Petitions Being Circulated For More State School Aid

Members of the Enfield PTA Council, Enfield Town Council and Enfield Board of Education held a second joint meeting Dec. 28 to hammer out the final draft of petitions requesting increased state aid to education. The petitions will be circulated beginning this week to Enfield residents and will be presented to the 1974 General Assembly when it reconvenes in February.

The petition reads as follows: "Whereas: 1) The proportional State share of public school costs has declined from 35.1 per cent in 1967-68 to 21 per cent in 1973-74. 2) Connecticut ranks 46th (4th from lowest) among all states in State assistance for local school costs. 3) Inadequate State assistance for public schools places an overwhelming burden on local property taxpayers and threatens the quality of our public school system. Therefore: We, the undersigned, who are residents of the Enfield community, urge the 1974 General Assembly to provide a substantial and significant increase in state aid to education, in line with the State Board of Education's recommendation of $300 per pupil."

Mayor Frank Mancuso commented, "This is the first time in the history of Enfield that the Town Council, PTA Council and Board of Education have joined forces to work together for a common goal for the community."

The next meeting of the PTA Council will be held Jan. 14, at 8 p.m. at Parkman School. The public is invited to attend.

The regular meeting of Enfield Planning and Zoning Commission scheduled for today at 8 p.m. in the Enfield Town Hall has been postponed until Jan. 10.

O'Leary Claims Energy Crisis Bungled

"It is my opinion that this energy shortage has been mishandled from the very beginning at the very highest levels," commented Rep. Cornelius O'Leary, 60th District. O'Leary's complaints centered on two problems.

"First, the crisis was upon us with such rapidity and lack of advanced warning that the general public does not really believe it is crucial. I can't blame them, he noted, because I don't know what to believe myself."

Second, O'Leary blamed top political leaders, Gov. Meskill and President Nixon for failing to set a proper example for the public to follow. "These men are asking the general public to voluntarily shoulder burdens and sacrifices which they don't seem willing to shoulder themselves.

"Specifically," O'Leary added, "the general public is made to feel guilty enough to abolish all Christmas decorations and forgo trips to relatives' houses in this season while at the same time the governor took a ski trip to Vermont, running out of gas up there, during one of the worst disasters to hit this state in years.

"In another grand-stand play," O'Leary added, the governor ordered the highway lights turned out on I-91 and 84 to save energy. Thus proposal makes no sense at all. Those lights were put there for safety and this measure darkens the highways and makes them unsafe than they already are. If we have reached the point where highway lighting is turned off, then we should not be able to spare extra gas for the governor to take ski trips and keep his chalet warm.

"Mr. Nixon asks us to turn the thermostat down and line up for an hour at the gas station to buy $4 worth of gas because he doesn't have the guts to go into rationing. He doesn't even have the nerve to follow through on his own advice, he simply takes off for Florida."

O'Leary noted that people's tempers were growing short with these conditions and Nixon and Meskill were only aggravating the situation with poor decisions.

O'Leary Cites CL&P On Ice Storm Work

State Rep. Cornelius O'Leary, 60th District, recently had some kind words for the Connecticut Light and Power Co.

"This kind of statement is very unusual for me," O'Leary added "because I have locked horns with this company on several occasions."

The Democrat was referring to his support of a bill which would limit utility company advertising and his attempts to turn Terry's Island into a state park.

O'Leary noted, however, that during the recent storm which knocked out utilities for many people in his district the power company was very helpful and cooperative. He added, "I traveled all over the district on several occasions and there was a great deal of damage. Many people contacted me to try to get help. I brought their complaints or problems to the attention of the company, and I usually could call them back with some information which was helpful to them. I don't think my calls got anyone service any faster than they would have gotten it anyway, but at least they knew that the company was aware of their problem and that something was going to be done shortly."

In many cases the power company called back the people who had contacted Rep. O'Leary to let them know that the company was aware of the problem. The only difficulty O'Leary ran into was that the company could not be more definite as to when people could expect the power to go on.

"I called them dozens of times," he noted, "and they were always courteous and gave the problem their attention. Under the circumstances I don't think I could have expected too much more. I especially would like to thank John Morrison, Joe Vella, Bob Gates and Charlie Mandrola who work for the power company. Their help was invaluable to me, and I think they did a very good job under very difficult conditions."

Raissi Wins Primary By 1,068 Vote Majority

In the Enfield Democratic primary to determine candidacy in February's election for district judge of probate, Atty. John K. Raissi defeated party endorsed candidate Atty. C. Michael Budlong.

Raissi, former judge of Enfield Municipal Court and former public defender for Circuit Court 13, who also served as town counsel, controlled all 11 polling areas in town, winning the election by 1,068 votes.

As final tallies showed Raissi was the winner with 1,434 votes to Budlong's 366. Those braving rain and fog on the day after Christmas were small in number with only 1,800 of the town's 10,775 registered Democrats casting their ballots.

Failing to get party endorsement, Raissi petitioned for an opportunity to meet Budlong in Wednesday's primary, gaining enough signatures to qualify for certification by the town clerk.

Now Raissi must prepare to face Atty. Thomas Tyler of 40 Spier Ave., the GOP party endorsed candidate for the probate bench, in the Feb. 5 election, which will determine who will hold the $14,000 a year position.

Raissi's attempt at a victory will also be challenged by Atty. William McDonald of 1050 Enfield St., who is running as an independent.

The winner of February's election will fill the judge of probate position only until November, 1974, when voters return to the polls to elect state officials and a probate judge for a four-year term.

Raissi ran for the judgeship on the platform that it is a "full-time job" which should be handled compassionately. The responsibilities of district judge of probate include admitting wills to probate, appointing administrators to estates, requiring administrators to account for their doings and making "any lawful order of decrees to carry into effect the powers and jurisdiction" of the position as explained in the state's General Statutes.

The special election was called to fill the probate court vacancy, temporarily being occupied by Windsor Judge of Probate Raymond Adams, caused by the death of Judge Joseph T. Glista.

A question being raised by town officials is whether the February probate judge election is necessary or plainly speaking, a waste of money.

Mayor Frank Mancuso has been quoted as believing the special election, which will cost the town about $10,000, is "a big waste of money."

Raymond Adams, who has been judge of probate in Windsor for 26 years, said recently that state Probate Administrator Glenn E. Knierim asked him to fill the vacancy with the stipulation that Adams would be permitted to retain the position long enough to make it financially worthwhile.

Some talk in political circles, regarding the February election, has intimated that there is no harm or problems involved with an appointee holding the position until November.

However some political observers in town are saying

State Rep. Rosario T. Vella, a Republican, heard that the probate judge to be appointed had the last name of "Adams" and believed it was Town Attorney John D. Adams, Democrat.

To prevent the Democrats from gaining control of the vacancy, political sources say Vella then called the governor's office and asked them to hold the election as soon as possible.

Vella denied the reports calling them "lies". He further stated, "I had nothing to do with changing the election date."

Appointee Adams, Windsor's probate judge not Enfield's town attorney, said Knierim was upset over the decision from Hartford to hold the election. However, Knierim himself denied making assurances to Adams concerning his temporary position.

Whatever the case may be, Raissi won big in Enfield and election returns on Feb. 5 will determine just how good a New Year this victorious attorney will have.

District Breakdowns

District 1, including the Enfield Street and Parkman Schools polling stations showed 327 votes for Raissi and 101 for Budlong. District 2, including polls at Enfield Intermediate and St. Joseph's Schools and the Town Hall polling areas, showed Raissi with 529 votes to Budlong's 71 votes.

Polling stations in District 3, Nathan Hale and Hazardville Memorial Schools and the Shaker Pines Fire Station, turned in 306 votes for Raissi, 104 for Budlong. District 4, polling locations at Brainard, Kosciuszko and Crandall Schools, showed 272 votes for Raissi and 90 votes to Budlong.

He will direct and coordinate their fund-raising activities which include planning special events and supervising the efforts of several hundred Heart Fund volunteers in the local residential, business, corporate and special gifts campaigns.

Fenn is employed as a special agent for Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company and is a graduate of Ithaca College. He was the treasurer of West Hartford Heart Fund Business Days in 1971 and is a member of Valley Ski Touring Club. With his wife he lives at Hartland Road, West Granby.

Funds raised in the annual drive will be used to support research projects in cardiovascular disease, professional and public education and community service programs.

Alien Address Report Program Is Under Way

James E. Smith, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service for Connecticut, advised that the annual Alien Address Report Program is again under way.

The address report requirement applies to all aliens admitted for permanent residence who have not yet been naturalized, as well as to aliens in the United States temporarily. The only exceptions are: noncitizens in diplomatic status and foreign representatives of international organizations of which the United States is a member, such as the United Nations.

According to Smith, 103,623 aliens reported their addresses last year in Connecticut. The number this year is expected to be somewhat higher.

The immigration official pointed out that the address reports are required by law, and willful failure to comply with this requirement may lead to serious consequences. Forms I-53 with which to make the reports can be obtained at the nearest Post Office or Immigration and Naturalization Service Office.

It is to be noted that the procedure for filing the reports has been changed this year. The alien will now complete the Form I-53 and place a stamp on the card, which contains a pre-printed address, and may be dropped into any mail box.

Suffield Bicentennial Commission Activities

The next meeting of the American Bicentennial Commission of Suffield will be Jan. 28. Anyone interested in working on the Commission or its committees should contact Roger C. Loomis, Chairman and if they have any suggestions to help the Commission celebrate the Bicentennial, they will be welcome, Loomis said.

Suffield's Bicentennial Commission began work several months ago after its formation was approved by the First Selectman. The local Commission will operate in cooperation with the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Connecticut and is registered with the corresponding national commission. The general plan here is to promote an extended observance of the bicentennial in Suffield, with a number of events over the next several years, including an old-fashioned Fourth of July on Independence Day, 1976.

The Commission hopes to incorporate in Suffield's events, the spirit of the three themes selected by the national commission:

Heritage '76 — a re-examination of our origins, our values, and the meaning of America.

Festival U.S.A. — an opportunity to program activities that will stimulate cultural interchange within Suffield, as well as with other Americans and the people of the world.

Horizons '76 — a challenge to our citizens to undertake at least one principal project that manifests the pride, the priorities, and the hopes of our town.

The Commission has sent a letter to the various organizations in Suffield seeking proposed good ideas for Suffield's bicentennial activities, and also an expression of willingness to participate in some way, so that Suffield's observance of America's Bicentennial will involve all its citizens.

Zoning, Planning Hearing

Suffield Zoning and Planning Commission will hold a public hearing Tuesday, Jan. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in Town Hall on application from E. P. The use sought for the property is for a research and development project now being developed by Hamilton Standard. The property map is on file on the office of the Town Clerk. Interested persons may appear and be heard.

Bids To Be Advertised On Urban Relocation Housing

Enfield Town Manager, C. Samuel Kissinger, announced that the Directors of the Town's Housing Authority, Redevelopment Agency and Planning and Zoning Commission have completed initial specifications to be advertised locally and nationally circulated construction journals, seeking prospective developers for 75 units of leased family housing to be built in Enfield as a relocation resource for the Freshwater Pond Urban Renewal Project. Kissinger indicated that the timing worked out jointly by the three directors will serve to expedite the availability of the housing, while at the same time insuring high quality design and construction, and located on sites suitable and convenient for the families to be relocated from the renewal project area.

The Town Manager said the proposed scheduling calls for advertising during the first two weeks in January, with a briefing session to be conducted jointly by the Housing, Redevelopment, and Planning Directors on Jan. 21, at the Housing Authority office. The briefing would spell out to interested developers such details as design requirements, zoning controls and site criteria. Those attending the briefing would then have a period of six weeks to prepare preliminary proposals, with a submission deadline of March 4.

The three boards and its staff will then make detailed reviews of plans submitted and hold interviews with selected prospective developers. A final choice of developer will be made by April 1.

The designated developer would then have three to four months to prepare detailed architectural and site plans, obtain local zoning approval and clear plans through the area office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

An annual subsidy of some $147,000 has already been approved by HUD and will be used to make up the difference between what low income tenants can afford to pay for rent (25 per cent of adjusted gross income) and the actual leased rental of the units, comparable to dwellings available on the private housing market.

Kissinger emphasized that prospective developers will have the flexibility to submit proposals showing development on scattered sites outside of, as well as within, the Freshwater Pond project; and may use a variety of housing designs, such as single family dwellings, town houses and garden apartments.

Target date for initial occupancy is slated for early 1975.

Insurance Companies Sponsor Bus Program

Three of Hartford's largest insurance companies has announced plans for the city's first employer-sponsored park-and-ride bus program.

The express bus service from Enfield to Asylum Hill will be available to the 13,500 home-office employees of Aetna Life & Casualty, Connecticut Mutual Insurance Co. and The Hartford Insurance Group. It will supplement the energy-saving steps already taken by each company individually.

The service, which will begin Jan. 7, will cost riders $8 per week. As an introductory offer, each company will pay its employees' fares for the first month.

The companies are making available free parking spaces for employees at the Calvary Presbyterian Church, between King and Old King Streets in Enfield.

A Connecticut Company bus will depart from the location at 7 a.m. and will arrive at Asylum Place, across from the intersection of Farmington Avenue and Flower Street, at 7:45 a.m. In the evening, buses will depart from The Hartford Group parking lot on Asylum Place at 4:25 p.m.

Express bus service to several other Greater Hartford area communities will be announced in the near future by the three companies.

Phone Tax Is Lowered

What better way to begin the New Year than by saving a little money? The Federal Government will be decreasing the excise tax on communication services from nine to eight per cent.

Southern New England Telephone says the change to the eight per cent rate will be reflected on bills rendered on and after Jan. 1.

According to SNET estimates, the government's belated Christmas present will result in an annual savings of $3.8 million for the state's telephone users.

The savings marks the second year in succession that the excise tax has been reduced. The tax was lowered from ten per cent in 1972 to nine per cent in 1973.

Student Union Opened

The Suffield Academy Student Union, located in Brewster Hall, where the old Baker Library was, is now open. The student lounge, although far from complete, has already become quite popular with the students. At present it contains some furniture, a coin operated pool table and two pin ball machines.

Future plans for the Student Union include sectioning the large area into four rooms, with virtually sound proof partitions. One room will be for reading and studying, where talking will be permitted, but only in a low voice. The second and third rooms will be for recreation; one will contain a stereo and pinball machines, while the other will have a coin operated pool table and ping-pong tables. The last section will be a television room. It is also intended that there will be a room for smoking adjacent to the lounge. All these additions will probably not be completed until next September however, it is expected that improvements to the lounge will be made continually through the year.

All of the plans are subject to change should the lounge be abused, an academy spokesman said, but thus far there have been no problems.

The Student Union has been established on the principal that the responsibility for its care belongs to the students. Therefore, there is a policy which has all students pay for any damage. It is hoped that this policy will have the same success it has had in the past, the spokesman added.

Renovations Near Completion

Suffield's $2.6 million school building project is nearing completion. The school building project included renovation of McAlister Middle School (formerly the old high school) and enlargement of the present high school and the Vocational Agricultural Center at the high school.

McAlister Middle School renovation is awaiting official acceptance, Supt. Malcolm Evans said. The school now has a newly redecorated interior, including wall-to-wall carpeting, repositioned blackboards, a lower first floor corridor ceiling, fresh paint everywhere, and a new media center on the second floor.

Principal Anthony Kula said students are proud of the school's appearance, which they now consider "The best in town".

The media center stretches across the width of the building with walk-through areas for students on their way to and from classes on the same floor.

Kula described the center, including a learning and study area, as "the heart of the school", which is in constant use.

At the high school, enlargement projects are finished in most areas. When completed there will be many additional classrooms grouped by subject and activity. In addition, the auditorium is being changed to include air conditioning; the library will be relocated and the gymnasium enlarged, Evans said.

Work on enlargement and updating of the Vocational Agriculture Center is almost complete. Because the center is regional, serving 10 towns, the state paid for the center building project, entirely.

The town received a $384,936 check at the recent commission and board heads meeting for the building construction reimbursement on the rest of the school project, bringing totals up to date.

The Energy Desert

Americans can find little solace in the knowledge that the plain of the energy crunch is shared by a significant portion of the global population.

But the grim fuel statistics in West Europe and Japan — or for that matter in the Soviet Union and its European satellites — support Henry Kissinger's plea for an united response to the problem.

The secretary of state proposed recently that the world's oil-thirsty nations join in a crash program to develop new sources of energy and conserve present supplies.

The urgency of the push to combat shortages is summed up in Kissinger's proposed mandate for the envisioned Energy Action group "of senior and prestigious individuals" — to develop an initial program within three months.

Kissinger was careful to avoid the appearance of pitting the "have-not" nations against the "haves," acknowledging that the energy shortage "is not simply a product of the Arab-Israeli war." Rather, he said, "it is the inevitable consequence of the explosive growth of worldwide demand out-running the incentives for supply."

And Kissinger held out the possibility of incentives to oil-producing nations to increase their output and of cooperation in investment of oil profits. He mentioned Arab ownership of oil-marketing facilities in the United States as a potential spur to the Arab nations to resume unrestricted production and shipment of their most-wanted product.

The Arab production cutbacks merely accelerated a reckoning toward which the world has been advancing for more than two decades. As custodians of the largest petroleum reservoir, the Arabs cannot be disregarded in anticipating world demands.

A wary American public may be apprehensive of Kissinger's pledge of "a very major financial and intellectual contribution" by the United States.

But he stressed to an audience of Europeans that unlike the American response to the Soviet Union's space challenge with its 1957 Sputnik, the "giant step for mankind" in the energy dilemma is one that must be taken in unison with America's "closest partners."

Japan may be in the most precarious position of all U.S. allies, second only to the United States in petroleum use and entirely dependent upon imports for its supply. But the European nations are faced with an average cutback of 18 to 20 per cent — up to 40 per cent in the beleaguered Netherlands. The energy picture painted for the United States grows more dismal with every official pronouncement.

All, it seems, have everything to gain and little to lose in pooling their money and talents in a collective search for an oasis in the energy desert.

Public Reaction

President Nixon is reported to be disappointed that his disclosure of personal financial affairs during his years in the White House has not brought forth a sudden spate of public commendation.

The financial disclosure was a good move. It lays the cards on the table for all to see and should end the series of news reports from a variety of sources that presented the President's financial situation piecemeal and perhaps with some misinformation.

However, we can understand many reasons why we don't hear a flood of public cheers go up for Mr. Nixon in the wake of his action:

— The disclosure was not really voluntary; it was induced by repeated reports in the press regarding the President's finances.

— There are conflicting opinions as to whether Mr. Nixon was justified in taking some of the tax exemptions he took, including not paying California state income taxes, even though he votes in that state and it's his home base. He's left it up to a congressional committee to make a decision on whether he owes any additional tax.

— He reduced his tax liability tremendously by regarding gift of his vice presidential papers as a charitable contribution. There is a question whether such papers are the property of the individual or of the government. Congress changed the law to forbid taking deductions for such gifts about the time Mr. Nixon completed his transaction, so it is uncertain whether he could legally take such a tax deduction.

— The people are not likely to applaud anyone who triples his net worth while in public office for five years. The average citizen who makes $10,000 or $12,000 a year and pays tax does not look kindly on the wealthy utilizing the tax laws to avoid paying even as much as the average citizen pays. Even if everything the President did was legal, he feathered his own financial nest with the help of millionaire cronies, and that's not a popular thing to do.

However, in the face of all of this, the question of Mr. Nixon's finances probably would not be a major public issue were it not for his other troubles.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

On Urban Renewal

To The Editor:

While in the middle of my Christmas shopping the weekend before the holiday, I was thinking about my loved ones, friends, neighbors, and all the people that were passing by on Route 5. I spotted a lone, cold figure standing in front of the Enfield Town Hall, holding a picket sign which stated that urban renewal is illegal.

Upon closer examination I discovered that the figure was none other than the recently become famous Mr. David Vesce!

I couldn't help but chuckle to myself thinking that in this time of the year when people are supposedly wishing people peace and goodwill, and more or less looking out for the welfare of others, how someone could be so selfish as to think only of themselves.

I'm sure that no one wants to take another person's property away and leave them out in the cold. Albert Vesce, Dave's father, owns a good number of buildings in town, most of them in the redevelopment areas. Several of the buildings are an eyesore inside as well as outside. I'm sure the Vesce's will get more than their money's worth when the town moves in to take over these buildings for redevelopment.

In this season, let's stop thinking about only ourselves and our families. Let's work to clean up and fix up the old "Thompsonville Center" and make Enfield a better-safer place to live for EVERYONE.

Walking To School

To The Editor:

What will be the status of the school buses here in Enfield during the gas shortage, which we will have until the children who are presently riding the buses graduate from high school?

My feelings are that the present limits be extended to one and a half miles for the younger children and two miles for the older. Just think how much extra we would have for the necessities in our school system if the bus budget was pared down.

Personally, our children who are on a so-called bus street, have all walked to Prudence Crandall from the day they began in kindergarten.

Parents who feel the physical education program in our schools leaves something to be desired may want to give thought to having their child walk to school.

Sweeping Changes Needed In Small Claims Court System

By REP. ROSARIO T. VELLA
(First in a series)

Are Connecticut's small claims courts really "a people's court," as a State Welfare Department pamphlet calls it, where by following a few simple rules and procedures the average citizen with a complaint can obtain quick redress without the necessity of hiring a lawyer?

Or are small claims courts here, as in most other states, what former U.S. Attorney Whitney North Seymour, Jr., of New York describes as "primarily . . . a collection agency for department stores and other commercial claimants who can group large numbers of claims against poor people and process them quickly at little expense"?

The Seymour view of these panels was reflected in a resolution passed this fall by the Eastern Regional Consumer Protection Committee of the Council of State Governments.

The committee, made up of both legislators and consumer-protection officials throughout the Eastern states, labeled the small claims courts "primarily . . . a collection vehicle for commercial interests in consolidating large numbers of claims against consumers."

Yet many consumer advocates who have called for sweeping changes in three courts do not believe it is small-claims proceedings as such that have led to demands for reform.

Responding to questions posed by State Rep. Rosario T. Vella (R-59), chairman of the Eastern Regional Committee, Atty. Alan Neigher of Bridgeport, former president of the Connecticut Consumer Association, had this to say:

"It is not always easy for an attorney representing a commercial interest to walk away from a small claims court session with an easy victory.

"Judges are often very reluctant to allow a claim against an individual consumer unless it is thoroughly documented by signed contracts, bills and other evidence.

"This, of course, is not always the case," said Atty. Neigher. "I am sure there are attorneys who make their living processing small claims cases on behalf of commercial interests that do not always conform to the basic elements of fairness in the market place."

But the consumer leader, who during his CCA presidency investigated complaints from all parts of the state, said that he personally has not seen many instances of such abuse.

Neigher's view echoes the sentiments of a report on "Redress of Consumer Grievances" issued in September by the National Institute for Consumer Justice, whose board of directors is headed by Associate Justice Robert Braucher of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court. The board, comprising prominent consumer advocates from all parts of the nation, includes Atty. William H. Clendenen, Jr., of New Haven.

On the basis of studies of small claims courts in five major cities, the report concluded that by and large "the procedure (is) fair and the outcome (is) proper.

"Although some small claims courts are indeed used as collection mills for professional creditors, it appears that the same speedy and effective justice is available for consumer plaintiffs as for business plaintiffs, and that in reality the small claims courts should properly be identified not as collection mills, but as plaintiffs' courts."

Some NICJ studies showed that consumer plaintiffs had nearly as high a success rate in small claims courts as corporate plaintiffs. Consumer-plaintiffs prevailed in 86 per cent of the cases that proceeded to hearing in Los Angeles. In Philadelphia, almost two-thirds of consumer-plaintiff cases resulted in a judgment for the plaintiff or a settlement. Excluding cases voluntarily dismissed by the plaintiff, the Philadelphia figure was just short of 90 per cent.

Rep. Vella, after querying numerous lawyers in preparation for submitting a small-claims-reform bill to the 1974 Legislature, concluded that the same favorable climate for consumer-plaintiffs holds true in Connecticut, although no formal studies have been made of the outcome of cases.

"The really important question is, as the NICJ put it, how do you get the proper plaintiffs to come to the small claims courts," Rep. Vella said. "How do you make these courts an effective vehicle for the large number of low-income and moderate-income people who need their help and are not getting it?"

That is the objective of the Vella legislation.
NEXT: Unavailable, unusable or invisible."

Academy Headmaster Sanderson SUFFIELD NEWS

Ends 22 Years Of Coaching

Reporter: Miss Eleanor E. Smith

Suffield Academy Headmaster Paul Sanderson, Jr. ended 22 years as soccer coach this fall. The Academy varsity soccer team ended its season with an excellent record of 11-2, with Sanderson as the basic reason for this year's winning record and of the 21 previous ones.

Even when he is no longer coaching, he will be remembered for creating Suffield's dominance in soccer.

But Sanderson's love of soccer as a major sport took him far beyond Suffield, and even Connecticut. He helped organize the Western New England Prep Schools League for Soccer. That effort was so successful that he went on to working on organizing the entire United States into soccer leagues in 1960. As chairman of the Secondary Schools Committee of the National Soccer Coaches Association he wrote to every coach and athletic director who knew anything about soccer. As a result he found more than 1000 secondary schools in America playing the game and received letters as far west as San Francisco which indicated interest in the sport was growing.

He made Suffield Academy the scene of soccer clinics also. In May 1961 the New York Americans of the then new International Soccer League conducted a soccer clinic at the Academy which attracted nearly 500 coaches and players from New England.

Highlight of the event was a scrimmage between the Americans and a group of senior college all stars from New England colleges. The New York team included mostly players from England, from such outstanding squads as Northampton, Newcastle United, Lincoln City and Swansea Town.

In 1967, The Westminster City School, London, England soccer team came to Suffield Academy for a three-day visit. They played soccer here twice, first in a demonstration on the academy field and second in a scrimmage by Suffield Academy and Suffield High School players versus Westminster City.

The Westminster team was part of a group of 160 British students who were in U.S. under direction of the Anglo-American Intercultural Society.

Five Farmers Elected

Five Suffield farmers have been elected to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. They are Richard E. Hastings, Horace E. Halladay, Walter S. Kulina, Jr.; Lawrence G. Coulter and George F. Stewart. They will serve as a community committee (like those in other state areas) in charge of local administration of national farm programs.

Suffield To Have Voice In Airport Decisions

Suffield has secured representation in the Federal Civil Aeronautics Board's (CAB) proceedings to make Bradley International Airport an "international gateway," according to Town Counsel Meade Alcorn.

Alcorn said he was able, by only the narrowest of margins, to obtain legal representation for the town at a prehearing conference in Washington, D.C. at which the CAB examiner was present on Nov. 29. He said he was told of the Nov. 29 meeting only two days before it was conducted. When he checked with the Department of Transportation (DOT) Commissioner James Burns, he learned that the DOT, the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce and the Town of Windsor Locks were all to be represented by legal counsel at the conference.

Alcorn asked Burns why Suffield and East Granby which lie in the path of the major airports were not informed and Burns replied "he didn't know".

The Suffield Town Counsel immediately secured the services of a "highly specialized Washington law firm" which handled this type of case, he said.

If gateway status is granted Bradley it will mean stepping up of flights, particularly between midnight and 5 a.m., Alcorn said, and international flights could then originate here as well. Alcorn said he believed this would lead to airport expansion.

Windsor Locks may favor such status for the airport, Alcorn said, in as much as the town is not affected by the noise factor from the runways as are Suffield and East Granby.

Prime concern for Suffield is that future runway expansion would almost inevitably be toward Suffield by taking more of Suffield land.

A formal brief on the Bradley plan is scheduled to be filed in April, and in June hearings on the Trans-Atlantic Route Proceedings Docket No. 25908, will be conducted, Alcorn said.

Women's World

Sandra Burns, Women's Editor

Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Landry are pictured at their 50th wedding anniversary party held last Saturday on Cape Cod. The couple were married on December 26, 1923. They are the parents of Enfield Press sports writer, Art Landry.

Gary Benner Opens In "Mame"

Eleven-year-old Gary Benner plays young Patrick Dennis in the Jerry Herman musical, "Mame," which will open Saturday, Jan. 12, at the Chateau de Ville Dinner Theatre, East Windsor. "Mame" stars Anne Russell in the title role and is produced by Gerald Roberts. The musical is scheduled to run through Feb. 10.

Gary Benner broke into song quite recently, when confronted with a Jim Nabors record. Since then, he hasn't stopped. Although the Chateau de Ville production of "Mame" is Gary's first legitimate-theatre acting experience, he has already become an "old pro" at facing audiences, lights and orchestras. His credits include one L.P. album, "If I Were A Man," and three television appearances, Channel 7's On Stage, Channel 5's Arnold Zenker Show and the same station's Good Morning Show. He has been on two radio talk shows and has sung at numerous benefits and functions.

Also appearing in "Mame" are Isabelle Farrell, Douglas Easley and Arsenio Trinidad.

Reservations are now being accepted for "Mame," starring Anne Russell, which will open Saturday, Jan. 12, at the Chateau de Ville Dinner Theatre, East Windsor.

Area Chairman Named For Heart Association Benefit Fashion Show

Mrs. Joseph Fontana of 10 Elmore St., Enfield, will serve as local ticket chairman for the 13th Annual Fashion Show sponsored by The Heart Association of Greater Hartford and G. Fox and Company at Centinel Hill Hall on Monday, Jan. 28 at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Spring and Summer Fashions designed by Christian Dior, Givenchy and Bill Blass from McCall patterns will be exhibited by a dozen leading fashion models. Miss Janet Kirchheim, New York fashion director, will be the commentator at the morning show. Le petit dejeuner will be served and in the evening champagne and biscuits will be offered.

Tawona Foster, 1974 Heart Princess of The Heart Association of Greater Hartford will model three outfits designed especially for her.

For information or Tickets call Mrs. Fontana at 745-2989, or The Heart Association of Greater Hartford, 522-6155 or G. Fox and Company, Fabric Dept. or branch stores. Tickets will be $2 with the proceeds going to the Heart Fund, for the support of the public and professional education, cardiovascular research and

Meditation Lecture Set

The Pearl Street Library, Enfield will be the location of a free lecture-discussion on the technique of Transcendental Meditation (TM) on Wednesday, at 8 p.m. The lecture is sponsored by the International Meditation Society (IMS).

TM is an effortless mental technique that provides the body with a very profound level of rest, deeper than that of deep sleep. On the basis of this deep rest, a person naturally feels more refreshed, due to the dissolving of deep-seated stress and tension. The regular practice of TM leads to more effective and harmonious activity. Published scientific research is verifying the practical benefits of this simple technique.

The technique of TM is taught by qualified instructors under the auspices of the International Meditation Society, a non-profit educational organization and can be easily learned by anyone in a few short lessons.

For further information, please contact the local IMS center at 5 Lincoln Street, Hartford (247-6733).

Plan Story Hour

The Enfield Suburban Women's Club will resume Story Hour for four-year-olds at the Enfield Central Library on Middle Rd. on Fridays starting on January 18 from 10-11 a.m. Another Story Hour will be held at the Pearl St. Library on Thursdays starting Jan. 17 from 10-11 a.m. Registration for both Story Hours will be on Friday, Jan. 11 at 9 a.m. at the Central Library. Parents may also register their children with the librarian at the Pearl St. Library at anytime.

Mrs. Joseph Fontana

Elks Memorial Service

An annual memorial service was recently held by Enfield Lodge of Elks 2222 in memory of Ignatius Boduch and all departed members of the organization. The eulogy was said by Rev. Vella of St. Bernard Church, shown at the podium. The memorial service committee included James Henderson, Richard Downs and members of Emblem Club 380.

Shelter For Pets In Power Failure

Animal lovers, Mr. and Mrs. James Curtiss, of South St., Suffield, have offered their kennel services for pets which have to move out of their home during a power failure, but who cannot accompany their owners to human shelters.

Mrs. Curtiss got the idea from a radio news program which interviewed families without heat and electricity during Felix's blackout. Some of the people could not go to public shelters because they had no place to bring their pets," she said.

The Curtiss kennel owners have their own generators and can take up to 100 more animals, Mrs. Curtiss said. She added the offer is open to any town, not only Suffield.

The Curtiss raise champion dogs of their own such as Fritz, a German wire-hair terrier, an American and Canadian champion. Most of their 20 dogs are St. Bernards. Their Blue Chip of Anterbury, shown from Maine to the Midwest was named fifth most valued St. Bernard in the nation last year.

They will offer comfortable room and board, free of charge, for animals caught in the dilemma of keeping their owners from warm shelters with "no dogs allowed stipulations" in times of energy power crisis.

The Scholarship Committee of the Women's Club of Enfield would like to remind club members to purchase tickets to the Chinese Auction before Jan. 9. After that they will go on sale to the public.

The Chinese Auction will be held on Saturday, Feb. 9, 1974 to raise money for the Women's Club Scholarship Fund. Tickets can be obtained from any committee member of which Mrs. Leo Porcello is chairman and Mrs. Ralph Cerrato is co-chairman.

Biblical Travelogue

A Travelogue of the Biblical History of Turkey will be the program following the monthly business meeting of the United Methodist Women of Enfield on Tuesday, January 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the United Methodist Church of Enfield on Brainard Rd.

Jack Tait spent one year in Turkey while serving in the U.S. Air Force and while there he and his wife took many excursions gathering historical data and taking many slides. Some of the cities visited include such Bible provinces as Galatia, Goremot, and Ephesus. Mr. Tait will also display a map illustrating the historical and present day boundaries of Turkey.

The program will be followed by refreshments served by Ina Bellefleuer and Edwina Gorman.

Holyoke Nips EHS Raiders

By LARRY AVERY

On Thursday the Enfield High Raiders traveled to Holyoke to play the Knights of Holyoke High. Holyoke won the game by two points, 74-72.

Enfield outscored the Knights 16-13 in the first quarter.

In the second quarter the Knights opened with a burst that put them in front 21-17 and they increased it to 31-21 with 1:15 left in the first half.

Enfield then scored 10 unanswered points in the final minute to tie the score at 31-31 at half time. In the third period, Enfield led by Jim Hayden's 10 points, outscored Holyoke 25-22 to lead 56-53.

The fourth quarter was a heart-stopped for both ball clubs. With 5½ minutes left in the game Enfield led by one, 60-59. Holyoke, led by Steve Daniel and Rich Lempki, outscored the Raiders 8-2 to lead 67-62. Ahead 67-64 with 2:40 left, Holyoke tried to slow things down but Jim Hayden blocked a shot and Tim Murphy scored on the blocked shot and Enfield now trailed by one point. A three point play by Steve Daniel made it 70-66 with one minute to play. In the next 44 seconds Enfield got two buckets to one for the Knights and Holyoke led 72-70, with 16 seconds left in the game.

Ralph O'Connor hit one foul shot for a three point lead, but after an Enfield miss, a fight broke out on the court leading to a rash of technical fouls. With three seconds left Daniel hit a technical shot for Holyoke giving a four point lead at 74-70, but Hayden got two of them back as he made two technicals to bring the Raiders within two. An Enfield violation on the ensuing jump ball gave the ball and the victory to Holyoke. Enfield is now 2-2 on the year.

Jim Hayden led all scorers with 28 points, as he made 12 of 14 from the floor and 4 out of 4 at the foul line. Senior Co-Capt. Paul DaSilva aided Hayden with 27 points the fourth time the 6'6" center has gone over 20 pts. this year. DaSilva also hauled down 17 rebounds. Tim Murphy had 10 points for Enfield.

Enfield's next game is tomorrow night against their cross town rivals the Falcons of Enrico Fermi.

EFHS Tri-Captains

The Fermi Falfins swimming team tri-captains are ready for the team's home opener tomorrow against Windsor Locks at 4 p.m. Pictured 1-4 are: Joe Traczynski, Robert Block and Jim Gavin. Gavin smashed his own school diving record in Waterbury last week with a score of 236.60. His previous high was 181.55. Coach Bob Lengyel says his team is improved this year but they will be facing stiffer competition.

Barnes Still Unbeaten

Barnes Construction coasted to an easy 89-57 win over Enfield Dairy to maintain their unbeaten string at five wins and no losses in the Enfield Stone Age Basketball League. The Amvets and Kelly Trailer also won to keep them just one game behind the league leaders with records of 4-1.

Barnes took an early 17-14 lead after one period and built on it throughout the game. Barnes led 43-28 at half time and 60-41 at the three quarter mark. Jerry Wingen was top man for the winners with 20 points on 10 field goals. Bob Davis netted 18 points on seven and four. Norm Beaulieu scored 14 points on 6 and 2 and Ray McGivney got into double figures with 13 points on six baskets and a free throw. Dave Petursson was high man for the losers and the game's top scorer with 24 points on 11 baskets and two free throws. Charles Hughes netted 13 points for the losing Enfield Dairy men.

Vic's Cafe and Fran's Restaurant played what was accorded the Game-Of-The-Week honors. Vic's prevailed by a 48-41 score and led all the way with Fran's closing fast at the end. Gus Carlander of Vic's was named Player-Of-The-Week as he scored 14 points on seven baskets and led the team in aggressiveness. Dick Murphy scored 10 points on 5 baskets and Chuck Lyver had 9 points on 3 and 3 for Vic's. Jack Brinkman led Fran's with 12 points on 5 and 2, Joe Conway hit the strigs for 10 points on 4 and 2 and Dan Padegenis had 7 points on three and one for Fran's.

Kelly Trailer kept pace with the league leaders by Bob Chillson scored 12 points on 6 baskets and Mike Malley had 14 points on 6 and 2 for the Kellymen. Dennis Ravenola netted 12 points on 6 baskets and Bill Kiernan did the same for the Nutmegers.

The Amvets managed to stay in a tie for second place as they beat the Enfield Athletic Club 73-54. Mike Gerich was high with 18 points on 9 baskets for Amvets. Tom Tyler scored 17 on 8 and 1. ## SOAP BOX DERBY IS FLOUNDERING

What happens when adults get mixed up in children's games was pointed out when it was shown that last year's Soap Box Derby winner had help from a relative who placed an electro-magnet in his car to give him a faster start.

This was out and out cheating and, as a result, the Soap Box Derby sponsor pulled out leaving the future of the Soap Box Derby in doubt. Whether or not any other firm wants to get mixed up in a sport that is now clouded remains to be seen.

We blame the Soap Box Derby committee as well as the adult who perpetrated the act. They should have had some kind of monitoring devices to detect devices of this kind thereby avoiding this embarrassing moment. Their fault was that they considered everyone to be basically honest.

The concept of honesty wasn't bad since most people are basically honest. The trouble was that they didn't allow for the person who places winning above all else at any cost. The winning driver really can't be blamed either although it must be tough for the kid to try living this down. After all it did receive national publicity.

We feel sorry for the boys who were beaten by this rigged car. Chances are that one of them should have been the national champion. Why is it that the act of one man can destroy an institution, and this is what the Soap Box Derby had become.

I certainly hope that some national firm will take up the sponsorship of the "Derby". The act of one individual shouldn't be allowed to put a damper on the activities of thousands of kids all across the country.

Horse races have been fixed in the past but horse racing has never been banned completely in this country or any other. Football games have been fixed in the past but today the sport is more popular than ever. Baseball has had its scandals and managed to survive. Basketball hasn't been lily white over the years either and today it is the biggest spectator sport in the country.

What is the difference between these professional sports and the Soap Box Derby. The biggest difference, it seems, is that the adults run the professional sports for their own pleasure while the kids have to rely on adult money to sponsor the "Derby". Did the last sponsor feel that the publicity he received for sponsoring the "Derby" wasn't more than the "Derby" cost him. This would be a better explanation than pulling out because the sport had become "tarnished" by one individual.

Markowski Wins "Sweepstakes"

Moore's Supermarkets of Lumber and Building Materials announces that Alexander Markowski, Jr. of 32 St. James Ave., Enfield, is a winner in our recent "Going Hunting Sweepstakes". The prize is a Trail Blazer Hunting Jacket by Winchester Sportswear.

This was bound to happen under the present rules of the "Derby" committee. If you have never been to a Soap Box Derby race you really can't imagine how much money and expertise went into some of the cars. Some of the cars looked as though they had been produced by major car manufacturers. The majority of the cars looked like the work of amateurs and indeed they should since this was the idea at the start of the whole thing.

The "Derby" eventually degenerated into a race for the nation's engineers to come up with a design which was aerodynamically the best. The boy became incidental to the whole operation and remained a part of the race solely because of the age limitations for drivers. Someone had to drive the car after it was built, (some times by experts).

Now it is time for the races to be turned over to the boys again. I would suggest that the Soap Box Derby committee look over its rules very carefully and rewrite them where needed to prevent any foul play at the local, regional and national levels. More stringent inspection of the cars certainly will be needed. Local, regional and national committees can not afford to be lenient at all when it comes to the rules. They will have to bear down hard to see that this situation does not happen again.

I don't want to see the Soap Box Derby come to an end. I hope other sports writers will feel as I do and talk it up. It may take a lot of talking by a lot of people to come up with sponsors for the event but I am sure it can be done.

There may not be as much glamour in writing about something that doesn't pull in million dollar gates but it is worth it if we can save an activity which keeps children off the streets and teaches them the value of competition.

It is unfortunate that this deception came about but it may also have been inevitable. It is up to us to see that this one incident does not kill a worth while activity for our young people.

Park Opens Snowmobile Trail

Park Supt. Roger C. Loomis has announced that the snowmobile trail through Sunrise Park will be opened when snow cover is 6 inches or more; and will remain open while a minimum of 6 inches of snow remains on the entire trail. This is to protect the snowmobilers, as well as the Park lawns, he said. Snowmobiles are not to be brought into the Park — may only be driven in on the marked trail. This is the only area in the Park opened to them. Speed limit is 10 m.p.h. and extreme care must be used in the Ski Tow area. All vehicles must be registered. No wheeled vehicles or sliding is allowed on the trail. Snowmobilers may use the trail at their own risk and before midnight. Loomis said.

The pavilion in Sunrise Park is available to residents for use while enjoying winter sports. Regulations for use of the fireplace are posted on the bulletin board there. Users are asked to observe them and prevent damage to the building. Use firewood provided and don't remove branches (dead or alive) from trees or shrubs in the Park.

Days when skating on the lake is available will be posted on the sign at the Park entrance, Loomis said, and also by the lake. He asks people to keep off ice when the sign says to do so. Even when the ice is safe, tracks left in the snow or soft surface remain all winter and ruin skating, he warned, asking for cooperation.

Ice fishing will be allowed for Suffield residents at the north half of the lake when the sign says "skating allowed". Fishers are not to go on the ice at other times, Loomis said; and they are to keep fishing holes off of the plowed areas.

The 1973 park stickets are still required by all persons using the Park and will be good until Apr. 1, the Superintendent said.

The cutting of firewood in any of the Town Parks is not permitted, Loomis said. This includes Jesse Smith Forest, Stony Brooke and Sunrise Parks.

Ask ZPC To Reject Starr Proposal

The Concerned Citizens of Suffield (CCS) has urged the Zoning and Planning Commission to turn down the present S. Leger Starr proposal for the 114-house development on East St.

John Coati, CCS president has written Blair Childs, ZPC secretary, stating the ZPC does in fact have grounds on which to deny the Starr proposal.

"The ZPC does have the power to turn down this particular planned subdivision according to our reading and interpretation of zoning regulations Coati said.

"This particular plan is not in harmony with the rest of the community", he said. "It is poorly laid out considering the soil and water problems of this tract."

"If you accept this inadequately designed subdivision, you will be following a poor precedent which gave us Randall Drive, Pleasant View and Suffield Landing", he said. "Why not set your own precedent on using sound judgement in this case."

Coati's letter said "The town is responsible for use and misuse of land as is being proved by Randall Drive and Pleasant view. We urge you to take this into consideration."
