Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.

Those who wish to enjoy a really meritorious entertainment should not fail of being in attendance at the concert to be given in the Opera House, to-night, under the auspices of the Grace church choir. The programme to be presented cannot fail of being pleasing to all.

MUSIC HALL. Manager Knapp has been fortunate in securing for presentation at this hall, on Thursday evening, April 20th, Mr. John Stetson's Company of Players in the latest dramatic sensation "The Crust of Society." Although two months have elapsed since Mr. Stetson gave the initial performance of the work at his Boston Globe theatre, the fame of the play and company has been heralded far and near; and as a consequence managers have been besieged with applica-cations from all parts of the country.

OPERA HOUSE.

One of the great events in the theatrical season will be the appearance at the Opera House, on Friday evening, April 21st, of Sidney R. Ellis' company in "Nora Machree." There are few, if any, plays on the road which have met with such universal success as this romantic drama. Packed houses everywhere greet the production, and en-thusiasm of the heartiest kind tell the audience's delight. The action of the play is quick and bright, it is brimful of rich, telling humor. It relates a pretty story which is new and original in theme, and is told by a company of marked ability in a most attractive way. Throughout, at well-chosen in the state of th tervals, it is punctured with songs, merry choruses, graceful danc-ing and novel and unique specialties. The laughter it provokes is genuines. The laughter it provokes is genuine and hearty, and the interest it arouses is sustained until the finish. "Nora Machree" is well worthy of seeing, it is clean, wholesome, and a genuinely humorous entertainment.

Chained. Yesterday was the 33d anniversary of the appearance on this mundane sphere of Dr. George R. McGonegal. Early in life Mr. McGonegal displayed a love for music, and in time became a fine vocalist. He is at present and has been for a long time a member of the Baptist church choir, singing every Sunday "without price" (no pun intended.) Appreciating these free will services the members of the church decided to give him a birthday surprise party and at the same time present him with a substantial recognition of his services in the choir. To that end a solid gold chain with a locket suitably inscribed was purchased, and a party of about seventy-five ladies and gen-tlemen assembled in front of the Methodist church, and then proceeded to the doctor's home on West avenue. The party part of the programme was not altogether a surprise as the doctor seemed to be in readiness to welcome the visitors, which he did in a very cordial manner.

Wraps having been laid aside the party proceeded to enjoy themselves, in which laudable enterprise they were which laudable enterprise they were assisted by the host. Among the pleasing features was a duet by Miss-Annie Peck and Mrs. Miller, and some very fine singing by a quartette composed of Messrs. Stafford, Crowther. Fillow and McGonegal, and piano solos by Miss Jennie Smith the organist

e church. Mr. McGonegal was surprised though when Pastor Robbins claimed his strict attention and in a neat little speech in behalf of the donors presented him with the chain and locket. He found words however, to thank them all and said that he fully appreciated their kindness and would ever bear such in grateful rememberance. A fine lunch-con was served. The evening will be long remembered by those present as one brimful of happiness.

THE PETERSEN CASE

Coroner Doten Finds No One Res-

Stories Told by Several Witnesses Yesterday.

The Westport murder mystery looks more than ever like a case of accidental death by drowning. A doubt scarce-ly exists that Petersen, instead of being murdered by a friend was his own mur-derer, and that while in a state of exderer, and that while in a state of ex-treme intoxication, he pitched into the Saugatuck river to his death.

The hearing yesterday was held in the office of Justice Smith at Westport.
The justice is the man who upheld somewhat strongly the murder theory.
Coroner Doten examined eight witnes-

Mrs. Petersen, widow of the dead man, was the first. Her story was tinged with the jeelousy she entertains for Mrs. Johnson. She said that Mrs. Johnson could tell the manner of the dead man's death.

Mrs. Johnson told her story as frankly as her husband's story had been told before. She said: "Mrs. Petersen did come to my house several times. I listened to her patiently until she accused me of being her husband's mistress and then I turned her out of my house." Mrs. Johnson said that her husband was not at his home Sunday and that up to Thanksgiving day he had not been home for two months. She is certain upon this point because she had been separated from him and Thanksgiving day the reconciliation was affected.

"The last time I ever saw Petersen alive was at 4 o'clock Saturday after-poon. He was beastly drunk and I would not allow him in my house," she concluded.

Andrew Anderson has said "I saw Petersen Saturday about 6 o'clock. He was not sober," and Mrs. Petersen says "I saw my husband at 5 o'clock He stayed in the house half an hour. At 5:30 he drove off with Anderson," facts concluded. that establish at least the dead man's condition on that day, and, in so far, corroborates Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson says: "My husband was not at home Sunday, only myself, my mother and my children." The Saturday and Sunday referred to are Nov. 12 and 13 respectively, the exact date being fixed by Mrs. Peterson. Terence Anderson was another wit-ness whose big story dwindled under the searching examination of the coroner. Anderson saw Petersen boarding a train with another man, but he couldn' remember whether it was befor or after the disappearance.

The tumult on the road near the Johnson house, Westport people tell about whenever they suggest that Johnson threw the body of poor Petersen into the river, was testified to by Arthur B. Gellett, a young groceryman. Gellett was awaked very early Monday, Nov. 14, by a poise. He saw a wagen standing that about 6 o'clock on the evening of Nov. 12. Petersen, in a blind drunk condition, left the La Croix saloon for his home. The road is not particularly lonely, but in places it approaches within not many feet of the winding river. Nothing is more probable than that a man in Petersen's condition should wander from the road to the river, slipping from the bank into the water.

The real mystery is that the body was not swept into the Sound. It may have been, that, as Justice Smith up poses, it was swept hither and thither by the incoming and outgoing tides, one day nearly reaching the strong outward current and the next swept back up the river, but that it was ever carried up a distance of three miles above where it was found, and more than a mile above any point where there was any likelihood that Petersen would slip into the river, is doubtful; all the more that the witness who was to tes-tify to seeing a body at such a point, four days before Petersen's body was found, cannot be discovered. As Mr. Mevis says: "There is nothing strange that a body hurled hither and thither with winds and tides, among floating ice and passing boats for more than five months should be picked up with a fractured skull."

It was erroneously stated vesterday that Alexander Johnson had been placed under arrest accused of murdering the Swede Petersen. It was alleged that the arrest had been made by the officers upon the strength of a state-ment made by one of the witnesses before the coroner to the effect that "Johnson had said he would do Petersen." What the witness did say is that Johnson said "If I find Petersen is after my wife I will fight him." The remark was made last summer and there is abundance of evidence to show that the men were on the best of terms long after that time. Johnson has never been arrested and unless the evidence takes a short turn will not be. Coroner Doten was asked last night if Johnson had been arrested. He replied: "I have not yet secured evidence enough to warrant me in causing the arrest of Johnson or anybody else."

After considerable discussion Burgess Chinery moved that the claim be referred to the committee on finance, with power. It was finally voted that it be referred to the chairman of the committee on lights, Burgess McMullen.

Clerk Hubbell stated that he presented the same to the legislative committee at Hartford and was told that no action would be taken on the same until the full text of the charter had been published in a newspaper. The Borough clerk was instructed to have the same printed and to award the printing of the same to the lowest bidder. The matter of paving the space on Main street between the horse railway tracks was broached but no action taken on the same. It was stated that the Borough had on hand about 3,000 granite blocks, and that to complete the paving it would require about 4,000 more at a cost of about $50 per thousand.

On motion of Burgess Chinery the chairman of the finance committee was instructed to borrow $1,000 on the credit of the Borough.

Thos. Murphy Dead. Thomas Murphy, who was employed or several years as brakeman on one of the work trains of the Consolidated Railroad, died yesterday at the home of his parents on Richmond Hill. Murphy was at one time notorious because of an encounter he had on May 21, 1882, with another young man named Eben-ezer S. Marshall. Murphy and Marshall quarreled on Pacific street, Stam-ford, and Marshall received a blow from a stone which resulted fatally. It was shown upon the inquest that Marshall's skull was very thin, and Murphy got off with a light sentence in the county jail, where he was treated as a privileged prisoner.

The special committee on State prison investigation began their labors yesterday. They decided to employ no counsel, but to allow Warden Chamberlain a lawyer who may advise him. He shall not question witnesses or make an argument The first witness was Deputy Keeper Martin, whom Chamberlain dismissed. It has been asserted that he

Martin told how he was appointed watchman by Chamberlain in August, 1887, and suncessively promoted. He knew no cause for his recent suspension, although the warden gave as a reason conduct prejudicial to discipline. he related the case of one James Smith, a convict. The man was nearly an imbecile and physically incapable of working. Chamberlain insisted on his working, and because he objected kept him in a dungeon from June until October, his condition meanwhile being indes-cribable filthy. The House authorized the expediture by Comptroller Staub of $3,000 to defray the expense of the investigation.

The bill permitting mayors of cities and wardens of boroughs to issue licenses for Sunday sacred concerts was un-favorably reported by the Judiciary committee. The committee did not think the time had arrived when the people were willing to sanction the pro-posed change in the present Sunday laws. Under the preterse of permitting only sacred concerts the measure would open the doors for wholesale desecration of the Sabbath. Callahan spoke in favor of the bill.

He said that persons now could almost do anything legally on Sunday, even to seeing prize fights, except attend concerts. Lees and Saxe also favored the bill, which was tabled. It will probably come up again, amended by the evaluation of the word secred. the exclusion of the word sacred.

Resolutions were passed incorporating the W. F. Swords Lumber company, Long Hill Cemetery association, Y. M. C. A. of New Milford, and Lime Rock Water company. The act regarding trespass by domestic fowls was passed. It provides that if notice to the owners by the parties trespassed upon, given every six months, is not followed by an abatement of the nuisance, the trespassing fowls may law-fully be killed.

On the unfavorable report of the Jud-iciary committee the bill giving con-servators power to settle claims was re-jected. Wood said the committee regarded the present law, which requires the submission of these claims to arbitrators, an improvement to the one proposed. In concurrence there was rejected the bill imposing a fine of $10 and costs and a jail sentence of 30 days, or both, for Sunday fishing. The bill from the Bridgeport board of Trade providing for the creation of a local sewer commissior, and enlarging the power of the board of Public Works also suffered rejection.

Adverse action was taken on the petition of George H. Blizzard, of Danbury, for a divorce from his wife Caroline. They were married in 1843, and the ground for the application was insanity. A like fate met the bill giving the successor of a deceased town clerk power to use his predecessor's name in attesting such unrecorded deeds as he finds awaiting him on his accession to office. The committee on transportation reported favorably the bill amendcompany. The bill incorporating the Sons of Hermann order was passed. The Senate rejected the bills providing a penalty for the publication by newspapers of "fake" news; giving women the right to vote on the liquor license question at elections, and the annual report of the Bridgeport Horse Railroad company. The latter was re jected because deemed not sufficiently complete in details.

The Attorney General Decides an Important Controversy.

CHICAGO, April 19.—The Record this morning says that dispatches from Washington announce that Attorney General Olney has ruled against the World's fair on important questions recently submitted by the exposition authorities, and in turn submitted by Secretary Carlisle to the at-torney general for a legal opinion. The principal point russed was that as congress. principal point raised was that as congress had made an absolute gift of $2,500,000 of souvenir coins to the World's fair, it was not within the province of a subsequent congress to attach a condition to this absolute gift by withholding part of the appropriation until security had been given for the repayment of ... part of the appropriation. Mr. Olney holds that one congress can qualify acts of a previous congress.

NEW YORK, April 19.-When the Duke of Veragua and his party arrived at the City Hall yesterday they found the place packed with people. The Fleet Commanders Exchanging Calls at Hampton Roads.

MANY MILLIONS REPRESENTED.

Almiral Gherardi Places the Value of the Vessels at the Rendezvous at Twentyfive Millions of Dollars-Nine Thousand Sailors in the Fleet.

FORTRESS MONROE, Va., April 19.-A strange thing happened yesterday. Ad-iral Gherardi visited seventeen ships and n ta gun was fired. Ordinarily such a r und of visits would have been made the o casion for filling the atmosphere with si lphurous smoke, but when he left his ips the admiral ordered that no salute be fired, and of the foreigners he made a request that the same noisy honor be o nitted.

These official visits, by the way, have beo me so numerous that they tax to the ut-n ost not only the already busy moments Admiral Gherardi, but the hardly less sure moments of the officers who are le wer in rank. From early morning until le te at night the dainty and snowy launches o the Americans, the neat little cutters of t e Englishmen and the lumbering barges the other foreigners swing like pendu h ms from one ship to another. The ad-p irals call upon each other, the command-ing officers visit all day long, and the offic rs of lower rank keep up a brisk pace with their ward room calls. With twenty-s ven ships in the harbor it can easily by i agined that there is little time for other d ities, to say nothing of pleasures.

Even with eleven more men-of-war to a rive the naval rendezvous has already sumed proportions which entitles it to n hk as one of the greatest aggregations of floating batteries which the world has e er witnessed. It does not, to be entirely turate, compare with the naval review o the British navy off Spithead, on the casion of the jubilee celebrated in 1887, v hen over a hundred ships were gathered t gether. Since that time, however, there bave been enough improvement in the con-sruction and armoring of naval fighters to make the exhibition here thoroughly

Admiral Gherida paused a moment as sterday afternoon, when your corresponont asked him how many million dollars vould be represented upon the water when a 1 the ships assembled. "Twenty-five," by said, making a mental calculation. "Yes, fully twenty-five million dollars. And do you know," he added, "how many on there will be on board the ships? No. Vell, there will be 9,000 men. There are 100 men upon my own ships."

The crowd here continues to increase. It s long since filled up every building at Id Point and is now spilling over into the arding houses and country hotels of the v cinity. Prices are high in proportion. I is a harvest time for the watermen, the hack drivers, and the hotel keeper. It c sts $5 an hour to go out to the nearest s ip, and the rate increases in double the r tio of the distance.

The German squadron steamed into the h erbor so late yesterday afternoon that if e Kaiserin Augusta had not begun to toom her cannons some distance down the r ads she would have had to slip into her chorage officially unnoticed. She saluted st the United States flag and flags of the I merican and English admirals as she seamed slowly to a place near the Russ ins. Behind her came the Zeadler, a s nall gunboat of 1,800 tons. The Kaiserin ugusta is the most modern warship now the fleet and presents many points of Her captain speaks English

"I Owe My Life to Hood's Sarsaparilla"

"Words are powerless to express the grati-tude I feel toward Hood's Sarsaparala, for under God, I feel and know that to this medicine I owe my life. Twelve years ago I began to bloat, followed by nausea at the stomach, and later with swellings of the limbs, accompanied by severe pain, This gradually grew worse until three years ago. Physicians told me the trouble was Caused by a Tumor For several months I had been unable to retain any food of a solid nature. I was greatly emaciated, had frequent hemorrhages, and was satisfied the doctors were right in saying my life was nearly over. One day a friend suggested that I try Hood's Sarsaparilla; I did so, and for 3 or 4 days I was sicker than ever, but I kept on and gradually began to feel better.

I Began to Feel Hungry Could, after a time, retain solid food, increased in weight, the saffron hue left my skin, the bloating subsided, and I felt better all over. For the past two years my health has been quite good, and I have been able all the time to do the housework for my family. After what it has done for me I never hesitate to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. OGDEN SNYDER, No. 10 Judson Street, Albany, N. Y.

PROTESTING AGAINST BORUP French Military Men Do Not Wish to Greet Him at the Fair.

Paris, April 19.- Several newspapers protest against the selection of Captain Henry D. Borup to assist in the reception of the French military delegates at the Chicago fair. The grounds on which the protest is made concern the charges brought last year by the French govern ment against Captain Borup while he was i military attache of the United States legation in this city, that he communicated to European powers secret plans for the military defense of France. In consequence of these charges Captain Borup eventually was detached from the legation. The Temps says that, as an outcome of the exchange of views on the subject between the United States and France, it is plain that the reception of the French military delegates cannot be entrusted to Captain Borup for the reason that caused his retirement from his official position in this

Harrison Brings Them to Terms. CHIĆAGO, April 19.—One of the first acts of the new mayor, Carter Harrison, was to secure dockage concession on the lake front from the Henry syndicate, which under the previous administration had secured a practical monopoly of the lake traffic between the city and the World's fair grounds. A representative of the syndicate called on the mayor yesterday and asked him for another concession, which was granted on condition that the syndicate would allow other boats than its own to land and take passengers from its docks in the city.

The governor sent in the name of Nathan C. Schaeffer, of Kutztown, Berks county, to be superintendent of public instruction for the term of four years from April 1, 1893. In the house the Democrats presented a minority report in the Taggart-Baker election contest, claiming that the votes of the students in the seminary at North Ardmore were legal, and that Baker was elected by a majority of twenty votes. The majority report seating Taggart was adopted. A number of new bills were introduced, among them one appropriating $25,000 to take the legislature to the World's fair. The secure bill constituting Lawrence county as a separate judicial district was substituted for the house bill and passed. Among other bills passed finally were: Relating to corporations organized for religious, educational, literary, scientific or charitable purposes; providing compensation for surgeons and physicians who may be called in to attend to paupers in emergency cases; to protect the revenue of the state by preventing fire insurance companies, and associations incorporated by another state or a foreign government, or organized under the laws thereof, from taking risks, issuing policies or placing insurance except by agents or officers residing within this state. The bill prohibiting the exhibition of human deformities was defeated on third reading, State Printers in Convention.

HARRISBURG, April 19.—A resolution was offered at the convention of the State Typographical Union yesterday afternoon protecting the union labels from all imposters, and to ask aid from the state legislature on measures pertaining to labor question. A resolution was also offered endorsing George Chance, of Philadelphia, for the position of public printer at Washington. The local unions comprising the convention represents twothirds of the printers of the state, and be-fore long all unions in the state will be connected with the organization. Last night Harrisburg, Union No. 14 tendered visiting delegates a reception at the Hotel Columbus.

Our Guarantee:

Our machines, including tires, are guaranteed to be free from imperfection, and we will replace. ithout charge, any parts returned within a year from purchase. In speaking of tires, the public nes now learned that the best rneumatic tire has a removable inner tube. We have advocated this from the first; you know Victor Bicycles have inner tubes. The saving of times very important; we must therefore have a tire which is easily repaired in case of puncture To accomplish this we need a tire from which the inner tube can be readily and wholly removed This should be done without the necessity of taking the wheel from the frame, so it naturally follows that we must have a two-ended tube removable through the rim. This is the Victor.
