October was a busy month for the Library Committee which netted a $200 dollar profit from the Book Fair. This, plus money appropriated from the PTA treasury was allocated for the purchase of seven sets of Encyclopedias, children's paper back books, and magazine subscriptions for the students and faculty.

October also found a group of concerned parents preparing for the Halloween Happening. Over three hundred children participated in the evening of

The Enfield Association for Retarded Children, announces its 8th annual dinner dance will take place on Saturday at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Tickets are still available and may be obtained from Mrs. Sue Whitmore, ticket chairman at 749-4328.

A specially prepared dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m., followed by dancing at 9 p.m. to the music of "The Midnight Hours."

The association is hoping for a complete sell-out to benefit the many programs which it runs for retardates of all ages. The association supports an evening recreational program for teenagers, camperships for summer overnight camp and scholarships to deserving high school students going into the field of Special Education. Funds are also very much needed for its newest project, an adult activity center which is run three days a week from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

All programs are aimed at giving the retarded individual the opportunity to be productive and to remain in the community. The Enfield community, by its support, helps the association in continuing to give the retarded every chance to reach potential.

supervised games and activities, and safe distribution of "Trick or Treat" candy.

A bioscope was purchased for the science department. This is a unique microscope which projects the image onto a screen for an entire classroom to view at one time.

In the music department, a new selection of sheet music, replacement of music stands, and the Eli Whitney School Banner were purchased.

There were two programs which were conducted for the children after school. Sixty-eight girls enrolled in the "Busy Hands" program, and appropriations were allowed for rug making, knitting, crocheting, and handicraft materials and implements. New basketballs, two extra backboards, and patches and certificates were purchased for the one hundred fifty boys who participated in the basketball program. Also twelve new uniforms were supplied for the Allstar Team which had a 5-2 record.

Two final appropriations were made. One was a field trip for the Special Education Program and a refrigerator for the school nurse.

The primary fund raisers were the Sweetheart Ball which was held in February and the Ad Book which gained support from local merchants and a cupcake sale held each month during snack time. For the month of February the entire cupcake sale profits were donated the Heart Fund.

All in all it was a very good year. All goals were achieved through the sincere efforts of everyone involved. Thank you Greg Ringwald, principal; PTA Executive Board, Chairman, Committees, Faculty, and most of all parents of Eli Whitney students, for letting us serve those dearest to your hearts, your children.

Residents of the Greater Enfield area will have the opportunity of aiding the Kidney Foundation of Connecticut on June 3 when the first Bike-a-thon is held over a 20 mile route.

Sponsored by the Enfield Junior Woman's Club, McDonald's of Enfield, and the Kidney Foundation of Connecticut, the Bike-a-thon is open to anyone with a rider registration form and a signed sponsor list.

Participants are asked to have sponsors pledge a stipulated amount of money for every mile covered by the rider. There are six check points along the route, and a rider's card must be initiated at each one completed.

Proceeds from the Bike-a-thon, which is the money pledged by each rider's sponsor, will be turned over to the Kidney Foundation to help in its various projects in assisting those currently affected with the disease, and to help prevent future kidney disorders.

The New England Bank and Trust Co. in Enfield is the official collection point for money raised. Participants will submit their earnings by check or money order. Cash will not be accepted.

The decision to hold a Bike-a-thon was a joint idea between the Junior Woman's Club and McDonald's. The club had selected the Kidney Foundation as its special project last year, and has held some money-raising events to date. McDonald's of Enfield, operated by franchise owner Harold Rosen, joined the cause because Rosen's wife is a kidney victim, and he has become very interested in the foundation's work. The Rosens live in Longmeadow, Mass.

Although not as publicized as some of the other major diseases, kidney disorders currently afflict 8,000,000 Americans, and it is the fourth largest killer in this country today.

Specifically, the purpose of the Kidney Foundation is: to purchase and donate artificial kidney machines and other equipment to Connecticut hospitals; to sponsor a Medication Bank Program which will distribute medicine to kidney patients at the lowest possible cost; to inform the public of the danger signals of kidney disease and to acquaint them with the services offered by the foundation; to finance research projects; and to disseminate the latest information on the care and treatment of kidney disease to doctors.

The Bike-a-thon will start at 1:30 p.m. at Elm Plaza. The route proceeds north three miles to Noah Webster School, south three-and-a-half miles to Enrico Fermi High School, southeast three-and-a-half miles to Nathan Hale School, five miles southwest to John F. Kennedy Jr. High School, two-and-a-half miles north to Mark Twain School, and northwest a final two-and-a-half miles to the finish line at McDonald's restaurant in Elm Shopping Plaza.

Sponsor lists for the Bike-a-thon, available to anyone interested in participating, may be obtained at all schools in Enfield from fourth grade up, at either McDonald's Restaurant in Enfield, and from Mrs. Alan Clapp, co-ordinator representing the Enfield Junior Woman's Club.

Watergate Wounds

The noteworthy aspect of President Nixon's most recent appointments to high administrative positions is that each of the men he has chosen has had his baptism in government service.

John B. Connally, who is the President's special adviser, is a statesman of impeccable background who has served his country honorably in the past. He is a man of stature who certainly is of the presidential timber that rumor accords him.

James R. Schlesinger, nominated to be secretary of defense, likewise has had a depth of administrative experience — including four major positions in the current administration. His personal background appears to be impeccable.

Much the same can be said about such other persons as Elliott Richardson, nominee for attorney general, William Ruckelshaus, interim director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., the President's new personal assistant. All of these men have received approval of the Senate previously.

Certainly the high caliber and personal integrity of the new appointees is encouraging to us all as the nation begins to heal itself from the wounds of Watergate.

As Americans join together to assist in the process of healing, it strikes us that some of the answers to the questions that have plagued us since last June can be found in that most basic of all American institutions — the Constitution. Specifically we call attention to provisions of Article II, Section 2 which require the formation of a Cabinet.

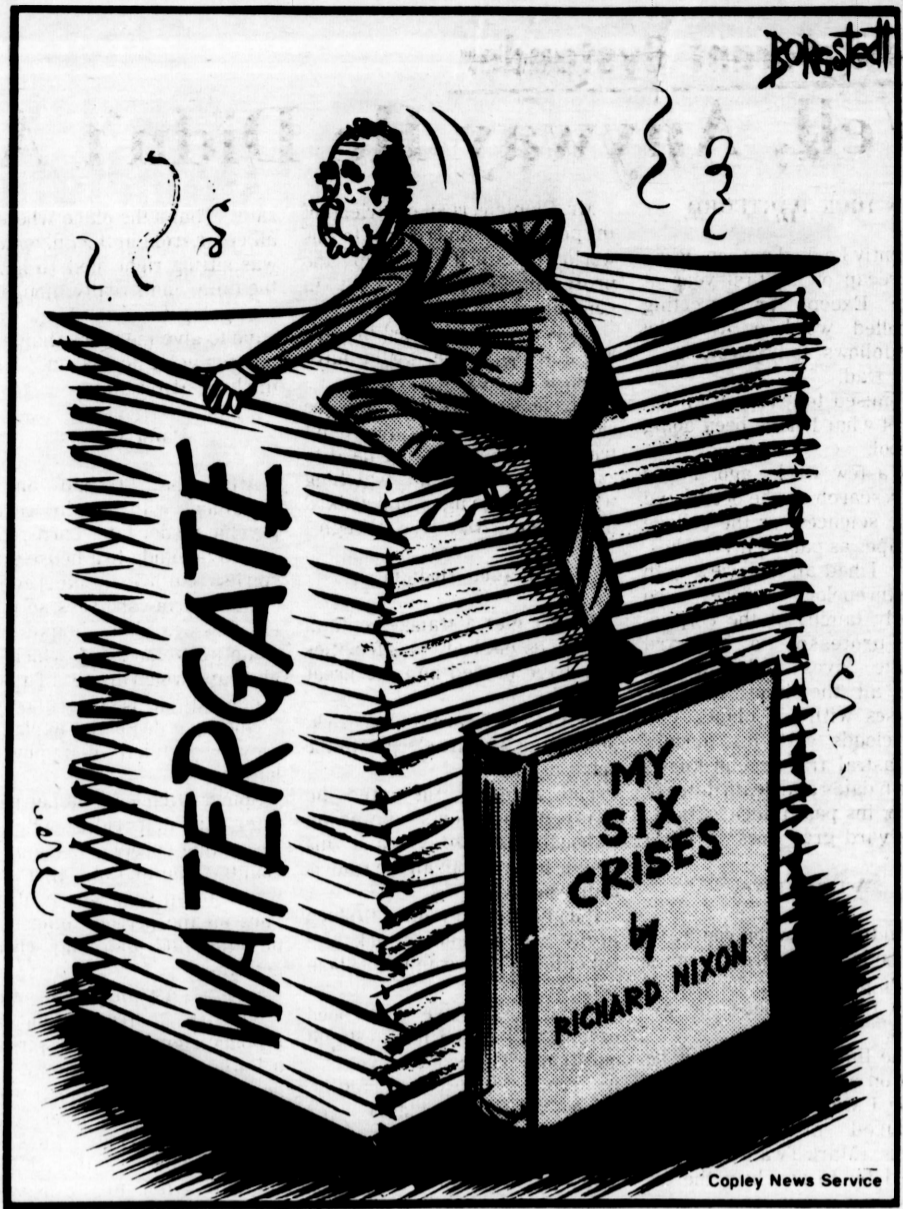

Until the latter half of this century, the Cabinet has stood Presidents in good stead. Indeed, in years past nine Cabinet members have become President; eight others have aspired to the presidency.

There was hope that we would begin a return to this valuable institution on Dec. 11, 1968 when in an unprecedented nationwide television broadcast President Nixon presented his 12 appointees to the Cabinet to the people of the United States as "new men with new ideas." The President noted that he did not want "yes men" but persons who would speak their minds.

It is plain now that the immediate pressure took precedence. In the need to get things done President Nixon, like other chief executives before him in recent years, depended more upon hand-picked men outside the Cabinet than he did on constitutional officers. As a result, the dominant roles in the Administration are played by such men as Dr. Henry Kissinger, executive director of the National Security Council; Peter Flanigan, executive director of the International Economic Policy Council; until lately John Ehrlichman, executive director of the Domestic Council, and Roy Ash, director of the Office of Budget and Management.

Without reflecting on the abilities of the men who serve in these positions, it can be safely said that their independence and free thinking abilities are limited by their direct ties to the chief executive. They can literally be hired and fired at will.

It is our view that a partial answer to our problems today is to be found in a strong Cabinet composed of men of high caliber who can remain somewhat aloof because of their stature, visibility and leadership.

'Hot Stuff' Hauling On Roads Unresolved Explosive Issue

The truck drivers call it "hauling the hot stuff". Scientists use more technical terms. But the label aside, transporting radioactive materials on our highways has begun to cause considerable criticism in many quarters. Truck shipments are unescorted, and in many cases unknown to state officials along whose highways they pass.

On February 19, 1973, a tractor-trailer carrying toxic radioactive material en route to Boston, went out of control on Interstate 95 in Stonington and overturned. State Police logs show that troopers stumbled onto the scene while on a routine patrol. There was no prior knowledge of the shipment, and fortunately, no leakage from the cask. But the incident reflects a failure of the state to exert its authority in regulating these potentially dangerous shipments.

The stakes are at least big enough to ask who is protecting Connecticut citizens against transit disasters. The answer, we have found, is virtually no one. To a large extent the fate of the state and its people is in the hands of the federal government, particularly the Atomic Energy Commission and the Department of Transportation. But the AEC's policy is to place responsibility on the shippers of radioactive materials or on the originators.

UNLIKE SOME OTHER states, Connecticut has no law governing the specific transportation of radioactive materials, even those which originate within its borders. With Northeast Utilities planning to add at least two more nuclear plants to its present three by the early 1980's, the situation could become even more serious.

Famed nuclear physicist Dr. Ralph Lapp recently produced a lengthy article in the New York Times Magazine on the hazards of the "hot stuff," namely plutonium produced by nuclear power plants. Plutonium has a half-life of 24,000 years. Ten pounds could conceivably produce cancer in every human being on earth. It is nearly as hazardous as botulism toxin.

Lapp cited an Atomic Energy Commission supported study

Connecticut Spotlight

By RICK DIAMOND And TOBY MOFFETT

which asserted that present transportation of radioactive materials is "unpalatable" from a safety standpoint. "Transportation," said Lapp, "is the weakest link in the chain of security enveloping nuclear materials."

Lapp's article, as well as others published by the Washington Monthly and Science Magazine, have asserted that the transportation risks might conceivably even snap that protective chain in the not too distant future.

An AEC-supported study, for example, estimates a 3000 percent increase in plutonium casks shipped annually by the year 2,000. Many of those, says the report, will contain 3 tons of plutonium in a 100-ton cask. As shipments rise, so will the accident potential.

ACTUALLY, WE ARE at the very early stage in a long nuclear era, an era in which the stakes are higher than anything we have ever faced in the way of self-imposed disasters. Energy consultant Richard Sandler of Washington, D.C. estimates that the deaths due to a radioactive-induced cancer epidemic from a transit accident could exceed 100,000 people within a span of two generations.

Lapp, like others who have studied the problem, including state officials in the Department of Transportation, Department of Motor Vehicles and Department of Environmental Protection, all admit that there is no foolproof method of preventing accidents, thefts or sabotage.

And some raise the question of whether the state has any authority to do so. They point to a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which stated that Minnesota could not enact stricter standards for radioactive emissions from nuclear plants than the federal - AEC regulations.

But it is not certain that transportation falls into the same category as emissions. In states like Oregon and Minnesota, there are strong movements among citizens, legislators and state officials to gain at least some control over the content, form and protection methods for radioactive shipments which travel state highways.

IN CONNECTICUT there is no such movement. Ultimate responsibility appears to be with the State Police, but no one really appears to be in charge.

The most pressure for taking responsibility away from the State Police and more clearly defining a tough state protective role comes from yet another unexpected quarter. Not from an environmental group, not from traditional utility opponents or muckrakers, but from Alan Hekking of the State Civil Defense Department.

Hekking, who is the chemical, biological and radiological officer for the Department, asserts that "the State Police have neither the expertise or equipment to act in a nuclear emergency."

An engineer working within a Connecticut producer of atomic reactors told us "Nobody at the state level is giving a thought to coming to grips with what could be a serious problem in less than five years!"

Memorial Day

Memorial Day, 1973, finds the United States with its longest, and costliest war at an end, and in most parts of the world there is peace.

Except for those still unaccounted for, our troops are home; our men held prisoners of war have been released; and the only gunfire that will be heard this Memorial Day will be the volleys of tribute to the thousands who died in Vietnam and in the many wars which preceded this involvement into which this country was drawn more than a decade ago.

While we mourn the loss of those who fell in battle, and grieve for those who will bear the scars of war for the remaining days of their lives, we cannot suppress a feeling of great relief that the troublesome years are fading into the past. We must be grateful for that.

We must be thankful, too, that there are no more threatening attitudes among the great powers of the world. There appears to be a desire to get along with each other, although it still may take years to accomplish a genuine spirit of cooperation and trust. But these first steps have been taken, and hopefully will be pursued in an atmosphere of cordiality.

After agonizing years of war, we finally are at peace. Now, this Memorial Day, let us pray that it will be a lasting peace, and not forget the price in human life that it cost.

The Ignorant Bystander

Well, Anyway He Didn't Ask For Money

By DICK HARTFORD

Recently I asked my son, Rick, for a recap of his first year at college. Except for correcting misspelled word or two, his report follows as he wrote it:

Dear Dad,

I promised to give you an account of what I have been doing in school.

Just a few weeks ago, I was doing research on the occult and psychic sciences for the college newspaper as part of my studies.

First, I had an interview with an anthropology teacher who formerly taught at the college.

The professor, a Harvard graduate, lives and talks to ghosts all the time. He also converses with his plants, can erase clouds with his thought force, astral travels and knows the birth dates and death dates of many of his past reincarnations. (A Harvard grad goes all out!)

Astral Travel

Astral travel is when you leave your body to journey on a separate plane (not a 707) which has no time or space, he explained.

At the time, I wondered if he wasn't on a journey.

While I was at his house, he introduced me to Samuel Clemens, (Mark Twain) who had dropped by to see how the interview was going.

Mr. Clemens is an old friend of the professors, and returns to this world in spirit to help the professor and the world in general.

I was afraid if I asked him for his autograph, he would have given it to me.

Anyone can dissolve clouds, he said. It didn't work for me when I tried later. I was trying hard to zap a cloud, wasn't watching where I was going — and walked into a tree. (Nice tree, though.)

Trance Medium

Then I met a trance-medium, who lends his body to celebrities who have passed into the great beyond.

He lives on a farm in Warwick, and he and his wife sleep with the spirit of a lion.

The medium indicated he enjoyed the lion's company, although he's heavy and his tongue hanging out all the time is a distraction.

If a ghostly lion wanted to sleep in my bed, I wouldn't kick him out either. I'd give him the whole bed.

"How long have you been psychic?" I asked him. (Stupid question) "Thousands of years," he replied matter of factly. Funny, you don't look a day over 600, I thought.

"I could take your hand, and lead us both into the land of Vishnu," the psychic farmer said. (That's the place where we all come from in the universe.) I was sitting right next to him at the time, and I really thought he was going to do it! They would have to give me more than a by-line for going to Vishnu," I was thinking at the time.

Palm Reader

After that, I had an appointment with a palm reader-psychic healer-tatoo card reader — and landlady to a house full of spirits. She lives in Jaffrey.

She told me she sees so many entities in her house, she sometimes can't tell which are alive and which aren't. (Time for a new pair of psychic glasses?)

Nobody's dead, she explained, they've just left their physical habitat.

Spirits often come to her house after hitching rides with unsuspecting people around the country, she told me. If a spirit wants to go somewhere, it just hops on the person going in its direction and jumps off when it gets there.

Sort of a psychic bus terminal.

She has a friend who can produce elementals, or spirits of a lower order than humans. He does it through ectoplasm which comes through his pores. (Talk about acne) What comes out looks similar, I gathered from her explanation, to a transparent Pillsbury Dough Boy who talks like a 33 and a third record played 78 speed.

Although she said she no longer practices, she can heal people via rays that come out of her fingers and into an affliction. The rays are similar to electricity, she explained, and if she doesn't watch out, she gets severe shocks when touching metal.

"A shocking story," I agreed. "I get a charge out of it," she confessed.

Hypnotist

Then I met a hypnotist that not only regresses people through hypnosis into their past lives, but projects them into the future.

He lives in Hinsdale, and among his peculiarities is tracking UFO bases with the help of his assistant, (a spirit) who sneaks up on the spacemen unnoticed.

The hypnotist said the spirit — when alive — was working with him on hypnosis and astral travel. However, he died in an accident. When the hypnotist went to his wake, he walked up to the casket.

Hypnotist. (Looking down) "Well, what are you going to do?"

Spirit. (looking up) "I don't know. I'm pretty disgusted with this situation."

H. "You mean you don't want to continue with work?"

S. "I don't know yet, I'm just dead."

H. "Well, come to my office tomorrow and we'll talk it over." What a team!

The hypnotist said he has had a tough time with the "Men in Black." These men, he explained, are apparently descendants from Atlantis who inhabit the UFO bases.

Chased

"They follow you to shut you up if you know too much," he said, adding they chased him around England once.

"I'm not saying that they are not friendly, but once you get mixed up with them, your not going to be the same again," he assured me. "With friends like that, you'll never need enemies," I told him.

He said the aliens have bases in New Hampshire, but couldn't be more specific. The Men in Black, (I think he's got his colors switched) know every move he makes.

"All they have to do," he said, "is put a tape on this computer they have at the base, and your mind will be completely taken over."

The next thing I expected to hear from him was "this is a recording."

Yes, it's been a good year, Dad, but I think I need an astral vacation.

Who Is Helped By Teacher Strikes?

By DR. ARMAND A. FUSCO

In all but two states, teachers are not allowed to strike, but most states have had teacher strikes which make them illegal acts. Yet, rarely are the illegal acts punished; so, in reality, the laws mean nothing.

The larger cities have been the hardest hit by striking teachers and one very recent one in Philadelphia — the City of brotherly love — makes one wonder who is really helped by the strike tactic.

The students there lost 54 days of schooling during this past school year — 11 weeks of schooling down the drain. But that's only part of the tragedy.

"Recently a fourth grade teacher in one of the city's schools sent a pupil into the next classroom to borrow an eraser. It was a routine task, something that happens on any day in any city. . . . But on that spring day . . . it was the beginning of an ugly and quite frequent scene. . . . "Tell that scab she won't get an eraser from me," was the reply the empty-handed child brought back to the teacher."

This child who lost 54 days of schooling is probably lost trying to figure out what's happening. Eleven thousand of the teachers struck, and of these, 900 were arrested for violating court orders. How is that to be explained to the children?

What was the strike all about? Well, to help children of course, by having smaller classes and more teacher preparation time. And yet, it is a hard fact that as the cities spend more on education, as classes get smaller and smaller, as teachers get more preparation time, and as the teachers get more salary increases, the achievement of the students is going down hill in a sharp and steady progression.

The Philadelphia teachers are really bad off in terms of having enough prep time. The high schools, for example, are on a 4 1/2 hour day which is the shortest high school day in the country (this was true before the strike). And, the salaries are just as bad. The top salary for teachers on a 10 month basis is now $22,000 and the starting salary is $10,600.

Financially, the city of brotherly love is almost bankrupt having lost $41,000,000 in state subsidies because of the lost days and with stiff resistance against tax increases to meet the new agreement. Some cities have run out of money before completing the school year. In fact, just about all of the larger cities cannot make ends meet and the children pay the price in some way.

Who is helped by the strikes? Teachers, not children. It's really too bad that teachers don't strike for children because more can be done to improve education through the power of teacher organizations if a positive approach is used. For example, I don't see teachers striking to get a speech therapist in a school system, or more psychological examiners or better materials or even "healthy" physical environments (have you ever walked into some older schools which have not been maintained — the sights and smells speak for themselves).

Why, I ask, don't teachers strike to help children? It does happen at times, but very, very rarely. If teachers were endowed with more wisdom, more heart, more devotion and more public relations skills, they would make it happen more often because then teachers, parents, communities and the children would all be helped.

I'm not saying that teachers are not justified at times to strike, but there are certainly better ways to handle themselves, there are certainly better ways to fight for just causes, there are certainly better ways to set examples for the children, and there are certainly better ways to become a "profession." As one administrator said during the strike, "I wonder sometimes whether we're dealing with professional educators or with people who work along the waterfront."

However, expect more strikes to plague the country; and, also expect more states to allow teachers the right to strike. And expect that as strikes go up, education will go down. Philadelphia is but one example

Letters To The Editor

The Police Blotter

To The Editor:

I have recently observed the addition of a new column to your paper called "The Police Blotter." What kind of connotation are you trying to affix to these people? Are we really innocent until proven guilty? Is this a newspaper column or a slander sheet?

I say a good newspaper would visit the courthouse in Windsor and print the names of the people who are actually convicted of crimes. After all, what percentage of the people charged with a crime are convicted? Also, I'm sure we all want to read the names of the people charged with traffic violations in the paper. Is this the true caliber of the news that occurs in Enfield?

Is this freedom of the press? I say it is a raw abuse of a cherished American ideal!

I urge all people whose name appears in "The Police Blotter" and are found innocent of their charged crime to demand that

The Enfield Press print a retraction. Don't allow your good name to be slandered!

Terence O'Toole
92 Till St.,
Enfield

The Police Blotter as appearing in the Enfield Press slanders no one. It is merely a chronicle of ALL those persons who have involvement with the law. The information contained is provided by the Enfield Police Department and like building permits, birth of children, marriage licenses, etc., is a matter of public record under the law. The Police Blotter listing plays no favorites, everyone receives equal treatment. We might ask you to examine the policies of other area circulated newspapers and you will find they pick and choose their "police" news and often times sensationalize it. Editor's note.

Arson And Vandalism

To The Editor:

I recently sent a letter to Councilman Edwin Jarmoc, which he read at a council meeting. It was concerning the shocking amount of arson and vandalism I have noticed in our town.

In my three-page letter, I denounced the idea of sending convicted juvenile arsonists to detention homes. However, I believe a financial restitution would act as a strong deterrent.

Dear Editor:

A shooting accident Sunday, May 13, was handled expeditiously by Officers Barry Fisher and Reed.

They cooled off an agitated onlooker and gave the proper first aid (pressure) to the woman

Perhaps the best deterrent would be parents who have strong convictions on the responsibility they have to raise their children with honorable principles.

It would be a shame if Enfield, which is famous as an All-America City, should also become notorious for its number of fire-bugs!

Disabled Vet Wants Cards

Dear Editor:

I am a veteran of World War II. I fought in the Battle of the Bulge and was wounded three times in action. I had 4 operations before I had my left leg amputated June 11, 1971 in the Presbyterian Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pa. and I had seven more operations after I had my leg amputated.

It would make me, a disabled veteran, very happy if you, the editor, would please have my letter published in the Enfield Press. It would make me very happy to receive get well cards, letters or birthday cards. My birthday is on the 18th of May. Since I am disabled I have a lot of time to read and it makes me very happy to receive mail.

The 17th Annual Children's Fishing Derby was held Sunday at Freshwater Pond by the John Maciolek Post 154 of the American Legion. Joseph Turek was chairman of the popular event which brought out some 700 young fishermen. The derby was open to all boys and girls aged 1-16.

Licenses were issued at the municipal parking lot prior to the start of the fishing at 2 p.m. A parade of contestants formed on No. Main Street and marched to the fishing area. In spite of the rain many children enjoyed the event and pulled in quite a few fish. The pond was stocked with fish Sunday morning at the expense of the Legion.

The fishing derby officially opened at 2 p.m. and the first fish was caught by John Henry one minute later. John is 15 years old and his prize winning catch was a 10-inch trout. Benje Ortiz won the prize for the largest trout with a 13 1/2-inch fish. Winner of the most original costume for a girl was Kim Glembocki who also came in third in the 7-9 age group with a five and a quarter inch Pumpkinseed.

Joey Turek, four years old, won the most original boy prize. Jennifer Stauble was voted the best dressed girl fisherman and Mark Steward was voted the best dressed boy. Four year old Sharon Ames won the girl's 2-6 year old division with a catch of a seven inch shiner. Melina Belefrente was second with a five and a half inch Pumpkinseed.

Patti Stauble won first prize in the girl's 7-9 division with a ten inch trout. Gloria Nuccio was second with a six inch Dace. Mary Gunnuscio was first in the Girl's 13-15 age group with a nine and a half inch trout.

David Schmid won the boy's 2-6 division with a nine inch trout. Jimmy White was second with a six and three quarter inch catfish. James W. Biebe III came in third with a five inch Pumpkinseed. Tony Feteault was first in the 7-9 group with an eleven and a quarter inch trout. John Holland took second with an eleven incher and Justin Gilhooley took third with a ten and a half inch trout.

John Baldyga was the champ in the 10-12 group with a fifteen inch catfish which also proved to be the largest fish taken in the derby. Ernie Brouthiette was second with an eleven and three quarter inch Trout while Vincent Grady won third place with an eleven and a half inch Trout. Bob Bussell took a twelve inch perch for first place in the 13-15's. Al and Frank Piekos took a ten and Testoni had an eleven inch Trout three quarter inch Trout.

Cantin Sets One Mile Indoor Record At UC

The University of Connecticut track team completes its most successful season by participating in the IC4A, the most prestigious meet in the East, on Friday and Saturday, at Rutgers.

This past year, Connecticut won both the Yankee Conference and New England track titles in both the indoor and outdoor meets.

JFK Track Team Tops So. Windsor

On May 11, the J. F. Kennedy Jr. High School track team topped South Windsor by a score of 65 to 39. Eight JFK school records were broken during the course of the meet. John Booth ran a 23.2 sec. in the 180 yd. low Distance runner Bill Cantin of Enfield contributed greatly to the success of his team. Cantin set a University indoor record in the mile when he finished third in the New England meet, in 4:08.2. This came a week after he captured a double win in the mile and two-mile in the Yankee Conference championships. Outdoors, he added the Yankee mile crown to his laurels.

hurdles and Thomas ran the 220 yd. dash in record time of 23.2 sec.

This marks the second win in as many meets for the Kennedy trackmen.

many as 240 points.

Defending champion and current national point leader Jerry Cook of Rome, N.Y., leads the "point chasers" to Stafford. Cook is currently out in front of a hectic point battle that also includes Rome neighbor Richie Evans, Canastota, N.Y. driver Bernie Miller, Stafford regular Bugs Stevens and popular Virginian Paul Radford.

The Indianapolis orientated Formula M cars of the Northeastern Midget Association, featuring the Yellowjacket car of Jerry Wall and the Badgers of Dave Humphrey and Johnny Mann, are also on the Monday docket.

Modified time trials get things under way at 1 p.m. The fastest 10 cars win starting spots, the remainder of the field coming from a pair of 10 lap heats and a consolation race.

The mini-midgets and the All-American Sportsman are due Saturday night, the first green flag falling at 8 o'clock sharp.

The modified winner will carry off 191 points and $1,200 in prize money. Time trial money is also up for grabs.

Fred DeSarro, the defending champion in the holiday haul, Ron Bouchard, currently on a hot streak, Bobby Santos and Fred Schulz are among those drivers out to keep the money home. All are involved in both the national and the track fund, the latter the most lucrative in all NASCAR racing.

Other top drivers due at Stafford this weekend include New Yorkers Brian Ross, Nick Ronca, Buddy Picard, Ed Pieniazek, Andy Romano and Ray Sitterly; New Englanders Moose Hewitt, Billy Harmon, Ed Yerrington, Leo Cleary, Jim Landry, Ron Narducci, Jim Martel, Ernie Gahan and Roland LaPierre; and Long Island stars Charlie Jarzombek, Jim Hen-

EHS Clinches Tourney Spot

By LARRY AVERY

The Enfield High School baseball team clinched a spot in the C.I.A.C. Class L Tournament last week by winning three games while losing two in a very busy week.

The Raiders defeated Northwest Catholic 10-7 then traveled to Middletown for a two-night double header. The Raiders took the first game 8-3 but Xavier came back to win the nightcap 9-3. Westfield then to Enfield to play but with the Raider diamond under water the game had to be played at Powder Hollow. Enfield won this one 4-2. East Hartford came to town on Saturday and won their game against the fieldless Raiders at Powder Hollow 3-1. This completed the week's action.

Enfield scored first against Northwest Catholic when Mike Peluso led off the game with a single. Vern Badger followed with another single. Paul DaSilva walked to load the bases with one out. Marty Wright tied the suicide squeeze and reached safely on an error as Peluso scored the leading run. Two forced plays ended the inning with no further damage.

The Raiders came right back in the second to score five more times. Paul Uricchio singled, pitcher Jay Kurmaskie singled, Mike Peluso singled, Mike Krikorian singled, DaSilva reached on an error, Marty Wright sacrificed and Dan Donnelly singled. The Indians got one back in the bottom of the inning. Badger singled to lead off the fourth and Krikorian hit a triple which in turn was followed by a Wright single to give the Raiders two more runs.

The Indians scored one each in the fourth and fifth and three more in the sixth. The Raiders also got one in the sixth. Each team scored once in the eighth to finish the scoring for the day. Krikorian had two homes in the game.

Enfield scored twice in the fourth inning of the first game against Xavier when Paul DaSilva singled and Wright hit a homer. The Falcons came back in the bottom of the inning as Marchese singled and Pagano homered. The Raiders scored four times in the top of the fifth. Bob King doubled to start the rally. Joe Dippel sacrificed and King stole home. Peluso walked, and was sacrificed to second by Badger. Krikorian singled to score Peluso. DaSilva walked and Wright doubled. The Raiders added two more in the seventh. Xavier also scored its final run in the seventh.

Two runs in the first inning got Enfield off to a fine start in the second game of the double header but a win wasn't in the cards in this one. Badger singled, Krikorian singled and DaSilva blasted a triple to score both of them. Xavier's Falcons came right back in the bottom of the first to score four times. The Falcons got three more in the fourth. The Raider's final run came in the top of the fifth when Peluso doubled and Krikorian singled.

Westfield was the victim as Enfield clinched a tournament spot with a 4-2 victory. The Raiders again started things off fast as they scored three times in the first inning. Krikorian homered, DaSilva was hit by a pitch, Wright singled to score DaSilva who had stolen second, Wright stole second, Donnelly singled to score Wright. Three runs.

The Raiders struck again in the second inning on a single by Uricchio who took second on a throwing error and went to third on a wild pitch. Peluso worked the suicide squeeze and Uricchio scored. Westfield scored their runs in the fifth on two walks, an error and two singles.

The heavy schedule finally got to Enfield as East Hartford came to town and went away with a 3-1 win. The Raiders scored their only run in the fourth on a walk to Donnelly and a triple by Wright. The Hornets stung twice in the sixth and once in the seventh as they sewed up the game.

The Raiders will play the Enfield High Alumni on Saturday and will entertain Enrico Fermi High at home in a Memorial Day Classic. Fermi won the first meeting of the teams this season. This game will start at one p.m.

Enfield will start tournament play on either Tuesday or Wednesday, depending on their standing at the finish of the regular season.

BOWLING

With Art Landry

We still haven't received some final results from some of the Winter leagues. If you haven't given us your finals please get them in this week. Don't forget to tell us when your banquet is so we can remind your league members.

Summer League secretaries are also asked to keep us informed as to what teams are leading in your league, who bowls the best scores each week and who are the record setters in your league.

ENFIELD LANES

Alex Imperatrice bowled a fine 615 series with a 214 single this week in the Sunday Nite Mixed League. Bob Mitchell bowled a 203 game and had a series of 552. Lary Rand rolled a 206 and finished with 526 while Ernie Joanis bowled 180-516 for the men. Ruth Damon led the women with 187-507. Winnie Padegenis bowled 170-459. Viola Davies 157-457 and Marilyn Anderson had a 194 high game and a 448 total. The Odd Balls lead Wee Four, Untouchables and Adam Four by seven points each. Things look pretty good for the Odd Balls.

Barbara Landry set the Tuesday Morning League boiling this week as she rolled a 194 single game and had a solid 563 series. Irma Tracy also hit the 500 mark with a 502 series. Carol Sheehan had 490 for her total. Evelyn Newsome bowled a hot 192 game and Millie Poplawski rolled a 183. With just one week to go in the season the Bowlerettes lead the Holy Rollers by four points and the Yo Yo's and Three Aces by seven points each. This gives the Holy Rollers the only chance to catch the Bowlerettes according to Secretary Gale Kredar.

Phyllis Gleeson was bowler of the week in the Early Bird League as she rolled a 496 series. Arlene Polewarczyk came in second for the week with a series of 467. Polewarczyk also rolled the best game of the day with a 186. Ellen Calvi bowled a 183 single. The Sloe Starters have clinched first place with 12 points over The Deadwoods with but one week remaining. The Di-Hards are third, The Chicks fourth, The Misfits fifth, The Sharp Shooters sixth, The Sharp Shooters seventh and The Goldfingers last at this point.

Accent On Youth:

Exchanging Ideas Through Reading

By JUDY WHITE

"School will be out in a few weeks," wrote Anne Parker, 16, of Chicago, not long ago, "This summer no camp, no summer school, no job except some baby-sitting now and then. My mom says she hopes I'll get in some reading, not just fool around with my friends. Have you any ideas for what I should read?"

Without knowing Anne, it's difficult to suggest with any assurance she will like the suggestions. Since other young people may welcome a random summer reading list, I offer a few possibilities.

Anne does say that exchanges of ideas among people of different ages make her think, and "If I don't have to organize my ideas on paper and hand them in, I don't mind that." Two books come to mind which offer such a challenge: "Democracy and the Student Left" by George F. Kennan and "America vs. America" by James A. Michener.

In January 1968 the New York "Times" published a speech by George Kennan under the title "Rebels Without a Program." Mail, pro and con, deluged both Kennan and the "Times". "Democracy and the Student Left" is in four parts: Kennan's original talk; college student reaction in agreement and in dissent; letters from "the older generation"; Kennan's reply to his admirers and detractors. I find it thought-provoking.

Numerous young people have sought out James Michener and his wife wanting to discuss their disillusionment with "middle-class values" and the goals of their parents. In a slim paperback volume Michener, accepting the middle-class label, examines his values and the assumptions underlying them. He also tries, without forsaking these values, to understand youthful rebellion against them.

More difficult and much longer than either of these books, Eric F. Goldman's "Rendezvous with Destiny" is worthwhile for anyone seeking perspective on reform movements in the United States. This book traces the ups and downs of American efforts for social, political and economic reforms from the years immediately after the Civil War through the Truman Administration.

Painted on a concrete overpass in Tempe, Ariz. are the words, "Who is John Galt?" An answer is found in Ayn Rand's "Atlas Shrugged." This novel, controversial and much too long, does talk to some of the problems of our time. Miss Rand's admirers are ardent in her defense, her detractors as ardent in their condemnation. In reading "Atlas Shrugged," one does well to see it in three aspects: as a story; as a forecast of what the U.S. may become if certain social and economic policies are followed; and as a vehicle for promoting the author's philosophy. One may enjoy the intricacies of plot and sub-plots while rejecting forecast and philosophy, or find truth in the forecast while abhorring Miss Rand's values. The novel first appeared in the late 'fifties; some say it is more pertinent today than it was then.

Space allows only brief mention of several less serious books: Laurence Perrine's "Sound and Sense"; Antoine de Saint-Exupery's "The Little Prince"; Harper Lee's "To Kill a Mockingbird"; and last, a book much more recent than the others, "Touch the Earth", a "self-portrait of Indian existence" compiled by a young woman, T. C. McLuhan. This collection of Indian speeches and writings, beautifully illustrated with photographs, brings alive the values, hopes, sorrows of some of America's first inhabitants.

"Sound and Sense" is an introduction to poetry, a college textbook, but Perrine's style, touched now and then with gentle humor, makes it delightful reading. "The Little Prince" has been around for nearly thirty years, but its charm and wisdom do not fade. Without glossing over the ugliness which ignorance and bigotry too often beget, "To Kill a Mockingbird" leaves the reader — or the viewer of the movie based on it — with a strong sense of human dignity and worth.

This is indeed a random list; another day I might make a different one. These caught my eye as I glanced along the shelves of my library. Hopefully one or two of them will catch Anne Parker's interest — and maybe yours, too.

Enfield Area YWCA Holds Annual Meeting

The Enfield area of the Hartford Region YWCA recently held its annual meeting at the New England Bank and Trust Company. The evening began with a Pot Luck dinner coordinated by Mrs. Betty Frew and Mrs. Linda Borio. Miss Andi Kenyon gave the opening, a series of inspirational quotes about women. After a brief business meeting, Enfield's Area Chairman, Mrs. Shirley DeMontigny introduced the guest speaker, Miss Vi Ifill, Assistant Director of the Hartford Region YWCA. Miss Ifill spoke about the YWCA of other countries, giving a brief history of how the YWCA had grown from one association in England to over 80 member countries throughout the world. Miss Ifill also described the services offered by World Mutual Service and how this program has been a lifeline in furthering the purpose of the YWCA.

Miss Ruth Thomson, Executive Director of the Hartford Region YWCA, described the new staff restructuring and how it will affect the Enfield area YWCA. She also commented on the excellent progress of YWCA building in Hartford and how it will serve our area.

Mrs. Judy Joly was introduced as the new Program Chairman for the coming year. She showed slides taken at the Triennial National Convention of the YWCA that was held in San Diego. Over 30 Hartford Region members attended the convention. The Enfield Area sent five members for the week long convention.

Miss Phyllis Nierendorf, Assistant Director of the East Branch of the Hartford YWCA, spoke to the members about the resolutions taken to the National Convention. She also related the passage of key resolutions and their effect on the YWCA members.

Jackie Kahn Brings Talent And Charm To Enfield Square

Miss Jackie Kahn

By SANDRA BURNS

In just 27 short years, Miss Jackie Kahn, Promotion Director of Enfield Square, has learned the skills and assumed important roles in the public relations field which have brought her rapidly to her present success at the Square.

Born and schooled in Brookline, Mass., Jackie reports that most of her education was oriented around business training and music. Upon graduation from high school, Jackie enrolled at Grahm Junior College in Boston to pursue studies in radio and television technology.

Upon receipt of her Associates Degree, she began a career as a copywriter and production assistant at WORL, a small AM radio station located in downtown Boston.

Jackie's world was soon to expand as she became more venturesome and had the urge to try something different. She decided to move away from Boston, her home and her family. "That was eight years ago — a turning point in her life."

Living in Hartford, without the security of a family only minutes away, Jackie Kahn settled down and seriously began to pursue the career she had studied for. Her first job in Hartford was working for the Canter Advertising firm, a small agency, but one, according to Jackie, that "taught her the intricate workings of agency life." She continued with copywriting "but learned production, billing, and client-agency relationships."

"Still restless to learn and do more," Jackie reports, "I followed the path of film making and joined the Travelers Insurance Co.'s Audio Visual Department." During her stay at Travelers, "two films were produced, with myself (Jackie) as Assistant Producer. One of these films, 'It's the Essence,' was entered in the 1967 International Film and Television Festival of New York in the category of documentary films and received the Bronze Award." That was definitely one of Jackie's most thrilling moments.

More To Learn

Again having the feeling that there was more to learn, Jackie Kahn joined the Colt Firearms Co. in Hartford as Advertising Assistant. "This taught her the other side of the coin on agency work." Not only was I pursuing my career in advertising and public relations . . . I was also learning how to handle firearms. I joined the Colt Pistol Team (Metropolitan League of Conn.) and have been shooting competitively for the past three years."

Most of Jackie's previous background and other similar situations have served to prepare her for the position she now holds, as Promotion Director of Enfield Square, a 54 store enclosed shopping center.

According to Jackie, "I joined May Co. (Enfield Square) last October. The responsibilities at the Square are many, including playing police officer for crowd control or babysitting for a live porpoise named Skipper."

"It tends to be like a booking agency." The purpose of Jackie's position is to create activity in the mall . . . a reason for people to shop at the Square more than any other shopping area. Promotions must be tasteful but interesting, and must, at all times, reflect the fine image that the May Co. has continually strived for. "I'm given a yearly budget to work with", Jackie says, "and I must confine my spending, whether it be radio commercials, an arts and crafts show or extra police duty for crowd control." Jackie emphasizes that "men and women tend to develop shopping habits. By making our shopping center the most appealing, it's necessary to satisfy everyone's psychological appetite. We don't always cater to the adults with our activities, but rather do a little of everything. A husband that accompanies his wife shopping may tend to get bored after the fourth dress shop and the seventh pair of shoes, but if an antique show is going on at the same time, he could browse around and enjoy himself. We are a family oriented center and we look to our customers for their thoughts and advice," Jackie adds.

"We are not always right and will readily admit it, but we've learned from our mistakes and the only way we can go from here is up. I know Enfield Square is a great place to shop and I'll take every chance I can get to tell everybody."

The immediate future of the Square is, indeed, a bright one. Some of the promotions coming up include an Antique Auto Show in June, Fourth of July Fireworks, the California Artists in July, the Connecticut Gladiola Society in August and Skipper the Porpoise in September.

As far as Jackie's own future is concerned, Jackie admits, "I can't honestly say, for I have the terrible habit of acting on impulse. I'm not always right, but I've enjoyed myself."

With all her activities at the Square, she still finds time to shoot and even design and make her own clothes. Just recently she joined the Connecticut Wildlife Federation in order to assist with their public relations.

During the evening and on weekends, Jackie dresses casually — "jeans and jerseys." Although she hates to admit it, Jackie is not a "night owl." As the sun sets over the horizon, her eyelids tend to droop. An "outdoorsy" type, Jackie "finds the city uncomfortable." She is a big fan of horseback riding and is presently looking for a stable to start riding again.

Jackie Kahn is, indeed, a special young woman of considerable talent. Charming and a powerhouse of energy, Jackie manages to keep Enfield Square a "fun place to shop." She herself comments, "My informality with people I have just met does not say much for my business etiquette, but I find people much more open and honest when I talk with them. It's really fun to work with people, especially children. Each day is a new adventure that I look forward to with each new sunrise!"

of Consumer Concern

Connecticut Department of Consumer Protection
Barbara B. Dunn, Commissioner
Terry Higgins, Director of Consumer Education

Perhaps next week you will find that a laundry or dry cleaner has misplaced your clothes. You give the store owner a few days to find them, but when you return, he is apologetic but empty-handed. A week or two passes, but still the laundry cannot be found. You feel the laundry was worth fifty dollars, but the owner won't offer you more than five dollars. What can you do? You can sue the owner of the laundry for fifty dollars — the amount of money you feel he has caused you to lose. And you can do this yourself, without having to hire a lawyer, by going to the small claims court. In small claims court the rules are so simple that you don't need a lawyer.

Small claims court is a people's court — a place where you can sue someone without paying money for a lawyer. Here are a few other examples of cases commonly taken to small claims court:

— If you buy a dishwasher, television, or other appliance and it breaks down right away but the store refuses to refund your money.

— If you buy something in a store but the merchandise delivered to you is not exactly what you ordered, and the store refuses to give you what you agreed to buy.

— If someone damages your property and refuses to pay you for repairs.

— If your landlord refuses to return your security deposit when you vacate your apartment.

Any person 18 and over, with a just complaint, may use the court; a minor may use it by having his parent or legal guardian go with him to file the claim and then to the trial. You can sue an individual, a corporation, a partnership, or an association. A business may also bring action against individuals.

You may now use the small claims court to sue any person you think owes you money for a sum of $750 or less. If the person owes you more than $750, you can still sue in small claims court, but by suing for that $750, you forfeit any claim you had on the rest of the money he owes you. If you want to sue for more than $750, you must do it in the regular civil court where you may need a lawyer.

By suing in small claims, you will be able to take advantage of the simple, quick procedure of the court, and the fact that you do not need a lawyer.

The person or company you are suing must either (1) live in Connecticut, (2) work in Connecticut, or (3) have an office in Connecticut. The small claims court has no power outside of the state boundaries.

There are 18 small claims circuits in the State of Connecticut, each serving a definite geographical area.

When you sue someone, you can pick the circuit most convenient for you; however, either you or the party you are suing must be a resident of or doing business in the circuit where the case is entered.

Small claims court is the place to go when you feel you are owed money for: rent or security deposits; damage to property (must get estimate or paid bill for repair); loans — personal or commercial; merchandise purchased; also merchandise purchased which was (1) not delivered (2) misrepresented; service rendered; also services rendered not completed or not properly performed; and any other claim for money damages of $750 or less.

The Department of Consumer Protection has published a booklet, "How to Sue in Small Claims Court in Connecticut." The booklet tells you how to start a suit, what to do while you are waiting for the trial date, and what to do at the trial. The booklet also lists Circuit Courts in the State and gives examples of letters and forms surrounding a small claims action. For a copy, write to the address below.

We welcome suggestions and questions. Write "Of Consumer Concern," Department of Consumer Protection, State Office Building, Hartford 06115.

Second Baptist Church Meeting Actions

Rockwood N. Berry was elected president of Second Baptist Church at the annual meeting May 16. He succeeds Rayford R. Parker. Harold A. Stewart was elected vice-president to succeed Berry. Mrs. Arthur W. Brennan was elected Church School Treasurer and Mrs. Harmon Hill was elected Assistant Church School Librarian.

All the other church officers were re-elected. They are: Clerk, Mrs. Bruce H. Fuller; Assistant Clerk, Mrs. Harland H. Cramer; Treasurer, Gilbert P. Ahrens; Assistant Treasurer, Ernest A. Warner; Treasurer of Benevolence, Mrs. Ernest A. Warner; Collector, Miss Nathena H. Fuller; Assistant Collector, Mrs. William F. Butler; Auditor, Franklin A. Fuller; Historian, Miss Edna M. Pomroy; Church School Superintendent, Joseph P. Harry; Assistant Church School Superintendent, Arthur W. Brennan; Church School Secretary, Mrs. John W. Hinkley; Assistant Church School Secretary, Mrs. Robert M.

Sullivan; Church School Librarian, Mrs. W. Paul Wing.

New deacons, elected were John B. Ahrens, Rayford R. Parker, Sumner F. Bissell, George N. Remington and Earl R. Colson; and new deaconesses Miss Jeanne Sisson and Mrs. Frederic J. Scott.

The Trustees, Leavitt B. Ahrens, Sumner F. Bissell and Gilbert P. Ahrens were re-elected.

Re-elected also were the representatives to the Suffield Council of Churches, Mrs. Gilbert P. Ahrens, William H. Connelly and ex-officio member, Miss Eleanor E. Smith; and Representatives to the Pierce Baptist Home, Miss Cora E. Halladay and Mrs. Ernest A. Warner.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution and By-Laws, recommended by the Executive Committee, were approved by the vote of the meeting which will enlarge admission requirements for membership, and add youth members with "voting power" to all the church committees.

The By-laws were changed to read admission for membership shall be by letter of transfer from any "Protestant" church, to from any "Christian" church; and a similar substitution of the term "Christian" for "Protestant" was voted for dismission by letter from Second Baptist Church to another church.

The former by-law that one member of the church, under 21 and over 15 years of age, shall be elected to the committees for missions, flower and calling, without voting power was rescinded and changed to one youth may be elected to all committees as an addition (voting) member.

Another proposed change voted was that the Finance Committee, a sub-committee of the Executive Committee, shall consist of the church vice president as chairman, the Finance Enrollment chairman, and the church treasurer.

Memorial Day Program

The Memorial Day program and parade will be held Monday according to an announcement from the Joint American Legion-Veterans of Foreign Wars Committee which plans the annual observance.

From 8 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. the V.F.W. Firing Squad will visit the cemeteries in Suffield and West Suffield to fire the Salute to the Dead.

At 8:45 a.m. the town parade will form on Main St. in the driveway of St. Joseph's Church and commence promptly at 9 a.m. The line of march will run north of Main St. to the Country Club Road and back on Main and High Sts. to the Center Green, opposite the Congregational Church. The Marshalls-of-the-day will designate ceremony areas for each unit.

Cost Of Living Adjustment

State Representative Astrid T. Hanzalek, R., 61st District, Assistant Majority Leader of the Connecticut House of Representatives, today announced her pleasure that the House had passed HB 8746 which concerns the cost of living adjustments for retired teachers. "At long last," commented Representative Hanzalek, "we are correcting the present inequities in our teacher retirement program where some teachers wait three to five years for cost of living adjustments. This new bill, if approved by the Senate, will provide that the cost of living shall be figured every year with proper adjustments kept on a current basis."

Representative Hanzalek noted that she had received many communications from retired teachers, and, in fact, from teachers still working, in her District, who were concerned that they could even manage to survive at the presently "way behind the times" method of figuring retirement benefits.

Scoutmaster Retires

Gordon Hartley has retired as Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 260 and Richard Drake has accepted the role as Scoutmaster of the troop.

After many years of devoted services to scouting, Hartley is resigning as Troop 260 Scoutmaster. In his five years of leading the troop, he has helped a fine group of Suffield boys to learn Scout skills, to enjoy many happy meetings and camp-outs, to advance in scouting, and to become better citizens, said Al Williams, of the Troop 260 Boy Scout Committee. We know that you all share our appreciation of Gordon's work and wish him well, he added.

Richard Drake is an experienced Scouter who recently moved to Suffield. His qualifications are most impressive, and the troop committee is confident that, as the new Scoutmaster, he will help our Scouts well in a continuing program of progress and future activities, Williams said.

The enrollment of Scouts in Troop 260 is made up of boys with excellent character, ambition and the will to gain a high status in scouting goals, Williams said. With cooperation from parents and the new leadership of Richard Drake and the Scout Committee, Williams expressed confidence that Troop 260 will be one of the finest Scout organizations in developing youth into mature citizens, with excellent character.

Arts Council Invites Residents To Meeting

A committee working on founding an Arts Council for Suffield, has invited residents interested in such a proposal to a meeting to be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the town hall, said Mrs. Gail Sanderson, chairman.

Some of the topics for consideration at the meeting are: Should we form ourselves into a Citizens Advisory Council on the Arts? Should we appoint temporary officers to administer the Council? Should we appoint a study group to examine by-laws and papers of incorporation? Should we appoint a development committee to discuss ways and means for funding the proposed Arts Council?

Should we appoint teams of the Citizens Advisory Council to survey organizations, school administrators, and individual artists to determine community needs and goals in the fields of arts and education? Should we appoint a committee to gather information on artists and groups which may be called upon to perform and-or exhibit during the summer months and to develop program ideas for the schools and community for the 1973-74 season? Should we appoint a committee to consider the feasibility of publishing a monthly arts calendar newsletter as a service to Arts Council members?

Commencement Speaker

J. Worth David, Dean of Undergraduate admissions at Yale University, will return to Suffield Academy to be the academy's commencement speaker at the exercises to be held Tuesday.

Worth was a teacher of history and math at the local academy from 1956-62 and director of studies here from 1962-1966. He went to Harvard University Graduate School of Administration from 1966-68 and served as principal of Clayton High School, Clayton, Missouri from 1968 to 1972, before going to Yale for his present position.

He is a graduate of Yale and has an M.A. from Wesleyan University.

The commencement program will be held outdoors near the academy's victory bell at 11 a.m., Tuesday, weather permitting. In case of rain the program will be in Second Baptist Church across the green from the academy.

Camp Aya-Po Open For Enfield - Somers Girls

This summer the Enfield Area of the YWCA will offer 60 girls from the Enfield - Somers area the opportunity to attend day camp at Camp Aya-Po.

Camp Aya-Po is located in Somers, and is situated on a hill overlooking the Conn. River. The permanent camp buildings are surrounded by woods, fields and a 17½ acre lake, offering many opportunities for camping adventure and exploration. Camp Aya-Po is accredited by the American Camping Association.

There will be two camp sessions offered. The first will run July 9 - 12 and July 16 - 19. The second session will run July 23 - 26 and July 30 - Aug. 2. The camp day will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 3 p.m. A bus will provide transportation with pickup points throughout Enfield and Somers.

Opportunities are provided for development of swimming skills in waterfront activities. All instructors are American Red Cross trained Water Safety Instructors and Senior Life Savers. Creative efforts are encouraged in the arts and crafts classes under the supervision of qualified instructors, who are carefully selected for their ability to teach camp skills and their interest and understanding of young people. Outdoor crafts, nature walks, outdoor sports and boating are also included in the activities.

The Camp has a Health Cabin staffed by a Registered Nurse to check on the campers health needs and safety.

The cost of one eight-day session is $25.00 which includes bus transportation. A $5 non-returnable deposit is required and will be applied toward the camping fee. A $1 Y-Teen membership is also required.

As a part of the total program of the YWCA Camp Aya-Po's aim is to help girls take an active part in democratic planning, develop their own personalities, learn to appreciate others and have fun through new experiences and learning new skills.

For further information and registration forms, call 745-2793.

HITLER TAKEOVER

Adolf Hitler seized control of Germany, filling key posts with Nazi confederates, on Feb. 4, 1938.

JUNE 5th - 28th

Are there haunted houses in Connecticut with ghosts roaming around? Coming to Enfield to answer that question are Ed and Lorraine Warren, professional hunters of the supernatural. With eye witness reports, a wealth of documented evidence plus slides and photographs, the Warrens will attempt to convince their audience of the existence of haunted houses and spooky other-world creatures. They have acquired over three hundred case histories on genuine hauntings in the New England area. Their approach to the supernatural is coldly scientific and they try to eliminate, insofar as possible, those ghostly manifestations that could be attributed to human agencies or purely physical causes.

The Warrens, both professional artists, began their investigations into the paranormal activities more than 27 years ago. Their first encounters with the many varieties of "apparitions" and "spirits" began with their interest in painting haunted houses, however, they have been interested in the supernatural since childhood when Ed Warren moved into a haunted house at five years of age and Lorraine Warren became aware of her gift of clairvoyance.

Are you a skeptic and a non-believer? Why not listen to the Warrens before taking a stand one way or the other? The students of Asnuntuck Community College have scheduled the Warrens to lecture on "Human Hauntings" on Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Enfield High School Auditorium, Rte. 5, Enfield. The cost of the tickets will be, students — $1.25 and non-students $1.75. Tickets may be purchased in advance by calling Mona Pietrowski, 745-2013, or by calling the school, Asnuntuck Community College, 745-1603. Some tickets will be sold at the door.
