Picnic, Prom And Boatride Plans Of Senior Week Set

Plans for the Senior Prom, Picnic and Boatride have recently been completed for Senior Week, June 2-9, according to Senior Week Chairmen Nancy Pederson and Jeff Widen.

Tickets for Senior Week will go on sale the week after vacation. Seniors may sign up for their tickets this week from 2-4 in the Student Union Lobby.

The Senior Picnic is the first of the three events which will take place on the weekend of June 2, 3 and 4th.

Lake Compounce amusement scene at the picnic, will be open to all Seniors at a minimum price and a free lunch and refreshments will be available for all who attend. Two bands and two singing groups will provide continuous music from 8 to 12 p.m. ID card, preferably majority cards, are required.

Music for the Prom, to be held at the Hotel America, will be provided by Paul Landerman's orchestra.

Because of its great success last year, the Senior Week Committee has planned a Boat Ride out of New London. Combo Kings will play and sing for the event. A free lunch will be provided with the cooperation of the Food Club.

To eliminate deficits which have occurred over the past years, Seniors will be required to sign over $15 from their breakage fee when they sign up for their tickets in the Union Lobby. Another $5 fee will be levied when the three part tickets are before May 14th.

Seniors will also be able to make one dollar contributions to the class gift and the Alumni Association Membership at this time.

The vice-chairmen for the events are: Picnic-Carrie Cogtella and Jack Cofrancesco; Prom-Jean Morrisson, Joan Callahan, and Cliff Demers; Boatride-Bonnie Moffet, Mark Shenkman, and Marty Setter. Tickets and Publicity chairmen are Dolores DeFronze and Mary Jane Tylec.

Computer Scheduling Expected To Give 80% Their Entire Request

by Jackie Longo

"Computer scheduling can match everything done manually while being swifter, more efficient, and error free," commented Ronald E. Dickerson, Director of Student Scheduling, at last Wednesday's Student Senate meeting.

According to Dickerson, the computer scheduling program will go into effect this May when students register for the fall semester. The program will save approximately $3700 and will cut the time necessary for scheduling from six weeks to four hours.

In other colleges and universities where this programming has been instituted students have had no choice of sections. UConn will allow the student to retain his choice.

"In past years 25% of the students who register at UConn receive their complete schedule. The computer can equal this percentage and it is hoped that the number of students receiving their choices will be greatly increased," continued Dickerson.

By scheduling manually the number of students in each section of a course is balanced, allowing an equal number of students in each section. Under the new system the desired quota for each section would be filled first and the remaining students would be transferred to other sections.

According to Dickerson and Richard Stec, Systems co-ordinator for the scheduling:

"The percentage of students receiving their entire request is expected to reach 80%. If this percentage drops below 50% a change in the system may result, allowing the student only a choice of courses and the sectioning will be left up to the machine."

For graduate students and students in courses which offer only one section scheduling will be done manually.

Dickerson concluded that it will be a major accomplishment in computer scheduling if a great percentage of the student body can be given complete requests.

Dr. Coates To Deliver Two Public Geology Lectures

Dr. Donald R. Coates, one of the nation's ranking geologists, will spend two days at UConn, April 5-6 under the visiting lecturer program of the American Geological Institute.

The first of his two public lectures, "Water-A Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," will be delivered tonight at 8 p.m. in the Home Economics building. On Tuesday he will take "A New Look at Geomorphology" at 8 p.m. in Beach Building.

Dr. Coates, the fourth geoscientist to visit UConn under the AGI lecture program, will also meet informally with students and staff during his stay at the University.

Chairman of the Harpur College Department of Geology from 1954-63, Dr. Coates has also been chairman of the Earlham College Department of Geology, and geologist with the Groundwater Branch of the U.S. Geological Survey.

Before Dr. Coates visits the campus, the University's Geology Dept. will display a photographic slide presentation showing various aspects of ground water study and problems.

Mischa Titiev

Mischa Titiev To Speak On Primitive Religions

Mischa Titiev, professor of Anthropology at the University of Michigan, will speak on primitive religion in the Union Ballroom, tonight at 8:00 p.m.

Titiev has been teaching Anthropology at the University of Michigan since 1936. His principal field work has been with the Hopi Indians of Arizona, but he has also worked with the Araucanian Indians in Chile, with the Japanese settlers of Lima, Peru and with the rural inhabitants of Okayama Province in Japan.

He has written a great many articles and reviews in various journals, in addition to several books, one of which is THE SCIENCE OF MAN, a textbook which is used at the University of Connecticut. Titiev is a member of the American Anthropological Association, the American Ethnological Society, the American Association of Physical Anthropologists, the A.A.A.S.,

Phi Kappa Phi, and Sigma Xi. Titiev is being presented by the Cultural Committee of the Student Union Board of Governors.

Today Deadline For Washington Bus Reservation

UConn students and faculty are expected to join some ten to fifteen thousand concerned individuals in a protest march on Washington, Saturday April 17, to end the war in Vietnam.

A bus has been chartered by the Storrs Student Peace Union that leaves from the Community House Friday, April 16, at 10 p.m. The return trip to Storrs will be made on Easter Sunday morning between 6 and 7 a.m. making several stops in Hartford.

SPU chairman, Brian Cross, stated that many faculty members have made contributions so that students unable to afford the $12.00 round-trip could attend the march. He also stated that the last day for reservations is today, April 5th.

Students interested in attending the march should contact the SPU at 429-4989 or attend the SPU meeting tonight at 7:30 in Commons 315.

The march will consist of a morning demonstration at the White House followed by a rally at the base of the Washington Monument. Addressing this rally will be Senator Ernest Gruening (Dem.-Alaska) and journalist I.F. Stone.

Following this there will be a march down the Capitol Mall toward the Capitol building. There a delegation will attempt to present a petition to Congress.

Participating in this march are many college Christian groups and Young Democratic Clubs as well as many adult liberal organizations.

There will be a WRA meeting tonight at 7:00 p.m. It is important that all representatives attend. Voting on intramural chairmen and officers for next year will be held.

Friday Is Deadline For CCC Float And Booth Application

Deadlines for C.C.C. Float and Midway booth applications will be extended until this Friday, April 9th.

"Midway applications already received have shown a trend toward the use of water, mud and other messy elements." According to Doug Joyner, Publicity Chairman, "No more ideas of this type will be accepted. Rather games of skill are being encouraged."

Dorms wishing to participate should contact Bill Ferris Midway Chairman at 429-9841, or call the APO office.

Joyner said, "If this year's C.C.C. carnival is to be a success, which we hope, more entries will have to be received in the next week. The UConn students have an obligation to their community as reflected in the charities to which we have promised support. Without more cooperation from the living units this obligation cannot be met."

Registration For Sororities' Last Open Bid Today

Registration For Sorority Bid Registration for the last open bid period for sorority rush begins today in the office of Women's Affairs. A twenty Q.P.R. is required of all those who wish to rush.

Reds Claim Heavy Toll

(AP)---The Communists claimed North Vietnamese gunners shot down 37 American and South Vietnamese warplanes during a series of air attacks today on North Viet Nam. US officials in Saigon declined to say how many planes were lost, since search operations are continuing. But besides two F-105 pilots reported lost, the pilot of a US propeller-driven skyraider went down with his plane into the sea after being hit by fire from Red gunboats off the coast.

One of the Communist North Vietnamese Mig fighters that shot down two American fighter-bombers yesterday may have been hit by a US warplane. Defense department sources in Washington say the pilot of an American F-100 jet flying cover for the US fighter-bombers reported he thought a 20-millimeter cannon shot he fired winged one of the attacking Red aircraft. This could not be confirmed because the Communist planes disappeared into the haze from which they pounced on the fighter-bombers.

An air raid alert sounded in Hanoi, the capital of North Viet Nam, yesterday. Only militiamen and their assistants wearing Red armbands remained in the streets. The alert may have been prompted by the air attack on a bridge and power station 65 miles south of Hanoi.

Two Germanles In Dispute

(AP)---The propaganda contest between East and West Germany took a new turn tonight as the Communists barred all members of the West German Parliament from crossing their territory.

The Bonn government plans to hold a parliament meeting in occupied Berlin on Wednesday.

Earlier, Red border guards refused to let West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt drive across East German territory to get to his own city. It was part of the Red harassment of civilian traffic to show its displeasure with the West German plan for a parliamentary session in Berlin. Mayor Brandt drove to Hamburg to take a plane to West Berlin.

Individual West German officials call the East German action a violation of agreements on free access signed by the four victors of World War Two--The US, Russia, Britain and France. The Communists contend the agreements apply only to the troops of the four powers and not to Germans.

UConn Vs. Brand X

In a few short days the migration to the land Where The Boys Are begins. Whether you go to Bermuda with the IN Crowd or settle for the Sunny Shores of Florida, the name of the University of Connecticut goes with you. Thanks to the splendid efforts of the basketball team, UConn is quite well known around the country. A Connecticut sweatshirt or sticker will not go unnoticed and the conduct of those displaying them reflects that of the entire school. The impression that those we meet will carry home and relate to their friends is just as important as any recognition UConn receives for its great athletes. UConn enjoys an enviable reputation right now. We should do our best to prove UConn is as great as everyone thinks it is.

We don't mean to be prudish and don't expect College students to spend Spring vacation reading "The Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire" while acquiring that all-important tan. We realize that the trip South is for fun and we hope it turns out as well as planned. Needless to say however, there are limits and we hope these are not transgressed. It may pay to advertise, but if a screaming brawl is on your agenda, wear a Brand X sweatshirt.

Antiquated Murals

We feel that the decor of the HUB lobby should in some way reflect the activity of the building. Surely it is impossible to guess the true atmosphere of the Hub from the murals on the wall. A visitor to the Union is greeted by a fading antique no matter which way he turns. Unlike anything around them, these murals are faded and out-dated. They seem to be stagnating while life goes on around them.

If murals must be placed on these walls, they should reflect the times and the atmosphere of the Union. UConn has a commendable Art Department which must be capable of turning out something more suitable than these murals. We are certainly not in a position to criticize the artistic value of these pictures, but we know enough to realize that they add little if anything to the appearance of the Lounge. In our opinion, they detract from it.

Since such a large amount of money is spent annually to improve the quality of the University, we feel the relatively small sum it would take to update these murals at frequent intervals would be a wise investment. Perhaps there could be contests among the art students of art students or professors to find the best possible mural each time a change is to be made. This would provide a large selection of suitable ideas to choose from. At the same time, the work of the most promising young artist on campus would be on display for all to see. If this idea were carried out, the walls of the Union would not only be more pleasing to the eye, they would also reflect the progress and growth of the University and the activity of the Union. If such a plan is not feasible, we recommend that the present murals at least be replaced this time. This move is long overdue.

Play Commentary

To The Editor:

I was looking forward to what the DAILY CAMPUS would publish in the way of a review of the recent production of OEDIPUS THE KING, and after seeing the performance on Thursday evening I was especially disappointed that there had been, in fact, no proper review. The sophomoric silliness of "Lulus," flailing out in some strangely reflexive manner, in such shockingly bad prose, only compounded the paper's failure.

Nobody has asked me to write a review, and a Letter-to-the-Editor column will hardly stand the strain of the thousand or more words I might easily write. But I would like the files of the DAILY CAMPUS to contain some notice of so successful and admirable an occasion. After all, a full scale university production of Sophocles' OEDIPUS THE KING is or ought always to be a noteworthy event. Private judgments and personal biases aside, all members of a university community should be cognizant that OEDIPUS is one of the very few literary and dramatic works which do not abide our questions. In fact, its eminence and its incredible suggestiveness, to say nothing of its demands upon performers and audience, all make the undertaking of a production an act of courage, perhaps even of foolhardiness.

I regret, therefore, that the DAILY CAMPUS did not adequately acknowledge a production which I found to be impressive, inventive, imaginative, attractive, careful, and coherent. It would be impossible to substantiate those adjectives with details in so brief a letter, and a singling out of specific featured roles for sample discussion might be misleading and suggest unintended biases. Let me just note how impressed and moved I was by the movements, postures, and expressive masks of the two serving women while Oedipus lamented over his daughters. For me this little detail is indicative of the care with which the whole performance was planned and of the level of success which it generally achieved.

The whole evening reminded me once again of the cliché that an honest university production of a classic drama is often more satisfying than most elaborate star-studded professional spectacles. If none of the student performers last week came anywhere near reaching the intense grandeurs and shattering passions of Sir Laurence Olivier's Oedipus or Dame Judith Anderson's Medea, their whole production was more integrated, more responsible.

Not to be embarrassed, not to be jolted by chicanery and gimmicks, not to be pounded with a clever idea, but to be allowed to see and hear an honest, earnest, intelligent, and attractive illustration which knows its own limitations, and shows its best without distortion and without easy compromises is something to celebrate. One does not—or should not—go to any performance of a complex and tradition-hallowed drama expecting to find his own vision of it fully realized; one can, however expect to see a performance which does not violate the core of the work, which shapes the work without eccentricities and curlicues, and which exploits the talents and resources of cast and crew so that a spectator feels he has not been cheated. This performance of OEDIPUS THE KING did all those things; but more, it was a moving experience.

But I do have a complaint and a half. The half complaint is that I wondered why the program did not note which English version of the play was used. I know I recognized some speeches and choruses, but I wondered why no acknowledgement. The whole complaint is that I was fleetingly outraged because I wasn't permitted to applaud the performers face to face. They earned it and they deserved it. For all its grandeur OEDIPUS THE KING is a play not a religious service, and the convention of the curtain call is occasionally a privilege afforded an audience, not a payment peremptorily demanded. Such a privilege it would have been last Thursday evening.

Sincerely,
Irving P. Cummings

LORD ALFRED

Camp

This is CAMP week. Camp is a new "in" word which means 'so bad it's good'. Thus, it seems only fitting that UConn have something truly 'camp' and is suggested that the following game is 'camp' enough for anyone.

When Lord Alfred thinks back over his youth, he remembers the millions of hours he sat before the television set stopping up his cultural heritage of Annie Oakley, My Little Margie, and Lucy. So, here is a quiz, for Lord Alfred's fanatical companion television watchers. See how many you can answer. By the way, no answers will be given unless you find yourself desperate in which case you may write to Lord Alfred, c/o THE DAILY CAMPUS for the answers. You will find that these columns will come in handy at exam time for little tension breakers. For instance, supposing your roommate is studying: just slip this column in front of him (her) and watch him (her) 'go crazy'.

1. What is the name of SKY KING'S ranch?
2. What was the name of the old lady across the hall in MY LITTLE MARGIE?
3. What was the name of THE CISCO KID'S horse?
4. Who was the leader of the outlaw gang that ambushed the Texas rangers and caused the birth of THE LONE RANGER?
5. What was the name of the tall good-looking sheriff on ANNIE OAKLEY?
6. What was the father's name in I REMEMBER MAMA?
7. What was the name of DALE EVANS' horse?
8. Who played Chester on GUNSMOKE and what was Chester's last name?
9. What was the name of the

- arch criminal in SUPERMAN?
10. What was the name of GENE AUTRY'S sidekick?
11. What was the name of HOPALONG CASSIDY'S horse and name at least three of his sidekicks.
12. What was the name of the dog in WIZARD OF OZ?
13. Whose brother plays the lead in FURY?
14. What was Bob Cummings' name on THE BOB CUMMINGS SHOW (the one where he was a photographer)?

This will give you an idea of how to play the camp game. Every day this week we will have camp questions and you can send Lord Alfred your posers and he will answer them all since I hereby declare myself omnipotent and champion in the new Camp-Conn game.

Texas Fire Destroys Valuable Property— College Students Cheer Destruction On (ACP)—As three business establishments burned, students fiddled, says THE DAILY TEXAN, University of Texas, Austin.

They turned an event that was, to most minds, a dangerous accident, into a glorified Friday afternoon party-raids substitute. The quarter-million-dollar fire began in a typewriter shop when a vat of naphtha exploded. The fire then spread to a beauty shop and a drug store. Hundreds of University students thronged to the scene. Students volunteered in carrying merchandise from the burning stores and in moving twisted firehoses for the firemen.

One policeman barked: "Hell, everybody's out here."

When fire broke the windows of the drug store, students cheered and gave "honk 'em horns" signs. Clarence Faulkner, owner of the drug store, said it was as if the Longhorns scored a touchdown.

Eddie Slack, operator of a neighboring service station, said: "I don't understand the philosophy of these people—cheering when a building is burning."

College students have a special penchant for criticism. The demise of parental authority and doses of classroom enlightenment seem to nurture iconoclasm. And students take themselves seriously. They expect to have their voices heard.

Well, it's time for University students to scurry back behind the apron of their youth and cry "Uninhibited young spirits" and "Just good, clean fun."

Most well-disciplined, reasonably bright 10-year-olds know better than to clamber over a fire truck for a better view of a tragedy. And 10-year-olds don't make weighty proclamations on the world scene.

Ah, well. Ah, youth.

Double-Barreled Programs Planned For Dairymen Day

Wednesday April 7 will be Dairy Day at the University of Connecticut and separate double-barreled programs are planned for dairy farmers and for dairy manufacturing personnel.

The Dairy Farmers Day program begins at 9:30 a.m. in the Ratcliffe Hicks Arena on the College of Agriculture Campus. According to W.A. Cowan, head of the animal industries department, program highlights include forage recommendations based on UConn research, comparison of market milk pricing systems and the latest word on vibrosis control.

In the afternoon, a three-man team will report dairy handling and housing experiences and the economics of adding a milking parlor to a conventional barn. One of the speakers, a New York dairyman who recently moved into what has been called the "atomic age" barn, will report on his first operations in an insulated, ventilated, free stall barn equipped with slotted floors and liquid manure disposal pits.

The Dairy Manufacturing Day program kicks off at 9:30 a.m. in the College of Agriculture Auditorium. Cowan says the program features federal and state viewpoints on federal ice cream regulations; a review of current UConn research on fats, flavor and copper detection; development of plastic milk bottles; and the manufacturer's angle on milk pricing systems.

Special guests Warren Thrall and Walter Baker will be recognized at the Dairy Club Supper at 6 p.m. in Storrs Community House, adjacent to the Storrs Congregational Church. For reservations contact the animal industries department.

Violent Action At Fraternity Parties Results In Official Action By The FPC

(CPS)--All open fraternity parties at Temple University have been cancelled following the stabbings of three students outside fraternity houses.

The decision, voted by members of the Fraternity Presidents Council (FPC), was announced recently by FPC president Myles Rademan and is effective immediately.

The action came in response to three stabbings over a period of several weeks. The first incident took place outside the Alpha Epsilon Pi house after crashers were ejected from the fraternity's smoker party.

The victim, stabbed in the back with a broken bottle, was released from the hospital after one week. Police have reported that they have no leads to whom the assailant was.

Early this month a Temple student and a villanova student were stabbed outside Sigma Pi fraternity in a second outbreak of violence in connection with fraternity parties. In this case, too, the assailants had been ejected from the house for crashing a party. Police have arrested three suspects in the second stabbing incident.

Charges by the FPC were brought against both houses for "failing to exercise proper control by permitting a situation to develop which made necessary the ejection of some guests." Alpha Epsilon Pi was placed on social probation for two semesters and Sigma Pi for one.

An editorial in the Temple News, however, charged that "the FPC has not lived up to its responsibility." The editorial noted that regulations forbidding open parties have been on the books for some time but have not been enforced.

The editorial also cited the FPC for being "overly concerned with their public image" and for only taking actions "which look good in print."

Eleven Outstanding Students Inducted Into Pi Tau Sigma

Eleven outstanding students at the University of Connecticut were inducted as members of the local chapter of Pi Tau Sigma, national honorary in mechanical engineering here Thursday afternoon, April 1.

Membership in the honorary is conferred upon students who have distinguished themselves through exceptional character and scholarship in their academic major.

New graduate student initiates are: William P. Goss, Robert D. Collier, Frank J. Lahey, and Roger P. Caron.

Undergraduates inducted were: Paul F. Brewster, John R. Coleman, Richard J. DeCorso, Wilfred E. Desaulniers, Jr., John F. Hurley, Richard G. Weber, and Richard A. Woldan.

Meantime, honorary memberships were conferred upon: Henry N. Muller, Jr., vice president, Canadian Westinghouse Electric Co., Ltd., Edward S. Dennison, consulting engineer, Electric Boat Division, General Dynamics Corp., and Walter Doll Jr., general manager, Connecticut Advanced Engineering Laboratory, Pratt and Whitney Aircraft.

Mr. Muller, who is president-elect of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, delivered the 32nd biennial Pi Tau Sigma lecture, "The Quest for Abundance," later in the evening at the UConn Engineering School at Storrs.

Saturday Nights With Imagination -Not With Money

(ACP) Ask a University co-ed what she did last Saturday night and she might say "We went down to the freight yards and sat on a big tire truck by the tracks and talked. Whenever a train went by slowly we jumped it and rode a few blocks. Then we walked back and waited for another train."

The reader may be wondering if this is the latest fad, the "in" thing to do.

A quick survey revealed freight car hopping isn't the most popular way college students spend their Saturday nights. But it did indicate two trends which freight-car hopping exemplifies:

College men are spending less than ever, and they are trying not to do the usual things.

The Cal men even tailor their evening activities to the type of girl they're dating. Recommended for the adventurous girl is storm-sewer exploring.

In this activity, the couple locates the opening to a sewer. They enter and explore it to the end--about two miles away. A flashlight and a pair of galoshes are the only needed extras. When a group of couples go, they often bring a guitar and have a folksinging session.

The athletic girl often is taken ice-block sliding. The boy buys a 50-cent, 25-pound block of ice and he and his date go to a golf course, where they take turns sliding down a hill.

Thus, the college man and his date are spending Saturday nights with imagination rather than with his money.

Jobs In Europe

GRAND DUCHY OF LUXEMBOURG - The American Student Information Service announces that there are still more than 20,000 summer jobs available in Europe to U.S. college students. The jobs are being filled on a first come, first served basis and the ASIS is granting a $390 travel grant to each of the first 5,000 applicants.

Some positions pay $400 a month with no previous experience or foreign language ability required. Room and board are often included. The most requested jobs are resort work, office work, lifeguarding, sales work, ship-board work, factory work, child care and camp counseling work, farm work and restaurant work. Interesting summer work not found in the U.S. is living as a guest of well-to-do European families in return for teaching their children English.

Job and travel grant applications and detailed job descriptions (location, wages, working hours, photographs, etc.) are available in a 36-page booklet which interested students may obtain by sending $2 (for booklet and air mail postage) to Dept. IV, ASIS, 22 Ave. de la Liberte, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

Not Skin Deep

by eD

In the informal atmosphere of a college dormitory, a friend and myself began a discussion of inter-racial dating.

"Anything that brings people closer together and stops some of this petty bickering can only lead to good," he said. This was his general attitude.

"Take the Civil Rights Bill for instance; just because the Bill was passed doesn't mean that people are gonna change overnight." He related that people aren't going to accept each other just because of this law, and that you really can't get to know someone unless you have association with them.

When asked the reason for considering a date with a person of a different race, he said, "I wanted to see if I had nerve to do it. Also, it was something different."

He told me that he had known the girl previously and assumed by her personality that this was the type of girl he could enjoy himself with.

Mr. "X" then told me of his reactions and thoughts upon picking her up for the first time.

"I was nervous as hell; nervous because of her parents and how they would react to the situation."

He said that the girl's Mother was a very cordial hostess while he waited for his date.

"The atmosphere was such in the house that I couldn't tell whether or not her parents opposed this," he said.

We discussed the type of places he has taken his date. "Bowling, movies and for coffee are the most frequent date nights for us," he smiled.

He related that when he goes in public with her, people stared quite a bit. "I was looked down upon," he stated. "At first I was very conscious of the people around me, but now, it doesn't bother me at all. As the dates progress, I feel more at ease."

When asked about the future and whether he thought inter-racial dating will become commonplace, he had this to say. "In the future (certainly not in my life-time) people are going to stop this thing about discriminating because of skin color."

Using our campus for an example--you see a lot of mixed couples and this is due to the fact that the kids in college have their own society which eliminates the puritanical views of the outside world.

When these kids leave college they will take their liberal attitudes and views with them and instruct society towards a more non-discriminatory way of life.

In concluding, Mr. "X" gave me his views on the two main problems of inter-racial dating. "First of all, the couple will be rejected in society until the racial barrier is completely broken."

"Everyone must admit that they look twice when they see a mixed couple."

Consensus on both sides of the racial barrier see this dating as wrong.

"Secondly, the major problem I think, concerns up-bringing of children."

"The parents of the new-born are old enough to determine that they want to make a life with each other, but the children are brought up in two different environments."

Mr. "X" summed up the interview with this point and ended it by saying, "True love is NOT just SKIN DEEP."

The 'Monstrosity' Star Attraction Of Art Exhibit

(CPS)-Three British students have created a masterpiece of modern art--by mistake.

It all started when the three, who are students at Northeast Essex Technical College, learned that the Colchester Art Society was going to stage an exhibit of modern art.

As a joke, the students collected scrap metal from a workshop and old auto exhaust pipes from a junkyard, and welded the scrap together in a design they called "Monstrosity."

It was so unusual we could not decide where to show it," said Heather Cain, director of the show. "None of the walls seemed to be right, and it didn't fit with other groupings we had."

Miss Cain said her own analysis "was that it was man and woman entangled in a love triangle. Then a teen-ager offered us $10 for it because he wanted a part from it for a hot-rod he was fixing."

"That made me suspicious, so I called the boys who'd delivered it and asked about the artist," he said.

When the three students broke the news to Miss Cain, she apparently didn't believe them.

"She won't even let us sell it to the kid with the hot-rod," he continued sadly.

Here are some Sport Briefs:

Randy Matson of Texas A and M was named the outstanding athlete of the Texas Relays after he had won the shot put and discus throw events. His shot put was 67 feet, nine inches, within one inch of the world record held by Dallas Long. Sixteen meet records were set and two tied in the event. New Mexico upset Southern California in a dual track meet. The score was 98 and one-third to 46 and two-third points. It marked the first loss for the Trojans in a dual meet since 1962 and only their third in 20 years. England's Olympic Broad Jump Champion Lynn Davies beat Ralph Boston of the United States but the U.S. won a dual meet held in London. Davies also nosed out Boston in the Olympic games. Twenty-four teams will see action in the Women's National, AAU Basketball tournament which will start tomorrow in Gallup, New Mexico. The Kansas City Chiefs have traded defensive back Dave Grayson to the Oakland Raiders for defensive back Fred Williamson. Wisconsin fullback Ralph Kurek has signed with the Chicago Bears. Canada's Nancy Greene was the winner of the U.S. Slalom Title at Crystal Mountain in the state of Washington.

"Bold Lad" moved farther ahead in the Kentucky Derby picture with an impressive victory in a six-furlong race at Aqueduct race track. The flashy two-year-old of last year made his first start as a three-year-old with a crowd of 55,578 looking on. And he sprinted to a three-length decision over "Pack Trip" in the six-furlong test. The winning time was one minute, ten and two-fifths seconds. This was Bold Lad's eighth victory in a row.

Originally, Bold Lad had been slated to run in the Gotham Mile, the feature on yesterday's Aqueduct program. But trainer Bill Winfrey decided to withdraw the Wheatley Stable Ace and run him in the shorter race as a tuneup.

multiple RBI hits. However, Doug King demonstrated his clutch hitting ability in the 5th inning by banging out a bases loaded triple. UConn was behind 2-1 at that stage of the game.

Overall it was a fine workout for the Huskies and enabled Coach Panciera to get a good look at some of his promising sophomores. With continued mild weather, permitting plenty of outside batting practice, the hitting should improve to the point where it will compliment the fine pitching staff, by the time UConn meets Middlebury on April 9 for the first official game.

Southern Cal Wins AAU Swim Meet Clark Of Yale Sets New Mark In Century

The National AAU Men's Indoor Swimming Championships came to an end last night in New Haven, Connecticut, with Southern California retaining its title and olympian Steve Clark of Yale moving into the spotlight.

Three other American records were broken by Roy Saari of Southern California; Michigan's Carl Robie and H. Thompson Mann of the North Carolina A.C. All three also won two events during the meet. Sari captured the 200-yard individual medley in one minute, 56 and two-tenths seconds.

Robie won the 500-yard freestyle in four minutes, 44 and one-tenth seconds. And Mann won the 100-yard backstroke in 52 and five-tenths seconds.

Steve Clark, Yale's olympian, became the first swimmer ever to break 46 seconds in the 100-yard freestyle tonight. Clark's performance highlighted the National AAU Men's Indoor Championships at Yale in New Haven, Connecticut.

The 21-year-old winner of three gold medals at the Tokyo Olympics sprinted the distance in 45 and six-tenths seconds. Swimming experts rated the performance the equivalent of the breaking of the four-minute mile barrier in track.

When the time was announced the capacity crowd of 2,300 cheered wildly for several minutes. Clark, the defending champion who had qualified in 46.1, led from the start in the final, beating Villanova's Rick Girdler by five feet.

The listed American record for the distance is 46.5, registered two years ago by Minnesota's Steve Jackman.

Southern Cal's 400-yard medley relay team closed the meet by winning in 3:31.9, which lowered Indians' national mark of 3:33.2 registered two years ago. But Indiana won the NCAA event last week with a 3:30.7, which is pending.

Indiana's Rick Gilbert won the three-meter dive with 563.55 points, beating out olympic champion Ken Sitzberger. Sitzberger won the one-meter title Friday.

The Trojans of South Cal defended their team title piling up 74 points. North Carolina A.C. was next with 47, followed by Yale Freshmen, 25 and Yale Varsity, 21.

Boyer Arrest For Slugging Male Model Tops National Weekend Baseball Scene

Third Baseman Clete Boyer of the New York Yankees will be charged with assault and battery when he returns from a weekend trip made by his club to Puerto Rico.

This is the latest development in the case which started early Thursday morning when Boyer's teammate--Roger Maris--was accused of slugging a male model--Jerome Modzelewski--in a Fort Lauderdale Florida tavern.

Now, a bartender says he saw Boyer throw at least one punch during the brawl. And Modzelewski has sworn out a warrant which will be served on Boyer.

Boyer admits being present with Maris, pitcher Hal Reniff and former Yankee ace Joe Dimaggio. But both Maris and Boyer have denied being involved in the punching.

Also in baseball--pitcher Dennis Bennett of the Boston Red Sox collapsed with a muscle spasm yesterday during a drill at Scottsdale, Arizona, and is lost to the club indefinitely. An orthopedic specialist says Bennett may have to remain in a hospital for several days. And he refused to even guess how long Bennett will be out of action.

Bennett was traded by the Philadelphia Phils during the season to the Red Sox in a deal for first baseman Dick Stuart.

Owner Bob Carpenter of the Phils had announced prior to Bennett's collapse that he would make an adjustment with the Red Sox--if the southpaw could not pitch this season. But under no condition continued Carpenter, would Stuart be returned to the Red Sox.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have named shortstop Maury Wills Field Captain...The Cleveland Indians have given lefthanded pitcher Bud Daley his unconditional release.

Daley left for his home in Orange, California, and said he does not plan to seek another baseball job. The pre-season sales for the Houston Astros have passed the three million dollar mark. The club will dedicate its new domed stadium on Friday night in an exhibition game against the New York Yankees. The Washington Senators have purchased pitcher Mike McCormick from the Baltimore Orioles for the waiver price.

Two pitchers officially joined the Chicago White Sox rosters today. Veteran left-hander Juan Pizarro, who ended his holdout yesterday, joined the club in Lakeland, Florida, and pitched batting practice immediately. The other addition was Rookie Bob Locker. He was promoted from the Indianapolis Farm Club.

The Minnesota Twins have trimmed their roster to 30 players by sending eleven players to their Melbourne, Florida, minor league camp for reassignment. The players are pitchers Bill Dalley, Gary Dotter, Jim Merritt, Chuck Nieson, Jim Olom, Garry Roggenburk and Dwight Siebler, catcher Ken Retzer, and infielders Jim Jenkins, Ron Theobald and Jay Ward. The Washington Senators have purchased veteran left-handed pitcher Mike McCormick from the Baltimore Orioles for the $20,000 waiver price. Since joining the New York Giants in 1956, McCormick has compiled a Major League record of 65 victories and 69 defeats.

Last year, after losing his only two decisions with Baltimore, McCormick had a 12 and eight record with Rochester of the International League.

The New York Yankees downed the Washington Senators 8 to 7 before 18,416 fans in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Elston Howard and Joe Pepitone of the Yankees and Bob Chance of the Senators had homers in the arclight duel...In another night contest, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Philadelphia Phils 6 to 1, with Wally Bunker looking impressive on the mound.

Ron Massey Named As Varsity Tennis Captain

Ronald E. (Boon) Massey, a senior from Trumbull, has been named captain of the University of Connecticut tennis team, according to an announcement by Coach John Chapman.

Massey, an English Major, has played the number one position on the Connecticut varsity for the greater part of his two-year career at Connecticut. He relinquished that spot toward the latter part of last season when he was troubled by a shoulder sprain. He was 14-4 in two years of dual match competition.

His consistency as a winner was a major contribution to the success of the Huskies who last spring went through the season undefeated in nine dual matches and won the Yankee Conference Championship.

A graduate of Rich Township High School in Park Forest, Illinois, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Massey of 150 Suzanne Circle, Trumbull.

Connecticut Baseballers To Open Season With Games Against Middlebury And B.U.

When the Connecticut baseball team opens its season with two games at home on Friday and Saturday, Coach Larry Panciera will find himself fortified with a wealth of experience on the field as well as plenty of reserve strength in the persons of many promising sophomores.

Panciera notes these assets will not be a luxury, however, since the majority of the teams on the schedule are in the same boat with reference to personnel.

Middlebury College, Friday's opponent, is the shining example. The Black Panthers, who won the Vermont state baseball crown last spring, lost only two players through graduation. Boston University comes to Storrs for a 2 p.m. game on Saturday.

Getting back to Connecticut's personnel, the Huskies have five holdover pitchers with a couple of promising sophomores hoping to crack into the regular rotation. It looks like the opponents will be given a diet of left-handed pitching no matter who lands the top spots.

Leo Bravakis of Middletown and Bob Horozy of Meriden appear ready to fill the bill as the number one and two twirlers. His coach says Dick Baranowski of New Britain has the physical tools to make the grade but needs only to prove himself worthy. Tommy Lawton of Naugatuck is also high on Panciera's list. Bravakis and Baranowski are seniors, Horozy a junior and Lawton a sophomore. All are lefties.

Eddie Carroll of Quincy, Mass., counted upon for the regular catching duties, underwent an appendectomy a couple of weeks ago and he'll be missing for about half the season. Doug King of Needham, Mass., who has played as a catcher-outfielder, fills his shoes with Shortstop Bob Schaefer of Westport in reserve. Both are lettermen.

The outfield will open with returnees Mike Gerich of Hartford and Lou Aceto of Hamden flanking rookie Tommy Penders of Stratford who was an exciting basketball player and hit at a .579 pace during his freshman season.

Overall, Coach Panciera feels he has the blend of veterans and newcomers which coaches like to have. There is competition at all positions with potentially fine ball players waiting on the bench to take the place of a faltering veteran. The defense looks adequate and the hitting should be "good."

Connecticut expects to be in the thick of the Yankee Conference attempt to unseat the Kingpins from Maine.

The team received its first out of doors test Saturday afternoon the University of Hartford at Gardner Dow Field.

After the regulation nine innings, UConn led 7-2 and stretched their advantage to 12-2 by the end of the afternoon.

Head coach Larry Panciera was pleased with the performance turned in by his pitchers, especially Steve Goulyas, Dick Baranowski and sophomore, Tom Laughton. All exhibited good control and kept Hartford's few hits well spaced.

Although the lopsided score indicates UConn's superiority in this game, Coach Panciera feels that the hitting could have been much better. A total of thirteen Huskies were left stranded on base as UConn failed on several occasions to come up with mul-

Who in the world seals the bottom? Volkswagen.

Here's a side of the VW that few people know about: the underside. It is completely enclosed, and sealed with rubber to make it practically airtight. So tight, there are reports it will float! But here's a more useful advantage: a VW sloshes through water that brings other traffic to a standstill.

On most cars, control wires and cables are left exposed. But notice how flat and smooth the VW bottom is. No hollow pockets and hanging parts to trap air and slow you down. Less drag. Better gas mileage. A VW depreciates less than any other car because less can happen to it.

The Volkswagen's heater and defroster are part of the chassis, built into it and therefore included in our price $1,595*top to bottom.
