Homecoming Themes Sought For Weekend

"Welcome President Babbidge" and "Beat Maine" are the themes for this year's annual Homecoming Day. Homecoming is scheduled for Saturday, October 20, the day of the Uconn-Maine football game.

October 20 is also the day scheduled for Dr. Babbidge's Inauguration as the President of the University of Connecticut. Many scheduled events are lined up for this day by the Alumni Association, the Student Senate and the Student Union Board of Governors.

Sports Activities

Following a Saturday morning soccer game with Williams at 10 a.m., Uconn will meet Maine, last year's Yankee Conference Champs in Memorial Stadium at 2 p.m. All alumni are welcome to come early and enjoy a tailgate picnic in the parking area adjacent to the stadium.

Immediately following the game, an Alumni Coffee will be held in the Student Union Building. Many of the houses on campus have scheduled open houses.

Display Contest

The traditional display contest will be held on Saturday morning. The judging will start at 9 a.m. This time has been changed since the letters were mailed to the social chairmen in each individual dorm. However, the rules for building the display and the bases for judging them remain the same as announced previously. If two houses wish to make a joint display, it will be considered as belonging to the house in front of which it is built. Remember, application to build a display must be turned in, in triplicate to Mr. Bain's office by Friday, October 5.

Queen To Reign

As usual, a Queen will be chosen to reign over the Homecoming festivities. The first Queen's coffee will be on October 11. Each women's residence must call Jeanne Morrison, 9-4269, before October 4 with the name of its candidate. Each men's residence is invited to provide an escort for one of the candidates. The escorts name and residence should be left in the Student Senate Office or in Mr. Bain's office. The second coffee will be on October 18. The Queen will be announced during the half-time of the game.

Arthur Fiedler

On the evening of Homecoming Day, Arthur Fiedler will be featured in the Albert N. Jorgensen Auditorium in "An Evening of Pops" with the New Haven Symphony Orchestra. Tickets are now on sale at the auditorium ticket office.

The Board of Governors is also sponsoring a dance in the Student Union Ballroom that evening.

All the names of both the candidates for queen of Homecoming and the escorts must be submitted by October 4th. These names may be left in the Student Senate Social Committee mailbox or given to Charlene D'Andrea, Beard B.

All applications for Homecoming must be in by October 5th. These must be left in Mr. Bain's office in the Student Union.

If these dates are not met, we will assume that your house is not participating in these activities.

Panhel Rush Program Begins With Reception Monday Night

The Sorority Fall Rush Program officially began Monday night with the Panhellenic Reception. The Reception, held at the Harriet Jorgensen Little Theatre featured welcoming and informative speeches along with a traditional all sorority sing.

Panhellenic Aims

Marge Barry (President of the Panhellenic Council) delivered the opening speech to the prospective rushees. She briefly described the experiences of rushing and sorority life, including the obligations of sorority women and the importance of scholarship. She then proceeded to speak of the aims of the Panhellenic Council. "The Council," she said, "is an advisory council."

It is made up of delegates from each of the eight sororities on campus. The council provides standards to be followed by each sorority, and it works with the National Panhellenic Council.

Silence Rules

Suzanne Freedman, a Senior Panhellenic delegate and Officer spoke on the Rush Rules. "The rules," she said, "have been designed to give each sorority an equal chance to know you." They must be followed throughout the rush period.

First, there is the Silence Period Rule. This rule holds that throughout the Rush Period there is to be no speaking between sorority women and rushees outside of the rush parties except for greetings. Complete silence is to be in order from the time of the Formal Coffee until pledging.

The Visiting Rule states that no sorority women may enter an independent dorm during the Rush Period, and no independent rushee may enter a sorority house during this period with the exception of attending the rush parties.

She also stated that no independent rushees may double date with a sorority woman during this rush period.

Handbooks

These rules are further explained, along with information about each sorority, in the Panhellenic Handbooks, which have previously been distributed to independent dorms.

Suzanne emphasized that the dates for some parties have been changed and therefore, the girls should consult the revised schedule which will be posted and which recently appeared in the Campus.

Miss Joan McCall, Advisor to women and Coordinator of Panhellenic Affairs, delivered the next speech. After welcoming the girls, she stressed the importance of "familiarizing oneself with the Handbook."

Counselors Available

Miss McCall stated that any girl who has any questions during the Rush Period should get the answers from those who "knows." Panhellenic Counselors will be available at the Panhel Post Office to advise the girls in any way they can. She, herself, Miss McCall, is also willing to be reached for any advice.

Shopping Period

Miss McCall termed rushing a "shopping period." "One doesn't always buy the first thing he sees" and thus, she urged each girl to go to all the sorority houses, see what each one offers, and then make up her own mind as to which sorority she would choose.

Guest Speaker

Reverend Warren Moulton, the new director of the University Christian Fellowship of Storrs Church was the guest speaker for the evening. "I am for Fraternities and sororities," he said and urged each individual member "to remember the high values toward which they aim."

"A sorority is no more or less than its members. In a liberal house," he went on to say, "exciting and challenging things happen. A sorority must not only be social; turn the brilliant advertising into fact; broaden the vision of sorority and it can then be a strength for the academic campus."

Following the speeches four girls from each of the eight sororities serenaded the rushees, singing one song from each house.

A reception with refreshments followed the program and was featured by displays of sorority pins, mugs, and paddles presented by each individual sorority house.

BOG Chooses John Santo Weekend Head

John Santo, a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, has been chosen Winter Weekend Chairman. John is a fifth semester student, majoring in Industrial Mechanical Engineering. He has previously served on the Freshman Class Council and the Research Evaluation Committee for the Student Union.

Chosen By Board

John was chosen by the Board of Governors following a series of interviews which was open to all interested students on campus.

The Board of Governors was looking for a mature and responsible individual for the chairmanship and unanimously decided upon John Santo.

Cost

The BOG estimates the cost of Winter Weekend at approximately $5,000. It is imperative that the BOG breaks even on returns in the sale of tickets or else the number and quality of events which the Student Union can present in the spring will be seriously curtailed.

Eight Committees

Within the next few weeks John will be establishing the Winter Weekend organization which will consist of eight major committees. These eight major committees will plan the Friday Night Dance, Saturday Brunch, Olympic Games, Saturday Night Entertainment, Sunday Concert, Royalty, Publicity, and Displays.

Chairmen

Anyone interested in serving as chairman of these committees or as committee members is strongly urged to get in touch with John Santo at Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Plans have not as yet been set, and John is especially looking for novel and exciting ideas.

Movement To Back Meridith Moves North

A movement to support James Meridith in his fight for equal educational opportunity and for the preservation of academic freedom is rapidly spreading into the North.

Started In South

The movement, symbolized by the wearing of white armbands, was started, appropriately, in a southern school, the University of Texas. It later moved north to New England and has become a symbol of the plight of the Negro in the South.

Support Urged

The members of the White Arm Band Group are urging students to send letters to the editors of both college and city papers giving their opinions on the situation in Mississippi. Students are also being asked to send postcards to the president of the student body at the University of Mississippi asking that Meridith be accepted and condemning the student riots.

Student Condemnation

It is hoped that condemnation by their peers will shame Ole Miss students into the realization that their defiance of the federal court's ruling can never succeed.

Rallies are being organized throughout New England to demonstrate support for Meridith. A similar rally is tentatively scheduled to take place here at Uconn on Thursday. The Daily Campus will carry more complete information tomorrow.

NSA ORGANIZERS

The National Students Association is presently disseminating information and organizing rallies. The White Arm Band movement has already had great success in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Iowa, and Nebraska. It is hoped that northern schools will soon follow suit with strong support.

Foreign Students To Have Coffee In HUB Tonight

A coffee for foreign students will be held tonight from 7 to 9 p.m. in HUB 208. All foreign students, faculty members, and those students who are truly interested are invited to attend. The guests are requested to participate so that the coffee will be a success.

Informal Meeting

The purpose of the coffee is to have foreign students become acquainted with each other. They have had no formal opportunity to do so as yet.

Through informal conversation with the faculty, students and town representatives, students from other lands may get a better idea of what Americans are really like. Stronger bonds of friendship with the hosts in this country are hoped to result from the function.

U.N. Day

The coffee is being sponsored as a prelude to U.N. Day by the Special Events Committee of the Student Union, under the direction of Richard Gilson.

The President's Convocation, scheduled for Thursday, October 4, will not be held in the Stadium, as was previously announced. President Babbidge will address the students in the Auditorium.

Meredith Movement Merits Support

A movement is beginning on the Uconn campus on behalf of the plight of James Meredith in Oxford, Mississippi. Members of this completely student - organized movement can be identified by their white arm bands.

Plans are being made for a rally tomorrow night. Postcards are being written to the president of the Mississippi student body, calling for an end to the opposition to Meredith. Letters are being written to the editors of college and commercial newspapers, condemning the situation in Oxford.

We give our complete support to these students. First of all, the recent events at Ole Miss have been deplorable. A student has been denied his right to an education at a state university because of the color of his skin. A governor has tried to completely defy the federal court system. Rioting has resulted in damages, injuries and the loss of two human lives.

Newspapers the world over are denouncing Mississippi officials for their actions. This crisis has scarred America's international reputation as the home of equal rights and freedom for all. Naturally, the Communists are draining every ounce of propaganda value from the situation.

But these are not the only reasons that we support this student movement. During the greater part of the year the students are absorbed in their studies and the social life of the university.

It is gratifying to see students moved by an issue which is beyond their own immediate personal concern. They are extending themselves as human beings in acknowledging their responsibilities in the brotherhood of man.

This movement is a recognition of the fact that whatever happens to one man affects every man. The impingement of one man's freedom consequently lessens the freedom of every individual in that society.

One cannot be a neutral in this struggle. If you sit back, you allow these crimes to happen and must accept as much blame in the situation as the active racists. There is no room for the person with "no opinion" on the matter.

The organizers of this student movement have demonstrated that they are aware of the situation. They have demonstrated that they are genuinely concerned and want to help correct the serious wrongs made by their elders.

These are the citizens of tomorrow, thinking and acting now. Those members of the older generation who worry about turning the leadership of our nation to a generation of lazy, wild blockheads can breathe a sigh of relief. The picture for the future doesn't seem quite as dark anymore.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

This year the Activities Fair is being held Thursday, October 4. In the past, there has been a great deal of interest on the part of the student body for the Fair. A great deal of time and effort goes into putting on this affair, both on the part of the Fair Committee and the activities who enter. I sincerely hope that this year will be like those of the past and that when Thursday night comes, the Union will be filled with interested spectators. All of the time put into this is for you, please take advantage of it.

Judy Carroll
Beard A

To the Editor:

I cannot understand why the Connecticut Daily Campus would allow the situation at the University of Mississippi to overwhelmingly invade its headlines. Only commercial dailies such as the New York Daily News or the Herald Tribune breed on this type of sensationalism. I certainly agree that this civil strife is a national disgrace, but it should be reported in its proper perspective.

As editor you have the responsibility to report news, but it is also your duty not to enlarge it so out of proportion to the rest of the newsworthy events of the day.

Joseph Amalfitano,
Lambda Chi Alpha

(Ed. Note: I fail to see how the CDC coverage of the rioting in Mississippi was enlarged out of proportion to the rest of the newsworthy events of the day. The Daily Campus, along with such "sensational" newspapers as the New York Herald Tribune and the Times, carried the story as its lead because it was without a doubt the most newsworthy story of the day. (Incidentally, sir, the N.Y. Times went so far as to carry three full eight-column banner headlines.)

It is the opinion of this newspaper that it's about time for students to break out of their shell of complacency and concern themselves with the important issues of the day. When we can serve to enlighten students on such an important matter, we have a complete obligation to do so.)

To the Editor:

Although I enjoyed and appreciated very much your coverage last week on South Hall, the new women's residence hall, there is one point which was erroneous and definitely needs clarification.

The six senior women who are on the staff are entirely separate and distinct from the Women's Student Government Organization within that hall. Student government and student staff are NOT synonymous in South Hall. The Resident Advisor positions are paid positions, and these six young women were appointed by Miss Noftsker and as such are members of the staff of the Office of Women's Affairs. Also, as such, they are NOT part of a "new Student Government setup." We do have a very effective student government organization, but it is made up of students other than these six Resident Advisors.

Advisor to Women

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Almost at the same moment that the University of Mississippi was under a near state of siege, a quiet ceremony took place in the court which had ordered the admission of James H. Meredith.

The court was to convene for its first session at 10 a.m. Promptly at 9:57 the President of the United States strode in and sat inconspicuously in a side, front seat. He had been up until 5:30 a.m. trying to quiet rioting in Mississippi.

At 10 o'clock, eight black-robed justices entered and took their seats. Chief Justice Warren read a brief tribute to retiring justice Felix Frankfurter, then announced that the President had appointed Arthur J. Goldberg to fill his place.

"I have already administered the Constitutional Oath to Justice Goldberg," he announced, "and the clerk will now administer the judicial oath."

Holding up his right hand, the son of a Jewish immigrant swore that, regardless of rich or poor, he would interpret the laws of the United States without prejudice or favor.

Justice Goldberg took his seat at the extreme right end of the bench besides Justice Potter Stewart of Southern Ohio, a conservative Republican. Next to Stewart sat Justice John M. Harlan, whose grandfather, a slave - holding Kentuckian, also on the Supreme Court, had written a dissent in the first segregation case before the court after the Civil War. He argued that Negroes were entitled to equal toilet facilities in inns and taverns.

Near Harlan, a Republican, sat Justice Tom Clark, a Texas Democrat, who had concurred in writing the school integration decision; and Justice Hugo Black of Alabama, once a member of the Ku Klux Klan, who had rendered the decision, after concurrence by his brethren requiring Ole Miss to admit James Meredith.

Other Justices, William O. Douglas of Washington, William J. Brennan of New Jersey, Byron White of Colorado, finally, Chief Justice Earl Warren, long - time Governor of California, represented a cross-section of the United States.

Below them, almost out of sight, sat the President of the United States who only a few hours before had sent troops into Mississippi to uphold an order of the Supreme Court.

The President, a student of history, must have recalled, as he sat there watching that simple ceremony, that it was not always so. Not always had the President and the Supreme Court been together. Not always had the President enforced court decisions.

On three memorable occasions in American history, the court and the President had been bitterly at odds, and there had been the famous statement by President Andrew Jackson regarding the Bank of the United States Case: "John Marshall has handed down his decision, now let him enforce it." And there had been Abraham Lincoln's statement that the court's Dred Scott Decision got the doctrine of democracy down "as thin as homeopathic soup made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had starved to death."

And there were the epithets hurled at the court by Justice Black of Pennsylvania who called Chief Justice Roger Taney a "Mush toad spotted traitor to the Constitution" and a "Political turkey buzzard."

"Shall he be permitted to vomit the filthy contents of his stomach on every decent man in the country without having his neck twisted?" He asked, in a mood just as critical of the court as some Mississippians are today.

All these must have gone through the mind of the President, as he sat opposite and below the court, not above it, symbolic of the fact that in our system, the court is separate from and equal to the executive.

Students Visit High Schools, To Speak About The University

There are a number of students on campus who think well enough of Uconn to enlighten prospective college students on various aspects of the University.

Visit Schools

Each year the Goodwill Committee in co-ordination with the Division of Student Personnel and Guidance under the direction of Dr. Harold R. Burke, visits various high schools throughout the state. Their purpose is to talk about the Uconn to either the student body as a whole or prospective Uconn students.

The committee each year sends letters to the guidance personnel at the high schools throughout the state and asks permission to speak to the respective students. Upon request, two male students and a co-ed, along with Dr. Burke, visit a high school, give a lecture on the requirements for admission, financial aspects and the academic and social life at Uconn. Colored slides of the campus are also shown. Following a lecture, questions are then open to the student body.

Voluntary Membership

Membership is on a voluntary basis. However, only those who are interested in public speaking should volunteer their services. No formal training period is held, as new members usually observe the procedures on one trip and then participate themselves from then on.

Religious Seminars Begin Today Are Sponsored By The UCF

Three seminars in religion will have their first meeting today, at 3:00 p.m. in the Education Building of the Storrs Congregational Church.

The seminars, "New Testament Survey" in Room 201, "Christianity and the World's Major Religions" in Room 202, and "Foundations of the Christian Faith" in Room 206 are sponsored by the University Christian Fellowship.

The seminars are open to all students and faculty members of the University of Connecticut without regard for religious background or commitment. The seminars will meet for one and a half hours each week for a period of six weeks or more and the regular meeting times will be decided by participants and leader at the first meeting.

New Testament Survey

The "New Testament Survey," will include the history, literature, and thought of new testament times, with interpretive study of the content of all New Testament books.

Major Religions

Rev. William L. Malcolmson will lead "Christianity and the World's Major Religions," a study of the thought and worship of three major religions (Hinduism, Buddhism and Islam) and the relation of these religions to the Christian faith.

Foundations Of Christianity

"Foundations of the Christian Faith," a study and discussion of the fundamental concepts of the Christian faith: grace, sin, salvation, etc., primarily for students without previous study of theology, will be led by Rev. Edward Fisher.

These seminars are offered for those who ask the "what" and "why" of religion and are seeking the answers to their questions. Those people who are interested and yet unable to attend at the scheduled times are asked to call the Community House (GA 9-5900) or Ronald Salka at Quad II (GA 9-9903 or Ext. 610) so that they may be contacted when the final schedule for seminars is determined.

Class Officer ISO Convention To Be Oct. 16

The Independent Student's Organization will hold its Class-officer nominating convention on October 16, at 7 in SS rm. 55. Any member of the I.S.O. is eligible to seek a nomination. "As in the past, there will be no 'screening' prior to the convention by the executive board." "We feel that the delegates are capable of selecting the 'most qualified candidates.'"

Attendance

Any house with I.S.O. members may attend the convention. The number of votes for each house is determined by the number of I.S.O. members in that house. The first five membership cards sold are each one vote and there is an additional vote for every ten cards sold in the house.

If there are any questions or if candidates seek additional information please contact John Julian, 216 Windham Hall.

Rushing . . .

(AP)—Abner Haynes of Dallas has regained the lead in rushing among ball carriers in the American Football League. He has gained 288 yards for an average of six and four-tenths yards a carry. Haynes leads Charles Tolar of Houston by two yards.

Len Dawson of Dallas is the number one passer with 43 completions in 65 attempts. His total yards gained comes to 678 and he has thrown eight touchdown passes.

Lionel Taylor of Denver is the leading pass receiver with 30 for 336 yards. His teammate, Gene Mingo, is the number one scorer with 47 points.

Parking

The Office of Men's Affairs wishes to remind students whose cars are parked in off-campus locations, that they must register their vehicles. There is no charge for registration, but evidence of insurance must be shown.

Students who park their cars off-campus are subject to the same rules and regulations as those whose cars are maintained on campus facilities. The fine for operating an unregistered vehicle on campus is $10.

Uconn In Review

By Motar Board

The following article concerning the History Department of the University of Connecticut is the first in a weekly series to be written by the members of Motar Board, a national honor society for senior women. The members are chosen in their junior year on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and service. The active members of Laurels chapter are: John Marino, Joan Bireley, Sandra Gold, Janice Ingram, Frances Tiller, Judith Tydor, Carallene Westbrook, Judith Buttner, Eleanor Teguis, Janice Katz, and Judith Unterspan.

Aims

Three of the society's aims—to strengthen faculty-student relations, to promote college loyalty, and to make the University experience a meaningful one—are incorporated in the content of this series. Each week an overview of the philosophy, research, and publications of a department, or group of departments, will be presented with emphasis on outstanding features about which students may be unaware.

University Achievement

Although it will be impossible to cover each department in one year, the honorary society hopes to cover a variety of fields, and present more detailed, current, and personal information than the summaries offered in the University Catalogue. Motar is trying to make every member of the college community aware and proud of the achievements of our faculty, the departments to which they belong, and ultimately the University as a whole.

All students are urged to look for this series every Wednesday in the Daily Campus.

History Department

Twelve instructors and six graduate assistants comprise the teaching staff of the History Department. The areas of concentration are American and European History. Courses of a diverse nature include Far Eastern, Russian, and Latin American History.

New additions to the department are two courses in Latin American History. Since Latin America is today of vital importance to the United States foreign policy, students in any field of study can gain an understanding of our southern hemisphere.

Opportunities

Sophomores have an excellent opportunity to begin taking 200's courses. In the department four such courses are presently offered:

- 224 The Era of Nationalism and Imperialism Through the First World War
- 225 Recent World History
- 231 United States History to the Close of the Nineteenth Century
- 232 United States History in the Twentieth Century

Seminar

Undergraduates with a 26qpr and 30 qpr in history or a related area as designated can register for a seminar. The seminar as in Russian History offers an extensive approach especially for those students who intend to go on further in education. The department of history with the help of other instructors of related fields have begun an area study seminar in Latin American History. The instructors present the history along with Spanish literature, language, and sociology. Future plans include extending this approach to other branches of the department.

Valuable Department

The History Department of the University of Connecticut offers an education of high standards, one which is specialized to meet present and future needs of our society. Students who take one course or many have at their disposal a wide range of courses from which to choose. Graduates of this University have found their education a stepping stone to teaching, law, government positions, and the foreign service. The department is certainly one of which the University should be proud.

Change Coaches

(AP)—The Baltimore Orioles have released coaches Cal Ermer and George Staller, but Harry Brecheen will be retained. Manager Billy Hitchcock already is signed for next season. General Manager Lee MacPhail says he hopes to find jobs for Ermer and Staller in the Orioles' organization.

ACTIVITIES FAIR: All Uconn students are invited to attend the annual Activities Fair, scheduled to be held Thursday night at 7 p.m. in the HUB lobby and mezzanines. The Fair will feature informational displays by various organizations and groups on campus and is designed to acquaint students with all the extracurricular activities Uconn has to offer. Representatives from the organizations will be on hand to answer questions. (Campus Photo)

Final Part

The Importance Of Being Flexible

By James Cicarelli

certain affairs can lead to irreconcilable conflict between these who remain steadfast to one belief and these, who with equal vigor, remain loyal to an opposite opinion.

Such a form of conflict has developed in America between the ultra-right and the radical left. The actions of each group are motivated by a "rule or bust" philosophy, without regard to the accomplishments or consequences their actions may bring. Compromise between the two organizations has become impossible. Such an irreconcilable position between the ultra-right and radical can only lead to grave consequences for American political thought.

Little Choice

At the last Challenge Colloquium held at Yale University, Fulton Lewis Jr. III expressed his disapproval with the candidates involved in the 1960 presidential election. Lewis said that Nixon and Kennedy offered the American public little from which to choose. He said that their nebulous approach to political issues made it difficult to distinguish between the two. The candidates in the election, Lewis went on to say, should have been men whose views on issues were more definite and opposite, rather than highly ambiguous and similar.

As a more satisfactory situation, Lewis suggested a presidential election that would pit Barry Goldwater against Norman Thomas. Here, Lewis said, Americans would really have something to choose between.

Grave Effects

One can easily imagine an election between Goldwater and Thomas, and one can easily imagine the consequences that would follow. The immediate effects of such an election would be explosive. If Thomas won, the Daughters of the American Revolution would defect en masse to Spain; and Arizona, along with several other southern states, would secede from the union. If, however, Goldwater won a vast majority of those involved in the peace movement would leave the country for the tranquility of the Arctic.

Seriously though, the election of Goldwater or Thomas would create extreme unhappiness, discontent and frustration among certain groups. Those who favored Thomas would consider the election of Goldwater a great tragedy, while those drawn to Goldwater would consider Thomas' election completely un-American. The election of one would create a totally incompatible situation for the supporters of the other.

Far more grave would be the long run effects. If by some chance, after either one became president, the country returned to normal, problems would develop beyond human comprehension. Because each man is so extreme and rigid in his political views, the tenure or office of either would accomplish few objectives. The political philosophies of each man, being so engrained in his personality and character, would predetermine his decisions on many matters. Each man would be void of the ability to change and adapt to new situations as they arose. Both would work on instinct rather than reason.

Compromise with political opponents or interest groups would be impossible of either. The inflexibility of thought on the part of each would confine both to a narrow selection of decisions to work with. And even when the decisions available were inadequate, the highly inflexible nature of both would make either man unable of drawing on different reservoirs of human thought. Goldwater would never use anything but his conservative principles to arrive at decisions, and Thomas would never use anything but his liberal principles to do the same. Neither man would ever think of using the philosophy of the other to solve a problem, regardless of how appropriate the other concept may be. Neither would consider compromise with the opposition, thus working on an "all or nothing" basis, which results mainly in "nothing." The inflexibility both would demonstrate is not a desirable characteristic for the President of the United States.

Democrats Slow Charges Alsop

Hartford Oct. 2—(AP)—The Republican gubernatorial nominee, John Alsop, has charged that the Democrats are deliberately moving slowly in connection with the controversial data processing system installed in the motor vehicles department.

Yesterday, state finance commissioner George Conkling appointed a committee of three to evaluate the electronic systems in the department.

Earlier this year, state auditors questioned the manner in which the contract for the conversion of the department's records was awarded and an investigation was conducted by state's attorney John LaBelle. LaBelle found no criminality in the handling of the contract but did not attempt to evaluate the efficiency of the new records system.

Alsop asserted that the Democratic Administration timed the naming of the committee of experts so that their report cannot be ready before the November election.

He said that he wanted the experts appointed last January so that, in Alsop's words, "the people would have the facts before them when they go to the polls in November."

Alsop continued: "This the Democrats couldn't permit to happen."

ADA

Democracy More Than A Word

Americans for Democratic Action is an independent liberal organization which seeks to achieve its goals through political action and education. It was founded in 1947 by certain dissatisfied members of the Progressive Party such as Eleanor Roosevelt and Sen. Hubert Humphrey. This multi-issue organization operates on a national scale while its field of concern extends to international affairs.

The ADA is liberal in the sense that it is "receptive to new ideas or proposals of reform." It recognizes change as the first law of society, and therefore the necessity to adapt to change as the first duty of politics.

The term independent applied to the ADA refers to the fact that it is not aligned or affiliated with any political party. It works to strengthen liberal tendencies in both parties and opposes conservative policies. Candidates from both parties on many levels of government have been backed by ADA.

ADA seeks to accomplish its objectives through the democratic processes of education, elections, and legislation. It attempts to influence the nomination and election of candidates favorable to liberal programs.

In international affairs, the ADA is ideologically opposed to totalitarian forms of government whether Fascist or Communist. The ADA advocates a democratic and politically free society and opposes the arbitrary use of political power which annuls the will of the individual in the interest of a police state.

But the basic goal of ADA's foreign policy is world peace. To this end they desire a sober readings to negotiate with those who oppose the U. S. as long as negotiation does not jeopardize the basic principles of our security.

The ADA stands behind the efforts for Germany re-unification and self determination. It advocates a strong United Nations and a thorough going application of international law. It also supports the Peace Corps, international cessation of nuclear testing and mutual withdrawal of Soviet and Western forces from Eastern Europe.

In domestic affairs, ADA works to make our nation one in which each individual may enjoy the highest degree of liberty, opportunity and security. Believing that the Constitution applies to all men, ADA condemns any denial of equal rights as indefensible and unjust. Many of the freedom riders have come from the ranks of campus ADA. It is presently supporting James Meredith in his attempt to enroll at the University of Mississippi and the Attorney General's Office in its attack on the problems of segregation.

ADA has also given its support to Federal Air for schools, hospitals and economically depressed areas. In 1960 John F. Kennedy was endorsed as a candidate for the presidency by the ADA, and it continues to stand behind the general direction in which the administration is moving.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE: There will be a meeting tonight at 8:00 p.m. in room 315 Commons. All interested persons are cordially invited to attend.

COFFEE AND CONVERSATION: Rev. Warren Molton will be the speaker at the UCFT's Coffee and Conversation tonight at 7 in the Community House.

More Spirits Than Spirit

By Joe Brezezinski

"What a bunch of frizzies!" I heard someone remark shortly after the Yale game began. Of course, this poor soul unwittingly let out that he was a lowly freshman, still expecting the wild backing for the Uconn team as he had often seen and heard with the big time colleges that play on T.V. every Saturday.

All he saw was a mild collection of cold fish who had come apparently to see their own team beaten and defeated. Cheering started at a minimum, since any morale-boosting cheers might possibly jeopardize the two bills riding on Yale to win. Besides, for many, spirits other than the team's were more important—you can't yell with your mouth full; it might cause you to spill something.

But the state of affairs was quite normal last Saturday, in fact, even last Friday. The presence of only about 150 students at the pep rally clearly displayed the usual low ebb of spirit in this Husky Village. Saturday's game with its uproarious silence was also normal, except for a few brief moments in the second half. By some freak phenomenon, a rally by the Husky gridders coincided with the loss of natural inhibition to cheer by many—the few brief moments between normalcy and the ridiculous on the standard curve of inebriation—and for a while it looked as if the football team had the backing of the Uconn stands.

Unfortunately, the team lost and now our cold fish will have many excuses not to cheer (who cheers a losing team, anyhow). These prophets of defeat shall harp on this point for the rest of the season.

On the other hand, maybe for once someone will do the opposite. The North Campus Presidents Council didn't really do too very bad considering that last year under ideal pep rally conditions fewer students appeared than at last Friday's rally which was accompanied by rain and wet grounds. Greater co-operation among all the housing units could guarantee success in the future. Presently, however, no political basis for co-operation has been established on campus and houses more often than not feel it safer to ruin other houses' affairs.

Continuous feuding has resulted whilst the Student Senate, which might do something, daubles around discussing outside issues. The time has come that the Senate shall more and more become but a discussing society hardly worth the annual spring fiasco of electioneering, and the various area councils will form some medium of co-operation and integration concerning campus-wide affairs.

In addition to the above in getting students to accept the idea of a football team and attend the games, some system might be developed to better channel the cheering at the games. No matter how hard the cheerleaders try, their voices just do not carry into the stands. The athletic department could try to provide them with portable electronic megaphones which would make their voices audible to everyone.

A lot can be done. Even cold fish can warm up with proper prompting.

Girls' Jail Gets Touch Of Glamour

(AP)—In London, the British government has announced the opening of an unusual-type of school, the city's first detention center for teenage girl delinquents.

It's an entirely new approach, for it offers girls between the ages of 14 and 21 who've been convicted in the courts a chance to rehabilitate themselves.

Girls must start work at 6:30 a.m. and they will be busy until 6:30 p.m. During the day they will cook, wash, clean and do other domestic chores.

Governor Barnett Urges That Meredith Withdraw

Jackson, Mississippi Oct. 2—(AP)—Governor Ross Barnett charges Monday night the responsibility for what he termed an "unwarranted breach of the peace and violence" in Mississippi rests with the President of the United States.

In a nationally televised speech, CBS, his second of the day, the governor said that President Kennedy had ordered armed forces to, in the governor's words, "invade Mississippi and their actions were directly responsible for violence, bloodshed and death."

Stop Violence

Barnett urged Kennedy to put a stop to further violence by immediately removing 29-year-old Negro James Meredith from the University of Mississippi and also the removal of federal troops and US marshals from Mississippi.

Meredith's court-ordered enrollment in Mississippi is what sparked the violence Sunday night and early Monday.

In an earlier nationwide TV speech, NBC, Barnett charged that it was the US marshals who caused the violence to flare. He repeated that charge in the second speech.

Barnett has until eleven a.m. Tuesday to purge himself of contempt of the US 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. He was cited in connection with the Meredith case.

The court has directed that if Barnett does not purge himself, he'll be remanded to the custody of the Attorney General of the United States and fined $10,000 per day so long as he remains in contempt.

Uneasy Quiet

An uneasy quiet prevails this morning in the military-occupied city of Oxford as Negro James Meredith prepares for a second day of classes at the integrated University of Mississippi. Army troops were on the alert throughout the night and arrested 39 more persons—for a total of 215 since rioting started Sunday night. Soldiers with fixed bayonets and loaded rifles have imposed tight security measures on the "Ole Miss" campus.

No outsiders are allowed on campus, and all persons entering its gates are searched. Milling students are forcibly scattered whenever they appear to congregate.

Troops also are patrolling Oxford proper, a seething community—although, for the most part, it settled into quiet as night fell. Darkness ended a previous night and day of violence, which left two persons dead, two other injured critically, and about 75 injured slightly.

Possibly indicating that even more soldiers may be ordered to the scene, the army, has named a three-star general, Lieutenant General Hamilton Howze, to head the massive buildup of nearly 10,000 troops.

Meredith will go to classes today, as yesterday, under heavy federal protective guard.

Walker Under Bond

In the meantime, a war hero, former Major General Edwin Walker, has been held under $100,000 bond, charged with insurrection against the United States. The 53-year-old Texan led one student charge Sunday night against federal marshals at the university and, later, appeared in the midst of rioting in Downtown Oxford. He was confined last night in the U.S. medical center for federal prisoners at Springfield, Missouri, a center maintained for the treatment of prisoners with either physical or mental ills.

Associate Arrested

In Dallas, police arrested a 22-year-old man who formerly worked for General Walker. The man, Ashland Burchwell—reportedly had a large supply of arms—including pistols, rifles and 3,000 rounds of ammunition. Police say he was en route to join Walker in Mississippi. Burchwell was charged with interstate transportation of a switchblade knife.

Also in Dallas, a 31-year-old free-lance photographer—Duane Robinson, told police he was beaten and left semi-conscious by two men who demanded that he stop taking pictures of General Walker's home.

U.S. Commissioner Omar Craig last night ordered 12 persons arrested in the Mississippi University rioting boundover to the federal grand jury. Charges against the 12 range from resisting marshals to insurrection.)

Widening Rift In Communism: Coexistence Or War?

Red China Oct. 2—(AP)—The absence of an official Soviet delegation at yesterday's 13th anniversary of Communist China has been construed in some quarters as a sign of a widening rift between the two top Communist Nations. They speak of the continuing quarrel over ideology, with Russia supposedly in favor of co-existence with the capitalist nations and Red China insisting on a war to the finish.

But these are only surface disagreements. The ideological factor has receded into the background. There is no ideologically war actually, anymore than there is such a thing as pure Communism or pure Capitalism. The two main blocs are engaged in a power struggle, and there are power conflicts within each group.

The great incentives today are power and nationalism. Not too long ago, the Marxists were predicting that the Capitalist Nations would fight again among themselves and that this would permit the Communists to gain the upper hand. This thinking has changed in recent years. The Marxists have ceased to count on a Capitalist war. They suddenly have come to the conclusion that conditions in Atlantic Ocean recovery areas have brightened hopes that astronaut Walter Schirra Jr. will be launched on his intended six-orbit of the world tomorrow.

The national space agency reported today that a change in course removed tropical storm Daisy as a threat to the third orbit landing area 200 miles north of Puerto Rico.

The agency said there was a possibility the storm could bring cloudy weather to the second orbit drop zone 375 miles south of Bermuda. But it reported the storm would have to move faster than its present 12 miles an hour if it is to bother this area.

Wind Shifts

Before shifting her 40 miles an hour winds to a more northerly course overnight, Daisy was on a path which would have crossed the third orbit recovery area tomorrow morning. A space agency spokesman now says:

Denies Possibility of Deal With Cuba, The Soviet Union

Washington, Oct. 2—(AP)—Secretary of state Rusk has made a definitive statement about Cuba and a possible deal with the Soviet Union. There will be no such deal, according to Rusk. He has explained that this country cannot support freedom in one place by surrendering freedom in another.

The Cuban Regime has seen fit to declare that it has no aggressive designs. It also has said that a United States congressional warning against a Cuban military offensive has the value of paper in the rubbish heap of history.

The declaration was published in the Cuban Press. It was drawn up at an extraordinary session of the Nation's Council of minister. Denying aggressive intentions, it charged that the United States government has been putting the safety of Cuba in grave danger.

Accuse U.S.

President Dorticcos will leave Cuba this week for the United Nations. Informants say he will accuse the United States of being an aggressor endangering world peace.

All this has little importance in the light of Cuba's status. Premier Castro will say what the Soviet Union wants him to say. He will do what the Kremlin wants him to do. It is doubtful that the Soviet Union wants any kind of a showdown at present. It is almost certain that Castro has been told not to engage in any provocation.

The Castro Regime would be much more convincing if it stopped playing the Russian game exclusively. Americans will never get reconciled to the idea of a foreign ideology anywhere in this hemisphere, but they might display much more patience if they were certain that Russia was not calling the turn. There is no question at all that Castro and company will eventually get their comeuppance. Some policy makers are hoping that this will happen as a result of an upheaval on the Island. No country can survive in a hostile atmosphere, and Cuba is a very tiny pawn.

Meanwhile aboard USS Kearsarge in the Pacific three helicopters, four ships and 3,000 men ran through an astronaut recovery drill yesterday practicing to pluck Walter Schirra from the ocean Wednesday.

It was a dry run, nobody got wet, and it was highly successful, in the words of William Hayes, recovery team leader for the national aeronautics and space administration.

Practice Run

The helicopter flew to an imaginary point some 15 miles distant, then returned and landed on the flight deck as they would if one of them had Schirra aboard.

The practice run was made in perfect weather after early rain clouds scattered. Navymen in red, yellow, green, brown, white and blue sweatshirts mingled on the flight deck with fliers in orange suits, each pursuing his own task in a hurriedly played symphony of color.

Landing

The helicopters landed near the huge steel Island superstructure where flight activity on the 41,000-ton carrier Kearsarge is controlled.

The Kearsarge and its accompanying destroyers expect to arrive today at a point 250 miles north of Midway Island where Schirra will come down if his flight ends on the fifth or sixth orbit. Three other destroyers left the task force last night heading for a point 150 miles east of Midway, where Schirra is scheduled to come down if his flight ends on the fourth orbit.

Ministers Talk In Washington

Washington, Oct. 2—(AP)—The conference of American Foreign Ministers opens this morning in Washington, with secretary of state Rusk expected to urge the other 19 countries to back tough new economic and political measures against Communist Cuba. Rusk may also push for an endorsement of the American warning against an offensive military buildup in Cuba.

The Soviet labor newspaper has attacked the Washington conference as another link in the plot against the Island of Freedom.

Havana radio reports the killing of three counter-revolutionaries and the capture of seven others in Las Villas Province. They're accused of killing three farmers.

New Haven Meets Service Standards

Hartford, Oct. 2—(AP)—The state public utilities commission has reported that the New Haven Railroad has more than met the standards of service required to qualify for continuation of the one million 200-thousand dollar a-year tax relief granted by the 1961 general assembly.

Governors Report

A report from the commission to Governor Dempsey today enumerates the degree of compliance by the railroad with the standards of service required. For example, the standards called for the repair of locomotives at the rate of eight per month and the compliance shows that the work is being accomplished at the rate of better than eleven a month.

The report says that the standard calling for a daily cleaning of passenger cars has been met, but adds that the degree of cleaning has not always been satisfactory.

90% On-Time

The report also relates that the bankrupt railroad met the standards of 90 per cent on-time performance for passenger trains, except for extenuating circumstances behind the control of the railroad.

Sports Perspective

By WAYNE MORTBERG

As the Daily Campus goes to press, the San Francisco Giants appear likely to oppose the New York Yankees in the 1962 World Series. The Giants behind the shutout pitching of American League castoff Billy Pierce and the slugging of Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda and Jimmy Davenport opened the National League playoff series with an 8-0 victory over the slumping Los Angeles Dodgers on Monday. The Dodgers in one of the most colossal blowups of recent baseball history have thrown away a one-time commanding lead and have put manager Walt Alston in the vulnerable position of getting owner Walter O'Malley's axe. Thus the Dodger manager would go the way of Hank Bauer and Mel McGaha who recently were fired by Kansas City and Cleveland respectively.

Dodgers Fold

Therefore I will assume that the Giants won the NL title by winning yesterday or will cop this afternoon's third game if the Dodgers won yesterday. I base this assumption on the fact that Los Angeles has lost its last five games and has dropped 10 of its last 13 games; and lost the four game lead the Dodgers had only ten days ago. And history shows that in the three previous NL playoffs, the team that lost the first game never won.

How will the Giants fare against the American League champions? Will the power and solid first line pitching of the Giants beat the power and defense of the Yankees. Will the Giant hitters solve the serves of the Yankee southpaw ace, Whitey Ford. If the Giants expect to beat New York, they will have to be able to beat Ford. Manager Ralph Houk could use Ford as many as three games if the Series goes to seven games.

Hitting

The Giants will pit hitters such of Mays, Cepeda, Davenport, Harvey Kuenn against the Yankees. In addition the Giants have such able pitchers as Jack Sanford, Billy O'Dell, Juan Marichal and Pierce. Sanford was aiming for his 25th victory in yesterday's second game while Pierce gained his 16th Monday, including a string of 11 straight at Candlestick Park.

The Yankees will counter with a "big three" pitching staff of Ford, 23-game winner Ralph Terry, and Bill Stafford. And Houk can call on his relief ace Marshall "The Sheriff" Bridges in a tight late-inning situation. Of course as always, the New Yorkers have a large crew of fencebusters who can break up a ball game at any time. Mickey Mantle appears to be ready for the Fall Classic and his mere presence in the New York lineup gives his teammates a tremendous lift. Flanking Mantle in the Yankee pasture will be rookie Tom Tresh and Roger Maris, both strong hitters.

Uconn Booters Travel For Yale Clash Today

The Uconn soccer team travels to New Haven today in an attempt to avenge Yale's 3-2 overtime victory of last year.

No major changes will be made in the lineup as co-captains Bob Hartwell and Myron Krasij along with Egons Knets and newcomer Larry Katz will be expected to lead the team. The Huskies in view of their recent defeat from the hands of Dartmouth will have to improve backfield play so the linemen will have more opportunity to shoot. Being outshot by Dartmouth 24-15, Uconn will have even more trouble against Yale, a much bigger squad. Soccer coach John Squires reported that the new backfield players have reported to practice who will strengthen the defense. However they will not be ready for today's game.

Yale Threat

Although the Yale team is never outstanding, it is always a threat to Uconn. The Eli team is usually up for the game with its Nutmeg neighbors and each year has a lot of depth. This will be an especially important factor this year due to the lack of good players behind the Uconn's first team.

Frosh Also

The Uconn freshmen team is also playing tomorrow against the Eli frosh. The freshman game will be played on the Yale field in New Haven also.

Thirty-seven players reported out for the first freshman practice. According to frosh coach, Dick Brown, the players aren't big but there are many good players up from the Connecticut High Schools.

Thus far their scrimmages haven't been too impressive according to the coach but there is good potential on the squad. Three Nigerian boys and one Dutchman on the team. They are engineering students who play for the team whenever studies permit.

After the Yale game the next contest for the Uconn booters will be this coming weekend when they play host to the University of Rhode Island. The game will be held on the soccer field in the morning so that it will not conflict with the home football game that afternoon. The Rhode Island Rams have never had a terrible impressive team and in previous years this game has usually been a walk-away for the Huskies.

Big 15-Year Old

(AP)—it is doubtful if there is a bigger football player in the country than Bill Herrold. He is only 15 years old and still growing. Herrold is a tackle at Shamokin, Pennsylvania, High School. He weighs 355 pounds. Despite his size, Bill is quite agile and handles all kickoffs. He stands six feet, five inches; has a size 19 collar; size 52 pants and wears 13 triple "E" shoes everything custom made.

Mays Is Lucky

(AP)—Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants had quite a day in leading his team to an 8 to 0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers in the opener of the playoff series for the National League Pennant.

Mays had two homers and a single for a perfect day at bat.

After the game, Mays revealed that he went to Candlestick Park without eating any breakfast.

Bob Benson Announces Meeting For Frosh Swimmers Tonight

Tonight, at 7 p.m. on the pool balcony, Bob Benson, former Uconn distance freestyle star, will meet for the first time with freshmen swimmers.

Advance Billing

These swimmers, many of whom have had advance publicity from their high schools and swim teams, will get a chance to meet their new coach, Benson, considered by Eastern sports writers to be the best distance swimmer to compete in the Eastern states. A close second and third are Steve Pinney and John Morris. Pinney swam for Connecticut and Morris for Brown.

Coach's Reputation

Benson's reputation started when, as a freshman, he broke the Uconn school record 200 yard freshman freestyle. Then, as a junior, he broke the 220 yard record and, in his senior year, the 440 yard record. All of these records still stand. Coach Benson also holds the records for the 220 and 440 at Worcester Polytechnic Institute and the New England Intercollegiate Swimming Championship record for the 220.

All of the Uconn school records were held by Steve Pinney before Benson started school.

Need Depth

Coach Benson declines to comment on his anticipation for the coming season, but says, "I've heard that we have several excellent swimmers here now, like all athletic teams, we need depth in order to have a winning season. We have a place for every candidate that can show up."

Experience

"Experience in competition swimming is not an essential thing; anyone who is a good swimmer and in good shape can be taught to swim in competition. What is necessary is an ability to learn and a desire to win."

"When I swam for Connecticut, several of my teammates had never competed, but they were good swimmers lacking only the refinements of good competitive swimming. And they wanted to win, so they were able to make the top spots in their events. In fact, there was once a student at William and Mary, a top-notch Southern college, who had never even been in a pool before he went to college; his swimming had been restricted to swimming holes in the country. He tried out for the team, more out of curiosity than anything else, made the team and eventually became captain. This shows that it doesn't take experience to be a winner."

Freshman Swimmers

The freshman swimmers have managed to win many of their meets in the past, and so have become quite popular with spectators. They swim in one of the newest, most modern, and best equipped pools in the Eastern United States.

The meeting of freshman will be at 7:00 p.m. tonight on the pool balcony in the gymnasium. It is strictly a meeting, not a practice; no swimming will be required at that time.

Mays Leads Giants To Victory With Late Season Power Surge

Los Angeles, Oct. 2—(AP)—Willie Mays says he's tired. For a tired ball player, he's doing pretty well.

He hit a home run in the Giants' final game of the season to send the team into the pennant playoff. And he hit two homers and a single, walked once and stole a base in Monday's victory over Los Angeles. Giant Manager

Al Dark says of Mays:

"Willie is under a tremendous strain all the time. He can't go out in public. He's always in demand. Kids are always after him for autographs. Grown-ups are always calling him on the telephone. He has to eat in his room. He can't go to a movie or a theater. He's physically and mentally exhausted."

Whitey Likely To Open Series In Effort To Extend His Mark

Oct. 2—(AP)—The New York Yankee team that will meet the National League winner in the World Series is sort of a hand-me-down edition of the fabled Yankee outfits of the past.

With, we might add, a couple of notable exceptions.

One of them is Whitey Ford, the stocky lefty whom catcher Elston Howard calls, "the chairman of the board."

That's Elston's way of paying tribute to the fact that Whitey pitches with his head as well as his hands and heart. And he has all three in abundant quantities.

Beat Whitey

If the National League winner can beat Whitey it probably will win the series. The cold dope insists that Ford will have to win two games and possibly three if the Yanks are to take the series.

Whitey is capable of doing just that. This is a one-for-the-money pitcher, a guy who likes to see the chips piled high in the center of the table.

Series Record

His word series record screams that fact in cold black type. He has a record of nine victories and four losses in the fall frolic. His earned run average in series action is a brilliant 1.98. He has a string of 32 consecutive scoreless innings, which is a record. It is still intact, by the way.

Whitey is a cinch to pitch the opening game, whether in San Francisco or Los Angeles. He will pitch again in New York, either in game four or game five, depending on how the series is going. Then, if it goes seven, he very likely will start another game.

Ford is a stuff pitcher but is not merely a thrower. He works the corners. He works at different speeds, he throws, high, low, in and out. But when he has to he will crank up and fire his quick one or his Sunday curve.

Most of all Whitey is all competitor. The big hitters don't frighten him and he respects the lesser hitters. A fun-loving man off the field he's a burning competitor on it.

Green Bay Rough On Defense Linebackers Given Recognition

Oct. 24—(AP.)—The Green Bay Packers won their reputation as pro football's most feared team because of their crunching offensive, featuring Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung.

But don't ever overlook their equally crunching defense, which has permitted just seven points in three games this season.

In this day of high-powered offensive football that is fantastic. The Packers are solid on defense from their front four on through the linebackers into the deep secondary.

Linebackers

But for today at least let's single out their linebackers. They are Ray Nitschke, Dan Currie and Bill Forester with Nelson Toburen in reserve.

Forester, a ten-year veteran, is defensive captain for the Packers. He plays the right linebacking position and calls the defensive signals after he gets them from the bench before each play. Phil Bengston, one of coach Vinnie Lombardi's chief assistants, calls the signals.

Currie handles the left linebacker post and Nitschke takes care of the middle. Nitschke is known as the "wild man" in Green Bay and his trademark is the torpedo-like tackle.

Forester is very effective at defending against passes and Currie is a sure tackler on runs toward his side.

All three men are big, going 6-3 and weighing 240 pounds, give or take a couple of ounces.

The understudy, Toburen, is 225 pounds but has a lot of potential and is getting game experience by spelling Forester, the senior member of the starting trio.

Ohio State No. 1

Ohio State has taken over the number one berth in the Associated Press Football Poll. Alabama was the leader last week. But the Buckeyes swept to an impressive 41 to 7 victory over North Carolina and moved into first place.

Alabama is second, followed by Texas, Penn State, Georgia Tech, Southern California, Mississippi, Washington, Miami of Florida and Army.

Bankiva Club Tours Canada During Spring

Immediately following the end of spring semester, a group of poultry students from Uconn spent four days touring Canadian Agricultural points of interest. All expenses were paid from funds accumulated by putting on chicken barbecues during the year.

The group toured the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa viewing various research projects which were discussed with the club members. Dr. Robert Gowe of the Animal Genetics Research Section described the experiments that were in progress at that time.

Of particular interest to the students was the test being conducted on "Environment and management practices for geese." In their studies there, they have found that the geese can withstand some pretty severe weather conditions without any harmful effects. While in Ottawa the students had an opportunity to take part in a tour of the Canadian Parliament Buildings and other historical places of interest in the Ottawa area.

Macdonald College

From Ottawa the group journeyed to Ste. Anne de Bellevue where Macdonald College Poultry Department personnel acted as hosts. Macdonald College is the Faculty of Agriculture of McGill University, and is located on the picturesque shore of Lake St. Louis, on the St. Lawrence River.

Macdonald College was built from the private funds of Sir William A. Macdonald who was the founder and owner of the Macdonald Tobacco Company, and whose product is a very familiar one in Canada. Besides the College of Agriculture there are also the School of Home Economics and the School of Education for the English speaking segment of Quebec.

The Bankiva Club members stayed overnight in the men's European-style dormitory and enjoyed a delicious free breakfast in the student center.

Scenic Vermont was observed on the return trip which brought the Club members back to Connecticut late Sunday evening, May 27th.

Participating in the trip were: Don Ellsworth, Steven Patrick, Richard Peacock, Cal Ruuskanen, Mike Markowicz, Ken Locke, Dr. J. H. MacNeil, and Dr. P. G. Stiles.
