Reporter Article
For Information
Is Printed Here

(Ed. Note: Since the controversial film, "Operation Abolition" will be shown on campus on March 9, we are reprinting the following article from "The Reporter" as some background material which is opposed to the House Un-American Activities Committee.)

With the active help of the House Un-American Activities Committee, a commercial film company in Washington, D.C., has sold five hundred prints of a movie called "Operation Abolition" during the past few months at $100 each. Although the committee has attempted to disguise its role, it is responsible for much of the production of the film, which presents a distorted version of demonstrations that were staged by a group of college students when the committee had hearings in San Francisco last May on the subject of alleged Communist activities in northern California.

The staff of Washington Video Productions say that requests for prints of the film are coming in so fast they can hardly keep up with them. In Arizona, the film is being handled by the Phoenix Anti-Communist Committee. According to officials of the American Civil Liberties Union, in Arizona high school social studies teachers are being urged to show the movie. P.T.A. groups have been approached, and college libraries have been informed that prints are available to them. A Phoenix TV station has run the film, and an ad plugging the TV showing was run in a local paper paid for by the Lions Club.

Newsreel Shots
The movie is made up almost entirely of newsreel shots, filmed by TV cameramen who covered the events for stations KRON and KPIX in San Francisco.

After the hearings had been completed, two committee staff members — William Wheeler, chief West Coast investigator, and Fulton (Buddy) Lewis III, went to the TV stations with subpoenas for all the newsreel film that had been shot during the demonstrations.

They then selected the footage they wanted and had prints made of it, telling the stations that the film was needed for "documentation." Neither the studios, the staff photographers, nor the reporters were paid for their film, although Operation Abolition is ostensibly a commercial venture.

The prints were sent to Washington, where the committee staff edited the film and wrote a commentary for it. After that had been done, film and commentary were turned over to a commercial film company, Washington Video Productions, to be made into a movie.

Buddy Lewis
"Buddy" Lewis assisted the company with the technical work on the film, and the narrator's voice is his. Representative Francis E. Walter (D., Pennsylvania), chairman of the committee, and Gordon Scheter (R., Ohio), a committee member, both appeared as commentators. The film was then made an official House document and advertised in a special publication, "The Communist-Led Riots Against the House Committee on Un-American Activities in San Francisco, May 12-14, 1960."

The film itself opens without any of the usual credits. Instead, Congressman Walter launches immediately into the main theme of the picture, which is to suggest that the demonstrations were Communist inspired and Communist led.

Distortion of Facts
In the attempt to prove this assertion, both the narration and the way the film clips were edited deliberately distort a number of facts.

For example, separate sequences have been run together in Operation Abolition to give the impression of mob action, and the film shows students displaying defiance after police warnings, although actually the demonstrations occurred at a completely different time.

And the police use of fire hoses on the students is justified on the basis of the claim that the students attempted to rush police barricades inside City Hall, where the committee was holding hearings.

But no film accompanies the commentary on this alleged attempt; in fact, photographs taken at the time show the students seated on the floor and in the corridors when the hoses were turned on them. After the riots were over, the sheriff of San Francisco County said: "There was no act of physical aggression on the part of the students."

Widely Distributed

The film has received much distribution. The Saturday Evening Post recommends it, with the claim that "For once the facts are pictorially recorded for all to see!" The National Review has plugged it, pointing out that it is "available from the HUAC."

A retired admiral has written letters on behalf of it and some Republican candidates used it during their campaigns. Prints have been bought by a number of corporations, including the Schaefer Brewing Company of New York and the Standard Oil Company of California, which purchased ten prints to show to its employees.

The staff of Washington Video Productions say that requests for prints of the film are coming in so fast they can hardly keep up with them.

In Arizona, the film is being handled by the Phoenix Anti-Communist Committee. According to officials of the American Civil Liberties Union, in Arizona high school social studies teachers are being urged to show the movie. P.T.A. groups have been approached, and college libraries have been informed that prints are available to them. A Phoenix TV station has run the film, and an ad plugging the TV showing was run in a local paper paid for by the Lions Club.

Group Warned
When the Arizona A.C.L.U. protested against the showing of the film at a P.T.A. meeting without any indication that a number of students who had participated in the demonstration disagreed with the film's presentation of the events, members of the groups were warned of vague but dire consequences that might follow if they continued in their protests.

Students at the University of California in Berkeley have prepared a detailed answer to the movie which they are distributing wherever they can. William Wheeler of the House committee staff had admitted on a Los Angeles TV program that there were distortions in the film.

Some of the students may have misbehaved but the evidence has been offered proving that their original demonstration was under the control of the Communist Party.

Although Operation Abolition seems to be doing well at the box office, this unusual venture of the House Committee on Un-American Activities into moviemaking is not apt to win any prizes for accuracy.

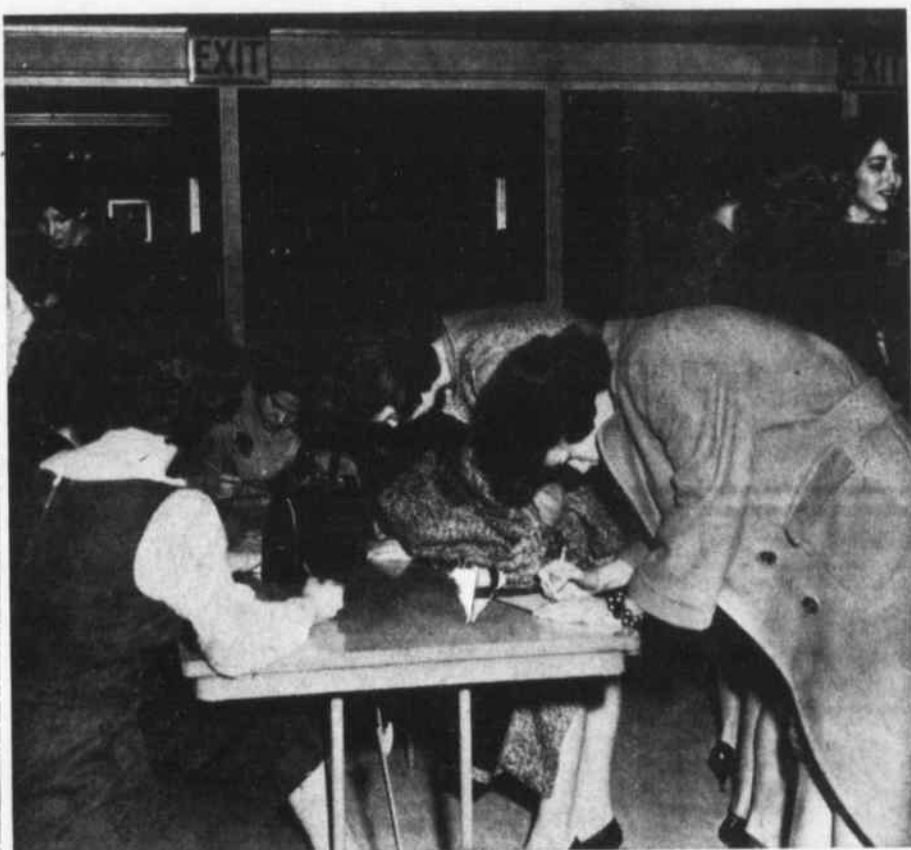

Students
Disregard
Property

The office of Men's Affairs has recently received numerous reports that students of the University have been disregarding the private property of the various Storrs Churches.

It is presumed that students having classes in the Life Sciences and Educational Buildings have been parking their cars in the parking lots belonging to these Churches. Most of the reports center around students using the parking lot belonging to Storrs Congregational Church, which is approximately 70 feet west of the Community House.

Students are reminded that these parking lots are the property of the Churches. Unauthorized use of these lots not only constitutes a nuisance to the Churches but is a source of embarrassment to the University.

Students are requested to refrain from using these lots. If this situation does not improve, it will be necessary to request that the security department tag unauthorized automobiles found in the lots.

Prospective rushees registered at the Panhellenic Reception spring rush which begins on Tuesday with the first Round Robin party. The Reception featured speeches of welcome by Miss McCall, and the officers of the Panhellenic Council, a fashion show, and an inter sorority sing by a choral group composed of four delegates from each of the nine sororities on campus. (Campus Photo—Cleary)

Miss McCall Reminds
Rushees Of Requirements

Spring Rush officially began with the Panhellenic Reception Tuesday evening in the Little Theater.

Miss McCall welcomed the prospective rushees, and expressed her desire for a happy and successful rush period for sisters and rushees alike. She reminded the girls of the scholarship requirements. No freshman girl may rush unless she has a 2.0 g.p.a. for last semester. For an upperclassman to be eligible for rush, she must have either a 2.0 p.r. cumulative or have had a 2.0 g.p.a. for the two consecutive semesters previous to this rush period.

She went on to stress the importance of individual decisions concerning which house to pledge. "Do not be swayed by your friends' opinions. You must be certain of your own choice." She warned girls to judge sororities objectively, without relying on gossip or hearsay. Finally she suggested that girls visit as many houses as possible during the rush period before making their final decision.

Girls Welcomed

The girls were also welcomed by the president, the vice-president and the other Panhel officers. Barbara Mohler, the president, explained the Panhellenic Post Office to the prospective rushees. It will be located in the HUB, and is the place where the girls will pick up their name tags for the round robin and open house parties, and the invitations for the other parties during the rush period. The girls will sign their preferentials there and will pick up their bids there the next morning.

Patricia Cleary, the vice-president spoke about the serious side of pledging. Pledging is a training period during which the pledges learn about their sorority. Miss Cleary reminded the girls of their obligations to their sorority as well as to themselves. "Every action of yours reflects either credit or discredit upon your sorority as well as upon yourself." Finally she reminded the girls of the high standards they will be expected to live up to. "A sorority is not merely a social organization. Each sorority member must set an example of loyalty to her institution, of worthy scholarship, and of high social standards."

The other officers of the Panhellenic Council welcoming the girls were: Linda Giles, corresponding secretary, Ethel Winters, recording secretary, and Barbara Steiner, treasurer.

The program continued with a fashion show illustrating the correct dress for the coming rush parties. Carol Harkabus modeled an appropriate outfit for one of the round robin parties. She wore a gold and green wrap-around skirt carried out with a head band and pocketbook. She wore a gold and black sweater with small white buttons at the gold knee socks and green corduroy sneakers.

Paula Pitkin modeled an outfit appropriate for the Saturday morning breakfast party. She wore sleek dark brown slacks, with a boat neck plaid tunic over a gold blouse. Her costume was accented by her gold desert boots.

Jane McDonald wore a dress appropriate for either the formal parties or for the informal coffees. She wore a black wool sheath accented at the waist by a black leather belt having a double breasted effect. Her accessories were a gold circle pin and gold bracelets. Her outfit was completed with black leather pumps.

The program concluded with an inter-sorority sing. A choral group consisting of four delegates from each of the nine sororities on campus sang a medley of songs consisting of one favorite song of each sorority.

Any girl who plans to rush this semester, may pick up name tag Monday, Feb. 27, in the Student Union Lobby from 1-4 P.M.

Recently, under the auspices of the Foster Parents' Plan, the sisters of Kappa Kappa Gamma adopted a young Greek girl. Irene Katidou was born on December 1, 1946. She is a native of Corinth and resides there with her parents and her sixteen year-old brother. She is a tall, graceful girl with glossy brown braids and an attractive, oval-shaped face.

Irene attends the Greek Gymnasium where she is in the second year. She is a conscientious student, and is particularly apt in the field of mathematics, and aspires to be a Civil Servant when she is older.

Mr. Katidou, a bus driver, became afflicted with T.B. in 1947 which required periodic hospitalization. In between the times he was hospitalized, he managed to provide his family with a simple but decent living. Presently, his health has deteriorated to the point where he is unable to work at all. Irene's mother is not able to work as she must stay at home and care for her husband and children. Thus, the family's sole source of support is the cash grant that Irene receives through PLAN.

Irene's family lives in a house consisting of one room, a hall and a kitchen. Their furniture consists of three beds, a table and some chairs. In the past, they have received such necessities as blankets, bedding and clothing from a previous foster parent.

The sisters of Kappa are proud to be able to continue this material assistance as well as monthly financial aid. While this material help is vital and is the main purpose of PLAN, it is surpassed by one of greater importance. That is, the feeling of warmth, friendship and reassurance that Irene has gained and that will increase through letters of friendship and interest.

J. Nichol
To Address
Students

A distinguished research physicist with Arthur D. Little Co., Cambridge, Mass., will deliver a public lecture at the University of Connecticut Friday at 4 p.m.

Dr. James Nichol will discuss "Super Conductivity and Electron Tunneling" when he delivers a Physics Seminar at UConn Physical Sciences Building.

A native of Dundee, Scotland, Dr. Nichol received his bachelor's degree from St. Andrews College in 1946, his master's degree from Union College and his doctorate from Ohio State University. While at Ohio State he was a Gardner-Cottrell Fellow and a DuPont Fellow.

A specialist in low temperature physics, Dr. Nichol's principal contributions have been made in the areas of thermoelectricity, super-conductivity and paramagnetic salts.

At UConn Friday he will explain the principles of certain microscopically thin films which are used as superconductors. These films show promise of practical application in the electronics field.

Limelight Tickets

There are still a limited number of tickets available to the Sunday afternoon performance of the Limelights. They are $1.50 at the Hub control desk.

Hungry I, they have appeared on the Dinah Shore Chevy Show, and the Perry Como Show. They have also appeared at the Hollywood Bowl.

An annual show by the Dolphinettes will climax the Winter Weekend activities. The theme of the show is "Intoxication charge is $75."

Dunlop Vetoes
IFC Motion

The I.F.C.'s motion on changing rush rules so that this semester's transfer would become eligible for rushing and pledging on the basis of entrance marks, as is the case with branchers, as vetoed by Mr. John Dunlop Tuesday afternoon.

Transfers, however, will be eligible for pledging after mid-semester marks are tabulated. One of the main reasons for dissolution of the motion by Mr. Dunlop, Tom Davis, president of the I.F.C., stated was the fact that rushing had already begun and that one does not just go and change the rush rules in the middle of such an operation so as to accommodate the special interests of a few.

The ruling for rushing transfers in the past has been that mid-semester grades must be submitted for each candidate before pledging him. Difficulty thus arises from the fact that rushing ensues this week and that tapping in next Tuesday, where as mid grades are not compiled until the end of March.

Fraternities however, will be allowed to submit the names of prospective pledges to Administration after mid-

Seaver To Talk At Conference

The power of the consumer in today's marketing system was stressed by Dr. Stanley K. Seaver, professor of Agricultural Economics at the University of Connecticut, at a conference on marketing policy held Tuesday in Raleigh, N.C.

Dr. Seaver presented his views on marketing to agricultural leaders from 11 Southern states who were in attendance at the conference sponsored by the Agricultural Policy Institute. The group met on the campus of North Carolina State College.

The University economist, in discussing the general function of the marketing system, emphasized the importance of the consumer. He pointed out that the consumer, although unrecognized, still holds the "veto power" in our marketing programs.

"Consumers," Dr. Seaver said, "now have greater political power than farmers in most state legislatures and in Congress." He added that it is surprising that farmers have not attempted to gain broader support for many marketing and farm programs since these programs are so dependent on government sanction and policies.

"Agriculture needs the support of consumers more than ever before in the development of politically acceptable and feasible programs," Dr. Seaver said. "Consumers are beginning to appraise all food programs more critically," he added.

In discussing the marketing program, Seaver told of the importance of bringing together the demands of the consumer and the production decisions of producers through the marketing system.

"The role of the marketing agency becomes crucial because the real function of our whole complex marketing system is to transfer the demands of the consumer back to the producer and to transfer the demands of the producer forward to the consumer," he stated.

If the system is to function, marketing agencies must tell producers what consumers want and consumers must know what producers have available, Seaver said.

Heeling Meeting

There will be a meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the Campus Newsroom, HUB 113, of all CDC heelers.

Michael Levy will conduct a "laboratory" session on news and feature writing; and CDC writing style will be discussed. Attendance is required of all heelers. Stories will be assigned to everyone.

The style book which all heelers should have in their possession by now, must be read before this session. Since the information in this booklet is pertinent, any questions about it which the heelers may have will be answered by the regular staff.

Guys, Dolls
To Hold
Tryouts

"Guys and Dolls" will be the second musical comedy to be produced by the Department of Speech and Drama in conjunction with the Department of Music.

Tryouts for the production will be held Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, March 1, 2, and 3 from 7 to 10 p.m. in Fine Arts 228. All UConn students, graduate or undergraduate are invited to try out for "Guys and Dolls."

"Guys and Dolls" was sighted by critic, Eric Bentley as "the best of all American musical comedies." After a fabulous Broadway run of several years it became a motion picture starring Marlon Brando as Sky Masterson, Frank Sinatra as Nathan Detroit, Vivian Blaine as Miss Adelaide, and Jean Simmons as Sarah the "missin' doll."

Peopled with Runyan characters of the Broadway milieu, "Guys and Dolls" combines the elements of story, song and dance. Here at UConn it will provide an opportunity for new people to participate in the fun of a musical comedy, for there are roles for 20 men and 15 women including a large variety of parts including a number of non-speaking roles such as a shadow boxing prizefighter, a rich Texas oilman, a flamboyant actor and actress, a blind beggar, a pickpocket, a flower vendor, a white line guide, a number of "bobby-soxers," and a fascinating group of "sharpies", mission dolls, gamblers, and night club cuties.

No previous training in singing or dancing is necessary in order to be eligible for the tryouts. Scripts of the book are available for reading in the reserve room of the general library, and copies of the music are available in the music library of the Fine Arts Building. The production will be staged by Professor Nafe E. Katter with musical direction by Professor Allan Gillespie.

Attention
Korean Veterans

Monthly certification of attendance forms must be completed at the Information desk at the Administration Building on February 28 or March 1 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 22 noon, and 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. The Veterans Administration will not release subsistence checks until these forms are completed. Please note that this is a change only in the location of where the forms must be completed.

Connecticut Daily Campus

"Serving Storrs Since 1896"

On A Certain House

"Operation Abolition", the controversial film of the San Francisco "riot" of a year ago will be presented soon on campus. We recommend that every student see this film when it is shown March 9.

Presented by the House Un-American Activities Committee this film has been both supported by and opposed by various groups throughout the country. Protest has arisen from every corner of the country, especially at college campuses where it has been shown. Editorial stands have been established at many universities for and against the film and the House Un-American Activities Committee.

At the present there are organizations formed which are campaigning for the undivided support of the Committee, and others which are campaigning just as hard against the Committee.

Unfortunately, too many people make rash opinions about controversial topics before they learn everything possible about them. During the past semester, the Daily Campus has attempted to print most of the opinions expressed by students, and articles received from members of the organizations fighting for and against the Committee.

In today's paper, an article on page one, presents an opposing view to the Committee. In the past we have presented opinions for the retention of this group. Up to the showing of this film, the Daily Campus will attempt to present further opinions on the committee or the film.

The night the film is shown, a debate for and against the retention and uses of this committee will be held. The Daily Campus will send reporters to cover this debate, and give an opportunity for all the students on campus to read why this Committee should be abolished or kept.

In the meantime, we would like to hear what you have to say about this committee. We will print letters received from students expressing opinions on this subject.

There has been much said about the Committee. We would like to learn what the opinions on this campus are. We have received a few letters about this matter (mostly opposing the Committee's work, and the film's presentation), and would gladly print more on the controversy.

Poor Souls

The Jungle is quiet. It is late at night. Only a few Souls are roaming. They are happy. It is late. A match is dropped into Paper. Fire leaps up to the sky. The Souls laugh. Fire is pretty. It casts long black shadows on the walls and ceilings. Yellow, orange, blue. Fire is beautiful. The Souls laugh heartier. Fire is bigger. The Souls laugh harder. Fire is very big.

Fire is too big. A fourth floor is on fire. The Souls run. Fire follows. The Souls run to the door. But Fire is there too. The Souls run to the other door. But Fire is there, too. They run to the window. They hear Sirens.

The Sirens come. Water comes. But the water is too far away. Water cannot be reached. The Souls scream. The Sirens come closer.

Fire is very big. The Sirens lift ladders. But the ladders are not high. They are not high enough to reach the Souls. Fire is all over. It is shaped like a horseshoe. It is not pretty.

More Sirens come. More ladders come. Now the ladders are tall enough. The Souls scream.

Water comes. More Sirens come. Fire gets smaller. The Souls scream. The Souls do not scream. Poor Souls.

Poor Souls. Fire leaves. Water stops. Sirens go away. Poor Souls.

King Of The World

The King of the World is coming today (we hope). Take this advantage to see him crowned King of UConn.

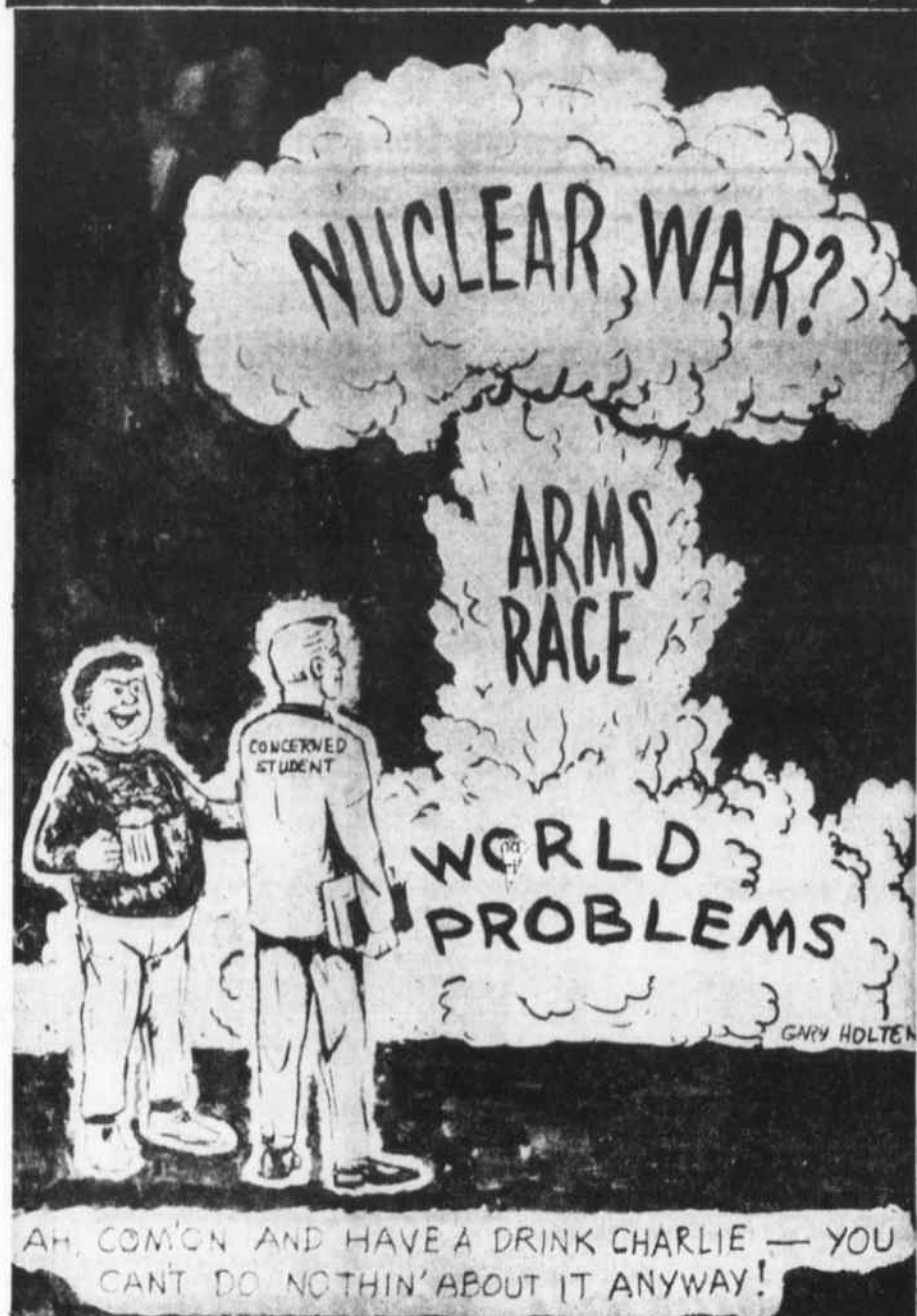

We wonder what President Jorgensen will say to this. After all, we always thought that the prexy was "King" of the UofC. Don't tell us this is his way of letting us know he is retiring?

Seriously though, we should all come out and see the "King" to find out what he has to say. He has declared himself to be a candidate for the presidency in 1964, and by that time all of us will be of voting age. Let's find out what his philosophies are so that we can make a proper decision when the time arises.

This may be our only chance to see a possible presidential candidate for the Presidency in the future. Let's take this opportunity to see him—today!

A View From The Hill

An Irregular Column

By MICHAEL LEVY

North Campus, lovingly referred to as the Jungle by its inmates, is, as I write, seized by a deadly calm. Gone are the screams and the sound of exchanged howls, bird and cat calls and relatively obscene social commentaries. Is this, the returning re-admit student asks, is this due to a spiritless group of Jungle-Bunnies? Is it that the boys are ashamed of their brute heritage?

It cannot be so, for the newer Greeks, (who are the men grown from the North's boys) seem to be making their quota of absurd cocophony.

No, the truth is that everyone is having a Spring feud with his room-mate. This is emotionally, intellectually and spiritually debilitating.

Something, somewhere, has gone dreadfully wrong. One would think that, after a semester (or more) of a pseudo-orientation, which separates the wheat from the chaff, the various individuals, together with their house-mothers and their house-mother-superior would have figured out some suitable arrangement for the pairing off of the Jungle-Bunnies. But, despite the IBMization of personalities, and the process of natural selection, one is led to believe that everyone, everywhere in North, has goofed.

This is entirely possible, and if not probable, could be turned into a swell plot by some aspiring playwright of manner-comedies. Anyway, I offer it as a limping explanation of the strange and terrible silence that permeates our beloved Jungle.

I for one, find the quietude distressing and study next to impossible. I know that an unsung historian once made a three-hour tape of the great Freshman Riot and Benny burning held by the class of sixty-two. I propose that WHUS obtain such, or some other, and pipe it into the North Campus transmitter, to be played at a pleasing personalized volume in each room. This will insure that there will always be a gentle undercurrent of noisome dissatisfaction in our each and every cell, and that—unlike the real McCoy—we will be able to keep the decibel-level down so that we won't be too distracted.

The Roving 'I'

by Peter Strong

"To be or not to be..." This is a question every college student, nay every person in America should ask himself. We live in an age in which the question of being can be settled for us in a matter of seconds by the push of a button. We especially, the college students of America, must grapple with this dilemma: Should we pursue a policy of unilateral disarmament, thereby facing the possibility of being brought under a foreign yoke; or, should we rather, in the hope of attaining bilateral disarmament with an unwilling enemy, build a huge, retali-

tory nuclear force, thus relegating security to the whim of a "panic button"? But why should you, a UConn student, worry about such weighty problems? Take the easy way out and do as the ostrich. Instead of worrying, stick your head into a hole. Maybe in this way you can hide from the uneasy fear of war. UConn students, among others, seem to be doing just that. I wonder how our ostrich would look, his head buried in a hole, and his body lying ten feet away, a charred, lifeless mass?

"King Of World" Slated To Arrive This Afternoon

By CAROL L'HEUREUX

The proposed visit of Bishop Homer A. Tomlinson, otherwise known as King of the World, should prove interesting, to say the least, if it ever comes off this afternoon.

As reported in Friday's Campus, the Bishop intends to make UConn the fourteenth in his series of fifteen visits of Eastern Universities, with the purpose of enlisting the aid of students in his campaign for the United States presidency in 1964.

According to this schedule, he will be here this afternoon at 4 p.m., conducting his "demonstration" at the main entrance to the campus.

Just exactly where the "main entrance" to the Storrs campus is, the Bishop did not say, however, he shouldn't be hard to miss, if you are really looking for him. According to the descriptions we have had, he will be wearing his "king of the world" robe (made by his wife from an Indian Sari), and will be carrying a portable throne, a 20-inch inflated globe of the world, and election banner—along with his crown (made of aluminum). Thus laden down, he should be easy to spot among the crowds of students. (See photo below.)

As far as we know, the "King" is definitely "for real". A former Moscow correspondent for the Associated Press reports that he was on the scene when Bishop Tomlinson proclaimed himself "Czar of Russia."

And the Boston Herald, commenting on the "disturbance" which the Bishop caused at Harvard when he was there last week, says it was nothing like the "riot" he caused two years ago in Addis Ababa when he proclaimed himself "King of Ethiopia."

In further commenting on Bishop Tomlinson's appearance at Harvard, the Herald says: "for a brief 10 minutes, the King of the World held sway at Harvard... to the delight of 100 students and the amused tolerance of the faculty."

"Then the campus cops moved in and Bishop Homer A. Tomlinson, his glittering robe, crown and royal standard tucked into a blue canvas carryall was ushered out to Quincy Street and down to Harvard Square."

"Press Conference" As it stands now, the Bishop's itinerary will be as follows: at 2 p.m. he will come to the editorial offices of the Daily Campus, where he will hold a news conference. He will discuss his proposed program, which involves getting himself elected president of all the countries of the world, thereby becoming "King of the World."

After the "press conference", he will hold his coronation ceremony at 4 p.m. At the "main entrance" to the campus, he will set up his standard, open his portable throne, gather his royal robe about him, and place his crown upon his own head, proclaiming himself

"King of the University of Connecticut."

He has done this before the capitols of 101 nations and 50 states, the Bishop says, and also 13 colleges and universities. He has great hopes for the youth of this and other countries, the Bishop says, and sees in them the "promise of future greatness."

Following his coronation, the Bishop hopes to lead his newly-won followers in a prayer and parade for world peace through the Church of God.

Along with the parade and demonstration, Bishop Tomlinson will reaffirm his active candidacy for the United States presidency, speak on the subject of world peace and how it can be achieved, and try to enlist the wholehearted support of the student body.

"Won More..."

However, he has already won much more than the presidency, the Bishop says, for "the stone which the prophet Daniel saw cut out of a mountain without hands has now come into view, even now begins to fall upon the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver and the gold of earthly kingdoms."

"The end shall carry those kingdoms away as the chaff from the summer threshing floor. It could never be too important that I should be chosen U.S. President, but it is of utmost importance that the stone start down the mountain... for it shall fill the whole earth, it is the kingdom of God, and it shall never be destroyed."

Although of fairly recent origin, his movement has gained a great deal of support, the Bishop contends. It has toured several countries in its three-year campaign, has appeared in all of the states, and is conducting the present college tour as a follow-up to its tour of southern and mid-western churches and colleges in December of last year.

While the Bishop's publicity methods may be a little flamboyant, and his ultimate goal rather impractical, we are willing to listen to anyone who claims he has the answer to world peace.

Guess Who?

The CDC regrets to announce that it has made a very sad blunder. In yesterday's issue, we did not make a single mention of a national event. It was, despite regular classes, George Washington's birthday. Happy belated birthday, Mr. Washington! We are sorry, DAR. Mr. Washington was an Early Virginia farmer and sometime surveyor.

Darjeeling, India, (AP) — Two Australians have torn one of the veils from the mysterious East.

DRESSED IN FULL REGALIA and waving his election banner, Bishop Homer A. Tomlinson, candidate for King of the World, is shown arriving at Quito, Puerto Rico, where he was met by "Scores of students from San Juan University" who were vaccinated so they could come plane side on his arrival in Puerto Rico.

UConn students won't even have to be vaccinated to see the King — he will be here (he claims) at 4 p.m. to appeal to UConn students to vote for him in the 1964 presidential race.

The Bishop also intends to hold an outdoor "demonstration", which, curiously enough, seems to have aroused the interest of the campus Security department.

Flood Waters Threaten Sections Of Alabama

(AP) — Swelling streams forced families from their homes in some sections of the Southeast today and rescue teams stood ready to evacuate owners as heavy rains posed a serious flood threat.

Thunderstorms thrashed over Birmingham, Ala., during the day, capping a heavy overnight rainfall and leaving some streets under 6 feet of water.

The Red Cross estimates that nearly 1,000 persons have had to flee their homes in the Birmingham area and says its centers are caring for about 300. One section of Jefferson County, near the city, reported 5.63 inches of rain in the 24 hours ended at noon today and said rain had been falling steadily ever since.

The weather bureau forecasts one an a half to 2 inches of rain for north and central Alabama tonight and tomorrow. Rivers already above flood stage include the Tombigbee at Demopolis, the Warrior at Tuscaloosa and the Cahaba at Centerville. All others in north and central Alabama are approaching flood stage.

About 100 families have been evacuated at Anniston and a few north of Montgomery. Oneonta, in northwest Alabama, reported 8.72 inches of rain in 72 hours but so far, no flooding.

Amphibious and air workers the Mississippi National Guard were alerted for rescue duty after a number of families left dwellings in the business section of Cleveland, Mississippi, where classes were suspended at Delta State College.

Connecticut News And Notices--AP

By Associated Press

Waterbury workers of the Connecticut Railway and Light Company will vote tonight on whether they will call a strike against the bus company.

Since contract negotiations were broken off last Saturday, union members in the Bridgeport, Norwalk and New Britain divisions voted for a strike.

If Waterbury does too, the strike will begin no later than Monday after 48 hour notice is given. The pending walkout would affect some 70,000 persons in the 4 divisions.

Rail Unions

A Providence newspaper said today that railroad unions have been asked to cut so-called feather bedding on New Haven railroad crews. ANI an Interstate committee appointed by the governors of Connecticut, New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island is reported to have made the request in order to cut operating costs for the New Haven. The committee is also said to have asked the unions to accept wage cuts. Some union officials are alleged to have bitterly opposed the committee proposals, while others were willing to consider them.

A spokesman for New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller declined to comment on the conference.

Commuters

Twenty to 25,000 Connecticut residents who commute to their jobs in New York will be relieved of 5 million dollars in New York income taxes if a tax relief measure is passed by the New York Assembly. The House in Albany approved the measure today, and the State Senate will vote on the House bill Monday. The measure will give non-resident workers the same state income tax exemptions that New Yorkers have.

Girl Dies

A 16-year-old East Hampton girl was fatally injured today when a car went out of control and struck a tree. Ann Cavanaugh was riding in a car driven by 17-year-old Robert Salsus, also of East Hampton, when the accident occurred. Salsus is reported in fair condition, but his Cavanaugh died on the way to a Middletown hospital.

Reischauer Appointment

Diplomatic sources in Washington say President Kennedy is going ahead with his plan to appoint Harvard Professor Edwin Reischauer as Ambassador to Japan. A controversial factor in the professor's marriage to a Japanese writer. But agreement of Tokyo to the appointment is expected within a few days.

Student Union Activities Set For Winter Weekend

Rain bears the ground; and the snow runs away into the gutter, its opportunity lost to become a beautiful face, or a lock of hair in a snow sculpture. Uconn's winter weekend took on a dismal look along with the inclement weather that hit the school over the weekend.

Many fraternities had made some preparations for such an incident, and mounds of dejected snow now sag in the sunlight. It looks like snow caravans will be seen later in the week, trying to inflate the ego of those snow piles.

Winter Weekend

Winter Weekend is probably the grandest production that the B.O.G. presents at our campus. It is the product of hours of concentrated work which are intermingled with moments of despair and moments of true joy. The attempt to get people to come to the events of the weekend is one of the tasks of the publicity committee.

The publicity committee for the weekend have made several very catchy posters, which brighten up the student union entryway. Maybe with some help from old man winter, the themes of those wintery posters will come true, and our weekend will become a real winter holiday.

Fire and Ice

"Fire and Ice" seems to be a difficult theme around which to base snow sculptures. For some reason the two just don't integrate with one another. Mathematically fire and ice equal water, and it would be fairly difficult to create a sculpture from water. Anyway, bigger minds have larger capacities for better ideas. Surely there will be numerous brilliant artistic designs that will enhance the weekend spectacle.

Many "suitcases" will undoubtedly miss this occasion that always brings a large number of students to a very close feeling of collegiate spirit and a sense of being a part of college life.

Friendly Ray

(AP)—Ray Felix of the Los Angeles Lakers, was fined $150 by Maurice Polloff, president of the National Basketball Association in New York today. Felix was penalized for his conduct in a game at Cincinnati last Sunday.

Project Mercury Director Says Capsule Successful

A.P. Briefs

Fifty persons have been injured in the derailment near Buffalo, North Dakota, of the Northern Pacific Railroad's "Mainstreeter" passenger train. Fifteen to 20 of the injured are said to be seriously hurt, the others suffering mainly from shock. No fatalities are reported.

President Kennedy has appointed a 3-member commission of university professors to look into the strike of flight engineers which has closed down 3 major airlines and all but shut down 3 others. The administration also has appealed for an end to the strike.

The National Space Agency has picked three astronauts to undergo final training to become the first American space traveler. The move was announced after a space vehicle had been sent aloft from Cape Canaveral and subjected to a severe but successful test. Indications are that the initial manned flight will come within a few months.

An equipment malfunction has spoiled Air Force plans to recover the space capsule of Discoverer number 20. The recovery attempt had been scheduled for late this afternoon in the Pacific off Hawaii. But the try has been abandoned.

Final action by the House Ways and Means Committee is expected tomorrow on a bill to make almost one billion dollars available for extra unemployment payments for those who have used up their benefits. The committee is understood today to have agreed on an increase in the unemployment insurance tax rate, limited to two years.

This is disclosed in the wake of President Kennedy's priority list of 16 bills given to Democratic leaders after a White House conference. Congressional chiefs promised speedy action.

The AFL-CIO has announced its own anti-recession program. In Miami Beach, President George Meany said unions are preparing to stimulate home construction by shifting one billion dollars or more worth of union assets from stocks and bonds into middle income home mortgages.

Secretary-General Hammarskjold has asked for additional United Nations troops to implement the new Security Council plan aimed at preventing civil war in the Congo. Earlier, Katanga President Tshombe ordered general mobilization to oppose the United Nations resolution.

A new crisis is shaking another large section of Africa. The premier of the Central African Federation, Sir Roy Welensky, has rejected the British government's proposals for a new constitution for Northern Rhodesia. Troops throughout the vast Rhodesian Federation have been called out amid fears that the break-up of the federation is imminent.

A British television company has announced plans for the first live TV hookup between London and Moscow. Between May 19th and June 4th, the British trade fair in Moscow and other features from the Soviet capital will be screened throughout Britain.

The government of Bolivia has declared a state of siege, citing Communist and opposition party subversion. It indicated several opposition party leaders have been arrested.

The director of Project Mercury, Robert Gilruth, said the bell-shaped capsule apparently came through the tortuous test in excellent shape. He said temperatures inside the capsule did not exceed 90 degrees, despite the blistering exterior heat.

A helicopter fished the capsule from the sea and deposited it on the deck of the recovery ship "U. S. S. Donner" — just 56 minutes after the Atlas blasted off from Cape Canaveral.

Gilruth told newsmen selection of the 3 based on a study of medical and technical information accumulated in the 22-month training program. He emphasized that all 7 of the Mercury pilots are still eligible for later flights.

One of the 3 named today — 37-year-old Alan Shepard — said he was asked at one point in today's flight whether he'd rather be on board in the cockpit. He said his answer was: "You bet."

Astronauts Not Afraid

None of the Astronauts has ever expressed the slightest fear of taking a rocket ride. Thirty-nine-year-old John Glenn — also selected today — once said in an interview: "If you didn't know what to expect you would be like the Ubangis in mid-Africa, suspicious of everything, jumping at every leaf that moves. When you are educated, you are no longer fearful."

The flight one of the 3 is expected to take will be similar to that which "Ham" — chimpanzee — survived on January 31st. Ham rode 156 miles into space and 414 miles downrange. His capsule was boosted by a Redstone rocket, smaller than the Atlas used today.

Following the first, comparatively short, man-in-space flight, two or 2 manned Redstone flights, and a series of Atlas-capsule launches, are planned before one of the Astronauts is flung into orbit.

Three Times Around The World

The orbital flight would send the man 3 times around the world in 4 and one-half hours, at an incredible speed of 17,400 miles an hour. It is planned to follow the first, comparatively short, man-in-space flight, two or 2 manned Redstone flights, and a series of Atlas-capsule launches, are planned before one of the Astronauts is flung into orbit.

The Central Government of the Congo has denounced the new United Nations peace plan for the troubled country. Premier Joseph Ileo said in Leopoldville that any U.N. move to disarm the Congolese would be a declaration of war. And he added:

"We are ready to defend ourselves with all means at our disposal. If the U. N. uses force, we will reply with force."

Ileo's sharp reaction to the Security Council plan came as a surprise. He particularly attacked the proposals for reorganizing the Congolese military forces and for giving U. N. troops the right to use force if necessary to prevent civil war.

In Katanga

Meantime, in Katanga Province, the bitter reaction to the U.N. plan has eased somewhat. Katanga President Moise Tshombe said his government and the U. N. command have agreed to freeze all troops to their present positions to prevent friction. Only yesterday he had defied the U. N. and ordered a general mobilization.

In another Congo development, British diplomatic sources in London said 15 Congolese were sent before a firing squad in the Stanleyville area to avenge the slaying of ex-premier Lumumba. The men reported executed were described as political opponents of the pro-Lumumba group centered in Stanleyville.

Limeliter: Highlight One Member

When Glenn Yarborough joined the Limeliter, he had already established himself as an outstanding single night club act at the Gate of Horn in Chicago, Cosmo Alley in Los Angeles and the Limelite in Aspen, Colorado.

An Elektra recording artist with 3 LP's to his credit, Glenn has won critical and public raves for his versions of "Molly Malone" and "When I First Came to This Land" with the Limeliter. Enrico Banducci, owner of San Francisco's famous hungry i said, "I must have had fifty 'folk' singers in my club, all of them singing 'Molly Malone' but I never really heard the song until Glen Yarborough sang it!"

Classical

On the stand, 29 year old Glenn plays the classical guitar and is the main solo singing voice of the group. A lyric tenor with unusual clarity and warmth, Glen approaches a song with effortless poise and a refreshing air of relaxed affection. The audience response is immediate and overwhelming for it is obvious to all that here is an artist who simply loves to sing.

Like his colleagues in the Limeliter, Glenn's career has been fascinatingly checkered and distinctive. He attended St. John's College in Annapolis (the "Great Books" College of legendary intellectual toughness) and studied philosophy at Mexico City College. In 1955 he was night bouncer in a New York City hotel and studied classical Greek by day. Opening as a single in Aspen's Limelite, he eventually bought the club.

As one would expect, Glenn lives quietly in Aspen, Colorado with stacks of Sinatra and Burl Ives records.

orbit a chimpanzee before sending a man on such a flight, possibly late this year.

The Mother of one of the men named today — Mrs. Dennis Grissom of Mitchell, Indiana, moaned "Oh, no!" when told of her son's selection. She said she had been hoping and praying he wouldn't be the one. But then she added: "I'll be more than proud if everything turns out all right."

The Father of Alan Shepard Jr. — an insurance executive in Derby, New Hampshire, — said he and the boy's Mother are confident the government will take every possible precaution when the flight is made, so that there will be no undue risk involved.

Astronauts Skilled

All of the Astronauts are veteran military test pilots, skilled in flying all types of aircraft for the design engineers.

All 3 named today are married and have children.

Glenn, a Marine fighter pilot, distinguished Flying Cross 5 times. He flew 59 combat missions in World War II and 70 in Korea.

Grissom flew 100 missions in Korea and also holds the Distinguished Flying Cross. Shepard, a Naval Academy Graduate, is a veteran of World War II sea duty aboard a destroyer.

How does it feel to be among the select? Glenn once said: "We are catching the glory, but we are just front men for a tremendous amount of brain work... It is a big deal for the first man, but the importance of the mission transcends any individual performance."

Congo Says UN Plan No Good

The Central Government of the Congo has denounced the new United Nations peace plan for the troubled country. Premier Joseph Ileo said in Leopoldville that any U.N. move to disarm the Congolese would be a declaration of war. And he added:

Aquapups Lose; Tyler Stars

By PURTILL

Going into the last lap of their season, the Uconn Frosh lost the toughest meet of the year of the speedy Williston Academy team. The excitement of the meet went down to the last relay, which Williston won, making the score 40-36 and bringing the Uconn won-lost record to 9-2.

Williston's main strength lay in two sprinters; Doug Morris and Duff Tyler.

Morris, the number two sprinter and a former teammate of Frosh Freestyler Bill Keiser, won the fast fifty yard freestyle event. In the freestyle relay, Doug balanced Uconn's five yard lead and evened things up for teammate Tyler.

The other significant Williston swimmer, Dave "Duff" Tyler, won Hartford, Conn., holder of the National High School Record in the 50, 100 and 200 yards freestyle, won the 100 free with a fast 51 sec. time. This is faster than any time ever recorded by any member of this year's Freshman team. In the freestyle relay, Duff won the race in what amounted to a man-to-man contest between him and Conn. distance man Ami Trauber. As a result of his swimming ability, Tyler will swim for the almost unbeatable Yale team next year.

New Record

For the Uconn's versatile Bill McCollom broke his own freshman record in the 200 yard individual medley, to set a new mark of 2:19.3. His former time was 2:19.9, set January 7, against Rutgers. Bill's prospects look good for next year; he will probably take over in the medley for Jerry Prior and Capt. Neate McGarry who will graduate this June.

Also for the Husky Freshmen, Bob Laramy stroked in ahead of the opponents in 1:12.1. Bob has been one of the consistent Uconn winners throughout the season.

Gary Orefice, the rapidly improving Freshman sprinter, placed second after Doug Morris in the 50 yard event, and gave the Uconn a good lead at the beginning of the freestyle relay, only to see it lost to fast-churning Morris later in the race.

Uconn's imported swimmer, Ami Trauber, a former member of the Israel Olympic Swimming Team, stroked in his relaxed style and beat his competitors in the 200 yard freestyle with a time of 2:01.7, 3/10 of a second off the Freshman record. The chances are good that Ami will break the record in the team's next meet.

Friday, the Frosh will travel with the Varsity to Providence to swim the highly touted Brown swimmers.

Winter Weekend Sports Program

With the Varsity cage squad home meets scheduled for this weekend.

Wrestling
The wrestling team, led by Coach Jay Capron, will initiate the activity on Friday afternoon at 3 p.m. in the fieldhouse. Although the season has not proved too fruitful so far, the team has high hopes of victory as it hosts the University of Hartford.

The team is led by Captain Al Constantine, senior Denny Twiss, and promising young member of the sophomore squad Fred Curry. Many are underclassmen and the team is being built for expected successes in the future.

Squash Team
A 4 p.m. on Friday, just in case you get tired of watching wrestling, the squash courts ham University team. If you will be invaded by the Ford can find your way down there you might enjoy the match.

Boston College in Track
Saturday afternoon the scene shifts back to the fieldhouse where Coach Lloyd Duff's track team, in quest of its first win in three outings, plays host to the Boston College indoor track team. In addition, the Frosh track team, which appears to have several promising candidates for next year's varsity squad, tangles with the B. C. frosh.

Fenced In At 2
A fencing meet which was originally scheduled to be held in New York (as indicated in your Winter Athletic Schedule) will round out the weekend's activities. The invaders in this case will be Pace College of New York. The meet is scheduled for 2 p.m. En Garde!

Off the Boards
In the rebound department it's Bob Haines and Dave King leading the pack with Pete Kelly close behind. Haines is averaging 9.3 a game and King has snared 8.1. George Uhl leads the backcourt men in that department with 3.9.

The Uconn's have hit 66.3 from the charity stripe but have pulled their average down with poor showings from the line in their last three contests. Comey, Carlson, and Gerry Manning are all hitting 75% or better.

Just About Even
The team statistics are accurately reflected in the Huskies' 11-10 season record. They have scored one less point than the opposition in 21 games, being one per cent less prolific from both the floor and the foul line than have their opponents. They have also averaged only one more rebound per game more than the opposition.

Are You Kidding Me?
Incidentally, for those of you who were wondering, the Holy Cross ace Jack "The Shot" Foley, who almost demoralized the Huskies single-handedly, hit 14 for 19 shots from the floor and canned 5 free throws to finish with 33 points. His shooting percentage was 73.7%.

SMILING SOPH — Gerry Manning, a 6'6", 195 lb. forward replacement for Hugh Greer's cagers, started out the season like he was going to rule the backboards. He was playing excellent ball up to the Drake game in the Queen City Tourney. Then he injured his ankle and this injury has come back to haunt him the rest of the season. Despite this handicap Gerry ranks up there with the team's top rebounders. Blessed with good speed, and a fine corner shot, Manning is sure to be a great asset to next year's veteran Husky squad. U.S. Behind In Olympics

The United States faces host of athletes to compete trouble again in the 1964 Olympic Games at Tokyo.

This is a prediction made by Boston University track official Ed Flanagan. He tutors our number one high jumper, John Thomas and hammer thrower Harold Connolly.

Numerical Strength
Flanagan made his prediction after talking to Russian track and field officials. The Boston U. expert says Russian, German and Japanese trackmen are prepared to overwhelm the United States through sheer numerical strength and power.

As an example, Flanagan points out that the Russians have 800 expert hammer throwers. They also told him that in Russia, there are at least 10 high jumpers, who can clear 7 feet. Germany and Japan also are grooming a

Murals

By Ned Parker

The intramural bowling tournament started out as a small idea but has grown into one of the most popular items of the winter intramural program. A total of 48 bowling teams have been registered at the Willimantic Bowling Alleys, a total of 480 people. This means that a total of 240 of these 480 bowl at least once a week. Last night the fraternities bowled, the second set of games even though several of the fraternity teams had been bowling for several weeks before this.

PSI, CHI TOP LEAGUE

Zeta Psi and Delta Chi are the two top teams in the fraternity league, Zeta Psi is undefeated with a 12-0 record while Delta Chi has but one loss and a 15-1 record.

The intramural basketball season is rapidly reaching its finish with the last games due to be played Tuesday February 28. Many of you are probably wondering how the CIT will be arranged this year and when it will be played. The final details have not been worked out yet but the Tournament date has been tentatively set for March. In case anybody is wondering, the CIT is a basketball tournament set up by the Daily Campus and the intramural program. A very large trophy is supplied to the winner by the Daily Campus sports department and the winner of the CIT is officially declared the top intramural basketball team on campus.

The tournament will probably be a double elimination type with the winner of the winners' bracket playing the winner of the losers' bracket. These semi-final games will decide the top fraternity and the top independent teams, they will then play in the finals to decide the top team on campus. As can be seen there will be two double elimination tournaments for the independents and one for the fraternities.

AIR YOUR GRIPES

Tentatively, teams that end the season with a record of 50 per cent or better will automatically be in the tournaments. This is to cut out some of the really poor teams and to eliminate the field to a workable size. I want to stress the fact that these are only some tentative plans and not necessarily how the tournament will be run. If anyone has any ideas, comments, or criticism of this system he should voice them to his intramural representative or to one of the members of the intramural department.

There will be a meeting of the intramural council Thursday, March 2nd at which time the final details will be announced for the CIT and entry forms will be given out for the indoor track, as well as the newly inaugurated weight lifting and gymnastics programs.

INTRAMURAL FEED

The proposed intramural banquet will also be discussed. Such questions as: the best time, place, date, who pays, who should be invited, and possible entertainment will be decided upon. The intramural banquet, proposed by Dr. Bailey, would take place sometime near the end of the semester after all the intramural events are completed. At the banquet the All-Sports trophies would be presented as well as all individual and house awards.

Following the council meeting instruction will be given, from 9-10, on techniques of weightlifting for the weightlifting meet that was added to the intramural program at the last meeting of the council. The instructions will be held in the wrestling room as well as the meet that has been planned for Thursday, March 9 from 7-10 p.m. There are six classes in the meet, they are: 123 lb., 132 lb., 148 lb., 165 lb., 181 lb., and the unlimited class. Each living unit may enter two men in each of the six classes for a total of twelve entries. The three olympic lifts (military, press, snatch, and clean and jerk) will be contested. The entry deadline for the weightlifting meet is Friday, March 3, at 4:00 p.m.

GYMNASTICS TOO

The other new event on the calendar is a gymnastics meet that will be held Thursday, March 16, 7-10 p.m. Instruction will be held from 8-9 p.m. March 2nd just before the weightlifting instructions. Each living unit will be allowed to enter one team in the gym meet. Each team will consist of six members who must perform in all events except the double balancing where each team will be represented by one pair.

The six events will be run off in the following order: (1) Low bar, (2) Low parallel bars, (2) Tumbling, (4) Balancing, (5) Double balancing, and (6) The rope climb. In tumbling each will have to do three forward rolls to a head balance and a front hand-spring. The low bar will feature a short underswing for distance while on the low parallel bars the contestants will have to do a hand balance for time. In balancing the event will be a hand walk for distance and the doubles balancing will be a shoulder-hand-knee balance to shoulder to shoulder and forward roll for score. The rope climb will be a twenty foot rope climb for time. The scoring will be rated by a judge, provided by the intramural office, on the basis of form and continuity on a scale of 6-100 points.

BALEY'S BRAINCHILD

The gymnastics and weightlifting meets were proposed by Dr. Baley because he felt that there was significant interest on campus in these events to hold the meets. Anyone interested should see his intramural representative for entry forms and go to the training session for the event. Incidentally both independents and fraternity members will compete on the same nights in the above events but not against each other. The entry deadline for the events is March 3rd.

"A GUIDE FOR THE DATELESS"

With the cost of dating rising higher and higher it is no wonder that so many of us men are turning to discs throwing. Naturally, we would prefer nuzzling warm coeds to flinging cold discs, but who's got that kind of money? Prices being what they are, the average man today has a simple choice: dating or eating.

Unless the average man happens to be Finster Sigafos. Finster came to college with the normal ambition of any average man: he wanted to find the prettiest coed on campus and make her his. He looked long and carefully, and at last he found her—a tall job named Kretchma Inskip, with hair like beaten gold.

He asked her for a date. She accepted. He appeared at her sorority house that night, smiling, eager, and carrying a bouquet of modestly priced flowers.

"Now then," said Kretchma, tossing the sleazy flora to a pledge, "where are we going tonight?"

Finster was a man short on cash, but long on ideas. He had prepared an attractive plan for this evening. "How would you like to go out to the Ag campus and see the milking machine?" he asked.

"Ick," she replied.

"Well, what would you like to do?" he asked.

"Come," said she, "to a funny little place I know just outside of town."

And away they went.

The place was Millionaires Roost, a simple country inn made of solid ivory. It was filled with beautiful ladies in backless gowns, handsome men in dickies. Original Rembrandts adorned the walls. Marlboro trays adorned the cigarette girls. Chained to each table was a gypsy violinist.

Finster and Kretchma were seated. "I," said Kretchma to the waiter, "will start with shrimps remoulade. Then I will have lobster and capon in maderia sauce with asparagus spears. For dessert I will have melon stuffed with money."

"And you, Sir?" said the waiter to Finster.

"Just bring me a pack of Marlboros," replied Finster, "for if ever a man needed to settle back and enjoy the mild beneficence of choice tobacco and easy-drawing filtration, it is the shattered hulk you see before you now."

So, smoking the best of all possible cigarettes, Finster watched Kretchma ingest her meal and calculated that every time her fetching young Adam's apple rose and fell, he was out another 97¢. Then he took her home.

It was while saying goodnight that Finster got his brilliant idea. "Listen!" he cried excitedly. "I just had a wonderful notion. Next time we go out, let's go Dutch treat!"

By way of reply, Kretchma slashed him across the face with her housemother and stormed into the house.

"Well, the heck with her," said Finster to himself. "She is just a gold digger and I am well rid of her. I am sure there are many girls just as beautiful as Kretchma who will understand the justice of my position. For after all, girls get as much money from home as men, so what could be more fair than sharing expenses on a date?"

With good heart and high hopes, Finster began a search for a girl who would appreciate the equity of Dutch treat, and you will be pleased to hear that he soon found one—Mary Alice Hematoma, a lovely three-legged girl with sideburns.

We're no experts on Dutch treat, but here's an American treat we recommend with enthusiasm—Marlboro's popular new partner for non-filter smokers—the Philip Morris Commander.
