COWARDLY ASSAULT A South Norwalker Attempts

Criminal Assault on a Young Lady.

The Rascal Escapes.

While dancing was going on in the pavillion at the Iron Molder's picnic, at a little before ten Saturday night, a man named John Kelly, a hatter employed at South Norwalk, stepped up to Miss Lizzie Kelly, of Knight street, and asked if he might see her home. She replied that he could not. A little later he asked her if she would not step out the door a few moments as he had something important to tell her. She complied and the two walked up the track a short distance, when Kelly sprang upon her, placing one hand over her mouth and with his other hand and teet throwing her down and furiously attempted a criminal assault upon her. She struggled as best she could and thwarted his purpose, but the cowardly wretch gave her two or They spent Sunday with Dry Goods three parting kicks with his heavy boots, ere he fled. Her clothing was badly torn and she was greatly terrified of course. Her cries soon brought assistance and she was conveyed to her home and Dr. Tracy called in, who pronounced her injuries seriously painful rather than dangerous.

Kelly was seen at Coney island, yesterday. He said that he drove to Portchester and took the train from there to New York. He says that he did not commit the alleged assault, but that the girl had a fit. His actions do not bear out the statement. It is to be hoped the villain will be captured.

A Crazy Man in Wilton.

Hurlbutt street last Saturday night was thrown into a great excitement. About dark, a man was heard in the lower part of the street, shouting 'oh-ho, oh-ho" with an Irish accent. He continued this until he arrived opposite the school house, where he stopped and set up an unearthly yelling of "God help us," "God help us," for an hour or so, when Constable Van Hoosear came upon the scene with other men of the street, and held a council of war. Van Hoosear went to interview him as to his whereabouts, when he replied: "None of your business." Then Van Hoosear approached him, and he made a slash at him, but missed him, when it was found he held in his hand an open razor. This he flourished (which glistened in the light of the lanterns), continually yelling like a maniac, at the top of his voice. To venture to go near him was dangerous; a rope was secured, a noose formed, and Van exageration of what was simply a little | Hoosear, while the man's attention was earnest talk. There was no nearness diverted by the crowd, crept up behind to blows. Burgess Vanderhoef had, him, and threw the lasso, which insultingly, as Mr. Warner thought, caught him fimly around his neck, alluded to his inefficiency and neglect when he sprang and tried to extricate of duty as borough clerk, and had himself by cutting the rope, but in his charged that Warner was very prompt | frantic struggle he fell, and the razor was knocked out of his hand, and Frank Barnes allowed his delicate form wouldn't blow him away. His hands were tied and he was carried into the school house where Van Hoosear brought his medical skill into use and washed and dressed his hands, which were covered with dirt and blood, as he had cut very bad gashes in two of his fingers. Selectman Ambler directed Van Hoosear to care for him during the night. He put a watch of some thirtyfive of Wilton's staid citizens as a guard over him.

On Sunday morning Dr. Gorham was called and decided he had been on a terrible spree, swallowing Winnipauk snakes, and all that, and the wild cats were knawing at his vitals. He was taken to Officer Morehouse, agent of the Conn. Hunane Society, and lodged in the Norwalk lock up. He gave his name as Pat Fogety, of Jim Howlin, aplummer; was acquainted with Pat Hamion, of Stamford; had work, and was Irish from County Clare.

On the way home Harry concluded that some one should watch the remaining provisions, which were being towed in a small hoat behind the Irene Connor, so he jumped into a similar boat alongside of the provision boat and enjoyed himself with a fragrant Havana. Suddenly one of the party on the Connor lost his hat and Harry, seeing it floating past, mistook it for a sandwich and made a grab at it, and of course missed it and over board he went. The Connor was stopped and by means of sundry boat-hooks, fish-hooks and ropes, Harry was rescued from a watery grave.

A Big Consolidation. DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 3.—The reported consolidation of the Chicago and Minnesota Ore company with the Minnesota Iron company, which owns the Tower mines and the Duluth and Iron Range railroad, turns out to be a much larger deal than was at first reported. The Chicago and Minnesota Ore company and the Chandler, Chippewa, Norma, Delaware and Canton Iron companies, as well as the Duluth and Iron Range railroad and the Minnesota Steamship company, are all owned in great part by the stockholders of the Minnesota Iron company. It is proposed to consolidate all these into one company which will own every mine at present shipping ore, the Duluth and Iron Range railroad and a total land holding of about 40,000 acres. The combined capital will be about $17,000,000.

It Is Rumored That a Compromise Has Been Effected.

WHAT THE CITY MAY GET.

New York and the Heirs of the Million aire Lawyer to Divide the Estate Equally-The Value of the Property Is $10,000,000.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Rumors were affoat in the Lawyers' club, the Manhattan club and the Union League club to the effect that the dispute over the will of Samuel J. Tilden had been amicably settled. According to the rumors 50 per cent. of the estate is to go to the heirs and the other 50 per cent. to the city. This will give the Tilden heirs a good deal more than they would have received had the will been sus tained. No one could be found last night to authoritatively affirm or deny whether a compromise had been effected.

The Rumors Probably True. Not many months ago it was rumored that the Tilden will had been settled out of court, but the subsequent proceedings failed to prove it. Now the rumor is renewed with more evidence of foundation. Several prominent lawyers said last night that in their opinion the city would do better to accept 50 per cent, of the Tilden estate than run the risk of getting nothing at all. Since the death of Mr. Tilden the estate has increased largely in value, because it consisted principally of real estate, and it is now worth about $10,000,000. If the heirs were paid out of this according to the terms of the will as interpreted by the executors, the sum of $8,000,000 would be devoted to the building of a free public library. The case is now pending in the court of appeals on an appeal from the general term. If the general term decision is sustained, the city, of course, will be defeated. The Will Contested.

Samuel J. Tilden died in August, 1896, and left surviving him his sister, Mrs. Mary B. Pelton, George H. Tilden and Samuel J. Tilden, Jr., two nephews and four nicces. Mr. Tilden's will was ex-ecuted in 1884, and admitted to probate in Westchester county two years later. John Bigelow, Andrew II. Green and George W. Green qualified as executors. Mr. Tilden willed certain sums to the heirs, and left the residuary of the estate in trust for a public library, to be erected in New York, or some other public place to be designated by the trustees. The will was contested by the heirs, and the general term of the first department unanimously decided that the trust provisions whereby the city was entitled to a residuary interest in the estate were absolutely void on the groun i that the trustees have not the power to designate the use to which the money left to the city shall be put.

The case was appealed from this decisio by the attorneys of the executors and trustees, and argued last June in the second division of the court of appeals, held in Sar toga. James C. Carter presented the case on behalf of the trustees. He said the o jet of the suit was to at tack some testimentary provisions of the will, and to procure a judgment declaring it invalid.

The Tilden Trust. The contested provision, which provided for the establishment and maintenance of a free library, was in form of a bequest of the whole residue of the testator's estate after satisfying prior legislation, or so much as his executors and trustees might deem expedient to a corporation thereafter to be chartered by the legislature and named the "Tillien trust."

The question was whether this provision wa egally valid and whether the corporatio was such a one as that described by the testator. Mr. Tilden's scheme, Mr. Carter said, was to provide for his sister, nephews and nieces, and bestowed upon them, including debts released, about $1, 000,000, besides having made some bequests represented by Leios McCurdy and Joseph H. Choate.

New York May Get. The case was closed in the first week in June, and the decision will not be handed down until October or November. If the city wins it will probably is entitled to about $8,000,000, and the question has been agitated by lawyers whether it is better for the city to accept half this sum or lose

The statement was also made that the suggestions of the compromise came from the executors. In the majority of cases the court of appeals upholds the decision of the general term, and in face of this be-lief it is hardly likely that the contending heirs would be inclined to make overtures.

Moreover, the judges who constitute the court of appeals can hardly be expected to be more partial to the welfare of the city of New York than those of the general term, whose interests are more closely identified with it. These considerations were fully discussed last night by severa'.

of the leading clubmen. A Compromise Has Been Effected. "I do not care to have my name men tioned in connection with the Tilden will case," said a well known attorney; "but 1 will say that I have it on good authority that a compromise has been effected. In my opinion, it is the best thing the executors can do. The probability is that the court of appeals decision will affirm that of the general term, in which case the city will be the loser. It looks like heavy gambling. By the decision of the case the city will get $8,000,000 or nothing. I think it far better they should take $4, 000,000 and run no risks. They have made the better bargain in view of all the facts, and if the story I heard is true, and I have no reason to doubt its truth, I am surprised that the heirs did not compromise on better terms."

The big spring business here marks a new era in tailoring. As the knowledge that it is best and cheapest in the end to have your clothes made to measure becomes more widely disseminated the demand increases. A couple of years ago the amount of business I am now doing appeared almost unobtainable and yet as large as it is it has had the effect of whetting my appetite for more, which accounts for the extra efforts now being made and the unrivalled inducements in price, quality of material, style and workmanship.

Printers Test the Eight Hour Law. ALBANY, Aug. 3 .- The new eight hour law is being tested by the job printers, and as a result all the large shops are closed. The union adopted an eight hour scale of $16 per week. The employers re-fused to accept it, and demand that the men sign a contract to evade the law and work ten hours. The men refused to comply, and as a result 200 job printers are out, together with a large number of pressmen, feeders and binders. All the small shops have agreed to the scale. The grand officers of the Typographical union have been telegraphed to come here and adjust the matter.

Shot by a Mob.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 3.—Last Friday night in Henry county, a short distance from Gordon, a mob took from officers four negroes-two men and two women-who were charged with burning a dwelling house. On the way to the river one of the men escaped and was shot at. He rolled down the bank of the river and by feigning death escaped into Georgia. The others were placed on the bank of the stream and shot.

Not an Heiress, but a Nurse. ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 8.—The parents of Josie Loring, the seventeen-year-old girl who cloped with and married Hack-man Kennedy, of Plainfield, a few days ago, have become reconciled to her marriage. Her mother denies that the girl is an heiress, and says that for the past six months she has been employed as a nurse

Fassett's Papers Signed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—General Daniel McCauley, of Indiana, took the oath of office as appointment clerk of the treasury department. His first official act was to prepare for the president's and Secretary Foster's signatures the papers appointing J. Sloat Fassett collector of customs at New York.

PORT RICHMOND, S. I., Aug. 3.—Ex-Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, addressed a large audience at Prohibition park on The Social and Political Problems of the Second Century." Among other things, he said the liquor question and the best way to deal with it was one of the greatest problems of the times. He was a resident of one of the greatest prohibition states and was a prohibitionist himself in prac-tice and only took a drink when he wanted it, which was not often. In Kansas the people had been wrestling with the liquor question for the past ten years, yet there was not a town in the state where a man could not get liquor when he wanted it.

More than $900,000,000 was spent in the United States for liquor every year—more than was expended for bread and meat and public education together. In this country every man should be entitled to a vote and have it honestly counted. The people were the rulers and every man should be a politician. The republic as a whole had been tolerably successful, but from what the speaker had seen and heard in the last fifteen years it was still on trial. He believed the socialist was right, but he quarreled with his methods. It was no wonder that men revolted when the great mass of the American people had before them continuous toil with no prospect but mendicancy for old age. The tyrant of wealth was more fatal than the despotism of kings. He had been often asked to suggest a remedy, but he had none. His was but a voice crying in the

MRS. LEDERER SHUT OUT.

Lawyer Newcombe's Wayward Daughter Not Mentioned in His Will.

New York, Aug. 3.—The will of Lawyer Relard S. Newcombe was filed with Probate Clerk Bernard J. Tierney yesterday.

It cuts his daughter, Ida Flora Lederer, who eloped with Theatrical Manager George W. Lederer, off without a shilling. His widow, Ida M. Newcombe, is sole executrix, and gets the income of the entire estate for life. She is authorized to distribute the principal in such proportions as she may see fit among his five children, Lizzie M., Sadie H., Mary L., Albert C. and Richard S. Newcombe,

If she fails to exercise this power, then the principal is to go equally to these five children. Mrs. Lederer is not mentioned in the will in any way. The petition for probate, however, cites her as a daughter.

Hungarians Protest.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—About 300 Hungarians assembled in Germania Assembly rooms to protest against the execution of Michael Sabol and George Rusrac, now under sentence of death for killing John Quinn at Carnegie's blast furnace at Braddock, Pa., during a riot on New Year's Day. Resolutions were adopted appealing to the board of pardons of Pennsylvania for elemency on the ground of the previous unblemished reputations of the men and that the circumstances of the killing made premeditation doubtful. Coroner Levy presided, and among the speakers was Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Erhardt Will' Soon Retire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Senator Fassett called at the custom house and had a very lengthy consultation with Collector Erhardt. After the consultation Collector Erhardt announced that he would act as collector for another week at least. He said he had been requested to do so by Senator Fassett, as the latter wanted to go to his home in Elmira, where his wife is ill and his private business needs his attention. Mr. Fassett's commission as collector of the port has not yet arrived, nor has he yet filed the necessary $200,000 bonds. It is expected, however, that he will qualify during the coming week.

Garment Workers Take Action.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Members of sixteen branches of the United Garment Workers of America, A. F. L., met in the Cooper Union to protest against the "sweating" system. How Nye Stopped the Bad Boys. Bill Nye told a story just before going home. "Once," said he, "I had the misfortune to live in the same block with a congressman. In that neighborhood there were a number of little boys who had the habit of ringing door bells and then going quite a while the congressman and I held a convention. And we resolved that we would put an end to this ringing of bells if we had to throw the boy who did it any distance—twenty miles, and that we would bring the boy back and embalm him. Well, one night shortly after this conversation there was a strong pull at my bell. I suspected what it was, and dashed out just as I was. It was, and dashed out just as I was. It was very dark. I could hear the boy running away, however, and pursued the footsteps. When I had run about half a block I thought it would be a good plan to turn and go the other way and catch the boy in front. So I turned and ran around to the other side of the Pretty soon I could hear the boy coming the other way, panting through the darkness. I paused and opened my arms wide to embrace him as he came on. I succeeded. Then I delivered a powerful blow into the bosom of the night. Well, we clinched and rolled over each other on the ground, and gouged and thumped at each oth the welkin rang. At least I think it did. I am sure that mine did. Then we decided that we had had enough, and that we ought to call it a draw. So I withdrew my nose from his mouth and rose. He rose also, and we stood facing each other. We gradually recovered our breath. His came first. It seemed to be nearer and more has. It seemed to be leastly more easily reached. When he finally spoke I heard the congressman say, 'There, I'll teach you to ring my door bell again!' — New York Sun.

The Locomotive to Go.

The enormous mass of extra dead weight due to the carrying of the boiler, fuel and water in the old locomotive will be entirely unnecessary in the railways of the future, which will be propelled electrically. Unquestionably the future electro-locomotion will show a motor on every axle, or at any rate upon two axles of each car, and every car running as a unit, in which case they can be run coupled together in a train or not, as may be convenient. Oberlin Smith has entered a strong protest against carrying this enormous dead weight of a loco-motive for absolutely no purpose. We have the weight of the cars, plus the pas-sengers or freight, for purposes of traction, even if we make our cars in future of lighter material.

In speaking of the lightness of the future conveyance by rail, Mr. Smith says that we shall not only use steel and aluminum, but paper, India rubber and other fibrous substances, which will give us remarkably light cars, far beyond anything we now speak of practically. Just as a wheelbarrow is to a bicycle, so will our present clumsy cars be to the future ones. To have a b motor car loaded with tons of ballast to give it traction is following the path of steam locomotion; in all probability the necessary adhesion will soon be gained by electricity.—New York Commercial Adver-

A Cruel Trick.

The desire of young married people to prevent the traveling public from ascertaining that they are on their bridal tour was sadly thwarted in the case of a young couple who recently came to this city to spend their honeymoon. They were married in a small town in Connecticut and started on their honeymoon on a special train that also carried a large number of the wedding guests to the nearest city. No sooner had the train left the station than huge placards were noticed on the windows near which the happy couple sat. They read, "Just Married," "Just Married." The travelers had a good laugh, in which even the bride and groom felt obliged to join. They did not laugh, however, when they reached their hotel in this city, as their trunks were brought to their rooms with printed placards "Just Mar-ried," "Just Married," pasted all over them.-New York Times.

Gentlemen Give Up Their Seats. No one will attempt to defend the man who under ordinary circumstances, keeps and 25 cents. Do not fail to see our semi-annual sales in the past old, rich or poor, handsome or homely, is on behalf of a tired man who has secured a seat in a car or an elevated train, and who declines to yield it to a buxom, unwearied young girl who has evidently not spent the day on her feet in a factory or behind a counter. No excuse can be urged, however, for the men who push their way ahead of women into the so called "ladies' cabin" of a ferryboat and fill its seats while their rightful owners are obliged to stand. Whether there, or in car, train or stage, a man with the instincts of a gentleman will usually prefer to undergo fatigue rather than prove guilty of the discourtesy of remaining seated while a lady is standing.-Harper's Bazar.

Lightning Calculators. The late George Bidder, at the age of 8, could answer almost instantaneously how many farthings there were in any sum un-der £868,424,121. Zerah Colburn was another lightning calculator of the same generation Once he was asked to name the square of 999,999, which he instantly stated to be 999,998,000,001. He multiplied this by 49, and the product by the same number, and the total result he then multiplied by 25. He could raise the figure 8 to the sixteenth power almost instantly and with perfect ease. He once instantly named the factors of 941 and 263, and in five seconds calculat-

Potash Is Healthful. The fact must be understood that while the mineral acids are injurious to health the vegetable acids are wholesome. We rely chiefly upon fruits to supply the latter, and they also contain considerable quantities of potash, which is sometimes arti icially supplied in the treatment of the lithic acid diathesis, the condition of the system that causes rheumatism and kindred es; for instance, the addition of as much potash as can be held upon a ten-cent piece to the juice of a lemon in a glass of water is an admirable beverage. - Exchange.

Royalty Not Like Mortals. One may not, according to the etiquette of loyalty, speak too familiarly of kings and queens. As a subject was once reminded who wished to give his sovereign a pair of stockings, "The queen of Spain has no legs." She must not be supposed to walk, talk or eat like ordinary mortals, and if one cannot escape the inference that she really is like the rest of humanity, surely nothing need be said of it.—Youth's

He further said that he should certainly finish up all of his jobbing work before closing his present store. He assigned no cause for his action.

Only Six Due Bills Legitimate. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—Cashier John Hayes, of the Keystone National bank, has filed his affidavit in the suit brought by the assignee of ex-City Treasurer Bardsley to recover $025,000, alleged to have been deposited by Bardsley in the Keystone bank, and for which amount Bardsley held fourteen due bills. Cashier Hayes swears that but six of these due bills are egitimate, and they represent only $325,-000, which was the actual amount deposited by Bardsley. The other due bills, covering $600,000, were given to Bardsley by President Marsh with fraudulent intent, not one cent being deposited in return for them. The affidavit also avers that there was guilty collusion between Bardsley and Marsh in this matter.

BRIEF MENTION.

Dr. Worcester, of the Sixth Presbyteria. church of Chicago, has accepted the pro-fessorship of systematic theology in the Union seminary.

The American ship Shenandoah, which cleared at San Francisco for Havre Friday, had the largest cargo of wheat on record, being 113,000 centals, valued at $182,000. A three foot vein of lead ore has been iscovered on the farm of J. Halbing, near Breda, Carrol county, Ia., at a depth of 300 feet. Expert miners at Carrol report that the ore is of the finest quality and can be mined to good advantage.

William McLaughlin, twenty-eight years of age, was shot and killed by William Hallsey, aged fifty years, during a quarrel in front of the latter's residence, 420 East Eighty-ninth street, New York. Hallsey was arrested. John Beesely, one of the most interest-ng landmarks of Charleston, S. C., died Aug. 1, aged eighty. For over half a cen-jury he was sexton of St. Michael's church, and his intenee interest in the church and his knowledge of its history made him the leading authority with all tourists and

SHOE NEWS.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., August 3, 1891. The weather to-day: Clear and cool. Carpenters, masons --- and every pair not sold must be moved out and builders come in. Business suspended until they finish.

I'd like to sell every shoe in my store within three weeks. I don't expect to, but I ought to sell half.

To-day all hands and the boy are busy marking down shoes; every pair will be reduced in price; none reserved. You know my ordinary way of marking down goods. This is exceptional.

Ready to-morrow. JOHN G. HOWLAND.

HAT is just where our Suits areabove criticism. We can speak of them with all the greater confidence, because every one of them has had our personal inspection. Comparisons are said to be odious, and odious enough as a rule they are, but these suits have such a made-to-order appearance that they will show off to advantage, no matter what you compare them with. You must be hard to please if they do not command your instantaneous approval, for the more fastidious you are, the more readily you will appreciate their excellencies. It is simply a case of first-class material
