NORWALK GAZETTE.

THE FAVORITE HOME PAPER.

Independent in all things; Neutral in nothing.

The Gazette has the largest circulation of any paper in Norwalk, and furnishes the lowest advertising

City of Norwalk.

As the GAZETTE goes to press, the good news is received from Hartford, that the Committee on Cities and Boroughs of the Legislature, has reported favorably on the petition granting a city charter to the Borough of Nor-

The GAZETTE would have preferred a consolidation of Norwalk, So. Norwalk and East Norwalk under one city, but owing to the opposition presented by So. Norwalk, the petition was defeated. We, therefore, accept the decision of the Committee as the next best thing to do for the good of the people.

Disgraceful Justice System.

It is the ambition of the GAZETTE always to be known as the people's paper, always to be the champion of their interests, and always to be ready to do battle against oppression, official wrong or abuse of public trust without fear or favor. To be worthy of such title, absolute independence is necessary, and the GAZETTE has proclaimed and proved itself an independent newspaper since its first issue. It now proposes to set forth a few facts that will no doubt be of interest to the tax payers of Nor-

The miserable justice system by which criminals have been dealt with for years cannot be made more odious in the eyes of decent people than it is, but the Platt case published in the Ga-ZETTE of Tuesday is about the worst specimen of the average justice court trials that has come to light in many

It is a well-known fact that the present system is a travesty on the name of justice, and it is the popular belief that in some instances cases are brought before these justice courts for no other purpose than to "get even" with some supposed enemy for a fancied grievance, as well as for the purpose of placing a few paltry dollars in the building. pockets of favorite officials at the expense of the town.

George Platt, a veteran of the war, was arrested and arraigned before a justice, on a charge of theft preferred against him by a woman. When the evidence was sifted it was found that the woman had been in the habit of Fitch as ballast. giving Platt something to eat at different times, but on this occasion he had had "gouged" out the lean part of a sunburned. piece of roast beef and left the fat. When called upon for a statement Platt had nothing to say, indicating plainly to those present the painful fact that he was not capable of taking care of himself, or in other words was non compos mentis. Instead of dismissing the case and reporting Platt's condition to the selectmen of the town, that the old soldier might be properly cared for, the justice court found him guilty of theft and fined him $2 and costs. Not having the money to pay his fine poor Platt was bundled off to Bridge-ed on the north side of White street. Both facts are to be deplored. port, the town paying $12.21 for about eleven cents worth of meat, and the woman who made the complaint feceiving sixty cents as witness fees.

If proceedings of this kind under the guise of justice are to continue, the GAZETTE will hail the day, as will all honest men, when the legislature of comes around and takes possession. Connecticut will take the matter in hand and give us a police court and a judge whose skirts have never been contaminated by connection with cases of this kind, and if the Legislature her head, when a cap by some means or fails so to do, the GAZETTE hopes that the tax payers of Norwalk, at the next caucus of their respective parties to cap was on the umbrella, after which nominate justices of the peace, will see | she made all haste to return to the ownto it that the town will not again be called upon to pay $12.21 for eleven cents worth of roast beef.

Let it be distinctly understood that the GAZETTE does not inveigh against any man or body of men-but against the system that permits such a state of things.

The truth of the whole matter is, that the present justice system of this town is radically wrong from beginning to end.

Wrecked by a Kunaway Engine.

CORTLAND, N. Y., June 7.—The through night express to New York on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad collided with a runaway engine on the iron bridge near here. Two men were killed. The dead are Engineer Isaac Wallace, killed instantly, and Fireman Bert Sherwood, died at the hospital. Both men lived in Syracuse. Philip Goodwin was seen on the street this morning, with an oil stove under his arm. In answer to the query of a GAZETTE reporter as to what use e was going to make of it, he said "I'm preparing for housekeeping; I am going to get married very soon; hadn't you heard of it?' The further imfor-mation was elicited that the bride to be was Miss Rose Riley. The stove was taken to rooms on Fair street.

A band of gypsies succeeded in causing a blockade on Wall street this morning. It gave the Sons of Rest a grand good chance to flirt with the gypsy maidens, which they tried to take advantage of, but the maidens gave them a look that caused a very tired feeling to come over them, and they resumed their occupation of counting the paying stones piled up on either side of the walks.

Since then he has given over $20,000 to the hospital in establishing the beds, and with other donations. Such benevolence is of the worthiest kind.

Fighting a Saloon. A bitter fight is being made by the temperance people at Noroton to pre-vent the establishment of a saloon there which intended to bid for the patronage of the 300 old soldiers now living at the Soldiers' Home. Applications has been made to the county commissioners for a license, but every effort is being made to prevent the granting of it, and a large petition is being circulated to that end.

For some weeks past Commodore Samuel Lynes has been busily engaged at the Jennings ship-yard placing his yacht "C. B." in a presentable condition for the approaching season. Last evening the Commo-dore invited a few of his trusted friends to witness the manner in which the "C. took water. She glided into it like a winning horse coming under the wire in front of the judge's stand. So naturally did she take to water she immed iately commenced to fill up on the fluid and this morning was up to her gun-wales in it. The Commodore now thinks very seriously of changing her name from "C. B." to "Water Witch."

Conservator Wanted.

This morning the Selectmen prayed for the appointment, at the Probate office, of a conservator over Miss Nora Farrell, of Hoyt street. It will be remembered that some weeks since Miss Farrell was placed under subjection on the charge of being insane, and taken to the Almshouse. She remained there but a short time when she was granted a release. Since her return she has been at work in Ward's hat shop, trimming hats. Mr. Ward speaks of her as being an excellent worker, and is glad to have her in his employ. There is more or less property to which she is heir-involved, and to protect her inter ests in the same, the Selectmen pray that a conservator be appointed further hearing in the matter will be held next Tuesday.

Fatality at Norwich. Louis Clark, 19 years old, was instantly killed at Norwich, Tuesday He with eight other men, was engage in tearing down an old two-story brick building at the corner of Broadway and Main street, preparatory to the erection of the new Norwich Savings Bank building. The eight men were on the second story floor and were trying to push the brick wall over into the street. In do-ing this they paid little attention to the shaky condition of the floor and all of a sudden the flooring caved on a slant toward Broadway, and the wall of brick and mortar fell in. Young Clark was engaged in carrying a pail of water when the floor sank and was about in the middle of the building. The fall was truck him and he was cruding under the ruins. When found he was dead. An examination showed that his skull had been fractured at the base of the brain, his neck broken and also one hip.

Commissioner Seymour's Trials. Washington gossip is busy with a lit-tle intrigue which has resulted in a request for the resignation of A. P. Gree ly, a principal examiner in the Patent Office, who has been in charge of the Patent Office exhibit at Chicago.

It appears that one of the colleagues of Mr. Greeley, named A. G. Wilkinson, conceived the happy idea that it would be an excellent thing for him and the rest of the patent examiners to each spend a week at Chicago at public expense. Seizing upon a pliant hour when the Commissioner of Patents Mr. Seymour, was peculiarly susceptible to social influences, Mr. Wilkinson succeeded in persuading that official to adopt his rotatory plan. But Examiner Greely, who had gone to much pains with the Government exhibit, mildly with the Government exhibit, mildly protested against the arrangement. Upon this Examiner Wilkinson threatened Greely by letter with the displeasure of the Commissioner of Patents, over whom he alleged that he possessed no small influence.

As the result of an interview between the Commissioner and Mr. Greely the -Hartford Telegram.

At Hartford.

There was no quorum in the House Tuesday, but the conditions gave promise of a large amount of business being done until a snag was reached in Callahan's motion to indefinitely postpone Hale's amendment to the game laws.

It provides that any person found on posted ground with a dog or gun, or in fields with them in the open season shall be deemed to have shown prima facie evidence of being a violator of the game law. Lessees are given the same right to arrest them as owners of property posses under the present law. Callahan objected on the ground that the present laws were sufficient and that the amendment savored of class legisla-tion. The speaker declaring his motion carried, Hale doubted and the yeas and nays showed only 104 present. Messen-gers were dispatched to bring in mem-bers from the corridors, but still there were not enough. Then Hotchkiss suggested that an adjournment for 15 minutes be declared instead of until to-day. The speaker decided he had a right to do this and acted on the suggestion. When the House reassembled after the recess the motion was unanimously car-

A bill was passed that the statutes now governing the taxation of steam railroads should also apply to street railways. Another bill was passed requiring horse and electric railroads to make more complete annual reports. This was the measure which E. C. Benedict advocated before the committee in sympathy with a dissatisfied stock-holder of the Norwalk Horse railroad. One of the last important matters awaiting action was the bill relating to the sale of adulterated liquors. The Temperance committee reported unfavorably on the bill. House Chairman Noble said that under it druggists and retailers would be cut off from buying liquors in quantities of less than one barrel. Wholesalers were also forbidden to sell under a rectifier's stamp.

The bill was rejected.

The same committee also reported favorably a bill permitting electors and taxpayers to sign more than one license application and it was passed. In accordance with the report of the same committee the present law making the refusal of a person arrested for Sunday drunkenness to tell where he got his liquor punishable by his conviction, was repealed. The bill making liquor dealers ineligible to become registrars of voters was passed in concurrence.

There were also passed resolutions incorporating the River-side Water company of Greenwich, and the New Milford and Lake Waramaug Railroad company.

Bold Arkansas Bank Robbers.

BENTONVILLE, Ark., June 7.—A gang of six deperadoes armed with rifles, entered the People's bank, covered the officials with their weapons and quickly secured $10,000, with which they escaped on fleet horses. They also had a horse and buggy with them, in which the plunder was carried off. Being pursued by citizens, they kept up a rapid firing, and Taylor Thomas Baker and Assistant Cashier Jackson were wounded, the former seriously. Two of the robbers were also wounded, but not stopped in their flight. A posse is in pursuit.

The Borough of Norwalk to Have a City Charter.

A Favorable Report Made.

The application to consolidate Norwalk, South Norwalk and East Norwalk under one city having been adversely acted upon by the committee on Cities and Boroughs, the Borough authorities renewed their efforts to have the original application granting a city charter to this end of the town acted upon.

This morning the committee reported favorably on the petition and the Borough will soon be a thing of the past and in its place will arise the City of Norwalk.

A Deplorable Case.

Constable R. N. Morehouse went to Five Mile River, Tuesday afternoon and served papers on Mrs. Mary L. Bates, informing her that the select-men of Norwalk had made application for the appointment of a conservator over herself and son William H. Bates. The complaint in substance alleges that Mrs. Bates is of unsound mind and that her son was in about the same condition. Mrs. Bates' husband died some time ago leaving an estate valued at perhaps $700 and money in the bank to the amount of about $200. Mr. A. H. Scofield of Darien was appointed adminis trator of the estate on the death of Mr. Bates. He has since provided for the livlihood of both Mrs. Bates and son, and it is understood that there is little if anything left of the cash assets.

When Mr. Morehouse visited the house he made known his errand and saw at the start that he was talking with a person, who, to put it mildly, was out of her mind. She had locked her son in a room and he made frequent attempts to break the door down and repeatedly cried, "Let me out Ma, I want to see the man, what does he want anyhow?" To his attempts to get out of the room she said, "Kee still Bill, what's the matter with you.

Mr. Morehouse made his call as short as possible and left, after which it is quite probable that "Bill" was given his liberty.

It is stated that it matters not what is sent to the house the major part of it will be given away to anyone who may come along and ask for it, and that this fact being known there are a number who take advantage of the situation and rifle the house. Mrs. Bates is the widow of Henry Bates and is about 70 years of age. To the ordinary person she is apparently of sound mind, but this feeling is quickly dispelled after having had any conversation with her. Her son is, seemingly, about 40 years of age.

Without a doubt both should be placed under restraint and a conservator appointed. A hearing in the matter of such appointment will be held at the probate Office in Norwalk on June 19th.

THE NEW LIBERTY BELL.

at Troy Tomorrow.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—The promoters of the imitation Liberty Bell held forth at Independence hall today. The bell is to be cast at Troy, N. Y., tomorrow, and is to be a fac simile of the bell mounted in the State House steeple in this city in 1776. It will have several Biblical passages cast on its outer surface, in raised letters, including the quaintly historic text, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land."

Mrs. Cleveland will touch a button on a telegraph instrument in Washington, and at the other end of the circuit in Troy is ductory to the telegraphic, civic and other character of ceremonies at Troy tomorrow They consisted of poetry and addresse and were under the supervision of William O. McDowell, of Newark, N. J., representing the Human Freedom league. Rev. James A. Little, of Hokendauqua, Pa opened the meeting at 10 o'clock with prayer, and then addresses of welcome vere delivered by Governor Robert E. Pattison for the state, and Mayor Edwin S Stuart for the city. The poem "Liberty Bell," which had such an important part in the creation of the Columbian Libert Bell, was then recited by Mrs. Madge Mor ris Warner, of San Diego, Col., the author ess of the poem. Then Howard Hawthorne McGee read his poem, "The New Liberty Bell," and Colonel A. K. McClure followed with an address on "The Old Liberty Bell to the New."

It has already been definitely decided that the the bell shall be placed in the World's fair at Chicago. At the close of the fair it is intended to send the bell to all parts of the world as a missionary of freedom. When not in use in other places its home will probably be in Washington, under the care of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, whence it will journey from place to place, always preclaiming liberty.

"WILLIE" WILDE'S WEAKNESS. His Antipathy to Labor Offensive to Hi Energetic Wife.

NEWBURG, N. Y., June 7.—Considerable evidence has been taken by a commission in the suit of Mrs. Frank Leslie for a di vorce from her husband, C. Kingsbury Wilde. The evidence of Mrs. Leslie ma be taken privately in New York today by Referee Grant B. Taylor. Then the case will be ready to submit to Judge Charles

F. Brown for his decision. Mrs. Leslie met and fell in love with "Willie" Wilde, brother of Oscar Wilde, two years ago. "Willie" was a newspaper man. There was a quiet wedding and a brief honeymoon. "Willie" exhibited from the start a fondness for liquor, his wife says, and on his wedding night became intoxicated, and continued his spree for a

Although penniless himself, "Willie" wanted a mansion on Fifth avenue, pur-chased fast horses and gold harness, ran up heavy bills for liquor and other refreshments at the Lotus club and indulged in other extravagances, while she paid the bills. But when bills amounting to $20,000 came from Europe she refused to pay

Finally Mrs. Leslie took her spouse to Europe, with the intention of "losing" him in the vicinity of his mother's door, but "Willie" refused to be "lost." Then she announced that she would not support "him" in idleness any longer, and left, telling him that when he had made up his mind to become an industrious man he could talk to her of reconciliation.

Since the suit began Mrs. Leslie has been in receipt of from three to six letters week-ly from "Willie," in which he has begged and coaxed to be taken back. Lady Wilde has added a prayer to those of her son, and has told how "Willie" missed his carriages and the genial society of his wife.

ESCAPED ELECTRIC DEATH.

The Close Shave of a Hundred Workmen During a Sudden Storm.

NEW YORK, June 7.—An electrical storm of extraordinary violence passed over New York late yesterday afternoon. It was preceded by a light shower, which only made the heated atmosphere more sultry and oppressive. The storm came up suddenly from the southeast, bringing with it such torrents of rain that the streets were immediately flooded, and pedestrians had to run for shelter. Lightning darted from the thick, black clouds almost continuously, and deafening crashes of thunder followed each other rapidly. The electric light plants suffered greatly.

When the storm first burst upon the city rounding the big chimney which is being erected at Castle Garden. As the rain began to pour down the men took shelter. They had barely left the scaffolding when the lightning struck it, completely demolishing it. In Brooklyn lightning struck one of the buildings of the New York Warehousing company on the water front, in which was stored $1 200 000 worth of cotton, causing a loss of $100,000.

THE RUSSIAN TREATY. Conspirators Against the Lives of Rulers

May be Extradited. WASHINGTON, June 7.-The Russian extradition treaty, which has been the sub-ject of negotiation between the two constructing parties for more than six years, which has been amended again and again, and which was threatened with defeat in its final stages, has at last been formally proclaimed, and will henceforth be the law of the land until it is superseded by another treaty. The treaty was not re-ceived at the department until a late day last week. The treaty was in the French language, and it was necessary to translate the document into English, and yesterday the president saw it for the first time. All that remained to be done was to make the official proclamation.

Interest centered on the sections making attempts upon the heads of government or accessoryship to such attempts extraditable. The treaty as ratified provides that such shall not be considered political offenses, and are not, therefore, extraditable.

It is claimed in official quarters that in spite of all that has been said about the treaty it is similar in scope to all the extradition treaties negotiated by the United States in recent years, although in practice it may be that the administration of the articles will have a different result in view of the essential difference between the judicial systems of the two countries, which in this case are supposed to be more than usually divergent.

No Opposition to De Lesseps. PARIS, June 7.—A boisterous meeting of the Suez canal shareholders was held in this city yesterday. Darier, Peghoux, Wilson, Lamb, Ferdinand and Charles de Lesseps, the retiring directors, were reelected. No effort was made to procure the removal of Charles de Lesseps, now in prison for paying tributes to public of-ficials from the company's treasury. Fears for Louisiana Levees.

NEW ORLEANS. June 7.-The levee situation is growing very serious in Louisiana, owing to the incessant rains of the past week or so, and the engineers are momentarily expecting more disastrous breaks.

The Curtain Drops on the Life of Edwin Booth.

DEATH CAME THIS MORNING

Unconscious for Many Hours Before the End.

HIS DAUGHTER BY HIS BEDSIDE

The Eminent Tragedian's First Appearance on the Stage the Result of an Accident-His Rapid Rise in the Profession-Driven from the Boards by Grief Over the Tragic Act of His Brother, He Returned in Response to the Importunities of His Friends.

NEW YORK, June 7.-Edwin Booth, the eminent tragedian, died at the Players' club at 1:15 this morning. All day yesterday his death was hourly expected, and for many hours before his death he had lain in an unconscious condition. The sudden change for the worse took place at 7 o'clock last night. Dr. Smith had left the club a short time previously and, being summoned hurriedly to the bedside of his patient again, came in a cab, which drove up to the Players' club at a furious pace. Shortly after 10 o'clock the nurse called Mr. and Mrs. Grosman into the sick chamber, with other relatives, and they re mained with him to the end, his daughter holding his hand as he passed into the

SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

The Eminent Actor's First Appearan

the Result of an Accident The evening of Monday, Sept. 10, 1849, saw Edwin Booth's first appearance on the stage. It was at the Boston museum, and he played the part of Tressel in "Richard III," his father, the great Junius Brutus Booth, taking the leading role. The part of Tressel is a very small one, and young Booth took it quite unexpectedly. He was acting as his father's dresser during the engagement. The stage manager had been cast for Tressel, but he was overworked, tired and almost ill, and he begged young Booth, who finally consented, to play the part. The arrangement was made without consulting the father, whose first intimation that his son was to make his professional debut that night was when Edwin appeared in the dressing room costumed as Tressel. The father offered to lend the box his spurs, and the offer was accepted. When Edwin returned to the dressing room, after having done his work on the stage, he was affixious to know what his father, who had from the wings closely watched his brief performance, would say in criticism, but the father merely held out his foot and said, "Give me my spurs."

Booth's last appearance on any stage was at an afternoon performance of Ham-let at the Brooklyn Park theater, Saturday, April 4, 1891. Booth's acting was far from strong—the effects of his advancing age and failing powers were plainly visible—yet he was given a veritable ovation by the audience. He made a brief speech in acknowledgment, and when he left the theater the street was crowded by his ad-mirers, who cheered him wildly as he drove away. Between that evening in Boston and that afternoon in Brooklyn a great career had stretched its years, a career that will be studied with interest and admiration as long as records of the Ameri can stage exist.

Edwin Booth was born in Harford county, about twenty miles from Baltimore, Nov. 15, 1833. His father, Junius Brutus Booth, was 37 years old then and in the zenith of his fame as an actor. The mother had been, it is said, a flower girl in Covent Garden, London. She was a beautiful woman. There were seven children, of whom John Wilkes and Edwin were the only two to achieve fame on the stage Junius Brutus, the father's namesake, passed the best part of his years as a hotel keeper at Minchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., where he died. Joseph became a well known physician at Long Branch. Mary Asia married John S. Clarke, the correction.

Edwin was more in sympathy with his erratic, morose father than any other of the children, and as soon as he became old enough accompanied him on all his trav els, attending to his personal comfort and watching carefully and constantly to keep him from breaking his engagements or giving way to the intense fits of depres-sion from which he periodically suffered. Thus the boy's early youth was passed in a theatrical atmosphere and his career marked out for him by circumstance. For two or three years after his almost accidental debut he acted intermittently in his father's company.

In 1852 he went to California. When the news of his father's death reached him (it occurred Nov. 30, 1852) he was stranded without money or friends and almost without food in a Nevada mining camp. He finally got back to San Francisco ragged, worn and weary. Between that time and 1856 he visited Australia and the Bandwich Islands. This whole period was one of misery, many of his journeys being made on foot. He was himself obliged to post the bills that announced his perform ances. He went hungry often. His road was almost incredibly hard, but he made e triumph out of it, for when he left Frisco early in 1857 or late in 1856 he was given

Then he returned to the east, and appeared with success in Boston as Sir Giles Overreach. In New York immediately afterward he was fairly started on the high road to fame and fortune by his impersonations of Richard III, Shylock, King Lear, Hamlet, Brutus and other roles.

It was about this time that he met Mary

Devlin, a southern girl of great beauty and an actress of extraordinary talent They were married in New York July 7, 1860. She immediately retired from the stage. They were ideally happy. Booth next assayed a season in London without great success, and returned to New York in 1862 to begin his series of representa-tions at the Winter Garden theater, which established him as the greatest living American actor. His "Hamlet" ran for more than 100 nights—a measure of success at that time unheard of. In 1863 his young wife died, and for a time he abandoned his profession.

In 1864-65 Booth again appeared in New York as Hamlet. April 17 of the latter year the assassination of President Lin-coln by John Wilkes, his brother, startled the world and engulfed him in a sea of grief and wretchedness. He quit the stage on the very night of the tragedy, intending never to return to it, but the importunities of his friends were so earnest that Jan. 30. 1866, he again stepped on the stage. His appearance behind the footlights was the signal for nine great cheers which fairly shook the theater. But never since that fatal 17th of April has he played a professional engagement in Washington.

After his re-entry into public life in 1866 Booth was the central figure of a series of magnificent productions at the Winter Garden. When that theater was destroyed by fire he erected the famous Booth's theat ter. The revivals of "Romeo and Juliet,"
"Richelieu," "Julius Cæṣar" and other great tragedies on its stage mark an epoch in the history of the American drama, but they bankrupted the man who gave them to the public. After his failure Mr. Booth found himself nearly $1,000,000 in debt. This vast indebtedness he has since paid, dollar for dollar, with interest.

The death of his second wife was the cul-mination of a long series of domestic anxseties. He made another and phenomenally successful professional visit to England, and also scored a triumph in Germany.

His tours with Lawrence Barrett began during the season of 1887-8. From both a financial and artistic standpoint they were wonderfully satisfactory. The profits on one season were more than $300,000. In 1889 this connection of the two great American actors was rudely interrupted for a time. On the evening of April 3, at Rochester, N. Y., Mr. Booth was suddenly stricken with an illness which it was thought at first would prove fatal. But Booth rallied and acted many times after

The first real manifestations of Booth's decadence appeared during the winter of 1890-1 while he was playing with Barrett in New York. It was evident that his powers were failing, and the death of Barsudden and unexpected as it was, was the final blow which broke the tragedian's strength.

Booth loved solitude, admitted few friends to intimacy and lived as quiet a life as his profession would admit. To his generosity the Players' club owes its beau-ful home on Gramercy park in New York

Latterly Mr. Booth had lived in Lake wood, N. J., where he owned a beautiful home. It was therethat the general breakdown, which eventuated in his death, first manifested itself. Booth was well off and is believed to have left a fortune of more than $500,000.

The Connecticut Constitution New Haven, June 7.—A bad flaw in the constitutional convention bill has been pointed out, but not too late for the Democratic senate to rectify it. The bill provides that the people shall pass on the question of holding a convention on the first Monday in next October, which is town election day all over the state except in the towns of New Haven and Bridge ort. In both these towns, which contain hearly one-fifth the population of the state, the sentiment is very strong for a convention, but a light vote would probably be polled if no other election on that day were held. The Democratic policy will therefore probably be to postpone until the state election of November, 1894, the popular vote on the question.

A BREAKFAST WITH THE MAYOR.

Eulalia Escorted to and from the Mayor's House This Morning by Two Troops of United States Cavalry-Director General Davis Will Boss the Fair.

CHICAGO, June 7.—The democratic Princess Eulalia soon showed everybody at the Palmer House on her arrival yesterday that she really did not need an escort in the person of Commander Davis. On reaching the parlor floor by one of the ladies' elevators she walked straight ahead to the gorgeous reception room which forms the ante chamber to the more private apartment placed at the disposal of the royal visitor and her suite. She did not wait for Mayor Harrison to show her the way. She has all the dash and spright-liness and vivacity of an American woman abroad. After a few formal remarks the mayor left the infanta to the seclusion of her apartments. She felt so fatigued, in spite of the luxury surrounding her long ride from New York, that she retired to her bed chamber and spent the rest of the afternoon in refreshing sleep. The members of the Spanish World's fair commission, the Spanish consulate and a few high exposition officials called during the evening. The Duke and Duchess of Veragua did not accompany the in-fanta to the Palmer House. At the entrance to the princess' reception room two stalwart police officers stand guard at each side to preserve the privacy of the apart-ments. A constant guard will be on duty. This morning the Princess Eulalia went to the residence of Mayor Harrison, on the Ashland boulevard, for breakfast. The breakfast consisted of eighteen persons. At a reception which followed half a hundred other guests had been invited to meet the princess. Two troops of United States cavalry escorted the princess to and from the house. This evening the infanta and suite will be the guests of President Higinbotham at dinner. Covers will be laid for twenty-four. Tomorrow she will go by tallyho coach to the fair grounds, where she will meet the officials and breakfast with President T. W. Palmer in the Aministration building. The rest of the day will be spent in viewing the Spanish exhibits. Friday morning will be spent driving in the parks and seeing the city. In the evening the princess will be the guest of honor at a brilliant reception to be given at Potter Palmer's castle home. A host of distinguished foreigners in the city and a small number of Chicago people have been in-

A concert to the princess will be given at the fair grounds early next week.

THE BOSS OF THE FAIR.

Director General Davis Given Full Au-CHICAGO, June 7.—A much needed simplification of administrative detail in the affairs of the World's Columbian exposi tion has been effected. Ten days ago Director General Davis and Director of Works Burham sent a joint letter to the local directory urging that full authority in every department be vested in the director general, and that he be permitted to choose an assistant to be governed solely by him.

At a meeting of the directory today a resolution was passed which makes Colonel Davis the director general de facto. It was thought proper in furtherance of the plan to make Director of Works Burnham Mr. Davis' assistant, thus combining the two great departments of the fair, namely administration and construction The director general will in the future receive his orders from the council of administration instead of from the national committee, the local directory and the board of control. Under the new order of things much conflict will be avoided, as the council of administration represents both the United States government and the physical forces of the fair.

A NARROW ESCAPE

How it Happened.

How it Happened.

The following remarkable event in a lady's life will interest the reader: "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was atraid to draw a full breath. I couldn't sweep a room without sitting down and resting; but, thank God, by the help of New Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken different so-called remedies and been treated by doctors without any benefit until I was both discouraged and disgusted. My husband bought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and am happy to say I never regretted it, as I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. I welghed 125 pounds when I began taking the remedy, and now I weigh 130½. Its effect in my case has been truly marvelous. It far surpasses any other medicine I have ever taken or any benefit I ever received from physicians."—Mrs. Harry Starr, Pottsville, Pa., October 12, 1892.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. This great discovery by an eminent specialist in heart disease, contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

Sold by H. R. Hale, Norwalk, and George Stillson, So. Norwalk.

MISS BORDEN'S ORDEAL

The Government's Side of the Sensational Murder Trial.

THE ACCUSED WOMAN'S HATRED.

Remarkable Chain of Events Which Point to a Cultured Young Woman as the Author of a Monstrous Crime-Miss Borden Faints in the Prisoner's Dock.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 7.-The court room was again crowded when Mr. Moody opened the case for the government in the Lizzie Borden trial, and at least a third of those present were women.

Mr. Moody said, among other things that on the 4th day of August last an old man and an old woman, without a known enemy in the world, were stricken down by an unknown assassin. In the prisoner's dock is a young woman, a daughter of the murdered people, a young woman of good social standing, charged with the crime of murdering these people. It was his purpose, he said, to put the story of the crime in the easiest manner possible.

Mr. Borden was a man of considerable property and of quiet, retiring ways, who had saved his money as he made it, and had maintained his family on what might be termed a narrow scale. Lizzie A. Bor den was 2 or 3 years of age when her father married for the second time, not long after the death of his first wife. The marriage was over twenty-five years before the time of their death, and there was no issue.

The house in which the homicides were committed has been occupied by the family some twenty years. There was or came to be known to the prisoner and step mother an unkindly feeling. From the nature of the case it will be impossible for us to get anything more than suggestive glimpses of this feeling from outsiders. The daughters thought that something should be done for them by way of dividing the property after they had learned that the stepmother had been amply provided for. Then came a division and ill feeling, and the title of "mother" was

The prosecution would show that dressmaker of the family had spoken of the stepmother as "mother," when Lizzie chided her and said: "Don't call her mother, we hate her; she's a mean, spite-ful thing." When an officer who was seeking information asked: "When did you last see your mother?" the reply came from Lizzie: "She is not my mother; my mother died when I was an infant."

Mr. Moody then went on to speak of the parents having been taken ill under suspicious circumstances, and broadly intimated that Lizzie had poisoned the couple for the purpose of arousing suspicion against the hired girl, Bridget Sullivan, after the completion of her murderous

After detailing alleged suspicious conversations with Miss Alice Russell, to show that Lizzie had murder in her heart, Mr. Moody then produced the plans of the house of the Bordens and the locality, and described them plainly to the jury. Continuing he said: "On the morning of the tragedy Bridget Sullivan was first up; we may safely assume on the proof that the only human beings in the house that night were those we have mentioned. Bridget got her fuel down stairs and built a fire, got the milk at the rear door and locked it after she brought it in. There was a screen door here, and this it was which Bridget locked after she got the milk. Lizzie came down, then Mrs. Borden and then Mr. Borden. He did some chores in the barn,

After breakfast the first one to depart was John V. Morse, a visitor, and Mr. Bordon let him out and locked the screen door behind him. Soon after Morse went away the prisoner came down and ate her breakfast. While she was eating Mrs. Borden went up stairs and Bridget went out in the yard, because she was sick. When she came back Mr. Borden had evidently gone down town. Mrs. Borden and Bridget had some talk about washing windows, and the latter was told to do the work. Mrs. Borden disappeared then, and it will appear that she told the prisoner stairs to put some pillo she was going up cases on the bed in the spare room. You will be satisfied that this was not far from 9.30 o'clock, and you will be satisfied that she never left her room alive again, for no living person saw her alive again except

Mr. Moody, continuing, said that evidence would be given showing that when Mr. Borden returned home the front door was bolted, contrary to the custom of the house; that Mrs. Borden's body lay above, dead probably more than an hour; that Lizzie told her father that Mrs. Borden had received a note and went to answer it. That was a lie, Mr. Moody added, to stifle inquiry. It would be shown that Lizzie burned a dress, which evidently had been spattered with blood. Mr. Moody produced a hatchet and the skulls of the murdered persons, and showed that the blade fitted the wounds of Mr. Borden. This hatchet was found on the Borden prem ises. The government will prove that not a thing in the house had been disturbed. There is no evidence of a struggle. The assailant approached the victims and, without a murmur, laid them low. There was an unkindly feeling between the prisoner and her stepmother. The prisoner was dwelling on murder and predicting disasters. From the time when Mrs. Borden went up stairs to the time when the prisoner came down, an hour later, there was no other human being there but the

When Mr. Moody finished his address the jury was given a brief recess. At the close of the address Miss Borden had fallen back in her seat, completely exhausted, and her counsel, Mr. Jennings, and one of the clerical friends administered relief in the form of smelling salts and cold water.
When the jury returned the government introduced its first witness, Thomas Kirnan, a civil engineer, who testified in regard to the streets in the vicinity of the Borden home. After this testimony the court adjourned in order to enable the jury to visit the Borden house at Fall River.

Baihut and Blondin to be Released. PARIS, June 7.—The Eclair states that the court of cassation, to which Charles de Lesseps and his associates appealed from the sentences passed upon them for corruption in the management of the affairs of the Panama Canal company, will annul the sentence and order the re-lease of the defendants. There were two Panana trials, and the above prospective annulment will only apply to the sen-tences delivered as a result of the second trial. Therefore it can only benefit Baihut and Blondin, young de Lesseps last sen tence running concurrently with the first. The Weather.

EDWARD FIELDS

Of Seneca Falls, Makes a Statement of His Former Unhappy Condition, and the Means Employed to Restore Him to Health and Strength.

He Could Not Sleep, Was in Constant Pain and Misery From a Complication of Troubles. Can Now Sleep Well and Enjoys Life.

We have been called upon at no other time to our knowledge, to record such a remarkable restoration to health as that of our fellow townsman Edward Fields, whose sickness and suffering are known to many of us. Mr. Fields' statement is well worth careful reading for it suggests many things that will be of benefit. Perhaps it will be more interesting to let Mr. Fields relate his experience in his own words.

"For the last ten years," said Mr. Fields, "I have been going down hill rapidly. I was so nervous that I could not sleep. I had to get up and smoke and do what I could to occupy my mind. I was in perfect misery all the time and the result was I became discouraged. Several physicians prescribed for the various ailments they supposed I was suffering from, but none supposed I was suffering from, but none of their medicines did me any good, and so I continued until I learned through the Courier of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. What it had done for others seemed to hit my case, so I determined to try it.

"I purchased a bottle and commenced the use of it at once, and the result was decidedly for the better. I continued using it until I had taken nearly four bottles and now I feel like a new man. I can sleep for eight hours steady; am stronger in every way, every pain and ache dispelled, and I think Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine on earth for building up a broken up or worn out system. I would like to say still further, if this should chance to meet the eye of anybody doubting this statement, that will take the trouble to write to me, I will the trouble to write to me.

ilar cases have been brought to our no-tice where Dr. Kennedy's Favorite been given up by attending physicians. In commenting on Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy in the Medical Journal, Dr. W. H. Morse, of New York city, says:

"The great power in Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy lies in the fact that it is the only medicine known to-day that dissolves the excess of uric or lactic acid in the blood. Many of the common diseases arise from this one cause; for instance, rheumatism, dyspepsia, scrofula, liver, kidney, and urinary troubles, salt rheum, nervousness, sleeplessness, and the sicknesses so common to women, all come from this one primal cause, excess of acid in the blood. Hence the failure of other treatments, which cannot dissolve this acid, to cure disease. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has never failed to cure these diseases no matter how complicated, where a cure was possible. Favorite Remedy is now a standard Specific for all these deadly uric acid troubles and is pre-scribed by physicians and used in general hospital practice. Every dealer in medicine has it for sale."—Seneca Falls, N. Y., Courier.
