50 New Students Added To Willi Tutorial Program

The Willimantic Tutorial Project, launched by UConn students last fall, doubled its size this week with the addition of fifty more children into the program. Approximately 110 Willimantic school children will be instructed by campus volunteers at the next tutoring session on Wednesday.

The Willimantic Board of Education agreed last week to provide transportation for bus students to get home after the tutoring classes.

"We have had the complete cooperation of the Willimantic school system in this project," said Andy Dinniman, program coordinator.

Dinniman added that new tutors were being recruited for the fifty additional children. The tutoring operates on a one to one student tutor relationship.

The program began with a group of forty-one tutees including Spanish and Polish-speaking children. These children are assigned tutors proficient in their language.

The tutors travel by bus to the Natchaug Grammar School in Willimantic for weekly two-hour meetings with the children. The work involves assisting with general schoolwork, and supplementing the child's cultural education through conversation and friendship.

Members of the project have recently published a tutorial Handbook in coordination with Willimantic school officials and the UConn junior class council. The handbook contains articles defining the goals and methods of the project together with a bibliography of materials available for tutors to use in instruction.

Resource material in reading, mathematics, language, and instructing culturally deprived children are available to the tutors through the University main library, the School of Education curriculum library, and the Tutorial Library recently established by project members. The Student Senate recently granted the project funds to purchase resource material for the library.

University faculty members have offered their assistance as counselors for the tutors.

An orientation session conducted last Thursday featured a panel discussion on the "Aims and Goals of the Tutorial Project and How to Accomplish Them". Dr. Esther Uncle, social worker for the Windham school system, and Mr. Robert Perry, principal of the Natchaug Grammar School, were the featured speakers.

Tutor applications will be available in the HUB lobby this week or interested students may call Andy at 9491 or Joyce at 6231.

Deputy Commander Of First Army Visits To Promote ROTC Program

by David Chapnick

Deputy Commander of the United States First Army, Major General J.F.R. Seitz, who is responsible for all Army training within the district, conferred yesterday with President Babbidge and Professor of Military Science Russell Hawkins.

The purpose of General Seitz' visit was to discuss methods of developing more interest in the ROTC program among both students and faculty members. He met with Senior ROTC cadets and faculty members in the Departments of Chemistry and Business Administration as well as with President Babbidge and Colonel Hawkins. He is visiting several colleges and universities that come under the boundaries of the First Army.

General Seitz questioned the Senior Cadets about their feelings as to the way the current program is running, what they would do to change it, and their personal reasons for being in it.

Visits by other high ranking military personnel are planned for the future, including a talk by Major General Charles J.

Timmes on the present situation in Viet Nam. General Timmes is currently the Director of Programs of the Department of the Chief of Staff, Personnel of the Department of the Army. He formerly was the Chief Military Assistant of the United States Advisory Group in Viet Nam. The date for his speech has not yet been set. General Timmes was invited by John Dolan, President of the Senior Class at UConn.

Seniors Petition For Change In Graduation Date

The recently announced change in commencement date from Sunday to Monday has brought the disapproval of a number of graduating seniors.

The Senior Class Council currently is distributing petitions through the Grievance Committee to enable seniors to state why they feel a Sunday Commencement would be more appropriate and convenient.

Another petition will solicit signatures of students who support the change.

Two possible alternative dates are being presented by the committee for student comment: the preceding Sunday, June 6, or the following Sunday, June 13.

Correction

Yesterday's Daily Campus incorrectly stated that Sigma Chi Alpha has not taken action toward recognition as a student organization.

The article should have read Sigma Nu Alpha. Sigma Chi Alpha is a recognized social fraternity.

Housing Director Reveals Plans For New South Campus Dormitory

by Jackie Longo

Plans for a new dormitory to be located on route 195 adjacent to South Hall have been announced by Director of Resident Housing

Sumner M. Cohen.

Scheduled to be completed by September, 1967, the dormitory will house 250 students. The living quarters are expected to be of standard size 12 x 15 feet and will be situated on floors with adequate space provided for lounges and laboratories.

The architectural firm of Golden, Storrs, Labau of West Hartford will be in charge of the construction.

Funds received through student fees will finance the cost of the building which is expected to reach one and one half million dollars.

No increase in student fees are expected to be levied before 1970, Cohen added.

Whether the dormitory will house men or women students has not yet been decided.

The University budget, submitted to the state general assembly last month, provided for $5 million in self-liquidating bonds to be used for student dormitories.

Ground has already been cleared for a $4 million west campus dormitory complex which will provide room and board accommodations for some 630 students. This complex is scheduled for completion by June 1, 1966.

Send Off Rally Planned For Basketball Team

Led by the Pep Band and Cheerleaders, hundreds of students are expected to attend a "send off" pep rally for the tournament-bound UConn basketball team. The rally will be held at 12:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon behind the Field House.

Team buses will leave for Philadelphia at 1:00 p.m. The twelve players will travel with two managers, a trainer, two coaches and a doctor.

Living accommodations for the team have been made with the Sheraton Hotel, 1725 Penn. Blvd.

The Huskies will play their first game of the NCAA tournament with St. Joseph's of Philadelphia at the Penn. Palestra.

World News Briefs

U.S. Closing Libraries In Indonesia

(INDONESIA) (AP)---The United States is closing all five of its libraries and reading rooms in Indonesia. Information Agency director Carl Rowan blamed what he described as the intolerable harassments by the Indonesian Government. He said the 17 US Information Agency officers in the Indonesian operation also are to be withdrawn and all other US information activities halted.

The closings follow a long series of attacks on the libraries by demonstrators. American officials have charged that the Indonesian Government failed to provide adequate redress.

Anti-American Violence In Moscow

(MOSCOW) (AP)---Hundreds of screaming Red Chinese and Vietnamese students stoned and spat on the US Embassy in Moscow yesterday. It was the second attack on the Embassy within a month. The demonstrators were protesting US air raids in North Viet Nam. They savagely fought police and forced them to retreat twice. The crowd was dispersed only when Soviet Army reinforcements moved in. Police arrested eight or more students, but they were released later.

Senior Week Co-Chairmen

Jeff Widen, Chi Phi, and Nancy Pedesen, Kappa Kappa Gamma, were recently elected co-chairmen of Senior Week by the Senior Class Council. Newly elected Vice-Chairmen for the various Senior Week activities are: Carrie Cogtella and Frank Cofrancesco, picnic; Jean Morrison, Joan Callahan, and Cliff Demers, dance; Bonnie Moffet, Mark Shenkman, and Marty Setter, boat ride; Dolores DiFronzo, tickets; and Joe Dolan publicity.

letters to the editor

Cinch Note

To The Editor:

I realize that this letter will not be up to par to the letters that you have been receiving lately. I do not have a hair to split on the philosophical aspects of someone else's letter, nor do I have any of the myriad complaints that everyone else has about something on campus.

Yesterday at approximately 8 a.m. I was reading the CAMPUS and came to Peanuts. I couldn't understand it. Now I know that 8 a.m. is fairly early to read anything, but I would think that I could understand Peanuts. Now what exactly is a CINCH NOTE? None of my friends, nor myself ever heard of one, yet Linus got one. Have we been missing out? Could you please clear this point for me.

Thank you,
Arnie Saslow - McMahon

Retraction

To The Editor:

We would like to retract the statements printed in the Daily Campus of March first.

Diane E. is not dead. Her case was correctly diagnosed by university physicians. The victim of Spinal Meningitis died at his own home.

The convulsion so carelessly mentioned was a careless misunderstanding on the writer's part.

The signers of Monday's paper were not maliciously motivated, but unfortunately were not sufficiently informed.

In order to improve the relationship between the infirmary and the student body, we will make more accurate information available to the readers of this newspaper, to the extent that we are able to do so.

The Kimball Cult

To The Editor:

Never before have I thanked so deeply whatever gods there be that I am just a graduate student, just a teaching assistant, and not a "real" teacher, for then I would be one of the "selfish people" who are so clearly defined by Ira Loss in Wednesday's CDC. Since I am newly grateful for my fate, what spirit moves me then to direct these remarks to Ira Loss hoping that, to use his own words, "perhaps he will stop and think?" No, it is not a mystic spirit, not a crowd spirit, not the spirit of athletic togetherness, but the spirit, weak as it might be, of reason.

Mr. Loss's article is dangerous. Not because he threatens the existence of the academy, in which some hold the belief that athletics have a minor place, but in that he does not tolerate differences in what we admire. His attitude is an example of the crowd mentality, in its budding stages to be sure, but nevertheless the crowd spirit is there. The hero has been created, "a living legend" with which we love to identify, for he has all the wonderful qualities we lack: the pot-bellied middle aged man, no longer active in athletics can identify himself with the slim youth; so can the adolescent who is ignored; the dateless girl can daydream of a date with the hero--all can shout and cheer together to liberate their lethargic, but yet frustrated beings by elevating the hero, by participating in the innocent orgy at the field house. Take away, or even gently criticize such a hero worship and the mob will turn, for it cannot allow even a possible hint that the hero may have imperfections like all mortals. This is what Mr. Loss has done. He is not satisfied that "school spirit was at an all time high"; no, he must attack all those who happen not to be interested in basketball or the Kimball cult. His irrationality is further implied when he states that "it is impossible to explain the sensational feeling that existed at Toby's last home game." The mystic experience chokes him; it has choked many people--the Germans celebrating their Party Days in Nuremberg, for example. Mr. Loss has sentimentalized Kimball and he reveals hidden brutality in his ad hominem attacks against those who do not share his feelings. Brutality and sentimentality have ever been closely allied.

It may not be "measurable at this time" what this year's basketball team has done for the school, but let me remind you, in Houseman's words, an athlete's garland is briefer than a girl's, and let me remind you that there are many other people working quietly without "a living legend," without fanfare in making this school a better university.

Tomorrow we may have another blond god, or maybe a dark one, and Kimball's name will not be mentioned just as the name of the basketball player with the all-time highest score was not mentioned in the CDC account of the eulogies on Mr. Kimball.

The temper of your attack, Mr. Loss, and your intolerance of different attitudes and values make it highly questionable who is being self-centered.

Rash Judgement

To The Editor:

The young man who signed his letter, "A Freshman..." (CDC, Feb. 26) need not have bothered with that explanation. The content of his letter displays his status as a newcomer to the university. He is most obviously unaware of the work the Jonathan Committee has done for the past TWO years.

Having observed the work of the committee, ABLY led by Miss Fromkin, I feel that this young man must be enlightened.

The committee did obtain a new dog last spring, from the University of Alaska, but due to an unfortunate accident, it died. The work was done by two or three students with the major portion accomplished by Miss Fromkin alone.

The charges of ineptitude and failure made by this freshman are not only false, but show both a lack of knowledge on the subject, and a lack of good manners.

From my vantage point of four years of college, I would advise you to investigate before you accuse.

J.W.W.

South Viet Nam

To The Editor:

The two letters (Feb. 25) on South Viet Nam seem to have based on two false assumptions: (1) We are fighting for democracy in Viet Nam. (2) We are also fighting for freedom. The first assumption is incorrect. The South Vietnamese governments have never been democratic governments as you well know. They have been "illegal", dictatorial, military governments which took powers by coup d'etat, and have never been elected by the people and have never been supported by the people of Viet Nam. It is only the U.S. government that has been supporting such various dictatorial and military governments. This is an evidence that U.S. is not fighting for democracy in Viet Nam.

As to the second assumption, the writers of the letters should have been aware that there are many types of freedom. According to Franklin D. Roosevelt, there are four freedoms: (1) freedom from want, (2) freedom from speech, (3) freedom from religion, and (4) freedom from fear. To our great regret, there has been none of the above four freedoms in Viet Nam under the military governments. Nevertheless we are supporting the military governments. This is an evidence that we are not fighting for freedom.

Then why U.S. is fighting in South and North Vietnam? It is, of course, for our self-interest, not for the Vietnamese happiness. We have opinion that fighting in Viet Nam for our self-interest is selfish, inhumanistic, immoral, and unwise. It is peace and bread what the Vietnamese need and not the freedoms of starvation and death by the war. The best policy for us and them is to leave Viet Nam alone!

We should admit that our type of democracy is not necessarily the best political and economic system. Each nation has a different history and social surroundings. We can not say that the Catholic is the best religion, or the Protestant is the best, or the Judaism is the best. Similarly, we can not say that socialism is always bad, and our democracy is always good. There is no rigid socialism nor communism nor capitalism. All these social systems are evolving day by day. This is the process of history. Let each nation choose her own way of history. This is the only way for the people of the world to arrive at the human happiness.

We may lose "face" by withdrawing from South Viet Nam. But it is not a matter of "face" but a matter of justice, peace, and happiness.

Lord Of Justice
George Tobinon

Congratulations

To The Editor:

I would like to congratulate Mr. Hiller for the very effective article he wrote, and Miss Karen Maguire and others for their usefulness in proving his point. Mr. Hiller, is a post-grad Psychology major working with Dr. Feldstone of that department. He is also an advanced member of the Army's ROTC program; all of this extraneous material will have a bearing in one moment. If one read the article closely, he could plainly see, that Mr. Hiller under no circumstances really believes what he says. His obvious reason for writing it was to satirize the similar, though no so forcefully put idea which had been prevalent in the newspapers up to that time. If he had carried this to its natural conclusion, which I think he did, he was able to goad those "Sleepy-head readers" into writing the newspaper and expressing the opposite of his stated ideas. (They were of course, his real ideas in the first place.) Note, that since his article there have been very few writings in the paper about our not belonging in Viet Nam.

Again, Mr. Hiller did a fine job of setting a trap, and the public did a fine job of falling into it. The only disappointing thing this shows, is that it's too bad that people must be infuriated before they will make their wishes known. These people that wrote against Mr. Hiller's article in favor of us staying in Viet Nam, would never had done so had it not been for someone like Mr. Hiller.

Sincerely,
Keith Michaels

The Dungaree Doll

To The Editor:

My first experience at jungle life (which one can take or leave, and since there isn't much to take the latter becomes preferable) occurred in the cafeteria which I had heard so much about. It was Monday morning and I was having breakfast and when I reached the end of the endless serving line I was told by a nice Little Old Lady that I wouldn't be served any more if I wore blue dungarees, not white or green, or beige with orange four leaf clovers but blue. After returning from an 8-9 recitation and gruelling 9-12 lab I hastened back to the cafeteria eagerly awaiting to see what choice delicacy they would have that would tide me through my afternoon's classes. At this juncture in the middle of the line I was told that I wouldn't be allowed to eat unless I changed my dungaree. All of these seemingly harmless L.O.L.'s had undergone a Jekyll-Hyde as they all kept pointing at me and saying "bad things will happen to you." When I explained that all I had was 2 pairs of dungarees and one pair of Daks Slaks and if you think that I'm going to wear them here well uh-uh. Then I was told I had to see the Great White Goddess of the jungle, head chief (perhaps even chef). After an acrimonious discussion with this woman I was brought before Tarzan and the R-Apes who were feasting at the head table. He lay down the jungle code to me and since then, although I told him I couldn't see the logic of this ruling, I have meekly worn other than dungarees.

I have found that it is passable to wear dungarees to class and even to other university facilities (even though it may not be cool, boss, or in, etc.), so that when I go to eat I have to go and change, rush to avoid the lines, rush back, change again and proceed onward. Now this isn't a great deal of fun especially when I have an 8 or an 11 followed by a 1.

I don't want to say anything about the quality of the food (as this topic has been revealed and rehashed, as has the food, many times), but I certainly don't go out to eat at a restaurant with dungarees it is not appropriate, however in this case, as I have not yet confused the food in the cafe with that served at the Four Seasons, and I can't help but think that dungarees may be the only appropriate dress at meals.

So, fellow inhabitants if you find yourself oppressed and depressed by the blue dungaree ruling, rise up and break these bonds of tyranny and wear your blue genes to the next Monday dinner -- "Blue Monday."

College Editor Removed

(CPS) - Jack Steele, editor of the weekly Miss Delta, at Delta State College, was fired for use of a "sordid" headline in the January 12 edition of the newspaper. In an official statement school President James M. Ewing referred to the headline as "uncalled for, sordid and beneath the dignity of college or professional journalism."

The headline appeared above a movie review written by a staff member and read: 'Pussy Galore' Typical of James Bond's Girls. Most of the 16-inch story was concerned with the movie version of "My Fair Lady."

A three-inch paragraph about the movie 'Goldfinger' came near the end of the story. Miss Galore was mentioned once.

On recommendation of the faculty advisor to the paper and the Student Publications Committee, Barnes Carr was appointed to replace Steele. Carr, a sophomore, said "I feel that I am ethically bound to share the blame with Jack, because I believe the dismissal was brought on with deeper and more complex aspects."

Carr went on to argue that the headline in question "definitely is not legally obscene."

Retailing Majors Attend New York Conference Today

Representatives of University of Connecticut School of Home Economics will be among students and educators from 70 colleges and universities attending the seventeenth annual Conference on Careers in Retailing sponsored by New York University's Institute of Retail Management at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Manhattan on Friday.

The Conference is designed to acquaint participants with trends and career opportunities in the field of retailing. Highlights include fashion shows at the display rooms of some of New York's most famous apparel manufacturers, a behind-the-scenes tour at Macy's, New York, and talks and panel discussions by executives of several retailing organizations.

Attending from the University of Connecticut will be Verna Moulton, a member of the faculty, and Nelson C. Shafer, a member of the School of Business faculty.

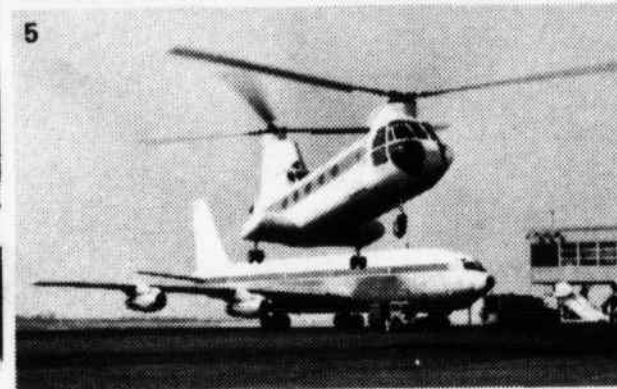

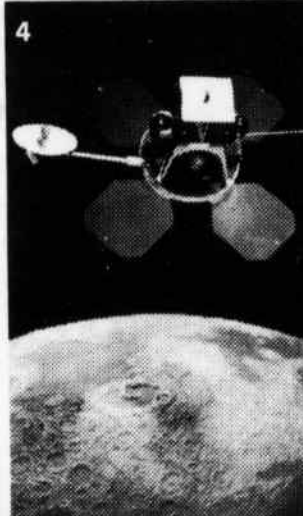

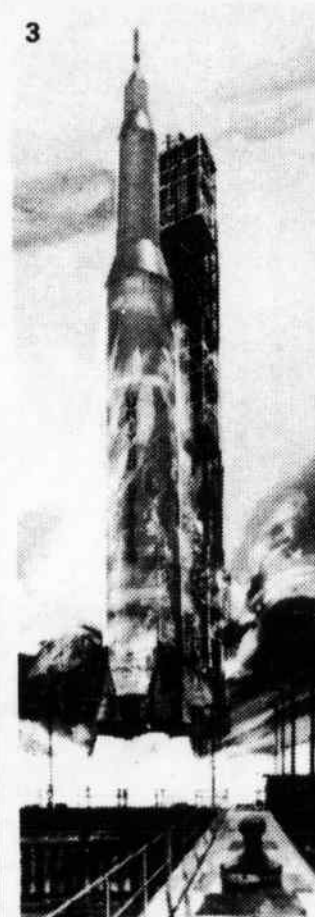

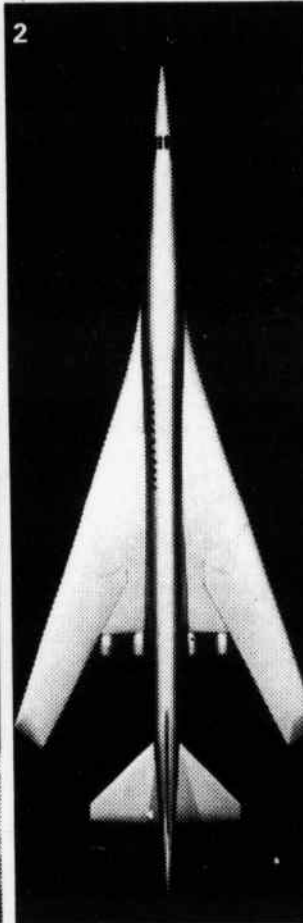

SUNNY DAY. Spring appeared the other day, and to celebrate, we took Michele Drapeau, a picnic lunch, and a sportscar out for a drive. Michele, a petite and pert sixth semester cheerleader, seemed to fit quite well into the atmosphere of the day, and appeared her pretty best when we decided to pose her atop a nearby and lucky-wooden fence. When the hot sun grew too warm, we asked our brown-eyed beauty to open her parasol, and came up with the above picture. In addition to cheerleading Michele is majoring in Elementary Education.

Let's talk about engineering, mathematics and science careers in a dynamic, diversified company

Campus Interviews Thursday, March 11

Young men of ability can get to the top fast at Boeing. Today, Boeing's business backlog is just under two billion dollars, of which some 60 per cent is in commercial jetliner and helicopter product areas. The remainder is in military programs and government space flight contracts. This gives the company one of the most stable and diversified business bases in the aerospace industry.

No matter where your career interests lie — in the commercial jet airliners of the future or in space-flight technology — you can find an opening of genuine opportunity at Boeing. The company's world leadership in the jet transport field is an indication of the calibre of people you'd work with at Boeing.

Boeing is now pioneering evolutionary advances in the research, design, development and manufacture of civilian and military aircraft of the future, as well as space programs of such historic importance as America's first moon landing. Gas turbine engines, transport helicopters, marine vehicles and basic research are other areas of Boeing activity.

Whether your career interests lie in basic or applied research, design, test, manufacturing or administration, there's a spot where your talents are needed at Boeing. Engineers, mathematicians and scientists at Boeing work in small groups, so initiative and ability get maximum exposure. Boeing encourages participation in the company-paid Graduate Study Program at leading colleges and universities near company installations.

We're looking forward to meeting engineering, mathematics and science seniors and graduate students during our visit to your campus. Make an appointment now at your placement office.

Successful Year For IEEE

New officers with an ambition have been the key to a very successful year in the IEEE. Senior officers with John Garrett, President; Alan Dresser, Vice-President; Richard Praguski, Treasurer; and James Wasel, Secretary, have launched a campaign to promote interest in a professional society from the student engineers. The program of meetings has utilized faculty speakers from the University of Connecticut and in doing so has created an exceptionally enthusiastic student turnout at these meetings.

The IEEE is the largest professional society of its kind in the world and the student chapter at the University of Connecticut has even more to offer the student than in previous years. In addition to the informative meetings the IEEE will offer field trips next semester as well as the annual banquet. The membership committee of the UConn Chapter welcomes all interested engineering students with the opportunity to join the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers.

PERCHERON STALLION, Maple Leaf La Fleurta is a fine example of the draft breed which at one time occupied the UConn stables.

MORGAN STALLION, Mentor, is an excellent example of the ideal animal found in the University's barn today. A descendent of rugged little Justin Morgan, after whom the breed was named, he typifies the beauty and versatility of this sturdy breed.

Today Is Different

CYNTHIA EDSON

Times have changed since the first days of Little International of UConn. As an example, the horse events at this year's show (April 2 and 3) are a far cry from those of days gone by. The horses themselves are very different as the photos on this page show.

The versatility and reliability of the Morgan are easily seen in the many uses to which it is put at the University. Used in special training and handling classes, our horses also spend many hours under saddle in riding classes. In the 35th annual Little International they will be shown in hand and under saddle in equitation and novelty events.

The barns are busy the month before the show as student exhibitors swap secrets on how to best prepare a horse for the big event. The task is made double difficult at this time of year when the animals are shedding their winter coats. It takes weeks of time and effort to put on the desired high gloss. But by show-time the animals are in shape and fitted for the show ring, the handlers are ready to put them through their paces, and exhibitor and spectator alike can enjoy the big event.

Walk In Spring

by M. Louise McGovern

Just ahead of May I went, stretching my young muscles in the sun,
with a brown dog for a friend.
Lawns aly cool and velvet,
green as dreams in winter.
Birds called out, diving in air to court
each other and spring.
All the trees were barren yet,
except for hordes of buds, still damp with sap, impatient to be leaves.
Ruby rows of tulips, canary daffodils, marched beside the fences to announce the news of spring.

SAE's Lion

Shortly after midnight Tuesday, the Lion which sits above the door of Sigma Alpha Epsilon was destroyed by a band of unidentified students.

While fraternity members were at a meeting, a band of about 70 students lassooed the lion and pulled it to the ground. Parts of the Lion cracked and the larger part of it was taken to North Eagleville Road where it then disappeared.

Al Ritchie, President of SAE said that the fraternity was not unusually disturbed since the incident was "a yearly occurrence".

"We'll have another lion in the very near future" Ritchie said. "We are not concerned with the identity of the individuals involved. The incident will be discussed at the next I.F.C. meeting."

Friday Film Series

Based on a novel by Alberto Moravia, directed by Vittorio De Sica, and starring Sophia Loren, this enormously successful film rises to a climax which makes such an assault on the sensibilities of an audience that one can never be quite sure what to think about it. Whether the climax is a gratuitous shock or the appropriate center of what had only seemed an engrossing and episodic genre piece about living in a world at war is a crucial issue; but this film which centers on the efforts of a mother to protect her daughter by fleeing from war reminds one often of the greatness of the director's early films Shoeshine and The Bicycle Thief. And there is the incidental pleasure of watching De Sica play Svengali to Sophia Loren while he molds his scenes of what life was like. Whatever one finally decides about Two Women, it is one of the films which feelingly examines its own corner of a world in which the horrors of war take many shapes.

Showings at 6:30 and 9:00. Coffee and discussion after 9:00 showing.

Redmen Scalp Trackmen By Taking Eight Firsts

by Mike Cronin

The Redmen of the University of Massachusetts handed the UConn track team its fourth straight setback of the indoor season Wednesday night at the Field House. UMass took eight firsts and nine second places while Coach Lloyd Duff's charges succumbed, 65-48.

Bob Birdsey (50'11 1/4") led a sweep in the thirty five pound weight throw for the Huskies. Dick Weingart and Andy Yuen placed second and third, repeating last week's sweep of Delaware in this same event.

John Copeland once more came through with victories in both the low and high hurdle dashes;

Rhody

Rhody appears among the nation's leaders in team field goal shooting (47%) and free throw shooting (76.1%) while Connecticut is seventh in team rebounding. Both Jim Cymbala (84.9%) and Mike Fitzgerald (86.9%) are good enough to place among the top 20 in individual free throw shooting while Kimball's 20.5 rebounding average should make him tops in that department and his 57% floor goal shooting places him 11th.

These teams have had five common opponents outside conference play. Both defeated NIT Fordham and American University while Rhody toppled Holy Cross and the Huskies split with the Crusaders. Connecticut also topped MIT Manhattan and MIT Boston College, a pair of clubs who took the measure of the Rams.

Connecticut journeys to Philadelphia for its NCAA meeting with St. Joseph's at the Penn Palstra on Monday night while the game is the season finale for Rhode Island.

Right From The Lip

By Charlie Lipson

The Baltimore Orioles made it very close last year losing out on the pennant only by a great surge by the Yankees down the stretch drive. The difference between the clubs was clutch hitting and pitching something that the Birds just seemed to lack at the end.

Defensively, the infield has to be rated one of the top if not the best in the major leagues. Norm Siebern, who slipped to one of his worst seasons at .245, 12, and 56, and Brooks Robinson, the leagues most valuable player at .317, 28, 118, anchor the corners.

The keystone combination of Luis Aparicio and Jerry Adair led the majors in fewest errors committed. Adair set a major league record of committing only 5 errors during the entire season. They are both adequate at the plate with Adair at .248, 9, 47, and Aparicio at .266, 10, 37. Bob Johnson and Bob Saverine are the principle back-up men with Johnson also able to play outfield positions.

The leading hitter in the outfield was Boog Powell who is still somewhat of a risk defensively, but his bat is sorely needed. He led his teammates in the home run department with 39 adding to this 99 RBIs to go with his .290 average.

In right field will be Sam Bowens, who came out of the minor leagues to hit a respectable .263 along with 22 HRs and 71 RBIs. With a year of experience under his belt he should hit for a higher average and give the Orioles a good one-two outfield punch.

Center field is still a problem to the Birds at the plate. Russ Snyder hit for a good average but did not display any power whereas Jackie Brandt hit with power but faded at the end of the season average wise. Snyder ended with a .290 average and Brandt ended at .243 with 13 HRs and 47 RBIs. However both will stay as speed is needed in center field to cover the territory Powell can't.

Catching was a problem last year also as John Orsino was bothered throughout the season with injuries and slipped to .222, 8, 23. Dick Brown filled in and came through sometimes, ending with .257, 8, 32. Both are good defensively and should have better years. Rookie Fred Rico will be given a good look at in spring training.

The pitching was superb last year at least for the first five months of the campaign. Rookie Wally Bunker came out of nowhere to lead the staff at 19-5 with a 2.73 era. Chuck Estrada was 3-2 before being injured and missing the second half of the season.

Milt Pappas and Robin Roberts formed the rest of the starting crew with Pappas at 16-7, 2.96 and Roberts at 13-7, 2.91. After Estrada got injured Dave McNally found himself in the starting rotation and ended with 9-11, 3.68.

The major disappointment on the staff was Steve Barber who slipped to 9-13 with a 3.84 era. Barber was 20-13, 2.75 in 1963 and his fall was fatal to the clubs pennant hopes.

The relief staff was also great last year saving many games for the Birds. Harvey Haddix (5-5, 2.30), Stu Miller (7-7, 3.06) and Dick Hall (9-1, 1.84) were the primary firemen. Dave Vinyard also some action and ended at 2-5 with a 4.17 era.

Manager Hank Bauer has a good season to look forward to if Steve Barber makes a comeback on the mound, Norm Siebern hikes his average back up and a solution to the centerfield problem is found. Also the rookie years' enjoyed by two of the team members will have to be repeated.

With the rise of Cleveland and Detroit along with the pressure from the Yankees and White Sox it seems that there are too many ifs and that a third place finish is in store for the Birds.

Sport Oddity

Football has had its share of wrong-way runs and now basketball has come up with a wrong-way basket to match it. But fortunately for senior Terry Mobley of Kentucky, his wrong-way basket didn't count.

If it had been allowed, it would have cost Kentucky a 61 to 60 victory over Tennessee last Saturday. Mobley's mental lapse came in the second half when he took the ball and dribbled the length of the floor for a layup in the wrong basket. The field goal was disallowed because Mobley had crossed the mid-court line in driving for the basket.

Huskies End Regular Season With Rhody; Seek Unblemished Conference Mark

The University of Connecticut basketball five hopes to keep two winning streaks going when the NCAA-bound Huskies close out their regular season at Rhode Island, Saturday afternoon at 2.

The game, slated to shown over a regional television network, finds the Connecticut team in quest of its 15th straight win and 10th in a row in Yankee Conference action. Should this come about, it would be the first time in conference history a team has won all ten games (three other Connecticut teams went undefeated, '54, '55, and '57 but they played seven and eight games). And it would also be a school record for successive wins in one season, the '54 edition having won 14 in a row. The Huskies also shoot for 23 wins which would tie the mark for most games won in a season, also in '54.

Connecticut (22-2) is paced in scoring by 6-2 sophomore guard Wes Blalosuknia (21.1) and senior Capt. Toby Kimball (19.6). The other starters are 6-2 junior Dan Hesford (10.8), 6-3 sophomore P.J. Curran (3.5) or 5-11 sophomore Tommy Penders (8.6).

Rhode Island (15-11) starts essentially the same club which bowed to the Huskies by 78-68 at Storrs about six weeks ago. There is a change in the forecourt where either 5-11 junior Henry Carey (8.0) or 6-4 junior Dick Grant (4.9) may start in place of 6-6 junior Bob Boehm (9.8).

The rest of the forecourt will be handled by 6-7 senior Frank Nightingale (9.0) and 6-3 senior Dennis McGovern (22.2) with 5-11 junior Jim Cymbala (12.8) and 6-2 junior Mike Fitzgerald (12.8) in the guard positions.

There's plenty of sharp shooting and fine rebounding in store.

Russ Hintz Heads Hockey Scorers

Russell Hintz, junior from Hamden, scored 46 points to lead the University of Connecticut hockey team which closed out with a 10-6 record. Hintz had 26 goals and 20 assists to make up his total. His scoring was consistent enough to place him among the leaders in the ECAC Division II standings all year.

Connecticut hopes for a continuance of this winter's success are assured by the fact that all but two members of the three forward lines are underclassmen.
