

BOG Meeting Plans Activities

Uconn's Board of Governors, the student activity leaders of the HUB, discussed financial appropriations and the projects that they will be sponsoring at their meeting last Tuesday.

The first project brought up by President Richard Dempsey was a student leaders coffee which the BOG plans to sponsor on October 21. Members of the Board favored the plan stating that the function of such a coffee would be to enable the student leaders from the various organizations on campus to become acquainted early in the year in order that they may be better prepared to work together throughout the year.

NEXT ON THE AGENDA was the discussion of the monthly Student Union calendar which serves as a daily reminder of events and meetings to the students and the faculty. The total yearly cost of the calendar is $980. In view of the fact that this project has appeared so helpful in the past, the BOG members passed the appropriation put forth.

Under Special Events the main topic of discussion was the fashion show to be held Wednesday, November 18. At this time the students will get the opportunity to view the latest fashion in women's clothing.

This year's Board of Governors regional conference will be held in Springfield, Massachusetts from November 20-22. Here the members will have the opportunity to meet with other Boards in the area and share ideas for new projects and activities.

Under the Recreation Committee report, the BOG discussed the HI-FI Instruction Series which will be held on October 12, 14, 19, and 21 in the Music Lounge of the HUB. The function of the series is to provide lessons in the proper use of the HUB hi-fi set in order that students interested in using it will have the opportunity to do this at their leisure after having been instructed properly. Students interested in receiving these lessons may sign up at the HUB Control Desk for the date on which they wish to appear. Only ten students will be instructed at one time and only one lesson is necessary.

LAST YEAR the HUB took a survey on the popularity of individual records. Therefore, when ordering a new supply this year, the Cultural Committee of the BOG will be better informed on what type of music the students prefer and may order accordingly.

Following this the annual BOG budget was presented to the members. It was arranged so that each of last year's functions was described as to estimated expenses and actual expenses. Thus, having seen the results of last year's events, the BOG will be better able to plan and appropriate funds for coming activities. Also, each group of events was definitely classified so that the BOG will know how much of a balance remains in each category and will plan coming events accordingly.

During the early part of second semester each year the Board of Governors holds interviews for those students interested in becoming new members. Candidates are judged on their interest, personality and possible past experience with HUB projects. A slate of judges then select those candidates it considers most capable and these individuals are installed to the BOG by President Jorgensen.

Uconn Husky Spirit Reborn; Bonfire, Pep Rally Attended

By SUE GRAF
Associate Editor

Go, Connecticut, go! These were the words heard at the Pep Rally held Friday night in the back of Hawley Armory. The group assembled at 7:30 and began to cheer and sing Uconn songs to raise the "dormant" spirit of the students.

The students gathered for the bonfire and Pep Rally to raise spirit for the University of Connecticut - University of Massachusetts football game which was held Saturday afternoon as part of the Dad's Day activities.

Coach Ingalls spoke to the group and said: "Although we are few in number tonight as we have been few in victories thus far, tomorrow this will not be the case. We will win!" (Editor's note: And we did!)

THE CO-CAPTAINS, Joe Llodra and Barry O'Connell, spoke to the group about Saturday's game saying they would play their hardest to bring home a victory for Uconn against Umass.

The bonfire was then set afire by Coach Ingalls. To add to the spirit a Umass Indian was burned at the stake as flames soared high.

The cheerleaders were on hand, led by Mary Lou Wallace, captain of the squad, to lead the assembled group in the Uconn cheers. There have recently been three additional members to the squad. They are Jim Chapman, Ron Riccio and Jim Wheeland, who will help the girls to lead the Uconnites in cheering the boys. Ron Ruzzy planned the Bonfire and Pep Rally program which the Student Senate Blue and White Committee sponsored. Ruzzy contended that the upperclassmen lacked the spirit which the Freshmen would display at the gathering.

Trophies were given to the women's and men's groups which made the most noise and which had the greatest representation. Beard-A won first for the women's division; Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity won the first prize in the men's groups.

Engineers Discuss Their Curriculum

"The Modern Engineering Curriculum" was the topic at the Friday evening panel discussion. Panelists included: Prof. M. W. Essigman, head of Northeastern University Electrical Engineering Dept.; Prof. Harry D. Watson, head of University of Maine Mechanical Engineering Dept.; and Theodore F. Collier, Collier and Cahn, Norwalk.

Saturday morning's program was keyed to the theme, "Science and Engineering—Their Differences and Their Interrelation." Chairman of this first general session was Prof. Daniel C. Drucker of Brown University.

Speakers were Dean William P. Kimball, Dartmouth College, and Prof. Ascher Shapiro, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Following the general session, three discussion groups examined "Undergraduate Curriculum," "Graduate Curriculum," and "Professional Engineering and Registration."

A second general session in the afternoon explored the theme, "Engineering Education and Industry." Co-chairmen for this session were Uconn Dean Harold Torgesen, and Leonard B. Landall, Raytheon Mfg. Co., Waltham, Mass.

Speakers for this session included: Prof. Joseph H. Keenan of MIT; Prof. Albert G. Conrad of Yale University; Ronald R. McFarlan, consulting engineer and Ross H. Begg of Pratt and Whitney Division, United Aircraft Corp.

Nutmeg Staff Plans Miss Nutmeg Contest, Cover Design Contest

By TED ZDEB
Staff Reporter

Senior portraits will be taken for the 1960 Nutmeg yearbook starting next Monday. This is the first in a series of plans for the 1960 Nutmeg, which include a Nutmeg cover design contest and a contest to determine Miss Nutmeg of 1960.

SENIOR PORTRAITS will begin to be taken on Monday, October 19, from 10:30 a.m. and again from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. at the Student Union third floor south cloakroom. They will terminate at the Thanksgiving vacation. The date of the group shots will be announced later.

Seniors, if they are to have their portraits in the 1960 Nutmeg, should make an appointment now at the Nutmeg office, HUB 110, from 1 to 5 on any weekday afternoon. If this is inconvenient, a senior can make an appointment by telephone by calling extension 278 at the same time.

G. FOX & CO. will be the photographer. There will be a $2.00 sitting fee. If a senior wishes, he can order individual portraits for himself at a special reduced student rate. Those who have a G. Fox & Co. charge account can use it in lieu of cash payments for the portraits. If a senior acts promptly, he can expect to obtain his portraits by Christmas vacation.

The 1960 Nutmeg cover design contest will be open to any undergraduate student of the University of Connecticut. It will be an attempt to choose the best cover design which will be used on the 1960 Nutmeg yearbook. This contest is not limited to art majors or the Nutmeg staff, but is open to all students regardless of their art training.

This contest is designed to give a wider, direct, student participation in the planning of their yearbook, to obtain fresh ideas, and to give students an opportunity to display their ingenuity and ability in creating a yearbook cover.

The previous yearbooks with the exception of the 1959 Nutmeg, were blue and white. However, there will be no restrictions as to the color, style, or design of this year's yearbook.

THE CONTESTANT, if he chooses, can be present during the judging to explain the technique of his design to the judges who will be the members of the Nutmeg executive staff. The sketches for the contest will be accepted shortly.

Richard Pignone, editor of the 1960 Nutmeg, said:

"The winner will have the distinction of having his design placed on the cover of the Nutmeg. Recognition will be shown the winner by having his name placed on the credits page. He will also receive a copy of the 1960 Nutmeg."

ANOTHER PLAN is to conduct a Miss Nutmeg contest. The Nutmeg editor stated that Miss Nutmeg would be chosen strictly on the basis of beauty. Her full-color portrait will be printed in the Nutmeg along with the portraits of the other queens.

The judges for the Miss Nutmeg contest, which will be held in the spring, will be the members of the Nutmeg executive board and possibly three faculty members.

The Nutmeg works within a budget allotment made by the Student Senate, and from this allotment the price and the number of pages are determined.

Concerning the purposes and aims of the contests and the 1960 Nutmeg, Richard Pignone stated:

"These contests would help to overcome the apathy and lack of interest shown toward the Nutmeg in the past years. The Nutmeg is not a 4-yearbook but a 1-yearbook that shows the pictorial and verbal record of the events occurring during the school year. That is, it contains a resume of the history of the University during the year and is not a four year history of the senior class. Therefore, it is equally appealing to freshmen as well as to seniors since both participate in the year. It, of course, has senior portraits and their write-ups, but it is conceived with the entire student body in mind. The Nutmeg is a yearbook put out strictly by students for students."

RICHARD PIGNONE further stated that applications are still being accepted from all students interested in working on the 1960 Nutmeg. The different sections on which they may work are the business, layout and production, feature, sports, organizations, seniors, residences, and advertising departments. The students working in the advertising department will receive a 15 per cent commission on all advertisements sold.

THE MEMBERS of the Nutmeg executive board are:

Ike's Last Means Ike's Last Means,

BY GEORGE MARDER

Once used, Taft - Hartley becomes a forbidden weapon to end national emergency strikes.

That is why presidents are so reluctant to invoke its provisions except as a last resort. For if they do and it doesn't bring about peace, they've used their last legal means of getting the men back to work.

In the 12 years of the Taft-Hartley Law, the national emergency provisions have been invoked 16 times. Ten by President Truman and six times by President Eisenhower, including the most recent use of the law in the East and Gulf dock workers' strike.

The law has a spotty record of success in bringing about final settlements through its 80-day cooling off period.

Four times the law was invoked and disputes ended even before injunctions were issued. On the surface, it would seem that the mere threat of injunction played a part at least in these cases of bringing on settlements. But labor experts question that considerably. For example, in one of the cases, it took almost three months between the time the law was invoked and an agreement was negotiated, even though no injunction was obtained.

In two cases, the law wasn't even effective in getting all the men back to work. Both of those involved the United Mine Workers under John L. Lewis. The law bans a strike during the cooling off period, but it cannot force an individual to return to work because that would violate his constitutional rights.

In one miners' case, the union and Lewis were found guilty of contempt because the workers continued to stay out of the pits despite the injunction. That was because the court found that Lewis and the union were encouraging a strike by a nod and a wink. In the second case, the orders went out to end the strike, but most of the men stayed away anyway. In both cases, Lewis won most of his demands from the industry.

In five other disputes, agreements were reached during the 80-day cooling period, or shortly thereafter without new strikes.

But in four others, the Taft-Hartley Law merely delayed the final showdown and apparently accomplished little except to solidify the opposing positions. In all those four, the strikes were resumed and final agreements didn't come until much later.

The main part of the cooling off period is 60 days at the end of which the National Labor Relations Board steps in with an election to find out whether the workers accept or reject the final offer of management. The law provides that this be done on a company by company basis, rather than industry-wide. The idea is to find out whether there is a crack in the union's industry-wide front.

In the past, however, none of these cracks have developed once the men have gone out on a national strike and have been forced to return under a Taft-Hartley injunction.

Announcements

Hillel Services

To clarify a previous error in the Daily Campus, the following Hillel House services have been listed for today: Yom Kippur services at 9:30 a.m., continuing throughout the day. Yisker Memorial services will be at 2 p.m. Break the fast at Hillel with refreshments at sunset, tonight.

Setback Games

The Setback Tournament, which had been scheduled to be held tonight will not take place.

Musical Groups

Student combos and musical groups are requested to register with the Office of Coordinator of Student Activities as soon as possible.

The list of combos will be published by the office and sent to all living units on campus.

DEBUT OF A MASCOT: Jonathan V made his first appearance at a Uconn football game last Saturday. The formal presentation of the mascot was made by Elmer Watson, during half time as he turned the dog over to Student Senate President Edric Bates. A dinner was held earlier in the day to honor Watson for his contribution to the Student Body. In this pose taken after the half time ceremony are (standing l. to r.) Edric Bates; Ann Etkind, Senate Vice President; Elmer Watson; (in foreground) Metawampee, Umass cheerleader; Maurice DeLuca, one of Jonathan V's trainers and, of course, Jonathan V. Bates commented that, although Jonathan was having trouble becoming used to his new job, his trainers felt that the dog showed signs of becoming one of the most spirited Jonathan's the school has seen. ## Sorority Rushing Continues Gatherings, Parties Begin

Rushing will continue tonight and Wednesday with the formal parties to be held from 6:30 to 10 at each sorority. Each house will have two parties on one of the two evenings.

The Panhellenic handbook suggests that the rushees wear wool dresses and heels to these parties. The Panhellenic post office will be open from 12 to 3:30. Girls may pick up their invitations to the formal parties and afternoon gatherings at this time.

Today is also the dropout date for rushing. Girls who wish to drop out must register this between 12 and 3:30 in the Panhellenic post office in order to be eligible to rush another time.

On Tuesday and Thursday afternoons the afternoon gatherings will be held. These gatherings are very informal and since you will be coming right from classes, regular school clothes may be worn.

The gatherings will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. If you are unable to attend you should state your reason when answering the invitation. The Sororities understand that some girls will have classes at this time and will be unable to attend.

On Sunday the Sororities will hold their coffees. These are from 4 to 6 p.m. and will be the last parties of fall Rush. Wool dresses or suits and heels will be suitable for these coffees.

On Monday, October 19, rushees will fill out their preferentials from 11 to 2:00 in the Panhellenic post office. The girls write their three choices of Sororities in order of preference. Miss Schwartz wishes to emphasize the importance of writing three choices if possible.

On Tuesday, October 20, girls may pick up their bids at Panhellenic post office. Pledging will be Tuesday, October 20 at 5 p.m. Each bid specifies what should be worn for pledging.

Those girls unable to sign preferentials on Monday may pick up their bids in on Tuesday morning, October 20 in Miss Schwartz's office. Her office is in room 316 of the Administration Building.

This early rush system is new this year. It is believed that this system will give girls a longer time to live as Sorority women, and that it will give girls a goal to work for. Miss Schwartz urges that girls work hard at their studies since a 20 q.p.r. is needed to become initiated into a Sorority.

HUB Committee Sponsors Various Instruction Series

Dancing instructions, sponsored by the Student Union Recreation Committee, will begin Thursday, October 15, in the HUB Ballroom from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. The price of the six week series which ends November 19, is $1.00 for men; women are admitted free. Anyone who is interested must sign up at the control desk.

The instructor is Miss Margaret Cassidy, a senior at the University, who also taught dancing last year for the Student Union. Some of the dances which will be taught are the tango, mambo, jitterbug, cha-cha and the fox trot. In addition, any other dances requested by the class will be taught.

A SIX WEEK SERIES in knitting and crocheting will begin October 15. The instructions will be given in room 269 from 7 to 8 every Thursday evening. Mrs. Ethyl De Mattia, who is employed by the Home Economics Department, will be the instructor. Mrs. De Mattia has had much experience in craft of this type and is very enthusiastic about the program.

Interested students may sign up at the control desk and must pay $1.00 for the series. These instructions are for beginners, who must bring their own needles, yarn and patterns. Starting with simple items like scarves, mittens or caps, the individual will progress as fast as she learns, according to the work she puts in outside of class.

HI FI INSTRUCTIONS are now being given for all students interested on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 7:30, and from 7:30 to 8 in the Music Lounge. Robert Blair, the instructor, will give every student who completes the instructions a certificate enabling the students to use the records at the control desk and the hi fi set in the music lounge. Students who are interested, may sign up at the control desk, indicating the date and time that they can come. Those who have signed up before October 5 and have not yet received their instructions will have to sign up again for a specific time and date.

Ike 69 Wednesday

Washington, Oct. 11 — (UPI) — President Eisenhower will be 69 years old Wednesday, an age only two other presidents have reached while in office. The White House news corps will honor Mr. Eisenhower at a black tie dinner tomorrow night. On Tuesday the chief executive will fly to his hometown Abeline, Kansas for groundbreaking ceremonies for a memorial library.

Commuters Meet

An all-day meeting to organize commuters will be held this Wednesday, in HUB 299. Commuter problems will be discussed which, it is planned, will lead to a commuter column in the Daily Campus.

Also, the group will pick the girl to reign as "Miss Commuter," who will, in addition, be the commuter entry in the Homecoming Queen contest. All women commuters have been invited to enter the "Miss Commuter" contest.

Why Compulsory ROTC?

Why do we have a compulsory two-year ROTC program on the UConn campus? The first answer that comes to the minds of most students is that such a program is required of all land grant colleges. This is not true. This decision is actually up to the UConn Board of Trustees.

A case in point is a recent student referendum at the University of California. The Executive Committee of Associated Students there, became aware of the fact the Board of Regents at The University of California had the authority to institute a voluntary system, (non-compulsory to freshmen and sophomores). They then sponsored a student referendum to determine the desirability of the compulsory program.

By a ratio of 2-1, the students expressed their desire for a voluntary ROTC program.

Also, for the majority of men students who were not interested in a military career, compulsory ROTC apparently served no practical purpose. Furthermore, it was pointed out that all the material covered in the two year's program is learned in an extensive six week's course of basic training required by all branches of the United States Armed Forces.

The majority of students at the University of California also felt the eight units spent during the freshmen and sophomore years in ROTC could be more profitably spent in courses more suited to their broader interests and fields of emphasis.

Two more reasons mentioned during the referendum were 1. Conscientious objectors were forced to take this program even though they were exempt from actual military service, and 2. Voluntary attendance would no doubt strengthen the program by allotting more time for the extensive training of those who are seriously interested in the program.

The results of the referendum were sent to the College Board of Regents. Thus far, however, no action has been taken by the Board.

This is not meant to criticize the California College Board for not taking action for one thing, they still have the matter under consideration. This editorial is also not meant to infer the exact same situation exists at UConn.

But some things are apparent. UConn does have compulsory ROTC. UConn is not required as a land grant college to have such a program; in other words, it is a decision under the authority of the Board of Trustees.

It would seem reasonable that the Board, in its capable functioning of duties, would be appreciative of an indication of student opinion on this matter to help them in their deliberations.

Therefore, the Daily Campus recommends, that our own Student Senate seriously look into the possibility of a similar expression of student opinion concerning the question of compulsory ROTC on the UConn campus.

A Flying Start

Music programs got off to an auspicious start last week with the performance of the New York Chamber Soloists in the Auditorium. If the concert is any indication of success, this should be a great year for music lovers. In fact, some people were so enthusiastic over the Scarlatti piece for harpsichord, that a group is seriously considering starting a fund to collect money for the acquisition of a harpsichord for UConn. (Just what every University needs.)

Again, our thanks go to Mr. Willard Sistare and his committee who direct these programs, and our special thanks to that part of the University budget which is devoted to these programs which are free of charge.

Letters To The Editor

Trinity On Patrick

Dear Joseph Patrick,
Recently I came across a copy of the Daily Campus sitting on a desk in the office of the Trinity Tripod. Curiosity prompted me to browse through this literary gem and at length I came to your article entitled "You Shall Walk On the Water". It was with great interest that I read your column; so great in fact, that it prompted me to write a response to you and your illustrious adversaries. It seems to me, Mr. Patrick, that you are a little one-sided in your column. The Greek system has some very good points. It could be that either you have very little knowledge of these points, or deliberately omitted them. That, however, is not important. The fact remains that these benefits are there, and should be brought to the reader's attention.

For instance, Mr. Patrick, don't the Greek houses put out great meals? Aren't they the warmest things on campus, aside from the feet of Mr. Bates, who undoubtedly has discovered by this time that he can't walk on the water unless it is frozen. Don't they have better parties than the non-Greeks? These things are all important, Mr. Patrick, for learning to eat, drink, and dance are important parts of a liberal education.

On the other hand, the Greek system on a college campus is in reality not Greek at all. Historians will testify that ancient Greece came closer to establishing a true democracy than any other government in history. Knowing this, how then can fraternities and sororities claim to be Greek. They are no more democratic than Russia is today, and any "brother" or "sister" who insists that they are, is thinking with his heart instead of his head. The fraternity system with its "blackballs", its discriminations, and its prejudices cannot be thought of as democratic in any sense of the word.

That there are numerous other faults with the fraternity system is self-evident. The greater expense, the poor inter-fraternity relations, the bad influence upon some student's academic habits, the actual splits within a single house are a few more upon which I shall not discourse.

Actually, I did not write this letter to tear down the fraternity system, but rather to congratulate you, Mr. Patrick, on having the intestinal fortitude to stand up and tell the Greeks (and I use the word loosely) what you think of their system. Your article shows that you are a thinking man, whether you smoke Viceroys or not.

Personalities And Places

By JOYCE BRIERE

Present among us are many interesting personalities. We have on our campus, a number of students who are natives of other countries, others who have traveled extensively and have had many an exciting experience and then we have those who are intriguing because of their interesting pastimes...ahem...hobbies.

Taking a for-instance, I had known Miss Nory Ramos and her associates Miss Almee Pacheco and Miss Yvonne Robles only about a week when one day I got to talking with them on a higher plane and started to ask them questions about Puerto Rican customs, habits, and dress.

Following is some information which was gladly passed on to me:

Puerto Rican people are a lively and fiery group while on the other hand they seem to be of a very easy-going nature. This is probably due to their heritage, which is Spanish, Indian and Negro as well as a spattering of other mixtures. The girls like lots of jewelry and clothes following the Spanish taste. This also applies to the Puerto Rican male who prefers brightly designed shirts and clothes. However, the trend in clothing is getting to be more and more American.

In the case of the Puerto Rican girl, her dressing habits seem paradoxical to the moral concepts held by the country as female purity in Puerto Rico is held in the highest esteem. A girl's reputation is her future and might well affect her family also. Many precautions are taken during the dating stage to see that she is not left alone with boyfriends. Most dating consists of school socials where everybody knows everyone there. This practice is often continued right through high school and up to the time of marriage. Young couples must be chaperoned at all times.

In the case of a steady boyfriend, he might be allowed to frequent the young girl's house two or three times a week. He is usually allowed to take his steady to the movies occasionally but only in the company of another couple who are usually relatives.

Going steady usually leads to engagement (which I might add is much more serious) taken there) and ultimately to marriage. Engagements last on the average of one or two years during which couples have a chance to prove their faithfulness to each other.

After the couple get married, they usually have about five children. The family is much more closely knit than American families and the parents don't usually leave their children home when they go out. If they do go out without their children, they are usually left in the care of a relative such as the grandmother. Babysitters as we know them are practically unknown.

The typical types of entertainment enjoyed by all are movies, horse racing, baseball, concerts, Latin American music from the Dominican Republic and Cuba, dancing and socials given by the town or school.

Contrary to popular belief, the typical Puerto Rican is not like the New York one. Miss Ramos and her friends explained that these people were mostly people from the lowest and poorest classes.

She went on to explain that many of these people have common law marriages which is again contrary to the mores of that country. The reason given was lack of priests, who come from Spain or America, and also lack of money and transportation.

Although the U.S. has built developments for these immigrants in N.Y., they cannot move in because they do not have the marriage certificate which is required by the city of N.Y. As a result, these people move in where they can and being poor as well as insecure seek out others like them. Miss Ramos believes that improvement in the home country will rectify this situation and feels that there are steps being taken such as: better and more jobs for all by the building of new industries under Governor Munoz's "Operation Bootstrap."

Finally I asked Miss Ramos if there were any big political questions in her country. She says that lately there has been a movement for statehood by the upper classes but that there is nothing definite yet.

Confusing Tale Of Chris Columbus

By MARGOT REISEL BARA

When old Chris Columbus sailed across the horizon and discovered what he thought was India, little did he realize that he was to be accredited with the founding of a great nation. Actually America was not even a glint in Chris's eye for he landed far south of what is known today as North America. This may be a great blow to the American citizen who for many years has been led to believe that he was the founder of our country.

Not wanting to shock the tender minds of youth, this general misconception is corrected in a series of stages as education progresses, as the blow is too great to administer all at once.

It is first learned that Christopher Columbus discovered America for the Queen of Spain. It is therefore assumed that Chris was Spanish.

The first inkling that all is not well on the historical front comes when the student learns in subsequent history courses that Chris was not Spanish at all, but rather Italian and that Queen Isabella of Spain was the only one of the European powers that would subsidize his little expedition (the others thought him quite mad).

Thus he set out on his voyage across the Atlantic with his three trusty little ships the Nina, the Pinta, and the Santa Maria. In reality they were far from trustworthy; in fact they were the three most worm-eaten, leaky old tubs the Queen's fleet had to offer, as the Queen didn't take too much stock in Chris's venture in the first place.

He set out on September 6, 1492, after a refueling stop in the Canary Islands with stormy seas and a rebellious crew. As the story goes the crew was panicked by Chris who maintained that he knew exactly where he was when he really hadn't the faintest idea. The fact is that had they not stumbled across land when they did old Chris would never have been accredited with discovering anything at all, let alone America, for the crew was in a state of semi-mutiny as it was and were all for turning back. Then low and behold land was sighted and all was well.

On October 12, 1492, Chris and his three little tubs limped into a harbor on the coast of the Americas.

Now comes the final blow. He didn't really find what is termed as America today, not North America is any event. He landed on what is now Watling Island in the group of islands known as the Bahamas, a rather unglamorous name for such a colorful page of history.

Such as it may be, placing credit where credit is due, Christopher Columbus did perform a major feat in the annals of history. He proved that mankind could sail off into the oceans of the world without falling off a ledge as was believed at that time, and he did discover a part of the world that was not known to the Europeans, even though to his dying day he believed that he had found a route to India. He instilled curiosity in the hearts of man, and indeed we owe him a vote of gratitude, for if it had not been for Christopher Columbus and his three little worm-eaten tubs even the America that is known today might never have been discovered at all.

Letters... Fashion Features

By SUE KLASSON

The Female Fashion World: Sweaters allow for the individual this fall. After last year's concentration on the chemise look, it's great to see a wide variety of sweater styles again. The best of this year's sweaters are the beautifully tailored classics and near classics... perfectly fitting sweaters which chameleon-like change their appearance with their accessories.

Taking top honors in the "near-classic" category are the boat necked, hip length pullover; the V-necked cardigan and a raft of takeoffs on the polo shirt.

Marvelous collars of all kinds mark the new sweaters. Bulky turtle necks and mock turtles, wide cowls and neat collar and placket teams appear often.

YARNS

Many yarns are available this season but furblends stand out head and shoulders above the rest. In both, fine gauge and bulky styles. Minklam, a blend of imported lambswool and fur fibers, is a favorite for its soft, luxurious hand, long life, washability and relatively low cost.

Shaglam a shaggy blend of wool and mohair, also occupies an important position in the fiber picture this year.

The synthetic yarns are undergoing transformation: Orlon Cantree, Du Pont's new yarn, looks, feels and everything but costs like silk. This represents news in the knit field while multi-ply Orlon yarns are the basis for marvelous heavy textured sweaters.

COLORS

Colors have swung away from brilliant so popular last fall and towards a softer, more flattering range of blues, greens, camels and clear reds. The one-color look assumes more importance. Sweaters are matched both to fabric and knit skirts. These simply styled color-mated knit costumes lend themselves beautifully to accessories such as silk scarves, in menswear colors, wide and narrow belts and all kinds of jewelry.

Simply styled, neutrally colored knit ensembles are slated to play an increasingly important role in the average female's wardrobe.

Long And Short

One of the letters received by the editors this past week contained some interesting ideas and criticisms. Dick Hill, in his letter regarding my first column, took it upon himself to criticize me, my proponents, and my antagonists. It was a pretty good letter, (compared with the others) containing some points that I feel deserve attention, now that the rushing season is upon us and some students are considering going Greek, which leads to this week's discussion.

Conformity, between the Greeks and non-Greeks, is not the basic difference in the two systems. "Both systems have a definite validity of their own for the individual depending upon his self-resourcefulness and gregariousness," writes Hill. And this is the essence of the whole thing. Self-resourcefulness and gregariousness.

As I have observed the behavior of the members of both societies for, lo, these many years, the Greeks are short on self-resourcefulness and long on gregariousness, whereas the non-Greeks are exactly the opposite. And that's the long and short of it. Yuk, Yuk!!

The students who don't have the imagination or the ability to make college life fun by their own means must go Greek. The students who can't stand on their own two feet and support a decision must go Greek to bind others, equally weak, who find their courage within a group. The students who cannot bear solitude must go Greek so others can sit at the dinner table with them and thus prevent nervous stomachs. The student (female) who cannot tolerate the catty-ness inherent in all adolescent (college age) women must go Greek so she and others can wear the same pin and be catty as a group, which is so much easier. In other words, Greeks have no backbone.

The non-Greek, on the other hand, is a person who is completely without any motivation and has less backbone than the Greeks, or is a self-entertaining, social seeking, self-sufficient, independent type person who knows where he is going and what he wants. He does not feel a frantic need to join a Boy Scout troop. The non-Greek (male) is capable of supporting any opinion or conclusion that is his. The non-Greek (female) is capable of attracting dates without the added glory of her house to enhance her appeal. So much for self-resourcefulness.

Gregariousness is a horse of an entirely different color. This is where the Greeks shine. They have their weekend parties, their rushing parties, their BIG weekend parties, their formal, their semi-formals, teas, coffees, exchange dinners, picnics, Christmas parties, end-of-the-year parties, beginning-of-the-year parties, April fool parties, any-kind-of-an-excuse parties—and they thrive on it. They eat it right up, as the expression goes. They join every organization on campus, try to wrest control of it for the glory of their particular house, and they lead, LEAD, LEAD.

Then they turn right around and, take note, Miss Malanoski, exemplify true Christian charity by telling the less gregarious non-Greeks what a bunch of poor slob they are because they sit back on their haunches, which is admittedly what they actually do. The non-Greeks, poor slob, sit back and take this like so many whipped dogs. On some occasions, an independent group will become active, try to enter the sacred circle that is run by the Greeks and are promptly ridiculed by these campus Gods and Goddesses.

There must be a happy medium somewhere. Do self-resourcefulness and gregariousness cancel each other out? Is it impossible for the non-Greek to engage in more activities, to do their bit for the community in general? Must Greeks always be basically Licksplittles by nature?

MAIL CALL:

BOB NEARLY: Had any luck?
NAME WITHHELD UPON REQUEST: Don't be silly. Who would spray their chin with Stoptet or Mum? Or better yet, use a 5-day pad?

CAROL MALANOSKI: It seems that Veronica's veil was last exhibited on Dec. 8, 1854, in St. Peter's so I guess I haven't seen it. I agree with you that the comment should have been deleted from the article. I publicly apologize to you and to any others whom I've offended. However, there is another point to discuss with you, young lady. You worry about your conscience and I'll worry about my mine. My conscience and sense do not rule my heart, they assist my mind, and if you think my mind is rather weak or distorted, then be it so, for I'll be judged less severely in the eyes of the Lord if it is.

BILL GRIMES: One does not successfully complete his four years at the University by standing on a corner looking for bearded jerks.

Letters To The Editor

Bookstore Evaluated—, Condemned For 'Fringes'

Dear Editor,

Perhaps it is time that an evaluation of the bookstore was made.

Being a new student to the campus, I was at first impressed by the fact that the bookstore had been allotted quarters. I imagined that with the recent voluminous increase in paper-back titles the space assigned this section would be substantial. I was soon disillusioned.

Far from being the expansive place I had expected, the bookstore turned out to be a narrowly constrained area bulging with a querulous humanity. Lines were long and tempers were short. This could have been forgiven had the paper-back section been adequate, but even this was not true. Incredibly enough an exorbitant amount of space in these already cramped conditions had been allotted to such educational "fringe" articles as UConn T-shirts, UConn sweatshirts and other non-essentials. At the same time such valuable series as the Mentor and Meridian books remained closeted in the storage room. Now while I recognize the importance of pennants and the like, it would seem that books deserve equal attention at least.

Before I am mistaken as a traitor to UConn or something, I would like to say that it is heartening to know we have the above titles—now if we could get at them.

US Foreign Service Officer To Speak On Opportunities

Would you like to be a member of the United States Foreign Service Officer corps and serve your country abroad?

If you have a general liberal background or if you are interested in special fields such as public administration, economics, languages area studies, international labor affairs, political science, you may have a chance to become a Foreign Service Officer.

To inform Uconn students of the opportunities in this field, a member of the Foreign Service, Mr. Dayton Hull, will speak tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in the UN room of the HUB. Those interested are cordially welcome to attend. Also application blanks for the written exam to be given December 5 at 65 centers throughout the United States may be obtained from Mr.

John Powers in Administration or from Dr. Norman Kogan in the Government Department.

Those who successfully pass the full day written exam will later be given an oral exam by panels throughout the country. Candidates recommended by oral examination then will be given a physical examination and a background investigation. The written exam tests the candidates' facility in English expression, general ability and background and foreign language proficiency in French, German, Spanish or Russian.

A candidate in all other respects may be appointed as a Foreign Service Officer without having passed the language test, but his appointment will be subject to the condition that he may neither be promoted to a higher class nor be retained in the service unless, within a specified period of time, he passes a written or an oral examination in a modern foreign language acceptable to the department.

A newly appointed Foreign Service candidate may serve his first tour of duty, normally of 2 years duration, either in the Department Headquarters in Washington, D.C., or at one of the 296 American Embassies, Legations and Consulates abroad. The starting salary ranges from $5,225 to $5,885 per year, depending on qualifications, experience, marital status, and age at the time of appointment. In addition, certain allowances plus insurance, medical, educational and retirement benefits are granted as well as annual and sick leave.

Gamma Sig Sisters Attend Philadelphia Convention

Six sisters of Uconn's Nu chapter of Gamma Sigma Sigma, national service sorority, attended the annual Gamma Sig convention last June at the Drexel Institute of Technology in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Every chapter in the nation was represented at the convention. The function of the annual event is to allow members from all over the country to become acquainted in order that they might share ideas of successful projects, both social and of university service.

MEMBERS OF Uconn's chapter attending the convention were Denise Tsukulas, President; Barbara L'Heureux, Susan Wheeler, Jan Mazstel, and Ruth Penn. Miss Verna Moulton, advisor of this chapter accompanied the girls.

Upon reaching Drexel the sisters of Gamma Sig were greeted by the national officers whom they had met at previous conventions. During the songfest Alicia Roberts from Uconn played the revised edition of the official Gamma Sig song which our Nu chapter had changed last year. Since it was received with so much enthusiasm, the representatives at the meeting adopted it as the new national song. Alicia played the piano for the entire convention and was appointed national song chairman for the next two years.

Three Uconn representatives served on the convention committees. Barbara L'Heureux served on the constitution committee and Denise Tsukulas presented Nu's chapters list of nominees for national election Alicia Roberts, working on the time and place committee, was instrumental in making the decision to have the 1961 convention in Boston.

On Saturday morning the members divided into discussion groups on the subjects of service projects, membership and pledging, alumni and expansion. The results of these discussions included establishing a clearing house to which the various chapters may send ideas throughout the year for publication to all chapters.

SATURDAY NIGHT The Gamma Sig met for an evening social program of dancing, hypnotism, and the awarding of national contest prizes.

On Sunday they toured historical Philadelphia visiting such places as Independence Hall, the first Supreme Court and the Betsy Ross House. In the afternoon a formal banquet was held at the Penn. Sherwood Hotel.

Peggy Brown, a Uconn alumna, was named the most outstanding Gamma Sigma Sigma sister in the nation for 1957-1958.

Denise Tsukulas stated upon returning to Connecticut "the delegates all agree that the weekend had been one of the most rewarding and informative opportunities of their college careers."

Propaganda Set By E. Germany

Communist East Germany has stepped up its propaganda campaign aimed at making it appear that free West Germany is run by former Nazis.

East German news media hammer away with increasingly loud statements. Blasts like: "Adenauer Continues Hitler's Policy" and "Bonn Follows Hitler's Footsteps," "Nazi Murders Under Bonn Protection."

The propagandists claim practically all key positions in the Federal Republic are occupied by Fascists, giving members of the former Nazi party no chance to enter public service.

According to eastern experts, this smear campaign serves a two pronged purpose.

East Germany firstly wants to convince its population that West Germany wants war and is preparing for it.

Secondly, it is endeavoring to cover up for the one time nazis who now occupy leading positions in the so-called German Democratic Republic.

A list of ex nazis now in the service of the East German state shows the Reds have nothing to boast about when they charge "the followers of Hitler are followers of Adenauer."

A list of these ex nazis now in East Germany was compiled by The Committee of Free Jurists in West Berlin, an organization established to investigate East German affairs.

The list shows that when the East German parliament, "The People's Chamber," was newly constituted on November 16, 1958, the number of ex nazis in it had risen from 29 to 47.

Perhaps in an attempt to cover this up, East Germany claimed shortly afterwards that the Bonn Parliament was overrun by former nazis.

"Nazis judges support this Bonn government's war policy" was probably an attempt by East Germany to conceal the fact that the president of its own supreme court was once a nazi.

The president, Kurt Schumacher, was a nazi military court high judge in Germany during the war. He now presides over political trials in East Germany.

The chairman of the East German government, Herbert Kroeger, rector of the Babelsberg Academy for Law and Political Science, was a member of the Hitler S S Corps.

Lin Pao And Khrushchev Clash Over Peace Plans

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign Editor

The Chinese Reds lost little time in demonstrating they are not wholly in accord with Nikita Khrushchev's current peace campaign.

The Soviet Premier gave it the "hard sell" in Peiping.

This is not the time, he said, "to test the stability of the capitalist system by force."

At another point, he told his Communist Chinese allies: "We must do everything possible to preclude war as a means for settling outstanding questions."

But scarcely were the words out of his mouth before Marshal Lin Pao, Red China's new defense minister, rose to speak beneath a canopy of low-flying jet fighters and bombers.

"We will definitely," he said, "liberate Taiwan and other islands." He was talking about Formosa, where the Nationalist Chinese were driven ten years ago by mainland Communists.

Among those present was Ho Chi Minh, whose satellite Vietnamese state continued its radio blasts against the United States and the little Pro-Western Indo-Chinese State of Laos.

Throughout, the Chinese had no criticism, but little praise for the hopeful communique which concluded the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks at Camp David, Maryland.

After four days of secret conferences with Chinese Red Leader Mao Tse Tung, Khrushchev left Peiping. There was no communique, no announced results of the long talks. Just the usual Communist platitudes of friendship.

It may be considered certain that Khrushchev asked Mao not to rock the international boat at this time in his new dealings with the United States. There had been some belief that Khrushchev would ask the Chinese, as a gesture of new international goodwill, to release five Americans now held in Chinese jails.

THERE has been no sign that either met with affirmative action. Not any of this, however, may be taken as a weakening of the Soviet-Red Chinese Axis.

Chinese reluctance to go along totally with Khrushchev's plans may have other reasons, too.

Red China's development, as a Communist state and industrially, is far behind Russia.

While Russia now seeks to fix its satellite boundaries on a line running through the radio blasts against the United States and the little Pro-Western Indo-Chinese State of Laos.

Further, the United States must remain Red China's number one hate.

The United States bars the Communist way to the Quemoy, the Matsus and finally, to Formosa. The U.S. blocks the way to Laos and to all of Southeast Asia. The U.S. stood as a barrier in Korea.

Other elements also enter the restless picture of Asia. India has told the Chinese flatly they must accept the so-called McMahon line delineating the Indo-Chinese borders and that Chinese troops must be withdrawn before border negotiations could be undertaken.

P.E.P.A.S.S.B.T.

The Phi Epsilon Pi All-Star Sorority Basketball Team, coached by Donald Weisman, today challenged the Daily Campus Team to a conflict on the field of honor. This should be the first time that a girls' team is challenging one of the opposite sex.

The All-Stars are made up of one player from each of the nine sororities on campus. The names of the players are being withheld by Coach Weisman until the Campus Team accepts the challenge.

Dr. Evan Lawn To Speak At Newman Club Meeting

Dr. Evan Lawn will speak on "Religious Psychiatry," tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Saint Thomas Aquinas Church.

Dr. Lawn received his A.B. and A.M. degrees at Cornell University and his Ph.D. here at the University of Connecticut. He has taught in Baghdad, India, New York, Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, Connecticut and at Uconn.

For his Ph.D., he wrote on the fundamental philosophical differences between public and parochial education. During the war, he served as an aid at Chestnut Lodge mental hospital in Rockville, Maryland.

There will be an informal social hour in the Chapel Hall after Dr. Lawn speaks, and all students are invited to attend both functions.

The Chapel schedule for this semester includes Sunday Masses at 8, 9, 10 and 11 a.m. Confessions are heard on Saturday from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. and every day before and during Mass. Weekend Masses are held at 6:45 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. on Tuesday through Friday, but at 4:45 only on Monday and at 7:30 and 9 a.m. on Saturday.

LUCKY STRIKE presents

Dear Dr. Frood:

Dr. Frood, Ph.D.

DR. FROOD'S MORAL OF THE MONTH

Things worth having are worth working for. For example: If you want a football letter, find a football player and ask him to write you one.

Dear Dr. Frood: I'm flunking everything but math. I get D in that. Help me.
(Name withheld by request)

Dear Withheld: Spend less time on math.

Dear Dr. Frood: I am a 35-year-old freshman. Should I wear a beanie?

Worried

Dear Worried: If I were a 35-year-old freshman, I'd wear a mask.

Dear Dr. Frood: I have a ravishingly beautiful girl in my class. Sadly, she is witless. Should I flunk her?

Bookish

Dear Bookish: Pass her. Other professors are waiting.

Dear Dr. Frood: Nobody likes me. Girls despise me. Men can't stand me. Prof's detest me. Dogs snap at my cuffs. What should I do?

Hated

Dear Hated: Don't ask me. I don't like you, either.

Dear Dr. Frood: I'm a non-conformist. But I smoke what everybody else smokes — Lucky Strike. How can I be different and still smoke Luckies?

I. M. Odd

Dear Mr. Odd: Light both ends of the Lucky and insert a straw into the middle. Sip the smoke through the straw and say "wildsville" after each puff.

Product of The American Tobacco Company — Tobacco is our middle name

When it comes to choosing their regular smoke, college students head right for fine tobacco. Result: Lucky Strike tops every other regular sold. Lucky's taste beats all the rest because L.S./M.F.T. — Lucky Strike means fine tobacco:

TOBACCO AND TASTE TOO FINE TO FILTER!

Dear Dr. Frood: I go steady with two girls—one in the dorm, one in the Theta house. Traveling between the two places is making a wreck of me. What to do?
Tired

Dear Tired: Get your girl to get your girl into her sorority.

DR. FROOD AND THE AMAZING NEW FILTER

I had occasion recently to study the remarkable "no smoke" filter made of solid lead. No matter how hard you puff, you get no smoke. Incidentally, a pack of these cigarettes weighs 2 pounds. Luckies weigh less... and you get smoke. The best.

Huskies Scalp Redmen, 26-0, In YC Opener

RON KAMINSKI, photopool sports editor, took this pic strip of action shots in Saturday's game. Above is Bill Minnerly going for a score. Below, D'Avolio makes a two point conversion in the last quarter. To the right, Tom Kopp (not seen) makes first Uconn score.

TOM CONROY, whose sparkling defensive play kept the Huskies in business in Saturday's game with Umass. His fine red-dogging of the Mass quarterback at one point in the game resulted in a eight yard loss for the Redmen. He is an All-Conference end.

'MURALS'

BY GEORGE SMITH
Sports Writer

The new date for the intramural cross country meet is this Wednesday at 5 p.m. Director Bob Kennedy felt that the course was too wet and muddy and rather than selecting a new course, which would only confuse the runners, he put it off. My pick is still Alpha Gamma Rho in the fraternity division and Tolland Hall in the independent class.

* * *

THIS AFTERNOON THE FIELD for field goal kicking will be available for use. You may enter the event on the field but no football or track shoes may be used. Last year Joel Ratner set a new record in this event amassing 147 points but he along with the second and third place winners in the fraternity division, has graduated. Stan Lee of Alpha Sigma Phi placed fourth and he returns. The team winner, however, was Lambda Chi and I will go along with them and pick them to repeat. In the independent division I will pick (guess who?) Tolland Hall.

* * *

While talking to Mr. Kennedy I found out that ever since the Field House opened in 1950 the intramural program has grown from about 8 events to the present total of 16. The number of events has fluctuated with the interests of the students.

* * *

HERE ARE SOME SCORES from last week's schedule: New London Playboys drubbed Hartford 22-0 with Giannetti scoring two touchdowns; Tolland No. 2 defeated Hicks 12-6; the Trumbull Tigers blanked Tolland No. 1 by a 13-0 margin and last year's champion's Litchfield Hall edged Colt 8-0.

* * *

There will be no meeting of the Intramural Representative Council tonight and the meeting will be postponed to October 19. Squash slips will be given out then and will start on October 21. In softball Delta Chi Delta assumed at least a tie in their division when they defeated Chi Phi.

As soon as flag football gets underway a little more and every team has had a chance to play once, I will pick, with my deadly foreseeing accuracy, the favorites.

BACK ON THE WINNING PATH is Bob Ingalls, veteran Husky mentor. His teams have not lost a Conference game in three years. Next week, Ingalls and the Huskies will travel to Orono to play the University of Maine, pre-season pick to give the Huskies trouble.

UPI News Briefs

A 53-year-old Chicago baseball fan has memories of the World Series she'll never forget. Chubby Antoinette Remmen (ree-meen) wanted to see yesterday's game . . . she came close to being in it. Before the sixth game of the World Series, Antoinette jumped over a guard rail and ran onto the field. Dressed in a white blouse and blue skirt, the lady baseball fan sprinted along the basepaths . . . slid into both second and third bases unmindful of the infield dirt. In fact, White Sox third baseman Billy Goodman, kiddingly tried to tag her out. But Goodman had to move out of the way . . . the woman runner nearly knocked him down. But the Chicago police ended her baseball career almost before it began . . . and took her out of the park.

The Huskies smashed back into the win column by virtue of a convincing 26-0 thumping of a pretty good University of Massachusetts team. This keeps the Huskies Yankee Conference record intact by winning every Conference game for three years. This year's largest crowd of 9,147 partisan fans were treated to some spectacular football both in the air and on the ground.

A 200 POUND bruising halfback named Bill Minnerly shared touchdown honors with 172 pound speedster halfback Tom Kopp. Both these juniors repeatedly smashed through the Mass. line and brought the Dad's Day crowd to their feet.

Umass kicked off to Uconn and after a series of unsuccessful plays Minnerly punted to Umass's 15 yard line. Umass began to move the ball well with quarterback Conway connecting with Benvenuti for a beautiful 43 yard pass play to the Huskies 20 yard line. A series of cleverly executed bootleg plays by Conway moved the ball deeper into Husky territory despite a 15 yard penalty. The Massachusetts offense was stopped, however, on the Husky 15 by some outstanding line play, particularly by guard Bob Slattery.

On the next play Bill Minnerly took a handoff and went 53 yards, hit at least four times, to the Massachusetts 32 yard line. A series of pass plays by quarterback Bob Trichka, however, failed to score. One pass was good for 19 yards, following a 15 yard penalty, and another was dropped in the end zone. Umass fumbled on their own 40 yard line and Uconn's Tom Kopp recovered.

A 14 YARD RUN by Bob Horan followed by successive passes from Trichka to Captain Barry O'Connell moved the ball to the 1 where Kopp plunged over right tackle for the first score of the day with 14 seconds remaining in the quarter. The pass for the extra points was complete but O'Connell was out of the end zone so it didn't count.

THE BLUE SHIRTED Huskies kicked off the second half and after a few plays Umass committed their first of four fumbles in the quarter on their own 31. A cross field pass by Drivas to halfback Gerry D'Avolio on fourth down brought the ball to the 5 yard line of Umass. Bruising Bill Minnerly climaxed the drive by slashing over from the 1 with only three minutes, fifty-one seconds of the second half gone. Minnerly was stopped going for the extra points.

Umass received the kickoff only to fumble on their own 24 yards line. Minnerly and D'Avolio moved the ball down to the 5, but a holding penalty moved it back to the 21. Kopp attempted a field goal which was short. Umass passed their way out of trouble after O'Connell missed an end zone tackle of Conway. They moved out to the 42 where some jarring line play again made Umass fumble.

THE HUSKIES couldn't move and had to punt. Umass then fumbled for the fourth time and alert Barry O'Connell recovered on the 11 yard line as the period ended. On the first play of the fourth quarter rampaging Bill Minnerly rolled around right end to score his second TD of the day. D'Avolio followed with a sweep of left end which was good for two more points.

Umass's McCormick uncorked a 60 yard pass to Reynolds only to have Bob Trichka intercept it on the 21 yard line of Connecticut. From here the Huskies marched 73 yards in six plays highlighted by a 32 yard run by D'Avolio and climaxed by Tom Kopp who bulled over from seven yards out.
