Connecticut River, The to the Atlantic Ocean at Third Connecticut Lake, N.H., is in most places a relatively shallow waterway. This factor, plus an anticipated lower - than - average spring rising, spells good news to the contractors of the $5,000,000 Enfield-Suffield Bridge.

The route of approach from the Suffield side can be clearly seen on the photograph. The makeshift road which the construction crews have fashioned to reach the river's edge runs off Canal Rd., which in turn runs off East St., which is expected to be the main artery to the bridge.

"Fuigi"-Our Himalayan Cat: As long as Sheba, our other cat (a huge, red Persian with am. ber eyes) does not read The Bazaar, I will admit that Fuigi is the most beautiful and the most satisfactory cat I have ever had, and that includes many kinds from the Maine ball of fluff for a tail and hop coon cats and rabbit cats (who like a rabbit) to just a plain, have long hind legs and only a loveable stray yellow cat with

She eats ev. erything, although the woman who bred her and sold her to me said "never give her milk or tuna fish or liver." But I cided this was just too much bother, and experimented a little at a time with the forbidden fruits and to my delight and relief she never had a snitch of trouble! A Himalayan is a cross between a Siamese and a Persian. It does not have the yowl of the Siamese-just a normal little meow like a good cat should! They are rare and very popular at cat shows, but most of all they are the most decorative and delightful house pets.

Wedding Bells: Most people

I know arrive at weddings with some degree of dignity-and I have never heard of anyone arriving at any wedding by way of scaling a stone wall! Such was the case of the Barclays. who inadvertently took a wrong turn and got lost en route to Sudbury, Mass., where Doris Austin of Concord, Mass., and Tony Hull of Suffield were being married. At about two minutes before 8 (the hour of the wedding), by sheer luck, Hughie and I spotted a darling church, aglow with candelight, up on a hill, surrounded by cars, so we slammed on the brakes (praying it was the right church!), pulled the car to the side of the road, which was behind the church, piled out and started across a field surround-ed by a stone wall. In the pitch black darkness, we could not see any walk or driveway to help us out, so my chival-rous husband grabbed me by the hand and said, "Come on— we'll have to climb the wal!!" In spite of my protests that he "our of your mind" and that I would never make it with a tight skirt and high-heeled evening slippers, over we went, racing and gasping across the bumpy field to the church which turned out to be the right one. The Martha-Mary Chapel (given by Henry Ford) is the most beautiful little white church I have ever The bride was a dream in white with a tremendous fullskirted train, the bridesmaids in long lipstick-red evening dresses, the ushers, replendent in tails, were all familiar faces from Suffield—Chris Hull, Bill Swanson, Boots Wardinski, Johnny Tinker—the service was lovely, the wording most mean-ingful, the candlelight casting unforgettable glow over everything! The reception was most gala at Longfellow's Wayside Inn next door, complete with champagne and a beautifully served buffet. Quite a Suffield delegation drove up for the occasion-Dottie and Herbie Russell, Alice and Carola Ford, Martha and Malcolm Tinker (now of North Granby), Eleanor and Helen Swanson, Mrs. Sylvia Bigelow, Tony's grandmother, and his great aunt, Mrs. Suzanne Bigelow from New York City, and, of course, Gladdie Hull, his attractive mother (who looked lovely in her long, oft beige evening gown), and Bob Hull, Tony's father. The high spot of the entire evening for me (after hurtling over that stone wall!) was a dance with the handsome groom himself. Doris and Tony are now living in their own little house in Lit-tleton, Mass., while Doris completes her senior year at Wel-

Had a wonderful time at the luncheon-bridge and fashion show over in Somers the other day as a guest of Betty Steven-Priscilla Wells did her us. ual fine job as commentator—the clothes from the Country Casual Shop in Milt Hanos' new plaza were smart as they could be—it was fun to see columnist Evelyn Phillips in person. For some unknown reason I pictured her as the gray-haired, motherly type with a nice imagmative touch for writing, and it was quite a surprise to see her modeling, complete with her adorable French poodle! I was quite relieved to see both Mary Brennan and Alice Suboter there, playing hookey also from real estate!

The main money-raising project of the Children's Services will be a dessert, bridge and hat show Wednesday, Apr. 7, at the Congregational Church at 12:30. Tickets will be $1.25, and reservations are requested Friday, Apr. 2, is Blood Bank day here in Suffield, at the Sacred Heart Church from 12:45 to 5:30 p.m. No appointment is necessary - just come - your blood is really needed, and Suffield has been falling behind with its response. Last time out of only 108 donors, 45 came from the St. Alphonsus College! Need I say more?

I hope you all enjoyed the rethat was given Delphina Clark's new book, "Phineas Lyman, Connecticut General." The Hartford Courant on Mar.

oes from the Retired Untired Men's Club: Russ Secrest well-tanned from his Florida va cation, was given a rousing welcome as he rapped the gavel for order. He voiced appreciation to chairman Hollis Etchell, for his work on the rules book. Recently three members of this distinguished group (Squires Bosworth, Tinti and Barclay) were invited to do some "acting" for the Bay State Film Co. in Agawam. From the comments that I just happened to hear about this occasion, I judged they had a fine time, as the scene was set at Betty's Town House in Agawam, complete with a super buffet, of which our acting heroes were urged to partake-what a tough these fraternity brothers lead! Leon Tinti has other hidden talents, it seems, as he gave the boys a real treat the other day by singing folk songs, as well as opera, and was accompanied by another talented Beau Brummel, Lee Parsons, at the piano! Amy Fuller writes that they are having a wonderful time at Boca Grande, Fla., golfing, beaching, etc. . Molly and Dick Rachals write from Stockholm, Sweden, that they are having a fascinating .... Mark Montgomery and Paul Fox Jr. on vacation from Suffield Academy, as well as Mary Fox, who is at MacDuffie. Young Spence (aged five) was not for being left behind, so he also joined the northbound group. Fortunately, there are wonderful nursery arrangements for the youngest ones! Skeeter reports that she ran into Flo and Flip Fleming, while there. They are now living in Cleveland, but were formerly popular residents of Suffield . Congratulations Airman 3-c Willam Kuras, son of William Kuras of 1559 N. slightly unhappy if there was a way for us to help.

Now that she's a teen. we find ourselves wondering what went wrong. Nothing we say carries any weight. Advice from us makes her stubborn and nine out of ten times she'll take the opposite course. We can't handle her now. I can understand why deprived children go wrong but why are parents who have really tried, exposed to so much heartbreak?

Dear J. D.:

Giving children everything isn't doing them a favor. A good parent aims at developing his baby into a good adult.

An adult lives in a competitive world. It's full of give and take. Your daughter has been exposed only to the take part. You've supplied the toys but not the tools she needs for life.

Compete and earn are foreign words to her. If you talked about sacrifice, she'd wonder why! She's walked all over the only adults she's dealt with and isn't prepared to take on a world full of demands on What you've led her to expect isn't what she has to be: Can't you see why she might start looking for a new authority?

Start thinking of that little island called home as a small bit of the outside world. Give each of the people in it child and adult, a proper share of respect and attention. Perhaps it isn't too late.

Adopting a new attitude will be difficult after all these years. You may need coaching from an expert to change the role you've played for so long. Advice from a school guidance counsellor, doctor, or religious advisor you know well could be a tremendous help.

KATHY.

A charming antique show held at the town hall kept us hours on Saturday. After sloshing through the snow and drizzle, the bright yellow forsythia and kitten-gray pussywillows looked so lovely at the recep-tion table. Pretty Mrs. Reginald Jackson greeted us. ately we saw Paul Hamel at his booth with several good paintings to show. One, lightful primitive of a child in a chair, captured our hearts and sold for $300. We liked an interesting 17th Century Persian war helmet Paul had tucked in a corner. Mrs. Alvin Brown was admiring one of Hamel's old pieces and as we browsed into Bernice Feuer's display (Bernice is from Wethersfield) held at the town hall kept us we caught sight of Mrs. Norris.

ing very smart. Mrs. Frank n was busy at the food bar and thanked the "Barn Door" for publicity for the Antique w. Bernice had some inter. esting early time pieces and clocks as well as lovely old jewelry. We were taken with the hammered enameled brass Chinese bells hanging on a cord, a great conversation piece.

Hazel Hayes of Somers, looking so refreshing in a cranberry-red wool outfit, was actively engaged in conversation with several prospective buyers at her booth. We saw some beautiful old dolls and at Florence Klemenger's arrangement, we learned that she has a priceless old French doll made in 1830. The "Little Red Farmhouse" had opened shop in the Town Hall and Rita and Ted Cowan's collection was so very shiny. Their luster-ware, copper and brass, lovely old bottles, all were sparkling. The Cowans had me good-looking furniture as well. In the Gibson Girl Shop we saw lots of posters from the era of the famed Gibson Girl. Louise Thurrot was browsing in the next booth having a marvelous time, looking at antique glass. We spotted Dorothy Dunlap, too, obviously enjoying the

We noticed that the menfolk were much interested in Susan Eagan's display. Reason was the old guns, gun-holders, tin gun-powder containers and gun-powder primitive tools. The show had everything to excite the imagination to the re-living of bygone days in New England.

By way of contrast, in the evening, we visited the Eastern States Better Living Center and saw the very latest and newest in the field of American recre--the Camping and Outdoor w. Among the crowd we Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Wilbur, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duncan, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Daniels. As we entered, we heard quite a ruckus on our left. On the stage, a group of young men in American Indian costume were doing a war dance and explaining old Indian customs and lore. The building was jammed with people, out to see the newest of facilities for the camper. We had a most stimulating talk with .Gerard professor at Springfield College.
