Enfield Police Department, hard pressed by a rash of house breaks, business burglaries, and stolen cars, is receiving a helping hand from a national law enforcement agency

The aid, according to Chief Walter J. Skower, is coming from the National Sheriff's Association, headquartered in Washington, D.C.

Chief Skower said he has notified NSA Executive Director Lucas that he will gladly assume this added responsibility and will provide details of Operation Neighborhood Watch to the citizens of Enfield as soon as they are received.

Lucas said he will be watching Enfield closely during the coming months to determine the program's success, as compared to other selected communities across the nation.

James A. Peter, Police Planner of Enfield, said today he has received 20,000 kits from Ronald Brenner, project director of the National Sheriff's Association

Peter said the kits contain a window decal, a bumper sticker and two pamphlets: one on the neighborhood burglary watch program and the other on ways of protecting the home from burglary This comprehensive program for combatting burglary, auto theft and related crimes, said Peter, is a two-fold function involving cooperation between police and public. He said the only way the program can be successful is to make the public aware seriousness of the situation by calling police when observing strange persons and motor vehicles in their

Survey Started

A telephone survey is being organized to extend toll-free calling area for Enfield Somers and residents.

Ever since the "Hartford Extended Local Plan" which extended toll-free calling to Hartford for Windsor Locks, Suffield, and Warehouse Point was put into effect, Enfield and Somers residents have expressed irritation that the extended toll-free area was not available to them.

In a meeting with local legislators, town officials and Southern New England Tel., SNET, representatives 15, the questions of extending the toll-free area for Enfield and Somers again residents discussed.

Those in attendance were informed that extending tollfree calling to Springfield could not be considered due to many complications, therefore calling to the Capital Area was focused on.

acres of land at Moody and Taylor Roads.

Company president John M. Sullivan described the master plan: to construct, in four-phases during ten years, a $20 million, 400,000 square foot manufacturing and distribution plant.

The move to Enfield, Sullivan said, represents opening of America's first Lego Systems manufacturing and distribution plant. Only last year, Lego Systems opened its first United States sales and marketing office in Brookfield.

Purchase of the 75-acre parcel is being negotiated between company officials and Zigmund Cybulski, 65, a retired farmer. It has been owned by his family for some 60 years.

Mayor Frank Mancuso publicly thanked Cybulski for his willingness to sell his land at a "fair and constant price". "I don't think we would have Lego coming to town without Cybulski's cooperation", Mancuso said.

By 1983, Lego will be manufacturing plastic bricks in Enfield and employing 800 people. After completion in November of a contemporary manufacturing office building, the firm will employ 30 to 50 workers.

The tov firm was founded in Billund, Denmark, in the thirties by Danish carpenter. Ole Kirk Christiansen, who began making wooden toys by hand.

Beating Death Of Two years Ago Remains Unsolved

It will be two years ago this Sunday, Feb. 24, in 1972. that Mrs. Sally Stephenson was found dead, the victim of a brutal beating.

On that day two years ago, Enfield police received a telephone call from one of two men renting an apartment in the Valley View Apartments on Route 5 one mile north of the East Windsor line, that a woman was dead at that address.

Patrolman Thomas Watton, patrolling in the area, was dispatched to the address. He found Mrs. Stephenson, then 32, lying on the kitchen floor - dead without a doubt. He called headquarters which immediately dispatched the detective homicide team to take over the investigation.

Upon examination, police ascertained that the body had been removed from an upstairs bedroom to the Police kitchen. also ascertained that the body was either undressed or partially undressed but that it was later dressed after death. Upon examining the body it was evident to police that she was severely beaten about the face and upper torso, as evidenced by numerous and large skin discolorations.

The bedroom showed undeniable evidence that the beating took place there, as there was a large quantity of blood on the bed and floor, and the bed was broken.

Prior to being removed to Hartford Hospital for an autopsy, the body was viewed by Dr. Carl Johnson, assistant medical examiner.

The autopsy stated Mrs. Stephenson died of a brain hemorrhage and suffered severe contusions to the body, including two fractured ribs. There was no evidence of a blunt instrument having been used, so it was theorized by police that fists were used in the fatal attack on the woman. The autopsy also showed that Mrs. Stephenson died at about 5 a.m. on the day of her death - about eight hours before police were notified.

Although the two men who rented the apartment where Mrs. Stephenson met her death were initial suspects, one of them was later cleared of possible implication, leaving the one prime suspect. However, despite a long, intensive investigation by Det. Lieut. Frank Razsa, Det. Sgt. Leo Arnone and Det. Charles Vella, no one has been arrested and charged with the crime.

When asked about the case this week, Lieutenant Razsa said the case is definitely not closed, the police are still investigating and will continue to investigate until, the perpetrator (or perpetrators) of the crime is brought to justice.

By GAIL COLLINS

The state House of Representatives observed a moment of silence last week in memory of the late Karl Lee, former Enfield Superintendent of Schools.

The legislature also passed a resolution expressing sympathy for Lee's death. Lee, 81, was found murdered Springfield last month.

Enfield Rep. Rosario Vella, said the resolution expressed "the terrible loss my community has suffered."

"Even though Karl Lee vas 81 years of age and enjoying his retirement, he was still an active member of the com-munity," Vella added.

Rep. John Morrison of Enfield, the other sponsor of the resolution, told the House "it was a privilege to serve with Karl Lee on the school building committee in Enfield, and to personally know of his concern and dedication in the field of education.

"His brutal murder at the age of 81, after a lifetime of community service has shocked and deeply saddened all who know him. He was a friend and we will certainly miss him.", and the good and the

The lawyer designations were made by Superior Court Judge Samuel T Tisdale for District Court functions only. The four suspects are being held without bail for a hearing tomorrow. All are charged with murder in connection with the death of Lee, who was found Jan. 27 in Springfield's Blunt Park, the victim of a brutal beating.

CLEARED

The original murder suspect, Richard C. Brown. 18 of 74 Lebanon St. Springfield, was released from custody on his own recognizance. However, the charges of murder and robbery against him are being kept on the books until March 15 for a hearing at which time it is expected the charges will be dismissed.

Captain Joseph Legarski, who headed the murder investigation, said Lee was picked up on Walnut Street the night of Jan. 26 and taken to the home of one of the suspects. He then went with that suspect, said Legarski. to the home of another where he was robbed of his money and car keys.

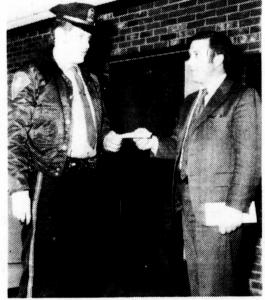

the After robbery. Legarski said, the four suspects took Lee in his own car to Blunt Park where he was beaten to death.

Capt. Legarski said he is relatively satisfied that the arrests of the four should complete the investigation.

State Rep. Rosario T. Vella, last week submitted a resolution in the Connecticut General Assembly, expressing sympathy concerning the untimely death of the former school superintendent.

"Unless we do something like this we'll lose some good men up here," he said. "We've already lost good men because we haven't paid a decent wage. No one is going to get rich on that, but it's enough to support a family.

He pointed out that "if anyone feels it's politically wrong, or wrong for any reason to take the increase, he or she can pledge it over

Plan Diversity In Home Show

Visitors to the 8th Annual Home Show will be treated to some unusual and diversified exhibits in Enfield High School March 22, 23 and

According to Teri Leonaitis, head of the Exhibitors Committee, a woodburning stove manufacturer, a furniture stripping company and a health spa are some of the features of the Chamber of Commerce sponsored event. Other exhibits will display new materials for conserving energy and demonstrate the latest trends in home decor.

Mrs. Leonaitis, said that...

her committee strives for variety in the exhibits, and a balance between home, work and leisure products. "We want the displays to be pleasing to the eye as well as of educational value", she said. "People want to be entertained, but they also want to take home new ideas for better living," concluded Mrs. Leonaitis.

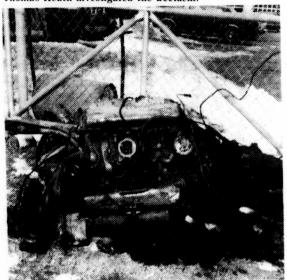

The Home Show is expected to attract more than 5,000 persons. Interested exhibitors may call the Chamber office (745-3363) for information.

★ Survey

Due to a recent Public Utilities Commission, PUC, ruling, those communities wishing to extend toll-free calling areas are required to absorb the cost entailed (construction costs and loss in toll revenue) via an increased monthly charge to phone owners in those communities.

It was explained that before SNET would compute the actual monthly cost increase to local residents for a toll-free calling area equal to that enjoyed by Windsor Locks residents, Enfield and Somers would have to show SNET there was a "community of interest" for the service.

To determine the "community of interest", Karen Howard, an Enfield resident present at the Jan. 15th meeting, has organized a telephone survey residential phone owners with the cooperation of SNET representatives and several local women's organizations including; Jaycee Wives, Suburban Women's Club and Junior Women's Club. The phone survey will begin in early March. Further details of the survey will be published as they develop.

YMCA Courses Offered

A beginners sketching and drawing class for boys and girls, ages 10 to 14 is being offered by the Suffield YMCA. The class designed to introduce basic skills to serious minded boys and girls, is an opportunity to find new talents and to expand those they already know they have. Hopefully, this will be the ground work for future oil painting classes for boys and girls of this age group.

Beginning Mar. 9 from 10-11:30 a.m. at the Suffield High School, the class will be held for six weeks on Saturdays. John Bokeny who is also an instructor for adult classes in painting, will be the instructor. The fee is Non-Y members $18 and Y members, $15. A basic kit will be available from the instructor at nominal cost upon request.

For registration send a check to the YMCA office of Suffield, P. O. Box 151; for further information contact the YMCA office, 668-0057.

The Suffield YMCA course in Yoga will start Mar. 7 from 9:30 - 11 a.m. at Suffield Academy, and will continuefor 8 weeks. Mrs. Robbie Amyx is instructor. Fee is Non-Y members $18, Y members, $15. For further information contact Suffield

YMCA office.

Coates, Mrs. Nancy coordinator for the Suffield YMCA courses, said there will be a demonstration session of the nationally known Parent Effectiveness Training (PET) course at Kent Memorial Library, Main St., Suffield, Monday at 7 p.m. There will be a free film with a question and answer period to follow. This is an opportunity to get to know this worth while program. Called a "Blue print for Family Communication", P.E.T. has been highly praised by parents and authorities for youth programs.

Master Transportation Plan

Astrid T. Hanzalek (R-61), Assistant Majority Leader announced today, that the Fourth Annual Report of the Connecticut Master Transportation Plan has been released.

"It is of vital importance that the leaders of each community, including layleaders as well as elected officials be aware of how this plan will affect the town," Mrs. Hanzalek said.

"To make it easier for townspeople to study the Mrs. Hanzalek plan,' continued, "I have delivered a copy to the library in the center of Suffield. I've done that with other material of broad interest in the past. These materials should be available to all at an easily accessible central location.'

This 1974 plan, prepared by the Connecticut Department of Transportation is essentially an update of the previous plan which outlined the goals, policies and transportation needs through 1990 — as well as the specific programs required to meet those needs.

"In light of the present energy crisis the obvious need for more mass transit, and Suffield's specific concerns relating to (1) airport expansion, (2) the need for relocating Rt. 190 from the Bridge to Bridge Street and (3) planning a further extension of this road to Rt. 75 near the Windsor Locks line, this 1974 master plan should be under constant review. We must-insist that it properly reflects the changing transportation requirements of citizens.'

Poet Speaks At Academy

As part of their visiting poet program, Suffield Academy is sponsoring a lecture and poetry reading by William Jay Smith, distinguished poet, playwright and translator tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Academy's Fuller Lounge of the Perry Gymnasium. The community is cordially invited to attend the program.

Although he is primarily recognized as a poet, Smith's most recent book, published in 1973, "The Streaks of the Tulip", is a book of selected essays, reviews chronicles on writers from Herrick to Marianne Moore to Lewis Carroll and Edward Lear.

The spectrum of his writing is indeed varied. He has written many children's books, translated the plays of Charles Bertin, translated the poetry of Jules Laforgue and Valery Larbaud in an anthology, "Poems From France." He is also one of the recognized translators of Andre Voznesenky and has appeared with him at American lectures, translating the Russian poet's reading. His own poems have appeared in numerous journals and are also compiled in two books, "The Tin Can" and "New and Selected Poems."

Smith was on the staff of the Suffield Writer-Reader Conference for many years, as a leader in the poetry seminars.

Charismatic Movement

The Young Adults Club of the Suffield Council of Churches will sponsor a program on the Charismatic (Pentacostal) Movement, on Feb. 24 at 7 p.m. at the First Congregational Church of Suffield. This will be an informative program discussing the Charismatic movement in both Catholic Protestant

Speakers will include Dr. J. Stanley Mattson of the Masters School of Simsbury and active member of Covenant Presbyterian Church and Father Barnabas, O.F.M. Cap. of St. Francis Chapel, Springfield, Mass., who has been active in the Chicopee Catholic Charismatic Group for one and a half years. Also on the program will be a panel of persons testifying as to how the Charismatic Movement has helped them in their private lives.

The program is free and a buffet supper will follow.

Reservations should be made with Miss Mary Browne, 269 North Main St., Suffield before tomorrow.

Orchestra Performs

Orchestra will perform their inaugural concert tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Fuller Lounge at Suffield Academy. The orchestra is composed of students from Hartt College of Music and soloists include Merri Decker, violin; John Lagerquist, flute; Mark Demers, piano; and Kenneth Johnson, viola. The concert will be conducted by Lawrence Davis, Director of Music for Suffield Academy and the Plainville Choral Society.

"We are making a sincere effort to get orchestral music into rural surroundings. It is extremely important for the American Musical scene that cities do ghettos.' The energy crisis has at least showed us that we can not depend forever on that kind of mobility. Even more basically, rural environments can mean less aggravation in terms of environment, traffic, and the safety of the audience. We need fine performances in each town and more than just solo recitals. We need orchestras and choruses performing major works,' Mr. Davis comments.

The program for the first Suffield Chamber Orchestra concert includes the Bach "Brandenburg Concerto No. in D Major, Aaron Copland's "Quiet City," Paul Hindemith's "Music of position by Rae Shortt, a Suffield Academy student.

The public is invited to attend this free concert and to lend support to a rare concept in community

Lego Will Help

The Denmark-based Lego Systems Inc., world-wide distributor of plastic building toys, is planning to open its first American manufacturing-distribution plant in Enfield, at an outlay of up to $20-million over the next 10 years.

This is really good news for Enfield. It is this type of business, while paying tax dollars to the municipality, will also provide employment to many local people once in full operation

President John M. Sullivan said that negotiations are in progress to buy 75 acres at Moody and Taylor Rds., near the Somers town line, from Zigmund Cybulski, a retired farmer, and he hoped construction could be started by November for a 72,009 square foot plant which would be in operation next Spring. Initially, he said, from 30 to 50 persons would be employed, with an additional 400 added to the payroll by 1979. By 1983, said Sullivan, it is planned to expand the facility to 400,000 square feet, and to employ about 800 workers.

Preliminary building plans have been presented to the Planning and Zoning Commission which has scheduled a public hearing on them for Feb. 28.

Lego is not locating in the 500-acre Enfield Memorial Industrial Park, according to Town Industrial Coordinator Philip Forzley, because it needs a railroad connection for delivery of raw materials. Sullivan said his company plans to build a spur line, connecting with the nearby Penn Central tracks.

Sullivan said that his company had surveyed all 50 states before deciding to locate in Enfield. This decision was made, he said, because of the availability of reasonably priced land, the area's labor market, and the state's "relatively fair" tax rate

John Healy, vice president of Lego, told members of the PZC, that the new plant would virtually be pollution-free, inasmuch as no water is needed in the plastic molding process. A petrochemical material is used, and while this is derived from oil. Sullivan said that he had no worry about the current oil shortage. Lego, he said, has an assured supply for the next three years, and he believed that the shortage would be ended by then.

Lego was founded about 40 years ago by a Danish carpenter who made toys of wood. It opened its first sales and marketing office in this country about a year ago in Brook field, Conn., near the New York state line. Sullivan said the company has outgrown this facility and it probably would be vacated when the Enfield plant goes into operation.

The company claims annual sales of $87-million, and Sullivan said that he anticipated that within the next 10 years it could derive about $100-million in the American market

The toy firm plans to spend about $2-million during the initial phase of plant construction in Enfield, and a much larger outlay during a four-phase expansion program for manufacturing, warehousing and distribution, and locating its national headquarters here

Sullivan said that Town Manager C. Samuel Kissinger was among those instrumental in bringing Lego to Enfield He said that within two hours after he contacted the town. Kissinger was in Brookfield to confer with officials of the firm about their intended move.

Mayor Frank Mancuso said that the decision of Lego to move to Enfield was the result of long negotiations among town officials, those of the company, and the State Department of Commerce. He also praised Cybulski for making a part of his property holdings available at a "fair and constant" price, and said he would ask the Town Council to approve a resolution of appreciation at its next meeting. Cybulski's asking price for the property has not been disclosed. His negotiations with Lego is being handled by Enfield Probate Judge John Raissi.

It is news like this that will help provide the inertia, the punch, the town so badly needs in industrial development.

Be Careful!

Gasoline shortages in Connecticut and the possibility of the implementation of some form of gasoline rationing may have led some of our citizens to store gasoline in their homes and automobiles

We would like to emphasize that improper storage and misuse of gasoline can lead to serious health consequences and household hazards.

Last year, more than 14,000 persons required hospital treatment as a result of injuries associated with gasoline half of these were due to fires and explosions relating to the improper use of gasoline.

Thousands of youngsters suffered gasoline poisoning and a growing number of cases of poisoning among adults who have tried to siphon gasoline by mouth have been reported in recent months.

A small amount of gasoline in the stomach does not produce serious injury. However, in the act of swallowing this substance, an individual may gag and draw the liquid into the lungs producing a serious and possibly deadly inflammation

The following are some recommendations to consumers regarding the storage and use of gasoline:

If it is absolutely necessary to keep a small amount of gasoline, store it in a heavy metal safety container with a tightly closed lid. Never store gasoline or other liquid fuel in glass or plastic bottles and, in particular, never use empty soft drink bottles which could be attractive to young children.

Never carry gasoline in the trunk of the car - escaping vapors can easily impact. Even the slightest of collisions could result in an explosion.

Never use gasoline near open flames, pilot lights, stoves, heaters, electric mowers or any other sources of ignition. Never smoke near gasoline.

Never siphon gasoline by mouth; use a mechanical method if siphoning is absolutely necessary.

Never use gasoline for the extermination of insects.

Avoid repeating or prolonged contact of skin with gasoline and avoid breathing fuel vapors.

Keep gasoline out of the reach of children.

LETTERS EDITOR

Victimized

To The Editor:

It is just one year ago that my home was robbed and then three more times, and I could add a chapter to the article that was in the Enfield Press Jan. 24 of this year called "How It Feels to be a Crime Victim" a year after the crime. If the criminal had any feeling or reasoning power at all he wouldn't even be forced to commit a crime.

I lived in the other end of town than that described in your article. The entrance was made by breaking the glass in my windows and entering. Thus, there was never a time that I could go out that I could return and be sure no one had been, or was in my house.

So I had to sell my house at a loss, though I had intended to stay in it until circumstances might move me from Enfield, perhaps I would have stayed there all my life. I am a widow too. So I felt I had to move to an apartment where there are other people to help watch out for strangers.

Since then the mailmen have had to write in my new address at least once a day on the average what a waste of valuable time for them. I spent much time writing to all correspondence but it takes a while in this computer age for mail to be coming to new addresses.

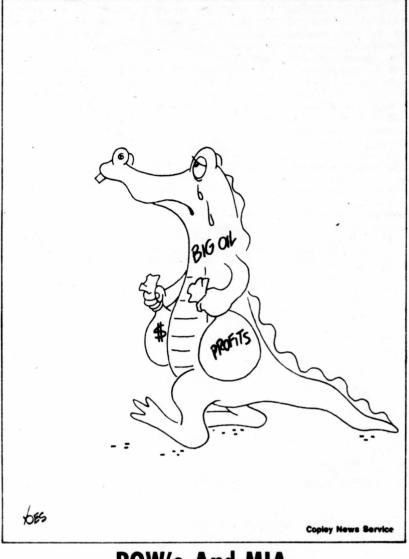

The bank was caused waste which the customers always have to assume. When there has been an entry and the house is ransacked, the bank has to give its customer a new checking account, so the old checks weren't good anymore and new check blanks had to be made. It caused inconvenience for all services electric, gas, phone, for all these had to be changed for the new folks who were an active family that moved into the house.

This really has decreased the years of my life through the strain and uncertainty of moving. Although I advertised in the paper for an apartment with a garage, there was no response so instead of my car being sheltered like it had been, now it sits out doors and I have to fight the elements, and struggle getting snow and ice off of it. I also have to call the garage to have it started whereas when I had it under shelter, I never had to do this before.

The apartment living with it blaring TV's and fowl smells keep me quite bitter. So after a year the effect of this robbery is still influencing me and probably always will. For the material things that the robber took, there is no comparison to the struggle and loss of home and thousands of dollars it has cost me

I won't sign my name because I don't want to give satisifaction to someone that might read this who was the thief. (The police never found who did this or the items, some of which were of sentimental value, as they were to the lady writing in the Jan. 24 Press)

POW's And MIA

To The Editor:

membership recruiter for Patrick Triggs Post No. 1501 and Auxiliary this National VFW Week, (Feb. 17-23), I am concerned about our brave missing men, our POW's and those

I was the first Vietnam mother here in Enfield to speak up and I asked the governor of Connecticut to help push harder for our missing men.

As Vietnam Veterans Day, (Feb. 22) approaches, I am even more concerned. I do not know they are working and pushing harder, and I do have faith that the Russian people are preparing the men or a list for returning them to our American homes Sunday, Feb. 24 I am asking as a Vietnam mother for everybody, regardless of what church they belong to, to walk to church for these missing men and pray for peace of mind for all Vietnam men who have returned, and those that are listed MIA and POW.

I am also asking all Enfielders of all ages to wear your MIA and POW bracelet until we hear more.

We in Enfield and the state of Connecticut have not forgotten.

This V.F.W. Diamond Jubilee - make it the greatest. Now, more than ever, your help as a membership recruiter during V.F.W.'s 75th anniversary celebration is needed.

We at No. 1501 are looking for 75 men to march with our colors Memorial Day. Come down and sign up and help us support the V.F.W.'s legislative and veterans service departments in Washington, D.C. To Shame

To The Editor:

I often wonder what parents think when their children suddenly appear with strange articles in their possession. There are some parents in this town whose children have in their possession personal articles which belonged to my younger son and which were stolen from his locker at the Enfield High School. A partial list of stolen things includes: a watch, several jackets, gym clothes including sneakers. complete set of hockey equipment - skates, various pads, hockey sticks and the rest of the paraphernalia.

Shame on the young people who prey upon their fellow students by thievery, remiss are the parents who stay ignorant of their children's behaviour and foul deeds, and alas to the victims often young people who work and save their money to buy things, and their parents who must replace the articles.

Shame again on the young thief, who brings discredit to himself, his family and his community. May he mend his ways before it becomes a life pattern.

Whales, Deer Lead State Animal Race

contender for the title of state animal surfaced in the capitol recently.

Whale-lovers told the legislature's Government Administration and Policy, GAP, Committee that giving the honor to their candidate would help encourage efforts to preserve the endangered species

Speakers at the GAP public hearing included sixth-graders from Hamden School who lobbied on behalf of the current favorite, the white-tailed deer, as well as the whale and raccoon.

The combination of animals and children outdrew the Governor's press conference, which was scheduled at the same hour.

"I've never seen so many microphones before," said one GAP member.

The white-tailed deer was the runaway winner of a among contest schoolchildren from 73 towns in Connecticut who voted on the matter this fall. But whale fanciers argued that their candidate had not been given a fair hearing.

"I wasn't thinking whale last year," admitted Sen. Larry DeNardis (R-Hamden), who started the state animal hunt last session. But, he added, he has come to realize that the whale is the only animal with historic ties to the state.

A spokesman for the National Cetacean Society told the hearing that "if children have the opportunity to give full consideration to the whale, I feel they'd provide a different verdict.

Since the whale has become a prominent candidate for the state title, Cetacean Society members have been receiving invitations to talk to groups about the need to preserve the world's dwindling whale

"It's the most exciting thing that's ever happened to them." DeNardis told the legislators. The problems of the whales are so great, the committee learned, that there is some concern that the remaining 1,000 or so blue whales will not be able to find each other at mating

Despite its unfortunate classification by the Department of Environmental Protection as an "agricultural nuiscanthe white-tailed deer still apparently has the inside track. There are an estimated 10-12,000 wild deer in Connecticut.

'Hunters kill many deer . . some escape, but not many," a youthful deerfancier told the committee.

"The whale played an interesting part in our history," argued another sixth-grader. "We killed the whale because it overpopulated the ocean. Well, people overpopulate the world and we don't go around killing them just for sport.

Another youngster, representing the embattled raccoon lobby, told the legislators that her candidate, too, was in danger of extinction. "We should keep some raccoons in captivity, so that if people come from other countries they can see them." she proposed.

State Senator Charles Alfano, who said he has not given much thought to the whale-deer controversy, admitted "I suppose I'm partial to the deer.

Rep. Astrid Hanzalek, as a member of the Government Administration and Policy Committee, attended the public hearing last week.

"Every year," she said afterwards, "we have one issue that seems to attract disproportionate interest. In 1971 we had the income tax and all sorts of major legislation, but the one thing House deliberated longest was a bill to allow bow and arrow hunting on

"I know," she continued, "that this seems like a silly controversy and I have no idea what the committee will decide to do. But however frivolous the issue, it has at least drawn people's attention to the plight of the

O'Leary Comments On Governor's Address

Commenting on the Governor's address to the General Assembly Representative O'Leary, (D-60th District) noted that he was very pleased that Enfield would be receiving a total of $499,330 in State aid.

Commenting on this aid O'Leary noted, "Property taxes have been stretched quite far in most communities, and the burden of this type of tax falls most heavily on the small homeowner. While state moeny is, of course, coming from the taxpayer, the state funds are derived from a much broader tax base and are not felt quite as hard by this one class of taxpayers.

Several aspects of the Governor's message, however, were less pleasing to the Representagive from Windsor Locks and Enfield.

Specifically he objected to the absence of a larger increase in the ADM. Commenting on that aspect of the budget O'Leary noted, "Connecticut ranks among the lowest of all states, in state aid to education, by anyone's standard. This is an area of spending which is most inequitable and puts a greater strain on the towns that have average working people making up a large part of the population. "The proposal we heard would only add $5 per student per year to the ADM grant. Another $10 per student is going to be made available, but it is not an ongoing grant, and does not have to be earmarked for education."

Finally, O'Leary said it was unfortunate that state employees were going to have to make do another year without a raise in pay. 'It's been several years since these employees have had any raise at all, and we all know how much more difficult it is for people to make ends meet today.

"We approve of increases for commissioners who are already making good salaries, but we do so little for middle income employees who are really feeling inflation. State employees cannot strike and have few votes, but I don't think these threats should be necessary to force the state to do what is basic justice,' he concluded.

Protect Puppies Law Is Urged

puppies to pulling ponies, found champions last week when the General Assembly's Environment Committee considered its animal welfare legislation package.

The most controversial measure discussed at a public hearing on the animal bills would prohibit importation of puppies under age eight weeks into the state for commercial sale.

Dog-lovers were fueled by reports in December of a litter of six schnauzer pups who arrived at Bradley Airport with only one animal still living.

IN ENFIELD

But pet shop owners claimed that shipping was safe for some, depending on the breed and kind of transportation.

"I've been located in Enfield for five years and the only time I've lost a puppy is when it's stolen," said Alan Greenberg, owner of Safari Pet Center in Enfield and Secretary of the Connecticut Retail Pet Association.

An Irish Wolfhound breeder told legislators that dogs which cannot be broken of chewing or wetting were often separated from their

Domestic animals, from mothers before eight weeks

Greenberg told legislators that larger breeds, such as Great Danes and St. Bernards, "are large enough to be shipped at six or seven

"I've been working on this seven months" retorted subcommittee chairman Apthorp, Danielson). "I haven't heard any evidence they can be shipped before eight weeks."

Lester Martin, owner of the Puppy Center Pet Stores Connecticut and Massachusetts, took exception to the general criticism of pet stores.

'I've been an animal lover since I was five," he said. "I have extremely strong feelings about animals. I don't have blood dripping from my fingers.

The problem, Martin said, might lie with the airlines. "having these little guys (puppies) treated in the same way that baggage is treated and left on the fields or kept over two or three days.

The Committee has indicated it intends to send the puppy bill to the legislature for action.

The legislature will also probably vote on bills to establish spay and neuter clinics for dogs.

Babbidge Slowed On Ride

HARTFORD Democratic gubernatorial candidate Homer Babbidge Jr. got more than he bargained for recently when he tried to dramatize the need for mass transportation in Connecticut.

Babbidge travelled across the state from Greenwich to Putnam in order, he said, to 'prove it could be done' and show how difficult it was to do it

But Amtrak made sure Babbidge got as little coverage as possible from the trek. Newsmen in New Haven and Hartford waiting to interview the candidate en route departed without seeing Babbidge, who spent the time stalled in a train outside Bridgeport.

The train was delayed two hours when it got stuck and had to back up and proceed on a different track

When Babbidge finally arrived in Hartford, he had to skip any meetings with the press in order to dash to the Greyhound station to make a connection with Greyhound bus Danielson.

In Danielson, Babbidge had planned to hop a cab to Putnam, but he discovered the local cab company had gone out of business. A Putnam cab finally had to be summoned to bring the candidate to the end of the sought by Lawrence J. DeNardis, chairman of the committee which has the Alfano submitted and sponsored proposal under study.

The whole seven-hour trip involved two buses, two trains and the cab. It cost $11.70, and 19 long-distance phone calls to find what public transportation was available.

Alfano informed the committee that during the past several years, he has received numerous complaints from customers served by the CWC Northern Division in Enfield, Windsor Locks and Suffield with regard to both the quality of service and cost of service rendered by that company. He said water provided by the CWC in those towns is grossly inferior to that provided by the MDC in neighboring areas yet the CWC's rates are nearly triple those of the MDC.

MDC Takeover Stressed

Nov. 16, 1973) granted the CWC Northern Division by the Public Utilities Commission have increased the average quarterly water bill for a family of four to nearly $35. The average MDC quarterly bill for the same size family using the same amount of water is $12. During the past two years, CWC Northern Division rates have increased by approximately 30 per cent while the quality of service has remained poor.

Alfano said, the question has been raised as to the CWC's willingness to divest itself of its Northern Division. The CWC has not answered that question (its position is "no comment") and he, Alfano, suggests it is probably not because the operation is profitable. The issue to be considered is not the CWC's willingness to sell nor is it the CWC's profitability. The end consideration, maintains Alfano, in this case is the quality of product and cost of service to the consumer: 13,772 CWC Northern Division customers (as of March 31, 1973) are paying exhorbitant rates for inferior water. If the MDC can provide better service at far lower cost, it should be allowed to provide that service.

Alfano concluded that it is evident that the CWC can no longer meet the needs of its Northern Division customers economically and he requests that the committee raise Senate Bill 34 and assign to it a public hearing date so CWC Northern Division customers may be given a forum and opportunity to express their opinions.

Shortened Campaigns Are Goal

HARTFORD - Secretary of State Gloria Schaffer told a legislative committee hearing recently that she supports shortening state election campaigns.

Mrs. Schaffer told the General Assembly's Elections Committee that a two month campaign period would be adequate for all candidates and would not provide an undue advantage for incumbents.

She also recommended that each party have primaries for all offices at the same time, and suggested that Sept. 10 and 12 be made the primary election days.

Although some politicians feel it would be unfair to all challenge candidates to be lumped together on the same slate, Mrs. Schaffer said the disadvantage to candidates would be outweighed by the help to voters.

"We have so many primaries scheduled throughout the calendar now that turnout is very poor and people are very confused' she said. "There can be as many as ten different primaries prior to a gubernatorial election.

St. Martha Essay Winners Boast About Their School

Students in all grades at church so we may worship Martha's School, Brainard Rd., expressed their feelings about their school in an essay contest held during "Catholic Schools Week". These are "Catholic several of the winning essays written on the theme, "What St. Martha Means to Saint Martha is a school that gets to do so many things. I know the reason why too. It's a school that works together. That means it is not only one person who has to do all of the work. There is a time for everything. There is a time for play and work. Also I learned that if you always are talking you won't get any work done. If you listen to your teacher you will always have a time for everything. I learned that from all of the teachers I had. I had Sister Mary Martha, Miss Dowden and Mrs. Drake. All of these teachers were kind. thoughtful and patient. I think St. Martha is a very lucky school to have all the and kind thoughtful teachers. We also have a

God. I am proud to go to St. Martha.

Kelly Broderick Grade 3

To me St. Martha's isn't just another school. It's a second home. Here, I get a good education and have many friends. St. Martha's may be a little more strict than other schools, but I prefer it this way. We have many important subjects such as Religion. We are learning about the love of God and the love for our country. We also have a big library. This library is well equipped with an audiovisual aid, a tape recorder and many interesting books. We have a well-trained staff of teachers who do their best to educate us and prepare us for the future.

Lisa Burke Grade 6

To me, Saint Martha's means a group of teachers teaching their students to the best of their ability. It means people helping each other to make things better. It means team work to make Saint Martha's one of the best schools. To me Saint Martha's is caring about one another and making it easier for us to get a better education. It means people dedicating their lives to something they believe in good education, good exercise of the mind and cooperation but mostly respect for others. The teachers at our school do everything they can for us, they try to make Saint Martha's one of the best schools.

Ronald St. Amand

Editor's note: I attended the assembly program at which the essay awards were presented. Included in the program were gifts of red carnations from the students to the teachers and an athletic demonstration. This was only my second visit to St. Martha, so I can unbiasly say that I have never seen a more affectionate, spirited and healthier looking group of young people, who sincerely love their school. A refreshing sight.

Educators - Parents

This past week, Enfield's raising five parochial celebrated "Catholic Schools with individual programs developed around the theme, "Catholic Schools are Different"

Of the town's student population, approximately 1300 youngsters are attending either St. Joseph's, St. Martha's, St. Bernard's, St. Adalbert's Schools or Our Lady of the Angels

Parents of these children have indicated by their choice of schools, which requires additional financial investment, that there is a difference between parochial and public education.

The concensus of opinion among the parochial schools in Enfield is that Catholic education produces not only good students and citizens good Christians. Religious education pays special attention, they feel, to the spiritual and moral guidance of students

At a time when some parochial schools in the state have been forced to close for financial reasons, most are doing more than just surviving.

Classes at Enfield parochial schools are full and through tuition, fund

However, parents who send their children to Catholic schools are expressing their belief that good grades and citizenship is not enough. Catholic education represents to them a healthy blend of formal and religious education, providing their children with the opportunity to better understand the relationship between God and Man

Development Plan Encourages Apartments

At the Somers Planning Commission's hearing on its "Comprehensive Development Plan'' last Thursday, a proposal to encourage apartment construction along Rte. 190 in the center of town and in the Somersville section. These areas are suitable to apartment construction and small lot building resulting in a density of two to eight families per acre.

According to Planning Commission member Leon Dolby, the commission formulated its plan before the town defeated the sewage treatment plant proposal in last October's referendum. If adequate sewer facilities were provided the plan would still be workable.

Under present zoning regulations multiple dwelling units are required to have at least 1,150 square feet of floor area and 175 foot frontage per house unit. While the Planning Commission did not specify any eased zoning regulations, new regulations could be developed for any proposed apartments.

Drawn together over a 17month period the Planning Commission, the "Comprehensive Development Plan" is a joint effort by the Commission and the State Department of Community Affairs to analyze town growth and recommend new patterns for development. It revealed that Somers is currently growing at a rate 300 percent higher than the state norm. For example, according to census statistics, Somers grew 60 percent during 1960-70: Enfield, 47 percent Ellington, 38 percent; and Stafford, 20 percent. The Plan is to provide guidelines for town agencies to go by.

Fermi Icemen Given Scare By Raiders

By BRIAN HALLENBECK

On Dec. 15 the Fermi hockey team buried their Enfield High counterparts

That was two months ago however, and Saturday night in the Hartford Arena the Falcons learned what a difference two months can make. With but 1.27 elapsed in the game the Raiders had pumped three goals into the Termi nets and fans were shaking their heads in disbelief.

Rene Morrisette, Tim Norm Grigley and Desrouches were the Raider scorers with Jack Mac-Donald assisting twice during the Raider's biggest offensive explosion of the season.

TURN AROUND

However, the fairy talelike opening minutes were soon reversed. The Falcon defense gradually asserted itself with tri-captain Rich Trudeau and Bill Rooney sparkling in what became a vicious, hard-checking contest. Fermi goalie, Dan Sharon recovered from the initial outburst to record twelve saves in shutting out the Raiders for the remainder of the game.

Wing Gary Cummings got the offense untracked with a goal at 3:15. Trudeau assisted on the play. Five minutes later Rich Lamagna took a pass from Cummings and beat Enfield goalie Dave Morrisette to make the score 3-2. Tri-captain Corey Fisher scored on an assist from John Bailey to knot the score after one period.

Tom Ledger and Lamagna

added goals in the second session and it was Lamagna again in the final period completing his third hat trick of the season in bringing the final tally to 6-3. Joe Cannella, Dean Buczkowski and Bill Rooney picked up assists for the Falcons.

Fermi outshot the Raiders

After the game, Falcon Coach Ed Mantenuto praised opposing coach Dick Mc-Carthy for the vast improvement in the Raiders. Mantenuto was pleased with his team's quick recovery, "We were flat in the beginning," he commented,
"But we finally got it together." The Falcons now stand at 11 wins and 9 losses in their first season.

Bugs Stevens Trying For Third Title

STAFFORD SPRINGS -Only one driver has won two championships on the asphalt at Stafford Springs Motor Speedway, Bugs Stevens.

Stevens' success at Stafford seems to happen at three year intervals, the first coming in 1968, the second in 1971. If that trend continues, 1974 should be another championship season for the veteran from Rehoboth, Mass.

The only three-time national champion in NASCAR modified history, Stevens hopes to get it all started on Sunday, April 7th in the $13,500, 80-lap Spring Sizzler at Stafford. Stevens has entered the race in two cars out of the Sonny Koszela stable of Sumit, R.I.

Stevens is one of three 'major winners" among the early entries, joining 1973 track champ Ronnie Bouchard and 1973 Loctite 200 winner and Daytona-Permatex 300 star Denis

The all-time winner at Stafford (38 features), Stevens has two top 10 finishes in the Sizzler, including a third a year ago. Giroux was second in the first event in 1972 but did not compete last year.

All three Stafford regulars are definite contenders in the race which demands an all-out, "on the edge" style.

Only 33 of an expected entry list of more than 120 will qualify for the event through a series of heat and consolation events.

The race is the highest paying, short track modified event — per distance — run in the country.

"You have to shake it all out," says Stevens. "You get no second chances in a race like this. It kind of separates the men from the boys.'

Stevens, Bouchard and Giroux are all out to follow Fred DeSarro and Ed Flemke into the Sizzler's winner circle and keep the prize at home.

Advance tickets, are currently on sale at the Speedway until March 20th.

After a brief intermission half-way thru their swimseason, the Enfield Swim Club resumed competition by meeting and beating the Newington Swim Club in the Fermi High School pool.

The meet got off to a fast start when Paula Boulanger, Lisa Oneto, Margaret Dougan and Marjorie Oppenheimer set a team record of 1:12:3 in the 100 yard Medley Relay.

Outstanding performances were turned in by Danny Ottman and Peter Beigel who each won 3 events. Ottman swimming in the 8 and under age group took first place in the 25 yard backstroke, butterfly and breaststroke. Beigel took first in the 100 yard backstroke, butterfly and breastroke in the 15 to 17 age group.

Other winners included Tommy Giordano, Marjorie Oppenheimer, David Vosburgh, Erin Lynch, Paula Boulanger, Robert Sylvester and Kathy King who set a team record in the 100 yard breaststroke with the time of 2:09:9. Final score was 252 - 212.

The Tankers nex will be Feb. 18 when the Manchester Swim Club will come to Enfield. The public is invited to attend the meet that will begin at 6:00 p.m.

Swimmers under 17 years of age may join the team. Practice is held on Monday. Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the Fermi High School pool and is open to spectators.

Victorian Craft Revived

Looking for something new in the arts and crafts field? The Scantic YWCA in Enfield will be offering a class in Leaded Stain Glass, a popular art form of the Victorian period which is enjoying a revival. The techniques and principals of cutting and soldering will be taught as well as a brief history of glass and the types of glass and tools to use.

Learn by doing. The class will be working on a different project each week. such as key rings, window hangings, etc. Professional results require only practice and a little patience.

Kits containing glass cutter and enough glass and lead for the eight weeks will be available thru the instructor Grace Morin. Because glass must be ordered in advance, registrations for the class must be completed by tomorrow. Class begins Wednesday, Mar. 6, at Fermi High School from 7:30 9:30 p.m. Call the YWCA Office at 623-7221 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for class fee and supplies students need to bring to the first class.

Census To Be Completed

The Suffield Council of Churches will make an allout effort to complete a religious census it started last year in Windsor Locks and Suffield, as part of Key 73, the nationwide Christian ecumenical movement.

The census is about 60 percent complete now, the Rev. Daniel Fiehler, council chairman of the project, said. It was a telephone census conducted by volunteers from the participating churches. It will continue to be done by telephone but the questions asked will be simplified to just two basic questions -Do you have a church affiliation? and if not, what church in the area would you prefer?

The concluding census will be held the week of February 28 - March 8. Each church involved will take cards of persons to be called. The cards will be turned over to the church indicated as prefered according to the census results

EHS Ends Home Season

By LARRY AVERY

The Enfield High School basketball team won both of its games last week as they bombed the Goodwin Tech Gladiators 72-24 and whipped their cross town rivals, the Fermi Falcons,

FINAL

On Wednesday night Enfield High School played its final home game of the season. It also marked the final home game for 6 seniors: Paul Uricchio, Jay Kurmaskie, who was injured most of the season, Mike Shirley, Ray Boucher, and Co-captains Tim Murphy and Paul DaSilva Enfield spotted Tech a lead of 4-2, then caught fire and coasted to victory. Enfield led 10-7 at the end of the first quarter. Paul DaSilva led Enfield with 6 points. In the second quarter Enfield used Mike Shirley's ten points and DaSilva's 7 to outscore the Gladiators 17-6 to take a 37-13 half lead. Allison Glaspar led Goodwin Tech with four points.

20 half

In the third quarter Enfield continued their bombardment as they outscored Tech 22-6 to take a 49-19 lead after three quarters. Paul DaSilva led Enfield with 12 points.

In the final quarter Coach John Skypeck cleared his bench. Enfield outscored Goodwin Tech 23-5. Jim Hayden led Enfield with 9 points. Paul DaSilva outscored the entire Goodwin Tech team, getting 29 points. Mike Shirley added 16

Enlists In Marines

Michael F. Richey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richey of 1160 North Rd., Suffield, enlisted in the Marine Corps today for a period of three years via the Corps' "Stashee" or "180-Day-Delay Program."

This program offers Michael the opportunity of joining now and serving later. He can stay at home up to six months prior to reporting for active service. In addition, there are no meetings or united during this period.

Michael F. Richey, who is by Howard by Howard Johnsons in Hartford, has departed for twelve weeks of training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

points, Allison Glaspar led Tech with 8.

Enfield outrebounded Goodwin Tech 45-25, led by DaSilva with 12. Shirley added 8. Enfield shot 40 per cent, making 34 of 84 while Goodwin Tech made 10 of 48 for 21 per cent.

RIVALRY

On Friday night Enfield traveled to play their cross town rivals the Fermi Falcons. In the first quarter Enfield outscored Fermi 18-10. Paul DaSilva and Jim Hayden, the hero of the first meeting, led Enfield with 6 points each. Dave Laraway led Fermi with 5 points. In the second quarter Enfield outscored Fermi 15-14 as Paul DaSilva was on the bench with three fouls. Tim Murphy led Enfield with 5 points. John Koperniak led Fermi with 6 points. Enfield led 33-24 at halftime.

SECOND HALF

In the third quarter with DaSilva still on the bench the Falcons behind Jim Sheehan, closed to within three at 35-32. In came DaSilva who, along with Murphy, sank four straight baskets to give Enfield a 43-32 lead. Enfield outscored Fermi 14-13 in the third quarter to make the score 47-37. DaSilva and Murphy led Enfield with four points each. Sheehan led Fermi with 9 points.

In the fourth and final period Enfield outscored Fermi 22-16 as the taller Raiders dominated both backboards. DaSilva and Shirley led Enfield with 6 points each. Eldon Wallen and Sheehan led Fermi with four points each.

DOUBLE COUNT

Enfield placed four men in double figures. Paul DaSilva and Jim Hayden led Enfield with 16 points each, followed very closely by Tim Murphy with 15 points. Mike Shirley added 12 points for Enfield. Jim Sheehan led Fermi with 15 points. Enfield outrebounded Fermi 62-35; a statistic which says much about the final outcome. Mike Shirley led all the rebounders with 19 followed by Paul DaSilva with 14 and Jim Hayden with 10. John Koperniak led Fermi with 10 followed by Dave Laraway

Enfield shot 45 per cent from the floor making 29 of 64. Fermi shot 8 percent from the floor making 21 of 44. Enfield made 11 of 19 foul

Advance Craft Fair Tickets

Cards entitling one of two adults to purchase 75 cent tickets for the Suffield Craft Fair for 50 cents are now available at banks and other places of business in Suffield.

The Suffield Craft Fair will be held Mar. 9 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in Second Baptist Church, Suffield. Some 30 skilled New England craftsmen will be demonstrating, selling and exhibiting their crafts.

There will also be a snack bar, Children's Craft Corner, and door prizes.

Proceeds from the Fair will benefit the Transportation Fund of the Suffield Senior Citizens

New Flag

Spaulding School of Suffield now has its own official flag on display permanently mounted in the main school corridor opposite the school office. The design of the flag was entirely student-inspired. The white flag is bordered in blue and red, and bears the words "A. Ward Spaulding School" in blue letters. Above is an eagle; below a pair of clasped hands and single stars adorn the flag's four corners. In an all-school contest last year, the eagle was voted the school symbol and red and blue chosen the school colors. The hands represent friendship, Principal Edwin Humphrey said, and the stars stand for pupils, teachers, parents and the school.

Mrs. Jean Dion, mother of three Spaulding pupils, a PTO member, sewed the four by eight foot flag. Mrs. Dorothy McCarthy, PTO president presented the flag to the Student Advisory

Windsor Supports Gateway Controversy

The Windsor Town Council voted February 15 by a vote of 4 to 3 to support Suffield in its fight to keep the Federal Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) from granting "international gateway port" status to Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks.

On hearing of Windsor's vote, H. Meade Alcorn, Suffield Town Attorney, expressed pleasure in Windsor's support.

Prime concern for Suffield, Alcorn said, is that making Bradley a "gateway would mean more flights which would lead to airport expansion with future runway extension almost inevitable toward Suffield, taking still more of Suffield land. It would also add to the traffic and noise problems already suffered by Suffield residents from Bradley field flights.

Suffield is being represented by the Washington law firm of Hyderman and Mason, specialists in such cases, Alcorn said. Preliminary briefs will be filed Mar. 11 with the CAB, he said. A hearing will probably be held in June, he said.

Search Out Bargains

Year resolution to budget and cut expenses there's still time to do so. One way to achieve these aims is to search out bargains. , Be sure, however, that what you buy is something you really need - otherwise it's not a bargain. Don't be carried away by a low price tag on something that ends up in the hallroom closet. It's a bargain only if you can really use it, according to "The Bowery" Consumer Report:

FEBRUARY: housewares, furniture, rugs, women's coats, mattresses, curtains

MARCH: china and glassware, garden supplies, housewares, luggage.

APRIL: Fabrics, founand lingerie, ladies' shoes, dations hosiery, sleepwear, men's and boy's clothing.

MAY: Home furnishings, jewelry, luggage, outdoor furniture, white goods, handbags, television sets.

JUNE: Bedding, floor coverings, foundations and lingerie, furniture, hosiery, ladies' shoes, men's and boy's wear, sleepwear, lumber

JULY: Fabrics, furniture, furs, washing machines, refrigerators, swim suits, garden supplies.

AUGUST: Bedding, furniture, furs, white goods, camping equipment, paint, hardware

SEPTEMBER: China and glassware, men's and boy's wear, sporting goods, backto-school specials, fabrics. OCTOBER: Major appliances, evening wear, furniture, home furnishings, outerwear, skiing supplies. NOVEMBER: Major

Major appliances, china and glassware, gourmet food, Christmas toys, silverware, white goods.

DECEMBER: Resort and cruise wear, after December 21st - toys and gift items women's and girl's coats, and men's and boy's winter suits and coats.

Remember, though, that with careful shopping, you can frequently find these

Scantic YWCA Offers Winter Evening Classes

Registration for the Scantic YWCA evening classes will be held Feb. 27-28 from 7-9 p.m. at Fermi High School. Many varied classes of interest to both men and women will be offered during the eight week session which will begin March 4th.

Monday night's program will feature three dancing classes. Ballet for children will be offered from 6-7 p.m. at Fermi High School. Cathy Crane will instruct the group of boys and girls ranging in age from 5-10 years in muscle development, coordination, balance and poise. Ballet for Adults will be offered from 7-8 p.m. and will include coordination, balance, flexibility and rhythm. For those interested in a bit of nostalgia, Dancing of the 50's and Jazz will be offered from 8-9 p.m. Jane Wilson and David Potter will take the class through such dances as the Stroll, Twist, Mash Potato, Jitter Bug plus the principles of modern jazz.

On Tuesday night a course in Slimnastics will be held from 7-8 p.m. under the instructorship of Ann Ryder. Here is a good chance to improve and tone winter weary muscles. A course on natural foods will also be offered on Tuesday from 7:30-8:30. Elwood Exley will teach preparing, compositing, planting and growing organic gardens. He will also teach organic cooking, canning and preserving for a total look to natural foods.

Wednesday evening the YWCA has planned Crocheting for Beginners from 7-8:30. Ann Peltier will give instruction on the basic stitches plus choosing, planning and adapting a pattern. Needlepoint will also be offered from 7-9 p.m.

Dorothy Lawrence will cover planning, working, and finishing of a sample, pillow or wall hanging which will incorporate 16 different stitches. Leaded Stain Glass is planned from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Grace Morin will give instruction that covers the history and types of glass plus tools and procedures for cutting and leading. Several different projects will be undertaken during the Advanced registration is required by February 26th to ensure a supply kit for those participating. The art of Mideastern dancing or Belly Dancing will also be offered on Wednesday. Tonya will teach two classes, one from 7-8 p.m. — the other from 8-9 p.m. Thursday night the YWCA will offer Beginners Bridge from 7:30-9 p.m. under the instruction of Ann Jaworowski.

All of the YWCA evening classes will be held at Fermi High School. Registration may be made at Fermi High on Feb. 27-28 or by calling the YWCA office at 124 Main St., Enfield, 623-7221. The office is open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Senior Citizens' Talent

Enfield Senior Citizens celebrated St. Valentine's Day with their first annual "Senior Citizen's Talent Show" Thursday evening. The "star studded' showcase of talent, "the likes of which Ted Mack couldn't book", highlighted the party sponsored by the Calvary Presbyterian Church members, but will be held at St. Joseph's School Auditorium, Pearl St. Ext.

Beginning at 7:30 with a peppy sing-a-long accompanied by Mrs. William O'Neill, World War I Veterans ushered. The Fermi High School Band performed; talent included Mr. and Mrs. Byron Mohrbacher vocal and accordian duets, Philip Sheridan singing "The One Rose" and "On the Shores of Italy", a medley from the Enfield Terrace Chorus. Mrs. Anna Campbell prepared a special poem; Mrs. Florence Johnson did a novelty number; Benjamin Mankus sang "My Little Girl"; Sam Collura performed as a "one man band" and Adolph Bauer as cellist. The program closed with the Golden Age Club Chorus and refreshments.

Broad Brook Insurance Agency, Inc.

Serving Hartford County with full-line casualty insurance, life, and group plans . . . since 1922.

A chat with the men who comprise the professional talent of Broad Brook Insurance Agency yields insights into why casualty insurance is considered specialized work within the broad and complex activities of the insurance industry, yet is itself complex and fast-changing, and necessary coverage for nearly every class of business and social activity.

Disturbances in our general economy in recent years, with the shrinking dollar and alternate heat-ups and cool-offs in quick frequency, compound the complexities for businessmen, a condition which seems to make professional insurance counseling more important than ever before, and which sends insurance men back to their school books and seminars.

If a hundred different kinds of business need a hundred individualized policies, it follows that 5000 different businesses, homes, and farms may need 5000 policies and should expect, at least, specialized attention from their insurance man.

Broad Brook Insurance is a case in point for the value of experience and personalized service in troublesome times. The company's affairs are presided over by Hamilton W. Sargent, the president. He's helped by Austin E. Grindle, a 12-year associate, and by Arthur Hambleton, who merged his business with Broad Brook about 18months ago.

Broad Brook represents five major companies — AETNA-CNS, AETNA Insurance Co., the Hartford Insurance Group, National Fire Insurance Co., and U.S.F. & G. This is major league activity by a top team.

The men write life policies in all age groups, accident and health group plans for as few as three people, but are basically an expert team in the casualty field — for businesses, homes, and farms.

Brook, of course, at 79 Main St., phone 623-8261.

Triangle Pacific Home Center Expands Retail Activity In Suffield

The fast growth of Suffield's huge Triangle Pacific Home Center, from a four-acre facility at 157 Mountain Rd. to 18-acres in only six years, is an indication of the vigor of Hartford County's construction industry, and of the broad resources of the industry's suppliers who expand activities when buyers demand new housing, new commercial buildings, and remodeling.

Triangle Pacific is an oldtimer in the business of supplying contractors with dimensional lumber, flooring, sheating, roofing, paint, etc., and has become the largest manufacturer of kitchen cabinets in the United States. The company has always been "on the move" with expansions to meet particular requirements of the specific communities they serve.

They also deliver new building products as soon as they are available from manufacturers and mills. At competitive prices, too.

The Suffield operation has been particularly interested in serving home owners and small contractors thru its facility on Mountain Rd. An example of the firm's utility is its recently new plant where roof trusses and floor trusses are constructed.

Latest word from the Suffield management is that 1974 will bring special emphasis on serving the general public and small contractors. They're getting started now by increasing inventories of lumber, general supplies, tools, and materials. They've hired a new manager for the retail store.

Expect other announcements soon. Suffield apparently will be the home for a new Triangle Pacific mill to build doors and windows.

The dominant spirit this winter at TPHC is confidence. Everybody is looking ahead to an early spring and a vigorous start by builders, do-it-yourself homeowners, and by all of our areas' specialty contractors.

Anybody need a new garage, new fence, room addition, utility building . . .?

VNA Busy, As Usual

January was a typically busy month for the Enfield Visiting Nurse Association. 257 visits were made to patients requiring nursing care at home. In areas of health promotion, guidance and counselling, the nurses visited 52 families.

During this month, the Professional Advisory Committee met at the Agency's office to review policies for the coming year.

Nearly 69 children were seen at the monthly Well-Child Clinic which has been medically supervised by Dr. John Matthews. For the next year, Dr. Nason Hamlin of the Enfield Medical Group will serve as Physician for the Clinic. There are physical examinations for a limited number of children and a complete immunization program available at this Clinic

Marek Jewelers STATE LINE PLAZA Elm Street, Enfield

Mon., Tues., Wed. Sat. 9:30 to 6:00 Thursday and Friday 9:30-9:30

For every hundred dollars you keep in a savings bank you get only this much more interest than you get at CBT.

But $300 on deposit in a Regular Savings Account at CBT gets you more than $19.00 worth of free personal checking.* And that's worth a lot more than the quarter of one percent additional interest you get at any savings bank. (Not to mention the convenience of doing all your banking in one place. These days, that's worth a lot of quarters.) In more ways than one, your savings at CBT add up to more. On the Bottom Line.
