

Chamber Of Commerce Gets $88,839 Job Training Grant

A federal grant of $88,839 is being awarded the Greater Enfield Chamber of Commerce for the training of 24 disadvantaged persons for jobs in 10 local business and industrial firms, according to U. S. Rep. Ella T. Grasso.

The grant, she said, is to be made available through the National Alliance for Business Jobs '70 Program, (NAB) administered by the U. S. Department of Labor. Administration of the local program will be by the CoFC, said its director, Marcel St. Sauveur.

In announcing the grant, Rep. Grasso said "this represents another example of the initiative and cooperation of the people of Enfield to solve the problems of high unemployment in town. This effort required the active cooperative participation of 10 business firms to create the positions and the leadership of the Greater Enfield Chamber of Commerce to apply for the grant and to develop the neces-

Town Purchases 3rd Land Plot For Industrial Park

The town of Enfield has purchased the third of 94 parcels of land scheduled to compose the 500-acre industrial park here, according to Town Manager C. Samuel Kissinger.

The industrial park is located between Hazard Ave. and Middle and South Roads and adjoins I-91 on the west.

Totaling 6.07 acres in the southeast corner of the park site, the land was purchased Monday for $15,260 from Philip and Margaret Connor of West Hartford.

This latest purchase brings the amount the town has spent to acquire acreage to $72,460.

The park is expected to have industries employing 6,000 persons. Situated in the west end of the park, the first two tracts were bought by the town in late October.

The first, a 21.6-acre tract, was bought for $55,000 from Miss Doris Quinn. The second piece, four tenths of an acre, was bought from Mrs. Rose Romano of Beech Ave. for $2,200.

Several more pieces are scheduled for purchase by the town in the next week or so, said Town Atty. John Adams.

Miller Makes Appeal For March Of Dimes

Everyone in Hartford County can get the new year off to a better start with an important contribution to the health of future generations, reports Ross Miller 1971 - 72 March of Dimes chapter chairman.

"By returning your check in our annual mail appeal, you can help finance research into causes and prevention of birth defects. There are more than 1,000 congenital handicaps that affect nearly 250,000 new born babies each year in our country," he adds.

The January fund drive seeks support for March of Dimes work in research, medical care, education, and community service. Contributions go toward a network of over 100 medical service programs, including the Yale - New Haven Medical Center and the University of Connecticut Medical School.

"It is centers like this" said Miller, "that help find ways to correct and prevent so many birth defects that can ordinarily doom a child and its family to a life of despair.

I am confident that the people of Hartford County will continue to generously support the March of Dimes in its fight against crippling birth defects, our nation's greatest childhood health menace."

JC's Collect 7 1/2 Tons Of Glass

Despite sub-freezing temperatures and bone chilling winds, Enfield residents emphasized their concern for ecology by flocking to the Enfield Mall with their glass for recycling. The Enfield Jaycees and Jaycee Wives collected more than 15,000 pounds of glass last Saturday morning.

"This is a definite step forward in the town's ecology movement," stated Mrs. Joel DeNigris, wives co-chairman. "We were confident that our All America City residents would co-operate. They sure did, and we are thankful to each and every one of them."

John Cutter, chairman for the men's group, added, "Although we were prepared to handle more glass than we received, we were very gratified at the response on Saturday. To the best of our knowledge, it is more glass collected than ever before in Enfield. This is further indication why the program must be continued."

"We hope to be announcing, shortly, a central location where people can take their glass at their convenience rather than store it in their homes. Meanwhile, we thank all those who participated last Saturday, and look forward to meeting many new faces at our next big collection drive Feb. 19."

Council Votes $29,000 For PW Garage Land

The Town Council at its meeting Monday passed five resolutions, three appropriations of funds and cited five citizens for their activities on behalf of the town.

Those thanked formally for their service to the community were Ernest Mankus for service to the housing authority, former Councilman Ernest Corbin, former Councilman Harold Cote and John T. McKenna, former chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals. McKenna has moved to Spain.

Disposing Of Christmas Trees

introduced that chews up the trees, the men had to bury them. The remains of the trees will be spread throughout the state's parks.

Mayor Mancuso Proclaims January 16-22 As Jaycee Week In Enfield

Mayor Frank Mancuso proclaimed January 16-22 as Jaycee Week in Enfield and asked local organizations to cooperate in the observance. The observance of Jaycee Week in Enfield is part of a nation-wide celebration of the Jaycees' 52nd birthday.

The purpose of the week is to focus the town's attention on the young men of the town who are working on several projects of community interest.

The Jaycees were founded in 1915 by Henry Giessenbler, when he recognized a need for a young men's civic group and organized the first local chapter in St. Louis. The movement spread fast, and by 1920, twenty-four cities were represented in an association called the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce. The name of the organization was changed to the U. S. Jaycees in 1965.

The Enfield chapter of the Jaycees was formed in 1955. Since then, it has worked on various community projects, most notably the restoration of the grounds of Brainard Park.

This year its president, Ben Tartaglia of 2 Louise Dr., laid emphasis on projects which benefit the town socially, and projects which better its environment. The Enfield Jaycees are currently in the process of organizing a Voluntary Action Center in the town as a reservoir of talent for the various town organizations. In addition, there is in progress a glass recycling project which has met with great success so far. Tony Mirabella of 14 Wilstar Cir., has assumed the chairmanship of a project to make the Enfield Dam a safer place for the shad fishermen (and boys) who spend so much time there in late spring and early summer.

To illustrate some of their past projects as well as current projects, the Jaycees are going to man a booth at the Enfield Mall during the week of Jan. 17. On display will be a collection of photographs showing the highlights of some of the Jaycees' current projects.

On Jan. 21, at 8 p.m., a 20-inch convertible bicycle and an instamatic camera will be given away to the winners of a free drawing. The drawing is being held, according to Ken Hansen of 5 Sandpiper Rd., in order to express in a small way the appreciation of the Jaycees for the support given them year-round by the townspeople.

Etherington Guest Speaker At Lincoln Day Dinner On Feb. 12

Edwin D. Etherington of Old Lyme, former president of the American Stock Exchange and of Wesleyan University will be the guest speaker at the Seventh Senatorial District's Annual Lincoln Day Dinner and Dance to be held at St. Adalbert's Hall on Alden Ave. Feb. 12. The affair is sponsored by the Seventh Senatorial District Republican Organization.

Etherington, an articulate and well known speaker, is active in the business, civic and political affairs of the State. He is a graduate of Wesleyan University and Yale Law School, and served with the United States Army as an infantryman during World War II. After his release from the service he taught at Yale and Wesleyan and shortly thereafter served as a practicing attorney in the District of Columbia and New York City. At the age of 37 he became President of the American Stock Exchange, a position he held for four years. In 1966 he was appointed President of Wesleyan University, and he remained in this position until 1970. He left the position to seek Republican nomination for the United States Senate and to pursue his many business, civic and public service interests.

Ted was appointed by Governor Meskill to head the Governor's Commission on Services and Expenditures, a position which he still holds. He is also currently a Director of the American Express Company, the Connecticut cut General Life Insurance Company, Southern New England Telephone Company and the United States Trust Company of New York. He is a Trustee of the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation of New York, and serves on several college advisory committees. He was recently elected President of the National Center for Voluntary Action in Washington and was commended by President Nixon for his efforts to promote volunteer agencies.

The affair will start with a cocktail party at 6:30 p.m. followed by dinner and dancing until 1 a.m. Tickets may be purchased from Robert F. Webb at 745-0954, Robert Corbin at 749-7938, Richard Lafforgue at 749-7481, John Zdeliski at 745-4214, John C. Koseian at 623-824 7 or 745-6494 or any member of the Republican Town Committee.

Agriculture Dept. Yearbook Available From Mrs. Grasso

Sixth District U. S. Representative Ella T. Grasso announced that a copy of the 1971 Agriculture Department yearbook is being mailed from her Washington office to all colleges, high schools and libraries in the District.

Mrs. Grasso is also sending copies of The Yearbook of Agriculture 1971 to those individuals who have had requests on file. A limited number of 1971 yearbooks are still available, in addition to copies of previous Agriculture Department yearbooks for the years of 1960, 1962, 1966, 1968 and 1969.

District residents who would like an Agriculture Department yearbook should write to Mrs. Grasso at her Washington office: 513 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515. The yearbooks will be distributed as long as the supply lasts.

In her letter to District colleges, high schools and libraries enclosing the 1971 yearbook, Mrs. Grasso said: "This annual publication of the U. S. Department of Agriculture is a valuable addition to any library. The theme of this 1971 Agriculture Department yearbook is 'A Good Life For More People.' It provides insight into the services, resources and space needs of our people as the challenging future unfolds."

Coalition Party To Remain Active

Encouraged by countless Enfield residents, the members of the Independent Coalition Party have decided to continue as a group and to play an active role in the affairs of the community.

Formed in August of 1971, five members of the ICP ran for council in last November's election and almost without financial resources or an organization these candidates received an amazing 12 - 17 per cent of the popular vote. Inefficiency and bungling by the present town government

Bigos To Push For Public Hearing On Routes 190, 220

By BILL CLARK
State Rep. Stanley A. Bigos declares that "we need political muscle" to get the state to give higher priorities to improvement of Rts. 190 and 220, "and we intend to get it."

To that end, he said "I have written letters to Francis Pilch, chairman of the Democratic Party, and to John Koseian, chairman of the Republican Party, urging a joint effort in getting approval of these projects. I also have written to Mayor Frank Mancuso and Town Manager C. Samuel Kissinger suggesting that they and concerned citizens work out a program and hold a public hearing. Officials of the Department of Transportation should be invited to this Enfield-based hearing."

Furthermore, said Bigos, "the Town Council should write a letter to Gov. Thomas J. Meskill and also to Earl A. Wood, Commissioner of DOT. I am also writing letters to William Ratchford, Speaker of the State House of Representatives, and to Carl Ajello, its Majority Leader; and also to Sen. Charles T. Alfano, asking their help."

Bigos suggested that copies of an article and editorial appearing in the Jan. 6 issue of the Enfield Press on the traffic problems in the mall areas along 190 and 220 created by the state's slowness in improving the two routes, "be sent to these officials."

Bigos said "the Enfield Press is to be congratulated for the forthright stand it took in its editorial and article last week about the state delay in improving Routes 190 and 220," but "there is even more to the story. If the program for reconstruction of these roads is jeopardizing our businesses, it is of concern to all of us. We are going to continue the battle to have this accomplished."

The 45th Assembly District Representative said that "Route 190 may not be completed for 12 or 13 years, rather than 10 as reported. The Department of Transportation admits it is aware of the problems but the best it could do was to place this project in a so-called 'need study.' After this study is completed, the matter will have to go before the legislature for authorization of money, and after that about a year will be re-

The Enfield Mental Health Center Serves 6 Area Towns

A new sign reading "Greater Enfield Mental Health Center" has recently been installed in front of the gray building at 1077 Enfield St. in Enfield. The word "Greater" has been added to reflect more accurately that this unique center serves not only Enfield, but Somers, Suffield, East Granby, East Windsor and Windsor Locks.

A wide variety of mental health services are being provided by this center. Unlike the usual adult or child oriented clinic, the center provides individual, group and family psychiatric treatment to both children and adults. The full range of "people problems" are seen and worked with at the center (e.g., the couple who is thinking about getting a divorce, the man who worries too much about his job, the child who just can't seem to concentrate, the woman who can't sleep at night -)

It's not uncommon for the staff to hear:

"I've got to talk with someone today."

"We can't live together and we can't live apart."

"Nobody wants you when you're old."

"They just won't mind me anymore and I feel like screaming."

"Maybe I act tough, but no body knows how scared I really am."

"Perhaps everything would be better if I were dead."

A special service of the center is a "Drop-In" hour every Wednesday from 4 to 5 p.m. when anyone may bring questions or concerns that they wish to discuss with the professional staff at the center. This All Purpose Drop-In Hour is available to anyone (young people, and adults.) If it is determined that

Irish Poet Colum Dies In Enfield

Irish-born poet, playwright, essayist, folklorist, novelist and writer of children's stories, Padraic Colum died Tuesday at Parkway Convalescent home in Enfield.

The Enfield Press honored his 90th birthday in the Dec 9th issue.

First coming to the United States in 1914, Colum felt that it was "avante garde and an adventurous thing to do."

Being a major force in the Irish Renaissance, Colum founded the Abbey Theater with William Butler Yeats.

He lived in Paris during the 1920's and was closely associated with American expatriate writers living there.

In Enfield, Dec. 7, he was honored by the American Irish Foundation which cited him for "helping to make the ideals and passions and lyricism of Irish heritage accessible to countless Americans."

Centurions Going To Washington

The Centurions Drum and Bugle Corps have received an official invitation to participate in the annual National Cherry Blossom Festival Parade of Princesses to be held April 8 in Washington, D.C.

Only 250 applications are accepted for this colorful event and of these only 50 to 60 groups are chosen by the selection committee to actually participate. The parade is one of the annual events planned by the Washington Convention and Visitors Bureau and is the highlight of the Spring season in Washington.

Acceptance of the invitation was made to Peter Dove, parade chairman by the Centurions Business Manager, R. D. Shirley and plans are being developed for the corps trip and participation.

Armchair Races, Dance On Jan. 22

The Enfield Parents Sports Association will hold a repeat performance of its popular Armchair Races and Dance Event January 22 at the Elks Home, corner of Maple St. and Moody Rd.

Armchair Races are similar to the Las Vegas Nights, but more fun. The betting windows will open at 7:30 p.m. and post time will be 8 p.m.

The Fred DiMario Penthouse Quartet will provide the dance music after the races until 1:30 a.m.

A donation of $4 per couple is asked and all proceeds will be used to further sports activities for the youth of Enfield. And, it's a B.Y.O.B. affair. Refreshments will not be served.

Because of the limited amount of tickets available, it is suggested that you contact Mrs. Donald O'Shea at 749-6338.

EHS Student To Perform In Hartford Youth Symphony

By T. PATRICK FLANAGAN

Jeffery Stroup, an Enfield High School student and a member of the school's concert band, will be performing with the well-known Hartford Youth Symphony in its annual concert Sunday at the Hartt College of Music in West Hartford.

Stroup, who moved to Enfield last September, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne D. Stroup, formerly of Hawaii now living at 15 Monroe Rd. He will be performing as the first clarinetist in the symphony and will be playing a solo in some of the concert's pieces including Schubert's Second Movement of His Unfinished Symphony. After auditioning early in the fall of the current school year for a position in the youth symphony, he was informed that he would be filling the first chair spot in the woodwind section.

While living in Oahu, Hawaii, Jeff played in the All-Hawaii Concert Band, the Hawaii Youth Symphony, his high school band and other musical organizations in Hawaii. Stroup currently studies clarinet privately with Kenneth Legace at the Hartt College of Music.

The Hartford Youth Symphony, conducted by the Symphony's Concertmaster, Bernard Lurie, is made up of selected high school musicians from throughout Connecticut. The 80-piece group has been rehearsing every Saturday afternoon since early September in preparation for the program. The concert, which should prove to be very entertaining, will highlight Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and segments of three concertos for cello, piano and viola. This Sunday's annual concert will begin at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available from Jeff Stroup by calling 749-4133 or from Dana Hawes at Enfield High School.

Site Of Hazard House

The sign of the Enfield Inn still stands two years after the $100,000 fire that destroyed the 180-year-old building. Originally the home of Col. Augustus G. Hazard, founder of the Hazard Powder Co., the building was fashioned after the French Colonial pattern of architecture.

Enfield, Manchester CAP

What happens if you have a large armory and a lot of good equipment for a CAP squadron that needs cadet members? On the other hand what happens if you have a large group of young adult members, a fairly large number of adults but a small facility to meet in, combined by the need for a senior commander?

This is exactly what happened to the Enfield Cadet Civil Air Patrol Unit and the Manchester Composite Squadron which recently combined. Enfield which had no senior commander, but a lot of active cadet members who meet in a very small church facility in town. Manchester had similar problems except that they have a large meeting facility, they needed the one thing that Enfield could supply — a large number of active cadet members along with some adult leaders, all who could boost the roster of any active group.

What happens? The two groups combine and form one large and strong unit with a lot of enthusiasm and spirit. Now the Enfield unit belongs to a combined squadron complete with a commander, a large meeting facility and the Manchester Group inherits exactly what it needed — more cadets.

Under the combined plan the Enfield group of Civil Air Patrol still meets every Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Church, but once a month the Enfield members will attend a Thursday evening meeting in Manchester with the rest of the large group. The new commander of Enfield and Manchester, Captain Thomas Morgan of Manchester, appointed Warrant Officer William Hunter, formerly with the United States Army, as the executive officer of Enfield. Hunter's responsibility will be to act as the commander's representative in Enfield. He will be in direct charge of the entire operation in Enfield.

If there are any male or female adults who are interested in possibly joining the squadron or seeking more information about its activities such as flying or camping, they should call 745-5369.

If there are any youths ages 13-21 interested in finding out what Civil Air Patrol has to offer them, call the same number.

The Enfield group meets every Tuesday evening from 7:30 till 9:30 at St. Mary's Church.

Two CAP cadets, Cadet Sergeant W. Sweeney and Sergeant F. Kaesar, members of the newly-combined Enfield and Manchester Cadet Squadrons of Civil Air Patrol are shown next to a F-86 Sabre-Jet that was restored at the Connecticut Aeronautical Historical Society at Bradley Field during a joint CAP — CAHA activity.

Good Luck Mr. Coordinator!

The appointment of Enfield's first Industrial Coordinator couldn't have come at a more opportune time.

Industry is sadly lacking in Enfield, which claims the largest and most successful commercial center in New England. But it is not enough to be a shoppers paradise. Without a substantial percentage of industry, there is an imbalance which must be overcome to fairly distribute the source of tax income.

Ronald E. Cote assumed his new duties last week, with multiple responsibilities. Basically, he will be instrumental in selling land in Enfield Memorial Industrial Park which is a long-range undertaking to get new industries to locate in Enfield. On the other hand, he will work with industries already here to keep them here.

It is a challenging job, the success of which should have a vital impact on the future of the All-American City.

A resident of Enfield, Cote is acquainted with its problems, and its potentials. This is a good start, and as a former aircraft program manager, he has had some acquaintance with what is expected of him. Furthermore, as coordinator he has many sources to draw from to tie together a program which could bring tremendous benefits to the community.

Enfield now is in a position to make an all-out pitch for industry, with centralized concentration on this one big objective. There are not going to be any over-night results, and no one expects a magic wand came with the job. But the long-range results should be positive and substantial, and we wish Cote every success in giving the town the industrial boost it sorely needs.

A Real People Problem

The death, damage, destruction and degradation inflicted on man and his environment by air pollution have reached alarming proportions.

In the United States air pollution is a problem in all large cities and many small towns. Each year over 200 million tons of man-made waste products are released into the air of the United States. About half of this pollution is produced as a result of the transportation system, coming chiefly from the internal combustion engine.

The adverse economic effects of air pollution are much more varied and substantial than is generally realized. They range from the waste of fuel and other valuable resources, through the soiling and corrosion of physical structures of all kinds, to damage the agriculture and forests. Moreover, by reducing visibility, air pollution contributes to the toll of accidents in both air and ground travel.

Within the last decade we have begun to understand that air pollution is a complex phenomenon of global significance. It involves gaseous as well as particulate contaminants; both can sometimes be altered and rendered more hazardous through inter-reactions which occur in the atmosphere under the influence of sunlight, moisture and other environmental factors.

The first federal program on air pollution was developed in 1955 when the Public Health Service conducted a modest air pollution research program and offered technical assistance to state and local governments, which traditionally have had primary responsibility for dealing with community air pollution problems.

In 1963, Congress passed the landmark Clean Air Act. This law authorized financial assistance to state and local governments for the initiation and improvement of control programs, federal-interstate abatement actions, and the publication of criteria describing the effects of pollution. The law placed special emphasis on gaseous pollutants, particularly exhaust emissions from motor vehicles and sulfur oxides from stationary sources.

In 1965 amendments to the Clean Air Act gave the federal government authority to curb motor vehicle emissions. Federal standards were first applied to 1968 motor vehicles.

The Air Quality Act of 1967 called for a new and more comprehensive approach to the problem. It required the designation of air quality regions on the basis of meteorologic and urban factors, and the publication of criteria documents (describing the effects of pollutants) accompanied by related documents on the types and costs of techniques available to carry our source control.

Governors were required to establish air quality standards and implementation plans for regions designated. The work accomplished under the 1967 legislation paved the way for enactment of the Clean Air Act amendments of 1970 which were signed into law on Dec. 31, 1970.

This represents a major step in our battle to make the air we breathe cleaner and healthier.

Under the provisions of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1970:

EPA established national ambient air quality standards specifying the maximum permissible levels of six principal pollutants, (sulphur oxides, particulate matter, carbon monoxide, photochemical oxidants, nitrogen oxides and hydrocarbons). These pollutants have an adverse effect on public health.

States must carry out implementation plans for limiting the emission of pollutants so as to achieve the primary standards by July of 1975. If any state should fail to develop or carry out such plans, EPA is authorized to do so. States must submit their plans to EPA by February, 1972.

EPA establishes and enforces emission standards for new motor vehicles. Standards have been promulgated requiring a reduction of 90% in hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide emitted by 1975 models as compared with the 1970 requirements and 90% reduction in oxides of nitrogen by 1976.

These are only a few of the responsibilities EPA will have under the Clean Air Act Amendments. The Agency will continue to conduct extensive research into all aspects of air pollution, both in its own laboratories and through grants and contracts and will continue to make financial grants to state, interstate and local agencies to aid their pollution control programs.

But legislation is not a magic wand to wave and cleanse our skies. It will be effective, and we will have clean air, only if all of us — industry, government at all levels, and concerned citizens — fulfill our respective responsibilities.

It will be effective only if the people make it so.

The End Of Long Hair - Maybe

Unlike Sir Galahad, whose strength was that of ten, because his heart was pure, I seem to have the strength of one hundred, because my hair is long.

Michael J. DeLisa, a registered barber in Enfield has called on me to make a public apology to all barbers as the result of my writing about not having a professional haircut in a year. He stated my article "has done more to harm the barbers' business than any hundred hippies could possibly have done."

There are serious doubts in my mind that my lighthearted report on my two daughters giving me haircuts will start any trend or put a single barber out of business. Also, the longhaired fad began a long time before I stopped going to my favorite barber last year.

However, in all fairness to Mr. DeLisa, I've discussed the matter with higher authorities and they agree with him that perhaps shorter hair is coming back. U. S. Representative Ella Grasso, who happens to be Mr. DeLisa's congresswoman, noted my curly locks the other day and made mention of them to Mr. DeLisa's Secretary of State, Gloria Schaffer.

Mrs. Schaffer, who is no slouch when it comes to fashion, told me flatly short hair was coming back. Since both of these gals are as bright as they come, my barber Hubert Gellinas better brush off the chair for me.

My mention of compulsive letter writers raised more wrath from readers than the newsman named Charles LaFreniere, who is now living in Pomfret Center, Conn. It was LaFreniere who mentioned Burke's legal background to me and I've never known him to be wrong.

Lou Edman Describes

they are authorities on anything under the sun.

Maybe she's right. I thought to myself. Who are we to set ourselves up as judges of people's motives? And so what happens; five days after the lady's letter appears in print taking me to task, she has another in a Hartford newspaper favoring abortions.

Mr. Eugene Bochinski, of Rockville, may not be an authority on everything under the sun, but does he know his Edmund Burke! After saying two of my statements concerning Edmund Burke, "the author and statesman of England, most complimentary and precise," he asks for proof Burke was a lawyer.

Mr. Bochinski evidently has made the study of Burke a hobby. All I know about him is a vague memory of having to memorize part of a speech he made about a conciliation with the colonies. My Rockville correspondent asks:

"If you have factual proof of Burke's law practice, I would appreciate knowing of it. As for myself, I cannot accept the appendage of 'lawyer' to Burke."

In this instance, my source of information was an old time

As a matter of fact, to coin a cliché, Charlie told me he went to school with Burke, although a couple of years behind him. Nevertheless, he says he had a hand in the introduction of Burke's most famous speech, beginning:

"I hope, sir, that not withstanding the austerity of the chair, your good nature will incline you to some degree of indulgence."

Only a LaFreniere could come up with such elegant language. He provided me with the direct quote and if it's wrong, Mr. Bochinski, the fault lies with Edmund Burke, for forgetting his lines.

Finally, let me give credit to Henry W. Pearson, who confessed to being a rookie letter to the editor writer. On publication of his first letter, he said:

"I felt the absolute passion a man feels when he thinks he's just socked it to 'em, regardless of reality."

Thanks, Hank, for putting in "regardless of reality."

Does School Make Kids Sick?

By ARMAND A. FUSCO

One of the relatively common childhood fears of greatest concern to parents is that of school phobia — a fear of school so intense that it makes kids sick. And school phobia is not limited to just the beginning of the school year because it can occur at anytime and at any grade level.

Although school phobia is a psychological problem, it results in physical symptoms such as nausea, stomach aches, loss of appetite, headache, sore throat, dizziness, etc.

There are a variety of reasons why children develop school phobia. Difficulties in school such as a strict or complaining teacher, an undisciplined class, poor achievement in school (most phobic children, however, are usually good students), peer problems, real or fancied problems associated with going to the toilet, etc. are just some of the actual school factors which can cause kids to get sick.

Directly connected school fears, once identified, usually respond quickly to therapy or counseling because only the child needs treatment and a co-operative school can make adjustments in the school program to alleviate the problem.

However, the usual or typical school phobic child is not made sick by the school but rather by his parents.

"Most children with school phobia have been overprotected by their parents all along. Many find they can get what they want during their attacks of panic, and this may provide a motive for perpetuating staying away from school."

One study found that mothers of children with this phobia suffered from unresolved emotional relationships to their own mothers. Another study indicated that the phobic child is unable to give up his dependency tie to his mother because of her clinging to him.

"Neither the mother or child knows what is taking place, but both behave as though they were unconsciously aware of each other's deeper needs."

One of the most extensive studies on the subject involved over 888 families in which there was a phobic child and four family types were found.

The perfectionist family places undue emphasis on being without fault and on avoiding open friction. The emotions are so strong in this type of family that they overtax themselves and the children as well.

Affairs Of State

By CARLTON HILL
State Education Commissioner William J. Sanders has tried to steer a middle course on the issue of financing local schools. A looming challenge to the present system of reliance mainly upon municipal property taxes makes the debate over a state income tax more inane than ever.

In Connecticut, as elsewhere in the nation, there is a two edged attack aimed at cutting down the fences between the cities and the suburbs in this legal contest. Its central theme is that equality of education is denied because the small, rich towns can afford to spend more than the urban areas.

Courts in Minnesota, Texas and California have declared the existing method of school financing is unconstitutional. In this state, a suit filed in federal court by the American Legal Heritage Association on the same contention may be followed by others with big city sponsorship.

Sanders has spoken against the idea proposed in the initial legal move to set up equalized statewide grants, while also asking payment for non-public schools through grants to students attending them. The latter seeks to latch onto a relatively popular drive to save parochial schools from fiscal disaster.

Rather than equal grants, the commissioner says, communities should determine their budget levels based on their local taxes and then the state should pay the rest of the money needed. He believes the costs of school districts can be met without being limited by the amount available from local taxes.

Whether the American Legal Heritage Association is actually trying to offset challenges from other sources is not quite clear. Nor is it fully apparent what course Sanders seeks to follow, nor how much it would cost the state to establish equality by bigger grants to the hard pressed cities.

One thing does appear certain. The conservatives in the suburbs will fight any and all attempts to dilute the autonomy they enjoy over the operation of their schools. Most particularly, they're against what they fear is a new attempt to force regionalism and, with it, an end to racial imbalance.

In the background, they see the specter of still another federal court case in Richmond Va., demanding a "metropolitan" school integration plan. It would require racial balance, not just within a community, but within districts comprising several cities and towns.

Connecticut's 1969 General Assembly got as far as enacting a law directing municipal governments to end de facto segregation. But when the State Board of Education announced guidelines, the legislative Interim Regulations Review Committee found the proposed regulations were not within the letter of the law.

It was ruled the law did not specify a time limit for compliance and it contained no provision for penalties for failure to comply. Such provisions, including a 60 day deadline and refusal to pay average daily membership (ADM) grants, were put into the guidelines and the interim committee ruling halted implementation of the law.

With conservative control in the executive branch, there was no concerted move in the 1971 session to carry out the objective of this law, now dead to all intents and purposes. Nor was there any new attempt to break the barriers of restrictive zoning thrown up by the suburbs to halt migrants from the core cities.

One feeble gesture was made toward the already lost cause of a regional housing authority. New Haven's Rep. Albert R. Webber was allowed to speak on behalf of his bill for such an agency in the closing hours of the regular session, but he and everybody else knew the idea never had a chance.

This was one more bit of evidence that the fight on behalf of the urban folks could not be won on the legislative battlefield. What's more, in Hartford, they were told to stop begging for bigger handouts and to go find money from some other sources at the home town level.

They haven't surrendered completely. They have returned, with Rep. George J. Ritter of Hartford as the leader in a new drive for an income tax. Including a proposal for $500 per pupil in school aid, it probably won't make any more progress toward the goal of relief from the property tax burden.

Federal courts, however, have lent a more sympathetic ear to the claims of inequities, especially in education. Without having to worry about where the states are going to get the money, judges are ruling in favor of the poor cities and against the suburbs, whether rich or just middle class "retreats."

Before its short session is ended, the 1972 General Assembly could face a fiscal crisis far greater than anticipated in advance. If it should be saddled by court order with a huge school grant cost, Connecticut will find the prediction of an "inevitable" state income tax to be an understatement.

GOP TRACK RECORD

To The Editor:
After being bombarded in recent weeks with "news releases", I must say that the newspaper media is well represented in Enfield.

Between the article printed and re-printed in the Enfield, Springfield, Hartford and Rockville newspapers distributed in town, the average citizen should certainly be well advised of what is going on. In fact for awhile, Mayor Mancuso's picture was in the local paper so often, I thought he was running adagated articles.

The most eventful items have been the recent acquisition by the town of Enfield of two large grants, one for one million dollars for the Industrial Park and the other for $400,000 for the new public works garage.

While many of the elected town officials and professional town administrators have been quick to point out that the grants were the result of "many hours of hard work" on their part(s), one thing seems to have escaped notice. The one million dollar grant came about AFTER freshman Republican Governor Meskill was elected and after freshman Republican State Representative Rosario T. Vella was elected.

Also apparently coincidentally, the $400,000 public garage grant came through AFTER Republican State Rep. Rosario

T. Vella went to Washington, D. C. and spoke for Enfield to Republican Senator Lowell Weicker.

It appears to me that a pretty good track record is being set with the town of Enfield by three "Freshman" Republicans.

REMOVE STATE CONSIDERATION

To The Editor:
Typical of the attitude of too many people today, is that of a representative of "Citizens for Sewers", who attended last week's Taxpayers Association meeting. He kept trying to promote the idea that if we, in Enfield, didn't build sewers, the state would jump on us like a fire-eating dragon and force us to build them.

He is ignoring the fact that the state has no business in our affairs unless we ask for help. If we turn down a particular referendum because it doesn't suit us, or is too expensive, that's the end of it. The town official had better not ask the state to overrule a legitimate majority vote.

He is also ignoring the fact that the state government has been doing a terrible job of managing its own affairs. By what strange logic does he assume that it can manage ours any better?

Being a funeral director isn't for everyone. The hours are unpredictable... you are continuously exposed to grief... you become the subject of a lot of bad jokes... and, when you have a sick friend, you can't visit him because people will say you're a "vulture" and you can't stay away because his feelings will be hurt.

But we're not complaining. We know there are disadvantages to every job, and ours has an unusual redeeming feature: it provides the satisfaction of knowing we've helped others at a time when help is needed most.

Pee-Wees Lose To South Windsor

The Enfield Pee-Wee Hockey team lost to the South Windsor Pee-Wees 3-2 in the closing minutes of the game at the Hartford Arena. A large turnout of Enfield fans showed up to support the local boys, who are now 1-1 in the Northern Connecticut Hockey League.

Enfield looked like a winner, but a strong third period by the South Windsor team proved too much for the local boys.

Enfield's Carl Nasto scored both goals on fine stick handling and excellent shooting plays.

The team played a fine checking game, with the first two lines showing why Enfield will stand very high in the standings come tournament time.

Next Monday night Enfield takes on a strong Suffield sextet in their third league encounter which should prove to be an exciting contest.

Fish And Game Constables Report On Use Of Air Guns

Because of the large volume of BB type guns in Enfield, the Fish and Game constables would like to inform owners of the laws and regulations pertaining to them:

• The BB Pistol. This type gun is powered by a spring action or air pressure when cocked with a single motion. These are considered dangerous weapons by the State of Connecticut and may not be taken from the owner's premises. If anyone, including minors, is found carrying this type gun, the dangerous weapon law is violated.

• The BB Rifle. This type gun is powered by a spring action or air pressure which is cocked by a single motion. This also is considered a dangerous weapon and may not be taken off the owner's premises. It is unlikely that it would kill small game but it could do considerable damage to property and animals.

• The BB - .177 Cal. or .22 Cal. Pistols that are powered by a CO₂ charge or multiple pumping or multiple cocking action. These guns are to be considered legal hunting weapons. If the barrel is less than 12" in length, it may not be carried unless a permit to carry pistols and revolvers is first obtained. This type of weapon has the power to kill small game, so in addition to the permit, the hunter must also obtain a license to hunt with it. No pistol permit will be issued to anyone convicted of a felony or to an alien. Applicants for pistol permits must be 18 years of age or over.

• The BB - .177 Cal. or .22 Cal. Rifle that is powered by CO₂ or by a multiple pumping or multiple cocking action. These guns are also to be considered legal hunting weapons and may not be handled without proper training and adult supervision.

Anyone between the ages of 12 to 16 must first pass a Hunter - Safety Course and be accompanied by a licensed adult hunter when pursuing game with this type gun. Target shooting is permissible with proper supervision and if done on private property. The landowner's permission must be obtained in writing. Those over 16 years of age who wish to hunt with this weapon must also pass a Hunter - Safety Course and purchase a hunting license.

BB's, .177 Cal. and .22 Cal. all being larger projectiles than No. 2 shot may not be used during hunting season on any State Leased or Permit Required hunting areas.

A safe place for low-powered BB gun shooting is the basement of your home. First of all you must have a reasonable person supervising any shooting anywhere. Pace off 10 or 15 yards and shoot toward a target taped onto a corrugated box that has been filled with old magazines. It would do well to hang an old blanket behind the target area to check the flight of the "misses." Have the target free from stairs, windows, furnace or other dangerous areas.

BB gun shooting can be fun and it promotes restraint and control in children, but it is considered a dangerous weapon and must be treated as one.

Target shooting on your own private property may also be considered. Adult supervision again is a must. Be sure of your backstop. Do not shoot toward any person, animal or building. Remember, be courteous of your neighbors. Shooting on your property may make them extremely nervous especially if children are near. Parents of BB gun shooters must also realize that they are responsible for any damage done by their children.

Lake Alegria, in El Salvador, stands in a volcanic crater and is unique in that water in its western half is almost boiling hot while the eastern half is icy cold.

Prison Teams Only Unbeaten Ones In Stone Age League

The only unbeaten teams left in the Stone Age Basketball League are the Minimum and Maximum Security Divisions of the Connecticut Correctional Institution. Both teams now have 40 records as Minimum took two games this week while Maximum was winning its lone game.

Minimum Security took the measure of the Amvets by a slim 58-57 margin after taking a six-point lead into the final period. Bullock led the winner's scoring with 19 points on nine baskets and a free throw. Palmer added 15 points on six and three while Markey netted 12 points on six baskets. Russ Tyler had 21 points on eight baskets and five fouls while Tom Tyler netted 11 on five and one for the Amvets.

Maximum Security ruled the Ringside Restaurant 74-66 in the second game of the week. Security was never headed after leading the first period 20-15. Garner scored 18 points on eight baskets and two fouls while teammate Love also had 18 points on nine baskets for the winners. Fuller netted 13 on six and one for the Maximums. Jerry Wingen scored 18 points on nine baskets and Bob Polmetier had 17 points on eight and one for Ringside.

Kelly Trailer did a trouncing job on the Enfield Jaycees by a 75-45 score. There was only a three-point spread at the half as Kelly led 30-27. From then on it was all Kelly. Bob Messier led the Kelly scoring with 10 baskets for 20 points. Ed O'Brien had 16 points. Ray McGivney 15 and Bob Davis 12 for the Kelly Trailermen. Monte Brooks netted 10. Jim Thomas nine and Lou Joly eight for the Jaycees.

The Enfield Elks shot past Enfield Dairy by a 77-60 score. Five men ended up in double figures for the Elks. Bob Cote led with 19 points. Jack Kessel had 14 and Dick Murphy. Bill Wilkins and Gus Carlender all had 12 points to chip in. Mike Angelica netted 22 points on 10 and two while Dave Petursson shot 19 more through the hoop for the Dairyemen.

The Amvets made their record 2-3 by beating Vic's Restaurant 50-40. Vic's led 16-13 at the end of the first period; 27-24 at half time; and 33-32 at the three-quarter mark before losing 50-40. Tom Tyler was high for the Amvets with 21 points on six baskets and nine fouls. Lyver was tops for Vic's with 15 points on six baskets and three fouls. This game was chosen as the game of the week.

Vic's Restaurant had a hard time of it as they lost 72-52 to Minimum Security. Vic's was again close at half time as they were losing 40-33 but gave way in the final two frames. Bullock scored 27 on 13 and one while Murphy netted 15 points on seven and one for the Minimums. Lyver had 14 points on seven baskets for Vic's.

Mike Angelica was chosen as player of the week by league officials for his 22 point scoring effort against the Elks for the Enfield Dairy and his fine play making Angelica is the league's top scorer with 80 points. Bob Cote is second with 75 and Jerry Wingen and Bullock have 72 each.

CAN YOU LASSO A DOLPHIN?

The Dallas Cowboys were not able to lasso the Colts last year and we are wondering whether they will be able to slip the noose around the Dolphins. Ever try to lasso a Dolphin? We don't imagine it is easy.

The Cowboys are the favorite according to those who make the odds but who knows what will really happen. My namesake Tom Landry figures the odds are just about right, but the oddsmakers have been known to be wrong before.

We look for a really close game with turnovers making the difference one way or the other. The game will go to the team who gets the breaks and this is one facet of the game that no one can figure out ahead of time. A fumble here or an interception there could be the key play.

The Cowboys have come this far before only to blow the big one. This could be the year that the frustration ends. The Dolphins are in the big game for the first time and are rather hungry for the big money prize at the end of the game. This will make them dangerous and they could pull out the win with a couple of surprises.

The game may depend fully on which quarterback is the sharpest. The quarterback who is best on his game will be tough to beat. The Dolphin defense is at least as good as the Cowboy offense on any given day. There will only be one try here though and no second chances. One big mistake can cost the title and all the loot.

The Cowboy defense is more highly touted than the Dolphin defense and the difference by most writers is expected to be in this category. This is why they give the Cowboys the edge. It was once said that the best defense is a good offense and we feel that this is where the difference will be.

We won't be surprised if the Cowboys win since they are long overdue. Likewise we won't be surprised if the Dolphins win because they can come up with the big game also. It all comes down to the fact that any team in the N.F.L. can beat any other team in the N.F.L. on a particular day. If you want a forecast from here we are afraid we must leave this one in your hands. We rate the game about even.

LAKERS' RECORD STREAK STOPS AT 33

The Los Angeles Lakers looked as though they just couldn't be stopped as they piled up 33 straight wins in the National Basketball Association. Their downfall finally came at the hands of last year's champion Milwaukee Bucks. The Bucks say that it is only justice that a record winning streak should be halted by a champion. The funny part about it is that record streaks are often stopped by the lowest team in a league.

The Lakers can be happy in that they set a record streak not only for professional basketball but for all professional sports. That is quite an accomplishment.

Lawrence "Bud" Miller, or Abdul-Jabbar as he is now known, netted 39 points in the Bucks' big win. The fact that Wilt Chamberlain got his fourth foul shortly after the start of the second half aided Alcindor in his scoring as Chamberlain had to be pretty careful from then on.

BRUINS AND RANGERS MIXING IT

You can't tell who is leading the East Division of the National Hockey League without buying a paper these days. The Boston Bruins and the New York Rangers are taking turns leading the division. As we write this the Rangers are in first place by a single point over the Bruins. The Bruins were ahead a couple of games ago but blew their chance to go three points up when they lost their Saturday game.

The Rangers capitalized on the loss and trounced the Los Angeles Kings 8-0 Sunday night to go back into the lead. By the time you read this the lead could have changed hands a couple more times. It really can change with each game until one team takes charge and builds up a lead. The Rangers had that kind of a lead at one point but the Bruins got hot while the Rangers cooled off. We have to go with the Bruins this year. They have three players in the top ten scorers and should make it all the way.

Last year the coach found out that his players were putting on too many speeches at too many dinners during the play-offs. This will not be allowed to happen this year. Although the boys probably draw top dollar for their appearances they stand to lose too much in extra cash when they blow the championship in the first round of the play-offs. This year should be a different story.

Green Raiders Defeated Twice

By LARRY AVERY

Bill Landry put the Green Raiders of Enfield High on top fast as he drew first blood in the game with the Hornets of East Hartford. East Hartford was not to be denied though and came back fast to lead the game 12-6 at the end of the first period of play. The scoring was a little below par for both teams as they had trouble getting warmed up.

The second period opened with the Hornets' Al Maximino stealing two Enfield passes and converting them into baskets. The Raiders warmed up in the second period and nearly matched the output of East Hartford. The Hornets scored 11 points in the period against 10 for Enfield to give East Hartford a 23-16 lead at the half way mark.

The Raiders were again cool in the third stanza as they managed only seven points. The Hornets used a very deliberate defense against the Raiders to keep the Raiders scoring at a minimum while keeping their offense going at full pace to outscore the Raiders again.

The Raiders tried a come back in the fourth period but a deliberate offense by the Hornets slowed the pace of the game while enabling East Hartford to outscore Enfield by a mere two points in the final period to win 53-40.

Fenton scored nine points on four baskets and a free throw and Binette netted nine points also on two baskets and five from the line. Landry finished the night with eight points on three and two. Enfield played most of the second half without 6'5" center Paul DaSilva who was in foul trouble early in the game.

Hornet co-captain Bob Blass was the high scorer in the game with 22 points on seven from the floor and eight foul shots. Hickey also finished in the double figures for East Hartford with 12 points on four and four.

The Raiders fared a little worse as they traveled to Hartford to do battle with Bulkeley High's Bulldogs. Bulkeley was never in trouble as they defeated the Raiders 99-65. Ron Lavigne led the Bulkeley charge as he poured in 14 baskets and four foul shots for a 32-point total for the night.

Raider captain Dave Ziennicki led his team with 20 points on six baskets and eight foul shots. Mancuso also ended up in double figures with 10 points on five baskets. DaSilva had nine points and White had eight for the Enfielders. Snyder and Sanders also ended up in double figures for the Bulldogs as Snyder netted 13 points and Sanders had 12.

Bill Introduced Aiding Homeowners

Rep. George J. Ritter has introduced a bill in the 1972 session of the General Assembly which would reimburse homeowners for property taxes in excess of seven per cent of their income. The legislation, designed as a part of the Hartford Democrat's state income tax equalization program, "will reduce the tremendous burden now on low and moderate-income families struggling to keep their homes in the face of ever-increasing property taxes."

Under the bill, homeowners could use the amount by which their property taxes exceeded seven per cent of their gross income as a credit against their state income tax. Ritter gave the following example to demonstrate the plan:

"In 1971, the owner of a $15,000 home in Hartford paid $685 in property taxes. If that homeowner had an income of $7,000 — which is about the state average — he would be entitled to a credit of $205 on his state income tax. If he did not owe any income taxes, he would get a rebate in that amount."

"An elderly couple attempting to maintain a $12,000 home on an income of $4,000 would receive the maximum credit of $300 under this bill."

Ritter also noted that very low income families would receive somewhat higher credits under his plan.

Ritter's proposal also allows renters to consider 25 per cent of their rents as property taxes for the purposes of the new tax credit. "A renter paying $125 a month, or $1,500 a year, who earns $5,000 a year would be entitled to a tax credit of more than $125 according to Hartford's tax rates. A family with an income of $7,000 paying a monthly rent of $200 would be entitled to approximately $120."

Ritter added that his proposal was similar to those in four other states and has been endorsed by the United States Advisory Commission on International Relations, a federal tax advisory agency.

BOWLING

With Art Landry

Are there any teams from Enfield going to the Conn. Women's Bowling Association Championship Tournament at Doral Lanes in Greenwich this year? The tourney opens on March 11 and entries will close on the 24th of this month. There isn't much time left if you want to enter. If you have a team going please let us know.

ENFIELD LANES

Fermi Falcons Taken For Two

Prince Tech of Hartford was the latest to defeat Fermi High School's Falcons of the basketball nets. Prince Tech won the game 57-43 to hand Fermi its sixth loss in eight games. Fermi has had the distinction of coming on strong in the last half of some of its games and such was the case again in this one.

The Falcons let Prince get a 39-15 lead by half time and the difference was just too much to make up even though the Falcons outscored Prince 28 to 18 in the last two periods.

George Dillon ended the game with 19 points on nine baskets and a free throw to lead Prince to the win. Eric Patton added 14 points to the Prince total on five baskets and four foul shots.

Gaona was high scorer for the Falcons with six points on a basket and four free throws. Langan, DiGregario, Tkacz and Grassetto scored five points each for the Falcons in what proved a team effort. Ten Fermi players finished in the scoring column although none hit the double figures.

The Falcons also had trouble finding the handle in their game against East Lyme. The story was much the same in this contest as Fermi allowed the opposition to take an early lead and tried to play catch-up later in the game. If Fermi could get off to a faster start they would have a good chance of beating these same opponents in coming games.

The final score in this one was East Lyme 79, Fermi Falcons 56. Jay Tkacz netted 17 points on seven baskets and two foul shots to set the pace in the losing cause. DiGregario netted 10 points while McKeown and Bourque had nine points apiece for the Falcons. East Lyme had three players in the high double figures as Rynecki netted 17, M. Patnod 16 and M. Powers 15.

Ten players wound up in the scoring column for East Lyme against only six for Fermi.

East Lyme outscored Fermi by 10 baskets and three foul shots. Fermi will get another shot at East Lyme later in the season and with a faster start might be able to turn the game around.

A Japanese floral in the traditional style.

Within the mode of Japanese flower arrangement each flower is symbolically and lovingly placed within its container. Balance and harmony through the repetition of form and line, color emphasis and proportioning of the design are most important.

Mrs. Mika Conklin of 212 Deerfield Rd., Windsor, formerly of New York City, discussed and demonstrated the art of Japanese floral arrangement at last evening's meeting of the Hazardville Garden Club at the Enfield Central Library. Mrs. Conklin is a graduate of the Ikenobo School in New York City and associated with the International Ikebana Society based in Osaka, Japan.

While living in New York, Mrs. Conklin, a professional dancer, was not dancing, and upon seeing an advertisement in the New Times for an eight-month program in the floral art of Japan being offered at the Ikenobo School, she rushed to the school, located in upper midtown at East 58th St. and Lexington Ave., to sign up.

Her studies and interest led beyond the eight-month course to recently receiving an elementary diploma, requiring a written test, from the parent school in Osaka, Japan. The Ikenobo School in Osaka is the oldest school in the world, having been operated by the same family for over 80 generations.

When she moved to Windsor two years ago, Mrs. Conklin's interest continued to flourish. According to Mrs. Conklin, the tremendous variety of flowers available to flower arrangers in northern Connecticut is seemingly endless during the spring and summer. Most any flower can be adapted to arrangement in the Japanese manner. Roses and peonies, for example, are pliable and stately enough to be used in oriental arrangements.

In fact, during the traditional Queen Anne and Chippendale periods of furniture design, when the influence of the Orient was beginning to be adapted into the European taste, Japanese floral arrangements similarly became popular. Today, such arrangements are a welcome accent to any interior: traditional, Early American or modern.

According to Mrs. Conklin, every facet of Japanese life is riddled with philosophy. This manner of looking and the world is most certainly not neglected in the art of Japanese floral arrangement.

Any arrangement is composed of three basic flowers, which are generally placed in the arrangement first: the "soe", the highest flower; the "tai", the second flower, placed two-thirds the height of the "soe"; and the "ashari", the accent color, interest or "exclamation" in the design.

In a sense these elements correspond to the concepts of "heaven", "man" and "earth", being symbolically seen in the arrangements, with "mountain" and "meadow" also being used as secondary elements.

If many flowers are used in the design, those not designated as "soe", "tai" or "ashari" are considered "helpers."

If even the novice flower arranger learns to think about the placement of flowers in this manner, he or she is bound to have a more effective result in terms of design, composition and beauty.

In Japan there generally is no furniture in the center of the small room of the Japanese style home. Most Japanese arrangements, therefore, are traditionally placed in an alcove or shelf, a "tokonoma." Bouquets are generally viewed from the front; consequently resulting in the fact that Japanese arrangements are most pleasing to the eye if viewed from the front. The theme of this oriental floral art is, however, easy to adopt to create a fluid, harmonious effect of sweeping design in a centerpiece or arrangement for an occasional table.

According to Mrs. Conklin, there are at least three different types of floral arrangements: the "moribana", the "shoka" and the "nageire."

The "moribana" style is perhaps the most adaptable to the Western home. It appears to be naturalistic, and yet formal, at the same instance. The "moribana" style, by definition, requires a low, flat, wide mouthed container. The height of the design is generally 2 1/2 times the width of the container.

The "shoka" style features a wide mouthed, pedestal design. A pin or needle holder is generally used in this style of ar-

Girl Scouting

Sue Thomas 749-7922

Despite the fact that we are almost half-way into January there are still reports of Christmas activities coming in. Enfield Service Unit Brownie Troop 430 were busy during December making Christmas stockings. Each girl made two, of which one was filled with goodies and presented to the Osborn Prison for the inmates' children. Candleholders were made for their parents and decorated with cones and nuts.

Their Christmas party had been postponed because of illness and was held this past Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Merrill where the girls exchanged gifts, played games and enjoyed refreshments.

Brainard Service Unit Junior Troop 894 had their Rededication Ceremony on Monday. Eight girls received their year pins, twenty-two girls received their Girl Scout pins and four girls received patrol leader cords. This troop is also working on the Dabbler and Cooking Badges.

Junior Troop 905 reports they have been working on Word Games and Gypsy Badges. They have recently started the Dancer Badge. The mothers who have helped by working with groups of girls on the following badges are: Drawing and Painting, Mrs. Wilson, Dabbler, Mrs. Dewey, Cooking, Mrs. Martin, Sewing, Mrs. Alexander, Needlecraft, Mrs. Vennell.

The troop has also enjoyed a swim at the J.F.K. pool and a trip to the Ice Capades. A Father-Daughter hike and cookout was held at Alice Merritt. A special thank you goes to the dads that helped: Mr. Day, Mr. Vennell, Mr. Desrosier, Mr. Schroen, Mr. Gilmore and Mr. O'Donnell.

An intertroop Halloween party was held with Mrs. Babbin's troop from the Neighborhood Center.

For service projects the girls helped the Prudence Crandall School P.T.A. with the conservation project behind St. Martha's Church. They also washed windows for the people at Windsor Court and Enfield Manor. A talent show, carol sing and party was also held at Windsor Court. The girls sold 100 Girl Scout calendars.

The troop is looking forward to a visit to Burger King this week and a trip to Milton Bradley in the near future.

Shaker Service Unit Brownie Troops 867, 973, 380 and 919 will be swimming tonight at the J.F.K. pool from 6-7 p.m.

Brownie Troops 867 and 973 will be combining their meeting times this week and will be taught Yoga by Mrs. Barr.

Japanese Floral

rangement to "anchor" the flowers in the container. Flowers are generally placed in a row, one behind the other; the height of the design, philosophically, should be 2 1/4 times the height of the container.

The "nageire" designs traditionally have decorated the Japanese tea table. The style features a tall vase of the cylinder type. The stems of the flowers are bent. The flowers do not crowd the top of the container, but merely lean against the rim of the container at specified points (not around the whole rim). The design is centered; twigs are fitted into the width and the height of the container to hold the flowers in place.

According to Mrs. Conklin, when making any flower arrangement, "do not clutter." "Don't be afraid to snip leaves off."

Furthermore, Mrs. Conklin recommends "experimentation" with the positioning of flowers.

Be sure that all elements of the design are harmonious. Even the container should complement the color and the texture of the flowers used.

Make A Record Of Important Papers

Chances are your driver's license is stuffed in your wallet along with your social security card, insurance policy cards, credit cards and every other important paper in your possession.

And chances are you don't have duplicate copies or even the numbers identifying these papers. You've got them somewhere you think — on scraps of paper in the back of a drawer, on the inside flap of the telephone directory, or was it last year's directory.

Lose your wallet and you may find these important numbers, if you're lucky, by tearing the house apart.

A RECORD BOOK
Why cause yourself needless grief when you can so easily keep a record book of important family papers and have it at your finger tips in case of emergency or if you lose your original papers. And it's not hard to keep duplicates of vital papers either.

Begin the new year with an organized approach to record keeping. Fill out your record book completely and accurately and keep it up to date. And be sure to keep a duplicate copy in a safe deposit box or in a drawer at work — at least in a safe place away from your house.

In addition to driver's license, social security card, insurance policy and credit card numbers, keep the dates these important documents were issued and the dates any of them must be renewed.

Record birth or adoption certificates, marriage certificate, divorce papers, naturalization and military discharge papers and death certificates.

These records may be needed to get a job, borrow money, open an account or collect insurance, to mention some of their uses.

To keep your financial business in order, keep records of checking and savings accounts, bonds and securities, unsecured debts and debts owed by the family.

Keep real estate papers along with a description of property, location, date of purchase, price, whose name title is in, date deed recorded, who the mortgage is with, how much is payed and how much is still owed.

Make lists of motor vehicle information, plus contracts, business agreements and legal documents.

Carefully go over your insurance policies to make sure you understand what your full coverage is. Record life insurance, automobile insurance, accident, health, hospitalization or other medical insurance including medicare.

List your homeowners, property and personal liability insurance and make an inventory of your possessions keeping any bills of sale, appraisals and guarantees that may document your own record of value.

If your valuable possessions exceed $500, then make sure your insurance includes coverage of the appraised worth of these investments.

Also include your employment records, health records, net worth statements for five years and tax records.

Two Hired On Grant To Free Police From Paper Work

The Town of Enfield has hired Joseph T. Krzys, Sr., of 6 D'Annunzio Ave., Enfield, and Alvin F. Bergen of 5 St. Thomas St., Enfield, to fill the new positions of sub-professional members of the Enfield Police Dept. They began their duties Monday.

The new position of sub-professional is the result of a successful grant application made by the Town Manager's Office and is federally funded by the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968. The granting agency is the Planning Committee On Criminal Administration of the State of Connecticut.

Use of sub-professionals in police work is a new concept and envisions utilizing civilian employees to accomplish much of the routine paper-work and other duties which keep highly-trained patrolmen and supervisors tied up at the station for extended periods of time. In addition to raising the work efficiency of the Police Dept., it will do it at a lower cost to the community.

If the sub-professional program that the Town of Enfield is pioneering is successful, it may be adopted by other police departments within the state.

One example of the way the program envisions raising police efficiency is as follows:

A man is arrested by a patrolman for shoplifting at a local store. After making his field investigation, the officer brings the man to the station under arrest. Normally he would spend one to one and a half additional hours in processing the accused. Instead, the sub-professional will make out the arrest card, the Uniform Arrest Report and book the accused. He will then print and mug the man. Additionally, he will label and catalogue the stolen goods recovered from the suspect, store it for use in the trial, and eventual return to the store. After the officer has submitted his case report, the sub-professional will prepare copies for the court case jacket, which will be turned over to the Court Liaison Officer for delivery to the court.

The result of this procedure will be to get the officer back on patrol quickly where he can do the community the most good. As the sub-professionals gain experience and know-how in police procedures, they will also be utilized as administrative assistants for the supervisory ranks, doing much of their routine work and consequently freeing them to devote more time to direct supervision and training of their men.

Other duties these civilian employees will perform are designed to improve police services to the public. They will include follow-up notifications to victims of crimes, notifying them of the disposition of various cases. The department was not always able to do this in the past due to workload and many citizens were never aware that the department was able to take successful actions on their complaint.

Krzys and Bergen were selected by C. Samuel Kissinger from a list of candidates submitted by Police Chief Walter J. Skower, after they had competed in merit examinations consisting of a written test, typing test, oral review board, and character evaluation.

Both Krzys and Bergen have extensive business and supervisory backgrounds. They were selected from eight finalists, all of which were unemployed, local residents.

Attention: Proponents Of Women's Lib

The following article was taken from the July 30, 1980 issue of the Thompsonville Press:

"A United States Senator is reported to have said recently that he wouldn't give a fig for a girl who could not answer these questions: How long must a hen set before chickens are hatched? How long does a turkey set before hatching a brood? How old must chickens be before they are fit to broil and at what age are young pigs fit to be roasted?"

"The Senator said he has trained his own daughter on these points and thinks that no girl's education is complete until she can answer these questions. It all means of course, that we need more practical education and less of the ornamental. Above all, a girl should be educated to be a housekeeper before everything else."

Town Receives EED Grant Voters Enrollment Session Tomorrow

Suffield has received a federal grant in excess of $9,000 under the Federal Emergency Employment Act of 1971. The grant is administered by the State Emergency Employment Division.

Funds are granted to towns on the basis of populations and are to be used only to aid employment for persons living in the towns. Preference is given war veterans.

First Selectman Daniel Sullivan said he has hired two men, both World War II veterans, to work on maintenance of all public buildings such as the Town Hall, police and fire departments. They will do general cleaning, painting and refurbishing of the buildings.

In the spring, Sullivan said, he plans to have the men work on landscaping of the Town Hall grounds.

Funds have been allocated in the present town budget, he said, to replace various shrubbery and the purchase of additional trees. However, no funds were included for labor and the EED grant will cover this item.

Members of the Suffield Garden Club are presently working on a plan to landscape the town hall, as one of their projects for the year, Sullivan said.

The Registrars of Voters will hold a voters enrollment session Friday, from 2 - 5 p.m. in the Town Hall on Mountain Rd., according to a notice from Murlie Bromage, R., and Amiel Zak, D., the registrars.

Town Dump Violations Must End

As a result of his concern about misuse of the town dump, First Selectman Leonard Owen has asked the cooperation of three local septic tank cleaners in policing the dump.

Owen noted that septic tank cleaners, not located in Somers, were dumping refuse into the dump of Egypt Rd., Somers, despite a sign prohibiting such action.

In a letter to the three septic tank cleaners, Donald Avery, Rober Landers and Leon Unas, Owen indicated that if dumping by non-residents continued, the hours the dump would be open would have to be changed back to a three day week and there would have to be an attendant there at all times. The assistance of local cleaners was necessary to identify and eliminate the problem.

Since the dump has been open six days a week for over a year, the First Selectman hopes that it will remain so and that the misuse of the dump facility will end.
