The most carefully edited newspapers ness, and it is only when some error unusually funny overtakes us, is it worth a notice, but the hot boy for hot being called to it to show what mischief a single letter in a word is capable of making.

Preparations are being made at the shops of the Baldwin Locomotive works, for the building of a new locomotive of great speed for the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co.
This locomotive, it is expected, will make the distance with its trains, between New York and New Haven, including the usual stopovers, in ninety minutes. The time of the fast trains as now scheduled is about two hours. The drawings are not yet all completed for this great flyer, but it is stated that work will be begun upon construction very shortly. The Baldwin people are designing the locomotive themselves in perfect faith that they will be able to accomplish the object desired.

"A visit to the fish hatchery at the as there are now to be seen the embryo fish in all stages from the freshly culled spawn to the tiny fry which in myriads are to be seen swimming in the tank ready for shipment, of which several millions have already been placed in the rivers of the state. There is also a sight to gladden the heart of a New Milfordite, for in addition to shad is to be seen the precious lamprey eel, for which the residents of New Milford threatened civil war when the building of the Onastonic dam cut off their supply of this toothsome inhabitant of the river. Many thousands of these are in process of hatching and the prospects are very encouraging for a good supply to be placed in the upper waters of the river for the regalement of our north-

A few of our music lovers have start-the movement. Practical men have the matter in hand, and it is hoped they may succeed.

Charley Betts, "Vin" Honnecker, et feast, it naturally supposed that "Reuben would pay the freight," but as private Bates, and probably others, has been implored to "chip in" and help out the exhausted treasury it is feared that freight paying Reuben has failed them.

A Cow and a very Peculiar Accident.

A very peculiar accident recently befel a valuable cow owned by George Beaumont of Wallingford. The animal was scratching her head with her hind foot when the sharp point of the horns penetrated just above the hoof, catching the tendons of the hoof. Owing to the peculiar shape of the horns, every effort of the cow to release herself made matters worse, and when at boy on the farm discovered the animal it was in a pitiable condition, having in its struggles broken two ribs, badly injured a hip, and broken a horn off close to the head. The cow will have to be killed to end its misery.

Grocer Selleck Completely Upset.

Among a number of local items unavoidably crowded out of yesterday's paper after having been put in type, is the following narrative of what came very near to being a most serious if not fatal accident, and its interest is sufficient to warrant its insertion to-day:

Mr. George W. Selleck of the new and powerful grocery firm of Holmes Keeler & Selleck Co., essayed to give his family an airing Tuesday afternoon.
He got one of the gentlest livery horses in town and as he knows more about driving a horse than Letter Carrier Nickerson does about a cow, he let his daughter Mary do the driving, up to the point of danger, which was in front of Mrs. William K. James' place, where the big steam roller was puffing and snorting like a candidate for a borough office. At first the horse was not afraid of it, but brother Selleck was, and soon both horse and driver became very much frightened. Dobbin began to plunge, and soon shied onto the sidewalk. Selleck thereupon dropped the reins and tried to jump out, but fell on his back with his head directly under and between the fore and rear wheels, and before he could right himself, the fore wheel had been backed over and across his neck and another backward step of the horse would have planted his hind feet in his upturned face. Mrs. Selleck and Mrs. V. n. Alstyne, wife of the Rev. Dr. Van Alstyne, were in the rear seat and somehow struggled out, but Miss Mary, having seized the reins, heroically kept her seat and urged the beast forward, which no doubt saved her father from a most serious if not fatal injury. The horse pulled the carriage after him and got himself wedged between the first big elm tree west of the James gate and the iron fence where he was soon seized by helpers and the party rescued without any very serious injury either to themselves or the turnout.

Mr. Selleck's neck still shows the marks where the wheel passed over it, and it is probable that the weight of the load being relieved by the wheel having been partially raised up on the curb stone, saved his neck from being broken. Mrs. Selleck and Mrs. Van Alstyne were a good deal shaken up but more frightened than hurt, while Miss Mary, wisely sticking to the carriage remains the unhurt heroine of the exciting accident, and alternately laughs and cries as she narrates the narrow escapes.

Mr. Selleck, though the most seriously injured, took another horse and carriage and finished up his ride, which was to Colander's Point, but he is said to have very wisely let his daughter do the driving. Yesterday he made a business trip to North Salem, taking his son Clarence, the great American traveler along as a body guard, and today he is again up to his eyes and ears in business, just as if nothing had happened and the DAILY GAZETTE had not been cheated out of what "might have been" and by all ordinary conditions, should have been, a startling, first-class local item.

Borough Fire Department.

The Annual Inspection of the Fire Department was made last evening.
The Warden and Burgesses, escorted by the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department and his assistants visited the quarters of each company. The first was Hope Hose, next the Fire Police and in turn Pioneer Hook and Ladder, and Phoenix Engine Company. At each house the Warden and Chief Engineer complimented the fire laddies on their excellent appearance.

After the inspection at Phoenix Engine quarters the officials looked over the new supply wagon and accepted the same and turned it over to the Department. Then a short season of social festivity followed. Eloquent and pointed speeches were made by the Warden, Burgess O'Reilly and others, when some excellent musical selections were rendered. The Warden assures us that he was gratifyingly surprised at the high degree of excellence shown by the various fire companies. He remarked the need of a larger number of men for the Hook and Ladder Company, but nevertheless this company was entitled to all praise for its discipline and the best use of its limited force.
All in all, he thought few towns could equal and none excel Norwalk's fire department.

Over River School Meeting.

Last evening, in the High School room, the annual meeting of the Over River school district was held. There were fifteen voters present. B. W. Maples was elected chairman, H. B. Wig-ham temporary clerk and E. N. Sloan teller. Mr. Fred Mead, whose term as school committeeman had expired, was re-elected. Twenty ballots were cast for a successor to John H. Lee resigned.
The twentieth ballot was a tie and the chairman's casting vote gave James W.
Story the coveted honor. The last ballot revealed seven votes for Mr.
Story, five for D. P. Osborn and two for E. N. Sloan. A. E. Austin was elected clerk, and L. L. Sherwood collector, while Henry P. Price was unanimously elected treasurer.

The 250th Anniversary.

At a meeting of Stamford's warden and board of burgesses held Tuesday night, it was voted to celebrate the 250th anniversary of the settlement of Stamford next September. A military and civic parade will take place in the morning, with a grand pyrotechnic display in the evening.

Beans and "Jeems" Mitchell.

Our omnipresent "Jeems" Mitchell was bunced one day this week by his brother Bill. Jeems is ever ready for a good trade, and likes fun, and Bill is always ready to bother Jeems, so the bean business happened in this way:

"Jeems," said Bill, "I saw some of the nicest beans over to Finney & Benedict's you ever saw. White and beautiful, and only fifteen cents for two quarts. Get some before they are all gone." So away stalked Jeems for the dicker. "Say Finney, put me up two quarts of those beans." "Oh yes, with pleasure," said Finney. The beans were put up and Jeems inquired the price. "Thirty-five cents," said Finney. "Wh-a-t!" said Jeems. "Thirty-five cents is all." "Well, I'll be gol-darned-blasted." Jeems pocketed the beans, but mentally said some unreligious words about brother Bill. It happened that our reporter was around when Jeems met Bill, and various were the fireworks about that time, all kinds of colors were lying around. "Bill," said Jeems, "you are an Ananias. You told me those beans were only fifteen cents for two quarts, and I had to pay thirty-five cents." But the only satisfaction Jeems could get from Bill was "Say Jim, how do you like beans?"

Now this is a sinful world, and Bill is a good brother Baptist, but if the only can get Jeems a little stirred up he is happy.

P. S. Bill is to take part in the "Wila West" show at the Baptist lawn party.

The D. M. Read Company.

—Provided the seeker after bargains doesn't "want too much," the D. M.
Read Company feel confident of their ability to meet all demands for dry goods, notions and carpets to the perfect satisfaction of all applicants. In determining what are real bargains purchasers should look at the matter from other points than that of cheapness. It is possible for a yard of dress goods or a roll of carpet to be cheap and good for nothing. It is an error to expect something for nothing, or that any merchant, however he boasts in big type to the contrary, is selling merchandise at a price less than he can afford to. The D. M. Read Company figure profits to as close a margin as is possible and pay running expenses, and having an abundance of capital and unsurpassed facilities for taking a timely advantage of market fluctuations, bankrupt transactions and the newest importations, they never find it at all troublesome to meet the sharpest competition more than half way. No house between the Arctic and Antarctic circles offers superior advantages to buyers of seasonable dress goods, silks and underwear, and in the matter of carpets the D. M. Read Company sus-tain their well-earned reputation for position at the head of the trade in Connecticut.

Sir William Married.

Sir William Gordon Cumming and Miss Florence Josephine Gainer, of New York, were married at Trinity church, Chelsea, yesterday morning.
The ceremony was very simple, there being no display whatever. In September they will sail for the United States. The marriage was somewhat of a surprise, inasmuch as Sir William has repeatedly denied that he and Miss Gainer were engaged. This is explained by the statement that he wished to give Miss Warner an opportunity of breaking the engagement after the disclosures of his cheating at Granby Croft. It is said that since the adverse verdict in the baccarat scandal she gave him affianced an opportunity of breaking the engagement but she refused.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The entertainment committee will hold a meeting this evening at 9 o'clock to close up matters pertaining to last year's work.

Tickets are now ready for the Opera House service next Sunday and can be had at the rooms. Any lady or gentleman who can use some will please call and get them.

The ball game on Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds will be held between the Knights of Columbus of Stamford and the Senior Y. M. C. A. club. Admission 15 cents, ladies free.

Verdict Against the Consolidated.

A verdict of $27,500 was given in New York against the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company by a superior court jury in the suit brought by Owen Sweeney, a former brakeman, for injuries received while in the company's employ. Sweeney was hurt in 1888 while unloading freight cars in this city and is a cripple for life. The company appealed the case on a former verdict for $10,000 and will appeal again.

Orange Blossoms.

Yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Lester L. Sherwood, Isaacs place, Rev. E. H. Watkins united in marriage Mr. Emor A. Smith of Meriden and Miss Anna C. Murray of New Haven. The groom will be remembered as having been manager of the Telephone office here for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be "at home" to their many friends, in Meriden after July 15.

Yale's Oldest Living Graduate.

Edward McCrady of Charleston, S.
C., is, unless he has died without the fact reaching the secretary of the Alumni association, the oldest living graduate of Yale. He was graduated in 1820 in the class with President Woolsey.

The Bicycle—Here to Stay.

Commenting on the recent bicycle convention in New Haven the Palladium thus moralizes:—"Inquiry would probably reveal that at least one-half of the 2,500 wheelmen within our gates this day, use the bicycle as a practical road machine. It carries them to and from business or is used in the duties of the day. Delightful novelty that a wheel is, when used solely for diversion it loses its greatest charm; and even those who buy a wheel to furnish them exercise soon find effort necessary to force themselves to a daily run. It is in covering distances that would otherwise be paced off with human legs that the bicycle finds its best usefulness and permanency in the rider's esteem. The introduction of "safety" machines will enhance the fascination of the graceful diversion; and their use must increase each year indefinitely. With the perfection of the storage battery, who may gainsay the prediction that before many years we shall ride, each on his own wheel, propelled by electricity from beneath the seat, and going—say thirty miles an hour on roads prepared for us?

It is encouraging to ponder on the value of wheeling as exercise. Thousands of young people are thus strengthening themselves; and the next generation will give glorious results in stronger limbs, broader chests and a fondness for out-door-life."

Westport Church Trouble.

The replication in the Westport church case has been filed in the Superior court by Attorney Hoyt of Greenwich, counsel for the rector.
The replication is a general denial of the answer, it being denied that the annual meeting of the church was legally adjourned until April 6, 1891; that Charles H. Jones was chosen clerk or is the rightful possessor of the office by reason of his election at the previous meeting. The case will probably come up for trial.

The regular delegates from Christ church and the delegates representing the Hyde faction of that church attended the diocesan convention in Meriden. Neither set was accepted. This is a set back for the Hyde men.

EXTRA SOUTH NORWALK NEWS.

Three baby carriages addressed to the Sentinel office arrived at the Consolidated freight depot last night; "straws show, etc."

There are military men in this city who place Capt. Rose's reception and the election of a lieutenant next Friday night, (for Co F) together and draw conclusions that are not at all flattering to the promoters of the reception.

Yesterday Mike Powers received instructions from his employer to mow the dooryard; and he did it. Imagine, however, his employer's feelings when he found that Mike had also mowed down four bunches of choice lilies.
Mike, not long over, said he thought they were weeds.

"Speeler" Smith's chowder party yesterday, was a grand success. There is never any reason why the Reasoner's Captain "Speeler" Smith don't stick to his bargain of giving all on deck a quantum sufficit of pleasure. But never did his boat have as many decks on before.

The ladies of the Congregational church gave their strawberry festival last night in the parlors of the Congregational church. The Qui Vive Banjo club played their prettiest, the singing of Miss May Punzell was heartily appreciated, as was also the piano music of Mr. Frank Rider. As is ever the case when the ladies of this society give an entertainment it was a complete success. Over $50 was netted.

The Lawn Tennis Club Benefit.

To-morrow evening the enterprising lady members of the Lawn Tennis Club are to give a benefit entertainment in the Opera House, and they have succeeded in arranging one of the most attractive programmes ever given in Norwalk. We shall have the opportunity of hearing some of our own most popular artists in song, on the piano and violin. In addition the management have secured the services of Miss May Colyer the celebrated humorist, who recently made so decided a hit at the Star Theatre, Mr. J. J. K. Kackett, well and favorably known in town, in his impersonation of Carmencita, Mr.
Thiela, of Stamford, on the cello, little Harry Moore, the boy singer, and others. The announcement that Mrs.
Fred Bennett, Mr. John Treadwell and Mr. George C. Betts will give a pantomime to close the performance is sure to be popular. At the last moment it was discovered that Mr. Fred Russell of the Natural Gas Company was available for one night, and his services have been secured in his celebrated Chinese musical impersonations.

A Message of Glad Tidings

Comes to the Friends of the Last Bride of the White House.

The New York Press claims to have received from "high authority" the assurances of a delicate event which if true, will deeply interest not only the whole American nation but challenge and win the congratulatory interest of the civilized world. The message received by the Press, it says, was one of the most delightful hints which matrons hear with the sense of sympathy and of gentleness aroused. No more touching message is ever brought to a mother, and with the Free Masonry of her sex which the tender experiences of maternity teach every mother, the message is communicated by intuition almost, so that all women who are friends of one another know it, and from every one of them there goes to that one upon whom the hint is centered that sweetest and most tender sympathy which women who are mothers accord to one another. And the word has been passed around that one who is not only the idol of her circle, but is viewed with almost tender reverence by a nation which has been charmed by the exquisite story of her romance, which brought to her feet the chief one of the nation, is now approaching the holiest and most glorious crown of womanhood. And when it is known by the people everywhere that the time is near at hand when sympathy and prayers and affection, and withal, hope and joyful greeting should be extended to those who made prosaic life in the White House a romance, then congratulations will be given.

the nation. In the contemplation of it all political differences will be forgot-

THE SOLDIER LYNCHERS.

Seven of Them Indicted by the Grand Jury—The Sheriff Censured.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., June 11.—The grand jury has presented its report in connection with the lynching of Hunt by the soldiers on April 25.

It says, among other things, we found a true bill against only seven of the most and believe that there are a number of others equally as guilty, but in their cases the evidence was too meager to warrant an indictment.

The report concludes with a suggestion that the troops be changed to some other place because of the feeling existing between the citizens and soldiers resulting from the lynching.

THE OBSEQUIES PRINCELY.

Never Before in the History of Canada Had an Honored Dead Such an Illustration of Respect—To Be Interred in Cataract Cemetery.

OTTAWA, June 11.—With all the pomp and ceremony befitting a state funeral and the distinguished dead, the remains of the late premier, Sir John A. Macdonald, were borne Wednesday afternoon from the senate chamber, where they had lain in solemn state since Tuesday morning.

From an early hour in the morning a vast crowd thronged the approaches to the parliament buildings and lined the thoroughfares through which the funeral cortege would pass.

In the senate chamber rested the casket in which reposed the illustrious dead, arrayed in the glittering uniform of an imperial privy councillor.

Shortly after noon the officers of state and other high dignitaries who were to take part in the funeral began to arrive.

Outside the military and civic bodies took up the positions assigned to them. The governor general and staff reached the parliament buildings just prior to 1 o'clock, and all was soon in readiness.

First came a squad of dominion police followed by a squad of dragoon guards and regimental bands of music.

Next came the officiating clergy, the honorary pall bearers and the active pall bearers. A vehicle containing the floral offerings followed and after it came the hearse.

Behind this were two coaches containing the mourners. Next in line came the governor general and staff, the senior officers of the army and navy, the lieutenant governors of provinces, the archbishops and bishops, the members of the cabinet, the speaker of the senate, the chief judges of the courts, the members of the privy council and the general officers of the army.

Then followed the members of the senate and house of commons, members of provincial executive councils and legislative assemblies, consuls of foreign powers, deputy ministers, mayor and corporation of Ottawa, and after these came the municipal bodies, political clubs and deputations from cities and towns and citizens generally.

Never before in Canada had an honored dead such a princely escort. As the procession passed along heads were bowed and uncovered. The cortege moved westward by the western block and east again to the main entrance to parliament grounds, then down Metcalf street and through connecting thoroughfares to Daly street, and along Daly street to St. Albans church.

Arriving at the church the casket was borne into the edifice, where it was received by the rector, Rev. J. J. Bogart, and preceded by the choir chanting a psalm, and conveyed to the altar. The governor general and other dignitaries and as many as could find room in the church followed the casket.

The prayers were read by the Rev. Mr. Bogart. The hymns were, "When our heads are bowed with woe" and "Now the laborer's task is o'er." During the service the choral from Mendelssohn's St. Paul was sung.

At the close of the service the casket was carried out to the hearse, preceded by the choir singing the Nunc Dimittis. The cortege again formed and proceeded to the Canadian Pacific depot, where the casket was deposited on a special train, which was almost immediately left for Kingston.

Arriving there the remains will be conveyed to the city hall, where they will lie in state until Thursday afternoon, when they will be interred in Cataract cemetery, where, beside father, mother, wife, sisters and brother, they will rest in the long last sleep.

Against the People's Party. LA CROSSE, Wis., June 11.—The state convention of the Farmers' Alliance met yesterday and President Buff delivered his annual address. The chief point of the address was a declaration that the recent convention at Cincinnati, which determined to form a People's party, was not a farmers' convention, and will not be recognized as such, and that when the Farmers' Alliance convention is held Feb. 22 to put a national ticket in the field the alleged People's party will not be "in it."

SHROUD IN MYSTERY.

The Disgraced Baronet—Married to Miss Florence Garner.

HIS BRIDE A NEW YORK GIRL.

The Wedding Was Secret, Only Twelve Persons Being Present—A Claim That the Jury Was Packed—The Queen Disgusted—The Wilsons' Doom.

LONDON, June 11.—Sir William Gordon-Cumming was married at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning in the fashionable Holy Trinity church at Chelsea, to Miss Florence Garner, daughter of the late Commodore William Garner, of New York city. Lord Thurlow gave the bride away. Major Vesey Dawson, of the Coldstream Guards, was the best man. Rev. S. Robert Eyton officiated.

The marriage was practically a secret one. Only twelve persons were present at the ceremonies at Holy Trinity. The bride looked charmingly happy, and Sir William was proud looking, cool and entirely self possessed. Lady and Sir William Gordon-Cumming left the city shortly after the ceremony for the bridegroom's estate, Altyre, near Forres, in Scotland, where they will spend the honeymoon.

When the verdict was pronounced against him Sir William again offered to cancel his engagement to Miss Garner, but that lady, believing in his innocence, would not hear of such a thing, and insisted that the marriage should take place today. It is expected that Sir William and his wife will visit the United States in the fall.

Lady Gordon-Cumming is the oldest daughter of the late Commodore Garner, of New York, who was drowned in July, 1876, with his wife, through the capsizing of Mr. Garner's yacht Mohawk.

The Queen Disgusted. Friends of Sir William Gordon-Cumming now claim the jury was packed, and that so far from the defense being surprised by the questions which a jurymen addressed to the Prince of Wales the questions were expected, and had been arranged in advance in order to give the prince a pretext for declaring his belief in Cumming's guilt. A jurymen has admitted that the case was settled against the plaintiff by the evidence of the prince, and especially by the answer of the latter declaring that he had found it impossible to discredit the evidence against Cumming.

It is said that all the jurymen are conservatives in political faith. Lady Middleton, sister of Sir William, is said to be seriously affected by the verdict, and unable to leave her apartments. Her husband, Lord Middleton, who is devoted to his wife, and has been an earnest champion of her brother, is also much broken down. It is said to be the first stain on the Cummings in all their history, and that the Middletons are one of the proudest families in all England, being descended from a lord chief justice of Henry VIII.

As the weight of public opinion is so decidedly in favor of Sir Gordon-Cumming it is not unlikely that the court martial in his case, instead of being merely a technical proceeding, will be made an independent and more searching inquiry into the facts. It is reported that the queen is so disgusted with the whole affair that Lord Coventry may be asked to resign his office in the household. So far as the Wilson family is concerned, its career at court may be said to be finished.

The Chronicle's Caustic Comments. LONDON, June 11.—The Chronicle's rabid article is hardly likely to be eclipsed by the utterances of even the most radical newspapers. It is an astonishing piece of writing nearly two columns long. It condemns the jury's finding and Lord Coleridge's partiality. It declares no evidence was adduced inconsistent with the hypothesis that Cumming merely played the well known coup de trois. It says: "The verdict means, according to the jury, that Cumming deliberately cheated an illustrious but impetuous friend by a trick requiring long and toilsome years of practice to acquire; that, although twenty years an habitual card player without provoking the slightest suspicion, he suddenly plunged into a wild and ostentatious one, cheating the only man in the world on whose patronage his social and professional life depended."

There is nothing incredible in Cumming's signing the damning document on the strength of a statement of the Prince of Wales' cringing minions dooming him to a fate worse than death in order to save what the Prince of Wales is pleased to call his honor. Cumming is not the first gallant Scottish gentleman who has sacrificed both honor and life to the feverish passion of loyalty to the prince, or whose devotion has been rewarded by cruel and cynical ingratitude. He has this satisfaction, that no other man without the soul of a flunkey has ever run the smallest personal risk for the sake of the heir apparent's honor.

The Chronicle flatly accuses the Prince of Wales of violating the pledge of secrecy, and calls upon the authorities to indict Sir William Gordon-Cumming for the criminal offense of cheating. It declares that if they do not the public will know what to think, and says that if the Duke of Cambridge shrinks from his duty in regard to the military offense it is to be hoped that parliament will not prove so pusillanimous.

SHROUD IN MYSTERY.

The Body a Beautiful Woman Found in the Delaware River.

EVIDENCES OF FOUL WORK.

All the Indications Seem to Suggest That a Terrible Crime Has Been Committed, but It is Possible It May be a Case of Suicide.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 11.—In the morgue in this city is lying the body of a beautiful young woman which was found floating in the Delaware river opposite the ship yards at the foot of Erie street. Although the body had been identified beyond a doubt as that of Carrie Humphries, a Philadelphia dressmaker's assistant, the circumstances of her death are still veiled in deepest mystery and the police authorities both of Camden and Philadelphia, who are investigating the matter, are as yet unable to decide whether it is a case of suicide, or that a brutal murder has been committed.

From the facts already ascertained it seems probable that a shocking crime has been perpetrated, and the police are following up clues which may lead to the speedy solution of the mystery. Suspicion had first been aroused by the finding of a woman's black felt hat, trimmed with ostrich plumes and a parrot, a pocketbook, handkerchiefs, gloves and a small leather satchel on some floating spars in Baird's shipyard, a few days ago.

Thomas Hildan, an ice cartman, who found these articles, turned them over to the authorities, and it was at once suspected that a suicide had been committed. The articles, then found, were neatly arranged and looked as though they had been placed carefully upon the spars. Officer Cable, who was sent to make a search for the body, discovered it shortly afterward. It was removed ashore and taken to the morgue, when an examination was made by County Physician Isard and Prosecutor Kilgway.

She Was a Comely Girl. Bruises were discovered on the lower limbs, above and below the knees, but there were no other marks of violence. A red streak around the throat is supposed to have been caused by a tightly fitting collar. The body was that of a very comely girl about twenty-one years of age. She had long, silken blonde hair, blue eyes, and her form was exquisitely molded. Her only blemish was a mole on the under side of her right wrist.

Her clothing was well made, though not expensive—a dark jersey, black cashmere dress, blue silk stockings, buttoned gaiters and white linen underclothing making up her attire. She wore rhinestone earrings with gold settings and a chain bracelet, and a little golden heart, attached to a black velvet ribbon, was worn around her neck. The bruises upon her limbs showed some resemblance to finger marks.

Police which gave color to the theory of murder was furnished by the story of Mrs. Margaret Coleman, who lives near the foot of Beach street, directly opposite the place where the clothing was found. She says that while looking from her window, between 12 and 1 o'clock Monday night, her attention was attracted by the sound of voices in the direction of the river. She was able to distinguish two men and a woman standing on the sparred wharf. The woman seemed to be pleading with the men.

She Heard the Screams. All at once Mrs. Coleman heard the woman scream on the wharf. "For God's sake, don't!" "One of the men replied: "Yes, we will, too." Then there was a splash, and the two men ran off through the yard. Mrs. Coleman's story is somewhat disjointed as to further details of what she saw and heard, but she sticks to the cry and the splash. She does not explain why she did not raise an alarm at that time, instead of waiting till the next morning before telling her story.

From articles found in the satchel on the spars, it was discovered that the girl lived in Philadelphia and had worked for several weeks for Mrs. J. Cyrus Edenberg, a dressmaker at 1,829 North Eighth street, Philadelphia, where she went at first by the name of Blanche Humphries. She afterward had told her employer that her real name was Carrie Burrows, and that she came from Shamokin, Pa. Carrie came to live with Mrs. Edenberg six weeks ago, and had previously lived at the residence of Mrs. Florence Butler, at 829 Wood street, Philadelphia. It was also ascertained by the police that the girl had visited this house, where she had her trunk, Monday night about 9 o'clock, when she put on a change of underclothing. She then went away, and none of her friends saw her alive afterward.

Mrs. Edenberg says that she knew of no irregularities in the girl's conduct, and did not know that she had any male acquaintances. The police, however, have got hold of a story that she was in love with a bartender named Harry, who had deserted her, and she once threatened to kill herself by taking laudanum.

The Murder Theory Strengthened. From Mrs. Butler's house the girl was traced to the Philadelphia and Camden ferry. Charles Simpkins, one of the deck hands on the Vine street ferry, saw the body in the morgue and identified it as that of the girl whom he had seen in company with two men and another woman Monday night. They crossed the ferry from Philadelphia about 10 o'clock. He noticed Carrie Humphries particularly, because she was so lively and gay in her manner. Shortly afterward the men returned to Philadelphia, and he says they were back at Camden again after midnight and returned by the 1:30 a. m. boat.

HANFORD'S FLORAL HALL, 23 Wall Street, NORWALK.

NORWALK GAZETTE. Absolutely Independent. THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1891. ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE, IN NORWALK, AS A NEWSPAPER.

THE WEATHER. The weather to-day promises to be fair and slightly warmer, followed by partial cloudiness. To-morrow it promises to be generally from fair to partly cloudy and warmer, followed by rain.

Almanac for To-morrow. High water Bridgeport 2:20. High water Norwalk Islands 2:25. Low water Norwalk Islands 8:55. Sun rises 4:19, sun sets 7:26.

SOUTH NORWALK. The GAZETTE is on sale at the news offices of Fred Coleman, H. Theile, W. L. Atherton, and H. E. Bodwell. Orders for all kinds of JOB PRINTING received at our branch office on Railroad Square.

The Tompkins avenue Sunday school will be at Roton Point, to-morrow. Fifty-six thousand rabbit skins were among the freight on the City of Albany, last night.

Capt. Bell and his spile driver are busy to-day setting the fenders at Ferris wharf. Bridge-tender Jones is building a boat in his back yard. Mr. Jones' back yard is of plank.

Capt. Verity has built a new float to be anchored off his boat house near the Washington street bridge. The Yacht Reasener, Capt. Speeler Smith, can "poker" bow ahead of them all. At least she did so yesterday.

A sleigh came upon the City of Albany last night. It belongs to a family who came here from Greenland for the summer months. John Ferguson and John Clark were sentenced this morning by Justice Townsend to ten days in jail and costs for vagrancy.

John Hines swears by the horse Dandy, but he sold it to William H. Hoyt. While he weeps at the loss he still bets on Dandy. "Bert" Woodward went to New York this morning on the City of Albany.

"Fent" Pomeroy will show him the ins and outs of life at a steamboat landing. Your scribe understood that J. C. Wilson & Co. have an order for 600 dozen hats to be finished by July 4th. That they will be done on time is a positive fact.

The Norwalk Hat Finishers association met last evening and appointed a committee with power to act in the matter of making arrangements for the Labor day picnic. The case of Oscar Olsen vs Lewis Anderson was tried before Justice Townsend this morning. The charge was assault and breach of the peace. The prisoner was found guilty.

Business is booming at the Richardson & Morgan foundry. Parties putting up houses and in need of a first-class furnace should call at the company's office on Water street. The diamond back terrapin, mention of which was made in these columns a few days since, was served at the Dorlon House last night to a very select party. Landlord Powers presided and the feast will be a memorable one.

Butler Lodge I. O. O. F. last night accepted Selah D. Seaman as an ancient Odd Fellow and he is now in full communion with the lodge. Work in the first degree was "worked" on four candidates, and officers nominated. A match game of billiards was played at the Norwalk hotel last night between James Hamilton and Charles Raymond for $10. Hamilton played 200 to Raymond's 140 and won by 3 points. The game was a cushion carom.

Reporter Bulkeley, of the Danbury News, (he spells his name the same as the Governor of the commonwealth of Connecticut) called on us yesterday. He came down to see his second best girl off for Africa where she is enlisted in the missionary cause. Vanderbilt Weyman, a stoker on the City of Albany, was arrested this morning just before the boat left the pier by Constable Morehouse. The constable had a writ charging Vanderbilt with non-support of his wife. The "City" left without its Vanderbilt.

The Boston & New York express train due here at 2:30 going west out loose from the locomotive yesterday on the Washington street crossing, the locomotive shooting on by the depot. The train was stopped within its own length, the automatic brakes proving for this time at least their safety. Builder Sherwood has the contract for a new brick building to be erected on Elizabeth street by Mr. Wm. Hillison. The building will be 20x31, three stories high and will cost about $5,000. The first floor will be used for a store, and the two upper stories will be finished off with all modern improvements for dwelling purposes.

Messrs. Hoyt & Beers took a dozen or more of their employees out for a sail on their yacht Florence B, this morning. The party took along a small amount of bait but will spend most of their time in liming the sails and eating chowder. Capt. Theodore Brotherton was at the helm and Capt. William Kellogg acted as mate.

James Village, son of Thomas Village, died at the home of his parents on Day street at 8 o'clock this morning of inflammation of the bowels. He worked with his father as a pattern maker and had been sick about one week. He was 19 years of age. The steamer Irene D. Conner took a party to the races at Huntington, L. I., this morning. Among the party were Munson Hoyt, Thos. Morison, John Hanlon, Chris. Miller, James E. Woodhull and other well-known lovers of a good horse race. Yesterday Mr. Morison's four year old Picket took first money at the race in that place.

Messrs. John Gallagher and Roland K. Jones, representing the famous Heekers, have been doing Norwalk for the past week and if there is a family in town without a package of "ten minute" oat meal it is because they have eaten it up. When delivered the samples were, it is alleged, partly cooked. The firm makes anyone of their employees eat a barrel of it—oat meal, caught lying, hence, perhaps, their fatness.

'Tis stated of a canvasser for a washing, map of the Holy Land or something else, who on visiting a certain house in town, on being told that nothing was wanted and admittance being refused asked, "If you went to the gates of Heaven would you expect to be refused at least a hearing of your claims for entrance?" As the lady of the house unhitched the dog and the clerically dressed villain moved away, he had the nerve to ask, "If there were any Christian families on the street." He perhaps concluded not as he sped to the avenue with the dog close on his heels. Restriction ought to be placed on this canvassing business, and the sooner it is done the better. Of these gentry we shall have more to say anon.

A branch of the Danbury Hotel and Boarding House Protective association was organized in this city Tuesday evening. A system of checks are used, and the checks as issued are passed from one boarding house to another as a guarantee of the holder's honesty at the last place he boarded. A gentleman from Boston was active in the organization here which now numbers among its members Reed Haviland, Mary Adams, James Hall, Hamilton Bros., Charles Knight, Mrs. J. McCauley, George Schaub, and several others are thinking of joining. A showing of the workings of the organization can be had at any time by addressing Mr. H. Shepard, the secretary of the supreme office at Danbury.

URNS, ALL KINDS.

GRAND EXHIBITION!

PROF. WM. H. AYRES, from Frank Hiker's New York Coffee and Tea School, WILL EXHIBIT THE ABOVE HOUSEHOLD BLESSINGS

At Our Uptown Store, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, And at Our South Norwalk Store, THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY OF THIS WEEK.

This is the most wonderful of all inventions ever exhibited before the public for making coffee and tea. It takes only one minute to make coffee or tea as clear as wine with all the rich ingredients contained in the same. Saves one half over all others.

In boiling coffee or tea you get only bitter water, but by the new method of making it you can have a delicious drink. The Pots will be on sale while the exhibition lasts. We have seen these Coffee and Tea Pots tested with the most wonderful results, and we want our friends and customers to see them in practical shape.
