormick

McCormick joined the Hartford Electric Light Company in 1935 and had assignments in accounting and sales. He became director of public relations in 1958 and was elected vice president in 1961.

McCormick, too, has had a distinguished military career. He was a combat veteran in the Pacific Theatre, was recalled in the Korean War and is presently Chief of Staff of the 43rd Infantry Division with the rank of colonel.

The ex-Uconn athlete is a director of the Greater Hartford Red Cross Fund campaign, director and past president of the Connecticut Citizens for Public Schools, director and past president of the Hartford Instrumental Music Foundation and is a past president of the national alumni association of the University of Connecticut. In 1947 he was selected as "Outstanding Young Man of the Year" by the Chamber of Commerce. He is currently a director of the State Chamber of Commerce.

He is a member of the Hartford Club, University Club and the ArmyNavy Club in Washington, D.C.

A native of Bloomfield, McCormick still resides in his hometown.

Past recipients of the O'Neill Award include Elmer S. Watson, '28, Gen. John H. Hildring '18, J. Ray Ryan '30, Willard C. Eddy '28, Joseph B. Burns, '36, Wallace S. Moreland '26, and Dr. James W. Moore '31.

Speakers for the Uconn Club dinner are Paul F. Dietzel, head football coach at West Point; and Dr. Homer Daniels Babidge.

Esquire's CLUB & CAMPUS FASHIONS

The average college man wheels around in slacks and sports jackets every day and most nights. But when the big deal or the big date comes up—and it always does—he has to have that all-important "dress-up suit." With Spring definitely in the air, and young men's fancies starting to wheel and deal, let's take a look at suits on the Spring and Summer scene.

WELCOME BACK TO LINEN—Rebounding in fashion importance this Spring is the flax suit—natural linen in natural shades. Most of these classic warm-weather suits are cut on natural shoulder lines, with straight-hanging jackets, narrow notched lapels, center vents and, naturally, tapered trousers. The natural, neutral tones of linen will go anywhere you go—in style—and they're a natural for dress-up wear straight through Spring and Summer.

BLUES BLOW COOL—Colors are dark this Spring, headlined by blues and blue-grays in sharkskins and muted plaids with deep casts. You'll also spot some dark blue unfinished worsted, lightweight flannels and serges for those definitely dress-up, after-dark occasions. And cool is the word on suiting materials. They're light, including blends of worsteds and polyesters that are comfortable, porous and dressy. The accent is on light, cool, comfortable fit for the warm weather months ahead.

SUMMER'S SUNDRY STRIPES—Seersucker sets the pace this Summer. This traditional hot-weather-wear feature has usually been seen in the traditional seersucker white and light-colored stripes. But new deep and dark stripes and light-toned seersucker plaids are on the scene for the first time this year, and they're a good bet to steal the show. Take a look at the spread of seersucker colors—both stripes and plaids—in classic all-cotton lightweights and the new Summer-weight polyester and cotton blends. They're bright, light and right for Summer.

PICKING UP THE TAB—Way out in front in dress-shirt popularity with young men is the snap-tab collar. Gleaming white broadcloth shirts, with barrel cuffs and tabbed collars, are your best bet for dress-up occasions. Less formal are white oxford tab collars and medium-spread collar white oxford button-downs, both with barrel cuffs.

TIEING IT UP—No young man's wardrobe is complete without a spread of regimental stripes on his tie rack—they're right for any occasion, short of a formal dinner. Figures this Spring are seen in muted prints and small, subdued designs against deep, dark backgrounds. For a change of pace, and for wear with your new wide-striped shirts, take a look at the narrow solid knits that are returning to fashion favor.

THE ONE-MAN COMBO...is not the name of a swinging jazz solo, but a clue to the return of another fashion concept—matching and related tie and handkerchief sets. You can choose a related color breast pocket handkerchief, picking up one of the colors in your tie—or take your cue from the new Continental matching sets that duplicate the designs, both stripes and figures, in both the tie and handkerchief.

GETTING TO THE BOTTOM OF THINGS...is the quickest way to find out what's news in shoes. You're always dressed well in a pair of smooth-grained black slip-ons. Mocassin design, with a moderate wing-tip, is the most popular model, and jet-black is the perfect underpinning for this Spring's black, dark gray and dark blue suits.

ON TOP OF THE FASHION NEWS...for Spring and Summer is new lightweight headgear. Narrow snap brims are the rule in felt hats. Intermediate to dark shades of gray and olive will coordinate with your new Spring tailored wear. Nearly needless to say, your hat completes the picture of the well-dressed young man, particularly so on any dress-up occasion.

THE SPRING SPORTSWEAR SCENE...is the subject for next month's column. We'll take a look at the news in Sport Jackets, Slacks, Sport Shirts and Sport Hats. See you then.

Netmen Swat Wildcats For Third YanCon Win

Huskies Split At Maine 9-0, 3-2 As Good Pitching Is The Key

The Uconn tennis team went down to defeat for the first time this season at the hands of the Tufts Jumbos by a 6-3 count on last Thursday afternoon.

The first bomb was dropped by soph Paul Snider as he slammed Captain Dave Cronenberg 6-1, 7-5 to get the opposition off to a good start. Ron Massey retaliated with a 6-2, 6-2 win over "Bantam" Bob Schleif. But back came the Jumbos as Pete Trafton beat Uconn's Dick Seely in a hard-fought match 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. Joe Regan then gave the Jumbos an insurmountable lead with a 6-2, 6-4 win over Bob Spiro.

Jeff Burack salvaged an 8-6, 3-6, 6-3 win over Ron Wallace, but Jeff Weiss was beaten 6-4, 6-3 and the Huskies had dropped the singles play 4-2.

Jeff Burack salvaged an 8-6, 3-6, 6-3 win over Ron Wallace, but Jeff Weiss was beaten 6-4, 6-3 and the Huskies had dropped the singles play 4-2.

In the doubles only Seely and Spiro, could manage a win although Burack and Weiss went three sets in defeat.

Blast U.N.H. 8-1

The Huskies, however, bounced back well on Saturday as they ran their YanCon record to an unblemished 3-0. They accomplished this by downing the University of New Hampshire Wildcats 8-1.

Ron Massey, holding down the number one slot for the Huskies, defeated his opponent, Charlie Chase of U.N.H. by a 7-5, 6-3 score. Dave Cronenberg, relegated to the second slot, won with a vengeance, 6-3, 6-0, over his adversary, Irv Holbrook.

The Uconnns continued the romp over the Wildcats as Dick Seely returned to his winning ways and slashed Pete Cady 6-2, 6-3. Bob Spiro had an easy time of it as he drew the number four man, Neil "Red" Riley, and slammed him 6-1, 6-3.

Dave Fowler, filling the fifth slot in place of Jeff Burack, overpowered Rick MacAllister 6-2, 6-4.

NHL All Stars

(AP) — The National Hockey League All-Star team has been announced today. Detroit, Toronto and Chicago players make up the squad. It includes scoring champion Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings; right wing Frank Mahovlich and defensive man Carl Brewer of Toronto and goalie Glenn Hall, defenseman Pierre Pilote and center Stan Mikita of the Chicago Blackhawks. Mahovlich was the closest to a unanimous choice, getting 166 out of a possible 180 points in the balloting by Hickey broadcasters and writers.

and the cleanup man, Rimantas Giedraitis, completed the Uconn sweep of the singles play as he topped Gene Woodington 6-2, 6-4.

An "Almost Sweep"

In the doubles competition Massey and Captain Cronenberg got the Uconnns, who had already clinched their 4th win in five starts with the singles sweep, off to a good start as they teamed up to defeat Chase and Holbrook 7-5, 6-1. Then Seely and Spiro teamed up in another of their outstanding team matches as they swamped MacAllister and Kenny "Kook" Kellogg by a 6-1, 6-2 count.

In the final match of the day Fowler and Rima Giedraitis got together in an all-out attempt to bring home a nine game sweep for the home forces. They were facing "Pistol" Pete Cady and "Red" Riley and in the longest set of the year so far they downed the tenacious Wildcats by a 16-14 count. But the Huskies were physically worn down by the first set and could not recover for the kill in either of the next two games as they went down to defeat 6-3, 6-1. This match gave U.N.H. its only victory of the afternoon and salvaged some brightness for them in an otherwise dismal showing.

Just Keep Rolling

For the Uconnns it was a great afternoon, they ran their season's record to 4-1 and YanCon mark to 3-0 with this win and have only one core YanCon match before the Yankee Conference play at Kingston the weekend of May 10, 11. That match, however, will be what Coach John Chapman terms: "Our toughest of the year."

The opponent in this all-important meeting is the Redmen of the University of Massachusetts. As if this were not enough, the match is Saturday, May 4 and this week will be Uconn's busiest of the season with a make-up match at New London against the Coast Guard on Friday, and another "very tough" match with the Crusaders of Holy Cross on Wednesday the 1st. So the Huskies should be pretty well worn out by the time they hit Amherst and a win there will show that this Husky club has "guts."

Frosh Play Here

The Frosh squad has a very busy week as it faces Pomfret here tomorrow, hosts Loomis on Thursday, and joins the Varsity to pay a call on the Umass Redmen on Saturday.

This should be "the" week of the season for both teams and the results may well indicate the kind of teams that we will have in the next few years.

Good pitching was the key word this past weekend at Orono, Maine as the Uconn baseball nine split a pair of games to the Black Bears of Maine. On Friday they won 9-0, while they were dealt their first Yankee Conference loss 3-2 on Saturday.

Jones 4-0

In Friday's win steady Husky senior Ed Jones upped his season's record to 4-0 with a six hit shutout performance. He struck out ten and walked only two. This runs his personal scoreless string to 23 innings. It also lowers his ERA to 0.31.

Saturday's game was a horse of another color as Maine's senior junkman Billy Thomas had the Huskies hitting into the dirt as he tossed an eight hit, 3-2 win over Uconn's Jim Parmalee. The Husky moundsman also gave up eight hits, but was touched for the tie breaking and winning run in the sixth.

This split puts the Huskies 2-1 in the Yankee Conference and 7-5 overall. The Black Bears are 2-2 in the YanCon and 4-6 on the season.

Friday's Game

Friday's game was played in cold and stormy conditions, rain coming down throughout the final two innings. The Huskies salted the game away in the second and third innings as they batted around in each, scoring seven of their nine runs.

The biggest factor in these rallies was the Maine pitchers' wildness. They gave up nine walks, which added to four Uconn hits made up their seven runs. Leftfielder Dorie Jackson and shortstop Lee Johnson each had three RBIs in these two rallies.

Saturday

In Saturday's game the Black Bears scored the initial two runs in the second. Dave Gaw drew a walk from Parmalee and was singled to third by Jack Holmes. He scored on a fielder's choice play when the Huskies elected to try for Gaw going home, but he scored as he escaped the rundown.

Barry Hadlock promptly stepped to the plate and singled him home for Maine's second run.

The Huskies came back in the third to tie the game at two apiece. Billy Robidoux, Dorrie Jackson, and Doug King opened with singles, King's hit scoring the first run. The second run was scored when Mike Haiday grounded out to second.

Winner In Sixth

Maine scored the winner in the sixth. With one out, Gaw, Holmes and Flynn all singled off Parmalee. Gaw was out at the plate in an attempt to score on Flynn's hit, but Hadlock knocked in his second run of the day with a single.

The Huskies threatened in the top of the eighth, but Thomas was equal to the task. Two walks and an infield error loaded the bases with one out. The Maine pitcher then settled down and fanned both Rick Meisner and Doug Gaffney to end the trouble. Oddly enough, these were the only two strikeouts he had all day.

Huskies In Tie

In other games over the weekend, defending champion Vermont was beaten twice by Rhode Island. These games placed the Huskies into a tie for first place with the Rhody Rams.

They face a full week of Yankee Conference activity starting tomorrow when they travel to Amherst to play Umass. This weekend they will entertain Vermont in a crucial two game series on Friday and Saturday.

Huskies Cop Division Win At Penn Relays Saturday

Uconn's sprint medley relay team edged powerful Delaware to win their division of the sprint medley at the Penn. Relays Saturday.

The Husky team of Les Payne, Mel Parsons, Scipio Tucker, and Paul Oberg ran in the second division in the college class and received a big plaque and individual awards for their performances.

Team Breakup

Coach Duff explained that the top eight teams in the country run for the relay championship of America, then the rest (about 50 teams) are divided up into classes on the basis of probable times submitted by their coaches. The Huskies ran in the second class with nine other teams including those from Delaware, CCNY and Springfield.

In the race Les Payne led off with a time off :51 flat in the opening 440 leg to give the Huskies the lead. Scipio Tucker followed with a good 220 but was edged out by Mike Brown of Delaware. Brown is a halfback on the Blue Hens football team and a sub :9.9 second man in the 100 yard dash.

Parsons Takes Lead

Captain Mel Parsons then took the baton and passed the Delaware runner putting the Huskies out in front at the end of the second 220 leg.

Paul Oberg ran the final 880 leg. A three yard lead from Parsons gave him a slight beginning edge over McMasters of Delaware who had beaten him in the 1000 indoors.

McMasters hung on right behind the speedy Oberg then tried to pass coming around the last turn but the Uconn runner managed to stave off the threat and the two crossed the finish line about the same time.

"The finish was too close for anyone's comfort," commented Duff yesterday. But the judges ruled it in favor of Oberg who had just run a fine 1:57.5 half mile.

Inspirational Win

The Huskies' winning time was 3:33, one of the top in the whole college division. Duff said the win will be "a tremendous inspiration for the boys... it will help get us up for the Umass meet this week."

He pointed out also that one of the teams that the Huskies beat was from Springfield College, annually a powerhouse in New England track.

The only other showing the Huskies made was Warren Sumoski's tie for 12th in the hammer. Although a tie for 12th
