Evaluation vs. Hearsay

In this age of clarification a few further words are in order on the topic of the Central Purchasing Agency, which has reared its ugly head in various places, among them on the pages of the Daily Campus. Many, many words have been spoken on the subject, and, unfortunately much of the information has been misleading.

As the matter now stands, the Central Purchasing Agency is yet some distance off. Despite claims that the system is now in effect, it has been brought out by interviews with both Mr. Banning and Mr. Riccio that the agency is yet in the planning stage, and a multitude of detail, necessary for the function of such an undertaking, has yet to be considered and chronicled.

The reasons and intent behind a Central Purchasing Agency, as outlined by Mr. Riccio, are basically admirable. Lagging health standards, inexperienced administration on the part of the fraternities, and an extremely poor financial showing by many fraternity kitchens over the last five years have made it obvious that some professional guidance is more than in order. And, according to the comptroller, this guidance is the only thing that the university wishes to offer. The fact that the West Campus units are evidently "coerced" into accepting such a program is a point which cannot be resolved until the nature of agreements made by the origi-

Gov't Aid Unnecessary In Conn. Schools, Says Atkins

Crater W. Atkins, the man who thinks that Uconn students should be charged higher fees, told a Congressional subcommittee on education that Connecticut Schools can get along without federal aid.

Israelis Depart From Gaza Strip

Jerusalem, March 6—(UP)—Israeli troops have been streaming out of the Gaza Strip and United Nations Police troops are pouring in.

The change-over is taking place under the cover of darkness, apparently to avoid any incident with the Arab population. The Israeli high command said the UN occupation should be completed sometime tomorrow and that Israel will pull out of the Gulf of Aqaba area Friday.

The official defense ministry communique means Israel will be back within the 1949 Armistice lines by the weekend, the lines Israeli troops crossed last October, setting off the Sinai fighting.

The communique was issued barely six hours after Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion won a vote of confidence in Parliament on his withdrawal orders.

Vehicles, troops, and equipment streamed from Gaza throughout the day. In the Aqaba area, troops loaded their gear aboard ships for departure Friday.

The Gaza withdrawal was carried out under a curfew imposed after Arabs reportedly killed one Israeli soldier in an ambush and wounded two others. One Arab was reported killed.

The timing of the UN entry into the disputed areas was left in the hands of UN commander E. L. Burns.

Atkins is the executive director of the privately sponsored Connecticut Public Expenditures Council. Last year Atkins' group published a report on higher education in Connecticut, in which they recommended that the University of Connecticut charge higher fees. The committee Atkins is dealing with in Washington at the moment is concerned with the bill to provide federal aid to states for expanding educational facilities. According to Atkins, Connecticut "is now taking care of its educational needs without federal aid. There is not the slightest doubt that it can and will continue to do so."

Students Attend NYU Conference

Two students, Caroline Kennedy, business manager of the Daily Campus, and Dorothy Kulaga, attended the ninth annual conference on "Careers in Retailing" at New York University's School of Retailing on Friday, March 1.

Some two hundred students and faculty members from sixty eastern colleges and universities participated in the all-day meeting. The program included lectures by prominent retailing executives, a faculty round-table talk, visits to New York fashion showrooms for spring style previews, and a luncheon sponsored by the NYU Merchants' Advisory Council, which represents 29 metropolitan department stores. The day's activities closed with a behind-the-scenes tour and tea at the Lord and Taylor Fifth Avenue department store.

Theme of the conference was "You and the Challenge of Retailing." The annual meeting is designed to give students a knowledge of the opportunities offered by the field and how to prepare them.

The overturned Volkswagen pictured above was reported late yesterday afternoon, located in N parking lot near the ROTC hangar. It was discovered to belong to Harry W. Mohn, New Haven Hall, by tracing the license plate and parking permit numbers through the Security Office. Informed by the Daily Campus, Mr. Mohn had been unaware of the unique position of his car.

Mechanical Engineer Speaks Tonight At 8

William F. Ryan, national president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, will present a speech entitled "Education for a Profession" tonight at 8 p.m. in Engineering 207.

Dr. Ryan, the author of numerous technical papers in the field of heat and power and professional ethics, is vice president and senior consulting engineer of Stone and Webster Engineering Corporation. He joined the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in 1917 and has served as its representative on the Engineers Joint Council - Engineering Council for Professional Development Committee on Practice of Engineering, and as advisory member of the Power Division Executive Committee.

He is also active in other national and international organizations, including the National Society of Professional Engineers, the American Society of Engineering Education and the United States Naval Institute. Dr. Ryan was recently elected a fellow of the Royal Society of Arts in London and will soon be initiated as an honorary member of Pi Tau Sigma, national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, by the Connecticut Pi Psi Chapter.

As joint sponsors of the speech, Pi Tau Sigma and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers extend an open invitation to all students to attend.

Fraternities 'Tap' Men At HUB

About 180 freshman rushees were "tapped" as pledges Tuesday night at the HUB patio before more than 400 cheering and shouting fraternity men, who braved the cold. Deemed the best in years by Interfraternity Council President, Al Frede, Lambda Chi Alpha, the return to "old form of tapping, will be continued.

For more than two hours, the "brothers" of the fraternities waited tensely, for the names of their houses to be called out by the announcer, Richard Callahan, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

No injuries resulted as freshmen were congratulated and hustled back to cheering fraternity members. At one time during the first hour, announcer Callahan jokingly said over the loudspeaker, "You can all go home now, the rest went to Kappa Kappa Gamma."

Commenting on the tapping ceremony, Joseph Fiorello, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, IFC rush chairman, stated "I am awfully glad it's over; it was well worth it."

He continued, "I was certainly very pleased with the enthusiasm and response displayed by the fraternities. I'm sure the new pledges enjoyed the ceremony and I hope they will always remember this occasion."

President Frede, concluded that "it certainly shows that fraternity spirit is not dead."

Journalists To Gather For Campus Seminar

Five of the nation's top journalists will be on campus March 23 to headline the first annual Connecticut Campus College Newspaper Seminar, which is being sponsored by the Connecticut Daily Campus.

College newspaper editors from throughout the east are scheduled to attend the conclave, which begins on Saturday afternoon and continues into the late evening. Many of the visiting collegians will be on campus for the entire weekend and will be housed in university dormitories.

Louis Lyons, curator of the Nieman Foundation at Harvard University; William Dwight, president of the American Newspaper Publisher's Association; Herbert Brucker, editor of the Hartford Courant; Carl Lindstrom, executive editor of the Hartford Times; and Harold Waddell, publisher of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. in New York City, have been engaged to speak here.

Everyone Invited

Students and faculty members are invited to attend the afternoon's activities which will take place in the Student Union Ballroom. At 1:15 p.m. Student Senate President John P. Flahive and Daily Campus Editor-in-Chief William T. England will welcome the collegians. At 1:30 p.m. Lindstrom, who is also vice president of the New England Society of Daily Newspaper Editors and chairman of the Associated Press Managing Editors' Association, will speak.

The editors of the University of Connecticut undergraduate newspaper have been working on plans for the seminar since the summer months, and hope to make the event an annual affair.

Mr. Brucker, who is a member of the Pulitzer Prize Judging Committee, and author of the widely read "Freedom of Information," will follow Mr. Lindstrom to the speaker's roster. A short question-and-answer period will follow both of their talks.

At 2:45 p.m. Mr. Dwight will address the audience in the ballroom. He is editor and publisher of the Holyoke (Mass.) Telegram - Transcript, co-publisher of the Greenfield (Mass.) Gazette, and owner of Radio Station WHYN in Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Waddell, who is widely known throughout the newspaper world as a typography expert, will critically analyze the participating colleges' newspapers in Room 101-102 of the HUB from 3:30 to 5:30.

Dinner Time

At 6 p.m. dinner will be served and will be followed by a talk by Mr. Lyons. The radio-television commentator is well known in this area through his frequent TV appearances. He is the editor of the Nieman Report and a former staff writer with the Boston Globe.

A number of editors and staff members from state newspapers are expected to attend, along with special guests invited by the Daily Campus.

The editors of the University of Connecticut undergraduate newspaper have been working on plans for the seminar since the summer months, and hope to make the event an annual affair.

Daily Campus Extends Bus Ticket Deadline

The deadline for buying tickets for the Uconn buses to the Huskies' NCAA game Tuesday has been extended to 9 p.m. Friday. The extension of the deadline was made by the Daily Campus, which is sponsoring the buses, because of the large number of students that have said they would like to go, but will not be able to get the $4 for the ticket until today or tomorrow. Tickets are on sale at the HUB Control Desk.

Another factor which led to the postponement was the confusion over whether or not coaches would be excused from the mass WSGC meeting scheduled for Tuesday night. To be excused from the meeting girls have only to see Barbara Carpenter, Kappa Kappa Gamma, with the receipt they get when they buy their ticket for the special buses.

Only girls attending the game on the special buses will be permitted to miss the WSGC meeting, and they must accept a "late."

Several fraternity groups are planning to go on the buses, and since seats on the buses are not assigned, the groups will be able to sit together, with their dates. There is no limit on the number of tickets that may be bought, and any Uconn fans interested in going to the game are welcome to go on the special buses.

Departure time for the 6 p.m. Tuesday Uconn game with Syracuse will be at 12 noon, from in front of the Student Union. The buses will leave from Madison Square Garden at 10:30 p.m., arriving in Storrs at around 3 a.m. The 10:30 departure time from New York will allow fans about three hours free time after the Uconn-Syracuse tilt.

Legislature To Get Proposals From President Jorgensen, Sen. Watson

In a move to straighten out the problem of the funds received from parking tickets on this campus, the Board of Trustees has instructed State Senator Elmer Watson and President of the University Albert N. Jorgensen to draw up a bill for presentation to the state legislature.

The bill is to include the proposal that the money which is now going to the Town of Mansfield be given to the university to be incorporated into a University Scholarship Fund.

Most of the money now received from the three dollar tickets goes to the town, with a small part being allocated to the state.

Bulletin

Committee, New Purchasing Plan Are Announced

A committee of stewards representing the North Campus fraternities, the West Campus living units, and the South Campus women's houses has been set up to coordinate between the Administration and the living units concerning the proposed "Central Purchasing Agency."

Student Senate President John Flahive stated yesterday that "there will be no action taken towards putting the kitchen plan into effect until all suggested procedures are discussed, and until all difficulties are resolved satisfactorily."

Flahive met yesterday with the University Comptroller, Leonard C. Riccio, and the recently appointed Mr. Banning. After this meeting Flahive stated that all previous information about the proposed kitchen plan should be disregarded.

The Student Senate prexy added that Riccio and Banning are working out procedures for the kitchen plan. When the Administration has worked out a possible system for this plan, "A committee of stewards representing fraternities and sororities will meet with Riccio and Banning to discuss the system's advantages and disadvantages."

Continuing, Flahive said: "It is hoped that all of the stewards will sit in on the discussion of procedures, in small groups." He stated emphatically that there is no purchasing agent or coordinating agent on campus. Flahive said that the word "Purchasing Agent" as previously applied to Banning is incorrect, and that he is more of an unofficial coordinator so far.

There will be a meeting of the stewards committee and of all the stewards of the various living units within the next two weeks.

Serving on the committee will be: Robert Platt, representing the Inter-Fraternity Council; Robert Murphy, a steward representing the quad-

The Student Senate has been anxious for this proposal to come before the legislature, and has been working on the problem since early fall. The problem was recently highlighted in a Daily Campus editorial which asked why no action had been taken on the matter for such a long time.

A proposal for action was presented to the sub-Board of the Board of Trustees, who meet regularly with student leaders to discuss and try to solve various student difficulties. The sub-board then took the matter to the Board of Trustees, who asked Watson and Jorgensen to write a bill which would create the University Scholarship Fund.

Double Benefit

Student Senate President John Flahive said that if the bill is passed by the legislature, it will be a double benefit to the students. "In the first place," Flahive stated, "the penalized students' money would be going to a most worthwhile cause, and in the second, some of the students who receive tickets might very well be contributing to their own scholarships."

Flahive also pointed out the effectiveness of the Student Senate's action. "It seems to be another example of student government accomplishing a major objective by co-ordinating its efforts with those of the Administration and the Board of Trustees."

Flahive believes that if the bill is passed, a major step will be taken in clearing up the misunderstanding between the students, the Administration, and the Security Department over parking violations issued during the past year.

range fraternities; David Schuman, a steward at AZO who will represent the West Campus houses; and two stewards from girls' living units in South Campus.

A plan announced earlier this week by Sumner Cohen, the Director of Men's Housing, that a Central Purchasing Agency would be set up immediately, has apparently been dropped.

The purpose of the committee was described by Flahive as being "to work with the Administration, and to pass on information to the living units."

The meeting of the stewards within the next two weeks will be held to determine exactly what the living units want, and don't want, in future developments of the proposed kitchen plan.

Daily Campus Camera Attends Tapping

Sheldon Frankel patiently awaits his turn.

Tuesday night Tapping took place in the HUB ballroom. The ceremony takes place each semester and is the formal culmination of the fraternity rush period. Below, is the complete chain of events which leads up to acceptance into a fraternity.

Which one? The big decision!

The long wait over, he receives his bids.

Sheldon is welcomed by his new TEP brothers.

Evaluation Vs. Hearsay

nal, now graduated West Campus stewards can be clearly defined. At present both sides seem to have logical and pertinent evidence to support their respective stands, but as yet nothing more than a hurling of allegations has taken place, and nothing intelligent has been accomplished along the lines of clarifying the matter.

Much of the disturbance that has arisen over the matter has been a result of contradictory reports from different principles: among them Mr. Cohen's office, resident counselors, fraternity presidents and stewards, and Mr. Riccio. Much of the conflict seems to be without basis, since the matter has not been given ample consideration by either side in the areas under dispute.

According to Mr. Riccio, whose position in the administrative hierarchy surmounts all others, and who poses as the ultimate authority on the matter, the prime source of information should be the Central Purchasing Agent himself. When the proper moment arrives, he will be imbued with all the authority necessary for controlling the matter, independent of all other officials save Mr. Riccio. The latter has stressed repeatedly the fact that the only tie the agency will have with the office of men's housing would be perfunctory; this fact alone makes the proposition a little more palatable to the West Campus fraternities.

One argument held by the West Campus dormitories is "We just don't want any part of the plan and don't want to hear any more about it." If the dormitories never did approve of the plan, as their representatives say, then it would seem that the plan is being shoved down their throats. On the other side of the ledger, however, the Administration has some pretty good arguments concerning the mismanagement of funds, possible "kickbacks" received, poor sanitation, etc., and if its plan is only to help correct this situation, and not in the long run to take over the complete management of all the fraternities, then it has definite advantages as compared with the present system.

As for the ultimate acceptance or condemnation of the Central Purchasing Agency program, at this time, it is logically impossible to take either stand, for the sound reason that the agency has not reached the functional stage. Perhaps a meeting between Mr. Riccio and Mr. Banning on the one hand, and the West Campus fraternity and dormitory representatives on the other, would be the best step at the present time. If it is then decided to continue with the program in its planning stages, it should be made clear to Mr. Riccio and Mr. Banning that if the plan seems of no value to the dormitories at a later stage in its development, it may be dropped without further adieu.

When the agency and its operations have been defined, the appropriate time will arrive for careful scrutiny and value judgments. But presently, the most intelligent move on the part of those concerned would be to acquaint themselves with the aims and means of the program, and then attempt, by intelligent evaluation, application and criticism, to accept or reject them on their merits, not on hearsay.

THREE DECADES OF SERVICE to the Storrs Congregational Church on campus have been given by the Rev. J. Garland Waggoner, pastor. (Campus Photo—Kittredge).

Religion Concerned With Underlying Student Needs

BY JOHN K. BAKER

The Rev. J. Garland Waggoner has served as pastor of the Congregational Church here on campus for nearly three decades. He still finds that working with students is a growing and challenging job. He explains that this is partly because their attitudes toward religion are constantly changing.

"Students have gained, during the past thirty years, a new seriousness with regard to faith. This has been caused mainly by the upheavals of World War II and Korea, which made young people not only more world conscious, but also more aware of the very real possibility of death," he said.

Sports-minded

The Rev. Waggoner finished his undergraduate studies at Eureka College in Illinois. Most notable among his many activities there was his participation in athletics as captain of his football team and as a member of the wrestling team. From Eureka he went to the Yale Divinity School, and then to the Hartford Seminary. He completed his graduate studies at the University of Chicago, taking courses in student counseling.

The Reverend has developed a very definite philosophy in his approach to students and their religious problems. He likes the freshness and eagerness of students. "It is natural for them," he says, "to carry on an intelligent, painstaking search for the truth."

Fundamental Needs

"Students evidence a number of fundamental needs. Among them: love, recreation, school, a need to be accepted, a need for forgiveness, a need for independence and a need to serve—that is, a feeling that he must make his life count. Religion is concerned with all of these basic needs," he explains.

He finds in young people the seeds of idealism, of altruism, of courage. "They are very open minded, and their adventurous spirit makes them remarkably willing to experiment. This desire to investigate leads them to ask 'How does Christian teaching apply to me?'"

Personal Contacts

The Reverend, since his arrival here in 1929, has offered friendly and understanding guidance to thousands of students in their quest for an answer to that question. Besides the formal services which he conducts, he has tried to have as much personal contact with students as possible.

His very comfortable home at 2 Willowbrook Road provides a relaxing atmosphere for personal counseling. He lives there with Mrs. Waggoner and their son John, a junior at UConn. The Waggoners also have a daughter enrolled in the University. Sara is an eighteen year old freshman, living in unit 2-C.

The Reverend, although very busy with the church, and with his participation on a number of state and national committees, occasionally finds time for his hobbies. Fishing he lists as a favorite, but judging from the paintings which adorn his living room and study, he is also an accomplished artist.

Extensive Travel

His interest in athletics has never waned. During the Fall of his first year here he served as the backfield coach for the varsity football team, and since then has been an avid fan of all UConn sports.

He and Mrs. Waggoner have travelled extensively throughout the world. His interest in the archaeology of the Bible has led them on trips through Egypt and Palestine, Europe and Africa.

The Reverend Waggoner admits that there is one disturbing feature of his work. "After knowing a student for four years it is, naturally enough, very difficult to see him leave." But he derives a great deal of satisfaction, certainly, from the knowledge that he has helped that student through a critical and confusing period in his life.

College Atmosphere

OLYMPIC SPIRIT

(ACP)—Worried over the "true spirit of the olympics" is the "Campus News" at East Los Angeles Junior College, Calif.

"It seems that the American sports writer is placing before the people a misconceived idea of the true spirit of the Olympics . . . Indeed we should be proud to claim athletes like Rev. Bob Richards, Greg Bell, etc. But why are the writers comparing America's triumphs to Russia's defeats?"

"Surely this is not America's way of proving her superiority to the Soviet Union."

APPLIED COMMANDMENTS

(ACP)—The Ten Commandments are not "archaic," motion producer-director Cecil B. De-Millie told the students of UCLA. "They are alive," he said, "and should serve as a universal way of life to all people on earth. It is true that the people of today do not bow before graven images of stone or brass, but these are paralleled by the dollar sign and selfish vanity."

... Theodore Reik wrote a book called "Listening With The Third Ear."

Behind The News

WITH STEVE JONES
Daily Campus Managing Editor

Crypticism and Obscurity Dept.:

Sometimes we get behind The News and have to catch up. Such is the case today. Two weeks ago the topic was "Do It Yourself Psychology and included what evidently were cryptic references to Theodore Reik and Luther Burbank. Here then, in the interest of enlightenment are two illustrations of what these men mean to Storrs. (see cuts)

ETOIN SHURDLU DEPT: The Kid Comes Back Division

For those of you who were worried about the sad plight of Mr. Shurdlu, we are happy to report that no sooner had the Daily Campus hit the streets, than the heartline flashed in and we received a call from the Advertising Department saying they would welcome Mr. Shurdlu into the fold. The Ad Manager seemed to think that Etoin did better when writing in, what they call in the trade, "agate," so the former editor is now writing copy for the classified section.

New York Dept.

Anticipation is mounting as the time nears for another under graduate invasion of the Big City. The past two years have been rewarding beyond all expectations to those who have made the short trip to the UConn's first round ventures against St. Louis and Manhattan. We'll never forget walking through the Biltmore in 1955, and thinking for a minute that we were in the Student Union . . . it was that parked with familiar faces.

For those who did manage to get from the Biltmore to the Garden, the experience was quite something. The house lights dimmed within the vast arena and thru the smoky glow, the majestic sight of the American flag appeared. There was a hush . . . suddenly the majestic voice of Gladys Gooding filled the arena.

After this incident, the crowd was ready for the big game. The UConn team came on and you would have thought you were in the Field House in Storrs . . . there were that many familiar voices rising in one great familiar roar.

So don't cry if you haven't bought your ticket yet. There are still a few left, but whatever you do . . . don't be a clod and be left behind.

... Luther Burbank loved flowers

... don't cry if you haven't bought your ticket yet . . .

... but don't be a clod

Dark Age Of Hartford Ends

Joseph "the Chin" Taborsky is behind bars and one of the most frightening eras in the history of Hartford seems to have come to an end. For the past few months residents of the Greater Hartford area have known what it was like to live in European cities during the Dark Ages. In effect, the people of Hartford were forced to lock the gates to the city, pull in the sidewalks and stay close to their fireplaces. Attendance at movie theatres was off thanks to the 'Mad Bomber' and his disciples. The ordinarily uneventful trip to the corner drugstore for a pack of cigarettes took on all the danger of a trip to darkest Africa. Churches burned mysteriously. A junior high school was gutted. The incidents piled up and with each one citizens began to wonder at the almost supernatural aura which hung over the city.

A central figure in this Dark Age, Taborsky and his grotesque visage seems to symbolize the times as Attila the Hun symbolized the dark, wild age which brought Rome to its knees and ravaged Europe until the Renaissance.

With his capture, the public, which has been filled with fear, has suddenly erupted with all the hate of a lynch mob. Letters to the editor in Hartford papers call for Taborsky's swift and total destruction.

A further development of this wierd series of incidents is the focus which Taborsky has put on the age-old issue of capital punishment. Held for a murder charge and then let go due to a technical provision, Taborsky has already experienced the psychological horrors of Death Row and says now that he doesn't want any part of it. He wants to get things over with as quick as possible. He rambles on and on about the persistent images of "prisoners marching to their death."

The Taborsky case can be used for evidence on either side of the capital punishment question. Those who favor it will point to the mental anguish which Taborsky is suffering. Those who oppose it will claim that despite Taborsky's first hand experience in death row, an advantage other potential murders lack, he was not deterred enough to stop killing. Of the two points of view, the latter seems the most significant.

Though the Dark Age of Hartford is apparently over, the impact of it will last for years to come, not only in the hearts of those who have directly suffered, but in the minds of anyone who has lived through it.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor

According to the article in Monday's Daily Campus about the food buying plan, it seems the only advantage would be to save money for the students. However, as is probably obvious to all who have read the article, they're won't be any savings whatsoever, for in the true administrative fashion it has been stated that whatever money is saved will be used "to go toward the extra expense incurred upon the Administration by the purchaser's salary."

Now, it is a fine thing in this great democratic community for someone to be earning his bread and butter, I am sure all will agree. But is there not a possibility that these services contributed by this, in all probability, hard-working conscientious individual would be more useful elsewhere? It has been the usual practice, or so it seems, to cut down overhead in large businesses by doing away with superfluous personnel.

Admittedly, buying food in large volumes would be a definite saving for all the consumers concerned. However, that saving is far more valuable to the people directly benefited than to a single individual or group of individuals whose services are neither needed or desired.

In short, it the Administration is so concerned with the expenses incurred by the students' eating habits, they would do better to attempt to cut the overhead and not to add to it.

Sincerely,

Edward Hasbrouck

Community Responsibility

Without Blood There Isn't Life

BY PETE ADAMS

Daily Campus Feature Writer

The Bloodmobile, which was at St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel this past Tuesday and Wednesday, is a community responsibility. Every minute of every day, over eight bottles of blood are used in this country to treat the ill and the injured. Without blood donors, there is no blood and without blood there is no life. For this very reason, blood is not only a community responsibility but the responsibility of each and every individual.

Blood is taken by specially trained nurses under the able direction of qualified physicians.

Medical screening is done to protect the donor as well as the patient. Contrary to popular misconceptions, giving blood is completely safe and easy.

Blood is never wasted. If it is not used within twenty-one days, it is processed into plasma and other derivatives for use throughout the United States.

In this modern world, many accidents and illnesses occur in which the individual concerned becomes desperately in need of blood. He must have this blood; for without it, he has nothing.

According to the facts given to this writer, the Connecticut Regional Blood Program operates on the following policy:

1. A non-resident student by giving his blood in Connecticut, may be eligible to receive whole blood free outside the state within twelve months after donating, provided the hospital will accept delivery. These eligibility requirements cannot extend to members of his family or to friends.)

2. A Connecticut resident may receive blood free in all accredited Connecticut hospitals, regardless of whether or not he was a donor. This includes students.

3. A Connecticut resident may receive blood free outside the state if he has donated blood within the past twelve months to the Connecticut Regional Blood Program. Members of his immediate family who are Connecticut residents will also receive blood free in other states, provided the hospitals will accept delivery.

4. There is no charge for blood by the accredited hospitals or the Red Cross. There is a hospital laboratory fee for each transfusion.

5. This program differs from most Regional Blood Programs in that it is a total program to cover all accredited Connecticut hospitals, but it is not a debit and credit program for in-state patients.

NEGRO ASSAULTED

Birmingham, Ala., March 6—(UP)—An angry crowd of whites beat a white integration advocate in Birmingham, Alabama, shortly after he had spoken to a negro minister and his wife in a white railroad station waiting room. The negro couple had gone into the waiting room to test the statement by officials that segregation was ended—and they were protected by police.

IBM Interviews Will Not Be Held

IBM Corporation has announced that contrary to the advertisement in the March 4 issue of the Campus, interviews will not be held March 13 and 14.

The date was mistakenly scheduled by the Agency as interviews were held last week.

Any questions or requests for further information should be directed to Mr. F. T. Martin, IBM Corporation, 100 Farmington Ave., Hartford, Connecticut.

State Senate Vetoes Proposal

Hartford, March 6—(UP)—Connecticut's County Government is here to stay for at least another two years. The State Senate has killed a Democratic proposal that it be abolished.

Democratic Senate Leader Arthur Healey declared there is "absolutely no justification for continuing this archaic system" but Assistant Republican Leader Benjamin Barringer said, "It is justified because that's what the people want—not what dreamers tell them what they want."

Healey maintained that the usefulness of County Government has been dwindling each year and it is what he called—"largely a housekeeping function."

But Barringer insisted that County officials serve to "keep the government close to the people" and said it would cost more to transfer their powers elsewhere.

Man Sells Stock In New Ball Park

New York, March 6—(UP)—Police in Ithip, New York, have charged 34-year-old James Lynch with selling stock in a new stadium for the Brooklyn Dodgers, a stadium which is just a dream in Brooklyn, so far. Two friends told police they became suspicious of the 15-hundred-dollar worth of stock they bought after reading in the newspapers that the Dodgers still are without a new home stadium, and are even casting glances at Los Angeles as a possible site.

Speech Contest Announced

A speech contest will be held at College of Agriculture Auditorium Thursday evening, 7 March at 7:30 p.m. The speech finalists will be AFOTC Advanced students speaking on an air power theme. This is a contest to determine the winner of the annual Republic Aviation Award.

The award will be a silver identification bracelet to be formally presented during Military Day ceremonies on May 16, 1957. Since this subject is of great current national importance, the student body is cordially invited to attend.

Mili Ball To Be Last Large Dance

The Military Ball Saturday may be the last large Uconn dance of the year, other than the Senior Prom, which will be held after the end of the regular school year. The Junior Prom originally scheduled for later this Spring, may be dropped because of lack of interest.

Tickets for the Mili Ball, which is open to all students and faculty members, are on sale at the HUB Control Desk for $3.50. Dark suits will be acceptable as wear for males.

Richard Maltby and Paul Landerman and their orchestras will play at the 9-1 dance in the University Auditorium. A Coed Colonel will be chosen from among five finalists to reign over the dance.

Western Electric's new TUITION REFUND PLAN can help you continue your studies while launching an exciting career

Under the new plan, Western Electric will refund tuition costs for after-hours study at graduate or undergraduate level, to a maximum of $250 each year. Say, for example, that you decide on a career at Western Electric in one of many rewarding phases of telephony—electronics, development engineering, design, manufacturing production, plant engineering, or some other. You may be eligible for financial assistance to help defray the cost of graduate or other study from the very first day. Choose engineering, science or any course that is appropriate to your job or that adds to your ability to accept greater responsibility, and the Company will refund to you up to $250 a year for tuition. (You'll note from the map on this page that Western Electric's work locations are well situated in terms of major population areas. That means that many of the nation's best schools are close by.)

Plus values, like the new Tuition Refund Plan, give Western Electric engineers many opportunities that others never have. There's specialized training both in the classroom and on the job... a formal program of advanced engineering study that includes full-time, off-job courses of up to 10 weeks' duration... a retirement and benefit program that's one of the best known and most liberal in industry... low-cost life insurance that would appeal to any man with his eye on the future. And of paramount importance is the chance to work alongside top men in the field of communications.

There's a good deal more for which there isn't space here. Why not write us or contact your placement office to schedule an interview when Bell System representatives visit your campus.

As one of us, you'd help engineer the manufacture, distribution or installation of the equipment needed for the nationwide communications network of 49 million Bell telephones.

cable were tailor-made—there's a constant need for new products and new processes. Two-thirds of the equipment we make today for the Bell telephone companies is of types developed since World War II.

Besides telephone work, Western Electric—over the years—has been responsible for a continuous flow of defense jobs for the government such as the Nike guided missile system and the DEW Line.

There's plenty of room for advancement... whatever your field of specialization. So—whether you'd be helping with our telephone job, or working on a major defense project like guided missile systems—with Western Electric you can expect to grow!

On Second Thought

By BOB SOKEL

Daily Campus Co-Sports Editor

New York anyone? . . .

With Connecticut's NCAA basketball game against Syracuse less than one week away, a strong bid to get as many UConn students as possible to Madison Square Garden has been undertaken on the part of the Campus. Despite coming at a poor time (a weekday night) the enthusiasm of the student body appears to be such that a large delegation of UConn students will be on hand to lend their much needed moral support in the Husky's behalf.

Such an effort was made last year by the Senate but failed due to little publicizing and a late start on the part of the instigators. Again, however, the game fell on a weekday night and it is difficult for students to plan ahead, not knowing just what their exam schedule will be at that time.

Historic '55 Tourney . . .

The last time that the Huskies were in a post season basketball tournament that was held on a weekend was the National Invitation Tourney in 1955. At that time, the Connecticut fans left a lasting impression on the metropolis of New York when a huge contingent of UConn students invaded Madison Square Garden to inaugurate the Husky's first appearance in the N.I.T. It is estimated that between 400-500 students went to the tourney on a chartered train and paraded from Grand Central Station to the Garden with occasional stop-offs along the way for liquid refreshments. Unfortunately, this writer was not a student at the time but the tales of the 1955 New York invasion will be long remembered by all who were present.

By the time that the Huskies took the floor against highly regarded St. Louis, the faithful were well fortified for a full night of basketball. The underdog Uconn's led the Billikens at half time but succumbed to a blistering second half performance by the Missourians and dropped a 110-103 decision. The 110 points scored by St. Louis was and still is an N.I.T. team scoring high and the combined total of 213 points also set a new tournament game scoring record.

Just get there . . .

The unusually large Connecticut following was missed against Manhattan last year and the outlook for the same this year is discouraging if such is forthcoming. However, at noon yesterday some 80 students had signed up for the buses and it is expected that the number would be much more than that by the end of the day. Of course, there is always a sizeable portion of the male students who would rather make the trip by car but will get there one way or another.

The triple header basketball attraction is well worth more than the $1 price for student tickets. The second game of the night will undoubtedly find Canisius going against West Virginia and that followed by a possible Yale-North Carolina game. The Mountaineers Hot Rod Hundley can always be depended upon for a show in addition to top caliber basketball. It should also be interesting to see how Yale's Johnny Lee does against the nation's number one team, North Carolina. In his fifth year at Chapel Hill, Coach Frank McGuire will field a starting five that is composed of all New York area players.

The cheerleaders will be there and so will the band, now all we need is the fans.

when you start planning that next banquet you'll naturally be interested in two prime considerations; cost and convenience. You can be sure to find both low cost and real convenience by calling GA 9-9366 and asking about the many advantages of holding your next banquet in the CYPRESS ROOM of the . . .

UC Still Leads In Scoring

BY BOB RICE
Daily Campus Sports Writer

Although the Connecticut basketball team leads the nation in scoring at the present time with 87.8 points per game, it is not assured of this victory since all tournament games count in the final statistics. Cumulative statistics complete through the Huskies 24 game regular season schedule show that the Uconn's have had a very successful season statistically. They have out-scored, out-rebounded and outshot their opponents by a wide margin.

The opposition has been out-scored by 12.1 points per game (87.8 to 75.7). It has been out-rebounded by 10.5 rebounds per game (56.9 to 46.4). It has been outshot from the field by 4.1 percentage points (41.5 to 37.4). Only in the free throw percentage department do the Huskies appear to be fighting a losing battle. Here the adversaries lead by 1.7 percentage points (65.3 to 63.6).

Osborne Sets Pace

The all-around individual standout for the season has been Bob Osborne. The senior guard leads the team in scoring; is second in field goal percentage; first in foul goal percentage and fourth in rebounds. He has scored 15.9 points per game; has hit 45.3 per cent of his floor shots; has netted 71.5 per cent from the charity stripe and has grabbed 5.8 rebounds per game.

Billy Schmidt has been another fine performer. The 6-6 sophomore is second in scoring; third in field goal percentage and second in rebounds. He has scored 13.7 per game; has caged 45.0 per cent of his field shots and has snared 10.6 rebounds per game.

Cooper Top Rebounder

Another consistent Blue and White leader has been Al Cooper. The "New Brunswick Ace" stands third in scoring and first in both field goal percentage and rebounds. He has whipped in 12.3 points a game; has hooped 46.8 per cent of his shots and has pulled in 11.6 rebounds a game.

Jim O'Connor, who has been consistently improving, has now moved up amongst the leaders. The New London junior is fourth in scoring; fourth in field goal percentage and second in foul goal percentage. He has flipped in 9.2 points per game; has connected on 42.5 per cent of his field shots and on 68.3 of his charity tosses.

Following is a rundown on the individual scoring totals for the regular season.

Player	Field Goals	Foul Goals	Total Points
Osborne	143	95	381
Schmidt	121	82	324
Cooper	120	56	296

Rams Top Windsor Locks For Fifth Class 'C' Crown

BY NELSON KING

New Canaan High School came to life in the second half to down a scrappy Windsor Locks five 70-51 Tuesday night at the Field House for its second straight CIAG (Class C) basketball tournament. Morris "Wilky" Gilmore paced the Rams with 24 points but it was the fine all-around play of little Graham Corr which provided the spark for the winners. Corr kept the Rams in contention throughout the first half and then proceeded to set up Gilmore for easy hoops in the final period. In addition, he also popped in 20 points.

New Canaan grabbed the lead for the first time with 4:29 to go in the first period, and was never headed after that. With Corr pouring in eight points the Rams jumped out to a 15-8 first period lead.

Windsor Locks cut the deficit to five at halftime 32-27, but that was the closest the Locks-men came to the downstaters for the rest of the game. New Canaan proceeded to score ten straight points at the outset of the second half, and began to turn the game into a rout.

Biggest Lead

New Canaan opened up its biggest spread 70-44 with two minutes to go in the game, and at this point the New Canaan coach went to his bench and gave his starters a much deserved rest.

Russ Jubrey was high man for the losers with 21 points, while Charles Simonetta took second place scoring honors for the Windsor Locks five with 17 markers.

Gilmore was by far the outstanding player in the tournament, and was a unanimous choice for the tournament All-Star team. The lanky junior tallied 104 points in the last three tourney games.

Locksman First Defeat

It was the first defeat of the season for the Locksmen who had run up a string of 21 consecutive victories during the past season.

This was the fifth Class 'C' championship for New Canaan in this tournament which is now in its thirty-fifth year. Windsor Locks has yet to win a title, but they have been in the finals twice in the past three years.
