NORWALK GAZETTE.

THE FAVORITE HOME PAPER.

Independent in all things; Neutral in nothing.

The Gazette has the largest circulation of any paper in Norwalk, and furnishes the lowest advertising rates.

Hospital Fund.

At the request of the GAZETTE Mayor Rhody McGinnis has consented to give a description of his trip to the inauguration of President Cleveland. The Opera House has been secured for the occasion and the lecture will be given Friday evening March 10. The admission will be 25 cents and the proceeds will be presented to the Hospital fund. As a large number of ladies have expressed a desire to be present the gallery will be specially reserved for them.

Mr. Harrison's Retirement.

In retiring from the Presidency Mr. Harrison bears with him the respect of his fellow citizens and their kindest wishes for his future welfare. He leaves an official record honorable and reputable throughout.

He has discharged with zeal and fidelity the trusts reposed in him, not alone in upholding the principles of which he was elected as the chief exponent, but in consulting at every point what he conceived to be the true interests of the people at large. Whether always right or occasionally wrong, as judged from different standpoints, he has pursued the even and dispassionate tenor of his way without catering to consideration of expediency in his own behalf or losing balance in the presence of difficult responsibilities.

It was not a vote of want of confidence in Benjamin Harrison, as a man or President, by which he failed of reelection; it was his re-nomination against the wishes of the delegates and party leaders of those states that could give him their electoral vote, together with the placing on the ticket of a running mate who was distasteful to every labor union in the country, that reversed the verdict of 1888.

Whatever results may be disclosed by an analysis of the causes that brought about the Democratic restoration, the fact remains that President Harrison, amidst all the burdens that weighed upon him and through all the factious conflicts that raged about him, maintained the dignity and exercised the functions of his high office with equanimity and courage, facing the course of events as became a statesman and patriot.

In the management of our foreign affairs, and the numerous delicate questions arising in connection therewith, he displayed the firmness, sagacity and tact that were essential to the honor and prestige of the flag, and approved himself to the country as a Chief Magistrate equal to every emergency.

His appointments, as a rule, have been judicious and fortunate. If in the distribution of patronage he did not at all times fill the measure of expectation, it cannot be said that in any case he distributed it to the public detriment.

His messages have uniformly been characterized by clearness, intelligence and force, showing a thorough appreciation of wants to be met, of dangers to be avoided, of policies to be pursued in sustaining the credit and enhancing the prosperity of the Government. His has been a peculiarly steady hand at the helm of state, no matter what variance of opinion there may have been touching the wisdom of its course.

Under all circumstances has Mr. Harrison been true to his party. Even those who undertook to prevent his re-nomination, who took but an indifferent part in the canvass for his re-election, can find no flaw in his loyalty to the declarations of the Republican platform or in his steadfast adherence to every legitimate party obligation.

More nearly than any of his predecessors has Mr. Harrison been brought to the hearts of the people by reason of the many domestic afflictions that have befallen his own and his official household. One touch of nature makes the whole world kin, and the apothegm is peculiarly applicable in the present instance. The political differences that existed between the party in power and the party out of power were thus in a measure bridged over and partisan asperities ameliorated; and at no time in the annals of the Republic has one administration been exchanged for another with a more general spirit of patriotic good-fellowship, than that which marked the retirement of Benjamin Harrison to private life and the accession of Grover Cleveland to the position that both have honored.

TERSE TALES OF THE TIMES.

Regular meeting of the Court of Burgesses to-night.

—More of those 5c Whiskers at H. H. Williams.

Ex-President Harrison is to-day the only living ex-president of the United States.

"Tommy" Gregory has sold a handsome "cob" to "Jake" Schaub of South Norwalk.

—A ten horse-power Engine and Boiler will be sold cheap for cash. Apply at GAZETTE office.

The rampant "huck-beer" roat, has commenced to adorn the windows of "irrigatories" about town.

A large attendance is expected at a meeting of Our Brothers' Lodge, to-night. Several candidates are expected to "ride the goat."

—Look out for the New England supper and entertainment at Broad River, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

A brand new baby arrived at the Italian bakery on Center avenue, last evening. It is spoken of as being well "bred," the four of the family and altogether a "bolivar."

John Wade is losing his grip on the grip, or rather the grip is losing its grip on John. He thinks of all the grips he ever became "attached" to, this last grip outgrips them all.

—Sleighride, supper and admission to the entertainment at Broad River Chapel Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. All for 35 cents.

The hearing on the petition to revoke the divorce granted Elyahessen Harris of Stamford, was not concluded in the Superior court Saturday afternoon before Judge Thayer. At 5:30 the case was adjourned until Friday.

—Every person buying a bottle of Hale's Lung Balsam to-day, will be entitled to one 25c bottle of Hale's Rose Cream, the great remedy for roughness of the skin, free of charge. Bring this item with you.

Alonzo Sutton, aged 50, was struck by the 6:59 passenger train on the Ridgefield branch of the Consolidated road Saturday night and instantly killed. He was crushed under the wheels of the entire train and terribly mangled.

The case of William H. Tubbs vs. George Shaffer, is being tried before Justice Austin this afternoon. Tubbs seeks to recover $25 for oyster stakes furnished Shaffer. Attorney Walsh appears for the prosecution and Attorney Light for the defence.

The new county commissions were expected to take office Saturday, but their bonds were not filed. Their commissions have to be signed by the governor and as he is at present in Washington they could not receive them. They are now expected to qualify this week.

John J. Walsh was sworn in as a justice of the peace, this morning by Town Clerk Herbert Smith. Mr. Walsh's papers will be forwarded to Clerk Shelton of the Superior court. Other justices elected at the last election will be or have been sworn in, and their credentials forwarded as above.

The Mission services which have been held at St. Mary's church, by the Jesuit Fathers, for the past two weeks have been very largely attended. They closed last night. In the afternoon the services were for women and in the evening, for men. On both occasions the church was literally packed with people. The fathers will go to New Canaan to-day, where services will be held for three days.

It is stated that a fact that a certain man in town draws his pay every night, in order that his wife who is a hard-working woman, cannot reap the benefits of the same. The GAZETTE is in possession of other facts as regards the misdoings of this individual which if published would place his husband and family in a very unenviable light as to his ways and, unless he men to his ways and treats his family differently, he is liable to be arrested.

We have frequently noted cases where people have been burned by fire or scalded by hot water. If such would instantly pour ammonia, such as is used about the household, on the scalded parts, they would secure immediate relief, and no signs of a blister. We have in mind a case where a woman scalded her hand with boiling hot water. The applications of ammonia gave relief, and a few hours later it was hardly discernable that the skin had been in the least harmed.

The Franklin Avenue Case. The borough court room was crowded this morning at the hearing of James Steeb, Edward Eason, Andrew Crawford and William Reynolds charged with a breach of the peace in the vicinity of Franklin avenue, Sunday evening, Feb. 27th. Some twenty-five or thirty witnesses were summoned. Attorney Walsh appears for the prosecution, and Messrs. Gregory and Lockwood for the defense. The hearing in the cases of Steeb and Eason was adjourned until 2:30 this afternoon, and that of Reynolds until to-morrow morning.

Fresh Fish.

Fish, oysters and clams, and all kinds of meats, received daily, at Raymond & Lockwood, 22 Main street.

SEEING THE SIGHTS.

Mayor Rhody McGinnis Captures Washington.

Home, Sweet Home.

Norwalk's chosen delegate to the Inauguration left Jersey City at 1.42 on Friday, by the B. & O., and was due in Washington at 7.30. His train however, was so over crowded with passengers all along the line that it had to be divided and left Philadelphia in five divisions or sections. The news had spread that Mayor McGinnis was on board and had so preceded him, to cause such a rush and jam of passengers for his train, is at least remarkable. But Rhody, true to his native instincts, was on the first section to roll into the Washington depot, which it did at exactly one minute past twelve at midnight. He walked out of his compartment car, clad in a high silk hat, and with all the grace and dignity of an old school clerical gentleman. The instant he struck the depot platform the superb brass band of the Philadelphia Invincibles that had come over with him, struck up "Hail to the Chief," and the bosom of no king of any effete monarchy of the old world ever swelled with manly pride than did that of Rhody. Indeed, his bright green suit, appropriately printed in bright green ink, covering his honest bosom with the amplitude of a liver-pad, fluttered an additional length to its gorgeous fringe by the swelling and heaving and intense throbbing of his proud heart.

As it was the Mayor's custom to retire early he was escorted, by a vast, eager and curious crowd, to his sumptuous quarters at the Hotel de Arthur, where a rich folding bed in the front parlor, had been secured and spread for him and where, "barrin" the pure white shates," as he expressed it, as he surveyed them with an interest verging on curiosity and even suspicion, he slept the sleep of the righteous to awake Saturday morning to see one of the fiercest snow cyclones of the winter raging with the New Englander's mad fury through the blinding snow and sleet during the forenoon. To see the Capitol, President's Mansion, Treasury, War, Navy and State Departments. Tickets had been secured for him to the Inaugural ceremonies within the Capitol building, and to the great Inaugural Ball, in the vast Pension building at night. All of these he took in, with that calm consideration and satisfaction that clearly indicated that he felt it to be a part of himself and nothing but what he was entitled to as a free and independent American citizen and Norwalk's favorite son and chosen delegate.

A special printed invitation had been sent him, by the committee of resident citizens of Connecticut, to join them in paying respects to our Governor Monday night, with his brilliantly adorned staff, were tendered a reception Friday evening at the parlors of the "Wimodaughis Club." Rhody arrived too late, it is said to relate, to honor himself and the governor and his staff at their brilliant and largely attended reception. That they all felt his absence keenly is evident from the frequent inquiries of the GAZETTE's scribe as to where he was and how long he had been expected to be there. No one seemed more provokingly disappointed than his old, sometime friend and fellow democrat, Albert Relyea, of the U. S. Treasurer's office.

This can scarce be called a lost opportunity for Rhody though a disappointment to others, for he had big fish to fry at the Inauguration next day and it was well he reserved his strength therefor, as he had never dined on a Presidential Inauguration and Rhody knew and felt that nothing of importance could or would be done until his arrival and active participation. And this was true, for although Maryland's crack regiment preceded his arrival by a few moments and the famed New York Seventh regiment, (knowing its proper place in line) a little later followed him in his rear, there was no serious business connected with the Inaugural essay until he arrived and was on the ground. Even both Houses of Congress adjourned as soon as he entered the Capitol, which if not intended as a mark of respect to him, looked most suspiciously like it.

The Mayor's half closed eyes were quick to see every new royal thing and his mother well served for no end of apt and comical remark. The two things that seemed most to interest him and excite his curiosity, were the Capitol dome, inside and out, and the Corcoran Art Gallery exhibits. When his orbits were lifted to the outside of the great white dome crowning the Capitol he remarked; (continually calling it "Bome," and thus paying an unconscious tribute to the early teachings of his good Catholic mother) "My, what an illigant cap that would make to sit down over me hay stack there forenint the Norwalk river. An' wouldn't it make the Cobble Hillians stare? Shure it'd be big enough to sit over me hay, the cow, the goat, an' the horse an' me pig-pens, chicken house an' me little castle too, so it would. Well, well." But inside on looking up to its vast interior vault and viewing Bermuda's great allegorical picture, which Congress paid him $40,000, his eye caught the life-sized picture of George Washington robed in draperies, the Mayor remarked: "An' there's the mon as couldn't tell a lie. Shure ivry Cobble Hillian could bato him in that and give 'im pints besides. But what the devil is he doin' up there a dancin' in petticoats with those crazy theatre girls anyhow? An, was he any such a mon as that, an' did Lady Washington know of his larkin the loikes o' that, the giddy bird sure?" It was useless to urge that the picture was simply allegorical, for his confidence in the Father of his country was shaken and he would only reply: "Will, I can see nothing respectable an' dacent or paragonical in any sich goin's on, as that."

At the White House, on entering the great East Room, his wonder and admiration seemed to grow. Said he, "An' du the President himself, have to swape sich a big place as this? Shure I'd rather 'd rid that contract to clano the Borough severns than iver to be President. Now I know that Lady McGinnis would want me to ploy it up and sacle it down in grass for the cow or plant it wid potatoes an' cabbage. iv we had sich an illigant garden spot as this would make, upon our flat, an' it wer soild an' splayed and saded."

It was at the Art Gallery, however, where his simple wonder and admiration reached their highest flights. Not even the sight of the two Presidents, as they rode up Pennsylvania Avenue together, so excited his imagination. The superb paintings were a revelation and joy to his eyes and soul, but some of the exhibits in Statuary Hall, gave an offensive and revolting character to his simple and naive feelings. An approaching the famous Greek Slave and being told that $5,000 had been paid for it, he was thoroughly disgusted and his moral nature shocked. Said he, "what dom fule giv $5,000 for that stun woman? Shure I wouldn't give the tip end of me Lady McGinnis' little finger for the loikes iv a dozen iv her, an' the shame iv her shandlin' there in a such revolting way as they wid only be affther dark bathin' clothes on!" From this he was led to the statues of the four Venuses of Classic Greece and halting in front of one, he was told it was the famed Venus de Medici, supposed to be the most perfect and classic model of the female figure extant. Looking all about and viewing nude groups all around him, his indignation and outraged pride took form to follow. "An' does they let these disgraceful females stan' round in this way, all the time, to make a dacent man blush? Shure I'd not care whoiver Mrs. Venus was, or what Medicene 'twas that kill'd, I know she was no respectable woman, an' I'd be cover'd wid confusion and shame did I think that ivry Lady McGinnis wd know that, I'd looked at the indancy an' Grakes in' Venuses, fur mesel', give me Mrs McGinnis ivy!" So saying, honest and virtuous Rhody broke and fled from the Statuary room.

Early Saturday morning and before Rhody was to appear in the Inaugural procession, the Grand sachem of Tammany, who had been informed of the Mayor's presence in Washington, sent him by special messenger, a gorgeous Tammany badge. It was in blue tatin and heavily embossed in gold. The presentation was made by Capt. George Coyley of the famous New York Seventh Regiment, in the presence of a large number of Connecticut people and some half dozen Norwalkers. The Washington Post of yesterday also devotes a considerable space to Rhody and his made him a most glowing and complimentary notice. General Bissell, assures his friends that Rhody shall be the first Postmaster of Cobble Hill. Never was a school boy in his first pair of red topped boots so exultant and happy as our Rhody.

After the inaugural ceremonies were over Rhody concluded not to stay and attend the ball, so took the 10.50 train for home and reached Norwalk at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

That the Mayor has seen more during his short visit to Washington, than the great majority of visitors, is certain and it will take all the rest of his natural life to relate and comment on the wonders he has beheld. In this regard, the good people of Norwalk made no mistake in choosing their delegate, for not another man in the world, we are sure, could have enjoyed so many and so varied a harvest of novel experiences. And so for honest Rhody, may his shadow never be less.

At Hartford. Eleven Democratic Senators and Senator Phelps (Rep.) were on hand Saturday when Lieut. Gov. Cady called the Senate to order. Senator Holden moved an adjournment to Tuesday at 1 p. m. This was ordered.

It was said that Senator Ensign was expected back from Washington in which case there might have been further action on the Insurance commission-ership. The Senator however did not appear.

Democratic Senators with Lieut. Gov. Cady held a consultation with ex-Senator Seymour in regard to the latter's course concerning the commission-ership. It is understood that the various points of order, raised by Mr. Phelps Friday, were planned to cover certain points that may arise in legal proceedings.

Her Divorce Granted. A divorce was granted Saturday to Mrs. Maud L. Dobbelan by Judge Thayer, from Merrius J. Dobbelan, who is serving a two years' sentence in Sing Sing prison. The pair were married in New York July 25, 1883, the bride being at that time a young widow.

Dobbelan was a great club man and among other dissipations played the races. In a short time he lost $200,000 of his wife's fortune. The crime for which he is serving time she will not divulge. The allegations set forth in the petition for divorce are intolerable cruelty, intemperance and desertion. Only the latter was pressed the plaintiff saying, "His sins are hard enough to bear. He is unfortunate and I do not care to make his lot harder."

Mrs. Dobbelan has been living in Norwalk for the past three years. She says she cannot live in New York satisfactorily by reason of her diminished finances, and therefore lives in Norwalk in quiet and seclusion.

The Normal School.

The committee on education has not made a report to the General Assembly on the petitions of Bridgeport and New Haven for the location of the state normal school. Senator Crandall, chairman, has been ill at his home in Norwalk, and for this reason the committee has not taken the subject into consideration since the close of the hearings. A report may be made this week.

Pluck and Oysters. Bay Shore, Long Island, oystermen reaped a benefit from their pluck, last week, as they had a complete "corner" of all the oyster trade from that section.

To do this they cut out a channel through the ice three fourths of a mile long and one quarter of a mile wide at the southern end and some twenty rods on the north or shore end. Several sail boats were then "hitched fast" to this monster cake of ice ranging from eight to twelve inches thick and the great floe towed out of the bay. This led to the breaking up of the ice in the bay and it was clear of ice while the Sayville and Patchogue oystermen are still frozen in.

Being Neighborly.

"Dick" Fitch of Wilton, who never owned a hen worth more than twenty-five cents, foxily writes as follows:

The man who bought a fox to keep his poultry company seems to have been actuated by the same line of reasoning as the village of Norwalk, which has at least two good uses for its neighbor on the north. It's a good place to buy hay and a most convenient asylum for unruly "drunks." A case in point was witnessed on Monday. The streets were filled with excited citizens, who had assembled to do honor to one Roger McGinnis, who had just been declared elected by a plurality of over 11,000, as the most popular man in town (Mr. McGinnis cleans Norwalk sewers), and in the depot, with several other passengers, were two Norwalk young men full of liquid enthusiasm, who were further polluting the nose to wholesome air, with most profane and obscene language. A policeman was on hand and mildly reprimanded them, with the promise to take the next train to Wilton, he soon disappeared from the scene, and the noise and vile talk was kept up for fifteen minutes longer, notwithstanding that an old lady, seriously injured by a fall on the icy pavements, was lying in the next room.

On the arrival of the express, our heroes, true to their promise, boarded it, and managed to beat the train, to this haven of rest where policemen are unknown and a man with a "jag" has any quantities of room for his gyrations. They spent the rest of the afternoon whooping things up, and about 7 in the evening were in search of more fun, when a team passed them driven by one of our farmers, who was returning from delivering a load of oat straw in an adjacent town of Norwalk. Attached to the back of the sled was a bar containing a peck of Norwalk clams and two bottles (for a neighbor), of the kind of rum kept expressly for Wilton customers. In a spirit of deviltry our friends cut the string and, finding the contents "as described, and fully satisfactory to the consignees," started on a run, with the owner in hot pursuit. They eluded him near a depot, and, turning the corner suddenly, ran full tilt into two entirely innocent young men who, in self-defence, joined in the chase and overtook the highwaymen and recovered the clams and one bottle—empty! These were returned to their owner, who resumed his journey vowing vengeance; but up to date no arrests have been made, and the "drunks," entirely sobored up, are one more residents of Norwalk in good and regular standing.

OPERA HOUSE. As probably you all know How-worth's Dublin Dan Novelty company will appear at the Opera House to-morrow night. An exchange speaking of the entertainment says: "The panoramic views of prominent points of interest in Ireland proved interesting and instructive to both old and young, while the specialties were performed in a manner that proved each and every member of the company an artist of merit. This is one of the few companies that never disappoint an audience by giving a bad performance—a fact which should be remembered the next time they come this way." The company has appeared in Norwalk several times before and each and every time has given the best of satisfaction.

USE DANA'S SARSAPARILLA, IT'S "THE KIND THAT CURES."

Mr. Belden, who departed this life about 6 o'clock Saturday evening, in the 76th year of his age, was from one of Wilton's oldest and most prominent families. He came to Norwalk about a half century ago, married Miss Katharine Gruman and established on the church green the beautiful residence, which in later years his intervening years been his cherished home. By this union he had a son and three daughters, the latter now surviving him, as does his second wife, nee Sarah Hill, and their son, Webster. Mr. Belden was for all the earlier years of his life, a prominent and prosperous hat and fur merchant in New Orleans, spending his winters there and his summers here. In later years his southern business declined, and during and in consequence of the war of the rebellion, he is reputed to have lost much, if not all, of the fortune his earlier industry and business capacity and prudent sagacity had won for him. For several months past he has been an intense sufferer from an incurable bowel disorder, and his release from anguish could have been but a blessed benediction to him, although saddening the hearts of his widow and children with all the weight of irremedial bereavement. In his death the town loses another of its conspicuous and well known citizens, and another lesson of man's mortality is given the living. His funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, from his late home on the Green, and his remains will be sepulchred at Union cemetery, where no many weary ones already rest, and where all the living must follow soon or late.

Mr. Hyatt's Illness.

Hon. James W. Hyatt is reported as being somewhat better of his illness to-day. Dr. Allen of New York, has been summoned, and with the attending physician, will, this afternoon, make a diagnosis of the case. Many reports as to Mr. Hyatt's condition are prevalent on the street, and those of a sensational character have been sent out by penny-a-liners to the New York press, the truth of which is emphatically denied by those who are in a position to know.

THE DOORS LOCKED.

Worshippers Refused Admission to the Church.

The Different Factions Liable to Come to Blows.

The quiet little hamlet of Weston is again in an uproar and excitement is running high over the happenings at the Congregational church in that town Sunday.

When the good people of Weston who had traveled over the high snow drifts to attend divine worship at the little church arrived yesterday, they were horrified to find that a mammoth padlock graced the door and they were locked out. The lock could not be forced off and the soon of paper who had gathered, as well as the deacon who had brought the communion service and wine and bread, were forced to return home.

It is said that the cause of the trouble is the result of the parson's sermon the previous Sunday on "The Wickedest Man in Weston." It is also said that the parson has personally attacked the church committee from the pulpit as well as several of the young ladies of that town.

There is great excitement over the locking of the doors and the parson is very indignant. The different factions of the church are having a regular monkey and parrot time and it is feared that before the excitement is over they will come to blows.

The sexton has been ordered to keep the door locked and see that no one is allowed to enter.

A Few Runaways.

Saturday evening, a horse belonging to Butcher Fred Smith ran away. Terrence Cook, was with the team on Catherine street delivering orders, and when turning around the horse became frightened and ran throwing Cook out of the sleigh. The horse continued on to Main street and to the sidewalk in front of Scott's store where he was stopped by David Spicer, the land writer, who drove it to Mr. Smith's place of business. The contents of the sleigh were scattered along the street. The damage was confined to a broken rail on the sleigh.

Saturday afternoon a man who does not care to have his name published experienced the "delights" of an upset, on Wilton avenue. He was driving along the avenue with a horse and sleigh, when a large Newfoundland dog ran out and frightened the horse causing it to run away. The driver was thrown out and managed to retain his hold on the lines until the horse stopped. The sleigh and harness were considerably damaged, and the driver escaped with a few bruises.

A horse attached to a laundry wagon ran away on Catherine street, Saturday evening, but was captured before any damage was done.

This morning, a double team belonging to Meeker Bros. ran away from in front of Star's store on Wall street, while the driver was in the store. The horses continued through Wall street to Smith street and to the yard where they were stopped. Fortunately there were but few teams on the street at the time and no collisions occurred.

"The Diamond Breaker" will appear at Music Hall Wednesday night. This is the latest work of Scott Marble; the author of "Aunt Bridget's Baby," "The Police Patrol" and other eminent successes, and it is said to be by far the most elaborate and pretentious play Mr. Marble has turned out. It is filled with startling mechanical effects that are entirely new to the stage, and it is promised they will create a sensation. In one act the hero is thrown into a chute and descends head first into the ponderous jaws of the breaker, causing the most thrilling and effective piece of stage realism ever accomplished. Nearly ten tons of ponderous machinery in actual operation will be seen in "The Diamond Breaker," besides two car loads of special scenery.

NOTICE.

OFFICE OF THE NORWALK AND SOUTH NORWALK ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY.

NORWALK, CONN., March 1, 1893.

To WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: When we first installed our incandescent service, we were compelled to make the rates charged correspond, as nearly as possible, to the service rendered, because, at that time, there was no meter that could be used with confidence that it was trustworthy and accurate.

Meters are now made which are perfect registers of the current used, and we have resolved to use them in connection with our entire incandescent system, from and after April 1, 1893.

After the meters are in we propose to furnish light during the entire twenty-four hours. The meter rates will be 30 cents per 1,000 Watt hours, with a discount of 10 per cent. on all bills paid at our office on or before the 10th day of each month.

An additional discount of 10 per cent. will be credited at the end of each twelve months, to customers whose bills for incandescent light exceed $100 for that time.

Our superintendent, Mr. Yeaton, will give such further information as may be desired.

SUICIDE AT NIAGARA.

A Pennsylvania Man Ends His Troubles
With a Revolver.

NIAGARA FALLS, March 6.—Another man, tired of living, ended his life here yesterday. Frank Leppage of Corry, Penn., registered at the American Hotel, on the Canadian side, last night, and was found at noon in his room unconscious, with a bullet hole through his head.

A revolver told the story, and a doctor's certificate was found, which stated that Leppage had indigestion, heart disease, and was troubled with nervousness, and must not be excited. This probably was the cause of the man's rash act. He died at 7:30 o'clock last night. He was tall and spare, about 35 years old, and wore a sandy mustache. The physician's certificate was signed A. C. Blodgett, Youngsville, Warren county, Penn., and he was notified of Leppage's death. Nothing else was found to indicate who the man was.

After he had breakfasted yesterday
he went into the reading room of the hotel, stood in front of the window, clapped his hands and stamped his feet
in a loud manner, and otherwise acted strangely.

WAR OVER A BRIDGE.

Fourteen Railroad Men Arrested for Ob-

SCRANTON, Pa., March 6.—The city is erecting a new span of the Lackawanna avenue bridge, which runs over the double tracks of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company. To erect the span without interfering with traffic is necessary to put braces between the company's tracks. This was done early yesterday.
In the afternoon the company sent its men to the bridge to remove the braces.
Three of them were arrested and held in bail.

Later the company made a second attempt, which threatened the safety of the bridge. They put an engine on one track and a gondola on the other, chained them together, and rushed at the bridge in defiance of 25 policemen. The braces withstood the shock, but one of them was damaged and the bridge trembled. A drawhead, which pulled out, saved the bridge.

Eleven men were promptly arrested and held in bail for malicious mischief and violating the old blue laws. The locality is now strongly guarded by policemen.

A Woman Frozen to Death.

PATERSON, N. J., March 6.—Mrs.
Martha Ingram, 60 years of age, of 39 Alabama avenue, left home at 7 o'clock Saturday night to buy groceries. Yesterday morning at 7 o'clock she was found lying by the road side dead. The basketful of groceries was found by her side. It is supposed that she became exhausted by the wind and snow and sat down to rest and thus froze to death.

The Clark Thread Company Sues.

NEWARK, N. J., March 6.—The Clark
Thread Company, whose extensive works are located on both sides of the Passaic river in Newark and in Kearny, N. J., has begun suit against the Hudson County Board of Chosen Freeholders for $25,000 damages, claimed to have been caused by the striking spinners in 1891.

Love and Small Pox.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 6.—Miss Birdie Dowling is suffering from small pox contracted by persistence in visiting her lover, Richard H. Collins, who was ill with the disease. The girl's mother is also a victim and more cases are looked for in the shop where the girl worked.

Killed in a Game of Foot Ball.

WICHITA, Kas., March 6.—George Harvey is dead and James Kernan is dying
from the effects of a collision in a game of foot ball at Sedgewick City. The boys were in opposing teams and met in a rush, their heads coming together with such terrific force that both were felled.

Mary Lynch is Missing.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Mary Lynch, who landed at Ellis Island a week ago, is missing. Her brother-in-law, Andrew McGrath of Newark, N. J., is making a thorough fruitless search for her.

Is Paderwiski to Wed?

CHICAGO, March 6.—It is reported here
that Paderwiski, the pianist, is to marry
Miss Dunham, a wealthy New York
woman.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Scarlet fever prevails to an alarming extent around Chatham Hill, Del. The public schools have been closed six weeks.

Many of the leading benevolent societies of Baltimore have formed a union
to put a stop to the outrageous treatment of dredgers by oyster boat captains.

Shady Valley, Tenn., has been bought for $600,000 by a syndicate of English capitalists headed by Sir Walter Oliver.
There are 62,000 acres in the tract, which is very rich in iron ore and manganese.

Just before the hour fixed for the interment of Samuel O. Cassard at Baltimore the face of the corpse assumed a ruddy and healthy appearance. The physician was hastily summoned, but insisted the man was dead. The family still had doubts, but after some persuasion consented to have the body placed temporarily in a mausoleum.

Both Had Eczema
In Its Worst Form

After Physicians Failed, Hood's Sarsaparilla Perfectly Cured.

Great mental agony is endured by parents who see their children suffering from diseases caused by impure blood, and for which there seems no cure. This is turned to joy when Hood's Sarsaparilla is resorted to, for it expels the foul humors
from the blood, and restores the diseased skin to fresh, healthy brightness.
Read the following from grateful parents:
"To C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"We think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most valuable medicine on the market for blood and skin diseases. Our two children suffered terribly with the

Worst Form of Eczema
for two years. We had three physicians in that time, but neither of them succeeded in curing them or even in giving them a little relief. At last we tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a month both children were perfectly cured. We recommend

Hood's Sarsaparilla
as a standard family medicine, and would not be without it." Mr. and Mrs. M. M. SOLLER,

HIS POWER ABSOLUTE.

Mgr. Satolli's Power is Defined by the Pope.

BISHOPS MUST ACCEPT HIS AD-JUDICATIONS.

His Clerical Rights Absolute in This Country.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The following is a translation of the communication in Latin from Pope Leo XIII. to Archbishop Satolli appointing him Apostolic Delegate in the United States, defining his power in connection with the office and declaring that whatever sentence or penalty Mgr. Satolli may inflict against those who oppose his authority will be ratified by the Apostolic office. This is the text of the communication:

Leo, XIII., Pope, to his Venerable Brother, Francisco Satolli, titular Archbishop of Le-panto:

VENERABLE BROTHER: Greeting and apostolic blessing.

The apostolic office which the insertable
designs of God have laid on our shoulders, unequal though they be to the burden, keeps us in frequent remembrance of the solitude incumbent on the Roman Pontiff to procure with watchful care the good of all the churches.

This solitude requires that in all, even the remotest regions, the terms of dissonance
be willed out and the means which conduce
to the increase of religion and the salvation of Christian souls be put into effect amid the sweetness of peace.

With this purpose in view, we, the Roman Pontiff, are wont to send from time to time to distant countries ecclesiastics who represent and act for the Holy See, that they may promote more speedily and energetically the good prosperity and happiness of the Catholic peoples.

For grave reasons the churches of the United States of America demand of us special care and provision. Hence, we came to the conclusion that an apostolic delegation
should be established in said States.

After giving attentive and serious consideration to all the bearings of this step, and consulting with our venerable brothers the Cardinals in charge of the congregation for the propagation of the faith, we have chosen you, venerable brother, to be intrusted with such delegation.

Your zeal and ardor for religion, your wide
knowledge, skill in administration, prudence, wisdom and other remarkable qualities of mind and heart, as well as the assentment of the said Cardinals, justify our choice.

Therefore, venerable brother, being you in very special affection, we, by our apostolic authority and by virtue of these present letters, do elect, make and declare you to be Apostolic Delegate in the United States of America, at the god pleasure of yourself and of this Holy See.

We grant you all and singular powers necessary and expedient for carrying on of such delegation. We commend all whom it concerns to recognize in you as Apostolic Delegate the supreme power of the delegating
pontiff; we commend that they give you aid, concurrence and obedience in all things
which they receive with reverence your salutary admonitions and orders.

Whatever sentence or penalty you shall declare or inflict duly against those who oppose your authority we will ratify, and with the authority given us by the Lord will cause to be observed inviolably until condign satisfaction be made.

Notwithstanding constitutions and apostolic ordinances of any other to the contrary, Given at Rome, in St. Peter's, under the Fisherman's Ring, this 24th day of January, 1893, of our pontificate in the fifteenth year.

SERAFINO CARDINAL VANUTELLI.

PRIESTLY RIGHTS REVOKED.

Frs. Treacy Suspended but Still Maintain Their Obstinacy.

BURLINGTON, N. J., March 6.—In compliance with Bishop O'Farrell's orders,
his letter relative to Father Treacy's case,
was read in St. Paul's Catholic Church yesterday. The church was crowded to the doors and standing room being impossible to obtain, so great was the crowd. The letter was listened to with great interest. It stated that Father Wm.
F. Treacy and Father P. A. Treacy of Swedesboro and Burlington respectively, had ceased to belong to the diocese of Trenton, and in punishment of their disobedience to the commands of the Apostolic delegate and the Bishop, they have been deprived of all rights as priests.
Should they persist in their obstinacy,
which has been a matter of notoriety for several months, still severer ecclesiastical punishment will be administered.

Father P. A. Treacy declares that despite Mgr. Satolli and Archbishop O'Farrell he will continue to exercise his functions until the Pope settles the case.

A Famous Comedian Dying.

CINCINNATI, O., March 6.—Geo. A.
Beane, one of the best known comedians
in America, is probably dying at the Stag Hotel. He was stricken with apoplexy and lies in an unconscious condition.
With the apoplexy came an attack of paralysis, and he is unable to even articulate. The dying actor is a member of Denman Thompson's original "Old Homestead" company.

NEW ORLEANS, March 6.—"Joe" Goddard has deposited in the hands of William E. Harding of the Police Gazette, $500 forfeit for a match with Ed Smith,
to take place in May, for $2,000 a side,
before the Coney Island Athletic Club.
He will not fight in New Orleans again,
as he knows Professor Duffy would referee
the battle, and he is opposed to fighting
under him for the reason that he thinks Duffy did not give him a fair show Friday night. He says Duffy counted him out fully two seconds before the 10 seconds expired.

DANA SARSAPARILLA CO.
GENUINE.—About two years ago I was taken with a lame back, which at times was so bad that I was confined to my bed for days at a time. I consulted different Physicians, some proposed to amputate, some Rheumatism of the Muscles, etc. I received no permanent aid from them. I got so bad I was in pain all the time. At last I thought I would try

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

President Cleveland Makes Pledges to the People.

PROTECTION HE DECLARES IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Economy in Public Expenditure—A Stable Currency a Necessity—Trusts Should be Regulated—Lessons of Paternalism Should be Unlearned—Merit Should Govern Official Appointments.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The following is the full text of President Cleveland's inaugural address:

"MY FELLOW CITIZENS—In obedience to the mandate of my countrymen I am about to dedicate myself to their service under the sanction of a solemn oath. Deeply moved by the expression of confidence and personal attachment which has called me to this service, I am sure my gratitude can make no better return than the pledge I now give before God and these witnesses of unreserved and complete devotion to the interests and welfare of those who have honored me.

"I deem it fitting on this occasion, while indicating the opinions I hold concerning public questions of present importance, to also briefly refer to the existence of certain conditions and tendencies among our people which seem to menace the integrity and usefulness of their government.

"While every American citizen must contemplate with the utmost pride and enthusiasm the growth and expansion of our country, the sufficiency of our institutions to stand against the rudest shocks of violence, the wonderful thrift and enterprise of our people and the demonstrated superiority of our free government, it behooves us to constantly watch for every symptom of insidious infirmity that threatens our national vigor.

"The strong man who in the confidence of sturdy health courts the sternest activities of life and rejoices in the hardihood of constant labor, may still have lurking near his vitals the unheeded disease that dooms him to sudden collapse.

"It cannot be doubted that our stupendous achievements as a people and our country's robust strength have given rise to a heedlessness of those laws governing our national health which we can no more evade than human life can escape the laws of God and nature.

"Manifestly nothing is more vital to our supremacy as a nation and to the beneficent purposes of our Government than a sound and stable currency. It is essential to degradation should at once arise to activity the most enlightened statesmanship; and the danger of depreciation in the purchasing power of the wages paid to toil should furnish the strongest incentive to prompt and conservative precaution.

"In dealing with our present embarrassing situation as related to this subject we will be wise if we temper our confidence and faith in our national strength and resources with the frank concession that even these will not permit us to defy with impunity the inexorable laws of finance and trade. At the same time, in our efforts to adjust differences of opinion we should be free from intolerance of passion and our judgments should be unclouded by alluring phrases and unwearyed by selfish interests. A confidence that such an approach to the subject will result in prudent and effective remedial legislation. In the meantime, so far as the executive branch of the Government can intervene, none of the powers with which it is invested will be withheld, when their exercise is deemed necessary to maintain our national credit or avert financial disaster.

"Closely related to the exaggerated confidence in our country's greatness which tends to a disregard of the rules of national safety, another danger confronts us not less serious. I refer to the prevalence of a popular disposition to expect from the operation of the Government special and direct individual advantages. The verdict of our voters, which condemned the injustice of maintaining Protection for Protection's sake, enjoins upon the people's servants the duty of exposing and destroying the brood of kindred evils which are the unwholesome progeny of paternalism. This is the bane of republican institutions and the constant peril of our government by the people. It degrades to the purposes of wily craft the plan of rule our fathers established and bequeathed to us as an object of our love and veneration. It perverts the patriotic sentiment of our countrymen and tempts them to a selfish calculation of the sordid gain to be derived from the Government's maintenance. It undermines the self-reliance of our people, and substitutes in its place dependence upon governmental favoritism. It stifles the spirit of true Americanism and stultifies every ennobling trait of American citizenship. The lessons of paternalism ought to be unlearned and the better lesson taught that while the people should patriotically and cheerfully support their Government, its functions do not include the support of the people. The acceptance of this principle leads to a refusal of bounties and subsidies, which burden the labor and thrift of a portion of our citizens, to aid ill-advised or languishing enterprises in which they have no concern. It leads also to a challenge of wild and reckless promises expected to regard equality and strength and the recognition of patriotic service and prostitutes to vicious uses the people's prompt and generous impulse to aid those disabled in their country's defense.

"Every thoughtful American must realize the importance of checking at its beginning any tendency in public or private station to regard frugality and economy as virtues which may safely be outgrown. The toleration of this idea results in the waste of the people's money by their chosen servants, and encourages prodigality and extravagance in the home life of our countrymen.

"Under our scheme of government the waste of public money is a crime against the citizen, and the contempt of our people for economy and frugality in their personal affairs deeply saps the strength and sturdiness of our national character.

"It is a plain dictate of honesty and good government that public expenditures should be limited by public necessity, and that this should be measured by the rules of strict economy, and it is equally clear that frugality among the people is the best guaranty of a contented and strong support of free institutions. "One mode of the misappropriation of public funds is avoided when appointments to office, instead of being the rewards of partisan activity, are awarded to those whose efficiency promises a fair return to work for the compensation paid to them. To secure the fitness and competency of appointees to office, and to remove from political action the demoralizing madness for spoils, civil service reform has found a place in our public policy and laws. The benefits already gained through this instrumentality and the further usefulness it promises, entitle all the hearty support of all who desire to see our public service well performed or who hope for the elevation of political sentiment and the purification of political methods.

good government that public expenditures should be limited by public necessity, and that this should be measured by the rules of strict economy, and it is equally clear that frugality among the people is the best guaranty of a contented and strong support of free institutions. "One mode of the misappropriation of public funds is avoided when appointments to office, instead of being the rewards of partisan activity, are awarded to those whose efficiency promises a fair return to work for the compensation paid to them. To secure the fitness and competency of appointees to office, and to remove from political action the demoralizing madness for spoils, civil service reform has found a place in our public policy and laws. The benefits already gained through this instrumentality and the further usefulness it promises, entitle all the hearty support of all who desire to see our public service well performed or who hope for the elevation of political sentiment and the purification of political methods.

"The existence of immense aggregations of kindred enterprises and combinations of business interests, formed for the purpose of limiting production and fixing prices, is inconsistent with the fair field which ought to be open to every independent activity. Legitimate strife in business should not be superseded by an enforced concession to the demands of combinations that have the power to destroy; nor should the people to be served lose the benefit of cheapness, which usually results from wholesome competition. These aggregations and combinations frequently constitute conspiracies against the interests of the people, and all their power should be justly and naturally and opposed to American sense of fairness. To the extent that they can be reached and retained by Federal power the general government should relieve our citizens from their interference and exactions. Loyalty to the principles upon which our government rests positively demands that the equality before the law which it guarantees to every citizen should be maintained in good faith conceded in all parts of the land. The enjoyment of this right follows the badge of citizenship wherever found, and, unimpaired by race or color, it appeals for recognition to American manliness and fairness.

"Our relations with the Indians located within our borders impose upon us responsibilities we cannot escape. It is our duty and our duty requires that we treat them with forbearance, and in our dealings with them to honestly and considerately regard their rights and interests. Every effort should be made to lead them through the paths of civilization and education, to self-supporting and independent citizenship. In the mean time, as the nation's wards, they should be promptly defended against the cupidty of designing men and shielded from every influence of temptation that retards their advancement.

"The people of the United States have decreed that on this day the control of their government in its legislative and executive branches shall be given to a political party pledged in the most positive terms to the accomplishment of tariff reform. They have thus determined in favor of a more just and equitable system of duties and taxes. The duties they have chosen to carry out their purposes are bound by their promises, not less than by the command of their masters, to devote themselves unreservedly to this service. While there should be no surrender of principle, our task must be undertaken wisely and without vindictiveness. Our mission is not punishment, but the rectification of wrongs. Hence and to the extent to which the duties of our people, we reduce inordinate and unequal advantages too long enjoyed, this is but a necessary incident of our return to right and justice. If we exact from unwilling minds acquiescence in the theory of an honest distribution of the fund of governmental beneficence treasured up for all, we but insist upon a principle which underlies our free institutions. When we fear aside the duties and misconceptions which have blinded our countrymen to their condition under vicious tariff laws, we but show them how far they have been led away from the paths of contentment and prosperity. When we proclaim that the necessity for revenue to support the Government furnishes the only jurisdiction for taxing the people, we announce a truth so plain that its denial would terminate in our extinction. Every judgment may be influenced by familiarity with perversions of the taxing power; and when we seek to reinstate the self confidence and business enterprise of our citizens, by discrediting an abject dependence upon governmental favor, we strive to stimulate those elements of American character which support the hope of American achievement.

"Anxiety for the redemption of the pledges which my party has made, and solicitude for the complete justification of the trust the people have reposed in us, constrain me to remind those with whom I am to co-operate that we can succeed in doing the work which has been especially set before us only by the most sincere, harmonious and disinterested effort. Even if insuperable obstacles and opposition prevent our success, we shall not be less bound to do our duty, and if failure can be traced to our fault or neglect, we may be sure the people will hold us to a swift and exacting accountability.

"The oath I now take to preserve, protect the Constitution of the United States, not only impressively defines the great responsibility I assume, but suggests obedience to constitutional command as the rule by which my official conduct must be guided. I shall, to the best of my ability and within my sphere of duty, preserve the Constitution by loyally protecting every grant of Federal power it contains, by defending all its restraints when attacked by impatience and restlessness, and by enforcing its limitations and reservations in favor of the States and the people.

"Fully impressed with the gravity of the duties that confront me and mindful of my weakness, I should be appalled if it were my lot to bear unaided the responsibilities which await me. I am, however, saved from discouragement when I remember that I shall have the support and the counsel and co-operation of wise and patriotic men, who will stand at my side in Cabinet places or will represent the people in their legislative halls.

"I find also much comfort in remembering that my countrymen are just and generous, and in the assurance that they will not condemn those who by sincere devotion to their service deserve their forbearance and approval.

"Above all, I know there is a supreme being who rules the destinies of men and whose goodness and mercy have always followed the American people; and I know he will not turn from us now if we humbly and reverently seek His powerful aid."

BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO. I'm an old smoker, and have at one time or another tried all the different Smoking Tobaccos, but for a good smoke Bull Durham beats 'em all. A leading characteristic of Bull Durham has always been the hold which it takes on old and fastidious smokers. What its excellence first secured, its uniformity has always retained, and it is, therefore, to-day as twenty-five years ago, the most popular Smoking Tobacco in the world. Get the genuine. Made only by Blackwell's Durham Tobacco Co., DURHAM, N. C.

Pears' Soap

Why is Pears' Soap—the best in the world, the soap with no free alkali in it—sold for 15 cents a cake?

It was made for a hospital soap in the first place, made by request; the doctors wanted a soap that would wash as sharp as any and do no harm to the skin.

That means a soap all soap, with no free alkali in it, nothing but soap; there is nothing mysterious in it. Cost depends on quantity; quantity comes of quality.

All sorts of stores sell it, especially druggists; all sorts of people use it, especially those that know what's what.
