Karl Lee Slain In Mass., Funeral Today At 3 P.M.

By ERNEST A. MOKUS

The funeral of Karl D. Lee, 81, of 13 Mountain View St., Enfield, will be this afternoon at 3 from the United Methodist Church at 41 Brainard Rd. with Rev. Matt Mees officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery, Winter Harbor, Me.

Lee's body was found Sunday afternoon about 2:30 by a man playing with his children in Springfield's Blunt Park.

Springfield police theorize Lee was abducted after attending a hockey game Saturday night at the Springfield Civic Center in Springfield. The spot where his body was found is about three miles east of the Civic Center.

Captain Joseph J. Legarski, in charge of the murder investigation, listed robbery as the motive. Legarski said it appears that Lee drove or was driven to Blunt Park in his own car where he was beaten to death and that the murderer or murderers drove his car to a small parking lot on Buckingham Street, which is about half the distance between the Civic Center and Blunt Park.

The car was found

KARL D. LEE

Tuesday morning following an anonymous telephone call to a Springfield newspaper.

Medical Examiner of Hampden County, Dr. William Mosig, listed the cause of death following an autopsy as multiple head injuries. He added that Lee had also suffered fractures of the neck, breast bone and nose and that he had two black eyes. Mosig fixed the time of death as either late Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

Lee was first reporter missing by relatives when he failed to return home to Enfield from the Kings hockey game. When found Sunday afternoon, his wallet and money were missing but a gold watch and a wedding band were still on his body.

Police fingerprint experts combed Lee's car in the Springfield police garage where it is impounded. Legarski said until the

Businessmen Want To Meet With Town On Crime Rise

As a result of the recent rise of crime in Enfield in general and in the Thompsonville area in particular, the Greater Enfield Chamber of Commerce is in the process of forming a Chamber Crime Prevention Committee.

The newly-formed committee has invited Town Manager C. Samuel Kissinger and Chief of Police Walter J. Skower to meet with the entire Chamber Board of Directors at noon, Feb. 19 to discuss the subject and ways and means to combat it.

Marcel St. Sauveur, executive director of the Chamber, said its business members have reported fourteen incidences of break-ins and vandalism during the past holiday season. According to St. Sauveur, the downtown merchants feel that present police protection is inadequate. He said if such is the case, the situation calls for immediate corrective action.

St. Sauveur said the several questions which need to be answered are: the frequency and composition of patrol schedules in Enfield, during the day, at night and comparative crime figures this year as opposed to previous years.

On one day alone, Tuesday, nine burglaries were committed in town while there were three reports of thefts of gas, one car stolen and one "possible" burglary.

The burglaries included Gale Motors on Enfield St. where the safe was ripped open; Keler Oil Co. on Enfield St. where the safe was torched open; a burglary at the Enfield Dairy Bar on South Rd. and another at Smyth Dairy Bar on Hazard Ave. The resident of 161 Cottage Rd. reported his residence burglarized as did the resident of 12 Lovely Dr. Also reporting burglaries were the residents of 123 Post Office Rd., of 11 Litchfield Drive and 28 Laurel St.

The "possible" burglary was reported to be at 15 Birchwood Rd.

Police Chief Walter Skower, as a result of items being stolen from a parked police car while its operator was investigating an offense on Sharp St., has ordered all police cars to be locked while its operator is not in close proximity and view of the vehicle. He also said that investigation has revealed the modus operandi of one of the burglar rings operating in town. The m. o. he said, is that the thieves apparently carry the lighter stolen goods and hide the heavier loot in woods or trash cans near the victim's home, intending to later retrieve same under cover of night.

Chief Skower said his men, in fact almost the entire department, is involved in solving the burglaries and apprehending the criminals.

No Mo Go-Go

Police Chief Walter J. Skower yesterday announced the proprietor of the Lamplighter Lounge has agreed to discontinue "girly go-go goings on" at his lounge immediately.

At a meeting between the proprietor, Peter DiMaria and police officials including the chief, Lieutenants Frank Rzas, Walter Juniewicz and Sgt. Alvin Duprey, in the chief's office yesterday, DiMaria expressed his cooperation with the complainant in discontinuing go go dancing.

The complaint came from St. Bernard's Church following a front page spread of go go dancing in the Tuesday edition of an out of town daily newspaper.

The chief said that his department was aware of go go performances at the lounge but until now, had not received any complaints from town residents. The chief stressed that there was no criminal violation by the proprietor as long as the dancers wore "pasties" and covered up the pubic area.

Seized Narcotics

In the upper photo are various items seized by police with the arrest of Stephen J. Wright, 19, of 41 Pine Hill Rd., Enfield, on Jan. 25. Included is a 1-ounce plastic bag of marijuana, scale, glass marijuana pipe, small water pipe, marijuana seeds and a purple hallucinogen pill at lower left. In the lower photo are five marijuana plants and a quantity of marijuana in the boxes which were seized from Edward E. Strickland, 30, of 7 Eds St., Enfield, on Jan. 23.

Safety Council Lists Causes Of Accidents

Death and crippling injury has visited Enfield in an increasing number of auto-pedestrian accidents. The Enfield Safety Council is concerned about the repeating causes of these accidents. A review by the council of accidents for the past year indicate the following most common causes of accidents involving pedestrians.

Pedestrians walking with traffic rather than facing it. This prevents them from seeing impending danger. Wearing dark clothing while crossing or walking in the street. Headlight glare on ice, dirty windshields, spattered headlights, rain, snow and fog all cut down on driver visibility. Wear light colors or reflective markings.

Groups of pedestrians walking abreast across the traffic lane of roads. This is particularly bad on curves, corners or narrow roads.

Young people horsing around on the road and at school bus stops.

Riding bicycles at night without reflective devices or lights as prescribed; ignoring stop signs and traffic lights; riding down the middle of the road.

Driving on icy or wet roads at speeds too great to allow for unexpected patches of ice, bad curves, wet leaves, etc.

Approaching pedestrians at high speeds without allowing sufficient space between them and your car; not allowing them time to clear the road.

Poor tire tread and no snow tires.

Using parking lights rather than dim headlights in foggy, rainy or snowy weather.

Drivers who do not allow for the erratic and irrational movements of groups of young people on or near the road.

Windshields insufficiently clear for adequate visibility. All windows should be cleaned of ice, snow, fog to allow maximum vision.

Failure to reduce speed at school areas, school crossings, or areas where children congregate. Also passing school buses legally without watching for overanxious children who may be running to meet the bus.

Snow clogged sidewalks or extreme icy walk conditions, unsalted or sanded, forcing pedestrians to walk in the streets.

Failure to constantly caution your children on proper uses of the street.

When noticing these conditions, citizens of Enfield can notify the Enfield Safety Council by calling the Town Hall or writing to the Council at the Town Hall. All complaints will be investigated.

School Board Gets Safety "Hot Dots"

Fourteen thousand, two hundred "hot dots" were delivered to Enfield School Superintendent Louis Mager Friday, according to a spokesman at Governor Meskill's office.

The deliveries to Enfield are the result of a change in shipment priorities on the hot dots following accidents involving Enfield school children.

Hot dots are circular, reflective decals which are put on children's clothing, lunch boxes and books. They are supplied by the Connecticut General Insurance Co. The 14,200 hot dots are enough for all Enfield school children, including those at private schools.

Steele Is Guest Speaker At Annual Lincoln Day Dinner

Robert H. Steele of Vernon, Congressman from the Second Congressional District will be the guest speaker at the Seventh Senatorial District's Annual Lincoln Day Dinner and Dance to be held at St. Adalbert's Hall on Alden Avenue in Enfield on Saturday evening February 16. The affair is sponsored by the Seventh Senatorial District Republican Organization and is the kickoff for the Fall campaign.

ROBERT H. STEELE

Steele, a Connecticut native, graduated from Amherst College in 1960 and earned a Masters degree in government at Columbia University. In 1963 he joined the Central Intelligence Agency and served five years in Washington and Latin America as a Soviet specialist. In 1968 he returned to Connecticut where he did extensive work in the field of environmental control.

Congressman Steele was first elected in November, 1970 and became one of the youngest Congressmen ever elected from Connecticut, as well as being the youngest member of the 91st Congress. He was reelected in 1972 by over 68,000 votes which is the largest plurality in the history of the Second District. He is currently a member of 5 committees in the congress including the prestigious House Foreign Affairs Committee.

In April 1971, Representative Steele served as a Republican member of a two-man study mission selected by the Foreign Affairs Committee to probe first-hand the international traffic in narcotics. The mission's subsequent report focused nationwide attention on the epidemic heroin problem among U.S. troops in South Vietnam and is credited with sparking the new federal offensive against drug abuse launched in June 1971.

In October 1973 Congressman Steele and Representative Leo J. Ryan (D-Calif.) were assigned by the House Foreign Affairs Committee to make a Congressional Fact Finding Mission to the Middle East. The Congressmen visited some half-dozen Middle Eastern Countries for a first-hand appraisal of the Mid-East War, to determine the war's impact on U.S. oil supplies and to recommend U.S. policy to help achieve a cease-fire in the region.

Rep. Steele is also the author of the first comprehensive legislation ever introduced in Congress to promote fire safety and provide improved equipment and training to the nation's two million firefighters.

Congressman Steele and his wife, Betsy, have four children and live in Vernon.

The affair will start with a cocktail party at 6:30 p.m. followed by dinner and dancing until 1 a.m.

3 Councilmen Support Tyler

Enfield Town Councilmen Realtus McCuin, Carl Scarfo and Michael Ferguson announced their support for Attorney Thomas J. Tyler, Republican candidate for Judge of Probate in the special election to be held next Tuesday.

In a joint statement, the three Republican Councilmen stated, "In Tom Tyler, the voters of Enfield have a tremendous opportunity to elect to one of our most important offices, a young man who possesses both the legal qualifications for this high position and a sincere, genuine desire for public service. Tyler has demonstrated this willingness to serve in many previous positions, such as working with the youth of Enfield, his native town, for five years in the Enfield Park and Recreation Department. He has also actively worked with other people who were not as fortunate while serving as a Parole Officer for the State of Connecticut, and Tyler continues to demonstrate this trait as a Special Public Defender for the state.

"We urge the citizens of Enfield to get out and vote next Tuesday. This special election is being held to fill an important vacancy, one that affects each and every one of us at some time during our lives. As Judge of Probate, we must have a person who has demonstrated the compassion, sincerity and understanding so necessary for that time when we must handle estate matters. The guidance that Tom Tyler is able to give will be a valuable asset to all of us."

The special election next Tuesday is being held to fill the vacancy of the late Judge Glista, and pits Republican Tyler against the Democratic nominee, John Raissi, and independent challenger William McDonald.

"The United Way of giving stresses payroll deduction where practically all of our increase was realized from the 1974 drive," said Robert Kemp, treasurer of the board. "This very sizeable increase indicates the desire of the good citizens of Enfield to give their fair share through the payroll deductions method," said Kemp.

"The Enfield Community Chest is a completely volunteer organization, and this improvement could not have been accomplished without the assistance of hundreds of interested Enfielders," said Muchmore. "Also, considerable thanks must be given to the Town's leading industries and organizations for their continued and improved support," Muchmore said.

"The annual meeting of the Enfield Community Chest corporation will be held today at 7 p.m. at Hallmark Cards Incorporated, and all contributors are welcomed and invited to attend," Muchmore said.

Raissi Cites Time And Training As Essential

A reporter from this newspaper went to Atty. John Raissi, Democratic candidate for Judge of Probate, for a statement of credentials which he feels qualifies him for the elected position of Probate Judge — the election to be held February 5, 1974.

"Perhaps my most satisfying accomplishment is my private law practice that I've been able to establish over the past twenty years," Raissi said. "When you closely interact with people, the human experience is an accurate education. You learn by experience the needs, attitudes, opinions and values demonstrated by all kinds of people. This type of sensitivity is a pre-requisite to successful law practice and frankly should be the foundation of the Probate Court. I'd like to think that seasoned sensitivity tempered with professional competency should be the basis of legal decisions."

When asked why the Judge of Probate's campaign has been so low-keyed, Raissi answered, "Mud-slinging and name-calling are weapons employed by weak candidates. I'm confident that the many people who know me either professionally or socially feel comfortable with my candidacy. It's been gratifying to hear people tell me that I have their vote and that they've spread their endorsement of me to their friends."

The question of time that will be devoted to the administration of the Probate Court was also answered by Raissi. "I mentioned just a few moments ago I've established my law practice over the past twenty years. Therefore, I'll certainly be able to spend a great deal of time as Judge of Probate. Frankly, I'm sensitive to my opponent's position. He recently passed the bar exam, so understandably one of his prime concerns has to be establishing a private law practice as well as trying to be a Judge of Probate. Let's face it, a young man with a family and obligations simply can't live luxuriously on the wages paid by this elected position. Believe me, a young attorney has to establish himself through a private law practice."

Raissi also said that he has served on several legal committees. "I was the judge for the Town Court of Enfield, and I served as the legal consultant for Enfield's Housing Authority. I have been the Public Defender for Circuit Court 13."

The motto that has emerged describing Raissi throughout this campaign is "A man with sensitivity and competency," Raissi said. "I feel simultaneously proud and humble that people regard me in these terms."

Amvet Supper On Saturday

ANTHONY S. SECONDO

A Bicentennial organizational meeting is being planned for February. The date and place of the meeting will be announced in the near future, Secondo said.

Letters are now being mailed to all local civic and business groups.

In October, 1969, President Richard Nixon explained why the Bicentennial should be a national celebration. "We want people all over this land to sense the greatness of this moment, to participate in it and help us all to discover what that national spirit is."

If additional information concerning Enfield's Bicentennial community program is required, Chairman Secondo urges citizens to call at his home, 749-7993 or office, 1-413-543-2400.

Batchelder Supports Tyler For Judgeship

Paul Batchelder, Republican Registrar of Voters for the Town of Enfield, who was defeated at the recent Republican Town Caucus for party nomination for Judge of Probate, announced his complete support for the successful nominee, Attorney Thomas J. Tyler, in the special election to be held February 5.

Batchelder stated that he sought the nomination because of his experiences in dealing with people, and "that we have an excellent nominee in Tom Tyler. Tyler is a young, enthusiastic attorney who will serve the citizens of Enfield well as Judge of Probate. He is experienced in dealing with people, and, as a native of Enfield, knows the town and its people extremely well."

"With his background of town and state service, plus Tyler's sincerity and leadership qualities, the Town of Enfield will be well served."

Batchelder had lost a caucus vote to Tyler in November. He announced at that time he would not primary for the party nomination as he felt the wishes of the Republican electorate had been shown.

"I urge all registered voters in Enfield to get out and vote next Tuesday. This special election gives each of us an opportunity to express our own desires regarding the person we want to deal with in a time of personal stress. As Judge of Probate, we must have the best possible man. I feel that Tom Tyler is that man," Batchelder said.

Tyler thanked Batchelder for his support saying, "If any registered voter needs transportation to the polls on election day, or desires a baby sitter while he or she votes, all they need do is call 745-4866. This is a special telephone number at my election headquarters on Elm Street, and there will be several volunteers there all day next Tuesday to provide any assistance or information that the voting public needs."

Grant Aids Bicentennial Projects

The state has approved Suffield's American Bicentennial Commission's request for $1,500 of federal funds given to the state for a project entitled "Processing and Preservation of Original Historical Manuscripts."

Historical Society President Robert Gunshanan has been compiling a list of Suffield men of the American Revolution period and their activities. Commission chairman Roger C. Loomis said. Substantial work has also been done on diaries of the times, he added.

Among activities planned for the celebration of the town's role during the years just before and at the start of the American Revolution is an open house of some of the examples of homes of that period in Suffield, he said. A Fourth of July celebration with a parade, picnic, entertainment and athletics events, and fireworks will be another project undertaken by the commission for 1976.

With School Supt. Malcolm D. Evans as a member of the commission, the schools are expected to be participating too, he said.

Dean's List

Asnuntuck Community College Dean of Students, Judith Shaffer, announces that four part-time students from Suffield have been placed on the Dean's List for the 1973 Fall semester.

They are: Elsie Cordis, Dale C. Gagnon, Douglas Grabowski and Deborah Matusko.

Full-time students making the Dean's List are: Mary Connor, Deborah Krajewski, Kathryn Nebel and Signe Wright.

Marines Offer Three New Enlistment Plans

Ssgt. Arthur Avedisian, local U. S. Marine Corps recruiter, has announced that three new Enlistment Option programs are available to qualified applicants.

The new program includes two ground option groupings and one for the aviation field. The Ground program has five subdivisions: Combat Arms; Combat Support; Administrative; Supply, Logistics and Disbursing, and Mechanical-Electrical.

The second program, Ground Occupational Field, has eight subprograms. They are Communications, Electronics, Food Services, Computer Operator, Military Police and Corrections, Infantry, Personnel and Administration and Motor Transport.

A third program, Aviation Enlistment Options, has three divisions: Aviation Technology, Aircraft Maintenance-Ordnance and Aviation Administration and Support.

Applicants are guaranteed, if they qualify, in writing one of the above programs of their choice before enlistment. The Marine Corps guarantees applicants assignment for training to their selected field upon successful completion of recruit training.

Also, the Marine Corps has announced a new Delay Program for qualified men and women.

The program is called the 270 day delay program. This enables a young man or woman to enlist today, and not actually report for active duty for 270 days. The qualification for this program is the same as with the many other programs that the Marine Corps has to offer.

The beauty of this program is that it enables a man or woman, who enlists, the opportunity to finish school, or complete any business that he or she wants to.

Requirements for qualification in this new program include a four-year enlistment for aviation or three and four-year contract for the ground programs. Other prerequisites include successfully passing qualification tests administered prior to enlistment, and being physically fit.

This new program was developed to accommodate qualified male and female applicants who demonstrate an interest and aptitude in specific occupational skills. Enlistments will be contracted on a "first come, first served" basis.

Applicants may still be eligible for a $2,500 bonus upon enlistment and qualification in infantry, tanks, artillery and amphibious tractors. Recruits with one full-time semester or more at a nationally accredited college or university and have compiled a C+ or better average (2.3 on a 4.0 scale) will be promoted to private first class upon reporting for active duty. The Marines guarantee a job.

Additional information on the Ground or Aviation Enlistment Option Programs can be obtained from Ssgt. Avedisian by contacting him at the Enfield Mall Recruiting Office at Enfield Mall on Hazard Ave. or calling 741-0027 or 745-9506. It pays to be a Marine.

High School Informs Parents

The Somers Junior - Senior High School Guidance Department in their effort to inform the community of their children's school life and the operation of the school will sponsor the third in a series of night programs for grade eight parents and students. It will be held on Feb. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The results of achievement tests administered earlier this year will be discussed in addition to discussion of high school curriculum, programs and graduation requirements. It is hoped that this information will help both parents and students better prepare for entry into high school. Refreshments will be served and students must be accompanied by a parent.

Meditation Lecture Wednesday

On Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Pearl St. Library, Enfield, there will be an introductory lecture on Transcendental Meditation as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

TM is rapidly gaining acceptance from all segments of society due to its practicality for daily living.

Lena Wulf, teacher of TM states that the result in activity from meditating 15-20 minutes twice a day is the important part of TM. Meditators, due to the very deep rest and relaxation (deeper than deep sleep) exhibit more energy, calmness and alertness in their daily activity. Scientific studies indicate that meditators perform better on long-term and short-term recall tests, have a greater ability to concentrate, and have more comprehensive thought.

Karl D. Lee

The Enfield community reacted with shock, sadness and anger that one of its most respected and outstanding citizens — retired superintendent of schools Karl D. Lee — had been beaten to death in an apparent abduction and robbery after attending a hockey game Saturday night at the Springfield Civic Center.

It was not until the following afternoon that his body was found in Blunt Park, about four miles from the Civic Center. He had been savagely beaten about the head, face and chest by some sort of blunt instrument. His car was not found until early Tuesday morning, in a small parking lot on Buckingham St., nearly a mile and a half from where the body was discovered by a man and his two children who were playing in a wooded area of the park. An anonymous telephone call led police to the car.

Mr. Lee, who was 81, had driven to Springfield alone. Investigators still are trying to piece together what happened when the hockey game was over and he prepared to drive home. The fact that his wallet and money were missing pointed to robbery as a motive for the events which followed and his senseless murder.

Mr. Lee, an educator for 45 years, was superintendent of Enfield schools for 30 years until his retirement in 1959. He was the first principal of Enfield High School, which now is the Enfield Intermediate School. He made many notable contributions to the town's education system, and will be remembered with affection by thousands who attended the town schools during the many years he was their administrator.

He also devoted much time to civic affairs and the betterment of the community which he served so long.

He was a Past President of the Enfield Rotary Club, a member of its Board of Directors, and served as Governor of Rotary District 789. Harold Rosen, now president of Enfield Rotary, described him as a "marvelous gentleman who was very dedicated to Rotary."

Mr. Lee also served as president of the Enfield Teachers Association and of the Hartford County Teachers Association. He was a 1914 graduate of Bates College, where he received his master's degree in 1938.

That he should fall victim to the wave of crime in the streets which has grown to be a national problem still rampant, is a sad commentary on the restless times of the present generation.

The loss of Mr. Lee is being mourned by everyone who will remember him not only for his accomplishments, but for his genial nature, his friendliness and understanding, and his devotion to his community to which he gave many fruitful years.

Within the past year Enfield has lost several other of its prominent citizens, among them Harvey Brainard, Judge Joseph Glista and Dr. James Tatoian, all of whom distinguished themselves in their chosen fields. Interestingly, all were close friends.

Change Our Ways

Are drastic air pollution controls really necessary for public health?

And if they are, is it really necessary to restrict automotive travel within the cities as drastically as has been proposed by the Environmental Protection Agency in its new air pollution control plan?

Among other suggestions, the proposed EPA plan for Boston would prohibit cars registered in Greater Boston from traveling one day each week.

The air is dirtier than we realize. There are twice as many deaths from lung cancer in the cities as in the country, even after full allowance is made for differences in smoking habits. The same is true of emphysema. Chronic bronchitis, bronchial asthma, and the death rate of older people with heart ailments all increase on days of high air pollution.

And more than half the pollution in the air over the United States comes from automobile exhausts.

Yes, drastic air pollution controls are necessary . . . and yes, it is necessary to control the automobile in some way, either by restrictions such as the EPA plan suggests or by some other major changes in American driving habits.

Briefings and public hearings will be held before the EPA plan is adopted, and most cities, including Boston, would be given until 1977 to implement the plan.

There should be time to develop a better, more widespread, and more attractive mass transit system in those years.

We could start by using money from the Highway Trust Fund to help finance public transportation on a wide scale. It is time to stop worshipping the sacred concrete octopus.

There should also be time to encourage the use of cars which do not pollute as much as our standard gas guzzlers. Big cars use twice as much gas as small cars, and cause twice the pollution. Electric cars, diesels, rotary engines, and steam engines are all alternatives to the present internal combustion engine.

It seems essential that any restrictions and controls on automotive travel be flexible and sensible. Given any reasonably pleasant alternative, most commuters would gladly escape the daily hassle with the traffic.

However, some people do need their car in conjunction with their jobs, or work at night when mass transit is closed down, or are handicapped, or have some other reason for needing a car every day. Special permits could be issued to them. Exceptions for low-pollution vehicles could give other citizens some freedom of choice.

For the standard commuter, car pools are one solution. Improved buses and subways are a better solution. But the bus has to get closer to the commuter's front door, and it has to get to its destination quickly. There needs to be much more flexibility in getting widely dispersed workers to widely dispersed destinations.

Whether the proposed EPA plan survives or not, we must change our driving habits drastically in order to solve the interrelated problems of congestion, pollution and excessive drain on our energy resources.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ironical

To The Editor:
Re: Letters to the Editor: "I'm Sorry — But"; 1-17-74, page 6.

For someone who cares "a hell of a lot more than all of you realize . . ." it is indeed interesting that this someone desires to remain anonymous toward those he (or she?) cares so much for.

It seems as if this mysterious someone cares for "EVERYONE": at least for everyone except Mr. Vesce who does not want to have his property stolen.

But our anonymous writer appears to be proud to be among the 6,578 who voted to expropriate Mr. Vesce's land without his voluntary consent.

Isn't it ironically amusing that this unidentified citizen should mock the charge that he (or she?) is a sneak thief?

"I Would Like To Tell You —"

To The Editor:
Dear "Mr. Ashamed Dumbbell-Donkey": Thank you for your letter which I received 1-28-74. I am very sorry that I cannot answer your letter because you are still ashamed of your name. This is the only way to get in touch with you. I would like to tell you a few things. Next time do not start such dumbbell ideas.

Item No. 1. It is true that the donkey gave our Lord Jesus and His Blessed Mother a ride to flee to Egypt. St. Joseph made a place in the manger using straw and hay so little Jesus could be comfortable. Sheep, goats and cows breathed warm air to keep Jesus warm, but the donkey, instead of cooperating with the goats, sheep and cows, pulled out and ate the straw and hay from underneath the baby Jesus. That's why his meat is barely fit for the cats and dogs.

Item No. 2. It was President Johnson and his Donkey Political Party that started this scandalous program and spent billions of dollars in ten years time since 1964. Can you tell me the names of the towns and cities that are better off today? And millions of people are suffering in hardship. Who are the ones who benefit from the foolishly wasted billions of dollars spent in these ten years? I say those who benefitted are the officials in charge that created the big paying jobs among themselves. And the poor are still poor and will be poor.

Item No. 3. As for Mr. Melechinsky: You showed that you really don't know enough about him if you think he is against anything destructive and for everything constructive, everything constructive.

Charges Sloopy Delivery Of Town Report

To The Editor:
As a native of Enfield and a property tax payer since 1941, I am interested and concerned about the financial condition of our town.

It has been my practice to compliment people for a "job well done" and by the same token offer constructive criticism when the occasion presents itself.

Particular reference at this time is being made to the 1972-73 annual report and civic calendar.

First the compliments — Congratulations to all persons who shared in the use of their talents, the compilation of facts, figures and reports submitted for their respective departments. The report and calendar are very attractive and contain valuable information for the residents and tax payers of the Town of Enfield. No doubt, considerable expense was incurred.

Now the criticism — I am not complaining about the costs per se, but, the lack of consideration and poor arrangements made for the distribution of so important a document. "Junk mail" and newspapers receive better care and treatment than our Annual Report and Civic Calendar.

Upon arrival at my home in the early evening of Jan. 24 the report was on the ground. Fortunately the weather was dry, I did not step on it, nor did anyone else. Had it not been for the gold "e" on the cover I would not have seen it.

Newspapers, television and radio commentators and politicians are constantly reminding us of the paper shortage, its' costs, shortages of other products, increased costs of living expense, the energy crisis, pollution, higher taxes, etc. Yet, someone responsible for the distribution of so important a document has not taken head and certainly did not exercise just plain common sense to avoid waste of tax payers dollars.

I recommend that this matter be reviewed, taken under advisement and other methods be devised for the distribution of this report in the future.

Further I would remind all employes of the town of Enfield that it is their responsibility to exercise care and prudence with tax payers monies.

Help The ETA

To The Editor:
An open letter to P.T.A. members and parents of elementary school children:

I don't see myself as a "pamphleteer", but I do think that you should be aware that "now is the time" to let the Enfield School Board know that you are concerned with next year's education budget. The Enfield Teachers' Association wants you to know that the Board is considering a recommendation to eliminate 13.5 elementary teaching positions for next year. We feel that such a recommendation is a step backwards.

Facts and figures may be boring, but we know you will be interested in these. This year, in grades K through 6, 12 percent of the classes have 30 or more children in them. Next year, because of the administration recommendation, 14 percent of the classes will have 30 or more children in them. That's a step backward.

The 13.5 teacher reduction will lower the average class size from 26.2 to 25.6. However, don't let that figure fool you. A 7 class size reduction is meaningless. No teacher will be able to change techniques because of it, nor will any child experience increased individual attention in class because of it.

The E.T.A. urges you to let the school board know that you're opposed to this educational "cop out." Tell the board to take advantage of the declining school enrollment, not by foolishly cutting positions, but by wisely setting sound educational priorities. A significantly lower class size should be one of these priorities. So should an increased reading program, as well as adequate art, music and physical education programs.

More resource teachers and even elementary counselors may be within the realm of possibility for Enfield now.

There are many things the system can do to alleviate the burdens placed on it by the recent under-funded education budgets. If we wish, we can alleviate those burdens. But, we won't do it by eliminating positions. Help the E.T.A. get this message across to the Board of Education.

Enfield Teachers Assn.

findings are completed, nothing else can be done other than "hard police legwork".

"We're doing a tremendous amount of legwork in the area of Winchester Square," he said, "our men have been in the park every day since the body was discovered, looking for the murder weapon but we haven't come up with anything solid yet." Aiding Legarski in the intensive investigation are Detective Sgt. John O'Connor, Detectives James Bryans and Joseph Assad. These men are covering the Winchester Square area in particular.

Lee was born Nov. 7, 1892 in Hudson, N. H. He graduated from Bates College in Lewiston, Maine in 1914 and returned to Bates in 1938 for his Master's Degree where he achieved Phi Beta Kappa honors.

Lee retired as Enfield Superintendent of Schools on Dec. 1, 1959 after more than 35 years in the education field. In addition to his 30 years as the local school superintendent, he taught at Jonesport (Maine) High School, and was the principal of both the Winter Harbor (Maine) High School and Petersham (Mass.) High School. He came to Enfield to serve as first principal of Enfield High School, now Enfield Intermediate School.

He was a past president of the Thompsonville Rotary Club and a past district governor of Rotary District 789 which covers the Enfield-Pittsfield, Mass., area and served as a member of the local Rotary board of directors. He was also past president of the Enfield Teachers Association, the Lamoille County, Vt. Teachers Association, the Hartford County Teachers Association and the Valley Wheel Association.

He served as vice-chairman of the Enfield Boys Work Committee of the Hartford County YMCA, was a director of the Hartford County YMCA and was a staff resident of the Central Branch of the Springfield YMCA.

His Masonic Order memberships were: Blue Lodge, Jonesport, Maine; Hardwick, Vt. Chapter; Council of St. Johnsbury, Vermont; Commandery, Morrisville, Vermont; Shrine, Montpelier, Vermont.

The Karl D. Lee Chapter of the National Honor Society at Enfield High School was named in his honor and at the time of his death, he was president of the Enfield Society for the Detection of Thieves and Robbers.

Raissi Names Poll Captains

Attorney John Raissi, Democratic candidate for Judge of Probate, announced the names of the people who will be his poll captains. "The function of each captain," said Raissi, "is to co-ordinate and organize the poll workers who have volunteered to assist me in my campaign. Inside runners, outside runners, checkers, drivers and greeters all revolve around the poll captains. Obviously their job is an integral part in any efficiently run campaign."

Raissi said he has named the following people for poll captains: Joe Joan, Nathan Hale 3B-59; Chic Robson, Hazardville Memorial 3A-59; Ted Plamondon and John Krzym, Town Hall 2B-58; St. Joseph's 2A-59, Intermediate 2A-58; Joe O'Connor, Shaker Pines 3A-58; John Morrison, Prudence Crandall 4B-58; Dick Cressotte and Walt Arthur, Parkman 1A, 1B-60; Adam Piercz, Enfield Street School 1A, 1B-59; Tom Kozaczka, Kosciuszko 4B-59; Karlene Casarella, Brainard School 4A-58.

"The reason why I feel that the poll captains names should be announced to the public" Raissi said, "is that if any of the voters in these areas have any question about this election in terms of rides to the polls, or the area in which a person is to vote then he may call any one of the poll captains at their homes and receive assistance."

Olsten Services Report Increase

The temporary services business here increased sharply in 1973, reported Olsten Services Manager, Ms. Reba Martyn. "Nationally, the increase was approximately 25 percent," she said, "with an even greater rise, locally."

Placement of temporary personnel in office, clerical and secretarial areas was sharply up for the entire year. The holiday season work force was double last year's with Olsten temporaries filling a wide variety of job situations including sales, inventories, deliveries, wrapping, addressing cards and mailing packages.

"Because we utilize a unique, custom-matching "Profiler" system to make sure we supply the right temp for the right job in terms of skills, ability, and personality, we have been able to place that many more men and women in temporary jobs the year 'round," said Ms. Martyn.

Because of the energy crisis we intend to make sure our clients obtain the service they must have. We are now initiating a number of steps that will provide ready access to all areas of the city and suburbs. This will include car pools, bus transportation and availability of mass transit facilities wherever possible," noted Ms. Martyn.

Soft-boiled egg eating described

Dear Mrs. Tobin: I ordered a soft-boiled egg and expected it to come in a sauce dish. The waitress brought it to me in an egg cup. How should I have eaten it? I ended up with an awful mess. — Vancouver Reader way is to slice off the top of the egg with a knife, placing the shells on the service plate beneath the cup. Seasonings go right in the egg and this ambrosia is eaten with a spoon. Americans prefer to hold the egg in one hand, break the shell in half with a sharp rap of a knife and scoop out the inside into the cup. Again, the shells are placed on the service plate.

Dear Reader: The British

Davis A 'Pro' In Fermi Show

"Sunrise At Campobello", starring Mark Davis and Therese DesRosiers. Directed by Bob Jones.

The Enrico Fermi Lamplighters should be given an "A" for effort in meeting head-on the challenge of a difficult play, Dore Scharly's two-act drama, "Sunrise At Campobello".

The production of "Campobello" was student-run from start to finish and the entire theatrical group should be commended for putting together a very neat package.

The two sets were as authentic as any regional theatre could construct. The costume design was in keeping with the time. The set designers achieved authenticity right down to the wicker wheelchair used skillfully by Mark Davis as Franklin Roosevelt.

Speaking of Mark Davis. He made his theatrical debut in the Fermi production and was fantastic.

The most satisfying part of the evening was sitting back watching Davis' skillful handling of a tremendously difficult part. He handled the lead like a pro, never once slipping out of character.

Besides Davis, who unquestionably stole the show, other actors adding that something extra were the fellows playing his four sons. When together on stage, the sons added life to an other wise slow moving production.

Another life-giving element was the character, Mr. Brimmer, played by Rex Gordon, the student who also designed the costumes.

Rex swept on stage like a whirlwind, shaking hands and bowing uncontrollably as if he had been wound up backstage, then let loose. The audience loved it, laughing and applauding the three minute appearance. Though his lines were delivered too softly, practically lost in the frenzy of gestures, Rex's brief but action-packed appearance was worth the loss of dialogue.

In the case of the Lamplighters' production, the best was saved for last. The concluding scene, the 1924 Democratic Convention at Madison Square Garden, was complete with cheering throngs and waving placards.

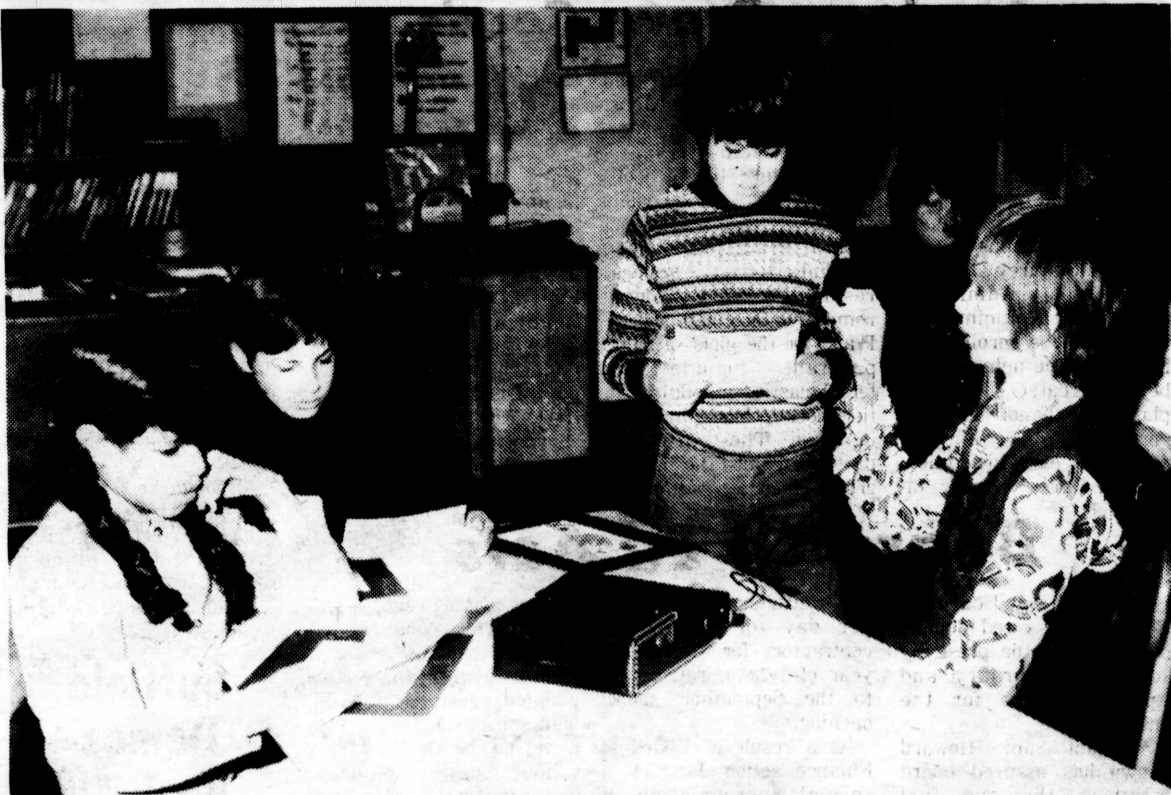

The cheering and chanting faded out as Roosevelt dragged his lifeless legs, stricken several years before by infantile paralysis, to the podium. This was his first public appearance as a cripple to give the nominating speech for candidate Al Smith.

The only truly dramatic part of the play was acted out at that moment and Davis never once let go of the character, Roosevelt.

The female lead, Therese DesRosiers never became Eleanor. Her lack of props and prescribed physical activity on stage made her character more difficult to portray.

One minor flaw, nevertheless an annoying one, was the use of cigarettes as props. If a cigarette was necessary, it should have been lighted. If a potential fire hazard was the reason for not lighting them, the many times they were drawn, then they should have been deleted from the script.

All things considered... learning scripts, rehearsals, hours in production, sets, costumes, lighting, the endless list... the Lamplighters deserve applause. They've earned it.

Big K Sets New Pace

Auditioning is presently being held for the annual school play at Kosciuszko Jr. High School in Enfield. Students are eagerly awaiting their chance to read for a part in this year's production, "The Perfect Idiot".

While theatrical efforts in the past have been spent on producing a Broadway musical, this year's production should bring a refreshing change of pace. "The Perfect Idiot" is a farce written in three acts by Eunice and Grant Atkinson. The premiere production was given by the Lindbloom Players of Lindbloom High School, Chicago, Illinois in 1948.

The hilarity begins as the curtain opens on the hectic household of Roger and Margaret Tennyson. Their dilemma evolves around their seventeen year old son, Dan, a high school junior who happens to be a genius. And does he know it!!

Fast moving and funny — that's "The Perfect Idiot". The play is scheduled to be presented in April. It's bound to be a hit with anyone who likes to laugh.

Counselor Cloutier Says

Make The Right Course Choices

How many students have registered for a course because of a "little readheaded girl", an "easy A" or a friend.

Guidance Counselor Ray Cloutier at Enfield High tries to stress to his student the importance of registration, making the right curriculum choices, for the right reasons.

Cloutier admits that many students select courses haphazardly, though he has observed each year a more serious breed of students coming to his office for course selection advice.

It's not only a question of making students realize how important registration is, says Cloutier, but to inform the parents too. The guidance department feeds as much information about registration to parents as students.

There is an orientation day when department heads talk about their course offerings at an assembly program.

Following the orientation program, five days are designated for "advice seeking" from teachers and guidance counselors.

Once tentative choices have been finalized and approved by the guidance department, a parents signature on the registration form is required.

Counselor Cloutier said oftentimes parents know nothing about registration until their child points to the dotted line making one request, "sign this". If the

Nevertheless, the guidance department cannot stress enough to parents and students the importance of making the right choices now, for these choices, Cloutier stresses, will effect a student's life and livelihood.

Academy Draws Coeds

Suffield Academy announced its decision to become a co-educational beginning in September 1974, more than 70 inquiries have been received from girls, 43 of whom have already visited the campus for interviews. Geoffrey C. Butler, Director of Admission, expects that a minimum of 40 girls will be enrolled and hopes that the number may be even greater. The school plans to expand the girls' enrollment to 100 within the next three years. In addition, women are being interviewed for faculty and administrative positions. Nearly 100 applications have been considered thus far. Fortunately the school's physical facilities are easily adapted to meet the needs of girl boarders and day students, and several residences are being remodeled for girl boarders. Plans for the girls' athletic program include interscholastic schedules in field hockey, basketball, and lacrosse. They will also participate with the boys in cross country, swimming, riflery, skiing, tennis, track, and golf. Girls interested in learning more about Suffield's plans for coeducation are invited with their parents to a reception in the Fuller Lounge of the Perry Gymnasium at 7 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 8 to meet with the Headmaster, Paul Sanderson, and his wife, Gail. Following the reception at 8 p.m., Dr. William Willett of Hartt College will present a clarinet and recorder recital to which guests are cordially invited.

Moffett Giving Up CCAG

Toby Moffett, Suffield's famous citizen crusader, has announced his resignation as director of the Connecticut Citizen Action Group (effective Feb. 15 when Atty. Marc Connelly will succeed him). Although he is giving up the leadership of the Ralph Nader-sponsored citizen group, Moffett plans to remain in Connecticut and continue in some form or public service.

Toby, a graduate of Suffield High School, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Moffett of Suffield, began his career in public service as a Boston school teacher working with inner-city young people. In 1969 he was named director of the federal government's Office of Students and Youth, but he resigned this job in protest after the invasion of Cambodia and the Kent State killings in 1970.

He then served as an aide to U. S. Senator Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., resigning from this office to accept Nader's offer to become the first director of CCAG, developed as a national model for full time statewide citizen efforts. Under Moffett's direction the CCAG (which now counts, 3700 members and supporters) has organized consumers to win property tax reforms in their towns and to expose unfair prices. The group has won legislative victories on issues such as meat packaging, prescription drug pricing, finance charge ceilings on credit accounts, public transportation, environmental preservation and improvement of state government's consumer services.

One of the reasons cited by Moffett for his resignation as CCAG director, is that he feels the group should not be so strongly identified with just one man, as CCAG has become with him. Another is he wants to have more time to spend with his family.

Board Of Ed Acts

The Suffield Board of Education has voted to make no change in the presently scheduled February and April vacations for the public schools.

Assistant Supt. Howard Brown has assured board members that no fuel problems are foreseen for the rest of this year by suppliers of No. 4 and No. 2 fuel oil. It was concern over the fuel oil supplies which caused original discussions of closing during the winter or spring vacation.

The board approved a one and a quarter cent per mile per day for school bus contractors for the school year of 1973-74, retroactive to the September school opening.

As a result of Board of Finance action Jan. 14, a special appropriation of $2,000 was made to help in school bus transportation. The action was the result of increasing gasoline and operating costs, Brown said.

The increase averages to about $200 for each of the 10 drivers making regular runs, and $275 for four drivers making regular plus kindergarten runs, Brown said.

The board has also adopted regulations allowing high school students to ride home on the Grade 5 to 8 school busses. Students participating in extracurricular activities may request a pass from the high school principal's office to ride home on the designated bus. This is subject to the availability of seats on the bus and upon acceptable student behavior, board members specified.

Suffield Demos Back Ella

The Suffield Democratic Town Committee has voted to endorse U. S. Rep. Ella T. Grasso of Windsor Locks, D-6th District for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Mrs. Grasso has always been a popular candidate in this Republican town since she was Secretary of State for Connecticut. She has usually received the most votes on the Democratic ticket, indicating support from Republicans and Independents as well as Democrats.

Mrs. Grasso has close ties with Suffield, as a neighboring town to her home town of Windsor Locks. She is a long-time member of the Suffield League of Women Voters which she credits with first interesting her in governmental issues and public service.

Guidance Evaluation Continues

Leonard Bosari, McAlister Middle School guidance director in charge of a three-year Guidance Evaluation Project in Suffield, will meet with Board of Education members Tuesday to get "input" from members on what guidance people should be doing. The federally funded three-year research study project is concerned now with responses from five major groups — teachers, administrators, students, Board members and guidance counselors. Purpose of this year's phase of the study is to arrive at a list of guidance goals reflecting input from all groups, Bosari told the Board of Education at its recent meeting. A community feedback on the guidance programs will also be part of the evaluation.

"Changing Year" Topic Monday

The speaker is an internationally honored photographer and a five-star exhibitor in both nature and pictorial photography.

Mrs. Samuel S. Fuller are co-chairmen of the hostesses for the refreshments which will precede the meeting and program.

The annual Suffield Republican Women's Club Pot Luck Supper and White Elephant Whist Party for townspeople and their friends will be held tomorrow at the Congregational Church on High St. The supper will be at 6:30 p.m., followed by the whist party, with many prizes offered. Each one attending is asked to bring a small white elephant item to be used as a table prize.

Carolyn Trotter is in charge of the food; Anne Harvey and Faith Roebelen are in charge of the other prizes. Erskine Harvey will call the whist games.

TRANSCENDENTAL MEDITATION (TM)

A Few Minutes daily gives you:

- ★ CALMNESS
- ★ INCREASED ENERGY
- ★ GREATER ALERTNESS

Scientific research at the Harvard Medical School shows that the level of deep rest we gain in transcendental meditation (TM) is twice as deep as the most restful point of a full night's sleep.

Just a few minutes of deep rest in TM revitalizes our mind and body. Stress and strain is relieved in TM so that in activity we are fresh and rested. Our thinking is more clear and calm, our actions are more energetic.

These results of TM have been validated by scientific research at the University of California, University of Sussex, Stanford Research Institute and other research centers.

These research findings and the practical value of TM for improving the quality of daily life will be discussed at the lecture Wednesday, February 6.

FREE PUBLIC LECTURE THIS WEDNESDAY, FEB. 6 ENFIELD — PEARL ST. LIBRARY.

All lectures are sponsored by International Meditation Society a non profit educational organization, 5 Lincoln St., Hartford, Tel. 247-2733.

The Enrico Fermi High School Falfins swimming team placed second in the Northern Division Independent Schools Swimming Championships last Saturday. The only team to beat Fermi was St. Bernard's of New London. Seven teams participated in the meet. It was held at East Hartford High.

The Falfin's best diver, Jim Gavin, was third in the diving competition with a total of 332.5 points for a new Fermi record in a championship meet. James Beigel, Al Walton, Tom Alexander and Bob Block set a new Fermi record in the 200 yard medley of 1:55.6.

Some meets that would have been close by the old records set by the team must be reevaluated in accordance with the records set in this meet.

Preparations are under way for the Enfield And Playground Department's 29th Annual Youth Center Boxing Tournament. The tourney will be held some time in March but registrations and try outs will start taking place right away.

Registrations for the tournament will start Monday at the Enfield Intermediate School. Registrations will be held from six to seven p.m. starting this Monday and will take place from Monday through Thursday. The tourney is open to all Enfield boys between the ages of 8 and 19.

Try outs for the tourney will start a week from Monday at the Intermediate School. Park And Recreation Director Angelo Lamagna expects this tournament to be the biggest one yet. It is always a popular event and draws a lot of contestants. It is suggested that the boys sign up early next week. Everyone will be given a tryout with the best boys participating in the tournament.

The actual date and place for the tournament will be announced at a later date.

Basketball Special Feb. 9

Another Basketball Special will be staged by Al Davis on Feb. 9 at the Enfield High School gym.

St. Patrick's will take on the John F. Kennedy Junior High eighth grade team (the Jayvees) starting at six p.m. St. Pat's always fields a good team and the J.F.K. Jayvees have been quite good of recent months. The game promises to be an exciting one.

The second game should cause a lot of interest also since the Stone Age Basketball League Championship will be decided starting at 7:15. Barnes Construction, who went undefeated in regular season play and won its semi-final game against the Enfield Amvets 68-64 to make the finals, will play the winner of the Vic's Cafe vs. Kelly Trailer game which takes place this Saturday at the Enfield High School gym. Whether Vic's or Kelly makes the playoff it is expected that the final will be an all out game and the winner will have to work hard for a victory.

The final game of the "Special" will pit the Enfield Athletic Club which is sponsored by Techni Products of Longmeadow against either Courtesy Taxi or Chicopee in a National Amateur Basketball Association game. The final game will start at 8:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

NCN Reports Earnings Rise

Northern Connecticut National Bank (NCN), Windsor Locks, reported 1973 earnings, after taxes, but before securities transactions and extraordinary items, was $162,167 or $2.03 per share compared with $118,514 and $1.48 per share in 1972, or a more than 37 percent increase. After allowance for securities losses and extraordinary items, net income was $164,958 or $2.06 per share compared with $119,621 or $1.50 per share in 1972.

Demand deposits were $12,907,397 at year-end 1973 or 8 percent higher than the previous year, while time deposits were $21,946,234, compared with $22,259,396 a year earlier.

Raymond F. Sabatella, Jr., chairman and president, attributed the substantial earnings gains to more favorable returns on the bank's investments which help boost operating income during the year by $376,000 while operating expenses rose by $301,000.

During the year, NCN opened three new offices: at 109 Elm Street, Enfield; 35 South Main Street, East Granby; and at Bradley International Airport. This brings to ten the number of NCN branches which also serve Windsor Locks, East Windsor and Ellington. A new Main Office is under construction at Turnpike Road in Windsor Locks, opposite Bradley Field, with occupancy set for late Spring.

Northern Connecticut National Bank is an affiliate of Connecticut Bancshares Corporation.

Sports Hindsight

ALL-YES FRAZIER-NO

There was a lot of discussion about who should win the big fight between Joe Frazier and Cassius Clay before the fight took place. Now the talk has shifted to who should have won it. The big money boys were right again as they made the odds 8-5 Clay before the fight.

I didn't see the fight since I am not a devotee of closed circuit television as you might have guessed from previous columns. I still feel that the public these fighters all during their rise to fame and fortune and the average fan should benefit when the boxers get too big for their britches. Once they make it to the top they seem to forget who put them there.

I still maintain that all major sports events should be televised on free home television so that all who want to watch may do so without having to spend eight or ten bucks to see it on a screen in an auditorium. They have it so sewed up that they don't even allow a blow by blow live commentary on the radio while the fight is in progress. I don't see where that would hurt them. It would bring back the days when we used to listen to the Joe Louis fights on the radio because there wasn't any television then.

It might bring back the memories of those days but it certainly won't bring back the fighters. The speculation always starts with, "I wonder how Clay would have done against Joe Louis in his prime, or Rocky Marciano in his prime." I only wonder now how Clay will do against George Forman in his prime. Clay will get another chance at the title against Forman. This is sure. Why else would they be fighting. They certainly didn't just fight for the $3,000,000 each they were rumored to be getting. And some people think the President of the United States is over paid.

It stands to reason that Ali should have won since he will be a bigger drawing card against Forman for the championship. Frazier is too quiet. You have to publicize yourself in the fight game and Clay certainly knows how to do that. If Forman tags Clay the way Frazier did I don't think he'll be standing up very long. Some even say that Frazier won the fight and was robbed by the decision. These people could be prejudiced by having money bet on Frazier. Then again they could be right.

The only trouble with having Ali win is that we will have to go through it all again for his next fight. How long do we have to listen to him? When you brag and win your bragging sounds better. When you brag and lose, as I predict he will if he fights for the championship, you look bad. I think it is time someone made him look bad. He has in the past and he has made a come back. He deserves a certain amount of credit for that but I don't think he'll do that well against a healthy Forman.

BUSY WEEKEND

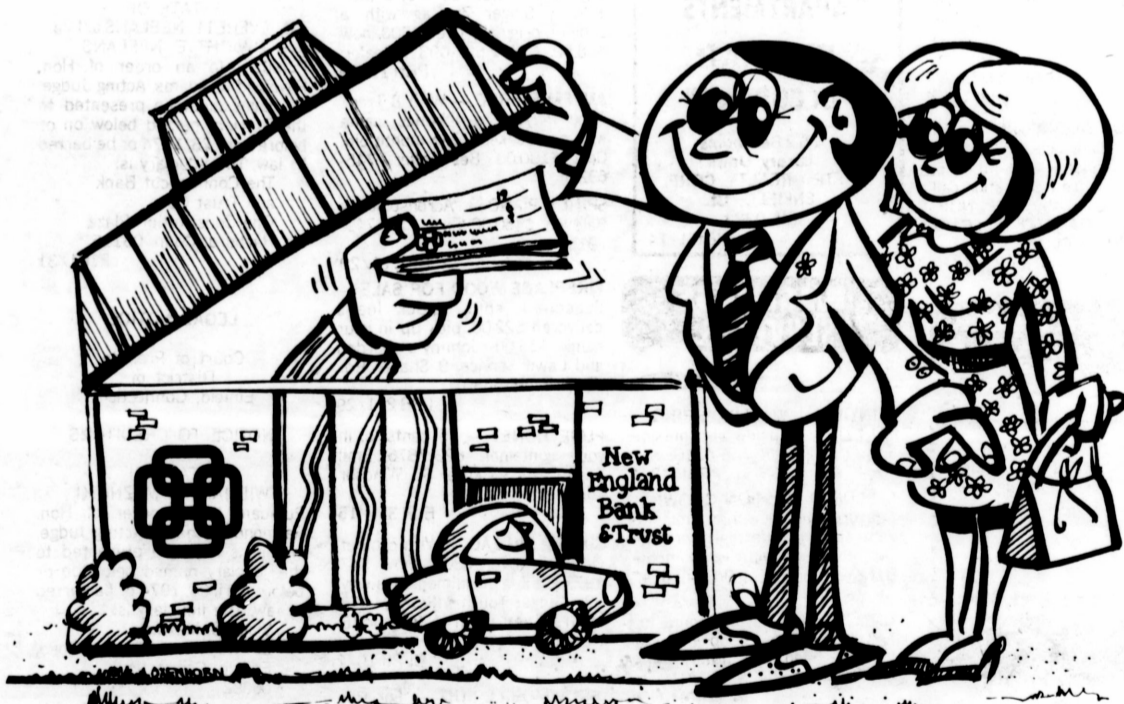

These weekends are certainly getting busy. It seems that you don't really know what to watch on television anymore. I remember I congratulated the girls on getting through another football season without a divorce but it seems they don't have it made yet.

Last weekend I noticed that you had your choice of hockey, basketball, auto racing, golf, bowling and the Super Stars. Did I leave anything out? Oh yes, I guess I did. I seem to recall some skiing also. Some of this was on the Wide World of Commercials and they do tend to confuse me. It seems that just when something gets exciting they flash an overlay on the screen with a thousand words about what programs they will be presenting over the next three years.

Frankly I don't care what is coming up next week, or the week after, or the year after that. I would like to see what they are presenting now. Of course they do present commercials in between their program promo's. They do this in order to pay the bills for the program you almost saw if it weren't for those overlays. I would rather see them take five minutes at the end of each program to bring us highlights of upcoming events.

The television sports nut certainly doesn't lack for something to watch. I even left out the Roller Derby earlier in the column. This is a fascinating game. The only thing that bothers me is that the same skaters seem to skate for just about every club. I wonder how many uniforms each one of them has. They do put on some better fights than you might see in the squared circle from time to time. I just wonder how they can take such a beating and keep skating.

Look into it!

Sports Film Sunday

Tom Landry and the Dallas Cowboys are featured in a new sports film to be shown on Sunday at 7 p.m., at the American Baptist Church, 129 Post Office Rd., Enfield.

"A Man and His Men" takes a penetrating look at the people involved in professional football. Specifically it portrays Tom Landry as a committed football professional, sharing the agony of defeat and the thrill of victory with his team. But beyond the obvious, the film talks about Landry as a man of Christian faith.

Utilizing film clips supplied by the National Football League, the producer has delved into the sensitive area of the influence of Landry on the world of football, termed by many as one of the more violent of sports. Bill Zeoli, executive producer of "A Man and His Men", termed the film, "one of the most exciting films of my career". Gospel Films, producer, has productions in over 30 languages which are used in 149 nations of the world.

ESCO's "Gingerbread Lady" Coming Soon

The cast has been selected for Enfield Stage Company's (ESCO) production of "The Gingerbread Lady", a hilarious Neil Simon adult comedy-drama.

Two performances are scheduled Feb. 15 and 16 for the benefit of the Enfield High Booster Club.

This is not a children's play, but a laugh-a-minute drama concerning a middle aged woman's return to her apartment and friends after taking the "cure". The story line relates to her hopes of working at a "mob" owned night spot on Long Island.

Bea Paul, of Rockville portrays "Evy", the leading character and Sharon Albee of Enfield, her teenage daughter and her severest critic. Ms. Paul is best known for her portrayal of Eunice in "Street Car Named Desire". She has been active in various little theater productions and summer stock and studied acting and directing at University of Connecticut. Ms. Albee, is a Junior at Enfield High School and except for her role as "Helen" in the "Children's Hour", has been a stage hand for other ESCO productions.

Elaine Nason, of Enfield, has the second lead and plays "Toby", Evy's egotistical friend. Ms. Nason will be remembered for her portrayal of the prostitute in "Owl and the Pussycat" at the Unicorn Theater in Sturbridge, Mass. She won the Farmington Valley Herald Award for best supporting actress for her work in "Three Men On a Horse."

Bruce Albee plays Evy's boy friend and Joe Weber her former boy friend. Mike Jorgensen plays the Spanish grocery boy. Albee is a past president of ESCO and has been cast in many of its productions. He played Wilson in "Harvey"; Weber will be remembered for his work in the "Odd Couple" and "Not Now Darling"; Jorgensen played Roger in "Everything in the Garden" but is best known locally for his interest in the Enfield Mini-Bike club. He is a past president of the club.

Waldo Goodermote, the company's director, has had extensive training and experience in theater arts as both an actor and director. Some of his early experience was gained during his three years in Special Services with the Armed Forces when he directed, produced, designed sets and acted in many productions. He holds a master's degree in theater and speech from the University of Connecticut. He has also worked professionally in Summer stock there with the Nutmeg Players. In the last eight years he has directed and or appeared in over 30 productions in Springfield and Westfield, Mass., and in Enfield and Suffield.

Bill Curtain is stage manager for the ESCO cast of "The Gingerbread Lady." He said "Curtain time will be 8:15 p.m. at Fermi High School's Little Theater."

For ticket information, please call Ms. Nason at 749-8688 or any member of either the Booster Club or ESCO.

HARRINGTON'S POT - POURRI

By BOB HARRINGTON

I mentioned in last week's column of going up to Boston to see the musical, "Good News!" Well, before the show started I found that I had a couple of hours of free time and so I decided on taking in a few near-to-Boylston-St. sights. I wandered by the Old South Church, crossed through the Boston Public Gardens and headed toward Beacon Hill.

What a truly magnificent street this has remained throughout the years! Each house so impeccably neat and beautifully maintained — it's almost like stepping back in time. At any moment I half expected either a Mr. Cabot, or a Mr. Lodge to descend the steps from one of these edifices, touch his fingertips to his Homberg, mutter "Afternoon," and then saunter briskly on as he snapped closed his mocha black-ribbed gloves, the while holding his gold headed walking stick under his right arm.

As I slowly wended my way up the hill I found myself in a great awe of the beautiful amethyst tinted windows in almost every house. It seemed that somehow I know that the glass in these windows was imported from England sometime in the 1880's, or 90's. Whatever, they lend the street a rare elegance to be found nowhere else in the world. Quality street.

Oh yes, and I dropped in at the Besse Rolls-Royce showroom. When one stops by a Rolls-Royce showroom one does not expect a salesman to attempt to sell one an automobile — it just isn't done. Rather, and in my instance, a charming chap with a fine British accent stepped toward me and said, "Care to examine our new sports phaeton?" I removed my hat, (grey felt Homberg, what else?) gloves and allowed that I would. I sat in the Rolls for a few minutes and let its pure luxury engulf me.

I then looked at a Rolls town sedan and putting on my hat and gloves, I thanked the gentleman for his courtesy. I commented on the gasoline shortage and he said, "Yes, pity, isn't it?" As I left the showroom he offered the warmest smile and said, "Drop by any time of' chap — more than welcome, you know." That lush luxury of the Rolls interior remained quite firm and as I briskly walked up the avenue there was an elan in my stride and I felt just a bit sorry that I had left my walking stick at home. For a few minutes there it felt very nice to mingle with the uprodden.

From the Canton (Ohio) Repository: — Police Chief A. O. Lower, who was also in the court room, offered to cooperate 10 percent in battling prostitution and he said that he would issue orders accordingly to the police department. — (Sounds like a decent sort of a chap — one who believes in live and let live — especially so if the do gooders leaves his 90 percent alone.)

Going through an old stack of notes and clippings in one of my desk drawers I found an excerpt from one of my old columns, circa 1945. The line read: I don't especially like to drink whiskey. It's just something I do while I'm getting drunk.

Good Lord! Why, it's been 14 years now since I've tasted what the late and beloved W. C. Fields oft referred to as liquid death and distilled damnation — the devil's brew. Now, in all truth I can say that it's a grand and glorious feeling to wake up without a head the size of a basketball and hands shaking so much that more than a few people thought I was waving Goodbye to them.

I have it that Sylvia Cooper, who has a radio program in New York, is going to read my review of "Good News!" on one of her shows. The next thing you know I'll be as famous as Gisbert E. Brakewynde! And just who is Gisbert E. Brakewynde, you may ask. If it's all the same with you, I'd rather you'd not. Ol' Giz ended up with two tons of "Agnew For President," bumper stickers.

William Meriwether Cox, my southern correspondent, writes from Biloxi that he recently attended a revival meeting and that the dynamic young preacher was going on loud and strong about the sins of the flesh.

Reaching a high point of fever he shouted, "Good brothers and sisters, if there are any among you who have fallen by the wayside, any among you who have committed adultery, may your tongue cweave to the woof of your mowf."

I think I run Lou Bachman a close second when it comes to reading. Lou is about a 40 to 45 books a year man and I range between 35 and 40. Looking back over 1973, I think the best fiction I read was, "Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon." And the best non-fiction had to be Mel Torme's biography on the late Judy Garland, "The Other Side of the Rainbow."

Oh yes, and while it was far from a work of art, I thoroughly enjoyed Georgia Sothern's biography titled, "My Life In Burlesque." I enjoyed it because years and years ago Georgia and I were great friends. I was going to say busom buddies, but I fear too many would misunderstand.

Whatever, like Ann Corio, Hinda Wassau and Margie Hart, Georgia was one swell gal. Reading of her times in burlesque brought back enough sequester days — sweet yesterdays to take ten years off my present age (which, truthfully, is around 50).

The wisdom of W. C. Fields — The only thing water is good for is to flow beneath a bridge.

Heh heh heh — The top executive nuzzling his gorgeous secretary asked, "Did my wife say anything when you told her that I'd be working late at the office?"

And the secretary cooed, "All she said was, 'Can I count on that?'"

Thot for closing up shop — Friends are far more important than money. So when you die, take along a friend.

Belly Dancing Added To YWCA Schedule

Social Studies Lab: An Active Place

"Education can be fun if you have the right attitude" is the belief of Fermi High students involved in the Social Studies Laboratory.

On school grounds, it is known as the SSL, a room equipped with audio-visual material, where students can go to work on individual or group projects.

To a visitor, the SSL is a room with modern educational aids but to the students who know it and use it... the "lab" represents a state-of-mind, a philosophy, an alternative to the traditional classroom approach to learning.

Something like a fraternity, the SSL members profess certain philosophies and enforce student-made rules and regulations.

Turning on to education their own way, students using the lab try to measure their growth by following what they call the "Three I's" — Individuality, Inquiry and Involvement.

The lab is run by students who are looking for change, challenge and a more meaningful relationship between students and teachers.

Lab policy is determined by its board of directors, which also includes faculty advisors. Board Chairman Dave Reynolds acknowledges the need for faculty input. In most cases, he admits, the faculty who sit on the board, prefer not to vote. Many forfeit the privilege to allow students to make the final decisions.

Mike Nadeau, director of the Enrico Fermi Network (EFN), an intragal part of the SSL, agrees with Dave that faculty advisors contribute valuable suggestions and ideas.

In the lab, Dave and Mike explain, the student-teacher relationship is a "creative partnership".

There are 30 board members but the lab itself exists for all Fermi students. It is utilized primarily by social studies students but Dave insists that "it's not limited to that group". In fact, many departments use the facility and combine their efforts on many projects.

Under the SSL umbrella are many laboratory projects and services.

A vital service to the Fermi community is the Enrico Fermi Network (EFN), which Mike Nadeau boasts as Enfield's only broadcast network.

In the past, EFN has received grants from NBC-TV and last year the station covered the Presidential Inauguration. Staff members spent 100 hours editing the material gathered in Washington to present an almost two hour video-taped program.

The network is entirely student run. Students write and produce all shows, which include a semi-weekly news show (local, school, sports), a Jeopardy-type game show, "Take A Chance", documentaries (pollution, urban renewal, aging) and a children's show following the Sesame Street format, "Fermi Fun Factory".

A document on the aging, now being researched, will comment on the elderly in society. The producers have already interviewed representatives from the Commission on Aging and Congresswoman Ella Grasso.

Pre-schoolers who come weekly to the "Family and Society" class find the "Fermi Fun Factory" an easy and enjoyable way to learn their A-B-Cs.

Fermi's answer to Sesame Street teaches the children basic educational material using puppets, games and other creative techniques.

Also part of SSL is "Fermi 76", a project conceived to mark America's 200-year birthday. Fermi's celebration will be a tribute to "the Bicentennial of America's Endless Revolution". Its theme is "Action, Celebration and Education".

The Bicentennial celebration is being organized by members of the Class of '76, a fitting arrangement.

Other lab projects are "Contact", a quarterly in which teachers, parents and students all contribute to a dialogue about mutual interests in education and "Future", an annual publication of outstanding student papers in the social sciences.

Students go to the Social Studies Lab with a purpose, not to eat a sandwich, "shoot the breeze" or skip a class.

The SSL is a place where students go to enjoy the excitement of challenge, action and success.

Director of EFN, Mike Nadeau, left, discusses programming with Dave Reynolds, chairman of the Social Studies Laboratory board. Both students are EFN broadcasters.

Others are Steve O'Keefe, Roberta Pieper, Mona Piotrowski, Bethany Quick, Kirk F. Reed, Sandra Richard, Francis Smith, David Stauch, Sally Walter, Marie Wasuk, Garry L. Mazzone and Sharon A. Surma.

Charlotte Jones, director of children programs at Central Library, reports that the Pre-School Story Hours are not only fun for the children but for her too.

The pre-schoolers visit the library Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. They are three and four-year-olds.

Mrs. Jones says the response has been great. There are 70 youngsters registered in each morning session.

The program consists of stories, filmstrips and games. No re-registration was held this winter because the waiting list is used to fill any vacancies.

SO POPULAR

The Story Hours have been so popular that the Enfield Suburban Woman's Club has developed two additional pre-school programs, one at Central and the other at the Pearl Street branch.

SCHOOL PROGRAMS

Mrs. Jones arranges library programs with area teachers often developing a program around topics suggested by teachers relating to some aspect of classroom work.

Nearly every afternoon a school is booked for a program, which also consists of a library tour, filmstrip and some studying time.

A shuttle bus provided by the town brings children to and from the library.

OPEN SUNDAY

On a trial basis beginning Feb. 2, Central Library will be open on Sundays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. If you're out for a Sunday afternoon drive, stop in and browse.

ACC Women Travel To Woman's Fair

Helen Reddy's hit record, "I Am Woman", was the anthem of a Woman's Fair held recently in Boston, attended by a group of faculty and students from Asnuntuck Community College.

The fair, sponsored by the Massachusetts Governor's Commission on the Status of Women, attracted over 25,000 women.

Helen Reddy and other notable feminist personalities participated in the fair, held in Hynes Auditorium in the Prudential Building.

Booths were set up for the dissemination of written information about employment, education, health, childcare, contraception, credit, cooking, beauty and fashion.

Those stationed at the booths answered questions about their exhibits. There were many sympathetic male friends exploring the booths for information as well.

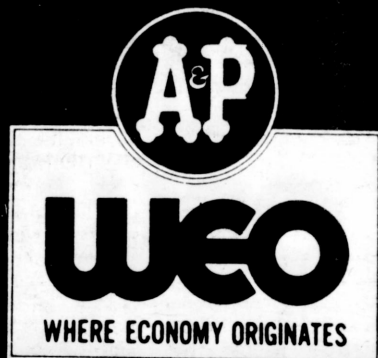

Ms. Reddy provided the fair's finale, a rendition of her hit song.

SIGNING UP — Enfield High School Future Business Leaders of America signup for the business convention to be held this spring.

Elected Episcopal Rector

The Rev. Ralph E. Merrill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Merrill of Somers, and a native of Enfield has accepted election as Rector of St. James' Episcopal Church in New London, as of Feb. 20.

A product of local public schools, Trinity College in Hartford, and the General Theological Seminary in New York, the Rev. Mr. Merrill was a candidate for the Ministry from St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Enfield.

While deacon and priest he served from 1956 to 1960 as Curate in St. Mark's Parish, New Britain, and became Rector of St. Paul's Parish in the Huntington section of Shelton, Conn., on August 15, 1960.

While in Huntington, Fr. Merrill has administered a growing congregation and expanding facilities to meet the needs of it. For many years the Roman Catholic, Congregational, and Episcopal congregations and clergy of the Huntington Green area — recently joined by a new Methodist parish — have co-operated fully in sponsorship of FISH, Inc., common worship, shared resources, and mutual assistance.

Rev. Ralph E. Merrill

Several years ago the Rector and Vestry of St. Paul's formed a drug commission in the parish resulting in municipal programs and an appointment of Mr. Merrill by the mayor as charter member of the newly formed city commission. Currently a Corporator of Griffin Hospital in Derby and Secretary of the Lower Naugatuck Valley Deanery, the Rector of St. Paul's was also Archdeacon of Bridgeport and its 25 area Episcopal parishes until recent restructuring of the Diocese.

In 1958, Fr. Merrill married the former Audrey Neal of Laconia, N. H., and they have three children: Ellen, 14; Thomas, 12, and Sarah, 9. The Merrills expect to take up residence in Waterford. The parish to which he is going serves both New London and Waterford and was the seat of the Rt. Rev. Samuel Seabury, America's first bishop, in the post-Revolutionary era.

Rep. John Morrison, D-58th District, has acclaimed Enfield Mayor Frank Mancuso as the logical successor to Congresswoman Ella T. Grasso.

Morrison announced his support of Mancuso along with his support for Rep. Grasso's candidacy for Governor of Connecticut.

Mancuso was overwhelmed when he heard of Morrison's endorsement and regarded it as "the most outstanding compliment of my political career."
