

Senator Kennedy Elected; Youngest Man, 1st Catholic

Nov. 7—(AP)—Senator John Kennedy has been elected President of the United States, in the closest election since 1880. Vice-President Nixon conceded defeat today (12:47 p.m., E.S.T.), after the state of Minnesota swung to Kennedy. This put the senator over the required electoral majority. At 43, Kennedy is the youngest man ever elected—and the first Roman Catholic.

It appeared by midafternoon that Kennedy might end up with 338 electoral votes. He has 22 states with 299, and is leading in 3 undecided states—California, Alaska and New Mexico. They have 59 more. Nixon carried 24 states with 185 votes.

All night long the election victory eluded Kennedy. His electoral score remained a few votes shy of the needed 269. And as the night wore on, and then the morning, the Kennedy lead began to wither away in state after state.

Finally the nation watched Illinois, Minnesota and California, where rural votes slowly nibbled into the Kennedy totals.

It was all over when Minnesota became clearly Kennedy's. Then the arithmetic of the electoral college had given the answer.

The popular vote also gave the election high suspense. At last count, Kennedy had a little over 32 million votes. Nixon had just over 31 million, 700-thousand. In terms of percentage, Kennedy had 50-point-3, Nixon 49-point-7. In 1880, James Garfield defeated Winfield Hancock by only 7,000 votes out of nearly 9 million—a difference of less than one tenth of one per cent.

Kennedy is expected to name his choice for Secretary of State fairly soon, in order to establish foreign policy liaison with the outgoing administration. President Eisenhower has promised full cooperation in cushioning the changing of power. Kennedy has given no public indication of whom he will select.

President Eisenhower sent a congratulatory telegram to Kennedy shortly after Nixon had conceded. Eisenhower informed Kennedy that he will have some suggestions for the transition period to a new administration. The President also sent a telegram to Nixon. He said: "Your hard-fought courageous campaign to carry forward the principles of sound government will have my lasting respect." Nixon is flying from Los Angeles to Washington this afternoon.

The President sent a message of congratulation to Senator Lyndon Johnson—Vice-Presidential winner with Kennedy. And in Austin, Texas, Johnson made it clear that he will not resign from the Senate until after the new Congress is organized.

Congratulations also were sent to Kennedy by the defeated Vice-Presidential candidate, Henry Cabot Lodge. Another leading Republican, Governor Rockefeller of New York, said he is deeply disappointed, but that the people must unite behind the leader.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has cabled congratulations to President-elect Kennedy. Khrushchev said he hopes Soviet-American relations will again follow the line developed in the time of Franklin Roosevelt. He said, "we are convinced that there are no insurmountable obstacles to the preservation of peace."

Kennedy made his victory appearance today at the armory in Hyannis, Massachusetts, and promised to devote himself to the long range interests of the United States and to the cause of freedom around the world. His wife, Jacqueline, and other members of the Kennedy clan appeared with him. The President-elect said he will make no statement on appointments to the new Administration before Thanksgiving.

The Democrats maintained their control of Congress, although yielding 2 Senate seats and several in the House. This makes the ratio in the Senate 64 to 36. In 16 House races not yet decided, Democrats are ahead in 6 and Republicans in 10. The Democrats have elected 254 House members, the Republicans 167.

Democrats picked up control of one additional state governorship—giving them control of 34 of the 50 state administrations. This is the largest number of Democratic governors since the heyday of the New Deal.

State Clerks Meet On Campus

Town and city clerks from some 75 Connecticut communities converge on the UConn campus tomorrow for a two-day skunk session on problems of their profession.

Connecticut Chief Justice Raymond Baldwin will deliver the main address at the Annual Connecticut Town Clerks Conference. He will discuss the role of the "Town Clerk as a Municipal Officer." Friday at 10:30 a.m. in the United Nations Room of the Student Union. About 90 clerks are expected to hear his remarks.

Debate Club Takes SCSC Challenge

A practice debate, conducted by four members of the Debate Council, will be the feature of the group's weekly meeting tonight in HUB 207. Two members, Melvin Horn and Edwin Wolaki, will advocate that a program of compulsory health insurance for all citizens should be adopted, while Kaye Kros and Larry Moore will defend the negative side of the proposition.

The Debate Council has accepted an invitation from Central Connecticut State College to attend a tournament on their campus on Nov. 19. The tournament will consist of three rounds of debate, a coffee and luncheon, and an awards dinner.

Practice debates will be held during the next ten days to determine which students will represent the University at the tournament. This is the first intercollegiate debate tournament of the season for the UConn debaters. The students will be given an opportunity to try out the cases that they have been developing for the past several weeks.

Students Welcome

Mr. John Vlandis, Debate Coach, stressed the fact that the council's meetings are open to any student that would care to listen to a debate. He said, "It is still possible for students to join the Debate Council if they so desire. This is so because the debate season is spread out over the entire school year, with our training constantly going on."

"Therefore, any student who has not as yet had an opportunity to come out for debate is most welcome at any time."

Joining one of the debate teams is accomplished simply by expressing a desire to debate. The student will be assigned a partner in order to get him started, but the initial assignment is not binding.

Anyone having questions about membership in the Debate Council is welcome to attend a meeting and to speak with Mr. Vlandis. He is also available in his office in Fine Arts 258 any afternoon during the week and will answer any questions which students have about the Debate Council or debating.

Angel Flight Coffee Begins Fall Recruiting

Angel Flight recruiting for the fall semester will begin tonight with a coffee from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Warren Baker, Angel Flight advisor. This coffee is open to all freshmen, sophomore, and junior women on campus.

Angel Flight is a service organization on campus which is affiliated with the Arnold Air Society and the Air Force. Its primary purpose is to aid the progress of the Arnold Air Society and the University of Connecticut. Angel Flight is

Cadets Promoted

Eleven University of Connecticut Army ROTC cadets have been promoted to top-ranking posts in the AROTC Brigade, Col. George H. Gerhart, professor of military science announced today.

Robert F. Richfield, Peter A. Markham, and Edward J. McDonald, were appointed colonels.

Cadet Richfield is Brigade commander, Cadet Markham is Second Battle Group commander, and Cadet McDonald is First Battle Group commander.

Promoted to the rank of major were:

John A. Sheehan, John A. Ricciardi, Lawrence J. Ryan, Jr., Eugene G. Glens, Frank D. Sheffey, Jr., Albert J. Browning, Jr., and Glenn W. Whitcher.

purely a service organization and members are not obligated in any way to join the Women's Air Force after graduation.

Act As Hostesses

Members of Angel Flight act as hostesses at affairs given by the Air Force and Arnold Air Society, and at the Military Day on campus. They will also be the official hostesses for President Jorgensen's Convocation on Saturday.

Other activities include trips to Westover Air Force Base, helping with the Military Ball, passing out programs at concerts in the Auditorium, and drilling and marching at the Armed Forces parade in Hartford.

Prospective members of the flight must be enrolled for a minimum of twelve credits in the University, and must show an interest in becoming a member of Angel Flight and in furthering the cause of the Arnold Air Society.

All prospective members must attend the coffee on Thursday night. The coffee will be held at Mrs. Baker's home on 7 Gilbert Road, which is the road between the South Campus dormitories and Humanities.

These girls must also attend a drill on November 17 and a meeting on December 1. The new members will be elected following the meeting on December 1.

All present members of the flight will be wearing their uniforms on campus on Wednesday and Thursday of this week because of the recruiting.

A new FM antenna has been installed by WHUS. Tom Scanlan, standing, and Dave Milson are preparing the brackets for the antenna. Along with the new equipment, WHUS announces the beginning of a new music series with Don Miller. The first program of the series, heard last night, featured folk music of many lands.

Phone Surveys Made On Campus

As a result of a series of complaints, the Office of Women's Housing, headed by Miss Joan McCall, initiated a campus-wide telephone survey. The complaints concerned: noise, the number of students using one phone, repeated number of trips necessary for the telephone company to install the telephones, and the late hours that telephones are ringing.

The information gathered in the survey includes: the number of telephones in each dormitory, the number of students using each telephone, the names of these students, and their semester standing.

The information was collected, "when each resident counselor felt that all the phones had been installed," stated Miss McCall. It will be evaluated as soon as time permits.

This survey is the first of the research projects concerning the dormitories.

D. Buchholz To Direct Dancing

Miss Dorothea Buchholz, a noted dancer and choreographer, is directing the dancing for the Speech and Drama's production of Romeo and Juliet, which opens in the Little Theatre on Monday, November 14, for a week's run. Miss Buchholz has studied with many of the leading dancers in the United States, and has taken several tours of the states and Canada as a solo dancer.

Miss Buchholz studied four years with Jose Limon, and in addition has been a student of Hanya Holm, Doris Humphrey, Louis Horst, Aubrey Hitchins, and Margaret Dietz. She assisted Mr. Limon in teaching in New York, Boston and Sarah Lawrence College, and has also taught in Toronto and at Stephens College. She has performed in many cities in the United States and Canada including a solo performance at Carnegie Hall in New York.

The dancing in Romeo and Juliet will include the Almen and Galliard, the most famous dances in Shakespeare's day. They will be done in the exact style of the sixteenth century. The music to be used for the dancing was written by John Dowland who lived in Shakespeare's time, and was the only musician ever directly mentioned by the bard. The music has been recorded by professional musicians using the lute and the recorder, two of the musical instruments used at this time.

Rush Registration

There will be a table set up in the HUB lobby this afternoon between 2 and 4 p.m. for any freshmen and transfer students who have not already registered for fraternity rush and desire to do so.

This will be the last opportunity to register and all freshmen and transfers who desire to pledge a fraternity this semester must register.

Baldwin Attends National Meeting In Cleveland, O.

Dr. Robert C. Baldwin, head of the Philosophy Department, is a member of the Commission on Church and Ministry of the United Church of Christ, which is meeting in Cleveland, Ohio, this week.

The meeting brings together some 30 representatives of Congregational, Christian and Evangelical and Reformed organizations concerned with the ministry. They have been meeting together semi-annually since 1957 when the United Church of Christ was formed by union of the General Council of the Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

One of the fruits of their cooperative efforts was the opening, this week in Cleveland, of the Church Vocations Office of the United Church of Christ, consolidating the work of the two denominations in recruiting and placing ministers and lay church workers. The Rev. Bruce G. Kriete heads the operation.

Annual Ball Will Feature Award Mug

Dance contests, featuring the foxtrot, waltz, cha-cha, mambo and lindy will highlight the annual Harvest Moon Ball Saturday evening, following the traditional Dad's Day football game.

UConn mugs will be given to the winners of the five dance contests. Each dancing partner will be awarded a mug, making a total of ten prize mugs.

Music for dancing from 8 p.m. to 12:30 in the HUB Ballroom will be furnished by the popular Edward Drew Band from Providence, Rhode Island. Frank Lewis, chairman of the ball, said that Drew played last year and met with a "very warm response from the crowd."

Lewis pointed out that students and parents alike are cordially invited to the annual affair, sponsored by the HUB Board of Governors. No tickets are necessary and "every-one is welcome."

AFT To Take Position On Staff Salaries Issue On Basis Of Questionnaire

The question of faculty and other professional staff salaries is the major concern of the University of Connecticut chapter of the American Federation of Teachers, the Daily Campus learned yesterday.

Round-Robin Parties Begin Fraternity Rush

The first open rush party of the Formal Rush Period was held last night from 7:30-10 p.m. at all fraternities. The next round-robin rush party will be held tonight at the same time.

Rush parties will also be held Monday and Tuesday of next week. These parties are also open to all rushees. Invitational rush parties will be held Wednesday and Thursday of next week. All rushees must receive invitations from the various fraternities in order to return to that house.

Invitations

Invitations are either delivered to the individual's room, or the rushee is invited back orally. The most common form of invitation is the regular written invitation.

Other invitation rush parties will be held Saturday, November 19 at 1 a.m. This is the invitational brunch party. The last invitational rush party will be held just before Thanksgiving vacation on Monday, November 21.

Silence period will be held for the three day period immediately after Thanksgiving, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday are silent days. At this time, no fraternity member is allowed to talk with a rushee.

Receptive Bids

Formal Tapping will take place on Tuesday, November 29 in the HUB Ballroom. At this time all rushees will be given their bids, and the rushee will sign the bid from the house of his choice. Pledging ceremonies at most fraternities will be held that Tuesday night.

In most cases the pledge period runs a minimum of eight weeks, during which time the pledge is introduced to the history and laws of the fraternity.

Talent Show Try-Outs To Begin Today In HUB

Try-outs will begin today for a talent show sponsored by the Student Union. Registration will take place at the HUB control desk.

The actual auditioning on November 21, will take place in the HUB Ballroom. Any group or individual is eligible to participate in the program.

The talent show, to be held on December 15, is under the chairmanship of Gerald Murchie of Sigma Phi Epsilon. He has announced that there will be no admission charged to those attending the performance.

Trophies will be awarded to the winner and the first and second runner-up. Judges will include members of the faculty.

Dorm Representatives

Committee members include: David Fass, Beta Sigma Gamma; William Peterson, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Michael Leahy, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Jean Colton, Merritt A.; Judy Thornhill, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Sandra Schatz, CEC; Thomas Alexander, New Haven Hall; Judy Buttner, Delta Pi; Andrea Forrest, Crawford D.

Marsha Harrington, Crawford D.; David Muller, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Rhea Weinstein, Crawford A.; and Joseph Clanchetti, Theta Sigma Chi.

Eastman Offers Job Possibilities; Cost Engineering

The Placement Office has information about an emerging career opportunity at Eastman Kodak labelled "cost engineering." With an academic background that has combined engineering and science with training in Business Administration including accounting, a position in cost engineering can offer a wide range of ground-floor opportunities.

As representatives to the manufacturing and service departments from the Comptroller's Division, the cost engineering assignments are broad in scope. Included among them might be special investigations into the justification of new investments, cost estimates of new products, the adaptation of data recording systems for new production methods or equipment, and the development of new or improved cost control programs for materials, labor, maintenance, waste, and other expenses.

Because of the nature of the work, a cost engineer must be inquisitive and imaginative as well as able to sell his ideas.

The article on "Cost Engineering at Eastman Kodak Company" may be of interest both to undergraduates who are planning courses leading to a career and to seniors who have combined business with engineering.

The Placement Office located in Koons 111 has a copy of the article.

Candidates To Attend Coffee

Candidates for this year's Coed Sponsor of the Pershing Rifles will attend a coffee tonight at Chi Phi 7:30 to 10 p.m. Five finalists will be chosen.

The five finalists will be presented Nov. 16 at 8:30 p.m. at the ROTC hangar.

The Sponsor's name will be announced at Pershing Rifles Honor Ball on Dec. 2 at the Shell Chateau Restaurant in Willimantic when new brothers will be installed.

The seven judges at the coffee tonight will be: Maj. Grossman, Air Force ROTC; Cpt. Hess, Army ROTC, co-advisors of Pershing Rifles. Also Cadet Cpt. Lawrence Herzog, Cadet 1st Lt. Louis Dirunze, Cadet 1st Lt. William Curran, all of Pershing Rifles, and Miss Jackie Daihale, present sponsor.

Ex-Student Killed

A former UConn student was one of two Air Force men killed Friday in the crash of a T-33 jet trainer at Enid, Oklahoma.

Francis J. Dings Jr., of New Hartford, was a graduate of Torrington High School, Class of 1958.

He attended UConn for one year before joining the Air Force cadet program from which he would have received his wings and commission in January.

Cadet Dings, 20, was engaged to Miss Nancy Bischoff, of Torrington, whom he planned to marry within a week.

Silver Convocation

Students and parents interested in obtaining tickets for President Albert N. Jorgensen's Silver Convocation, Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in the Auditorium, should contact Jan Thibault at 9-4493 or Ext. 444.

UConn To Honor Dads On Nov. 12

Dance contests are to be held for parents at the Harvest Moon Ball Saturday, November 12 at 8 p.m. as part of the 33rd annual Dad's Day program. The Ball, sponsored by the HUB Social Committee, will give Dad the opportunity to display his talents on the dance floor.

Dads are urged to register at the HUB main lobby from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Saturday. They will be presented with Dad's Day buttons and cigars. At 1:30 p.m. the UConn football team will meet the University of Rhode Island's team in Memorial Stadium. During half time the University Marching Band, under the direction of Mr. Allan Gillespie will present a "Salute to Dad."

Also on the Dad's Day agenda are living unit coffees, and a turkey dinner at a cost of $1.50 to be served from 11:15 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at Whitney Cafeteria and North Campus Dining Hall. Commens will not be open Saturday.

Elaine Perkins, Dad's Day chairman, stated that "plans are coming along well. We expect to have an excellent turnout and a wonderful time."

AMA To Tour G. Fox & Co. This Afternoon

The American Marketing Association has scheduled a tour of G. Fox & Co. for its members this afternoon. The tour will be the first in a series of field trips to be held this year.

G. Fox & Co. is one of the largest privately owned, independent department stores in the United States. The firm has a regular employee force of nearly 3,000 people, and serves more than 21,000 customers in the store on an average business day.

G. Fox & Co., long known as "The Center of Connecticut Living since 1847," has more than half the charge accounts held by residents who live outside the Hartford area. In addition, it is the only store of its size in the United States that has been in continual management of one family for more than 100 years.

The members will be directed through the store's many departments by Mrs. Ethel Fosbringer, director of executive training. The tour will concentrate on the non-selling functions and contributions of the service departments to the overall store.

Following the tour, the group will assemble for an informal question and answer session which will offer the members a chance to ask questions concerning the management of a large retail store.

Speaking Editorially

The Daily Campus is taking an editorial stand on campus elections. The results of the interviews now being held will be made known in editorial opinions about each candidate.

We believe that a stand should be made on campus politics since each and every student has the right to know exactly what the candidates say they will do for their class.

Through these editorials we will allow the student body to know what each candidate represents and his general knowledge of the campus in general.

The interviews are being supervised by an impartial board composed of members of the Editorial Board of the Daily Campus. Each candidate is interviewed by at least four people on this board who will then meet to make the final decision for our opinions.

When the Daily Campus made its opinion known two years ago on campus politics, much controversy was aroused.

We are justified in taking stands on these candidates for the good of all students. We will not be prejudiced in our opinions on each candidate, but will make an unbiased decision about each candidate.

The results of this poll will be printed in Monday and Tuesday's paper. We hope that the student body is in accord with the views of the Daily Campus, and that they make their opinion known on our recommendations.

Our recommendations will attempt to make decision only on the facts brought out at the interviews. Our general impression of each candidate must in some way enter our minds, but will be controlled by the facts presented.

We are doing a service to the students and we hope you take advantage of our articles in an unprejudiced manner, not making your decisions first. If this can be accomplished, then we will know that our work was not in vain.

Dear Clanleader

It is always a relief for me to observe the lack of prejudice which exists on the Uconn campus. For instance this morning I rose from bed, girded my loins with goatskins (for I am an independent), muttered a guttural greeting to my room-mate, and shambled down to breakfast.

As I swept into the eating area I snatched a copy of the Connecticut Daily Campus from the pile at the mouth of the cave and asked my den mother to read it to me. This morning's reading took only four minutes as contrasted with the usual seven. This was due largely to the litter on pages two, three, and four extolling the upcoming rush parties of Uconn's gentlemanly fraternities. Gentlemanly because of the existence of avowed "gentlemanly agreements".

I cite the University of New Hampshire campus newspaper:

"Due to a conflict over religious and racial restrictions, Sigma Beta fraternity (a fraternity on the University of New Hampshire campus) has withdrawn an application for membership in Sigma Phi Epsilon, one of the larger national fraternities. The heated decision came as a result of several months of discussions between the local fraternity and the restriction bound national."

It seems that the past president of Sigma Beta was of Jewish parentage, "and the qualifications of Sigma Phi Epsilon are that all members be white and of Christian birth."

"In 1959 Sigma Phi Epsilon removed from its constitution all clauses specifically stating the 'White Christian birth' restriction and replaced it with an unwritten 'gentlemanly agreement'. It was not made clear to Sigma Beta until recently just what the agreement entailed. In a letter from Mr. Richard F. Whitman, executive director of Sigma Phi Epsilon, it was specifically stated that 'We do not expect that the traditional character of our membership will change appreciably in the near future.' It was clarified that the traditional character meant in reality, 'white and of Christian birth.'"

Am I therefore to assume that the term gentleman is defined (by some fraternities at any rate) as a White male American of Christian parentage?

Excerpted from the editorial page of the aforementioned UNH journal:

"The sheer hypocrisy practiced so cleverly by such fraternities as Sigma Phi Epsilon is the kind of rubbish that gives every kind of fraternal organization in the world a bad name."

Moral: If at first you don't succeed—Cheat.

I suppose I should at least look with admiration at the way some fraternities stand against prejudice. (not to mention Negroes, Christians, Jews.) It should be obvious to even the most naive freshman that he may have been blackballed from the fraternity of his choice from the day of his birth.

It may be reasonably argued that a fraternity, by its very nature, is a selective organization, and that, as such, has the liberty to pick and choose its members by any standards it pleases. (Although this may defy litigation to the effect that organizations practicing sectarian discrimination are forbidden on the Uconn campus.) This may well be, but:

1. Tell people about it.
2. Be consistent.

Too often it is the case that the rushee, foiled in his efforts to cajole a bid out of one house, will accept the offer of another organization merely to secure the dubious privilege of anchoring a fraternity pin to his chest. Is young Rollo Figbar then joining together with a group of close friends into a brotherhood, or is he allying himself with the BMOG's who are members of the house (which has, to Rollo's way of thinking, at any rate, now become superior to the unit of his original choice.) that he might bask in their glory, and enjoy the prestige of being a member of the NLTs? (Nu Upsilon Tau fraternity.)

Urban Renewal— A Profit Raise Cross Places 3rd

Eighty-five out of every 100 small firms forced to relocate by urban renewal projects hike their profits after the move, according to research recently conducted by two University of Connecticut professors.

The study was one of several projects under way at Uconn and is financed by a $40,000 grant from the U.S. Small Business Administration.

In a report to the SBA on their study, Asso. Prof. William Kinnard and Prof. Zenon Malinowski also noted that 75 percent of the small businesses that have to pack up and leave because of urban renewal make the adjustment successfully.

The pair pointed out that urban redevelopment and urban renewal programs now embrace 661 projects throughout the nation. Some 100,000 firms, most of them small, have been affected.

The report was based on detailed analyses of business relocation in Hartford, New Haven and 11 other cities across the nation.

Offering their explanation of the failure by the 25,000-odd firms that went under, the Uconn business experts said:

1. Some firms were marginal or even sub-marginal at the outset and, when sub-standard quarters at substandard rates were denied them, they folded.

2. Many businesses were operated by elderly persons who did not, for one reason or another, go through the rigors of relocation.

3. Some small businessmen ran into special licensing or zoning restrictions.

4. Relocation payments in some instances were inadequate.

5. Occasionally firms failed to take advantage of technical assistance which was freely available.

6. Legal tangles often led to tenants paying double rent for a time.

Despite these factors and several others listed in the report the pair said:

"A mortality rate of 25 percent is substantially higher than that experienced by even smallest businesses in the entire United States or in selected areas."

"Such mortality among firms dislocated from redevelopment and renewal is a serious problem. Yet, it is perhaps not a great as mere numbers would seem to indicate."

The researchers also remarked that this relatively high mortality represents a cost that presently is almost completely ignored in assessing the costs of a project, or the distribution of these costs.

"There is serious question whether the losses incurred in such mortality should not be borne more heavily by 'the community at large,' they observed.

Businessmen faced with relocation, the report said, could increase their chances of survival by following these recommendations:

Work closely with redevelopment authorities and ignore rumors.

Carefully re-evaluate location and space needs.

Seek out financial and technical assistance—up to $3,000 under the Housing Act.

Copies of the small business study are available for reference in any of the Small Business Administration's 56 field offices, or may be purchased directly here.

Rare Transit Filmed By Uconn Grad

A rare "transit" of the planet Mercury across the sun was captured on film yesterday at 10:30 a.m. by a University of Connecticut graduate student.

David Flinchbaugh, a native of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., photographed the astronomical phenomenon at the Wormwood Hill Observatory of Dr. Edgar Everhart, Uconn professor of physics.

According to Dr. Everhart, transits of Mercury occur at the rate of about 13 per century. Of these, he said, only half are visible from the United States.

The Uconn professor further noted that it may be from 25-60 years before another transit of Mercury occurs on a clear day in New England.

Mr. Flinchbaugh, a Ph.D. candidate in physics, took his 35 millimeter photograph with a telescope of 113-inch focal length.

The photo shows the rim of the sun and Mercury as a small black dot on the face of the sun. A large sun spot is also visible.

Washington Merry Go Round

By DREW PEARSON

Drew Pearson Says: Lamar Caudle keeps his humor in prison; the jeers of Dallas may revert Lyndon Johnson to his old self; Budget Bureau wants to sell government narcotics farm.

Washington—Lamar Caudle, the Assistant Attorney General under Truman who served six months in the Tallahassee Federal Penitentiary for "depriving the government of his best services," kept his sense of humor throughout his confinement.

"I hated to leave my constituents down there," he told this writer immediately after his release. "They gave me a big going-away party—but no raisin-jack. Raisin-jack is something they make out of raisins, yeast, and sugar that will knock your block off."

"The warden couldn't get any transportation for me when I was supposed to leave, so I just stayed an extra day. They didn't charge me anything for that extra day's board, though maybe you'd better not say anything about it or they'll send me a bill. I understand Mr. Eisenhower is balancing the budget."

"I was sent down there for denying the government my best services," continued Caudle in his broad North Carolina drawl. "But believe me I gave that prison my best services and I've got a good behavior certificate to prove it. I'm going to hang that certificate up on my wall so everybody can see it."

Note—Caudle was never charged with taking money, a suit of clothes, a Vicuna coat, or even a rug from Irving Sachs, the St. Louis shoe stylist who had tax trouble. He was charged with depriving the government of his best services because he let Sachs plead guilty. Sachs was fined $40,000 by U. S. District Judge Roy Harper.

Matt Connelly, Truman's secretary, had received two suits of clothes and a topcoat from Sachs for telephoning the Justice Department to arrange an appointment for Sachs's attorney to discuss his tax case.

Sherman Adams who got a Vicuna coat, a $2,000 rug, and other presents, intervened with the Federal Trade Commission twice on behalf of Bernard Goldfine who had violated the Wool Grading Act. Goldfine was subsequently fined for this violation, though not until the conflict of interests was exposed in this column.

JOHNSON'S JOSTLING
Probably the best thing that could have happened to Sen. Lyndon Johnson was the boos and jostling he got from Texans in Dallas. It should make him revert to the old Lyndon Johnson when he was a vigorous young New Deal Congressman, a favorite of FDR.

For the past ten years, in fact ever since he squeaked into the Senate by the slender margin of 87 votes, Lyndon has been trying to ride two horses going in opposite directions. He has been trying to please the big Texas oilmen, the new Texas Republican industrialists, and the Dixiecrat ranchers who want Texas to be a state almost divorced from the union. And at the same time, Lyndon has wanted to keep the allegiance of the Liberals and the down-to-earth Texans who first elected him.

As a result he has almost lost both.

The down-to-earth Democrats have turned against him and bet their money on Sen. Ralph Yarborough. Yarborough is the archenemy of the offshore oil Texans, the idol of the down-to-earth Texans. Despite hundreds of thousands of dollars poured in to defeat him, Yarborough, with the support of down-to-earth Texans, has won.

And last week Johnson woke up with a jolt to find that the Texans he had been trying to woo, the Texans for whom at times he almost became a split personality, were so impolite and arrogant as to whack his wife over the head with a "Lyndon is a Judas" sign.

This is the crowd which has wanted a set of tax laws separate from those of the other 49 states, a set of oil laws which permits them to drill almost up to the coast of Mexico, the right to import cheap Mexican labor, and no minimum wage law to interfere with the trek of northern business southward. Yet at the same time they want the protection of the U.S. Navy over the waters of the Gulf of Mexico and they want a sizable share of U.S. Air Force and army bases located in Texas.

So maybe the jerry and the jostling in Dallas will bring the emancipation of Lyndon Johnson.

It's policy of getting the government out of business is about to doom one of the most successful programs ever devised to cure narcotics addicts.

The budget bureau wants the 600 adjoining acres of farm land operated in conjunction with its Lexington, Ky., hospital for narcotics addicts.

Here last year, 227 patients who were taking the "cure" were trained in the most modern farming methods. These men, when their time is up, will not have to return to their old city haunts where they are more easily tempted back into addiction.

Instead, they are being trained for a new life away from the old temptations.

The Farm Administrator at Lexington is Robert E. Macklin, a Texas A&M graduate. Under him, the hospital dairy, for the eighth consecutive year has led all others in the blue grass dairy herd improvement association in milk production.

The hospital's dairy farm also won the state-wide efficient production award for having a herd which averaged 14,461 pounds of milk per cow—the highest producing herd in the state.

Macklin oversees training in every branch of farm work—meat packing, greenhouse operation, truck gardening, general farming, cannery operation, and even equipment maintenance.

Other programs for curing addicts have turned the so-called "cured" patients back to their old haunts in the big cities. But the farm program diverted them away from environments where they fell back again on dope.

However, the current policy of getting the government out of business is scheduled to wipe out the farm adjacent to the narcotics hospital in Lexington.

Attorney General Bill Rogers has two hot pieces of paper on his desk and on that of his deputy and hasn't made up his mind what to do about them.

One is a complaint in the Mac Parker Mississippi kidnapping and murder case to be filed by the U.S. Attorney in Mississippi against Mississippi mob leaders who took the Negro Parker out of jail and killed him.

The other is a complaint to be filed by the U.S. Attorney in Georgia against certain Georgia officials for restricting the travel of Dr. Martin Luther King from state to state.

Under the constitution, no American citizen can be restricted in domestic and foreign commerce, and King was arrested because he was driving with an Alabama license in Georgia.

The complaint in the King case was drawn up on Nov. 2 by Harold H. Greene of the Civil Rights staff and has been sent to deputy Attorney General Lawrence Walsh.

The complaint in the Mac Parker case was drawn up six weeks ago by the staff of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division which was unanimous in recommending prosecution.

Both recommendations are made under sec. 18-242 of the U.S. Criminal Code which provides that the United States can file an information through the U.S. Attorney whenever a citizen has been deprived of his rights. This is the equivalent of a grand jury indictment. In the Mac Parker case, a Mississippi jury failed to act, so the Justice Department's staff has recommended that the Attorney General exhaust the law by acting through the U.S. Attorney.

Rogers and associates have been trying to decide whether action in the King and Parker cases would win more votes or alienate more southern white votes. In any event they are not averse to leaving the two problems behind as boobytraps for the Democrats—in case they win.

Painting to Continue

Plant maintenance is contemplating shift to darker room colors as its 17 men continue their annual dorm painting on campus.

Colonel Wallace Moyle said that the only new development in painting practices at the University may be a trend away from the present light colors.

The painting will continue at the regular schedule of 6 dorms a year, resulting in the repainting of each dorm every 6 years.

Maintenance uses 4 color combinations, painting 8 or 9 rooms on one side of a hall one color and the opposite rooms a different color.

This year Maintenance is painting D-Group, South Campus.

Husky Pups Meet Harvard Will Try To Bounce Back

By Dave Sheehan
Sports Heeler

Tomorrow the Uconn Pups' grid squad, led by its fiery coach, Nick Rodis, journeys to Cambridge, Mass., where it takes on the Harvard frosh.

Comeback Ability

As the Rodis men go into this contest, the followers of the Pups' fortunes will be watching closely for the answers to two outstanding questions in their minds.

First, did the 17-0 defeat at the hands of the Umass Red-men have any psychological effect on the players? The answer to this query should be evident after the first quarter tomorrow.

If the Pups bounce back from their first defeat of the year to play good ball, it should be a good indication of their "comeback-ability."

Major Changes

The second question is, "Have there been any major changes made in the Pups line-up as a result of the loss?"

Although Coach Rodis said that the boys had played hard against Umass, the fact remains that an offense which had averaged 34 points a game, and a defense which had not allowed its opponents to set foot inside the Uconn 10 yard line all season, both fell apart at the same time.

It therefore follows that Coach Nick Rodis will probably have some key changes in his line-up tomorrow.

Another reason for the changes is the overabundance of injuries which has plagued the squad all year.

The Lineup

Among the doubtful starters this week are Joe Simeone

(again), Dick Grieve, Johnny Morasini, Dave Korponai (who didn't report to practice until Wednesday this week), and Jeff McConnell, who has been in practice, but has one finger in a splint and may or may not be ready to go.

Rodis said on Wednesday that the way things looked so far, this would be his starting offensive squad: Ends, Dick Chenail and Johnny Beirne; Tackles, McConnell (if he's O.K.) and Jimmy Cohen; Guards, Jeff Roberts and Chuck Chambers; and at center, Bob "Cappy" Caporizzo.

Backfield Changes

The starting offense backfield shows some key changes. With leading scorer, Dave Korponai on the injured list this week, Rodis has been running Sean Sgrulletta in his left-halfback slot, if Korponai isn't ready, Sgrulletta is.

Dave Roberts will be at his familiar fullback slot, and Kenny Luciani will be at right half. At the signal-calling spot will be Jack Baker, getting his first major start of the year.

On Defense

If the Uconn go on defense to start off you will probably see more changes. Tom Downing, the usual starting quarterback on offense, will take over on defense. Ed Snyder, the capable defense signal caller all year, will shift to the left-half slot. Roberts, and Luciani will be the Rodis men's only two-way starting backs, at their respective positions.

Harvard

The pre-game reports of Harvard are hazy, and inconclusive. As Coach Rodis said when asked how he thought his charges would do tomorrow: "It's hard to say, seeing as we have not faced a common opponent."

This is true. The only report on the Crimson frosh is that they beat the Holy Cross Crusaders, and lost 14-7 to the Brown Bruins. They have also faced Tufts, Princeton and Dartmouth.

Volleyball Change

There has been a change in the intramural volleyball schedule in the fraternity league. This change was requested by the IFC because some of the games conflicted with the rush parties.

All teams that were to have played last night will play their games this afternoon between 2 and 5. Teams scheduled to play last night at 6 will play this afternoon at 2; teams that were to have played at 7 will play at 3; teams that were to have played at 8 will play at 4 and those that were to have played at 9 will play at 5.

This same schedule will be followed next Thursday for next Wednesday's games.

Swimming blanks were due in yesterday; basketball and foul shooting blanks are due in next Friday, the 18th.

The Uconn soccer team rounded out its season with a 2-0 win over Brown Tuesday. This win gave the Huskies a 10-2 record for the season and an all important 9-1 record in New England.

Brown rated seventh in the Ivy League is a tougher opponent than its record would indicate. They have won only one game so far this season but in all their games they have lost by very slim margins.

Stalled

In the opening minutes of the game, the Uconn team couldn't seem to get started. They had a shot advantage over their opponents but were unable to score. They were long kicking the ball and letting it slide off the edge of their feet.

During the second half Coach Squires tried changing personnel but this wasn't the solution since he already had his best men in the game.

In the third quarter Uconn scored twice to take the lead.

The first tally was credited to Schwager but the score really came when the ball was deflected off the head of a Brown player into the Brown goal.

Strong Scores

The second goal occurred when the Brown goalie ran out of the goal to get the ball as it rolled loose in front of the goal. Tom Strong, the Uconn forward beat him to the ball, neatly kicked it to the charging goalies left and proceeded to roll it into the nets for the tally. This was Strong's first appearance in several games since he has been sidelined with a pulled ligament.

Tony Attanasio, who also had been out of action for a while due to an injury received in the Springfield game, started and played part of the game. One break for Uconn was when Hartwell caught a ball destined for the Uconn nets. Since he wasn't the goalie Brown got a penalty shot at the Uconn goal but Tom Kibbe made a save on the penalty point to keep Brown scoreless.

NCAA Hopes

Uconn has a good chance of getting into the NCAA tournament only if Williams defeats front running Amherst this Saturday. So far this year Williams has a 3-3 record but they have won their last three games after losing to Uconn. Williams defeated Springfield, a team rated as one of the best in New England so they are given a fairly good chance of upsetting Amherst.

This has been Uconn's third best soccer season. The 10-2 record this year is only surpassed by the years of 1948 and 1958. In '48 Uconn was undefeated and in '58 Uconn lost only once, to Yale.
