Students Urged To Apply For Work-Scholarships

Worried about meeting the increased costs of a diploma at the University of Connecticut? To help students meet the rise in fees a new group of work-scholarships have been made available for the 1964-65 year.

According to the amount of financial need that a student demonstrates, when he reviews his application with a financial aid counselor, a student may receive from $200 to $1400. This will be a combination of a Financial Aid Award and a guaranteed part-time job. This job will require from 6 to 25 hours of work per week as a typist, stenographer, clerk, library worker, food worker, attendance taker or other jobs.

BOG To Sponsor Liniment Star Basketball Game

On Friday evening, February 21, the Student Union Board of Governors will sponsor its first annual 'Liniment All-star' basketball game which will be between several student leaders and a mos. physically 'un' fit faculty. The game will be held in the field house at 8:00 p.m.

Many surprises are in store with an entertaining half-time program being planned. Beside having a lot of fun and many laughs, student and faculty attendance will show a sincere interest in bettering student-faculty relations.

The Board of Governors advised students "to mark this on your calendar now as an event that you won't want to miss — It will be an exciting climax to the 'Millard Filmore' Day."

Any faculty member who are still interested in participating are asked to contact Dr. Vlandis, Speech Department, Ext. 638.

Hartford Project Seeks Members

Editor's Note: The Hartford Tutorial Program is one of the most successful organizations on a campus which has very few organizational successes. Tonight at 6:45 in HUB 101 this group will hold a meeting for prospective new members. The following is a history of the group and a statement of its aims by one of its members.

By KATHY CLEMENS

In October, 1962, sixteen University of Connecticut students, interested in problems of education and civil rights, met to initiate a tutorial program.

The project's goals were to help young people from a depressed Negro and Puerto Rican district in Hartford to understand, appreciate, and take advantage of their education, and ourselves to gain insight into the fields of civil rights and education.

The program involved traveling to Hartford once each week of the academic year, each UConn student working consistently with one particular child. Similar projects in this area had, for various reasons, fallen through.

Flexible Work Schedules

The student and the work supervisor to whom he is assigned will work out a schedule to accommodate the student's program of classes and to complete the number of work hours.

This year about 100 undergraduates are participating in the program and the number is expected to double in September. These students have received from $150 to $1,000 for working in the Snack Bar or the South Hall dining Room!

Students receive student wages as well as a complementary amount of Financial Aid Award money. The amount a student get cannot exceed the amount that UConn officials have set as his financial need. A student must also have a good academic standing to participate in the program.

Athletic Scholarships

A dozen of the new work-scholarships have been created by the Department of Athletic for students interested in sports but not varsity athlete. Among those are opportunities for two male students, a sophomore and a junior, to work with the Director of Sports Information, keeping records, releasing news and assisting during evening sports events.

Early Application Advised

Mr. Powers, director of student aid has emphasized that students should apply now and avoid the May rush. He noted a certain amount of work must be done when a student makes an application. Both the students and the financial aid - counselors would benefit by an early application.

He added, that any student who seeks some form of financial help, including those who hold some sort of scholarship now should apply before they leave school in May. They should have an interview with Mr. Macione or Mrs. Wolf before spring vacation so that their cases may receive maximum consideration.

Many Saw Failure

A few observers predicted failure for this program, doubting that there would be many students interested enough to sacrifice an entire evening every week, not to mention paying for the cost of getting to Hartford.

Yet now, a year and a half later, the group has expanded to include two hundred and ten college and pre-college students, and the program has received full support and encouragement from both the University faculty (some of whose members have been helping to meet transportation expenses) and the Hartford Board of Education. Members of the UConn Department of Education, too, have given assistance and suggestions.

NSA Sponsored

The program, sponsored by the National Student Association of the University Student Senate, works in coordination with the Independent Social Center in Hartford, which is under the direction of Mrs. Pearl Flemister.

Cohen Explains Changes In East Germany

By EVELYN MARSHAK

What is Afro-Cuban ethnic music? It was formerly called decadent Western music and its acceptance by the East German regime is one of the visible signs of change in that country explained Robert Cohen.

In a film-lecture entitled "A Peek Inside East Germany, Cohen showed a Germany that many thought could not exist. A Germany with busy shipyard, steel works, electrical works, a flourishing theatre and at least some well-stocked stores.

A majority of these stores are on Karl Marxalle, formerly called Stalinale. This street has been a point of bitterness to East Germans. After the end of the war which left as much as 90 percent of cities destroyed, funds were sent for Karl Marxalle, a communist showplace instead of on much need homes.

19 years after the end of the war, there are many places where piles of war rubble have not been removed. One highlight was a picture of Hitler's bunker from which he ran the war and where he eventually killed himself.

As interesting as the new East Germany was with its generation of children who know nothing about life before Hitler, are flourishing theatres including Bertolt Brecht's famous one, many students found themselves thinking more about the war memorial and the concentration camps.

While Cohen stated that most people have either forgotten about the war crimes, or refuse to admit any guilt, East Germany is filled with war memorials such as the one in honor of the Russian soldiers who lost their life in early May, 1945 fighting the Nazis.

Concentration Camps

The grimness of the concentration camps is slowly fading and at times they have been the scenes of tearful reunions but the huge ovens were able to put a feeling of horror into some of the 500 students who attended to Board of Governor's sponsored lecture Thursday night.

Some horror was also shown at the Berlin wall and its division of the city, especially the many tombstones that have been put up to commemorate those who were killed while trying to escape.

Even the wall had its light side thought as Cohen's films showed. A snowstorm gave G.I.s guarding Checkpoint Charlie, a chance to make a snowman and have a snow ball fight, carefully avoiding hitting the Volpos, or East German police.

Grim Reminder

But the grim reminder was always present, in the elevated train that circles in and out of both parts of Berlin but lets off passengers at only one stop and then only if you have the correct passport.

Cohen did express hope that the wall would again open for Easter visits as it had at Christmas time after being closed for 2 1/2 years.

To Unite With 3 Others In Student Senate Fight

Charlene D'Andrea, vice-president of the Student Senate, officially announced her break away from the Independent Students Organization Saturday, and at the same time, said she and three other students were banding together for the upcoming student senate elections.

Miss D'Andrea said she had decided to leave the ISO party because she did not feel the current administration was effective enough.

Not Running For President

She also said that she decided not to compete for the position of president or vice-president in the new elections, which will be held under the new constitution in three weeks. She added she felt the post of president would be too demanding in her opinion, since it will be the first year of such a post. The vice-president position, which under the new constitution will chair the Senate, should be filled by a male, she said.

Miss D'Andrea said that the position she will be contesting for is that of Senior Senator.

Others Involved

Three other students who teamed up with Miss D'Andrea also said that they will be seeking senatorial positions. They are Nancy Case, Arlene Riss and Jonathon Barbieri.

Miss Case, a fourth semester Arts and Science student from South Hall, has had no official connection with student government in the past, although she has worked as a secretary for the organization for over a year.

Arlene Reise and Jon Barbieri have both worked as chairmen of the Community Involvement committee of the Student Senate. Miss Reise is a fourth semester Arts and Science student from Phi Sigma Sigma, and Barbieri is a fourth Sigma, and Barbieri is a fourth Sigma Tau Kappa Eta.

Copeland Undecided

Arlene Copeland, currently an ISO Senator from South Hall, has also indicated an interest in the new organization, although she has not yet officially announced any decision.

The group declined to call itself another "party," on the grounds that it has not been officially recognized as a student organization as of yet.

Miss D'Andrea said that the platform of the "group" would be released today. She did not say what the contents were, but said it was based on "continuity," and that it consisted of 14 planks.

USA Party Plans Conclave Night Thursday

The USA Party gets a jump on the Republicans and Democrats in the convention department when they hold their conclave next Thursday to nominate candidates for the upcoming senatorial elections.

Party President Pat Sheehan said yesterday that the convention is open to all USA party members, and all have a chance for nomination. He urged any prospective candidates to get in touch with him either at Phi Kappa Tau in person, or by phone at 9-2107.

Keynote Speaker

The convention will be keynoted by a speaker as yet not named, and Sheehan will deliver a state of the party address. Also to be taken up is a new party constitution, the result of a motion by Joel Hirshorn. He also added that only houses who have paid their dues can vote.

Plaque Presented

A PLAQUE commemorating the life and work of Hugh Greer was presented to the University Saturday night by friends and alumni of the late coach.

Be Serious!

Student recognition of faculty members — what is it worth? Once again the Student Senate is asking the sophomores, juniors and seniors at the University of Connecticut to select two outstanding faculty members as the recipients of monetary awards.

Any expressed choice such as this is bound to be subjective. On what basis are professors judged by students? Are they relatively easy graders? Are they believers in essays, short answer, or multiple guess? Can you cut their class and get away with it?

If these are the criteria for the monetary award and honorable mentions, then the vote is worthless. Will this year's vote be worthless? How will the faculty members be evaluated?

There are many roads to a diploma. Some are easy and relatively meaningless. Others are more difficult, but their results are more lasting. The latter road, taken by mature individuals, is of course the more ideal. If those travelling down this road take the time to express their choice in the faculty award nomination, the awards will have a meaning.

As the University grows in size, it becomes increasingly difficult to achieve one of the major goals of education — personal exchange between the professor and the student.

Besides exchanging confidences and opinions with certain professors and instructors, there must be other more constructive ways for the student to express his opinion regarding certain outstanding faculty members. In channeling $250 a year to faculty awards, the Student Senate is providing this opportunity.

Some professors are dynamic. They not only know their material, but they know how to excite the student intellectually, to make him desire knowledge. A professor receives satisfaction when he witnesses his classes' rapidly filling up, when he recognizes the popularity of his courses. But he is most satisfied if that popularity is based on more than a desire to travel the easiest road to a diploma.

The Student Senate faculty award must be recognized for what they are: a student vote of confidence in the contributions of outstanding members of the University faculty. It is true that the students are not the best qualified to judge the performance and the value of certain faculty members. Certain professional criteria are more important. But student opinion can in no way be discounted. The student voice must be heard. The Student Senate is providing the students at this University with the opportunity to speak through the vote.

As a result of this expression of opinion on the part of the students, two members of the University faculty will receive $125 apiece and ten faculty members will receive certificates of honorable mention.

These awards will be valid only if students respond. Only if students with a genuine desire to commend the efforts of part of the University faculty give by casting a ballot will the election have any meaning.

"Reflection Of Student Demand"

To the Editor:

Let me assure Stanley-Warner officials everywhere that "irate Stors mothers" are not the only ones who object to the shoddy programming at the College Theatre. These ladies probably have in mind such sadistic-voyeuristico-anthropological stews as Jacopetti's Mondo Cane and Women of the World, which any sincerely hard-up sex fiend could have seen at several neighborhood drive-ins long before they came to Stors. But my personal worm turns when I read (in last Thursday's Daily Campus of the Stanley-Warner boys passing themselves off as friendly philanthropists and film-lovers, talking blilly of "art," "culture," "experiments" and "gambles" which make the College Theatre "an example across the country." Tremble for our country, O Citizens!

The kind of odds the Stanley-Warner chain dearly loves to tackle is best shown by recollecting some of the typical treats we've had in the past several months: Gidget Goes to Rome, Straight-jacket, Palm Springs Weekend, Under the Yum-yum Tree, Move Over Darling, The Wheeler Dealers, For Love or Money, Kings of the Sun, Boys' Night Out, Four for Texas, plus revivals of such beloved classics as Splendor in the Grass and Follow the Boys. And once a fortnight kindly S-W throws in one or two nights of The Trial or some Bergman or Fellini, while impatiently waiting for the next Natalie Wood-Steve McQueen epic to be made available. Well done, thou good and noble chain.

Anyone who care about movies in this area knows that the College Theatre is no improvement on the old Capital in Willimantic, in fact their programs are often the same, though cunningly staggered so as to pick up the stray sucker who doesn't read the Willimantic Chronicle or Coventry Broadcaster. But good old pictures can be seen at UCF on Friday night's or by taking Mike Gregoric's course in Theatre 286, if you're a student and lucky enough to get in.

For current and choice you have to go all the way to the Cine Webb in Wethersfield (where Tom Jones is now playing) or occasionally to the Arts in South Hartford (which announces future showings of interesting-sounding films like Knife in the Water, The Doll, Hallelujah the Hills and Bergman's The Silence. I recommend these places to all those for whom the movies are more than a visual Ovaltine before turning in, or indeed a place to turn in.

If I thought for a minute that manager Shephard and other members of the Stanley-Warner "family" were really dickering for any of the above-mentioned pictures, or for the newly-freed Chaplin films now in New York, or for any of the large number of good domestic and foreign films which most college theatres make a point of offering, I would willingly nominate them all for Kulcher Kommissars. But on the strength of their past performance, I am quite certain they are not. And while I have nothing at all against their trying to make a living, I cannot sit and read such complacent garbage about "art" and "culture" without at least registering my personal protest.

The management of the College Theatre has said that the films shown there are meant to be a "reflection of student demand." I wonder what proportion of the student body realizes what a kick in the seat of its collective pants that is.

Very sincerely,
Joseph Cary

English

Dennis Moffatt sought a job with responsibility

He found it at Western Electric

Dennis Moffatt, B.A., Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, '57, joined Western Electric in 1961 after two years of graduate work at the State University of Iowa and two years with the Army. Most important to Dennis was the fact that WE offered him the chance to move ahead . . . fast. Dennis started at Western Electric's Hawthorne Works in Chicago as a Staff Trainee in Industrial Relations.

After only a year with the Company and the completion of one of WE's training programs for college graduates, Dennis became a Personnel Placement Analyst. Advancing rapidly, Dennis was recently promoted to Section Chief, Employment and Placement, Systems Equipment Engineering.

If you, like Dennis Moffatt, want a career with a company that will recognize your skills and abilities, and have the qualifications we're looking for—let's talk! Opportunities for fast-moving careers exist now for liberal arts, physical science and business majors, as well as for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers. Get the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. Or write: Western Electric, Room 6405, 222 Broadway, New York 38, N. Y. And be sure to arrange for an interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.

OPEN HOUSE TO KICK OFF CDC

Here are some of the most frequently questions asked about the CDC Heeling program, and the answers to them. An opportunity to ask other questions about the paper will be afforded this evening at 7:15 in HUB, when the Daily Campus sponsors an Open House.

QUESTION: As a staff member on the CDC, what sort of people will I meet or interview?

ANSWER: Here is a partial list of personalities whom staff members of the Daily Campus have met and/or interviewed during this past year: The President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Under Secretary Averil Harriman, Senator Abraham Ribicoff, Senator Kenneth Keating of New York, Senator Proxmire of Wisconsin, Governor John Dempsey, Governor Wallace of Alabama, Harrison Salisbury, Odetta, The Weavers, Victor Borge, Ahmad Jamal, William Penn Warren, Ralph Allen, Bob Considine, President and Mrs. Homer D. Babbidge, Provost Albert Waugh, Vice President John Evans, Coach Fred Shabel, Coach Rick Forzano, Dean Arwood Northby, Dean John Dunlop, Dean Elizabeth Noftsker, and many, many more.

QUESTION: If I feel for the newspaper, how much time will I have to spend?

ANSWER: You will be expected to work approximately two hours per week, at a time which is convenient for you. As a healer, you will also be expected to go to healing meeting, once a week, for the next five weeks.

QUESTION: What are the chances for advancement on the paper?

ANSWER: Excellent. This year an unusually large number of editors will be graduating, leaving a large vacuum to be filled. Student taking advantage of this healing program have one of the greatest chances for advancement in the history of the paper.

QUESTION: I am not planning to go into journalism after I get out of college. However, I would still like to work on the paper while I am here. Will I be able to?

ANSWER: Absolutely. As a matter of fact, only three of the 11 editors now on the paper are planning to go on to journalism.

MEETING IMPORTANT PEOPLE, like Victor Borge, is all part of the training of the Daily Campus. And there are many of them to meet. Besides Borge, CDC members have also met the President and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and many other world renown personalities, besides continuous communication with university dignitaries.

sessions were located at the Social Center, until the building was badly damaged by fire. The program then moved to two Hartford churches. This year, however, the Board of Education has offered the use of Hartford elementary schools.

No Classes

No classes are held; tutoring is done on a one-to-one basis. The group feels that with each tutor working consistently with one particular child, individual abilities and needs can be assessed more accurately, and tutoring will have a beneficial continuity.

Tutees' age range from five to sixteen; the subjects with which we work encompass all those in the average school curriculum, and the skills of the tutor are matched to the needs of the tutee. Reading, spelling and composition, and math, are the areas in which most help is needed. Tutors also work with history, social studies, science, and foreign languages.

Accomplishments

The accomplishments of any tutorial program are difficult to measure in statistical terms. The tutors hope that, for the tutees, contact with college students will help to dissolve the "otherworld" conception of higher education, and lead to the realization that schoolwork does have some relation to living.

Club News

PRE-LAW CLUB

Francis J. Larkin, Assistant Dean of the Boston College Law School will speak on the "Evolving Role of a Lawyer in Society" this Wednesday. He is a graduate of Holy Cross College and the Georgetown University Law Center where he received both the Bachelor and Master of Laws degrees.

Prior to assuming his present duties, Mr. Larkin served two years as secretary to Judge John P. Hartigan of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the First Circuit.

The Pre Law Club is sponsoring this speaker. All students who are interested in law and a possible future in this field are invited. Dean Larkin will be very happy to answer any and all questions after the meeting. He will speak in Commons 310 at 7:30 this Wednesday.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

This evening at 7:30 in SS 143, Dr. Witryol of the Psychology Department will speak on "Careers in Psychology." The program is being presented by the newly formed Psychology Club and is one of a series of lectures to be given this semester.

The Psychology Club is one of the newest organizations on campus. New members are still invited to join.

A tentative schedule includes movies and possible field trips as well as speeches given by members of the Psychology Department and guest lecturers.

The club is also creating a library of over 200 catalogs of grad school programs in psychology offered by universities throughout the country. There will soon be a list of summer jobs offered in the surrounding areas for psychology majors. There is also a reading room shared with the Colloquium Committee where journals are available to members.

Anyone interested in joining the club may stay for the business meeting which will follow Dr. Witryol's lecture.

HILLEL

Tonight, Feb. 17, at 7:30 p.m. Hillel will elect officers for the coming year. The following slate will be presented to the membership. For President, Monty Schwartz and Ina Steinfield; vice-president, Myles Martel; secretary, Lorna Pokart; treasurer, Fay Granat.

To vote in this election a student must be a member of Hillel. In those few situations in which a member cannot attend the meeting an "absentee ballot" system will be employed; these students may come to Hillel between 6:30 and 7:20 and fill out a ballot.

Husky Pups Defeat Quonset Flyers 91-76 And Holy Cross 78-72, Up Slate To 9-1

By BILL RHYIN

Over the past weekend the UConn students were treated to four games of basketball. Only a hard fought defeat to the varsity at the hands of Holy Cross kept this weekend from being one of the best ever for athletic teams from the University.

The Husky freshmen continued their spectacular play as they won both of their games and ran their record up to nine wins and one loss.

On Friday night, the Frosh rather handily knocked off the Quonset Point Flyers 91 to 76 in an at times sloppily played game. The Husky Pups had to much shooting power and board strength for the outmanned Flyers. Dick Thompson, Ron Ritter and Dick Cote controlled both the offensive and defensive boards as if they owned them. Quonset Point would get only one shot at the hoop and, if it didn't go in, the ball would end up in the hands of either one of the three UConn's.

At the other end of the court, the story was much the same as both Thompson and Ritter scored pretty much at will with pretty jumpshots from inside ten feet of the basket. Ritter ended up high scorer for the evening with 21 points. Thompson threw in 17, mostly on jump and layup shots right under the hoop.

Out in the backcourt, P. J. Curran and Wes Bialosuknia played outstanding games. Curran is one of the best playmakers in Frosh history and Bialosuknia is deadly anywhere around the key. Curran is also a good shot but up until this game he hadn't scored that much. Against the Flyers "P. J." came through with 18 markers. Bialosuknia, not to be outdone, threw in 20, which is just a little above his game average.

On Saturday night, things weren't so easy. The Pups jumped off to a 16 point lead in the first half, against Holy Cross, only to see it slimmed to a half time score of 42 to 33.

In the second half, The Crusader's whittled the score down even further and the Huskies were hard pressed to maintain even a two point lead. Finally, with about 8 minutes left in the game, coach George Wigton put Tom Penders into the game and the Pups began a semi-freeze. With this type of ball control, and the Crusaders being forced to go out and get the man with the ball, one of the UConn's was left open for the easy layup shot.

Again it was the first five of Bialosuknia, (18), Cote, (13) Thompson, (11) Ritter, (10) and Curran, (20) who did all of the scoring. They were responsible for all but 6 of the total points scored by the Huskies.

Royer, Forzano Asst.

The appointment of H. Lee Royer, 29, as an assistant to newly appointed Football Coach Rick Forzano at the University of Connecticut was announced by Athletic Director J. O. Christian.

Royer, head coach at Pennsylvania Military College in Chester, Pa., for the past two seasons, graduated in 1957 from Pennsylvania State College (West Chester) where he was a physical education major and played football for four years. A fullback, he was co-captain during his senior season.

He began his coaching during Army service at Ft. Knox, where he was discharged in 1958. A year as line coach at Chester (Pa.) High School preceded his two years as line coach at Penn Military where he was elevated to the head coaching position two seasons ago. His teams at Penn Military were best known for their participation in the annual Atlantic City indoor football game played during the holiday seasons for the past two years.

Teaches Tennis

In addition to his football experience, he has been a tennis-teaching professional during the summer months and has supervised a tennis program in the Chester City Park commission.

Born in Baltimore, he graduated from Ridley Township High (Pa.) in 1952 and Pennsylvania Military Prep in 1953. He is married to the former Ruth Hobbs of Lancaster, Pa., and the couple has two daughters, Jennifer 3, and Amy 1 and a half. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Royer of Woodlyn, Pa.

Huskies Top Vermont, Lose To H.C.

Romp Catamounts, 90-64 As Perno, Kimball Shine

By Guy Caruso

UConn took another step toward the defense of their coveted Yankee Conference title Friday night when they crushed an out-classed Vermont five, 90-64. The Husky win brought their conference record to 7-1 with two Yan-Con games remaining against New Hampshire and Rhode Island, both are away.

Co-Capt. Dom Perno again led the Huskies to their crushing victory as he scored 13 of his 15 points in the first half when the UConn attack seemed to be lagging. Perno was his usual brilliant self in the ball-handling and defense departments, especially in the latter stages of the first half when he and Danny Hesford combined to steal the ball from the bewildered Catamounts four consecutive times.

Toby Kimball continued his prodigious rebounding for the UConn pulling down 18 against the Catamounts. Kimball was also the game's leading scorer with 19 points 12 coming in the second half.

The Vermont team shot a commendable 47% from the floor but could not cope with the Huskies overall height and tight zone defense. Pacing the Catamounts in scoring was Capt. Dave Strassburg with 14 points and Soph. Milt Goggins with 11.

Close Beginning

At the beginning of the contest the UConn seemed to be suffering from a letdown after their big win against UMass and the Catamounts took advantage of this to keep the game close for the first twelve minutes. Vermont held a 21-18 lead with 8:21 remaining in the half when the Huskies finally erupted.

With Perno leading the attack popping in two jump shots, a lay-up and a foul shot the Huskies scored 11 straight points to take a 29-21 lead. After a basket by Vermont's Ralph D'Atilia, UConn came back with a 10 point string made possible by a pair of steals each by Perno and Hesford as the Catamounts were frustrated in their attempts to bring the ball down court.

Kimball's fine shooting and work off the boards lengthened the Husky lead to 65-43 with 11:33 left in the game and coach Shabel began substituting liberally at this point. The second half was also marked by the fine all-around play of hustling Hesford who was all over the court and shot a remarkable six for eight from the floor.

Second Half Rally Gives Cross 62-57 Win

By Lou Matsikas

The UConn Huskies lost the second game of their weekend basketball double-header Saturday night, by losing to the Holy Cross Crusaders 62-57, before 4,239 spectators in the field house and 350 fans via closed circuit TV in the little theater.

Bill Della Sala, contributing 11 of his 15 points for the night, led the first half surge by the Huskies who walked off the court at halftime with a three point lead 28-25. Big Toby Kimball and Ed Slomcenski were forced to play sparingly because of early personal fouls - the frontment collected three each towards the end of the first half.

The Huskies played a cautious first half, paced by Dom Perno and built up their largest lead with six minutes remaining of 7 points 21-16. The Crusaders then jumped back, through the fine moves and scoring efforts of Wendelken, to take the lead 25-24, with 2 minutes remaining on the clock. Perno, then took charge of controlling the game and scored one basket himself, along with Bill DellaSala's clutch foul shots to erect the intermission lead of 3 points.

Second Half Decides

The early part of the second half was when the game was won. The Crusaders, led by the shooting of Wendelken, scored 18 points in the first 10 minutes compared to the Huskies' 7. Consequently (with 10:00 remaining, the Holy Cross team held a 10 point advantage.

In that Crusader surge, Kimball played valiantly, scoring 9 points to prevent the contest from becoming a complete rout. His 5 straight points brought the Huskies up close, 36-35, only to have the Crusaders score 7 more in a row to keep their lead safe. Kimball's 17 points in the second half were amazing considering his foul situation. The UConn leader also pulled down 23 rebounds to lead the home team to a 46-35 rebounding edge.

The UConn were forced to play Holy Cross's game in the waning minutes and almost pulled it out when Dom Perno threw in two quick jump shots from the outside to make the score 60-55, but being pressured to play an aggressive defense, the Huskies fouled the Crusaders and gave them 5 points on foul shots.

Greer Plaque

At halftime, the Hugh Greer memorial plaque was presented to President Babbidge by Mr. Archambault, president of the Alumni Association.

BIG MEN: Toby Kimball and Ed Slomcenski are both shown as Kib Kimball tries a hook shot from in front of the basket. Holy Cross players are Joe Kelly (13) and Jim Curran (51). Toby scored 25 points and had 23 rebounds.

UConn Junior Named To NEACU Team

A University of Connecticut junior has been named to the New England Association of College Unions bowling team which will travel to Oakland, Calif. in April to compete in the national ACU bowling tourney.

Robert St. Pierre took second place in the recent New England tourney to earn a place on the five-man regional team. He bowled a nine-game total of 1632 pins, three less than tourney winner Harold Miller of Quinnipac College.

Other Students

Two other UConn students are on the New England team as alternates. Seniors Jeffrey U. Horowitz and Salvatore Spinola, were awarded alternate posts on the basis of their scores at the regional event.

The Oakland finals will take place April 4-6. Eleven regions will be represented.
