The Workingman's Friend. Senators Gorman and Voorhees will receive very little support from conservative public sentiment in their opposition to the Ricks decision, says the Washington Post. Neither Judge Ricks nor any other judicial officer in this country has ever taken the position that an employee stands in the relation of an enlisted soldier or seaman. There has been no attempt to bind the horny-handed son of toil to the wheel of tyranny or any other manifestation of similar nonsense. Messrs. Gorman.

and Voorhees must have dreamed it. The proposition laid down by Judge Ricks is perfectly simple and intelligible. It is to the effect that men who have contracted to do certain things must be treated as responsible human beings, not as children, and that they cannot, through malice or caprice, repudiate their obligations at a time when such repudiation might involve loss of property and life. In a word, it puts the workingman just where their employers are put and makes them subject to the same accountability. There is not so much as a hint in the direction of oppression and enslavement. On the contrary, the proposition involved in Judge Ricks' ruling simply tends to release employers and corporations from the slavery to which they have been too long subjected, giving them some rights which labor organizations will be bound to respect and offering them a modicum of protection against the agitator and the mob.

The fact is that Judge Ricks has shown himself to be the honest workingman's best friend. The latter has been the victim of the walking delegate and the salaried boss, subject to the loss of his occupation and his livlihood at their dictation, and never secure from any one day to another in the privilege of earning his living and supporting his family by honorable toil.

The tug James A. Garfield took fire at a wharf in New London, yesterday morning, and was sunk to save her. The damage is estimated at $2,500, There is in Russia no tyranny as ignorant and as cruel as that under which both the laborer and his employer have languished at the hands of labor officials. Thousands of prosperous artisans could be thrown into idleness and privation without a moment's notice, and untold millions of commerce and industry jeopardized by the lifting of one vicious and irresponsible finger. with their circumstances, could be reduced from comfort to penury because some conclave of the bosses ordered it. Railroad corporations which had no quarrel with organized labor could be condemned to serious loss, if not to actual paralysis, because the board of delegates wished to wage war upon some corporation in another part of the coun-

Judge Ricks was right when he exposed and denounced this pestiferous form of conspiracy. He spoke alike for the capitalist and the laborer, for justice and for civilization, when he declared that it should be suppressed by every agency at the disposal of society.

Raid No. 1.

Considerable complaint has been made to Chief Dann of the doings of a colored club whose meeting rooms are n the building on Wall street owned by Mr. Platt Price. It was alleged that gambling was carried on every night in the week and that intoxicants were sold and drank on the premises. Last night Chief Dann decided to made a raid on the place. He had come into possession of the signal of entrance used by members of the club.

The chief was accompanied by Officers Martin and Howard. Evidently those in the room were suspicious, as it was fully five minutes before the sig-nal was answered by the opening of the door. The officers then placed the in-mates of the room under arrest and they were taken to the station.

No liquor was found on the premises and the only gambling outfit found were three packs of cards, some dominoes and checkers.

The officers believe that in the interium of opening the door some of those who were inside managed to make their escape, and secrete the liquors.

This moaning the prisoners were brought before Justice Austin, where they gave their names as Samuel Law, Ellison Williams, Walter Springstein, Jeremiah Caples and John Slattery. The two former were charged with keeping a resort where gambling was alleged to be done, and the three last as being frequenters of the place. Springstein was found guilty and fined $1 and costs; Law was also found guilty and was fined $2 and costs, which he paid; Caples was fined $1 and costs. The cases of Williams and Slattery were continued until Saturday. Attorney Walsh appeared for the prosecution.

Were They Stolen? A peculiar find was made early Saturday morning on the new street being cut through from Orchard to Butler street. Some young ladies were going through the street to the straw factory when their attention was attracted to a pile of hats near the residence of Sherwood Cummings. On investigation they found seven Derby hats piled up on six dinner plates, the whole surmounted by a military hat. How they got there is a mystery. The hats were all good ones. Mr. Cummings heard some one near his house in the night laughing and talking but thought nothing of it at the time. Some incline to the belief that the articles were stolen from the Armory Fair. During the day some youngsters used the hats for footballs, and one of the number took the plates and military cap home with him.

spare no expense to provide you with all that heart could wish. But there is a limit to my power to do so. I can only exercise my best taste and judgement in the selection of such things as you may require for your personal apparel, and if they do not always please you, remember, my dear, that there are treasures of mind and heart that may be yours if you seek for them with earnest purpose, and they far out-weigh the ephemeral trifles of one's outward

BURGLARS AT WORK.

A Norwalk Saloon Entered Early Saturday Morning.

The Thieves Overlooked a Sum of Money.

The saloon of Mrs John Cabill was burglarized at an early hour Saturday morning last, but for some reason of other the matter has been kept very quiet. A GAZETTE reporter was in possession of the facts on Saturday but was requested not to give publicity to the same.

Back of the saloon on the Mechanic street side there is a balcony. The burglars it is thought got on to the same by climbing up the iron girders on the back of the balcony on the Hadden building. They then by the use of some sharp instrument succeeded in cutting away enough of the sash to incutting away enough of the sash to in-sert some tool whereby they succeeded in turning the catch and were thus enabled to open the window and step into the store.

They then went behind the counter They then went behind the counter and helped themselves to, as Mrs. Cahill thinks, about $3, one dollar in change and a two dollar bill. It is thought that the burglars became frightened as they failed to take a bag containing $5 in silver which was close to where the money lay. They also failed to open a desk in which there was over $50 in bills.

Mrs. Cahill is of the opinion that the burglary was committed between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning, as she re-

WASHINGTON, April 17. — It looks as though the secretary of the treasury would this week be confronted with th his financial policy. It is expected by treasury officials that there will be gold shipments during the coming week suffiin the treasury and force action to be taken to maintain the parity of all issues of currency of the United States. The secretary, when the free gold supply is exhausted, unless he can obtain gold from the banks to tide over the emergency must determine whether he will use the gold reserve of $100,000,000 held for the redemption of outstanding greenbacks or will take measures by a bond issue to replenish the stock of gold. The body which was found Saturday The body which was found Saturday floating in the Saugatuck river was identified as that of Gustavus Peterson, a swede, who belongs in Norwalk and who had been missing some months. held under suspicion.

The body was found in the afternoon by George Mills, a fisherman, who was rowing up the river. He pulled the body into his boat and notified Medical Examiner Powers. The body had evidently been in the water a long time, for all the flesh on the head and hends had outlingly dispussed many hands had entirely disappeared, probably having been eaten away by fishes.
Upon searching the clothes of the dead man, the medical examiner found a number of milk tickets and other papers which pretty thorougly establishes the identity. The doctor found that the nose was broken and that the frontal bone was caved in indicating that the man had met his death from a heavy blow on the forehead. Peterson worked on a farm owned by Horace Staples. He worked the farm on shares and also peddled milk quite extensively. He disappeared on the night of November 28 and although every effort was made to find some trace of him pothing was heard trace of him, nothing was heard from him until the finding of the body yesterday. Peterson had a wife and five children and was about 45 years old. He came to Norwalk from some place in New York state two years ago and was a hardworking and industrious man. He had several thousand dollars in the Westport Savings bank and also had some money in the Westport National bank. On the night of his disappearance he left his home dressed in his working clothes. He told his wife that he was going down to Westport, as he very frequently did. He was seen in a saloon that night in company with Anderson and it is believed the two had been drinking together. When seen, however, the two men were on apparently friendly town. The police here friendly terms. The police have a theory that Peterson became involved in a quarrel with some one in which he received the blows which resulted in his death. The police believe that the party or parties struck Peterson, then

Duke Veragua Attends Mass at New York Cathedral.

HONORED BY SPECIAL SERVICES.

Kindly Words of Greeting to the Nation's Guest from the Lips of Rev. M. J. Lavelle-Bright Skies Mark the Duke of Veragua's First Sunday in America.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The Duke of Veragua, the eleventh lineal descendant of Christopher Columbus, awoke yesterday in the land discovered by his illustrious ancestor for the first time. The dreary, rainy weather in which he landed from the New York had given place to a bright, sunshiny morning, more like that to be expected in the duke's native country. A Spanish flag floated from his window in in the Hotel Waldorf, on the Fifth avenue side, in honor of the distinguished guest Coommander Dickens, of the United States navy, and Mrs. Dickens, who are to serve as pilots to the ducal party during their stay in the United States, and John Austins Stevens, representing the mayor and municipal committee of 100, paid their respects to the foreign visitors and accompanied them to mass at St. Patrick's cathedral. The party was composed of the Duke of Veragua, his daughter Maria, and his son, the duke's brother, the Marquis of Barboles, and his nephew, Commander Dickens and Mrs. Dickens and John Austin Stevens.

The duke and his brother were both very plainly dressed, wearing a Prince Albert black coat and vest, dark tweed trousers and silk hat. The dresses of the ladies were even more severe in their simplicity of style.

When the party arrived at the cathedrel a small crowd was on Fifth avenue awaiting the duke's arrival. Many deferentially paid their respects by doffling their hats, to which the duke responded in kind. A rather painful delay ensued, during which the party remained outside awaiting an invifation to enter. They were finally conducted up the middle aisle to the front seat on the left hand side. The duke's son and daughter were given chairs in front of Solemn high mass in honor of the occasion was celebrated. Archbishop Corrigin occupied the throne. On the one side was Rev. M. J. Lavelle, and on the other Eev. J. N. Connolly. Rev. Henry T. Newey was celebrant; Rev. P. Daly, deacon; Rev. T. H. Murphy, sub-deacon, and Fev. W. S. McLaughlin, master of cere-The sermon was preached by Rev. W. J. B. Daly.

Guilmant's mass in E flat, with Gounod's Ave Verum" for the offertory, was sung by a choir of sixty voices with double quartet and chorus, under the direction of W. F.

Among the prominent persons present were Archbishop Williams, of Boston, and the Danish consul, who occupied a seat next to the ducal party.

After the first gospel Rev. M. J. Lavelle ascended the pulpit steps and said:

"We have present with us today his grace the Duke of Veragua, the head of the eleventh generation in lineal descent for Christeps Columbust he illustration. from Christopher Columbus, the illustrious discoverer of this great country. He comes here as the guest of the nation. He has been welcomed already by the secular authorities of this nation and city, and I, in the name of the archbishop, in your name and in the name of the Catholic ople of New York, welcome him to the and in which Christopher Columbus was t e first to set his foot. The longer the dake remains with us the more he sees of t is vast nation with its mighty rivers and fertile plains, teeming with plenty and a happy people, he will thank God and the rill with joy that he had an ancestor to whose fortitude and courage and perseverance is due all these grand results. During his stay here he will find that the p ople he meets will bestow on him the honor Columbus himself would meet with were he here to receive it, and when he leaves us it will be with the consoling thought that his visit to America was a mong the greatest triumphs of his life." After mass the ducal party were driven back to the hotel, where they passed the

and three others seriously injured.

For years a feud has existed between these factions. The bitter hatred enter-tained by them is more reaching and even more intense than was the famous Hat-field-McCoy feud. From time to time this enmity has culminated in pitched battles, but never with such fearful results as in the present instance.

It was about 10 o'clock when a party of four Hungarians were coming into Har-leigh. They had reached a point about half way down Fisher's Hill, when they were attacked by eleven Italians. The firing was a signal for a concerted attack on the part of the Italians, who seemed to swarm from the woods on every side. About three hundred vards further down a half dozen other Hungarians were met at the school house, and on the Harleigh road nearby other Hungarians were met. The fight that ensued was terrific. The Hungarians, who never go on the road at night unarmed, after the first onslaught prepared to defend themselves, and a volley of bullets into the attacking Italians served to check them for a moment. It was only for a moment, however, as the next instant they closed in upon their adversaries and a fierce hand to hand conflict ensued, the Italian stilletto playing havoc with the Hungarians. The latter were outnumbered largely, and becoming dismayed broke and fled precipitately.

The yells and whoops of the victorious Italians re-cchoed through the mountains, and soon attracted a number of villagers to the scene. At each point of attack injured men were found lying on the ground groaning from wounds. The road in the vicinity was covered with blood which formed in pools in the dust and trickled in streams down the ditch.

Joseph Christie and Michael Morentzi were picked up unconscious and taken to the hospital in this city. Christie was shot in the right shoulder, almost cutting the arm from the socket. Morentzi's skull was fractured and he died in the hospital.

"Mike" Bortz was shot in the mouth, the ball coming out of the back of his neck. He was taken to Hollywood, where he died shortly after. Another man who was engaged in the battle dropped his pay check on the road. It was known as "No. 408." Search at the boarding houses failed to reveal anything of him. His hat was to reveal anything of him. His hat was found later on the edge of a deep mine hole full of water. He is supposed to be at the bottom of the hole. Another Hungarian is also missing, and he is supposed to have met the same to have the same the same that have the lying, but it is impossible to obtain their names or the exact result of their injuries.

Do you want to keep your husband home at night, and keep him agreeable and pleasant? He must smoke, and yet, you don't like the smell of his tobacco. You can drive him away to his club—out of just such things come misery, unhappiness and divorce. The trouble is that he uses poor tobacco. Coax him to get BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO; its delicate aroma will not be offensive to you, and it will not fill all the curtains, hangings and clothing with that stale disagreeable odor that now troubles you. Keep your husband home, and avoid all risks by having him smoke Bull Durham TOBACCO. Sold everywhere.

BLACKWELL'S DURHAM TOBACCO CO., Durham, N. C.

Our Guarantee:

Our machines, including tires, are guaranteed to be free from imperfection, and we will replace. ithout charge, any parts returned within a year from purchase. In speaking of tires the pullic ass now learned that the best renumatic tire has a removable inner tube. We have advocated this from the first; you know Victor Bicycles have inner tubes. The saving of time s very important; we must therefore have a tire which is easily repaired in case of puncture To accomplish this we need a tire from which the inner tube can be readily and wholly removed This should be done without the necessity of taking the wheel from the frame, so it naturally follows that we must have a two-ended tube removable through the rim. This is the Victor.
