Armadon Speaks To Kiwanians

Dean C. Amadon, member of Citizens Committee To Keep Connecticut Clean & beautiful, and State Director for the United States Brewers Assn. will be the guest speaker before the Enfield Kiwanis Club today.

The Citizens Committee, established by Gov. Dempsey in 1967, devotes itself to that phase of the environment which relates to visual community improvement. It is working to gain the cooperation and active participation of local organizations throughout the state.

According to Amadon in every community there are at least nine projects that can be undertaken voluntarily to bring about visual improvement:

1. Cleanup. There is growing recognition that it is as important to overcome land pollution as it is to solve the problems of water and air pollution. The amount of litter, rubbish and trash being discarded in and on public places — sidewalks, highways, streets, beaches, parks, and the like — is running at the rate of 187, 330,000 pounds annually in Connecticut. Nigro Supports Many Programs For Enfield And 44th District

The final days of the political race for the State Representative's seat for the 44th District are drawing near. This reporter was invited to Sabath (Sam) Nigro's campaign headquarters at the Gateway Shopping Plaza for an interview with the candidate. Nigro is the Democratic candidate running for the State Assembly's position in the 44th District.

Nigro is a forceful man who has provocative political insight. This reporter wasted no time in asking Nigro the first question which began the interview. The question centered on Nigro's views regarding the proposed jail in the Enfield area.

The candidate replied, "It is time that Enfield convinces the state to re-examine their views on our town. For example, when the state was considering a site for the location of a Medical Center, Enfield requested that the Center be constructed here. The state replied that Enfield was too far north and subsequently not central enough to warrant a medical center. However, the state has now mentioned Enfield as the proposed area for the jail. Why? Because Enfield is sufficiently centrally located. The state's logic leaves much to be desired. Representatives from this area should force the state to take a long, hard look at its own logic. When I'm elected to the State Assembly I will channel my efforts and force the state powers in Hartford to view Enfield not as a distant Northern cousin, but as an important component in the

Police Chief Issues Halloween Suggestions

"Parents should keep their children in their own neighborhoods and not allow them to stray or roam into strange areas while trick or treating. Halloween night," said Police Chief Walter Skower.

"Also," he suggested, "parents should keep their front house lights on for the safety of the children and should accompany small children on their rounds."

He also suggested that for the safety of the children, parents should see that their children are dressed in light colored costumes or clothing which can be easily seen.

"Instruct the children," said the chief, "to stay on sidewalks and to avoid walking on lawns, especially in an unfamiliar area where unknown obstacles might be."

Chief Skower said the Police Dept. will be out in full force on both tomorrow and Saturday night for the safety of the community.

He advised that someone be left at home to protect the property from vandals.

Town Seeks Snow Plowing Bidders

Interested parties should contact the Public Works Department, Town of Enfield, prior to Nov. 8.

NEXT TUESDAY YOU CAN JOIN THE FIGHT TO SAVE CONNECTICUT.

You can make Tom Meskill our next governor. He has the character and courage to solve the problems that are strangling our state.

He has the youth, the vigor—the independence.

His only commitments are to you—and the future.

When he began campaigning back in the heat of the summer the politicians claimed he didn't have a chance. Then he won the first primary in our state's history. The "experts" may have been against him but the people were for him.

Now the Democrat machine is worried. They're afraid that their 16-year control of Connecticut may end next Tuesday.

They're right to be scared. As people listen to Tom Meskill, they like him and his ideas. And by now everyone—the machine politicians that are against him and the people that are for him—know there'll be a lot of changes if Tom Meskill makes it.

He'll wage a war against government spending. He'll slash the fat away and fight a state income tax. He'll step up our efforts to smash drug traffic. He'll battle organized crime. He'll stop the rape of our environment.

If he's elected.

And that's up to you.

OBJECTS TO SUPPORTING ANARCHISTS

Dear Editor:

Your column by Joe Crump, "Low Down" has hit a new low today! It is UNBELIEVABLE, that Sen. Stephen Young of Ohio would ask the taxpayers to pay out $7 million to the traitors and their families who DEPENDED the government of the United States on the Kent State campus!

If they want money, they could sue Kent U. for not keeping order on campus, but they would probably lose, because they had defied the orders of the U. administration, which I think would absolve both the university and the people of this country.

Let's get a few things straight here. Rioting and burning had been going on for several days at Kent, and the anarchists posing as "students" had already defied and disobeyed the school administration, the local police and the state police! They had also defied US, the PEOPLE of the United States, because they disobeyed the laws in our Constitution. These laws must be obeyed by all of us individually but are often broken by militant mobs at universities.

The student who graduates from high school and goes right to work becomes an adult immediately, with adult responsibilities. He pays taxes, and must obey all Constitutional laws, and all state and local laws. If, however, he does not go to work, but goes to college, he can join a mob of anarchists and do away with ALL LAW as far as he is concerned! This the students at Kent had done. If the ringleaders of the riot took cover and let someone else get shot, THEY are responsible. It isn't likely that anyone out there defying the National Guard was very innocent, because they knew how far down the road to lawlessness they had gone, and they did refuse to disperse. There weren't any reports of any students being shot in their classrooms, you will notice!

When a campus is under martial law, it means that the residents of the area are terrified of this infestation of out-of-state radicals and barbarians, and barbarians, and that they need protection. The National Guard is maintained by US, for our protection against the enemy. The public must understand that not all the people at state universities are bona fide students. Some don't study anything. They are enemy agents, anarchists, or just plain no-good burns who have found the campus a good place to carry on their criminal activities. One university in South America became so infested with armed criminals that the government had to send TANKS onto the campus.

All local law had broken down at Kent, and martial law was declared. This meant that the military had been needed to control these hard-core radicals. National Guard jeeps toured the area, ordering through a bullhorn that the anarchists and students must DISPERSE! The students chose to defy the State of Ohio and the government of the United States. Even tear gas didn't disperse them. Must American soldiers stand there unarmed while the enemies of our country infest our colleges and hurl obscenities, rocks and bottles at our fine boys? NO!

I am writing my two senators that I hope they vote against any bills authorizing robbing us further to promote anarchy. It's bad enough that we must build and support state universities, lend money for an "education" to the enemies of our country, who refuse to take a loyalty oath, and put up with their burning and destroying our property. I think the offenders should be sued for damages to property though, and to get back the money spent for extra police and National Guard protection.

based on a per capita average figure of 61 pounds per year. If the present trend continues, the per capita figure will reach 89 pounds per year by the end of this decade. Taking into consideration the projected population increase, that would mean 331,550,000 pounds in Connecticut in 1980. Obviously, public attitudes and habits have to be changed if we are to escape burying ourselves under our own discards. The know-how exists. It's a case of applying it 365 days a year in every community.

2. An "Operation Better Block" program in low-income areas to encourage — and if feasible, aid with seed money — cooperative efforts involving physical improvements of housing, conservation of empty buildings and lots into recreational facilities, planting of trees. This is not the answer to all urban ills, but where it has been tried it has proved definitely to be a step in the right direction.

3. Downtown planting programs with proper provision made for care and maintenance. Constitution Plaza in Hartford is one of the nation's outstanding examples of how plantings, properly cared for, can add beauty to any area. But, unfortunately, the Constitution Plazas are in the minority on this score. A survey of plantings put in by various types of business establishments in Connecticut showed weeds to be prevalent in 56 per cent of them. This was true to such an extent in some cases that it was difficult to tell the shrubs from the weeds. Plantings can do wonders for any block IF they aren't neglected once they are put in.

4. Street furniture improvement. It is not unusual to find a city block with 25 separate items cluttering the sidewalks. Stanchions, parking meters, fire hydrants, signs of various types, benches, call boxes, signal boxes — these are just examples. Authoritative city planners agree that there is great need for uncluttering the clutter. New Haven has demonstrated that one effective way to do this is to consolidate items and functions. It is also possible to find street furniture painted in nine different colors, all clashing. The United States Post Office, with its new "Mailbox Blue," is setting an example for others to follow. Tasteful coordination of color could do much for most downtown sections of Connecticut.

5. Storefront spruce up. There is a new "Colmid Formula" that is being hailed as a major contribution to the community beautification movement. It shows that effective use of color forms of visual improvement. There are entirely new concepts of basic and accent colors. Their use can bring a transformation to the appearance of any commercial block.

6. Parking lot spruce up. A survey has shown that 49 per cent of the parking lots in Connecticut — commercial and municipal — are chronically dirty. The same survey showed that only 45 per cent of the lots had plantings, and only eight per cent had done anything about attractive fencing.

7. Vacant lot conversion. Industry holds more of a key than money to transforming eyesore vacant lots in gardens, mini parks or miniparkways.

8. A school yard garden program. Gardens planned, planted and maintained by children themselves have proved valuable in developing among children an appreciation of horticulture and respect for the land, even to a point of reducing vandalism. Relatively few school systems have such garden programs. Yet, at Earth Day sessions last spring, having a garden in the school yard turned out to be one of the projects in which children showed the greatest interest.

9. Neighborhood improvement

A center such as this would be designed as an alternative to hospitalization, which has become increasingly expensive. It would be required to handle emergencies on a 24-hour basis, and would provide complete outpatient care including periodic health check-ups, diagnostic testing and treatment. A community-wide health education program could become a significant part of the Center's services.

Coates stressed the following advantages of a Regional Health Care Center: lower costs to families, reduction of long trips to medical facilities in Hartford and Springfield, greater attraction for new doctors to locate in our area and increased availability of local physicians resulting from less demand for house calls.

Coates agrees with Draghi, that legislation could be proposed which would allow towns in this area to obtain low interest loans from the state.

Patient charges for services at the facility would be set up to provide adequate funds for repaying the loans and maintaining a break-even operating basis.

The problem of obtaining medical services of high quality by all who need them at prices they can afford clearly exists — it is obvious that new approaches such as this must be considered, concluded Coates.

state of Connecticut. I oppose the construction of a jail in the Enfield area."

In keeping with the state's attitude regarding Enfield, Nigro went on to suggest that the question of education was an important plank in his political platform. "We need quality education now," suggested Nigro. "The hard fact of the matter is that no town including Enfield, can have quality education unless more money for education and educational facilities come back to Enfield from the state and federal government. Enfield needs a community college. We are told that we have received a community college. Good. Now let's begin construction on the C.C. The state should allocate the necessary funds and begin construction now on Enfield's Community College."

The Enfield Press noted that another issue that deserves consideration from the town's representative is a question of recreational facilities. Nigro replies that Enfield isn't a little town any more. "Enfield's a growing city. We need the kind of systematic planning that provides all people of all ages with adequate recreational facilities right here — not 5 or 10 miles from here. That means a new state park, preservation of our beautiful scenery, hiking trails, and programs for many age levels and interests.

"Recently I've been knocking on many doors in the 44th District talking to people. During the course of our conversations, parents told me that recreational parks were either too far for their children or just totally unavailable. I feel that state aid and far-sighted total planning can remedy this situation. A complete program that makes sense financially, culturally and ecologically can be inaugurated as a program here in Enfield."

This reporter asked Nigro about issues such as housing, drugs, pollution and pediatric centers. Nigro talked in length and depth about these issues and

When asked if he enjoyed the campaign for the state assembly seat, Nigro said that it has been one of the most rewarding experiences of his life. "During my door to door campaign throughout the 44th District people received my campaign aids and me very cordially. Experiences like this reaffirms my basic belief in people. When told the truth, people recognize the truth and treat the truth-teller well."

Nigro suggested that he thoroughly found his campaign enjoyable.

Dave Fredrick, Nigro's campaign manager, said that the campaign was well-organized. "The legions of volunteers who called either Sam or me suggested that they wanted to help in the campaign made the job of coordinating the campaign easy. "I hope that I'm not being too premature what with election day being days away," said Frederick, "but this campaign has been a model of high ethics. Mudslinging and name-calling were unheard of in this campaign. It has been a successful campaign."

Nigro concluded the interview by saying that the election day is next Tuesday, Nov. 3. Nigro requested that the voters of Enfield get to the polls on election day.

SAYS DODD INEFFECTIVE AS INDEPENDENT

Dear Editor:

With election day nearly here, we in Connecticut must make a decision whether to seek political power through unity in an organized party or to disarray our power and vote for an independent candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Many of us who in the past have supported Sen. Dodd come up with seemingly sound reasons to continue this support. However, since Mr. Dodd refused to seek the nomination for his office in an organized, political party, I feel he is no longer worthy of any support.

On the American political scene (full of flaws as it is), there is one thing that works. That is the two-party system. A multi-party system, such as one composed of independent candidates, constitutes no real power in our government, and, worse, tends to damage reasonable unified political action.

In the past decade, governments all over the world were pulled down by splinter groups with very narrow viewpoints as to how governments should be formed.

In the coming election, as far as our U.S. Senate seat is concerned, we in Connecticut can elect a Senator with a popular mandate to represent us, or, we can have a Senator who will be lucky enough to benefit by votes tossed to a man who cannot win.

In our system of checks and balances, the best way to maintain a true check and balance on our over-blown bureaucracies, is through a strong two-party system.

In most cases, an independent candidate is one who cannot get along in any organized party. What success can he guarantee us in an organization as sophisticated as the U.S. Senate?

SUGGESTS THEY JOIN VIET CONG

Dear Editor:

In regards to recent news coverage concerning two UConn law students and their right to display a Viet Cong flag in protest to Vice President Spiro Agnew's visit to Hartford I would like to make the just this one comment:

If they like this flag so much, why don't they join the Cong over in Vietnam and carry it for THEM?

FED UP

(Editor's Note: We might add that we are in favor of letting anyone carry any flag he or she wishes. It pinpoints our enemies.)

ALTOBELLO WON'T SUPPORT DUFFEY

Dear Editor:

A short time ago a major news story stated that Mr. Altobello, Secretary of the State Central Committee will not support Joe Duffey in his race for the U.S. Senate. This is encouraging — six months ago it was news when someone supported Joe Duffey. Now it's news when someone doesn't support Joe Duffey. This is progress.

Haven Says Youth Supports Duffey

According to a statement by Robert Haven, chairman of Enfield Independents for Duffey, approximately 68% of the homes of the 4,000 registered Independents in Enfield have been visited to date. "We hope to wind up this phase of the campaign for United States Senator by this weekend," said Haven.

"Time will just not permit us to return where no one was at home. However, literature was left at each home outlining Joe Duffey's position on various issues," said Haven. "I encourage anyone to call me at 745-3846 who has any questions or suggestions. This has been one of the most intensive efforts in Enfield at any election to bring a candidates views before this group of voters and to solicit their opinions on the various issues," continued Haven. "This is in contrast to the typical approach these days which seems to rely entirely on posters, stickers and 30-second bits on TV. We think this is an insult to the intelligence of the voters."

"A very preliminary return seems to show one surprise," Haven said. "Duffey's support for a summer job program for youth to channel their enthusiasm and ideals into constructive environmental projects such as town beautification, creation of parks, and the Seantic River Project by the Enfield ecology group LIFE, seems to have generated more interest than we expected. It wasn't as well known," said Haven, "but Duffey also wants to draw on the talents of retired citizens to give assistance and direction to the program."

Haven continued, "One voter's comment that 'while some politicians talk about unifying the people, Joe Duffey really works at it,' was repeated in various ways by quite a few contacted."

Haven concluded, "We are still in need of more volunteers for the closing days of the campaign."

Koseian Pleased Over Fund Drive

John Koseian, chairman of the Republican Town Committee, said the fund drive for the November election is off to a good start and individual gifts for specific purposes were accepted.

"The ads appearing in last week's and this week's local papers were paid for by individual donations, especially to reprint a state flyer on taxes. The donations came from the independents and registered Democrats and Republicans of independent thinking," Koseian commented.

"This is the first time that the campaign fund has been helped in this way and I am greatly encouraged with citizens who make this kind of contribution to the party," he said.

"Running for political office is an expensive proposition for any candidate and each candidate needs financial backing. I am personally grateful to those families who wish to push the whole team by sponsoring ads asking people to look to the issues in this most important state contest," said Koseian.

KNOW THE SCORE ON EDUCATION
DADDARIO vs. MESKILL ON EDUCATION

The National Education Association gave Democratic Mim Daddario a PERFECT score of nine correct votes on nine key education bills during the 90th and 91st sessions of Congress.

On the other hand, the Republican candidate for Governor voted AGAINST aid to education on five out of nine key votes. The National Education Association rated his record the WORST of any Connecticut Congressman, and one of the WORST in Congress.

1. HEALTH, EDUCATION AND WELFARE - MIM DADDARIO VOTED TO PROVIDE $19.7 BILLION for aid to education, medical care and other NEW programs despite the President's veto. (H.R. 13111), 1/28/70	MESKILL VOTED TO SUSTAIN THE VETO OF THESE VITALLY NEEDED FUNDS.
2. A bill was introduced to allow the President to REDUCE funds for elementary and secondary education, vocational training and student loans. (H.R. 15931, 2/19/70) MIM DADDARIO voted against this bill in order to prevent reduction of these funds.	MESKILL VOTED FOR THIS BILL AND THUS VOTED AGAINST EDUCATION.
3. HEAD START-A bill was introduced to VIRTUALLY ELIMINATE the Head Start program by CUTTING out 80% of its funds for FY1968. (H.R. 17334, 7/2/68)	MESKILL VOTED TO REDUCE HEAD START FUNDING BY 80%.
4. TEACHER TRAINING-MIM DADDARIO voted to INCREASE teacher training funds by $46.9 million. (H.R. 18037, 6/26/68)	MESKILL CHOSE THIS OCCASION TO BE ABSENT.
5. ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION-A bill was introduced to reduce the duration of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act from 5 years to 2 years and restrict the variety of programs eligible for Federal Aid under the Act. (H.R. 514, 4/23/68) MIM DADDARIO voted against this bill in order to maintain these programs.	MESKILL VOTED TO CUT THE LIFE OF THE ACT FROM 5 YEARS TO 2 YEARS.

During the last Republican Administration in the State of Connecticut, no provision was made for the addition of a single student in our Institutions of Higher Education.

On the other hand, during the past eight years under Governor Dempsey's leadership we have seen:

- The enrollment in our institutions of higher learning increase over 200%;
- The expansion of our State University system from 3,000 students to 8,000 students;
- The creation of an entirely new system of community colleges and technical colleges;
- And the institution of the Student Loan Program, which has provided over .5 million during the past five years to some 31,000 Connecticut students.

Sights On Safety

by UL Public Information Office
A-B-C-D Spells Fire

That's right, anyway you look at it, A-B-C-D does spell fire because today all fires are placed in one of those four classifications.

What is a Class A Fire?

Basically, it is one involving ordinary combustibles such as wood, cloth, paper, rubber and some plastics.

What is a Class B Fire?

Such fires involve flammable or combustible liquids, flammable gases, greases and similar materials.

What is a Class C Fire?

Fires of this nature involve energized electrical equipment.

What is a Class D Fire?

Pertains to those involving certain combustible metals such as magnesium, sodium, potassium, etc.

Why classify a fire?

Because as man and his technology progressed, he began to be confronted with a variety of fires, many of which could no longer be contained by the primary extinguishing agent known as water.

What are the other extinguishing agents?

Dry Chemicals, Carbon Dioxide, Dry Powders and Foams.

What means is used to employ these agents?

Many. However, you should be concerned with the portable fire extinguisher which is often referred to as "the first line of defense" against fire.

On which fires is Water used and why?

Class A only. Because it is a cooling, soaking and penetrating agent.

On which fires is Dry Chemical used and why?

Class B and C for a regular Dry Chemical extinguisher; however, there is a Multi-Purpose Dry Chemical with which you would be more concerned and this can be used on Class A, B and C fires. Because it is a flame interrupting and, in some cases, cooling agent.

On which fires is Carbon Dioxide used and why?

Class B and Class C. Because it cuts off air and leaves no residue.

On which fires is Foam used and why?

Class A and Class B. Because it is a smothering and blanketing agent.

On which fires is Dry Powder used and why?

Class D only. Because it is a smothering and coating agent.

How do you know which extinguisher to use?

Every one is prominently marked as to its type and the class or classes of fires upon which it can be used.

Does Underwriters' Laboratories test extinguishers?

Yes, they are primarily tested for their ability to operate when needed, but they are also rated for their efficiency. Look for the UL label on the extinguisher.

Remember, know your extinguishers and the fires upon which they can be used. It's all on the label, so read it well before the fire strikes; there won't be time later.

Look what Congressman Weicker has done.

Narcotics

Lowell Weicker believes drugs are our biggest single problem. Two years ago he said nail the drug pushers to the wall and build local rehabilitation centers for our addicts. Two weeks ago, Congress did just that. Drugs will continue as his first priority in the Senate.

Crime in the Streets

Lowell Weicker says that our streets must be made safe. He introduced legislation in Congress to provide federal funds to strengthen local police forces; he voted for the Anti-Crime Bill that hits at organized crime, and he wrote the Weicker Amendment which replaces slums with decent housing.

Pollution

Lowell Weicker says we must make our air and water clean again. He wrote an amendment that put increased federal funds into building more water pollution control systems. He has worked hard for enforcement of anti-pollution laws. He'll continue the fight as Senator.

Railroads

Lowell Weicker said our whole transportation system must be overhauled! Urban Mass Transit, high speed railroad, turbo trains, Railpax and railroad safety all came into being and were supported by him during his first term in Congress.

The Suffield League of Women Voters is strongly supporting the amendment calling for annual sessions which requires the state Legislature to meet each year instead of the biennial sessions now held. In some circles it is popular to "put down" the United Nations because, like all human institutions, it has not lived up to its promise. But what of the cluster of UN social agencies that work quietly, year in and year out, away from the political spotlight, to further the cause of world peace and understanding?

On Saturday, Oct. 31 several million American youngsters, including a sizable number from Suffield, will be out to remind us of one of them — the UN Children's Fund. They'll ring our doorbells, here and in more than 13,000 other communities across the land, to "Trick or Treat for UNICEF." In today's world climate, we will do well to answer their ring, and drop a few coins in their small orange collection boxes.

What can UNICEF do with these coins? Would you believe that last year's Halloween collection of pennies, nickels and dimes added up to $3¼ million here in the U.S. This year our young Trick or Treaters hope to increase to celebrate the 21st anniversary of that first small collection of $17 by a group in Philadelphia.

Even $3¼ million may seem significant to meet the needs of 900 million children of the developing countries, where per capita incomes of as little as $50 a year make proper food and medical care impossible. But it's a start and UNICEF has learned to make the Halloween coins go a long way.

For example a single penny can provide the vaccine to protect a Moroccan child against tuberculosis. For a nickel, UNICEF can buy a ball point pen for a school child in Guatemala; and $2 from a Trick or Treaters' collection box can buy tools for a community vegetable garden in the Philippines.

UNICEF operates on a self-help basis. Its aid is offered in the form of equipment, supplies and training grants — never in cash — and the assisted countries contribute from their own scant resources an average of $2.50 in locally available supplies and personnel for every dollar's worth of UNICEF materials.

Health services demand the largest proportion of UNICEF's resources, ranging from mid-wife training to environmental sanitation and water supply systems. Increased awareness of the damaging effects of malnutrition on young children has led UNICEF to aid in the development of high-protein, low-cost food supplements, milk conservation plants and school nutrition programs.

Another expanding area of UNICEF assistance is the education of increasing numbers of children to higher achievement standards. An important aspect is developing educational programs relevant to community needs, including training of vocational teachers. In many developing countries, particularly in Latin America, urban problems have intensified with the migration of young people to the cities. UNICEF helps there with family counseling and youth activity programs.

In Suffield the UNICEF Trick or Treaters are again sponsored by the Suffield Council of Churches, with assistance this year from Spaulding School.

Principal Edwin Humphrey informed the Council that children in grades 3, 4 and 5 in the school will also be collecting for UNICEF.

Because of the great need for UNICEF, the Council of Churches welcomes Spaulding School collecting for UNICEF also, and asks that townspeople be twice as generous in their contributions.

Halloween Parade

The sixth annual Halloween parade sponsored by the Suffield Jaycees will begin Friday, Oct. 30 at 7 p.m. Starting at the Town Hall the parade will proceed to the McAlister Middle School gym.

All local children through the fifth grade are invited to compete for costume prizes in categories of most original, funniest, cutest and spookiest. Ice cream and candy will be served to all participants.

Sneakers must be worn in the gym. In case of inclement weather, paraders will meet in the gym at 7 p.m.

Sewer Study Authorized

The Sewer Commission has been authorized by the town's Executive Council, composed of the chairmen of all the town government boards and commissions, to conduct a "priority study" of sewer needs in Suffield. The Board of Finance has authorized a grant to pay for the study.

A spokesman said the Sewer Commission is working with the members of Harvard's Environmental Engineering Department in conducting the study.

A telephone survey of the town to gauge public opinion is an important part of the study. One sixth of the phone numbers in the local directory are being picked at random for the survey.

What is described as the "systems approach" is being used in the survey, because a survey of sewer needs include the effects of sewers on population growth, transportation and education.

The Sewer Commission is seeking the cooperation of the townspeople called in the telephone survey. Answering is voluntary and can be anonymous, but the answers could be helpful in providing a new approach to a lot of problems, the commission said.

Publication of a full report on the study is set for just before Christmas. It will be distributed then to the commissions who are most involved in the survey and also in implementing any recommendations made as result of the survey. A summary report will then go to every family in town.

Mrs. Howard Edward Kayan
Tetrault-Kayan

On Friday evening, Oct. 23, Miss Bernadette Marie Tetrault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tetrault of Old Springfield Rd., West Stafford, became the bride of Howard Edward Kayan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kayan, Hickory Hill Dr., Somers. The Rev. Bernard McGurk officiated at the 6 o'clock Mass. The commentator was the bride's uncle, Brother Alfred Tetrault of Our Lady of LaSalette Shrine of Ipswich, Mass.

The bride wore a floor length gown of de-lustered satin trimmed with lace and blue ribbon. Full sleeves of sheer silk organza were trimmed with lace and blue ribbon, with wide buttoned cuffs. Her veil of silk illusion was fastened to a crown of white chrysanthemums. She carried a bouquet of white roses and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Felicia Tetrault, niece of the bride, was the maid of honor. Mrs. Robert Branagan of Medfield, Mass., and Mrs. Theodore Sibilia of Springfield, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The best man was Mr. Fredrick Fisher of Pomfret. Anthony Navikonis and David Mickulski of Somers ushered.

Her attendants wore floor length gowns of blue antique satin. The maid of honor's gown was fashioned with short puff sleeves, while the bridesmaids' gowns had full long sleeves with wide buttoned cuffs. All attendants carried colonial bouquets of blue, white and yellow chrysanthemums and wore wreaths of the same.

A dinner and reception followed at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Somers.

Mrs. Kayan is a graduate of Stafford High School and Central Connecticut State College. She is presently teaching at the Middle School in Vernon, Conn. Mr. Kayan graduated from the Somers High School and received his Associate Degree in Engineering from Hartford State Technical Institute. He is presently associated with A & M Automotives in Somers.

Following a wedding trip north, the newlyweds will make their home in Tolland, Conn.

Health Recommendations

At a recent meeting, School Superintendent Arthur Ouillette read a report from the school nurse, Mrs. Leonard Lakonski, saying the tuberculosis tests should be given to teachers and students on a yearly basis rather than every third year.

Mrs. Lakonski also believed physical examinations of students should start in kindergarten rather than the first grade.

School Make-Up Dates

The Board of Education has designated Nov. 14 and Dec. 24 at make-up days for students who had not attended school during the recent strike.

Author J. Ouillette, superintendent of schools said at a recent meeting he did not recommend Nov. 14 as a make-up date because it is a Saturday. However, the board chose the 14th over the Friday after Thanksgiving.

Alternatives for the remaining six make-up days are being presented to junior and senior high school teachers, students, and parents for consideration but the board will make the final decision.

The first alternative would be using three days of the Christmas vacation Dec. 29, 30 and 31 and three of the spring vacation April 5, 6 and 7.

Another alternative would be the same days in December, but adding half days at the end of school, June 21, 22 and 23. The remaining alternative is leaving the Christmas vacation intact and making up days in the April and June vacations as listed above.

The board said it one of the alternatives was using June, was choosing there was a possibility that the high school could remain open during snow days and cut some of the June days.

However, considering inclement weather, bus drivers, and teachers, Mr. Ouillette said we will see what happens when the time comes.

Drug Program

On Nov. 4 at 8 p.m., James E. O'Brien, Ph.D., M.D., Chief of the Dept. of Clinical Pharmacology and Therapeutics at St. Francis Hospital in Hartford, will speak on drugs. One of three programs that the Drug Education Committee has planned for the public, this session will deal with the definition of drugs, drug activities and dosages as well as human physiology and how it is affected by drugs. United Nations Day Ceremonies Held At Town Hall

Commemorative United Nations Day ceremonies were held at the Town Hall last Friday. The program was compiled by the International Relations Club of Enfield High School and Our Lady of Angels Academy. Directed by Marge Matuck and assisted by Mrs. Helen Brill, the ceremonies stressed the character of the United Nations as an institution and world organization that is "getting stronger all the time" and more effective in securing peace and the acknowledgement of human rights throughout the world. Pictured in the far left are two guitarists, Mariette Zucchi and Susan McWha, playing "Last Night I Had The Strangest Dream," a folk song concerning peace for all men; in the left center photo a student explains the meaning of the United Nations flag. Its coloring and design symbolize peace (as represented by the olive wreath), purity (in the white coloring of the map of the world), and universality (in the blue background representing the sky which surrounds the earth). The center photo shows Enfield High School students appropriately dressed in a costume of the country they have chosen to represent. In the far right, students from

Our Lady of Angels hold a banner especially made for the occasion. The students shown include: Barbara Dowden, Michelle Brown, Audrey Leppanen, Denise Belanger, Joan Grigley, and Mary Ellen Hutchinson.

New Director Of Nursing

Mrs. Winifred L. Hayes, of 50 Bass Dr., former Director of Nursing at Rockville Hospital, was recently named Director of Nursing at the Middlesex Memorial Hospital in Middletown. She succeeded Miss Ona M. Wilcox, former Director who announced her voluntary retirement after more than 45 years in the Nursing Dept., including 27 years as Director of Nursing. A graduate of St. Mary's School of Nursing in Brooklyn, as a Registered Nurse in 1943, Mrs. Hayes received her Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing at St. John's University and has attended Springfield College for post-graduate studies. Mrs. Hayes began her nursing career as a staff nurse at Wesson Hospital in Springfield. Her extensive experience includes industrial, military and hospital nursing with periods of duty as head nurse at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburg, N.Y., two years as head nurse in eye surgery, orthopedic and psychiatric nursing with the U.S. Navy Nurse Corps, Night Supervisor at St. Mary's Hospital, in Brooklyn, and an Instructor in Fundamentals in Nursing at Springfield Hospital. For 15 months she served as co-director of Nursing Education at Mercy Hospital in Springfield, and from 1950-55, she was employed as acting Assistant Chief of Nursing Education at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Northampton, Mass. For five years she worked as Director of Nursing Education at the Mental Health Institute in Iowa. She resides at Bass Dr., with her husband and two children.

Gloria Schaffer Visits

Gloria Schaffer, Democratic nominee for Secretary of State, visited the Press offices last Thursday during her northern Connecticut campaign swing. Known throughout the state as a promoter of educational advancement, Gloria Schaffer has devoted more than ten years of legislative service toward improving teaching techniques and schools. During her visit to the Press, vivacious Gloria Schaffer spoke openly on current news subjects. An exciting Democratic challenger for the office of Secretary of State, Gloria Schaffer is not looking for equal rights in a "women's liberation" style protest for equality. Instead she has qualified herself for a man's world. Her personality and conscientiousness has won her respect and welcome entrance into a man's world.

A native of New London, presently living in Woodbridge, Gloria Schaffer is familiar with all urban and suburban school situations. Her own education at Sarah Lawrence has further enhanced her acumen in advancing every area of education at both state and local levels. Her pervasive manner and broad understanding of political science have contributed to her outstanding record in public service. A personality gal, well known as a panelist on the popular television show "What In The World," Gloria Schaffer is presently completing her sixth term as State Senator from the 14th Senatorial District. Witty and well-versed, she expresses her views on a variety of subjects; progress in education as well as other fields produces multiple results. Not only does the learning process expand and become more comprehensive but every facet of the educational field benefits; seemingly far-reaching innovations, such as the use of video-tape in the classroom, aid not only the student's diction and public speaking ability but adds considerably to his self-confidence and knowledge of the subject matter with which he is dealing. Local school systems can effectively reach state attention through concentrated efforts of active and interested people.

As Gloria Schaffer herself demonstrates, proper application of a person's own views and talents can be effectively implemented if properly presented and avidly followed-up. Even "women's lib" can have an effective voice provided it is channeled through rational, concrete action toward progress. Betterments and innovations must at all times be treated in terms of the local situation in which the action would eventually effect. Substantial knowledge and constant, consistent action can be effective. Gloria Schaffer professes this and is an example of this. Her involvement in education and politics testifies to her attitude and views. She is a representative to the White House Conference on Education, a member of the Senate committees on appropriations, rules and human rights; vice chairman of the Northeast Commission on Federal and Intergovernmental Relations; a member of the State Federal National Education Commission of the States; representative to the National Board of Managers of Council of State Governments. In addition, Gloria Schaffer has served as chairman of the Corrections Committee and as chairman of the Public Welfare and Humane Institutions Committee. A most charming and knowledgeable woman, Gloria Schaffer is certainly a credit to the 14th Senatorial District and to the state.

Glowing Tributes Paid To Retired Press Social Editor At Testimonial

by E. A. MOKUS

Laudatory and numerous tributes were paid to Mrs. Beatrice Parsons, recently retired Social Editor of the Enfield Press at a farewell testimonial in her honor at the Mountain Laurel last Saturday night.

Some 65 friends, relatives and fellow-employees, past and present, came from near and far to gather in the Fireside Room of the restaurant to see "Bea," as she is affectionately known, off on her long-overdue retirement.

The program commenced with a champagne toast to the 75-year-old veteran journalist's continued good health by the evening's master of ceremonies, E. Payson Smith, Editor and Publisher of the Enfield Press. He spoke of her many and invaluable contributions as Social Editor, both during his ownership of the widely-read weekly newspaper and during its ownership by William Breisky. Smith recalled the time, a few weeks ago, when Bea announced her forthcoming resignation and retirement, saying, "It was unbelievable and I was astounded." Prior to her announcement, he said he believed she would "go on forever."

Following an introduction of the members of the head table, Smith presented Mrs. Parsons with a Certificate of Appreciation for her "long and dedicated service to the community in the best journalistic traditions."

Mrs. Thomas Walton, Press office manager, was called upon to read a letter from former Press publisher Breisky, now manager of the Bermuda Tourist Bureau. The letter mentioned many of Bea's writings as well as recalled several amusing incidents in which the affable woman was involved. Councilman Harold Cadieux, on behalf of the Town of Enfield, read a citation, signed by Mayor Frank Mancuso, commending Mrs. Parsons for her many years of faithful service to the community as editor of "Women's World."

Mrs. Parsons, who has been a 15-year member of the Springfield Soroptimist's Club, was presented a life membership to the club by its president, Mrs. Charles E. Hartfield. Many fellow club members attended the testimonial.

Following the presentation of awards and gifts to Mrs. Parsons, the master of ceremonies asked those in attendance if any of them desired to address Mrs. Parsons publicly. Some did. Others preferred to convey their good wishes privately. Among the public speakers was a former fellow employee, now a local newspaper bureau chief, who reminisced with Mrs. Parsons. Another was a former News Editor who came from Rhode Island to speak and bid farewell to Bea. His farewell was touching. Also attending the testimonial dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Prowse, Bea's brother and sister-in-law who came here from Boston and Mr. Donn Parsons, Bea's son and daughter, Lynn, who travelled from Jacksonville, Florida, to attend the testimonial.

Although the Mountain Laurel testimonial dinner was almost a surprise to Mrs. Parsons, a better-kept secret and surprise party was held in her honor by her fellow employees Friday afternoon in the pressroom on Church St. Many toasts were made to her by her constituents and a memorable time was had by all.

Attesting to her many admirers is the fact that she was the recipient of many bouquets, cards and gifts which poured in to the Press office since announcement of her retirement.

Mrs. Parsons, who formerly lived at 22 Elmshade Way, in Springfield, has relocated to 4110 Pittman Drive, Jacksonville, Fla. 32207.

As E. Payson Smith stated in his laudation of her in the Oct. 1st issue of the Enfield Press, we will miss "The Indispensable Bea."

Chickosky-Ciccirella

25 years of hard labor for $1780*

This year, everybody's introducing a new economy car.

"Volkswagen-sized."

"Volkswagen-priced."

So not to be outdone, we've done the same.

Except, of course, we didn't have to start from scratch.

For years, while everybody else has been jumping from model to model and worrying about looks, we've stuck with our original and improved the way it works.

And so today, while ours may not look like the newest economy car, it's the most developed.

It's the only one with a sealed steel bottom. To protect its insides against just about everything outside, including time.

The only one with an air-cooled magnesium-alloy engine. To eliminate boiling over and freezing up.

And the only one with a free electronic diagnostic system. To spot problems early and help extend its life.

Best of all, compared to all the new domestic "Volkswagen-priced" cars introduced this year, ours costs about $200 less.

So even if it doesn't look the newest, maybe now it looks the best.

VOTE DEMOCRATIC NOVEMBER 3rd

Guest speaker Joseph Randazzo interrupts his conversation with Stowe first grade teacher Mrs. Mary Bain, for the photographer.

Are We Teaching Properly?

by Grace S. Spencer

"Are we educating our children for these times?" "Are the schools relevant to what is happening in our world?" "If not, perhaps now is the time to make waves in education." These are the opening thoughts that were meant to challenge the minds of persons attending last week's Harriet Beecher Stowe PTA meeting. Joseph Randazzo, director of Early Childhood programming for the city of Hartford, was the speaker heard by an Enfield audience marked with education notables of our community.

William McWha, chairman of the Board of Education, was present as were Louis Mager, assistant superintendent and Miss Carol Schlossstein, elementary supervisor. School principals included Robert Griffin of Mark Twain; Richard King of Nathan Hale; Carmen Scavotto, Enfield Street Elementary; Dennis Balsewicz, Prudence Crandall and William Kennedy of hosting Stowe school.

Randazzo cited school areas throughout the country now piloting programs in the Activity Centered Program concept.

Although introduced as a new theory of education, Randazzo claims it is a curriculum long desired by many educators. It is in part credited to Maria Montessori who founded a school system of these ideas over 80 years ago.

Some schools being organized by parents out of need to offer children a new product, have proved chaotic in results. However, properly structured, a good program could better prepare our children to live, change, and maintain a world they will face and about which we know nothing. "Education alone can do this through government, law, organization and religion."

Schools, once the center of exciting learning experiences for students, have now changed places with a more exciting world of television, space exploration and other outside occurrences. Perhaps educators have only been giving lip service to programs being offered. Perhaps it is time to invite the community into the schools. Randazzo claims: "The schools are as good as parents allow them to be."

"Perhaps the activity centered concept is not the answer, but it could be one answer." Randazzo went on to raise some questions regarding today's classroom methods:

I.Q. tests, given early in a child's school life, impose a limit on his learning and are really based on a middle class norm with no adjustments for environment or other determining factors.

Children are reared in a "reward and punishment" system rather than being encouraged to learn for the joy of learning — example: report cards.

Are our schools fact-oriented or process-oriented? Do we place too much emphasis on techniques? England now has "integrated schools" meaning all subjects are taught together.

Homework, used as a discipline for the mind, is usually a repeat of what the child has done in school all day.

Although children learn best by seeing and handling objects, our teaching is in the abstract rather than moving from the concrete to the abstract.

Young children sometimes learn best from older children, yet all our students are grouped by age, regardless of individual maturity.

Girls mature more quickly than boys, yet again grades are structured by age.

Freshman at Bryant

Irene Grischnik of Lake Road is enrolled as a freshman majoring in secretarial science at Bryant McIntosh Junior College, Lawrence, Mass. A co-educational junior college, located 45 minutes north of Boston, offers associate degrees with an optional cooperative education system, whereby students alternate 12-week periods of classroom study and paid work experiences in a two-and-a-half plan. Graduates may transfer into their third year of a university or college.

Bob Tracy and Joan Goodrow, seen above, are reunited in "Harvey," to be presented by the Enfield Stage Co. Nov. 20-21.

Enfield Stage Enters Third Year

As the Enfield Stage Company enters its third season with "Harvey," Nov. 20 and 21, they find themselves shedding their infancy and becoming an integral and welcome asset to the community. For this they wish to thank the people of Enfield who have supported them from the beginning and all the new friends they have made along the way.

If you were in the audience for the first production "Strange Bedfellows," you must remember the great theatrical combination of Joan Goodrow and Bob Tracey as they portrayed Senator and Mrs. Cromwell. If you missed that show, you will have an opportunity to see them again in "Harvey" as they become Elwood P. Dowd and his sister Veta Louise Simmons.

Bob Tracey has been active in every aspect of little theatre for the past 20 years. He was founder of the Albany Dramatic Group and later its successor, the Albany Civic Theatre in Albany, N. Y. He served ESCO last year as president and during his term made his directorial debut with their very successful production of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolfe?"

Joan Goodrow has made little theatre a "way of life" since her high school days. She was a member of the Green and White Players and the St. Johnsbury Players in Vermont before moving to Connecticut. She joined the Community Players in Hartford before moving to Enfield where she is presently a valued member of both ESCO and the St. Martha's Players.

Maybe it's their years of experience in theatre, maybe it's their individual acting ability, or maybe it's that indefinable "something" that makes their rapport so natural. It's probably the combination of all three, but you can make up your own mind when "Harvey" comes to Enfield on Nov. 20 and 21 at the J. F. Kennedy Junior High School. For ticket information, call Elaine Nason, 749-8688.

(The Savings Bank of Rockville believes in giving you all the information you need to make an intelligent choice about where and how to save your money. Unlike some savings institutions which give you only half-truths, we give you the whole truth so you can compare before you choose.)

fact 1.

The top rate of interest you can earn on savings certificates of less than $100,000 is now 6% a year. All savings institutions can pay this rate by law. But notice that you must keep your money on deposit for 2 years to earn it. In our case, 2-year savings certificates are compounded and paid monthly, from day of deposit. You may get them from $100 up to $50,000. (Minimum deposits elsewhere can be much, much higher.) These very same terms apply to money you keep on deposit for 1 year, with 1-year savings certificates earning 5 3/4%.

fact 2.

You can earn 5 1/4% a year in one of our 90-day Notice Accounts, compounded and paid monthly from day of deposit to day of withdrawal. This type of savings account allows you to deposit any amount you wish at any time—with no minimum amount required to open your account. The only restriction is this: you must give 90 days notice to withdraw.

fact 3.

You can earn 5% a year in one of our Regular Savings Accounts and enjoy complete freedom and flexibility. Start with any amount. Add any amount. Withdraw when you want to. There are no complicated rules to remember. Interest is compounded and paid monthly, from day of deposit to day of withdrawal if $5 stays in the bank.

fact 4.

Each individual savings account is insured up to $20,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

fact 5.

The Savings Bank of Rockville is Tolland County's largest savings bank and, as a mutual savings bank, is organized solely for the benefit of its depositors—there are no stockholders.

We welcome you to stop in at either of our offices and ask all the questions you like. We promise direct and complete answers, as well as professional advice on the savings plan that's best for you.

We also give you an extra incentive for saving with us—Royal Vienna Ware, the remarkable porcelain cookware that goes directly from freezer to oven to table. All pieces are on display and your first piece, a 1 1/2 quart sauce pan, is FREE if you deposit $100 in any form of savings.

Day Care Center Opens

The Enfield Day Care Center opened on Monday, Oct. 26 and will operate five days a week, Monday through Friday, 52 weeks a year between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. Financed through a state grant of $55,000, approved on Oct. 21 and contributions from local organizations and money received from the fees, Mrs. Dorothy Allen, head of the town's Social Services Dept., indicated that the State Dept. of Community Affairs (DCA) has set aside an equal amount of money for next year. The town has matched the DCA appropriation with approximately $46,000 in "in-kind services," including facilities and administrative assistance.

The Day Care Center determines the fees to be paid on the basis of the individual's ability to pay. No parent, however, pays more than what is actually costs to keep his child at the Center. The amount of the fee is whatever part of the "cost fee" a parent can pay.

Located at the Hazardville United Methodist Church, Hazard Ave., the Center is non-sectarian, provides qualified personnel, and complete insurance coverage. To attend the child must be three years old and toilet trained.

The Day Care Center plans three classes of 15 children each under the direction and guidance of a teacher and a teacher's aide. Presently 18 children have been enrolled. Since Day Care Center has capacity for 45 children, it is hoped that more children will join the program. Applicants are admitted on the basis of need.

The program has many experiences and services that will help in a child's development. These include educational programs to take advantage of the child's best learning years, a health program to include medical services, and a nutrition program to provide well-balanced meals. It is important that day care does not become just another single experience in the child's life so parents are included in every part of the program and their co-operation is asked in continuing the program in the home. To assure the good health of each child, the following services are available: medical and dental check ups for all children upon admission; daily health checks of all children by VNA; periodic clinic and immunization programs; psychiatric and child development counseling available to parents and staff.

Mid-morning and mid-afternoon snacks are served. The mid-afternoon snack follows the children's nap. The hot lunch is a nutritionally, well-balanced meal; menus for the week will be posted one week in advance.

A parents group will be formed which will meet during the year to help keep the families informed of the activities and operation of the Center.

Student applications are still available at the Neighborhood Center, Central Library, Social Services Agency, and from the delegates from each church. Applications are open to Enfield residents only and must be returned to: Mrs. Grace Dignam, 133 Pearl St., Enfield. Miss Kimberly Karkos, director, will be available to answer any questions regarding the Day Care Center, 749-0549.

Middle Age Divorces Increase, Psychotherapist Observes

by Alison Goddard

Couples who divorce after 20 years or more of marriage may surprise their friends — but not the experts. In many cases these marriages were in trouble for many years, according to Dr. Albert Ellis, executive director of the Institute for Advanced Study in Rational Psychotherapy.

"The individuals finally got the guts to get a divorce," he said. Earlier, before the divorce many circumstances contribute to keep these marriages intact. "They've usually had problems long before, sometimes almost since the day of marriage. But they felt they had to stay with the marriage, sometimes because of the children, sometimes because of other affairs, sometimes for economic reasons," said Dr. Ellis.

"Now that they're over 40 and the children are sufficiently grown up, the monetary matters may be better. By this age, they've decided, they don't care that much what people — such as their parents — think. They are going to get a divorce, regardless." But often this decision, Dr. Ellis explained, is not due to a "worsening of the marriage so much as a bettering of their own idea of individual freedom."

Sex in Marriage

Statistics show there is a rising divorce rate among middle-aged couples. One psychiatrist who has studied this phenomenon calls it the "Twenty-Year Fracture." While there can be many reasons for the divorce, sexual incompatibility is seldom an important factor, said Dr. Ellis. He finds that sex is "by no means the only, or even necessarily the paramount reason for getting a divorce. People of the previous generation — my own, for example — very often had a very poor sex life in marriage." Now, with the progress made in sex education many of these couples recognize that this was so. Some accept it, others do not. The younger generation, with more permissive attitudes toward premarital sex, will "probably pick better mates," said Dr. Ellis.

Divorce Rate

If the forecast on marital breakup comes to pass, divorce rates will rise even higher. For many years there has been little variation in the national divorce rate. But in recent years it has been increasing. While this is explained by the growth in the number of young married couples, statistics also show that the rising divorce rate among middle-aged couples is becoming a growing problem. Many of these marriages terminate in divorce after the last child has become independent.

Dr. Ellis pointed out that many mature couples who seek therapy for problem marriages can be helped. Often they exaggerate their complaints, he said. "When they are less upset they will frequently be able to go on happily with the marriage."

A prominent psychotherapist in marriage and family counseling, Dr. Ellis has authored many books, including "A Guide to Rational Living," "Sex Without Guilt," and "How to Live With A Neurotic."

Intermediate School Students Have "Supplementary Study Program"

Enfield Intermediate School was constructed in 1924 as Enfield's first high school. Today it is a school functioning with modern facilities and innovative ideas to educate children of the fifth and sixth grades.

Critics of our educational system state that classrooms are frequently sterile arenas that stifle student motivation. The faculty of Enfield Intermediate has embarked upon a plan with the hope of eliminating this educational shortcoming.

Ralph Cerrato, principal of Enfield Intermediate, and innovator of the "Supplementary Study Program" has good reason to feel the worth of this plan.

Basically the purpose of the plan is to complete the educational process of the student. Students who feel the need to research a particular area more fully, will now have the time and the facilities to do so.

Students need to express themselves in situations other than the "regular" classroom. Making use of this program will enable them to pursue an area of interest beyond the limitations of the classroom.

The students will be permitted

WL "Let's Vote 18" Begins Campaign

The Windsor Locks Chapter of Let's Vote 18 has begun its campaign. This organization consists of young adults who are interested in lowering the voting age from 21 to 18. The main question asked by the majority of people is "Why." The young people have many answers to this question such as: young people today are much better informed and are knowledgeable in matters concerning our government. Young men between 18 and 21 are dying daily in the battlefields of Vietnam. The young people pay sales, property and income taxes with no representation what so ever. Young people are also legally responsible for their actions in criminal court at age 18.

In the coming weeks, campaigners for Let's Vote 18 will be distributing pamphlets describing their views. This coalition also welcomes any volunteers. If you are interested in supporting this program, please contact Eileen McCarthy of Fernwood Drive at 623-3444 or Diane Dombrowski of North Main St. at 623-4215.

Duffey Winding Up Campaign

The Enfield Citizens for Duffey announced the results of a telephone poll of 195 Enfield registered voters. The poll was taken in the period of Oct. 20 through Oct. 26 on a strict random sampling basis observing as near as possible the procedures of professional pollsters. Our pollsters did not identify themselves as Duffey workers.

The results were as follows: Duffey, 36 per cent; Weicker, 28 per cent; Dodd, 12 per cent; undecided, 24 percent.

This is one of a series of polls taken by the Citizens for Duffey in Enfield and other select towns across the state during the past seven months, which have proved extremely accurate.

Women Voters League Urges Support Of Question No. 4

The League of Women Voters of Enfield urges everyone to support the constitutional amendment required to change from biennial to annual legislative sessions. This means the General Assembly will meet from January to June (five months) in odd-numbered years and from February to May (three months) in even-numbered years. This will permit lawmakers to acquire a broader knowledge and experience and be more responsive to state and local needs, such as in the fields of education and social services. Annual sessions will give the State Representatives time to oversee state spending, budget-making and the programs of the many state agencies.

Annual sessions of the General Assembly are endorsed by the Democratic State Central Committee, the Republican State Central Committee, the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, the Connecticut Jaycees, and the Connecticut Council of Churches, legislative committee. A "Yes" vote on question No. 4 will mean a more effective and modern General Assembly.

Candidates from this area for the General Assembly will be available to everyone at the voting information display at the Suburban Mall which will be open on Oct. 30 from 7 to 9 p.m. and all day Oct. 31 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Enfield, the booth will include free non-partisan election information, voting machine demonstrations, and information on the various referendum Questions.

Sen. Charles Alfano, candidate from the 7th State Senatorial District, will be at the booth from 11 a.m. to 12 noon on Oct. 31. Thomas Coates, his opponent, will be there on Oct. 30 from 7 to 8 p.m. Sabbath Nigro and Rosario Vella, candidates from the 44th Legislative District will be at the Mall from 1 to 2 p.m. on Oct. 31, while Stanley Bibos from the 45th District will be there from 3 to 4 p.m. on Oct. 31.

The Mall display is in charge of Mrs. Edward May, voter service chairman of the Enfield League. Mrs. May and Mrs. Donald Lawrence will be reporters for the state election Nov. 3.

On the basis of past voting history, geography and population, Precinct 3A at the Hazardville Memorial School has been selected by the American Broadcasting Co. as a "key precinct" in their reporting of election night returns.

tained without causing any damage.
 Oct. 24, 2:16 p.m. — Enfield firefighters were called to a field behind the Enfield Street Cemetery where an abandoned vehicle was burning. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze before it could spread to the surrounding area.
 Oct. 25, 1:01 a.m. — Silent alarm. A Hazardville unit was called by local police to wash down spilled gasoline at the scene of a vehicle accident in front of 253 Hazard Ave. There was no fire.

A special thank you to Lt. Lee Furey of the North Thompsonville Fire Dept. for his efforts in arranging the tour of the New York Fire Dept. It took nine months before the plans could be finalized.

A reminder to all area residents that fires for the purpose of burning leaves, brush, or trash, either in the open or in incinerators is strictly prohibited under Public Act 754 of the Connecticut States Statutes. It is recommended that all such material be placed into containers or plastic bags for collection by the Sanitation Dept.

The trick of keeping Halloween fun for the youngsters is to treat its hazards with respect.

The National Fire Protection Assn. points out that the greatest hazard at Halloween is the clothing fire. They suggest the following basic safety rules for Halloween time:

If costumes are purchased at a store, be sure they are marked "flame proofed." This includes masks, wigs and beards. If costumes are home made, the flame-proofing process can be done at home also, using a solution of Borax and boric acid. But never rely completely on any flame-proofing treatment, and be sure children keep a respectful distance from any source of flame, intense heat or sparks.

For added safety, see that costumes are short enough so youngsters don't trip on them, and of light colors so car drivers can easily see them.

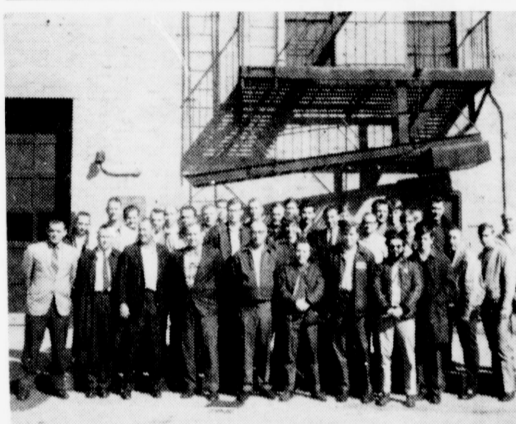

Use a flashlight to light up the pumpkin that is sometimes carried; never a candle which might set clothing afire.

Indoors, lighted candles for decorative purposes can be risky too, because autumn leaves, dry cornstalks and berry branches ignite easily. Watch out for light bulbs, open fires and smoking near such decorations.

Pay attention to these simple safety rules, and you can be reasonably sure the hobgoblin of fire won't get you this Halloween.

On Oct. 18, 37 Hazardville and North Thompsonville firemen spent the day touring the New York City Fire Dept. The group visited a fire boat, a fire drill operation, the "Super Pumper," the department's training grounds where the above picture was taken, a Rescue Squad and a ladder company, the City's Fire Museum, and a two-alarm blaze that the men had an opportunity to watch.

Enfield area firefighters responded to the following alarms during the past week:

Oct. 18, 9:50 p.m. — Enfield firefighters were called to the Louis Kettle residence on Luster Lane, when a short circuit in an outside peak light on the garage ignited the structure. The blaze was quickly extinguished, and damage was considered minor.

Oct. 19, 7:41 p.m. — Two Hazardville units quelled burning leaves on South Rd. at Victory St., 8:26 — Enfield firemen subdued a pile of burning leaves on Hathaway Ave.; 9:13 — North Thompsonville firemen fought a stubborn brush fire at the sewer right of way off Washington Rd. Over 1500 gallons of water was used in extinguishing the three-acre blaze; Hazardville firemen were called to quell burning leaves in front of 41 South Rd.; 9:31 — Enfield units were sent to Nutmeg Ave. to extinguish burning leaves; 10:51 — Shaker Pines firemen were dispatched to subdue a woods fire on the east side of Maple St. near the state line; at 11:49, Enfield firemen were called to the Edward Nowak residence, 17 Louise Dr., when a firewood box in the garage caught fire. Quick work by fire personnel prevented a serious blaze as the fire had spread to the garage door and an adjoining wall. Exhaust fans were placed in operation to keep the smoke out of the house. The cause of the blaze is still under investigation.

Oct. 20, 1:59 p.m. — Hazardville Truck 4 was dispatched to quell a small fire behind 18 Wilstar Circle. The minor blaze was out on the arrival of fire personnel; 2:45 — North Thompsonville firefighters extinguished a grass and brush fire along Washington Rd. While returning from that blaze, fire units were diverted to the wooded area near the Noah Webster School on Brainard Rd. to subdue a small fire; at 9:06, the North Thompsonville firemen quelled a brush fire at the north end of Foxcroft Road.

Oct. 21, 1:39 p.m. — Hazardville and Shaker Pines fire personnel stood by at their respective stations during the power interruption that affected the eastern section of Enfield; 6:19 — North Thompsonville fire units responded to a brush fire on the west side of Brainard Rd. The blaze was easily con-

Annual "Ability Counts" Contest Deadline Is Jan. 15

Junior and senior high school students attending private, parochial and public schools in the Northern Conn. area are invited to compete in the 23rd annual "Ability Counts" report theme contest sponsored by the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

This year's report theme is, "Employment of the Handicapped: Community Attitudes." Students planning to participate in the program are invited to contact employers, handicapped people or agency personnel in their community in order to gather research material for the contest.

The Rev. Paul J. Bartlewski, pastor of St. Adalbert's church will again serve as area chairman of the contest being conducted by the Northern Conn.

Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

Several prizes will be awarded to area winners, with the top prize winner's entry to be entered for further state-wide competition. A total of $1,000 in scholarship awards will be given to winners in the contest. The state winner will also be given an expense-paid trip with a chaperone to Washington, D.C.

State winners will be competing for further national prizes and will attend the awards dinner. They will personally meet President Nixon and numerous national personalities.

State prizes are awarded by donations of the Conn. State Labor Council, AFL-CIO.

A recent survey completed by the President's Committee disclosed that the report theme contest has had a profound impact on many of the state winners over the years. They have been influenced by their contest experiences to become doctors, therapists, nurses, reading specialists or to do volunteer work to help the handicapped.

All high schools in the area have been furnished full information pertaining to contest requirements. Interested students are asked to contact their school principals or English Dept. heads for contest details, or information may be obtained at the Conn. State Employment service office located on 110 High St., Enfield.

Reports must not exceed 750 words and must be sent no later than Jan. 15, 1971 to the Gov. Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, c/o State Labor Dept., Hartford, Conn. 06115.

Judges will consider entries on such factors as neatness and clarity of speech, research, content, impact and originality. All entries must be the original work of student contestants, although references from research materials are permitted.

Coates Ideas To Cut State Costs

Thomas Coates, 7th Senatorial District GOP candidate, has put forth "several positive proposals" to cut state spending. "With state taxes up 53 per cent and spending up 95 per cent, in the last four years that the Democrats have had total control of the State Legislature resulting in a state deficit of 240 million dollars, Connecticut is in its worst financial condition in 100 years. Obviously, you either cut spending or increase taxes," said Coates.

The candidate called for reducing out-of-state travel, Motor Vehicle Rentals, and in-state travel for vehicles owned by the state, thus saving Connecticut taxpayers a substantial amount. Coates also addressed himself to "incredible" facts that since 1961 the Democrats have added 15,328 full-time employees for a 60 percent increase and 18,722 total employees for a 66 percent increase. He proposed that the new governor "conscientiously limit the number of employees by filling only those positions (made vacant through retirement, death and leaving the state service) which maintain services vital to the citizens of the state. It was noted by the senatorial candidate that strengthening the governor's direct control over agencies and their programs would help to exercise a restraining influence on state expenditures.

Coates criticized the "costly and unsound" practice of "Bond Now, Pay Later," to finance the state's current expenses. He emphasized that he agreed with the Conn. Public Expenditure Council, a non-partisan "watchdog" taxpayers organization, that bonding should be limited to acquisition of land and improvements, or construction, or other worthwhile long-term projects. "It is irresponsible to pass on to future generations a large debt to pay for the current monthly operating expenses of the State of Connecticut.

Other recommendations that

Surprise Party

Enfield Press employees are shown giving Mrs. Beatrice Parsons, retired Social Editor of the Press, a surprise party last Friday afternoon in the pressroom.

Coates put forth include the possibility of consolidating the various activities of many state agencies into one to eliminate the waste of money through duplication of effort. "One way to put this idea into action would be to combine all of Conn.'s environmental pollution control programs into one agency, as the Conn. Public Expenditure Council has suggested. Coates also urged that the State tap its vast resources of professional people in many fields for voluntary work, for which the state would ordinarily have the effort already being put forth by private citizens in this area, he argued for as much greater use of this idea as a valuable means toward improving the quality of life in our state and, at the same time, decreasing state expenses. As a companion to the Revenue Task Force, Coates reaffirmed the G.O.P. call for an Expenditure Task Force to be charged with studying the expenditures of the State.

Said Coates: "I enthusiastically support Tom Meskill in his opinion that until our fiscal woes are solved, we cannot move ahead in providing the quality of services demanded by our state's citizens in a wide variety of areas. Hopefully, my proposals for cutting back state spending will contribute toward the attainment of this goal."

Open House At Eli Whitney

In conjunction with American Education Week, Eli Whitney School will hold open house on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of next week from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Parents may visit as many classes as they wish. However, no conferences may be held during classroom time. The regular daily school routine will be observed with no "special" programs or prepared assemblies; the purpose being that parents may observe the school routine as it actually exists. Parents are asked not to bring children of pre-school age with them.

Parents who wish to have conferences with teachers may make arrangements through the school secretary. Teachers will be in their rooms for 15 minutes after the close of school.

In addition to this open house program, an evening open house will be held on Thursday, Nov. 12.

First place to Douglas Hasi-moto, second place to Mark Ottman, third place to Michael Roux and fourth place to Donald Ostrander.

The making of an Eagle Scout is a long process involving many people, much time and a character (normally) beyond question. A scoreboard of those attaining Eagle Rank has been kept in our District since 1939. Throughout Highland we now have a total of 125 Eagles. We wonder where some of them are now and if they are still active and interested in the Scouting program, sharing their high degree of knowledge with others.

Eagles are as follows:

Robert Biggins and David Jellison of Troop 108, in 1952; David Reuter, Troop 154 in 1957; Stanley Surringer and Robert Tyler, Troop 108 in 1960; Richard Racseau, Troop 108 in 1960; Charles Vanderscoff, Troop 19 in 1964; Robert Bradish, Richard Gorman and Wayne Somero, Troop 108 in 1964; Robert Morse Jr., Troop 108 in 1964; William Dripchak, Troop 154 in 1964; Bruce Phillips, Troop 19 in 1964; Robert Soucie Jr., Troop 93 in 1965; James Leonaitis, Troop 108 in 1965; William Packard, Robert Hebert and Zygmunt Denbek, Troop 19 in 1965; James Lee, Troop 381, 1966; Steven Daigle, Troop 185 in 1966; David Ledger, Troop 185 in 1966; Gray Wanzler, Troop 19 in 1966; Michael, Richard and Daniel O'Connell, Troop 185 in 1966; Bruce Peterson, Troop 381 in 1966; Leon Smith, Troop 154, 1967; Niles Stebbins, Troop 189, 1967; John Wysocki and William Mun-

The first Eagle listed is John Rauschenback, Broad Brook Troop 89, who received his award in June of 1939.

Cub Pack 391 held their monthly meeting Friday where Cubmaster LeRoy Strout presented Ben Smith, District Training Commissioner, as the guest speaker. Smith informed the unit of a Training Seminar to be held at the Central Library Oct. 29, Nov. 5 and Nov. 12. The seminar is open to all Den Mothers, both new and not so new. A correct procedure of holding a Den meeting will be demonstrated.

The unit also welcomed new Den Mothers Pauline Tardie for Den 1 and Helen Glass for Den 4.

Assistant Cubmaster Rick Lewis presented the Mister Neatness award to Dick Cordeau's Webelos Den, the Rattlesnake Patrol. The award for the most parents present went to the Webelos. Den 8 had the opening and closing. Den 2 presented a Halloween skit. First place for display went to Den 9 and second place to Den 7. Activities for the month included a hike to the Suffield Mountains on the Metecomet Trail. Next month they will be going bowling at Riverside.

A candlelight ceremony was held to welcome the following new boys into cubs and present them with Bobcat pins:

ONE FOR ALL

Forty million impoverished people of all ages, creeds and races receive Catholic Relief Services help in more than 70 countries each year.

AMERICA THE BOUNTIFUL

Americans contributed over 20 million pounds of used clothing, shoes and bedding to the 1969 Catholic Relief Services Thanksgiving Clothing Collection for the needy overseas.

NOBLE AND GLOBAL

For the fourth consecutive year, a total of 20 million pounds in contributions of clothing and shoes was collected in 1969 by Catholic Relief Services in its Thanksgiving Clothing Collection.

WEIGHT EXPECTATIONS

A worldwide welcome was extended by 74 countries in the year ended June 30, 1969, to the 1,099,930,614 pounds of relief supplies distributed by Catholic Relief Services. Valued at $133 million, the 549,965 tons of materials aided millions of unfortunates in emerging and underdeveloped nations.

THE HISTORY OF THANKSGIVING

The Indian word "Wampanoag" is all Greek to millions of Americans preparing to carve Thanksgiving turkey.

Grateful to a divine Providence and its agent—the Wampanoag—Governor Bradford declared a period of feasting, Massachusetts and 90 of his Indians were invited as guests of honor to the three-day feast—the first American Thanksgiving celebration.

In many ways, open-hearted Americans are now repaying Massasoit's kindness by helping others around the world to overcome plights not unlike the "Mayflower" onto the wild Massachusetts coast. Half of the 102 English refugees succumbed that winter to malnutrition, disease and brutal cold.

As one of New England's most powerful native rulers, Massasoit had the firepower to wipe out the weakened colony in a single raid. Instead, he signed a peace treaty with the newcomers—a pact which he observed faithfully to his death 10 years later.

But more important, the Wampanoag showed the colonists how to stalk the wild turkey... how to cultivate the native corn and pumpkin... how to upgrade the crops by burying fish to fertilize the seeds.

The harvest was a bountiful one. Three log storehouses bulged with corn, wheat, rye, barley and peas. The autumn woods teemed with deer and wild turkey, and the sea and rivers were alive with fish. For the colonists, it was a time of soaring hopes.

their nearest Catholic church. Last year alone, they gave more than 20 million pounds of used clothes, shoes and bedding during the Thanksgiving collection. The donations were among nearly 10 million tons of relief supplies valued at almost $2 billion which Catholic Relief Services has shipped to the needy and catastrophe-stricken in over 70 countries since the agency was founded in 1943.

You can join this mammoth march against misery by giving to the 1970 Thanksgiving Clothing Collection during November. Through your help, the needy worldwide—regardless of race or religion—will have something to be thankful for. You'll be giving in the spirit of George Washington who, in proclaiming Oct. 26 as Thanksgiving Day in 1789, prayed for prosperity for "all mankind."

And you'll be following in the moccasined footsteps of the Wampanoag, who helped that little band of another color and creed to plant the seed of Thanksgiving Day in America.

Vella Says He Will Hold Public Meetings If Elected

Rosario T. Vella, candidate for State Representative from the 44th Assembly District stated that if elected he will make himself available to the people of Enfield by having regular open meetings at the Town Hall. Vella said the meetings would be held both while the house is in session and when it was not.

Vella stated, the reason for pursuing this project, was his first desire to truly work for the people. Enfield needs this kind of representation from an elected official. Vella further stated, "My meetings at town hall will be geared to hearing the feelings, suggestions and complaints of the voters of Enfield, either on proposed legislation before the house or any other problems that confront the people of this town. If I am aware of their feelings on certain subjects I will then be in a position to apply the full weight of my office in solving Enfield's questions and problems for the good of the people. This is the only way a state representative can truly represent the people."

Vella also released today, his findings on the questionnaire which he distributed to the people of Enfield during his door to door walking campaign. The results are as follows:

1. The State of Connecticut presently has a deficit of 250 million dollars. Projected figures show that this will be increased to 690 million dollars during the next session of the General Assembly. In order to meet these costs, do you favor:

- A. A complete state income tax and reduction of sales tax.
- B. No state income tax.
- C. State income tax and no sales tax.
- D. A graduated state income tax.

2. Every town in Connecticut now receives state aid to education by giving the same amount of money per pupil. Do you feel that this should be changed so that the towns which have less industry would get a larger amount per pupil?

59% Yes, 41% No.

3. If a community college were available in Enfield in the next ten years, how many members of your family would take advantage of it? Two (average number per family).
