Congresswoman Grasso Says Army Reneges On Promises

U. S. Congresswoman Ella Grasso, in her Sixth District Media Wrap-up issued yesterday, charged the army reneges on its promises to re-enlistees. The text of Mrs. Grasso's release follows:

"It has come to my attention that the Army has been misleading young men by verbally promising immediate training and specialized duty and then renegeing on these promises after they re-enlist.

"In a letter to Armed Services Committee Chairman F. Edward Hebert, I urged the Committee to take up such re-enlistment practices with the appropriate officials during the current authorization hearings to determine the extent and seriousness of these practices.

"My action was prompted by the case of one my constituents who was delayed training facility entrance for 16 months. When the young man finally completed his specialized audio-visual training, he was assigned for an indefinite period to a unit totally inconsistent with his training.

"This is grossly unfair to our men who commit themselves to three or four years of additional duty only to find that the educational and service opportunities so glowingly described are not available. In the civilian sector, such activities would be classed as consumer fraud, with remedies readily available. Unfortunately, the young enlistee has no recourse."

Sillin Of Northeast Utilities Explains S.B. 1458 Impact

The following statement pertaining to the proposed Connecticut Utilities Siting Legislation (S.B. 1458) was issued by Lelan F. Sillin, Jr., chairman and president of Northeast Utilities:

"The Connecticut House of Representatives has passed what some believe to be a compromise of legislation which would create a Power Facility Evaluation Council.

"Because electric utilities have a long-standing obligation to provide reliable service, I feel compelled, in behalf of Northeast Utilities and its Connecticut operating companies — The Connecticut Light & Power Company and The Hartford Electric Light Company — to comment publicly on what we sincerely believe to be a threat to our ability to carry out that mandate.

"If enacted, S. B. 1458 will be an open invitation to long procedural and judicial delays. The Act will enable a handful of people to intervene and stop the construction of essential facilities which, in turn, could disrupt the economies of our State. "We have consistently urged

Enrico Fermi High School Dedication Dinner-Dance Takes Place Saturday

The Italian - American Dinner dance to be held this Saturday evening, at St. Adalbert's Hall must be classified as the outstanding social event of the Enfield area this year.

About 500 people are expected to witness the unveiling of a life-sized bust of Enrico Fermi, sculptured by the noted Professor Searle Lansing Jones from Central Connecticut State College. Dr. Leonard Savignano, president of Westfield State College will be the speaker of the evening.

The dinner dance is the partial fulfillment of a dream of the Italian - American community of Enfield. The complete fulfillment will come when the actual dedication of the beautiful new Enrico Fermi High School takes place in the near future.

Albert Vesce, a native of Italy and a long time resident of Enfield, was instrumental in the naming of the new school. Vesce circulated petitions in the community asking the Board of Education to consider naming the new school after Enrico Fermi, who won the Nobel Prize in Physics in 1938. Mr. Fermi achieved the first self-sustaining nuclear chain reaction in 1942 which created the atomic bomb. After the building committee had been formed by the Board of Education for the erection of the new school, a subcommittee was designated as the dedication committee.

Ben Reveruzzi, a member of the Board of Education was appointed coordinator between the dedication committee and the Italian-American community as represented by various societies. Among those present for the initial meeting were the Mt. Carmel Society and Auxiliary;

Centurions Entered In Congressional Record

As a result of remarks made by U. S. Representative Ella T. Grasso of Connecticut, on April 21, mention of the Enfield Centurion Drum and Bugle Corps, has been placed in the Congressional Record.

The extension of her remarks appears on Page E3311 and is herewith reprinted in its entirety:

"Mr. Speaker, it is indeed refreshing to bring to the attention of my colleagues the positive and constructive activities of the young people who are members of the Enfield Centurions. "The Centurions are the drum and bugle corps of the city of Enfield, Conn., and the young men and women who are members travel from city to city participating in parades throughout New England. At

$125,000 Given For New Center

State Rep. Rosario Vella, R-Enfield, announced the approval of a $125,000 grant as the state's share of the cost of a $750,000 Neighborhood Activity Center in Enfield.

The State Bonding Commission approved the grant last week at the request of State Community Affairs Commissioner Donald T. Dorsey.

The U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department had already approved a federal grant of $500,000 for the center. The Town of Enfield has allocated $125,000 as the local share of the center costs.

The center will be built on North Main Street in the Thompsonville section of Enfield. It will provide services to senior citizens in addition to health, social service, recreation and youth programs.

the recent All-America Awards dinner marking the designation of Enfield as one of the All-American cities, Mayor Frank Mancuso honored the fine reputation of the Centurions by proclaiming that they are the community's official goodwill ambassadors.

"As a tribute to this excellent organization of young people and others like it across the Nation, I would like to enclose a brief statement about the drum corps and the scope of activities of the Centurions:

"A relatively unnoticed, unpublicized youth activity exists in American which offers an exceptional outlet for the energies of our young people. This activity has more members than any other year-round youth activity except for Scouting. It is Drum Corps."

"In Enfield the Centurions Drum and Bugle Corps is providing just such an outlet for youthful energy. Starting with 27 members in 1967, the Corps now numbers 75 young people from Enfield, Hazardville, Somers and Windsor Locks. In 1970 the members traveled over 4,800 miles making 53 appearances in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island and New York."

"One of the most important aspects of this activity is the number of youth hours spent in participation. In Drum Corps youth hours are determined to be the total number of hours spent by members at rehearsals and on jobs, times the number of members. During this past year the Centurions Drum Corps members totaled 46,280 hours."

"Another aspect of Drum Corps activity is what it teaches to its young members. Outside of providing travel, excitement and comradeship a Corps teaches discipline, neatness, coordination, responsibility, musical ability and esprit de corps. All of this on a year round basis from a little known, sometimes unrecognized, but important youth activity. We should all start to acknowledge its worth to our community an support the Corps in the area as we do other better known youth programs."

Vella, Grasso, Talk Problems

State Representative Rosario T. Vella from the 44th District met May 28 at the State Capitol with Sixth District Congressman Ella Grasso.

Problems of the Sixth District (Congressional) and the Town of Enfield respectively were discussed.

Representative Vella had discussed the need for Federal Funding for sewers in the Town of Enfield. Vella also discussed the need for Federal Assistance for the Town due to the closing of Bigelow Sanford Carpet Company.

The question of Federal government takeover of total welfare costs was also discussed.

Congresswoman Grasso indicated that a bill pending in Congress within two weeks would provide funds to states for the welfare payment for the blind, the aged and administration cost. This will mean a savings of 37 million dollars to the State of Connecticut.

While Representative Vella felt that total Federal takeover of Welfare would be more desirable this is nonetheless a step in the right direction.

The legislator felt that the meeting with Mrs. Grasso was most productive and further meetings of this type will be scheduled in the future.

Dedication

Forty-fourth District Representative Rosario Vella has reported he plans to introduce a proposal allowing for more state aid for education to the 169 town and cities of Connecticut.

Vella said he plans to introduce the proposal at the time the legislature considers the budget at which time he will bring it up on the floor of the House.

The new district representative said the proposal is twofold.

1. It would appropriate an additional $1 million for state-aid to municipalities and school districts.

2. It establishes a formula for the distribution of such funds, for example, effective mill rate of a town multiplied by an equalization factor based on per pupil expenses.

The proposal has three plans, called A, B and C. Plan C is favored by Vella.

Plan A - Equalization by Mill Rate

Computation of Plan A is derived as follows:

The mill rate times the percentage of evaluation, the total represents the effective mill rate of each of the individual towns. Add all effective mill rates of the individual towns, this sum is then divided into the individual effective mill rate to obtain the percent allocated to each town.

Plan B - Equalization by Per Pupil Expenses

Computation of Plan B is derived as follows:

The sum of 169 individual towns per pupil expenses is divided into the per pupil expenses of each individual town. This result is the percent allocated to each town.

Plan C - Combined Factor (Equalization Mill Rate, Equalization Per Pupil Expenses)

Multiply each town's equalization factor times the effective mill rate, this combined factor of each town is then added, the sum of the 169 towns is divided into the individual combined factor of each town to obtain the percentage allocated to each town.

The figures for Enfield under Plan A would be with a 1969-70 mill rate of 73.5, the percentage of evaluation at 60, the effective mill rate of 73.5, the percentage of 0.0084, the figure would be $840 per $1,000.

Plan B would be 568.29 per pupil expenses at .00452 percentage, the figure would be $452 per $1,000.

Plan C would be with an effective mill rate of 44.1, the equalization factor would be 452 and a combined factor of 199.33 at .00646, the figure would be $646 per $1,000.

Hallmark Wins Award

For the second year in succession Hallmark Cards, Inc. has been named a winner in the annual Esquire-BCA "Business in the Arts" Awards.

The Awards, inaugurated in 1966 by Esquire magazine and the Business Committee for the Arts, are presented to companies in recognition of outstanding support of the fine and performing arts.

This year's award to Hallmark was for "Kaleidoscope," a traveling arts show and creative workshop for children six to twelve years old. The citation reads in part: "Conceived by the company's president, the arts caravan has visited 46 small to medium-size communities since its inauguration in February 1970. It is estimated that the company has donated nearly a ton of art supplies per week to conduct the program."

Acceptance of the award at the Mayflower Hotel here was made on behalf of Hallmark president Donald J. Hall by the company's director of cultural affairs, David L. Strout.

CONCERNED ABOUT SAFETY

Dear Editor:

I am concerned about the safety of the children in Enfield.

I was sitting on the steps of a neighbor's house watching the children coming out of their houses to play after a day at school, when a police car passed. The police car had lights blinking and was traveling very rapidly. It passed a car making a turn into a driveway, narrowly missing an accident as the driver was unaware of his rapid approach. There is a small hill on our street and being at the bottom of it, you can not always see what is just behind the top of this hill.

I have called the police station prior to this incident and suggested that since we, as taxpayers, pay to have police cars equipped with special apparatus (sirens) this special apparatus should be used.

For awhile things were better — now we are back to the safe and silent travel by the police.

Second Trooper Requested

First Selectman Leonard Owen has requested a second resident state trooper.

In a letter to State Police Commissioner Cleveland Fuesenich, Owen cited the need for additional State Police help. The town's population has doubled the last 10 years and that another state trooper was needed to help prevent some of the problems in town that have coincidentally developed.

There's no assurance, Somers actually will get a second trooper. For one reason a bill to increase the number of State Police available to towns has not passed as yet.

If the town does adopt another state trooper, two or three constable positions would be eliminated.

Owen believes it is possible to retain another state trooper and, at the same time stay within a $31,000 police protection budget: the town pays $9,000 for each trooper.

May 30 - 10:32 a.m. Enfield firefighters were called to the Robert Bimler residence, 12 Raffia Rd., to control a blaze that erupted in the cellar area of the dwelling. Smoke damage to the structure and its contents were reported, but damage was not considered serious. There were no injuries.

SPORTS

Many Connecticut Drivers At Riverside Park Speedway

The two-state stock car rivalry which has generated considerable interest at Riverside Park in recent years took another swing towards Connecticut last week.

Charlie Centinaro of Waterbury, who hadn't won a feature race in two years, grabbed top spot in the 50-lap main event. Centinaro became the fifth driver from the Nutmeg state in seven races to capture the checkered flag. Taking advantage of a restart after the race was 32 laps old, Centinaro beat out Southampton's Johnny Lobo for the top money.

The other Connecticut boys to have taken top honors at Agawam this spring are Steve Evonson of Granby, Tony Mordino of Waterbury, Lou Garangelo of Wolcott and Ronnie Glazier of Shelton.

The lone winners from the home state have been Russ McLean and Bobby Bard of Westfield.

While Connecticut appears to have the edge in numbers Massachusetts can still boast the champion - Bobby Stefanik of Wilbraham, Stenfanik, in fact still holds the front position in the point standings. Also high on the list is Springfield favorite Skip Barua.

The war of the states resumes on Saturday night, with another 50-lap race heading the card, which starts at 8 p.m.

The figure-eights also will be in action, with defending champion Luke Scanlon of Northampton and Bobby Siebold of West Haven ready to bang fenders.

If the present trend continues, another new winner will crash the winner's circle Saturday at Riverside Park Speedway. Most prominent of the drivers who have yet to turn in a big win at Agawam this season is Bobby Stefanik, the defending track champion.

It was June a year ago before Bobby made the grade in a feature race. As the weather grew hotter, so did the young speedster from Wilbraham. He took the title away from Bobby Bard of Westfield on the final night of the season.

Stefanik has been in there plugging every week and his steady contributions have put him atop the point standings.

Other popular veterans still in the non-winner class include Skip Barua and Jack Lecuyer of Springfield, Johnny Lobo of Southampton, Ernie Caruso of Granby, Dan Rock and Bobby O'Neill of Thompsonville and Jim Cash of Prospect, Conn.

There have been seven features and seven different winners this season, which indicates that the battle for title honors could again go down to the wire.

Lou Carangelo of Wolcott, Conn. and Charlie Glazier of Shelton, Conn. have taken the big 150-lap grinds. The other main event winners were Steve Evonson of Granby, Tony Mordino of Waterbury, Charlie Centinaro of Waterbury and Russ McLean and Bobby Bard, both of Westfield.

The feature tonight is 50 laps. First qualifying heat goes off at 8 p.m.

Rev. Stoddard Accepts Call To Schnectady Church

The Rev. Glen O. Stoddard, associate minister of Second Baptist Church, Suffield, has accepted a call to be pastor of First Baptist Church of Schnectady, N.Y., beginning August 1, 1971.

His resignation from the Suffield church position will take effect August 1. But in accordance with an understanding with the Board of Deacons and the church president, Mr. Stoddard will take his regular month of July for vacation. His final sermon at a worship service will be on June 20, because he will attend the church family camping the weekend of June 25-27.

Mr. Stoddard came to Suffield September 1, 1967 to be associate minister of Christian education and youth activities, a new position for the local church. He has also guided the Young Couples program of the church.

Since the retirement of the Rev. Joseph A. Sisk of Second Baptist October 1, he has served as acting pastor of the church.

In addition to his work with the Baptist youth, Mr. Stoddard has served as chairman of the youth committee of the Suffield Council of Churches.

Mr. Stoddard and his wife and four children came here from Portland, Maine where he was associate minister of Immanuel Baptist Church.

His family has taken an active part in the life of the church here. His wife has been a leader in the work of the Women's Guild, and the three girls are members of the Youth and Chapel Choirs.

Local Woman Enjoys Voicеспondence Club

Mrs. Ethel L. Connor of Griffin Road, West Suffield, is enjoying membership in Voicеспondence Club. A world wide version of the old pen pal idea, which uses a tape recorder or cassette, it is especially helpful to those who can not see to read, or have difficulty in writing, Mrs. Connor said.

Because she is blind herself, and was a state teacher of blind in their homes for 25 years before her retirement, she can truly appreciate the benefit of Voicеспondence to the blind, she said.

Voicеспondence Club is a non-profit, worldwide organization for the purpose of promoting friendship and goodwill. Its motto is "Magnetic Recorded Friendship", and it is all of this and more as it brings together people of like and unlike interests, Mrs. Connor said.

Membership in Voicеспondence Club is between 1800 and 2000, she said, with thirty percent blind and seventy percent sighted. It includes members from all walks of life, professional and non-professional people. It serves forty countries whose members exchange tapes of cassettes through which warm, lasting friendships are formed.

The club renders special services to its handicapped members, such as the Smith McKie Library for the Blind, from which blind members can borrow any of the many titles on its shelves. This library is maintained by the Tarver Memorial

McAlister School Program June 9

The Sixth grade staff of McAlister Middle School invites parents of children entering the school in the fall to attend a program at the school June 9 at 7:30 p.m.

This is an opportunity for parents to meet their children's future teachers, learn about the program they will have, and tour the building. Anthony Kula principal said.

Mrs. Leete Heads Garden Club

Mrs. William Leete was elected president of the Suffield Garden Club at the annual meeting May 24. She succeeds Mrs. Douglas Swan. Other officers elected were Mrs. Leavitt Ahrens, vice president; Mrs. John Sinica, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Charles Chaney, treasurer.

Mrs. Howard Alcorn, Conservation Committee chairman, reported that through the cooperation of Alfred Lees of the State Highway Landscape Division, the Garden Club has been able to plant two more dogwoods along Main Street to replace two which the club had planted previously that died.

In addition to the dogwoods planted along both sides of Main Street, the club has planted several of the trees on the town green.

Suffield Village Corp. Holds Annual Meeting

Stockholders of Suffield Village Corporation, the town's new shopping center, held their annual meeting at the Black Dog Tavern on May 28. William S. Fuller was named Honorary Chairman of the Board, and Sydney F. Fuller was elected a director.

H. Meade Alcorn, Corporation President, announced that plans for a 40-room inn, adjoining Suffield Village, is under serious consideration. It would be of Colonial design and be built at the corner of Main and Bridge Streets. Following the meeting one of the directors said it appears that present plans for the

Role Of Local DAR Chapter

The role of the Sibbil Dwight Kent Chapter of Suffield, and other small local chapters, in the national DAR program is important, Mrs. Ben D. Sasportas, state regent, said at the 75th anniversary meeting of the Sibbil Dwight Kent Chapter at the Suffield Country Club.

Through their loyal annual contributions to the state and national DAR, they help support many projects of the DAR which is a "doing, and giving organization", the state regent said, citing some.

The DAR entirely supports two southern state schools — Kate Duncan Smith and Tamarassee School, founded by the DAR for descendants of Revolutionary soldiers in areas which had no schools. The DAR gives some 50,000 flags a year, including large flags given to the U.S. House and Senate in Washington. It has given one half million dollars for the Bell Tower at Valley Forge; and placed 12 statues 18 feet high of the "pioneer mother and child, along the Lewis and Clark Expedition trail.

Conservation minded before the term "ecology" became so popular, the DAR has planted millions of trees and given away tons of wild bird seed, Mrs. Sasportas said.

In the state, the DAR supports two historic houses — the Jonathan Trumbull house and the Oliver Ellsworth House. Mrs. Marshall Seymour, local regent, presented the state speaker with a gift of a Suffield tercentenary plate.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Seymour placed flowers on the grave of Sibbil Dwight Kent in June 23 at 6:30 p.m. at the school. The seniors recommended to Principal Valentino Berolini that there be no outside speaker and the principal approved. The valedictorian Stanley J. Gonsior and salutatorian Michael J. Zak, will be the speakers for the program.

The change in the speaker was recommended, the principal said, to help shorten the program which has lengthened each year as there were more graduates to receive diplomas.

Dorman Graduates

Thomas Dorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dorman, Mountain Road, West Suffield, received a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering at Western New England College. He is a graduate of Suffield High School.

State GOP Opens Internships

The Republican State Central Committee has established an internship program for the summer, according to GOP State Chairman J. Brian Gaffney.

Internships are open to college juniors and seniors who are Republicans. Candidates should write to — Interns, Republican State Headquarters, 410 Asylum St., Hartford, 06103.

Town Budget Of $3,578,220 Adopted

A town budget of $3,578,220 for the fiscal year of July 1, 1971 — June 30, 1972, was unanimously adopted at the annual town budget meeting May 26 in the high school.

Less than 50 people attended the meeting which lasted only 15 minutes.

Mott Garlock, Board of Finance chairman, said a tax rate of 44.75 will provide the $2,632,472 tax revenues needed after the estimated receipts of $945,748 are taken into consideration.

Although the 1971-72 budget represents about a 7 percent increase over last year's budget, the tax rate is only 3/4 of a mill more than last year's tax rate of 44 mills.

Tri-Town Nurses Install Officers

Y Executive Director Honored

Stephen W. Emmons, executive director of the Suffield Y.W.C.A. was honored at the meeting of the Y board May 24.

Robert Stanley, board chairman, presented Emmons with a gift of an attache case in appreciation of his service during the past year.

Emmons served as the local Y's first part time director while working for his master's degree in Community Leadership and Development at Springfield College. Having completed his study at Springfield, Emmons is now leaving his Suffield position and the Suffield Y is seeking a replacement for him.

Emmons presented an evaluation of the Y programs undertaken this year. He recommended that the board set goals and priorities for services for the community, and plan not just for one year, but for five years.

In addition to directing the various Y programs, Emmons published a newsletter for the members and compiled membership records with the help of volunteers in an office in the Second Baptist Church education building.

The Y office is now closed for the summer months.

Capitol Region Civic And Arts Festival At Constitution Plaza Scheduled For June 6-13

The first Hartford Arts Festival of visual and performing art will be held Sunday, June 6th, through Sunday, June 13th. It is hoped that this will be a Hartford "happening" that will become an annual attraction anticipated by all people in Hartford, Greater Hartford, and Central Connecticut.

Open from 11:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. daily, it will offer visual arts outside of museums and galleries, and free music outside of concert halls, thus bringing art to all people and using art as the common denominator for bringing all people together.

It will be an outdoor festival concentrated in one place in the downtown area and free to everyone. Beautiful Constitution Plaza will be the setting for all the arts which will extend over the entire plaza in a gay, summer mood.

The idea of this Festival had its origin with the Retail Trade Bureau, a division of the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce and will be sponsored by the Greater Hartford Business Community to enliven the arts, introduce it to many new viewers, demonstrate the value this work can be revealed, to make the arts easily accessible to large numbers of people and provide a showcase for local

Relax This Summer: Overcome And Control Tensions

Everyone, at one time or another, claims to "have tensions," "to be under tension" or to suffer the conditions generally associated with tension.

What exactly are tensions? They are the "tight" reaction felt when threatened — a natural and constant condition in a world of bodily "dangers," economic insecurity, and psychological threats. Anxiety and tension are closely related. A certain amount is good — it keeps one alert. But too much can make one miserable.

Too much tension makes people worry, borrow trouble, irritable, easily hurt, doubtful, feeling small or inadequate, shy and timid, cold feet about people places and situations, suspicious, dissatisfied, or over-aggressive.

Today's tensions increase with life's tempo — more to lose — less family security — so it's up to each person to understand and to deal with his own tensions, and those of others.

To Overcome Tensions
Talk it out. Talk with a sensible, trustworthy person. By explaining the problem — you define it for yourself, get rid of pent-up feelings, often see a solution.

Get away. Get away from it all. In that manner you can see the problem in its proper perspective. Keep active. Don't brood. Just try a little change of pace.

Take one step. Take one step at a time! The worst part of suffering from tension is the trapped feeling. Taking a step breaks the vicious circle.

Get rid of anger. Be sure that you get rid of anger to relieve that bottled up feeling that may explode and hurt you. Anger is frustration — being stopped from acting.

Take it easy. You can't win them all. Curb over-competitiveness. Learn to give up lesser goals for your peace of mind. Do something for someone else. It builds up your self-confidence and breaks the hold of moodiness and inaction.

Remember, tension and fear are contagious. But . . . so are relaxation and cooperation! You can make the world around you run smoothly.

Conn. Eye Bank Launches Tenth Annual Fund Drive

Ten years of service — 9,000 eye pledges on file and, before the first of June, another milestone will be reached when the Connecticut Eye Bank receives the 2,500th eye. Thus, the Connecticut Eye Bank at the New Britain General Hospital starts its June drive for funds and eye pledges. The Eye Bank in Connecticut is sponsored by the Odd Fellow and Rebekah Lodges of the State. This June marks the Tenth Anniversary Special observances such as the dinner June 11 at the Waverly Inn, Cheshire, with featured events in honor of the designation of June as Eye Bank month. Mrs. Lois Stevens, Executive Secretary, was the guest of "Mike Line" (the question and answer program of Station W.T.I.C.) yesterday.

The New Britain General Hospital serves as the clearing house for eyes received from any hospital or nursing home in the State of Connecticut. These eyes pledged for use after death, are used for corneal transplants and research. Money and eye pledges are needed to carry on the most worthwhile work. Open your hearts and pocket-books to help someone to see again.

The local Drive is headed by Mrs. Edmund Pease in conjunction with Orpah Rebekah Lodge of Windsor. Mrs. Pease appeals to the citizens of Enfield to send money contributions or requests for eye pledges to her at 2 Victory Street, Enfield, Conn. 06082. Checks should be made payable to the Connecticut Eye Bank.

A public card party for the benefit of the Eye Bank will be held on Saturday, June 5, at the Granite Hall, Broad Brook Rd., Scitico, at 8 p.m.

For further information call 749-8844. Other local members who are assisting in this Drive and who may be contacted for information are: Mrs. Estelle McFall of 43 Central St., Miss Alice Simpson of 44 N. Maple St. and Miss Marion Wilson of 42 School St. — all of Enfield.

Mrs. Lane Becomes Ordained Minister In Service Sunday

For all residents of Enfield, not only Congregationalists, but all citizens, the ordination of a new minister on June 6 is a historical event. At 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Mrs. Fidelia A. Lane will be ordained as a minister. Not only will she be the first "woman minister" in Enfield; she will be numbered among the very few women ministers in the entire New England area.

In preparing for her ordination examination, Mrs. Lane had the opportunity to assess the "nature of her calling," her Christian faith and her individual Christian experience. Not only during her days spent at Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley, Mass., but throughout her childhood, "Fidie" Lane experienced the vitality of Christian living and was strongly influenced by the zealous faith of her closest relatives.

As Mrs. Lane sincerely expressed it, the relatives and friends that she has encountered throughout the years have played a most significant "part in leading her to the ministry."

Her father, Julius Auger, was a missionary minister in the Philippines. From him, she learned, as a young girl, "a real appreciation of people regardless of their station (in life) or their background." Further, she learned and subsequently lives three well known adages that her father felt necessary to develop integrity and fulfill the Christian calling to which each of us is beckoned in a unique way: "Learn to take responsibility"; "Keep your eye on the ball"; and, thirdly, "Rally 'round the flag."

From her uncle, Franklin Elmer, a Baptist minister in New Hartford who first established the famed "Bukwood," Fidie Lane learned an appreciation of the American Indian. She developed a genuine understanding of the customs, the motivations, and the socio-religious concepts of these true Americans.

After graduating from Mount Holyoke College with a B.A. degree in religion, Mrs. Lane spent a year, prior to entering the seminary, in South Dakota working among the Indians. Upon her return to the greater Hartford area, she entered Hartford Seminary. Two years later Mrs. Lane received her B.D. and was married to Robert Lane, present minister of the Enfield Congregational Church.

While duties of being a devoted wife and mother were her primary calling in the years immediately following her marriage, Mrs. Lane found time to work with the New Haven Council of Churches and the Lay School of Religion at Yale Divinity School.

Ordination

To the Congregationalist, "ordination is not a change of status but a change of function in the life of the whole church." With her maturity, life-long interest, integrity and knowledge, Mrs. Lane now brings a fuller dimension and more fulfilled Christian experience to the ministry at this time.

As Thomas Hooker, one of her ancestors, expressed it: "Ordination is not before election." Mrs. Lane has elected and has been elected to be an ardent minister in the Congregational church. Her interest and knowledge in the Christian education of both adults and children will enable her to work effectively within the congregation to instruct in all phases of scriptural and liturgical education.

Mrs. Lane feels strongly that "the life of the church school should be mingled with the adult church and with Christian education back in the home." A person's theological position depends heavily on Biblical studies, intimate knowledge, appreciation and understanding of the scriptures.

Fidie Lane herself is strongly influenced by Paul's theme from the Romans: "I am not ashamed of the gospel; it is the power of God; for salvation to everyone who has faith. For in the gospel, the righteousness of God is revealed." God is living now, in the world today. He is the center of our lives.

To state it more academically, God is the Self of the Universe. He is the Mind of the universe.

Scientific experiment cannot circumscribe the spiritual world. In speaking of her religious conviction, Mrs. Lane feels that our lives, as individuals, those of our neighbors, and indeed those of people throughout the area will take part in response of man to God, a continuing dialogue with God.

According to Mrs. Lane, "We can become united by a community of spirit without conformity in faith, order or practice." The Christian church is grounded in the experience of God. Our lives should be the individual fulfillment of our own calling, of our own "sort of ordination," in dialogue with God to contribute to the fulfillment of His purposes on this earth.

The Ordination Service
All those interested, are cordially invited to attend the ordination service Sunday at the Enfield Congregational Church. Well known ministers throughout the area will take part in the celebration. The Rev. Harvey K. McArthur will deliver the sermon. The Rev. Lane will deliver the Prayer of Ordination and the Laying On of Hands.

Distinguished persons taking part in the elaborate ordination service will be:

Rev. G. Homer Lane, Mrs. Lane's father-in-law, a former director at the Hartford Seminary and minister of visitation at Rocky Hill Congregational Church; Carleton A. Platt, a former senior deacon of the North Branford Congregational Church; Norman Hutchins, assistant church school superintendent and former deacon of the Enfield Congregational Church; and Dr. Harvey K. McArthur, Hosmer professor of New Testament at the Hartford Seminary Foundation.

Also in attendance will be: Rev. Kenneth Taylor, associate minister of Christian Education for the Connecticut Conference of the United Church of Christ; Louis House, moderator of the Hartford East Association of the United Church of Christ; Rev. Robert Edwards, minister of Immanuel Congregational Church in Hartford (Mrs. Lane's home church); Rev. William Inderstrod, minister of the Congregational Church in Washington, Conn.; and Mrs. Frederick DeBell, president of the Enfield Church Women.

Textile Union Meets Tonight

There will be a general meeting for all members of Local 2188 TWUA AFL-CIO tonight at 2188 TWUA AFL-CIO Home at 7:30 p.m. Final details of meetings with Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Co. will be given at this time.

New Pastor Assumes Pulpit At First Baptist Church

On Sunday, June 6, Rev. Elvin K. Mattison will assume his new duties as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Enfield. Mattison comes to Enfield after having served as Director of Church Buildings Committee of Elyria, Ohio. He graduated from Practical Bible Training School of Binghamton, N.Y. in 1950 and has held pastorates at the First Baptist Church of Fenton, Mich., the First Baptist Church of Newago, Mich., the First Baptist Church of Romeo, Mich., and the Calvary Baptist Church of Ypsilanti, Mich. over a 17 year period prior to his position with Church Buildings Committee.

Rev. Elvin Mattison

Pastor Mattison has a son in Grand Rapids, Mich. and a daughter who has recently completed her freshman year at Cedarville College in Ohio. Pastor Mattison, in addition to his regular ministry as pastor, is also noted for having an outstanding tenor voice and has had recordings made with his wife as an accompanist at the piano.

The arrival of Mattison marks a big stepping-stone for the First Baptist Church of Enfield because it ends the missionary-status of the church and begins a new era of complete financial independence from support by other churches.

Quick Tips For Smooth Trips

If ever you're stalled on the highway and you can't get started or reach a telephone, there's a simple SOS that's quickly recognized by other motorists. Just raise the hood of your car. To reinforce the message, tie something white to the door handle on the driver's side. Be sure, too, when you're waiting for help, that you stand well off the road and out of traffic.

What can you do if you're driving on the highway at night and your headlights suddenly fail? Flicking on your left-turn signal will give you enough emergency light to see the centerline and keep the car on the road until you can slow up, then, switching to the right signal will illuminate the edge of the pavement so you can see clearly enough to pull off, park, and summon help.

On a family trip the inside of your car should be kept free of luggage. Sharp-cornered suitcases can cause injury if the car stops suddenly or hits a bump. If you can't fit everything into the trunk, add a luggage rack or use a trailer. Small trailers can be rented quite inexpensively. Be sure, though, if you use one, that you practice-drive with it thoroughly before you leave.

If you're a woman driving alone, your appearance is one of the most important safety precautions you can take. Drive or travel in a conservatively-styled car, one that won't draw undue attention to yourself and the fact that you're alone. And dress accordingly. This means a tailored dress or suit, sensible walking shoes, and no floppy hats or flashy jewelry.

When you take a trip involving numerous overnight stops there's a way of organizing your suitcases that will save you hours of packing, unpacking, and searching for buried items. It's done with dividers, sized to fit your bags. Make them out of lightweight cardboard, flexible plastic, or extra-heavy pella, adding end tabs that read "swim togs," "sleepwear," "lingerie," etc. These dividers let you pack your suitcases in layers, with everything in a certain category going into the same layer. As you need things, you simply lift them out by layer without having to unpack completely.

All About Drugs: Dear Mary Jane:

DEAR MARY JANE is sponsored by the Youth Committee of the Enfield Drug Committee and all replies to letters received are researched and developed by the Youth members. Opinions expressed are solely those of the Committee and not necessarily representative of the opinions of this newspaper. The identity of the person writing the letter will be kept in strict confidence by the Column's Secretary.

DEAR MARY JANE: Recently I decided to take the plunge. I went to a local meeting place and bought some acid. I took it that night, but nothing happened. What went wrong? The whole thing scared me so much that I decided never to get involved with acid.

A WOULD-BE FREAK DEAR WOULD-BE: In a word, you got "burned". Some people, in order to raise money, will sell aspirin, vitamins, saccarin, or any kind of tablet instead of what they claim to be selling.

This is a fairly common practice which is easy to accomplish because the seller knows that the buyer can't go to the authorities. It's called a "rip-off", and an uninitiated drug user, such as yourself, has to learn fast or lose out.

CONGRATULATIONS ON YOUR DECISION

DEAR MARY JANE: Heroin isn't the only drug which is habit forming, is it?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: No. Other drugs which may be habit-forming are cocaine, methadine, alcohol, nicotine, coffee, candy, potato chips, pistachio nuts and television. Personally I prefer fig newtons.

DEAR MARY JANE: I have a suspicion that my daughter, age 13, may be smoking marijuana or taking other drugs. How do I find out for sure? Is there some way I can tell by looking at her if she has been using them?

APPREHENSIVE

DEAR APPREHENSIVE: Chances are it will be a long time before you know for sure! Knowing nothing of your relationship with your daughter, it becomes difficult for me to suggest how you find out if your daughter is smoking grass. Depending on the amount of mutual trust and respect for each other, you might consider telling her of the reasoning behind your suspicion and ask her outright, being sure not to accuse her. She may confess, although unlikely, that she is using it, in which case you have a great deal to discuss together; or, she will deny it. Then you'll have to decide if she's telling you the truth. By all means, don't push the subject and keep your cool. Keep in mind that a facility such as the Enfield Drug Line or other professionally trained resources may be able to give you better advice after talking over some of the details with you.

People using drugs may demonstrate certain behavioral changes, so you might be alert to such things as continued fatigue, a sudden dropping off of school grades or unusual sloppiness in personal habits. I'd be quick to point out, though, that sudden changes in the activities and moods of a 13 year old are most common, so don't leap to any false conclusions.

If you have a problem or would like to comment, write to DEAR MARY JANE, P.O. Box 97, Enfield, Conn. 06082. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Traveling With The Diaper Set

Do you dread the thought of a family vacation this year just because your family now includes a member of the diaper set?

Well, don't! Thousands of babies go traveling every year. They go by all kinds of transportation. They vacation in all kinds of resort areas.

There is nothing new about traveling babies. The pioneers who crossed the continent by covered wagon took babies along. What is new, however, is the convenience parents can enjoy while indulging in the great American pastime — seeking a change of scenery.

One tip-off to the boom in the number of roving infants came to light in a recent survey made by an industry which exists only to serve the diaper set — the nation's diaper service industry.

The survey shows that diaper service firms located in or near resort areas must gear to serve a suddenly increased clientele whenever the vacation season starts. Diaper service trucks travel to the seashore and mountains, visit the swank hotels and extend their routes into national and state parks to serve babies in families that are camping out.

The first step, of course, is to consult your baby's physician. He is the best judge of whether or not your baby can travel comfortably. Your doctor can help you get your baby ready for the trip and advise you what to do in the event that he needs medical care.

Your doctor will tell you that it is always advisable to make your vacation plans with baby's health and welfare in mind. Three basic needs to consider are feeding, clothing and diapers.

Feeding
Prepare each day's feeding in advance. If you're going by car, an ice-pack picnic food container will keep the feedings sufficiently refrigerated until ready for use. Refrigeration facilities are available on trains and planes. Many airlines have available baby feeding kits consisting of a feeding bottle, a bottle cleaner and sterile water.

Diapers
When it's time to feed baby and you're traveling by car, a handy item to have along is a bottle warmer that plugs into the cigarette lighter socket. Or, you may stop at a roadside restaurant and ask the counterperson to warm the bottle for you. If you're traveling by train or plane, the dining car steward or the flight hostess will warm baby's bottle.

Bring along baby's favorite foods. Traveling is no time to start baby on something new. Babies and young children will sometimes react to strange supplies of water. A large thermos jug containing water from home, is therefore, a good idea. Don't forget the necessary dishes, cups, spoons and jar and can opener.

Clothing
Be prepared for changes in temperature. The weather in the places you plan to visit may have extremes you're not aware of. A long trip may take you into a completely different climate. Remember too that open car windows cause drafts which should be avoided and that while it may be hot outdoors, trains and planes usually are air conditioned.

Dress baby as comfortably as possible. If the weather turns hot, do not expose baby to a cool breeze. Instead, make baby comfortable by lessening the amount of clothing. If the weather turns suddenly cold, do not overdress baby. The inside of a car, train or plane is not only protected but it may also be heated. Instead, keep a blanket handy so baby can be warmly wrapped while being carried in and out.

Plan baby's wardrobe carefully. While you may be able to take along a large quantity of clothing in the family car, it may be a bit more difficult to do so on a train or plane. If your train or plane trip will be overnight, you will find it convenient to keep baby dressed in sleeping garments. Most of the clothes you take should be washable.

When you use diaper service at home, there is no need to give up this safeguard for baby's health and convenience to mother while on vacation. Your diaper service firm can refer you to a reliable source of supply in the area you plan to visit.

If you do your own diapers at home, you will have to make sure that the place you stay on vacation has facilities for washing and boiling. For mothers who don't want to spend precious vacation hours washing and boiling diapers this may be a good opportunity to take advantage of a good diaper service.

Professionally processed diapers are especially valuable at vacation time. They are treated with special antiseptics which delay the breakdown of baby's urine into skin-irritating ammonia.

Waterproof panties increase the necessity for prompt changing. They keep baby's skin in close contact with decomposin gurine or stool, which if prolonged, tend to permit water-logging of baby's skin and facilitate the start of diaper rash.

The Shaker Tradition Of Floral Arrangement In Enfield In The 1800's

Perk up the interior of your home this spring with a floral bouquet assembled in a style in keeping with the tradition of Shaker design that played so prominent a role in the history of the town of Enfield in the late eighteenth and the early nineteenth centuries.

A multi-floral bouquet in the traditional style of early Shakers.

Fermi Majorettes Sponsor Car Wash

The Fermi High School Majorettes are sponsoring a car wash, Saturday, June 5 from 9:00 to 5:00 at the C & R Texaco Station, 241 Hazard Avenue near Elm Road.

The girls have been working hard the past few weeks raising money to send themselves to camp this summer. Other projects have included a bake sale, Spring Concert ticket sale, and school stationary sale which is the present endeavor.

The girls were selected in May, after a week of practice every evening after school. They will entertain the fans at both football and basketball games this fall.

No shoddiness was allowed. Perfection and beauty must predominate at all times. The aesthetic theory that "all beauty rests on utility" applies to all facets of the Shaker style. The art of floral arrangement was no exception in the Shaker community. Household items such as wooden boxes, baskets, primitive stoneware, mugs, small crocks, and pewter items served as containers for the flowers.

Arrangements were simple. Purity of line was most important. The type of flower and the manner in which it was combined with other flowers was also of utmost importance.

As in the photo above, each flower, in keeping with the Shaker tradition, had a specific place to which it was strictly relegated within the floral arrangement.

The choice of flowers was not elaborate. Simple, readily available flowers, such as pansies, daisies and apple blossoms were most popular.

For a longer lasting bouquet, dried (artificial) and real flowers were often combined in the same bouquet. Shape and form predominated. Color was generally in keeping with that of the Early American style, earthy tones, of red, yellow and green being the most popular. Survey the flowers that blossom in your yard. Exercise your creative talent. Keep in mind: simplicity and purity of line. Choose flowers of a color and containers of a shape that will harmonize with the interior of your home. Experiment. The challenge and experience cannot help being rewarding.

Two envelopes are usually used for wedding invitations and announcements, although only one may be used. When you use, two envelopes, leave the inside one unsealed and seal the outer one. Tissue, which is often supplied by the stationery, for certain type faces is left in place to prevent smudging.

Although there are many acceptable variations, a fairly standard size for wedding invitations is seven and a half inches by five and a half inches and a folded invitation or announcement. Smaller invitations which may be slipped into an envelope unfolded are also acceptable. However, if reception cards are enclosed they may never be seen if the unfolded style is used.

In addressing the envelopes only the following abbreviations are acceptable: "Dr.," "Mr.," and "Jr.," or the initial of a name if you do not know it in full.

Return addresses should be written in full on the flap of the outer envelope.

With the dignity of the occasion, it is only natural to use first class stamps. Special commemorative stamps are acceptable.

Lastly and probably more important than most brides-to-be realize is the use of traditional handwriting to address envelopes. Use black ink. The penmanship should be obviously feminine and of the rounded, clean English style.

Fine Points Of Etiquette Regarding Proper Wedding Invitations And Reception Cards

It is the bride's family that decides the size and the style of the wedding. In conjunction with this decision goes the inevitable cost but also the right to decide on the style and appropriateness of the wedding invitations and the reception cards.

Generally speaking, the bride should have the right to choose her own style of invitation. It may be formal or informal; but, at all times must be etiquette correct. With Amy Vanderbilt as source of information, the following advice must be followed if a couple is to have their wedding invitations "correct to the letter."

Before purchasing invitations, mother, daughter and future in-laws should get together to make the decision of who, among relatives and friends, will be placed on the wedding list. This list must then be broken down into three categories: (1) those who receive invitations to the wedding; (2) those who receive a reception card in addition to the invitation; and (3) those who will receive announcements and "At Home" cards, if any.

Be sure to have an organized "check list" in order to keep close track of who will be attending the wedding.

Unlike ordinary social announcements, wedding invitations should be sent approximately four weeks in advance of the wedding. Engraved invitations take a long time to process and must be ordered at least ten weeks in advance of the wedding date, preferably twelve to fourteen.

Although announcements are not sent out until after the wedding has taken place, they should be ordered at the same time that the invitations are. In so doing, the purchaser often can save a little expense.

Properly speaking, invitations and reception cards should be engraved. It is far better to write personal letters or to inform your friends of your marriage by phone than to have your invitations and announcements poorly printed (according to Amy Vanderbilt's "Complete Etiquette", Part One, The Ceremonies of Life).

S.S. Pierce Plans To Reduce Food Prices By 30 Percent

S. S. Pierce, venerable Boston-based food and spirits firm famous for high quality foods since 1831, has announced price reductions of 30 percent on many of the most popular products in its line.

A company spokesman, Milton Isenberg, executive vice president of S. S. Pierce, has stated that the price reduction was made possible by a comprehensive cost-cutting program which revamped warehousing and distribution, reduction of inventory and the addition of new manufacturing facilities. He also termed the program "anti-inflationary". Costs will be reduced; quality will remain at the same high standard that has made the company famous.

By shifting from the traditional carriage trade to the shopping cart trade, S. S. Pierce now offers the discriminating food buyer high quality specialty foods at competitive prices. From now on, Isenberg said, customers will be able to buy more than 30 of the most popular S.S. Pierce foods for virtually the same prices they have been paying for other popular brands.

Items in the reduced price line include a complete line of canned fruits, vegetables, fish and the S.S. Pierce specialty meals in a can. This select line of S. S. Pierce foods will be stocked along with other national brands on grocery store and supermarket shelves instead of in special "gourmet" sections. To help hard-pressed families fight inflation, and still serve better foods, the S. S. Pierce test kitchen has produced some moderately priced family recipes using the new streamlined products.

The reduction in grocery prices, which is geared to deliver the traditional S.S. Pierce quality at popular prices in new volume areas, follows closely the company's vigorous move in the liquor market with an extensive company-wide sales effort which is still underway.

The new grocery program was tested thoroughly in several key cities throughout the United States. Working to insure its continuing success will be the company's principal subsidiaries such as the original Grocery Products Division; the Kennett Canning Company in Pennsylvania, one of the nation's largest growers and processors of mushrooms; Lincoln Foods, Inc., of Lawrence, Mass.; Pic'n Pac Foods, Inc., of San Martin, Calif., the state's largest strawberry producer, and State Line Potato Chip Company of North Wilbraham, Mass.

Legion Auxiliary Names Poppy Queen Strawberries Still Plentiful In Area

Mrs. Florence Johnson, chairman of the Poppy Drive, crowns this year's Poppy Queen, Miss Susan Archetti, as Mrs. Josephine Epstein, president of the Legion Auxiliary No. 80, stands in attendance.

Although the strawberry season is over in some parts of the west it continues in full swing in others, and the delicate aroma peculiar to that succulent delicacy still pervades fruit and vegetable stalls in most western markets.

Strawberries are grown commercially in most states, but the biggest producers, according to season, are: winter, Florida; early spring, Louisiana and the southern district of California; mid-spring, California, Tennessee, Virginia, Arkansas and Kentucky; late spring, Oregon, Washington, Michigan and New York.

History and Use
The strawberry was born in North and South America, but was a considerably different than the strawberry we now know. It was popular, however, and travelers took it to Europe. It returned to the Americas in quite a different form. Before Columbus landed at San Salvador, Indians of Chile had done little research on strawberries. Strawberries were not cultivated then — they just grew wild, mostly along the beaches. Lots of these strawberries were runts, but a few plants bore fruit of exceptional size — commonly as large as a walnut and sometimes the size of a hen's egg. This fruit was firm, meaty, pale red on the outside and with flesh that was almost white.

The early Chileans selected plants bearing large berries, and they were taken to Peru in 1557. They're still grown there, as well as in Ecuador and other South American countries. In 1714 a French officer by the name of Frezier took a fancy to Chilean strawberries and carried five live plants back to France with him. These he crossed with French strawberries that already had been crossed with plants of the eastern North American meadow berry, and from this international admixture the modern strawberry was developed.

U.S. Strawberry Development
Commercial development of strawberries in the United States has come principally since the War Between the States. Most varieties now grown have originated within the past 60 years. New and harder varieties made possible the extension of the territory where strawberries could be grown. Growth of railroads and development of refrigeration in transit permitted shipment to distant markets. Strawberries now are produced in every state in the Union. They are even grown in the interior of Alaska.

How strawberries were named is disputed. One theory is that straw was used between the rows to keep the berries clean and to protect the plants in winter. Another explanation is that in Europe ripe berries were threaded on straws to bring them to market.

At any rate, western homemakers know the popularity of the colorful strawberry — used cooked or uncooked, fresh, frozen, canned, in jams and jellies, in ice cream, sauces, syrups, for shortcake, pies, tarts, custards, creams, compotes and salads.

Reduce The Risk Of Heart Attack, Eat Proper Foods

The bachelor who can't or won't cook, and the traveling salesman who eats most of his meals on the road may be headed for heart trouble.

A diet emphasizing foods rich in saturated fats and cholesterol — the bacon-and-eggs, hamburger-and-French fries, meat-with-gravy and coffee-with-cream route followed by so many who constantly eat out, can speed the development of hardening of the arteries.

Usually, the items mentioned above are loaded with animal (saturated) fats and/or cholesterol, which influence coronary artery disease, the forerunner of heart attack. Clearly, the bachelor or salesman is on a spot. However, moderate changes in eating habits may get him off it.

The Western Chapter of the Massachusetts Heart Association, therefore, offers this heart-helping advice, which applies to anyone who eats out often:

●Go easy on roll and biscuit basket. Commercial types usually are made with butter, eggs, whole milk, cream or other saturated fats.

●Ask your waitress for margarine instead of butter. Margarine and most vegetable oils contain polyunsaturated fats, which can help lower cholesterol blood levels.

●Ask your waitress to load up the appetizer tray. You'll relish nibbling all you want on celery, carrots, radishes, scallions, pickles and the like.

●You also can have your fill of salads, providing you use oil and vinegar dressing. It's tasty and your salad will have neither saturated fat or cholesterol.

●For the main course, concentrate on lean meats, fish and poultry, baked, broiled or roasted. If a sauce is served on your meat, scrape it off. Remove the skin from the turkey and chicken, to avoid most of the fowl fat.

●If you like milk, try skim milk, or buttermilk and yogurt made from skim milk. You can have cocoa made with low-fat milk.

●Naturally, you should avoid or eat sparingly of rich desserts. What's left? A large variety of fresh fruits or canned fruit without added sugar, gelatin fruit whip, puddings if made with low-fat milk, ice milk and sherbet in moderation.

Diet alone won't reduce the risk of heart attack, or of stroke, which follows the fat-clogging of an artery to the brain. Other important risk factors to control include high blood pressure, cigarette smoking, sedentary living, excess weight and other disease states such as diabetes.

If you and your camera capture on film the ways in which The Savings Bank of Rockville helps you and your community, you may win the grand prize of $500 ... or one of three $100 second prizes ... or one of twenty $25 merit awards.

You probably love taking pictures for fun. But have you ever entered any of your pictures in a contest? Here's your chance to win some money and maybe even see your work in print. What's more, you don't have to have any fancy equipment to submit a prize-winner. The simplest camera can do the job if you have an imaginative eye on the local scene! Our contest is open to amateurs only (no professional photographers, please), so don't be afraid to enter.

What you do send us or bring in as many prints or slides as you think best describe our services to local families, and our role in the Tolland County community. Your pictures must be taken locally, of course. For example, your favorite baby snapshot might well depict a good reason to open a savings account for future education ... or an amusing picture of a backyard picnic could describe the priceless pleasures of homeownership made possible by a Savings Bank of Rockville mortgage loan ... or a shot of one of your paint-covered kids helping dad finish up the porch might suggest money borrowed for home improvements. Get the idea?

The whole point is, we want to get you thinking about our commitment to you and your town, a commitment which we feel strongly about because we're headquartered here and over 80% of the money we've lent for mortgages is working right here where it's bought and built houses and apartments as well as churches, convalescent homes and places of business.

Your pictures must have "us" in them even though we may be behind the scenes! Each photo you submit must be accompanied by an entry form containing a statement of 25 words or less, describing what our role is in the situation you've photographed.

To get inspired, think of some of our services like Savings Accounts, Christmas, Tax and Vacation Clubs, Mortgage and Home Improvement Loans, Personal Loans for cars, appliances, tuition and other necessities, Travelers Checks, School Savings, Bank Money Orders and Life-Insured Mortgage Plans.

Stop in at either of our offices and talk with us about any of these and we'll explain some more, if you like. At the same time, pick up your official entry blanks and easy rules. Closing date for the contest is August 31, 1971, so get busy! Judging will be done by Victor Keppler and members of the Famous Photographers School in Westport.

There will be one GRAND PRIZE winner of $500 ... three SECOND PRIZE winners of $100 each ... and twenty MERIT AWARD winners who will each receive a $25 gift certificate for photographic supplies from local camera shops.

Strawberries Alaskan Style

Strawberry Apple Dessert makes a light but delicious finish for any meal.

Wouldn't it be fun to journey northward to Alaska, the land of igloos, and Eskimos? Don't your parka: the magic carpet is ready to go! And upon arrival a happy Eskimo is there to greet you after your long trip and to invite you to his home for dinner.

The feature on the menu tonight is the dessert. It's as cool and refreshing as the state for which it is named. Strawberry Lemon Alaska has as its base the lemon chiffon cake mix, a light and lovely cake that has just made its debut on the market. The fresh flavor of strawberry ice cream is the perfect complement for the delicate and tender chiffon, and it's topped with fluffy white frosting that is also made from a mix. Use the center strip of a loaf cake for the dessert — and the side strips cut into bite-sized squares make wonderful coffee snacks! The last bite has disappeared, and it's time to leave the igloo. But you don't need a magic carpet to enjoy Strawberry Lemon Alaska again. A trip to the corner grocery will provide you with the few ingredients you need to create this dessert extraordinary.

Here's the recipe from the Betty Crocker kitchens:

Strawberry Lemon Alaska
Bake lemon chiffon cake mix in oblong pan, 13 x 9 1/2 x 2" for 45 to 55 min. Cool; remove from pan. Cut a 5" lengthwise strip through center of cake. Save smaller strips for later use.

Place remaining oblong piece on baking sheet or bread board. Use 2 pint bricks of ice cream cut in half horizontally; fit on top of cake. Place cake and ice cream in freezer until ice cream is very hard (about 2 hours). Prepare 2 pkgs. fluffy white frosting mix. Completely frost cake and ice cream allowing frosting to touch board or baking sheet. Bake 3 to 5 min. at 500 deg. until golden brown. Serve immediately.

Clock-Watchers Casserole

Simple, elegant and delicious.

Who wouldn't be willing to take pot luck with attractive Tuna Almondine? No one, not even the cook. If sauce and noodles are cooked ahead it takes a scant 30 minutes to do the combining — generous chunks of tuna with olives, slivered almonds, nonfat dry milk and very sharp cheese slices. Bake until sauce bubbles and top's lightly browned. Top, if you like, with almond halves, so texture as well as taste's intriguing. Complement with a crisp green salad and hot rolls made from ready-to-bake packaged dough, spread with plenty of sweet Danish-style margarine.

Tuna Almondine

(Makes 6 servings)

- 4 cups cooked noodles (one 8-oz. pkg. medium egg noodles)
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups liquid Starlac nonfat dry milk
- 1 (6 oz.) pkg. Vera Sharp cheese slices, cut into strips

- 1/2 cup sliced pimento-stuffed olives
 - 1/2 cup toasted, slivered almonds
 - 2 (7 1/2-oz.) cans flaked tuna-fish, well drained
- Cook noodles according to package directions. Drain. In a small saucepan, melt butter over low heat. Stir in flour, salt and pepper until well blended. Remove from heat. Gradually stir in nonfat milk and return to heat. Cook over low heat; stir constantly until mixture becomes thick and smooth. Add cheese strips; stir until melted. Stir in olives, almonds and tuna fish. Turn into a well-buttered 1-1/2 quart casserole. Bake in moderate (350 deg. F.) oven about 20-25 minutes, or until sauce is bubbly and top is lightly browned. If desired, garnish with almond halves.

Traveling Abroad? Know The Requirements

For the thousands of Connecticut residents who travel abroad each year there are immunization rules that may apply, depending on the places to be visited. Practicing physicians, or local and state health departments should be consulted as to the required and recommended pre-travel immunization or other protective measures. Attention now to the needs of travelers to specific areas abroad can help these people start their immunizations and other steps that will save time at quarantine stations, as well as prevent illness. Immunization against some diseases is necessary for travelers between most nations today. Not required but highly recommended for persons entering areas with malaria are prophylactic steps against this disease. Americans journeying abroad are also urged to be sure they are immunized against polio.

Who Needs the International Certificates of Vaccination?

The starting point for fulfilling vaccination requirements is linked with the official form International Certificates of Vaccination. These are issued by the Public Health Service of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and are available from federal agencies issuing applications for passports, airline ticket offices, most travel agencies, many private physicians, local and state health departments.

The vaccination form must be utilized for travelers to any countries which require immunizations for smallpox, cholera or yellow fever. When any of these three immunizations are given, the physician administering the protection will sign and date the completed certificate. The traveler then must have a local or state health department validate the certificate.

The certificate in addition to any information on the three required immunization procedures, has space where his physician can enter helpful facts on the traveler's status — the other immunizations which he has had, a brief personal health record with such indicators as blood type, allergies or diabetes. The traveler's physician should note on his or her certificate if there are medical reasons why certain immunizations should not be given due to conditions such as pregnancy or allergy.

Periods of Validity
International Certificates of Vaccination Against Cholera are valid for six months, starting six days after one injection of vaccine. One injection given before the end of the validity of the certificate renders the certificate valid for another six months starting on the day of this injection. If the revaccination is recorded on a new certicate, travelers are advised to retain the old certificate for six days, until the new certificate is valid.

International Certificates of Vaccination Against Yellow Fever are valid for ten years beginning ten days after vaccination. Revaccination performed before the end of the validity of the certificate renders the certificate valid for a period of ten years starting on the day of revaccination. If the revaccination is recorded on a new certificate, travelers are advised to retain the old certificate for ten days.

International Certificates of Vaccination Against Smallpox are valid for three years starting eight days after the date of a successful primary vaccination. In a case of revaccination, the validity period of three years starts on the day of revaccination.
