Student Goes To Uconn The Hard Way, Working Full Time As State Toll Collector

William J. Scully of Waterbury is one student at the University who literally studies between dimes.

Bill is a junior by day, majoring in government in the College of Arts and Sciences. By night, he is a toll collector at the Charter Oak Bridge in Hartford.

The 21-year-old student, since September has worked five nights a week on the bridge, from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m., going to classes during the morning and mid-afternoon, and then taking to his bed in Middlesex hall for seven hours or so before beginning the nightly 25-mile trek to his toll station job. On certain days, Bill is able to get a few hours' rest in at mid-day instead of later in the day.

He is emphatic about being able to easily handle a full schedule of studies and the night job, too. In addition to his regular studies, he is taking the advanced courses in the Air Force ROTC program on campus.

Marks Are Better

"My marks are better than ever," he says. I have all night (between dimes of course) to study, and after 1 o'clock the traffic is so light that I can really concentrate on the books."

Bill, who is the son of Mrs. Anna V. Scully of 83 Watertown Ave., Waterbury, was a student at the Waterbury Branch of the University until last June, and was president of the Associated Student Government there. In transferring to the main campus for his junior and senior years, Bill realized he would have to find a job to support himself at school.

He successfully passed the state competitive examination, and in June started work at the bridge toll station. During the summer, of course, Bill could work either the

Gift Bell On Exhibition At School Of Pharmacy

A 300-year-old, over-sized Bell Bronze mortar has been placed on exhibition at the School of Pharmacy, as a gift to the school from two pharmacists in the state.

The mortar cast, in Enkhuisen, Holland, in 1636, measures 18 inches high with a top diameter of 12 inches and weighs about 170 pounds. Dean of Pharmacy H. G. Hewitt says that its bell tone quality when struck bears out its perfect casting.

The mortar is the gift of Edward Mogull of the Ethical Pharmacy Co., Bridgeport, and Nathan Hammerman of the Country Club Pharmacy in Whitneyville. Recent gifts to the School of Pharmacy include a Mikro balance. Joseph Goldin of the Normandie Drug, Hartford, is the donor. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swatsburg of the Uncas-on-Thames Pharmacy, Uncasville, have donated frames for the Parke-Davis pictorial history which is on permanent view at the school. A valuable botanical print also has been received from Robert Hardt of the Hoffman-LaRoche Co., Nutley, N. J.

Munn To Speak To Geology Club

Mr. Eugene Munn of Michaels, Inc., will be the guest speaker at the Feb. 13 meeting of the Geology Club. Andrew Nalwalk, program chairman for the Club, announced recently that Mr. Munn will present a talk on "The Diamond." Originally contacted over a year ago, Mr. Munn has arranged to show a film dealing with the diamond and its many uses.

Michaels, Inc., is located in Hartford and deals in diamonds as well as other precious stones. The program to be presented by Mr. Munn will show diamond mining, cutting of the raw stone and the many uses to which a gem of such great relative worth can be put. The Geology club will sponsor this showing at 7:30 p.m. in room 111, Holcomb hall. Once a month the Geology club presents a guest lecturer. The speaker for the March meeting has not been revealed.

SAM Offers Instructions In Reading

The Speed Reading Division of the Society for the Advancement of Management is offering once again this semester a course in speed reading instruction.

It is a five-week course and will begin Feb. 13. Classes will be thirty-minutes long and will be conducted daily Monday through Thursday.

According to Norman Trudel, director of the speed reading division of SAM, registration will conclude Friday. Students may register for the course at Storrs 123. There is a $2.50 fee.

Lois Wagner, Kappa Kappa Gamma, one of five student instructors, said that the course is designed to, first of all, increase the speed of the reader, then his comprehension and finally his retention. This is done by means of a tachistoscope, a machine which flashes slides on a screen.

Students in the course are separated into groups according to their ability. The slower readers are subjected to reading three digit slides which are flashed on a screen by the tachistoscope at the rate of one every 1/100 of a second. This is the fastest speed.

The course instructors aim at reducing the eye movements of the reader in achieving for greater eye expansion of a printed line. Up to one hundred students have been enrolled in the speed reading course at one time, Miss Wagner said.

Other instructors of the course are Charles Jones, Ambrose Fiorito and Joesphy Borowski, Sigma Chi Alpha, and Frederick Piccetti, commuter.

Frosty Interlude To Start Weekend

Winter Weekend committee members are hoping that the campus will be blanketed with snow at the annual event planned for Feb. 17-19 which will open with the Frosty Interlude, a formal dance from 9-1 in the HUB, featuring the music of Art Mooney.

Mooney To Perform

Mooney's "Honeybabe" orchestra of 14 pieces has performed in major hotels, theatres and supper clubs throughout the United States and has appeared on college campuses. Alan Foster, Kerwin Somerville and Johnny Romano are the billed performers.

Listening music will be provided in HUB 208 by the Troubadors from 9-12 p.m. and refreshments will be served throughout the evening in the Reception lounge.

Athletic Contest Planned

Outdoor displays will be judged Saturday morning and trophies will be awarded to the winning men's and women's units during the half time of the Rhody-Uconn basketball game in the evening.

Saturday afternoon's events will consist of a sledding party starting atop Horse Barn hill. A skating party, accompanied with music at Mirror lake will be held. Outdoor relays are planned at the athletic field behind Hawley armory.

Other winter sports events will be held in the afternoon and awards will be presented to the winners of the various events. These will include barrel stave races, broom hockey, ice skating races and many others.

Burr To Give Instruction On Fly Tying Thursday

With over 20 million of the nation's population variously initiated into the art of fishing, the Student Union will continue its instruction on artificial fly tying. The classes will be conducted by Dr. Walter Burr, assistant professor of animal diseases. The first session will be Thursday in room 207, HUB, and succeeding lessons will be each Wednesday night. There will be four lessons.

Classes are organized on two levels, beginners and those students more advanced. The tyros will start instruction at 7 p.m., and the skilled students will receive their teaching at 8:30. Dr. Burr has outlined a prospectus which calls for each student to tie up ten flies all of which may be kept at the conclusion of the course. All equipment is furnished and a charge of one dollar is required and may be paid at the control desk of the Student Union.

Dr. Burr pointed out that there are five State stocked streams within 20 minutes of the campus. They are the Willimantic river, Fenton river, Roaring brook, Natchaug river and Mount Hope river. All provide good to excellent fishing. A second set of four lessons is scheduled to start one week after the conclusion of the current set. All interested persons should register at the control desk of the Student Union.

Disagreement Voiced Student Art Exhibit On Campus Wording Excitingly Youthful

Dear Editor:

It has been a rare occurrence that I have had to disagree with the CAMPUS this past year, but I'm afraid that I must take issue with the story in Jan. 13's issue of your paper, "State Rules Activities Fee Under Trustees." The opinion by the Attorney General ruled no such thing; it was just a clarification of a ruling given in 1939, the context of which has been known to many students for several years.

The main points of confusion in the opinion center around the phrases "activity fund" and "non-tuition fees."

Activity Fund refers to "The University of Connecticut Self-Supporting Activities Fund", commonly known as the "Revolving Fund." This "Activity Fund" is defined by Section 3292 of the 1949 Revision of the Connecticut Statutes (I may be off in the exact number of the Statute in question), and has nothing at all to do with the "Student Activity Fund."

Non-tuition Fees refers to all money collected by the University for non-educational purposes, since, according to Statute, the University cannot charge a tuition fee. All money for tuition (professor's salaries, classroom buildings, etc.) comes by legislative appropriation. Now the big question has always been whether our Student Activities Fee comes under the classification of "Non-tuition Fee." The University claims it does, but it has presented nothing concrete to back up this claim.

The fee was originally instituted by the Student Government and there is nothing to indicate that they transferred control of the Fee to the University. The fact that the University has collected and still collects the Fee FOR the Associated Student Government doesn't automatically bring it under the legal classification of "Non-tuition Fee."

One more reason why the Fee is not "Non-tuition" is that, statutorily, it is inferred that a Non-tuition Fee either is instituted by the University with some sort of legislative approval, or is initiated by the Legislature itself. There is nothing to indicate that the Legislature was ever consulted about the Student Activities Fee.

I can certainly sympathize with the pessimism shown by the writer of the story. It is not very easy to be optimistic over this situation after four years of seemingly fruitless negotiations between the Senate and the Administration. But we must bear in mind that during these past four years there have been alternate periods of optimism and pessimism, and Student Self-Government has lost the most ground during periods of pessimism.

We cannot afford to be pessimistic at this time; if we are, we will lose everything. In order to keep what little we have, ALL the students must continue to believe in principle of Student Funds controlled by Students. We must hold this view until we are shown a statement from a reliable source which holds, definitely and irrefutably, that "The Student Activities Fee of the University of Connecticut is solely under the jurisdiction of the Board of Trustees of that institution."

Yours truly,

Ronald Pivnick

(Editor's Note: The sentence in the attorney-general ruling to which Pivnick is referring is as follows. "The funds of the University, in my opinion, include all monies charged, collected or received in the form of appropriations by the legislature, gifts, activity fund and non-tuition fees.")

"This was the pure spirit of nature divorced from its material manifestations, for the artist endeavored intuitively to apprehend the principle of the beauty of natural objects and to recreate its dissociated from its outward form."

Freshness, vitality, exuberance prevail at the current Art 132 show in the HUB main lobby. The surge of youth is reflected in vivid colors and bold forms. A vastness, a great yearning for spatial depth is very much evident in the show by beginning art students.

Variety in medium and interpretation sparks the show. Temperas, waters, pen and ink drawings and washes are all used to create daring, contemporary art pieces. One mobile of copper, aluminum and wires dances rhythmically to the breeze.

Outstanding in the show is a swirling piece of sculpture. Its gently upswinging curves and long sweeping lines murmur a calm sea like oscillation.

Art in its commercial aspects is displayed at the exhibit. Designs for record jackets, posters for dramas show the ever increasing prominence of the trend toward modern art in advertising.

Taught by various members of the art department staff, Art 132 is open to any student regardless of previous art training.

Attention Men

Get Pay And Training In Medical Reserve

Most College boys are disturbed by the military obligation that they owe their country. Very few, however, know what to do about it or how to remedy the situation.

The Medical Battalion, a reserve unit on campus, offers the college man a chance to earn a full day's wage for two hours training one night a week. Composed of students, grad students, faculty and others in the community the company has its main headquarters here in Storrs.

Three Main Companies

Divided into three main companies—headquarters, ambulance, and clearing, the unit is primarily concerned with training its men in the transportation of the wounded. Within this battalion there is a dental corps, a chaplain, and also provision for professional doctors.

Certified dentists participate in the dental corps here on campus, the unit however lacks professional men in medicine.

At the two hour training program men learn many skills necessary in the immediate care of the wounded on the field. Foremost among these skills is transportation of the wounded. A progress chart kept by the commanding officer of the unit records the progress of each reservist. Discontinuation of equipment, nomenclature and care of equipment, map reading and the use of the compass, first aid and field sanitation are among the curriculum offerings.

Reservists also are learning vital information in preparation for an atomic attack. Much of this education is done through the use of audio-visual aids, although lecturing and booklearning are not uncommon.

Summer Camp

Summer camp for six weeks is also included in the program. In previous summers the unit has gone to Camp Edwards on Cape Cod, or to Camp Drum in New York.

The program is to the advantage of men between the ages of 17 and 18½. Higher education is not drastically interfered with as reservists have a six month active duty term and then return to their reserve unit which can be attended at their hometown branch or away from home.

The prime benefit is that the Army does not call the individual. Unlike the National Guard that is on immediate call by nation and state, the Army Reserve is on call only when the nation is in a "state of war" and does not go into immediate action but has an interim of six months.

ROTC An Advantage

Men already in ROTC have the advantage that every two years there is an increase in pay. Two years in ROTC entitles one to such an increase.

Executive Major Charles Helmboldt, professor of animal diseases is interested in having college boys look into the benefits offered in the Medical Battalion. There is no stipulation that the students major in biology or physical sciences.

One hundred percent attendance is not required. Students in the unit state they average about $150 for a year in the reserve.

World Federalist, Norman Cousins, Will Speak Here

Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review, will be in Storrs on Monday, February 27th for a talk entitled "More Power to the UN". The meeting, sponsored by the United World Federalists and open to the public will start at 8:00 p.m. at Hillel House. All students and members of the town are most welcome to attend.

Mr. Cousins, Honorary President of the United World Federalists and a former national president of that organization, has long been interested in "making this planet not only safe for human habitation but fit for human habitation". In 1951 he made a good-will tour of India and Pakistan under the auspices of the U. S. Government, during which he lectured some seventy-five times on America and its people.

In 1948 Mr. Cousins was a member of a three-man committee which went to Germany at the invitation of General Lucius Clay to report on progress towards democratization in the American zone. He was an official observer in 1946 at the Bikini atomic tests.

A resident of Norwalk, Connecticut, Mr. Cousins is a graduate of Teachers College, Columbia University. He also received an L.L.D. from American University.

Mrs. Edward Boettiger of Storrs, co-chairman of the Speakers Bureau of the New England Council of UWF, is chairman of the meeting. Mr. Charles Lee of the School of Business is president of the Mansfield chapter.

Campus Staff Meeting

The News staff of the Connecticut Daily Campus will meet Wednesday afternoon at 4 in the Campus office. Plans for the semester and beat assignments will be made.

Uconn High Building Plan Nearly Done

The preliminary architectural plans for the University high school to be constructed on South campus are progressing, although no plans have yet been accepted by the State building commission, according to Dr. P. Roy Brammell dean of the School of Education.

Dr. Brammell explained to the Daily Campus in a recent interview that the architect's progress is slowed by the numerous details and problems involved, such as lighting and space requirements, which must be solved prior to the submission of the plans to the State building commission for approval.

In a general statement concerning the curriculum of the high school Dean Brammell stated that "It will be comprehensive, with a broad program of studies intended to meet the needs of all students."

"We want future high school teachers to be prepared here in proximity to the University so that there will be a good operation of practice teaching," he concluded.

day shifts or at night, but when school started he became more or less permanently assigned to the 11 to 7 shift. He earns approximately $55 a week.

About 1,500 cars pass through the toll station each night, Bill says, adding that he never gets lonesome. He is required to patrol the bridge itself twice each night.

Occasional Franksters

"We have a few pranksters now and then who leave their shoes near the retaining wall on the high point of the bridge, in the hopes the guards will think someone has jumped into the Connecticut River."

Commenting on drivers, Bill reluctantly says that Massachusetts drivers are the worst offenders, cutting in and out of lanes, with New York and New Jersey drivers a close second.

The young toll collector also explained about the piece of wire sticking out of the pavement in each auto lane at the toll station. "It is not an auto counter as most people believe. It's a static remover, to eliminate the shock that occurs when a coin is being passed. The auto counter is the black rubberized strip that runs the width of the road in front of the toll stations."

C. David McGinnis will receive his B.S. degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Texas in June 1957. Currently, he's senior manager of men's intramural sports and a member of the Delta Upsilon and Phi Eta Sigma fraternities at Texas.

Ivar Lundgaard answers:

Ivar A. Lundgaard obtained two degrees, B.S. in Ch.E. and A.B. in economics, from the University of Rochester, and joined Du Pont's Photo Products plant at Parlin, N. J., in 1942. Later that year he became a shift supervisor and was promoted steadily thereafter. By 1951 he was Production Superintendent at Du Pont's Rochester plant. Today Ivar is Polyester Department Superintendent at Parlin, well able to speak about Du Pont employment policies out of his own experience and observation.

BETTER THINGS FOR BETTER LIVING . . . THROUGH CHEMISTRY
WATCH "DU PONT CAVALCADE THEATER" ON TV

Yes, Dave, the Du Pont Company regularly employs students of science and engineering in its Summer Technical Training Program. The chief purpose is to provide good technical training under industrial conditions. And we learn about the students while they learn about us.

Students selected for the program after campus interviews include candidates for the B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. degrees. Assignments are related to their academic interests. Last summer 270 students from 93 institutions participated in the program. In this way, ties are often established which can lead to permanent employment after graduation.

In addition, many other students are hired directly by individual Company units to help out during vacation periods of our regular employees. For this "vacation relief work," assignments are likely to be varied; but these students also gain valuable insights into industrial practice, and many acquire experience related to their fields of study.

Altogether, about 750 college students, from both technical and nontechnical fields and at all levels of training, obtained experience with us during the summer of 1955. So you can readily see, Dave, that the Du Pont Company attaches a lot of importance to summer jobs for college students.

21-Game Schedule Listed For Strong Baseball Team

By BILL ENGLAND

Athletic Director and Head Baseball Coach J. O. Christian has announced a 21-game varsity baseball schedule for this coming spring. Along with the regular slate, the Husky diamond nine will play six "practice" games against Service teams in Virginia and North Carolina.

The Uconn club this season is expected to be one of the finest to represent the school in years. Last year, which was supposed to be a slim one win-wise as far as Connecticut was concerned, turned out quite well for the Huskies as they compiled a good 11-6 record.

George Dropo and southpaw Tommy O'Connell have been lost to graduation, but a couple of subs from last year's squad should fill in well. A transfer to Unconn, infielder Don McInnis, is expected to help the varsity club. McInnis performed both baseball and football at Indiana before transferring to Connecticut.

Pitchers Don "Tink" Kilbreth and Billy Risley are expected to carry the brunt of the mound duties. Kilbreth sparkled last season and ended the year as Uconn's top hurler. Risley progressed rapidly throughout the season and earned a reputation as a good relief man and reliable starter.

Other returning veterans include Don Burns, Bob Dube, Ed Zajac, Jim DiGiorno, Hooker McMahon, Clay Gery and Bill Stevens, the leading slugger on last year's nine.

Sophomores up from last year's freshmen club are expected to help. Lenny King and Jerry Dooling, standouts on the gridiron, are among the promising second year men.

The Southern trip will see Uconn at Quantico, Virginia March 26, and at Camp Lee, Virginia the next two days. March 29-31, the Huskies tangle with Camp Lejeune in North Carolina. This trip will take place during the University of Connecticut's spring vacation.

Regular schedule warfare starts April 7 when Christian's club meets Rutgers away. Then follows three games at home, including Massachusetts (9th), Wesleyan (11th) and Springfield (13th).

The remainder of the schedule includes: 14, at Northeastern; 16, at Massachusetts; 20, Maine; 21, Vermont (doubleheader); 27, Colby; 28, Boston University; 30, at Holy Cross.

May 3, at Yale; 5, American International College; 8, at Coast Guard; 10, Rhode Island; 12, at New Hampshire (doubleheader); 18, at Colby; 19, at Maine; 22, at Rhode Island.

Holy Cross and Boston College, perennial powers in New England baseball circles, are expected to be at full strength again this year, but can expect a challenge from Connecticut. Wesleyan, long a second-rate diamond nine, is another team expected to shine this year.

Frosh Ducks Face Wes Away Sat.

By DICK BRUSIE

Following a thrilling 41-34 pre-vacation triumph over highly respected LaSalle Academy, the Freshman swim charges of Coach Jack Squires prepare to take to the road for their first road engagement of the current campaign, meeting Wesleyan's yearlings Saturday Jan. 11 as a prelude to the varsity encounter. This marks the first of three contests for the Aquapups to be played away from the friendly confines of Brundage Pool. The blue and white, who now own a record of three wins and two losses, must win at least two of these in order to finish the season with better than a .500 mark.

Pacing the Uconn's attack thus far has been backstroker Chuck Andrews and breaststroke specialist Frank Tedeschi. These individuals along with sprinters Bill Lombardo and Dick Beauvais have shown much promise in recent meets and, according to Coach Squires, should continue to excel.

Paul Schippe, at present Connecticut's lone diver, will carry the full burden in the diving competition. He will also be entered in one of the freestyle events.

The team has been somewhat reduced because of the loss of Al Lotring who is ineligible as a freshman swimmer. In addition to this, diver Dave Christopher is no longer with the team. However, even with the absence of these participants the team should experience little difficulty if the entrees in the longer hauls preform in the same manner which brought them success in the LaSalle encounter.

VARSITY BASEBALL

All men interested in varsity Baseball are urged to attend a meeting this afternoon at 4 in the Facilities Building.

The University Fencing team earned a split decision and a loss during two meets during the final examination recess.

McGill university fencers, whom the Uconn fencers defeated last season, sent the Huskies to a 28-13 loss during the meet in Montreal. A clean sweep in the epee division was registered by Burton Moore who registered four wins and no losses.

The team also engaged the College Militaire Royale's foil team during the Canadian tourney, taking a split decision in this meet. Each team took eight bouts, the final score being 47-47.

Huskies Go A Long Way
On Small Amount of Gas

by Wells A. Twombly, SPORTS EDITOR

In Strange Class . . .

Remember that interesting bit of drama called "Outward Bound" that enjoyed a certain amount of theatrical success a few years ago?

The play concerned a group of citizens who were neither dead nor alive. They were in fact between heaven and earth. In a sense Connecticut's basketball Huskies are in that limitless void. They are too good for the weak teams and not good enough for the so-called "big time" teams. Hugh Greer's ballclub fronts a heavy schedule with some of the top teams in the East. The Huskies have a winning season in the works, despite pre-season speculation that this would be the poorest Greer coached team in nine years. The Uconns romp with ease over their small-time rivals and lose to some of the powerhouses.

This was supposed to be the year of rebuilding at Connecticut. The ballclub was said to be headed for a dimly black year that everyone could quickly forget and go toward the bright new tomorrow of a national championship.

So far the Uconns have piled up an upset or two and now the feeling has reversed. With a 12-6 record prior to last night's game the realization is that the Huskies are not a bad ballclub at all. However, the accepted philosophy seems to be "it's not how many you win, it's who you win from."

The Huskies have made a shambles out of the Yankee Conference race. Only the University of Massachusetts has an outside chance of passing them out and that doesn't seem too probable. Greer's ball club has taken on two good clubs in Colgate and St. Joseph's and beaten them. Their only sin has been to lose to strong Syracuse, Fordham, Holy Cross, Niagara and Manhattan squads. Yale was "up" like a field of grass for their game with the Huskies.

Ruddy Has Developed . . .

Thus the Uconn basketball squad has done everything expected of them and a little more this season. Greer has taken a club that wasn't expected to go anywhere and has gotten a lot of mileage out of them. The performance of co-captains Gordon Ruddy and Ron Bushwell has helped. Ruddy has developed from a "pier-six" ball-player into the smooth-scorer that everyone hoped he would when he set the Uconn freshman scoring mark four years ago. Bushwell, playing in the form he flashed as a sophomore, has kept the Huskies from rusting apart with his fiery floorplay.

Paul Kaspar has been a strong factor lately. After the 6-4 forward conquered a stiff case of sophomore jitters, the Husky attack picked up a little steam.

Nick Rodis' star-studded frosh show promise of a great era in Connecticut basketball. On the surface it would seem that several of this year's frosh will see a lot of service on next year's varsity. Its a longway from the freshman to the varsity.

The unique situation behind the Uconns is that they whallop the stuffing out of their smaller rivals and compete on a level near the big boys in spite of the lack of a large-scale athletic scholarship fund and limited recruiting.

Uconn Remains Leading Team In Y C Race

DURHAM, N. H., - The 1955-56 Yankee conference basketball championship, bringing with it a berth in the NCAA playoffs against the Ivy League champion, probably won't be decided until February 21 when the University of Connecticut's defending champions meet the University of Massachusetts at the latter's home court in Amherst.

Connecticut's perennial champions, winners in seven out of eight previous conference grinds, already hold a 73-69 win over the Redmen. But this victory was recorded while en route to the New England College invitational tournament championship at Colby College in December, and does not count in the official conference standings.

The Huskies of Hugh Greer, with four straight wins in the conference, including a thrilling 88-86 overtime verdict over Rhode Island, on the latter's court, have a 12-6 overall record.

Massachusetts, another team lacking in altitude, but having one of its best years on the basketball court, with a 9-5 record, appears to be in the best position to upset the Huskies, having only one game scheduled against the Uconns, and that on the home court.

Rhode Island, picked as the dark horse at the start of the campaign, has had a disappointing season, but Billy Von Weyhe, its scoring ace from Union City, N. J. may eclipse the University scoring record set by the immortal Bob Calverly. In 13 games Von Weyhe has scored 311 points, averaging 49 per cent on his shots from the floor. He has 12 games left in which to shatter Calverly's record of 547 for a single season.

New Hampshire, in last place, has dropped all five conference games, but Frankie McLaughlin, its junior guard, is also hitting a blistering 20-point plus scoring pace. His 44 points at Massachusetts was a UNH record, but research disclosed that Art Quimby, last year scored 46 points for Connecticut at Maine, for the official conference record.

Enos Named To TKE All-America Football Eleven

It was announced recently by Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity that big Eddie Enos, standout Uconn tackle, has been named to the 1955 T.K.E. All-American football team.

The only junior selected to the team, Ed joins such topnotch players as Rudy Seigert of Illinois and Walt Senior and Ray Younger from the University of California.

The 6'2", 228-pound native of East Boston, Mass. was selected by Alex Agase, former All-American guard at the University of Illinois and a standout for six years with the professional Baltimore Colts, from among 131 chapters of Tau Kappa Epsilon throughout the country.

Torrid Second Half Spree Nets Huskies 105-85 Win

By BILL ENGLAND

A great 63 point second half scoring splurge gave Connecticut's varsity cagers a fine 105-85 verdict over Rutgers last night at the Field house. Sensational shooting in the game's late stages sent Uconn over the century mark and sent the partisan Husky crowd home happy.

The win was Connecticut's 13th in 19 outings, and was their second win in as many nights. The loss was the tenth in a row for the luckless Rutgers squad, which entered the game with a shabby 1-9 mark.

Two foul shots by John Brugler sent the visitors into a quick lead but the peerless Huskies firing hoops with terrific accuracy, rallied to post leads of 6-2, 8-4 and 12-8 with five minutes gone in the half. A jump shot by Aurell Leaf with 11:32 left in the half gave Rutgers the lead briefly, 18-17.

The Huskies promptly reeled off nine straight points on a jump shot and foul by Gordon Ruddy and two successful jump shots sandwiched around a pair of foul shots by Ronnie Bushwell. The New Jerseyites fired back with seven consecutive points to make it 26-25.

Coach Hugh Greer then inserted Fran Quinn, star of Monday night's 94-68 win over Maine, who sunk six straight points for the Huskies to keep them in contention, while Rutgers was doing some scoring of its own.

Greer Orders Press

Just as the clock showed five minutes left in the first half, Ken

Eiker threw in a hook to give the visitors the lead for the final time of the evening. Greer ordered the press, and once again it proved successful as Don Burns, Paul Kaspar and Ozzie Osborn hit to make it 38-33. After another hoop by Brugler, Osborn delighted the crowd with a dazzling drive and jump shot to give Uconn a 42-35 halftime lead.

Play in the second session saw Rutgers make a complete reversal of its first half form, while Connecticut wasted no time in racking up a sizeable lead. At the fifteen minute mark, Uconn led 61-49, and with ten minutes left it was Connecticut all alone, 84-60. Greer substituted freely but even the second line men kept hitting the hoop with fine accuracy.

The partisan Husky crowd saw the homers hit the century mark for the first time this season when Ruddy sent home another one of his eye-fitting one handers with 1:40 left. Sub Bob Dube personally accounted for Uconn's final five points as he scored on two beautiful drive ins and netted a foul.

Uconn entered the game with an excellent 50.6 shooting average on 40 baskets on 79 tries. Husky foul shooting was also good as Coach Greer's quintet dropped 25 of 34 free throws for a 73.5 mark.

The visitors hooped 29 of 78 shots for a respectable 37.2 mark. Their foul shooting was excellent as the Rutgers crew dropped 27 of 35. Brugler personally accounted for nine fouls. He missed only one try.

All of the Uconns who suited up for the game got into the scoring act. Quinn and Bushwell led Connecticut with 14 apiece, followed by Osborn (13), Ruddy (13), and Kaspar's (12).

Ralph Bayard of Rutgers claimed high scoring honors for both teams with 20 points. Dave Stires, Leaf and Brugler chipped in with 15, 14 and 13 respectively.

The Huskies return to the hardwood Friday afternoon in an engagement with Maine in Orono. Saturday night the Uconns test tough Colby in Waterville. Connecticut beat the latter in the New England Tournament but can expect a tough game on the Mule's home court.
