Vella To Meeting In Washington

State Rep. Rosario T. Vella (R-59) has been invited to meet with vice-president Gerald R. Ford and two Cabinet officials at a national conference for consumer-office administrators June 19-21 in Washington, D.C.

CONSUMER

The sessions, convened by Director Virginia H. Knauer of the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs, will take up a number of proposals for which Rep. Vella has been pressing in two roles — as a legislator and as chairman of the Eastern Regional Consumer Protection Committee of the Council of State Governments.

They include consumer education and information programs, for which Rep. Vella provided in a bill he sponsored in the 1974 Legislature; landlord-tenant relations, subject of another Vella bill, and the use of volunteers, students, and paralegal aides in consumer matters.

A Small Claims Court reform bill introduced by Vella in the '74 session provided for the use of paralegal aides and volunteers in the court.

Signs Ruled Not Illegal

As a result of a state Supreme Court decision, Section 11-87 entitled "nonconforming signs" of Chapter 11, Zoning, of the Enfield Town Charter, is no good.

Section 11-87 reads, "Any sign legally existing at the time of the effective date of this article (December 15, 1966) which does not conform with the requirements of this article shall be made to conform with such requirements within five years after the effective date. (11-3-66, 15-5)"

The decision was handed down during the December 1973 term of the high court against the Town of West Hartford and in favor of the James J. F. Loughlin Agency, Inc.

Poppy Week Push

Mayor Frank Mancuso has issued a proclamation designating this week as Buddy Poppies Week.

In issuing the proclamation, Mancuso said the sacrifices of those who have lost their lives, their health, or their livelihood as a result of their military service are the concern of all citizens.

He said the annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars offers an opportunity for the people of Enfield to express their solicitude for those unfortunate persons who have paid more than their share of the cost of freedom.

Day Given To Older Americans

Older Americans Day was celebrated in Enfield with a ceremony at the Town Hall in Council Chambers.

Mayor Frank Mancuso, Town Manager, Sam Kissinger, and Councilman Dick Cressotti met with the Senior Citizens. Town department heads were introduced.

Following the ceremony, a tour of Town Hall was given and refreshments were served.

Checking On Arson

Paul Censki, fire marshal of the North Thompsonville and Thompsonville Fire Districts, inspects boarded-up section at Enfield Plaza, following an explosion and fire earlier this week. Although five stores suffered damage to some extent, said Censki, the damage could have been disastrous had the sprinkler system failed. Censki labeled the incident definitely as arson, saying there were several unaccountable containers of gasoline and a snuffed-out candle in the cellar of one of the stores.

Fr. Paul

1972, when he retired on the advice of his physicians.

"Father Paul", as he is affectionately known to young and old in Enfield, had suffered a heart attack, perhaps brought on by the tireless devotion to his office and his ministering around the clock to those in need of his counsel.

The Rev. Paul Bartlewski, a native of New Britain, received his primary education at the Sacred Heart Parish School of that city, and then completed his secondary and college education at St. John Kanty's in Erie, Pennsylvania.

After serving in the U.S. Army in World War I, Rev. Bartlewski studied philosophy and theology at the University of Fribourg, Switzerland, where he was ordained into the Holy Priesthood in 1924, and sang his first Mass at the Ursuline Church of that city.

After returning to the United States, his assignments took him to Willimantic, Stamford and Meriden, and in each of these communities he acquitted himself with honor, zeal, and love.

In recognition of Father Paul's outstanding service to the parishes of his assignments, he was appointed pastor of St. Adalbert's Church in Enfield in 1938. The rest is history. Under his long and devoted, energetic and tireless leadership the parish prospered, even though Father Paul assumed his duties there during the Great Depression.

Credit also goes to the Rev. Paul Bartlewski for the building of the beautiful school, which is part of St. Adalbert's, and bears his name and also for the St. Adalbert's Convent.

Although Father Paul's principal activities have naturally been associated with Enfield, his reputation as a clergyman of great compassion, with an ever present willingness to help, has brought to his study men and women in need of counselling from all over Connecticut and Massachusetts.

These people, not always of the Roman Catholic faith, always left Father Paul with renewed faith, courage, hope, and peace of mind. Nobody who knocked on Father Paul's door was ever turned away.

LITTLE THINGS

They do mean a lot. Over the years, we've learned to think of all the little extra things that will make our service more helpful to the family.

Woman To Consumer Job In A&P

SPRINGFIELD — Barbara Doran Sullivan of New York City today was appointed by The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, Inc. to the newly-created post of national director of consumer affairs in an expansion of A&P consumer relations activities.

John J. Cairns Jr. vice-president, merchandising and national director of sales, announced that Mrs. Sullivan, who previously served in a similar capacity with Kayser-Roth's Armo Division, assumed her new office at company headquarters May 6.

Cairns said Mrs. Sullivan, a former food and cookbook editor for Good Housekeeping magazine, was selected to develop and direct programs that will enable A&P to relate more closely to customer interests and to serve as the consumer's advocate within the company.

A native of Boston, Mrs. Sullivan holds a home economics degree from Regis College with post graduate study at Boston University and here at the New School of Social Research. Before joining Good Housekeeping, she was a home economics teacher in Wellesley, Mass. She also is national legislative chairman of Home Economists in Business.

Clydesdale Horses At Enfield Square

The Budweiser Champion Clydesdale horses are coming to Enfield Square Saturday, May 25, from 11:00 to 3:00 in the west side parking area of the shopping center.

The Enfield Square shopping center is one of the stops the 8-Horse Hitch will make this year as they travel the country.

TRAVELERS

The Budweiser Clydesdales are probably the most widely traveled horses in the United States, covering some 40,000 miles a year as they appear in parades, state fairs, horse shows, and other special events.

Although Clydesdales are of pure Scottish ancestry, they are now raised in the United States and Canada as well as Scotland.

Anheuser Busch, Inc.

established its own breeding operation several years ago to assure the continuity of the company's famous eight-horse hitch with Clydesdales that meet rigid standards for proper color, size, weight, and conformation.

Recently, August A. Busch, Jr., offered for the first time the company's famous Clydesdale stallions for free stud service to members of the Clydesdale Breeders Association in the United States and Canada. Busch said the offer was made by the company because of "its interest and desire to help perpetuate the breed."

CENTURIONS

To compliment the Clydesdale appearance, the Centurions Drum and Bugle Corps will give a fifteen minute performance at 12:30 p.m. in the parking area. The Centurions offer a fine outlet for the energies of young people.

Starting with 27 members in 1967, the Corps now numbers 75 young people from Enfield, Hazardville, Somers and Windsor Locks. In 1970 the members traveled over 4,800 miles making 53 appearances in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island and New York.

Besides providing travel, excitement and comradeship, the Drum Corps teaches discipline, neatness, responsibility and musical ability. The Centurions Drum and Bugle Corps represent a proud group of young people active in the communities surrounding Enfield, Connecticut.

Enfield Square is an enclosed 54 store shopping center, located on Elm Street, just off I-91. Store hours are from 10:00 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

New JC Officers

president; Peter Falk, treasurer and Ray Vella, chairman of the board. Missing at phototime were Don Fleming, state director and Jack Lindgren, secretary.

Centurions Play With New Sound

"The Town of Enfield will hear a 'new sound in music' as the Centurions Drum and Bugle Corps presents its new repertoire for the first time in public this Memorial Weekend.

With the color guard attired in Roman togas, the Horn and Drum line will play selections from Ben-Hur, at the Enfield Square on Saturday, May 25, at 12:30, in conjunction with the showing of the Clydsdales.

Sunday the Corps will march in the Windsor Locks Memorial Day Parade cosponsored by the American Legion and VFW Posts of Windsor Locks.

Enfield's observance of Memorial Day on Monday, May 27, will find the Centurions in their first Town Parade.

Monday's parade will culminate the first of many busy weekends throughout the summer season of competition and parades.

Saturday and Sunday the Corps will be in full rehearsal at Camp Hartell in Windsor Locks. Time of assembly and departure will be announced to members."

ordinance the following year.

The court ruled the nonconforming signs erected prior to the enactment of the new sign regulations, did not have to be dismantled but could stand as long as they remained in use.

Last year, the Town of Enfield went on a concentrated campaign against businesses having nonconforming signs, threatening some with police arrest if the signs were not removed.

A notable case of the town's action was when the towering sign at the Enfield Plaza was dismantled with many town officials present, including the town planner with his camera, the town building inspector, the police chief, to witness the great town victory.

Also present at the dismantling were many area news photographers and reporters, called by town officials to record and report the great town victory.

New England Going To Birds

New England is now the home of a dozen or more species of birds that would have been rarities here just a few years ago, according to the Connecticut Audubon Society.

HERON FAMILY

Some of these bird newcomers have generally been considered tropical, or sub-tropical, and are quite spectacular. Among those are several members of the heron family, including the white, stately American egret, which stands almost four feet high on long, black legs.

The American egret's smaller but even more showy cousin, the snowy egret, also resides in Connecticut during the warmer months. Sporting long, feathery plumes and golden feet, the snowy egret stalks the shallow waters of both Long Island Sound and inland marshes in search of frogs and other water creatures that are its prey.

Another white egret, the cattle egret, is now common here in summer. That creature, which has spread naturally from the Old World to the Americas, is white, but during breeding season is marked with rusty plumes.

BREEDING

The American egret, cattle egret and snowy egret are breeding here, as is the little blue heron, which was seldom seen a decade ago. More recently the yellow crowned night heron has begun to raise its young in Connecticut state, and the Louisiana heron — reddish-brown, white and blue-gray — has appeared in a few localities.

Perhaps the most spectacular new breeder, however, is the glossy ibis, a large wading bird with long legs and long, downcurved bill. That relative of the vivid scarlet ibis of the tropics has metallic chestnut coloring with greenish feathers on its wings. Generally a bird of warm climes, it began appearing in the summer in Connecticut a few years ago and now is nesting on islands in Long Island Sound.

WHY HERE?

No one is sure why large wading birds such as egrets and ibises have moved into the region, but according to David Junkin, assistant director of the Connecticut Audubon Society, it may be that the birds are better protected in the south, the location of their main rookeries, or breeding colonies.

While those birds have been protected under law for decades, enforcement of the law has been somewhat lax, especially in the areas where the birds breed.

Wading birds generally gather in vast colonies to have and rear their young and at that time are easy targets. Recently, however, protection has been increased in the areas of the southeastern states where the largest rookeries are located, Junkin says. More birds have reproduced, populations have swelled, and some birds have moved to the north.

The increased popularity of winter bird feeders has brought other, smaller birds north into our area, added Junkin. Those include the cardinal and titmouse. Mockingbirds have moved north because of the increased ornamental use of some of the plants whose fruits they eat, such as the high-bush cranberry.

An exhibit of specimens and pictures of birds new to our region will be on display at the Headquarters of the Connecticut Audubon Society, 2325 Burr Street, Fairfield, open every day except Monday.

Back Up To Speed LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The 55 miles per hour speed limit on the highways doesn't seem to mean anything any more.

Now that gasoline is more plentiful; long waiting lines at service stations have disappeared; and despite warnings that while the energy crisis is over, a problem still remains; motorists are falling back on their old driving habits and ignoring the posted speed limits which were imposed for a particular purpose.

When almost everyone was observing the speed laws, statistics showed that there was a considerable saving in fuel, but most important there were fewer accidents and fewer fatalities. Also, there was a willingness on the part of many operators to join car pools, and respond to pleas to curtail unnecessary driving.

There are some drivers who are conscientiously obeying the 55 miles per hour speed limit — even keeping it down to 50, where most of the fuel saving is made.

But, anyone driving at 50, or even 55, on the state's turnpikes and expressways are seeing most of the traffic in the passing lanes, moving at 60 or 65, and sometimes even faster. Not only passenger cars, but trucks and buses, too.

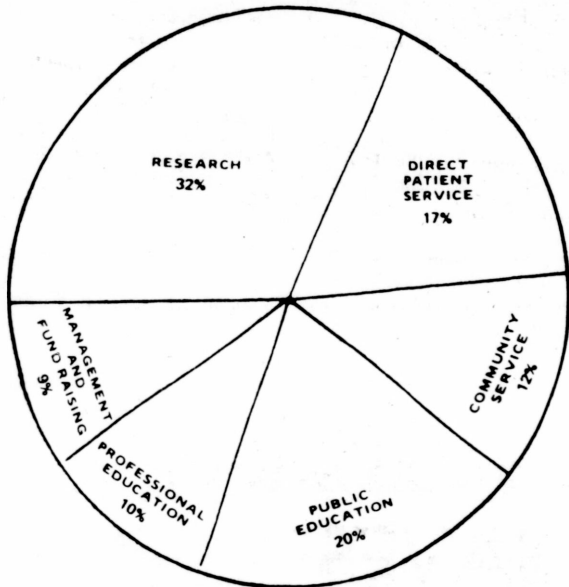

The fact that the price of gasoline has soared as much as 25 cents or more per gallon compared with less than a year ago, and one can get more mileage at the legal speeds, doesn't seem to matter any more.

And it is our impression that the highways are not being policed as rigidly as when fuel was scarce, and just about everyone was using it sparingly.

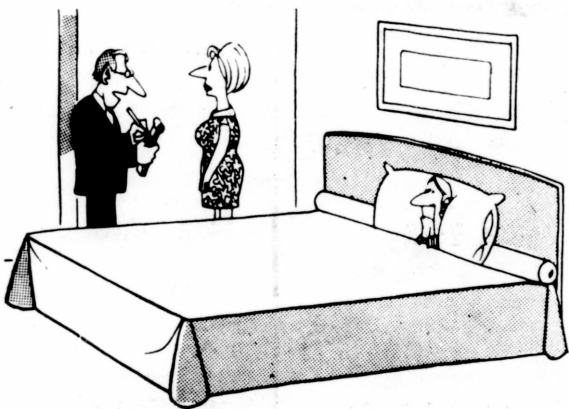

We have been cautioned that unless the conservation measures which were observed when the fuel shortage was critical are continued, we could be in for hard times again, and that could mean the return of waiting lines at the pumps, and even higher prices.

And, unless motorists pay attention to the posted speed limits, accidents will be on the increase, and there will be a higher rate of fatalities.

Even at lower speeds there are risks in driving these days. Why increase the odds against getting where you want to go by trying to get there faster with a heavy foot on the accelerator?

This chart, furnished by the American Cancer Society, shows how the funds from the cancer crusade in Enfield are used. More than one third are directly available to help the fight against the disease in North central Connecticut.

Breaking Down Old Ideas

By DR. DAN McLAUGHLIN

I have often been asked about our college calendar. Most people have become use to the idea that schools operate from September to June on a two-semester basis. Asnuntuck Community College has what we call a modular calendar of both short and long units running at the same time. Hopefully, we will soon be able to have college on a year around basis.

I always feel funny when someone asks me this question because I wonder what we are doing holding school of any level on the basis of an agrarian calendar. Years ago, there was sense to our calendar of two semesters, September through June, because students were needed on the farm during the summertime to plant and harvest the crops. In some areas of the country, schools are still based on the need for labor during peak employment seasons. And sometimes these peak employment seasons are not during the summer period.

As a kid in a one-room schoolhouse, I can remember being out of school quite often to help on farms with a variety of activities like potato-picking. This made sense in a society that was dependent upon labor to do the agricultural duties necessary for livelihood.

However, today many of the agricultural activities are done by mechanized equipment. Most of the children in schools do not live on farms and are not needed or used to do those things we use to do as kids. But we still go on with an academic calendar as if students were needed on a farm. This does not make sense to me especially when a lot of money is spent on school buildings and they stand vacant many hours during the day and year.

I was formerly with a private college that built a number of dormitories during the student enrollment explosion in colleges. Now, those same dorms, mainly because they are not full and are not being used in the summertime, will undoubtedly cause that college to go into bankruptcy. This is unfortunate.

As a state institution, we feel quite obligated to operate as many hours a day and as many days out of the year as possible. Our current day-long schedule calls for classes to be held some 14 or 15 hours a day. Our academic calendar, except for this coming summer, when we will be moving into a new building, will call for almost continual usage of our facilities for academic work.

However, I find it interesting to be in this area, supporting the idea of school during the summer months only to find that most people think only dumb people go to school in the summer time. This seems to come from backgrounds that indicated that the slow students in the public schools were forced to take courses during the summer time. Such is not the case at a college.

With the energy crisis, the increased cost of gas, and the statement that is so often made by energy people that more people are going to stay home this year, perhaps we will come to the position that attending college in the summertime is a good way to spend a vacation. I can hear you laugh all the way to my office.

However, that is another fault that I see with us educators in that we have made education or learning a very painful experience. Learning can be very exciting and just personally rewarding. But I think for us to do that in this current day and age, means that we have to break down some of the old ideas that we have held about education.

For example, I have often mentioned a merger of a technical high school and a community college. The first reaction of many people, especially parents, is that we shouldn't mix young adults and college students of all ages. I disagree in that in the real world these people are mixed with a great variety of ages. This would especially be true in a work situation.

Perhaps, one of the weaknesses of our current day society is that we have separated the ages so much, especially the older citizens. Again, as a young child, I can remember the older people often taking care of us younger one and giving us a much needed haven of love when our parents were giving us lickings. That opportunity does not exist today and I find it unfortunate.

Next time you are out driving or walking, notice the mixture of ages. It is not unnatural. Notice too the school buildings and ask yourself, "Why not spend a few more dollars and operate all public institutions of education on a year around basis?"

See you next time.

Academy Commencement Tuesday

The 141st Commencement Week Program of Suffield Academy will start Saturday with the Spring Sports Banquet at 6 p.m. On Sunday the Baccalaureate Service will be held in Second Baptist Church at 11 a.m. The Senior Dinner will be held Monday at 7 p.m.

The 141st Commencement Exercises will be held Tuesday at 11 a.m. at The Bell (weather permitting) followed by the traditional Bell Ceremony of farewell by the graduating class at 12 noon. At 12:30 p.m. there will be luncheon in Brewster Hall.

The Class of 1974 includes several from the Northern Connecticut area. They are: Brian Adler, Somers; Greg Johnson, Steven Kosakowski, Frank Scanlon, and Robert Tatoian, all of Enfield; and John Kennedy and Thomas Leonard of Windsor Locks.

Also in the class are these, all from Suffield: Kevin Armata, Blair Childs, Albert Hancock, David Lally, John Moritz, Lee Roberts, Richard Romeo, Peter Rossato, Paul Sanderson and Chapman King.

Paul G. Sanderson, Jr.,

headmaster of Suffield Academy, is pleased to announce that Dr. Robert B. Binswanger will be the keynote speaker at the school's 141st commencement on Tuesday at 11 a.m.

A native of Philadelphia, Dr. Binswanger is a graduate of Deerfield Academy (Mass.). He received his A.B. degree from Dartmouth College and both his M.A. and Ph.D. from Harvard University. Since 1970 Dr. Binswanger has been the Director of the Experimental Schools Program originally in the U.S. Office of Education and now in the National Institute of Education.

The Experimental School Program was created as a result of President Nixon's Message of Education Reform in March 1970, where he called for a special effort to "bridge the gap between basic research and actual school practices." Representing more than a $50,000,000 commitment, this pioneering program supports seven major projects located in twenty one sites. All projects deal with the question: will educational change be more lasting and successful if undertaken in a comprehensive design than if done in a piecemeal fashion?

Dr. Binswanger came to the Office of Education from Harvard University where he had been an Assistant Professor of Education for five years. During that period he also served as Director of the Advanced Administrative Institute of Harvard and as a research associate of the Center of Studies in Educational Development.

Entering the teaching ranks as an instructor of English and History at Deerfield Academy from 1955 to 1960, Dr. Binswanger then became a teaching assistant to Dean Francis Keppel (later U.S. Commissioner of Education) in 1959-60. From 1960-61 he was a teaching fellow at the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

The following two years Dr. Binswanger served with the early Peace Corps staff in Washington, D.C. where he was responsible for the development of new training programs. During the next three years he served as Executive Director of the Program for Action by Citizens in Education (PACE) in Cleveland, Ohio.

Dr. Binswanger was a panelist at the 1965 White House Conference on Education. He served in 1966-67 as Chairman of the Board of Directors of Schools for the Future. In 1968, he was Executive Director of an extensive study on the future of Catholic education in the archdiocese of New York. He has also served as a consultant to government agencies, large city school systems, and many professional associations and organizations.

High School Evaluation Accurate

A recent educators' evaluation of the Somers High School complex calls the school a "good school" but has been most critical of the internal "atmosphere" at the school.

The newly released report by the New England Association of School and Colleges, reports "pessimism, mistrust, misinterpretation and misunderstanding" within the school. The "students do not have a good image of the school."

While giving the school high ratings in many areas, other areas are suffering from lack of space and budgeting. Future accreditation of the school will be based on the report. The association will grant up to 10 years accreditation but usually grants it for a shorter period of time.

Somers has been commended for setting up a planning committee to evaluate and project future needs of the school. The association felt, however, that "physical conditions" are too restrictive. Many departmental facilities need to be expanded. General renovation and update of the plant would appear also to be needed.

The library, which only seats 25, should be updated and turned into a media center. Foreign languages, home economics and industrial arts programs need more consideration in the education budget. In the case of home economics and industrial arts, more money is needed for materials due to rising costs.

A coordinated health education program should also be stressed.

Foreign languages need more money for supplementary, instructional material.

The areas of art, English, industrial arts, music, physical education and science departments were commended for a good rapport between teachers and students.

Accurate

Somers Board of Education chairman, Patricia Warner, has termed the new high school evaluation as "extremely accurate". It was more favorable than unfavorable. Evaluation sections, including praising of teachers and administrators outweighed the criticism of the school.

The problem of discipline was not as evident to the evaluation committee as to the school community. Three recommendations were made regarding the situation: that the Board of Education carry out all professional and official relationships with high school administrators through the superintendent; that procedures be established to specify and clarify various roles and responsibilities within many segments of the school community; and that the leadership role of the principal be clearly defined.

The discipline issue became town-wide when a "skip-day" took place last May. Parents then pressured the school board to fire James Sanford. Since then, Sanford is not as involved in the discipline role as he once was but is still under scrutiny for reasons the board will not as yet make public.

Counselor's Salary Held

Although some 95 parents signed a petition last year urging the Somers Board of Education to ask for guidance counselor Charles Savage's resignation, Savage has remained with the school system.

At their board meeting the committee decided unanimously to hold the salary of the counselor at its present level though he was eligible for a raise under the school system's latest salary schedule. To date, the reasons for this action are still not public information due to a provision in the state's right-to-know law.

In discussions with the DEP Solid Waste Disposal Section recently, the DEP said that Somers could continue to use the section of the dump already in use but no doubt the dump would be put out of service within five years.

So that sludge will not leach into nearby streams the DEP has indicated that the new dumping spot will have to be high and dry.

Sewer Suit Pending

Somers is facing a possible $350,000 judgment against the town in a lawsuit brought by the engineering firm which designed last year's referendum defeated sewer system. To date no provision has been made in the town budget to this.

According to Board of Finance Chairman, Robert Kenney, the town's credit rating is in good standing if it becomes necessary to borrow money if the courts uphold the engineering firm's claims.

The suit, filed by Fenton G. Keyes Associates of Providence, maintains that the town should be made to pay the damages on two counts: first, that the town defaulted on the contract by not paying the total billed to it by the engineers; and, second, that the work done is "reasonably worth $381,000 with the town having paid only $154,000 leaving $227,000 unpaid.

Town Atty. Michael Mack has indicated that the second count was filed by the engineers in case the court finds the contract would not be void in the first count.

The town bases its case on the claim that the contract is void since it was not approved at a town meeting. Following the town's laws including the approval of the contract was the responsibility of the engineers, according to the contract.

An abandonment clause in the contract, indicates that the engineers are entitled to twice the salary costs of the work already done, plus reimbursement of all expenses if the project was not completed.

Presently Mack is waiting for expense and pay records to be sent to him by the engineers which may show whether the firm is entitled to reimbursement under the abandonment clause.

BANQUET SEASON
PICKS UP

Sometimes the banquet schedule gets a little crowded but I try to make as many of them as possible. Right now I have four banquets scheduled between June 4 and June 14.

It all starts with an Annual Sports Banquet at the State Receiving Home June 4. The next one is the next night, June 5, when I plan to attend the Enfield High School Booster Club third annual athletic awards banquet. Norm Daniels, former football and baseball coach at Wesleyan University will be the principle speaker at that affair.

On June 8 I attend the banquet (the 15th I think) of the league that I try to bowl in. That is followed by a dance. Then I finish up the 10 day period on the 14th at the Enrico Fermi High School Booster Club's fourth annual sports night and banquet. It is a torrid pace for the stomach.

COOKING

Although you always hear about the rubber chicken circuit, as some sports writers call it, I feel that I am lucky to be in Enfield where they know how to cook other things. There may be chicken at one of the banquets on my schedule, and if there is I am sure it will be cooked to perfection.

If you see a paunchy sports writer walking around town after the 14th you'll know who it is.

FLYERS WRAP UP BRUINS

Yes, the Flyers from the City of Brotherly Love did wrap up the Bruins and this should wrap up hockey for another season.

I had picked the Bruins to win it and I still feel they could have if they had played the game the way they are capable of playing. Not to take anything away from the Flyers.

The first few games looked like the battle of Waterloo but at least the Flyers won it in a good display of hockey talents in the final game.

It is not good for any sport to be dominated by a team or even two or three teams. It creates more interest when different teams win the championships.

EXPANSION

The Flyers are the first expansion team to do it in the National Hockey League and they really did deserve the win. Kate Smith seems to be quite a good luck charm for the Flyers. I wonder if they will blame her if they have a losing season.

The Flyers must have been hungrier than the Bruins. There was only a difference of $4000 between winning and losing and that doesn't mean so much to higher paid players like Orr

ATTEND BASEBALL
CLINIC

It wouldn't be a bad idea for you parents of Little Leaguers, and parents of children who are not in organized baseball to take advantage of the baseball clinic to be held on July 13 at 2 p.m. at Muzzy Field in Bristol.

Members of the Bristol Red Sox baseball team will be on hand to teach youngsters between the ages of 8 and 15 the fundamentals of the game.

Although most coaches do stress the fundamentals there is sometimes too much emphasis placed on winning rather than on developing the talents of the boys and letting them learn the game at their own pace. This is their chance to get some valuable information from players who are really active in the sport.

The clinic is part of "Lung Power Day" of the Christmas Seal-Lung Association to emphasize the important relationship between healthy lungs and sports achievement. It should be a worthwhile experience.

Parade Of Little Leaguers

By LARRY AVERY
The Enfield High School baseball team played four games last week, winning two and losing two.

INDIANS
The Raiders traveled to West Hartford to play the Northwest Catholic Indians and came back with a 7-2 loss. Northwest Catholic scored twice in the first inning. Pete Coppel singled to right to start the inning, stole second and moved to third on Gusprete's infield hit.

Coppel then scored as he and Prete pulled off a double steal. After Tom Kearney struck out Mike Flaherty singled to right to score Prete.

Enfield scored once in the second as Tim Crowley reached on a fielders choice, stole second and went to third as John Faulkner, attempting to throw Crowley out, threw the ball into center field for an error. John Carollo drew a walk, giving Enfield runners on first and third. Jay Kurmaskie then hit a bouncer to short to score Crowley.

The Indians scored three more times in the third. Gus Prete opened the inning with a single to right. Tom Kearney followed with a sacrifice bunt sending Prete to second. Mike Flaherty reached on a fielders' choice to give the Indians runners on first and third. John Faulkner then reached on an error by Mike Peluso to load the bases. Dennis McMahon followed with a single to center, scoring Prete and Flaherty — after Jack Sully struck out, Mark Sullivan singled to right to score Faulkner.

Enfield scored its last run in the sixth. Mike Peluso singled to left to open the inning, stole second, moved to third on Joe Dippel's infield out and scored on Mike Krikorian's infield hit.

Northwest Catholic scored its final two runs in the seventh. Gus Prete walked to open the inning. Tom Kearney followed with a single to center giving the Indians runners on first and second. Mike Flaherty then tripled to left to score Prete and Kearney.

NIGHT GAME
Enfield played in Middletown against the Xavier Falcons in a night game. The Raiders used five hit pitching by Jay Kurmaskie to defeat Xavier 8-1. Enfield scored its first run in the second after one out. John Carollo singled to center, stole second and went to third as Matt Hoey's throw went into center. Bill Demur then singled to left to score Carollo.

Enfield scored three more times in the fifth.

Bill Demur started the inning by singling to left. Jay Kurmaskie followed with a double to right sending Demur to third. Ed McCoy grounded to the pitcher for the first out. Vern Badger's bunt single scored Demur and sent Kurmaskie to third. Mike Peluso then made a perfect bunt in front of the plate to score Kurmaskie. Badger scored when the catcher, Matt Hoey, dropped pitcher Steve Cannata's throw to the plate.

Enfield scored another run in the sixth after one out. Mike Krikorian drew a walk, John Carollo singled to left sending Krikorian to second. Bill Demur then popped to third for the second out. Jay Kurmaskie punched a single to right to score Krikorian and send Carollo to third.

The Falcon's only run came in the seventh after one out. Wayne Perolo singled to center, Ed McMann flied out to right for the second out. Steve Cannata then tripled to left to score Pegolo.

Enfield scored two more runs in the eighth with two out. Mike Krikorian drew a walk. John Carollo reached on an error by second basemen Jim Satagaj sending Krikorian to third. Carollo stole second and went to third on another error by Satagaj as Krikorian scored. Bill Dermur doubled to left to score Carollo.

Enfield added its final run in the ninth. Vern Badger reached on a fielders' choice, stole second and scored on Mike Peluso's single to center. Jay Kurmaskie went the distance to pick up his fifth win in seven decisions. He walked two, struck out twelve and allowed five hits.

CATHEDRAL
On Friday Enfield hosted the Cathedral Purple Panthers of Springfield. Enfield won its final home game of the year by a score of 9 to 6.

Cathedral scored once in the first. Jim Connery reached on a fielders' choice, stole second, moved to third on Brian Jarry's infield hit and scored on Bob Chmura's infield out.

Enfield tied it in their half of the first. Mike Peluso started the inning by singling to right and stole second. Vern Badger struck out. Joe Dippel then lined a shot to left which the left fielder dropped for an error, scoring Peluso from second.

Enfield went ahead to stay in the second after one was out. Bill Demur singled off the shortstop's glove. Enfield then perfectly executed the hit and run as Demur broke for second and Ed

McCoy lined a single to right sending Demur to third. McCoy then stole second giving Enfield runners on second and third. Paul DaSilva's infield hit scored Demur with the go ahead run.

Enfield scored two more runs in the third after two outs. Mike Kirkorian drew a walk and stole second. John Carollo tripled to center to score Kirkorian. Bill Demur followed with a single to center to score Carollo.

Enfield scored three more runs in the sixth to up its margin to 7 to 1 after one out. Ed McCoy singled to center, Paul DaSilva was hit by a pitch giving Enfield runners on first and second. Mike Peluso lined a shot over the left fielder's head for a three run homer scoring McCoy and DaSilva in front of him.

Cathedral scored five runs in the seventh. Mike Guihan walked, Marty Wright followed with another walk. Tony Fiaschetti forced Wright to score with Guilan taking third. Dave Blokland then drew another walk off Enfield's starter Paul DaSilva to load the bases.

Tim Noonan drew another walk off DaSilva to score Guihan. Jim Connery singled to left to score Fiaschetti. Brian Jarry tripled to right-center scoring Blokland, Noonan and Connery. The triple by Jarry chased DaSilva and Enfield brought in Jay Kurmaskie who struck out Bob Chmura to end the inning.

Enfield added two insurance runs in the eighth with one out. Ed McCoy reached on third basemen Craig Plante's error. Jay Kurmaskie then drew a walk sending McCoy to second. Mike Peluso reached on an error by Tim Noonan to load the bases. Vern Badger laid down a perfect squeeze bunt to score McCoy. Badger was safe at first with a bunt single. Joe Dippel hit a sacrifice fly to left to score Kurmaskie. Paul DaSilva picked up his second win of the season with relief help from Jay Kurmaskie who got the final seven outs in a row.

HORNETS STING
On Saturday Enfield traveled to East Hartford to play the East Hartford Hornets. Hornets' right hander Wayne Myrshall shut the Raiders out on four hits while his Hornet team mates scored seven runs off of three Enfield pitchers.

The Hornets gave Myrshall the only run he needed in the third.

Rick Hewey opened the inning by singling to center. Pat Jamo sacrificed him to second. Hewey moved to third on John Taylor's infield out and scored on Craig Pinney's single to center.

The Hornets scored their second run in the fourth on a triple by Bill Brown to right and Scott Harrison's single to center.

The Hornets took advantage of four Enfield errors to score five times in the sixth off reliever Joe Dippel who came on in the fifth for starter Jay Kurmaskie.

Chairs: A Study In Changing Taste

Chairs are very curious pieces of furniture. Basically they all exemplify the principle of form follows function. The purpose remains practically the same but the appearance of the chairs can differ radically within a generation.

A single comparison of four basic styles of English chairs will illustrate the marked difference between them during the years of the 18th and early 19th century.

At first the chairs were all made of local woods lovingly handcrafted and rubbed to a high gloss with varying degrees of carving and ornamentation as the tastes of the times fluctuated.

Chippendale

At first the Queen chair was simple in design; later it became more grandiose in its feeling. During the early years of the 18th century, Chinese forms of gentle curves designed to fit the persons legs and back were introduced into the European furniture market. Eventually the curved line became the dominant motif. Curved from hard, imported mahogany, the backs of the chairs featured carved, bent forms that were slightly concave at the corners. A splat was placed at the center back to support the body and further emphasize the curved silhouette.

Similarly the sides and front were curved. Legs were fashioned in the cabriole style with conventionalized knee and orientalized ankle forms ending in a pad or clubfoot. When arms were used, they also were curved.

As years passed, subsequent changes in the Queen Anne chair included the piercing of the splat back with carved and curved cutouts. A scallop or shell motif often appeared on the knee and other portions of the chair.

The claw and ball foot was adapted from the Chinese symbol of dragons clasping "the pearl of wisdom."

Chippendale

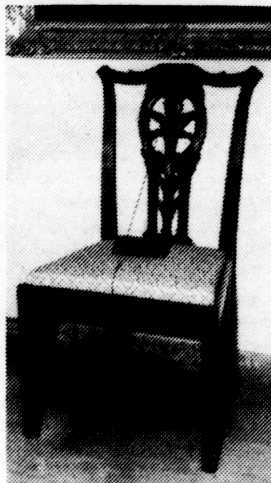

During the early Georgian period until about the middle of the 18th century, chairs were carved to a greater degree and a greater heaviness became evident in the entire chair. In 1725 the "lion mask" appeared on the knees of the cabriole legs and as a central motif on the apron of tables, consoles and other pieces of furniture.

Chair legs became straighter. Thomas Chippendale in his "Gentlemen's and Cabinet-Maker's Director" capitalized on the trend of times. The oriental idea of gentle curves still influenced the style but more classic ideas began to take over. The influence of Louis XV was felt across the Channel in England resulting in straight legs. Stretchers were again seen to add greater support to the chair. The splat back was generally vertical but, as illustrated above, horizontal splats, curved and carved to testify to the taste of the times, were used.

Hepplewhite

Hepplewhite was a leader in the reaction against heaviness in furniture designs and heralded the use of delicate lines and proportions in furniture.

He, too, was responsible for the use of satinwood in addition to mahogany. Generally Hepplewhite chairs were more weak in construction than their forerunners. Grace, elegance and color predominated.

Legs were always straight and either rounded or square. They tapered toward the foot which ended in the spade, thimble or sabot form.

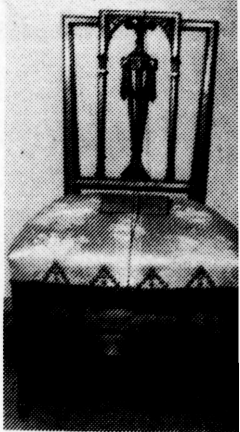

Five different backs were featured: the shield, the camel, the oval, the heart and the wheel. Carved ornament was sparsely applied and included such motifs as the wheat stalk, oval paterae forms, ribbons, fluting, reeding, and festoons.

When painted chairs included: the feather crest, flowers and classical figures.

Sheraton

At the end of the 18th century Sheraton produced his "Cabinet-Makers' and Upholsterers' Drawing Book" which included many small furniture designs and dining pieces.

Again the straight leg was popular. The serpentine curve of earlier times was replaced, the segmental curve or surfaces connected by straight lines or flat

Sheraton

During the latter portion of the period the French Directoire and Early Empire styles were introduced into the later Sheraton designs. After the beginning of the 19th century the style Robert Adams improved all the previous designs; last chairs were practical and pleasingly proportioned for comfort and formal BURNHAM STAFFORD — The big Memorial Day weekend will feature two holiday shows at the Stafford Springs Motor Speedway starting with the regular Saturday night 30 lap modified feature, sportsman and Mini Midget competition, to be followed on Monday by the first annual Winston 100 National Championship for modifieds at 2 p.m.

HOT SHOES

A large field of NASCAR hot shoes are expected for the Memorial Day race which will be cut to 75 laps this year in the interest of saving fuel.

Hardest man to beat on the track either Saturday night or Monday will be Carl Buggy Stevens of Rehoboth, Mass., who has taken three of four races this season at the Stafford half mile oval.

Starting 14th in a field of 26 cars Saturday night, Buggy lost no time going to the front to finish a half lap ahead of second place finisher Ken Bouchard. Jerry Dostie, driving the only automatic transmission car in the race, wheeled his Vega to third spot, followed by Ron Bouchard, fourth; Eddie Flemke, fifth. Tenth spot went to Gene Bergin of Enfield while Don Flynn of Windsor Locks, who has finished second the past two weeks, failed to finish the feature.

In the Sportsman Division, Don Taylor was first with Wayne Tack taking second, Bill Tracy, third and fourth spot to Ben Dodge Jr.

Ron Ives took the Mini Midget feature with second to Ron McCann, and third to Russ Dowd.

OVER RIVER

AGAWAM — Charlie Glazier has reason for confidence Saturday night in the second 100-lap modified stock car spectacular of the season at Riverside Park Speedway.

The West Haven whiz finally broke the ice last week by capturing the 50-lap main event. And his last big victory in the '73 season was over the 100-lap course.

Glazier, a 60-point leader in the standings, has to be considered one of the favorites, although no driver has been able to win more than one feature this spring.

Taking the first 100-lapper back in April was Ron Wyckoff of Southington.

Jap Membrino of Waterbury and Sonny O'Sullivan of Bristol are other competing veterans who were successful in the 100-lap races at Agawam a year ago.

THREATS

Other steady point men considered threats are Bob Polverari of West Springfield, Ken Laour of Granby, Gig Smith of Windsor Locks, Lou Toro of West Haven and Joe Wilcox of Waterbury.

First qualifying heat for the stocks starts at 8 p.m. Completing the holiday weekend program will be the figure-eight race.

Defending champion Bobby Siebold of West Haven, Ted Chalmers of Holyoke and former titlist Luke Scanlon of Northampton are the top three in the criss-cross competition.

The first Demolition Derby of the season, with 200 cars competing, is set for Sunday night at 8.

Pewter Pot Champs

Champions Receiving Recognition

The Enfield Pee-Wee Traveling Team defeated Windsor in a tense, hard fought contest for the championship of the "Pewter Pot" tournament in West Hartford.

The first period remained scoreless as both teams missed good opportunities to score. With most of the period gone, Peter Lewis of Windsor scored the first goal of the game on a breakaway and the period ended 1 to 0, Windsor.

Enfield finally managed to tie the score midway through the second period when Tom Crompton put in a pass from Rich Fleming in a beautifully executed play. The second period ended 1-1 but the Enfield boys, confident of the outcome, put the pressure on in the third period to ice the game with two more goals.

The second goal came when Crompton put in a pass from Fleming and Mike Flanders and the third was a shot from Flanders on a pass from Pete Coombs, to end the game 3 to 1 Enfield.

Coaches Paul Zymba and Steve Barnes, along with all the boys, were congratulated by tournament officials and the Pewter Pot Trophy was presented to team Captain Tom Crompton.

It is the first such award ever won by an Enfield hockey team. An all-star tournament team was picked which included four boys from the Enfield team. Forward was Crompton, defense Jim Kraucasas and goalies Chris Gatto and Bob Foley were given dual awards as all-star goalies for the team.

Other members of Enfield's championship team included: center men, Matt Janney and Glen Blackwood; left-wings, Mike Flanders and Bob Hughes; right wings, Rich Fleming, Mike Cirillo, Mike Nasto, Dick Miller, and defense Robby Hayden, Pete Coombs and Mark Patsky. The Enfield Hockey Association congratulated the Pee-Wees on the completion of a most successful season. The total season record was 36-19-1.

THERE WILL BE NO DEALS TURNED DOWN THIS MONTH!

OUR LEGACY FROM THE MEDICINE MAN

Who would ever think on entering today's streamlined pharmacy that many of the medicines available had their early beginnings with the medicine man. Of course, they have undergone many changes and refinements. In early days Indians chewed on roots (or leaves) of certain plants in order to extract a "magic substance". This later evolved to a "more sophisticated" technique of cooking the roots for hours and then boiling down the resultant liquid.

Thousands of years have passed since these earliest processes were begun. Our contemporary drugs may bear little resemblance to their crude ancestors. But many of the basic chemical substances do date back to the medicine man.
