

Going Out Of Business

Grants' Last Bargains Enough To Make Her Cry

Some of the shelves look like a bomb went off and tossed items onto the floor. Entire racks of goods are ripped apart by eager shoppers. Some items are damaged as they are examined by potential buyers.

"It's enough to make me cry," admits Evelyn Pelletier of Bridge Lane, Enfield.

Mrs. Pelletier has worked at Grants here nearly 38 years. It has been an important part of her life nearly four decades. She's the business manager of the Enfield store.

But it's almost over, now. The Elm Plaza store is scheduled to close its doors for good March 26.

"The office staff will be around for a few days after that," Mrs. Pelletier explains, "to complete paperwork and ship records to the New York office."

She started working for Grants when the Enfield store was on Pearl St. Things were better then. Thompsonville wasn't a ghost town; people had more money to spend and the company was solvent.

"This is the only job I've ever had," she explains as she recalls some of the friends she made, people she worked with, and the good old days when the chain was one of the largest and most prosperous in the nation.

Mrs. Pelletier was born in Enfield; she grew up here and she and her husband raised their daughter here.

Their daughter is married now and lives in West Suffield. "My husband and I are alone at the house and I dread the morning I wake up and don't have a job anymore."

What happened? "I blame the company more than the economy," she says.

Looking back three or four years Mrs. Pelletier believes Grants officials made it too easy for shoppers to get credit.

"Sales figures looked great but less than half of what went out of the store was paid for," she explains.

As the economy slumped so did customer payments. It left Grants with big figures, big stores, big bills and big problems.

"The company over-expanded," she believes. Small stores were closed in favor of massive retail outlets across the nation.

"We'd have been better off if the company had stuck to smaller stores and been more careful about issuing credit."

She is among 70,000 Grants employes across the nation who will be jobless after the closings.

"I could have retired in seven years; this will mean I won't get the pension I expected. I'll get something but I don't know how much."

In a few weeks, when Mrs. Pelletier drives past the empty store, she says she'll feel a little emptiness inside herself.

"You don't work somewhere 40 years without having feelings for the company," she says.

"I'll go on unemployment until I find another job; but it just won't be the same."

Vella Appointed Weicker Coordinator In Enfield

Rosario T. Vella of 122 Post Office Rd., Enfield, has been appointed coordinator in Enfield for the reelection campaign of U.S. Senator Lowell P. Weicker, it was announced by Philip M. Drake, State Chairman of the Weicker Senate '76 Committee.

Drake said that Vella, a member of the Republican Town Committee and a former state representative, will serve as liaison between Senator Weicker and the local Republican Town Committee as well as other groups and individuals interested in working to reelect Weicker.

In accepting the appointment, Vella said, "Senator Weicker has achieved a solid record and has been a great credit to our state. I look forward to working with him and his many supporters in our town to assure his reelection.

Vella also stated that he will emphasize the fact that Senator Weicker is "nobody's man but yours." His gutsy and independent stand on a broad range of issues shows a man who does what he thinks is right, and not what he thinks is popular.

Vella is a supervisor in the Accounting Department of Connecticut Light & Power Company in Enfield. He served as State Representative from 1971 to 1974 and chaired the State and Urban Development Committee in the Connecticut Legislature.

He also served as chairman of the Eastern Regional Conference of the Council of State Governments Committee on Consumer Protection.

Currently, he is a member of the 1976 Club. The 1976 Club is a state wide organization of Republican former state legislators acting as "watchdogs" over the Democrat state administration and the Democrat controlled General Assembly.

The people who have made reservations for the flower show tour in Boston, Mar. 16, are reminded to be at the G. Fox & Co. parking lot in Enfield, Conn. before 9 a.m. Tuesday.

EARHC "Hike Bike" Goal Set At $12,000

Paul Boucher, Al D'Alessandro, Al Felbo and Bill Grover, chairmen of "Hike-Bike '76" for the retarded and handicapped, which will take place May 2 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. (raindate, May 18), have announced a goal of $12,000.

The Enfield Chapter of U.N.I.C.O. and the Connecticut Association for Retarded Citizens (CARC) will again be sponsors of this event, the second annual Hike-Bike.

The proceeds of the Hike-Bike will benefit the many programs and services being provided locally by the Enfield Association For Retarded And Handicapped Citizens, Inc. (EARHC) and CARC.

Refreshments will be distributed at each of six checkpoints being set up along the route. Manager of Burger King, Skip Dion, is supplying coolers and drinks.

Route chairman Robert Rookey, said the route will be 20 miles for bikers and 10 miles for hikers.

The Explorer Unit and Auxiliary Police will follow the route to provide careful safety precautions. Route signs will be very visible.

Hikers and Bikers of all ages are being encouraged to participate, and public and parochial school children are being contacted to volunteer their services. Each participant will seek sponsors to pledge money per mile for those hiking or biking.

Prizes for both children and adults will be awarded this year. Further details on all prizes to be awarded will be forthcoming.

Volunteers to assist in the event are still needed. The next meeting of the Hike-

Bike Planning Committee will be held March 23 at 7:30 p.m. at EARHC Headquarters on College Street. For further information, call 741-2201.

The association will be benefactor of a Bicentennial Flea Market to be held by K. of C. April 25 on K. of C. Grounds from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., rain or shine.

Additional exhibitors are requested to call Jim Powers at 623-6282, to reserve a booth for that day.

The association is in the process of formulating a Swim-Gym Program for retarded and handicapped children starting May 1 from 10 to 12.

Volunteer instructors to assist are very much needed.

Mr. Urso of Windsor Locks Knights of Columbus has made arrangements for a special course to train instructors which is being held March 10, 17, 24, 31 at Windsor Locks High School from 7 to 9 p.m.

Bicentennial Parade May Be Largest Ever

Preparations for Enfield's Bicentennial Parade scheduled for April 24 are intensifying according to General Chairman Anthony Secondo. A preliminary marching order is expected to be released by Parade Marshal Liborio DiMaria very soon. It is anticipated that nearly all of the available local marching and musical units will participate.

"We hope to have one of the largest and best hometown parades ever held in Enfield", enthused Secondo, "and the response to our invitations has been tremendous."

It appears certain that the number of floats entered in the parade will far exceed anything ever seen in Enfield. The Greater Enfield Chamber of Commerce which is coordinating this dimension reports that over 30 floats representing businesses, civic organizations and schools have been registered thus far. Reservations are still being accepted and interested parties may call the Chamber office at 745-3363.

At a recent meeting of the parade committee the following were in attendance:

Joseph Vachon and Charles Armstrong of the Enfield Detachment Marine Corp League; Jim Reveruzzi of Fermi High School; Anthony Porto, Robert Rookey and Edmond Wosko of the Amvets Post 18; John Shlatz of the VFW Post 10219; Byron Mohrbacher, John D. Gallo, Francis Burke and William Thompson of WWI No. 868; John Vesce and Joseph H. Drouin of Post 80 American Legion; Rose Sokol, Jack Kinnear, Mona Piotrowski and Anthony Secondo of the Bicentennial Commission; Liborio DiMaria, Parade Marshal; and Marcel St. Sauveur of the Greater Enfield Chamber of Commerce.

Widow Accepts

Vet's Art Award

The widow of an Enfield Veteran has been presented an award for an artwork done by her husband, Pasquale W. Cappa.

A poster by Cappa, "The City," was selected Grand Award winner in the hobby-craft National Doodle Art Show by patients at the Newington Veterans Hospital.

According to Jack York, a spokesman for J.C. Penney, said the Cappa entry has a "really good chance" of winning prizes in a nationwide contest.

The contest is co-sponsored by J.C. Penney and Help Hospitalized Veterans headquartered in San Diego.

Mrs. Cappa accepted the local award last night in a ceremony at the hospital in Newington. A Penney gift certificate goes with the citation.

through its D & R Testing Institute, in physical testing and analytical chemical testing and interpretation.

The move by DeBell & Richardson, Inc. into biotoxicological testing via this acquisition is part of a long-range plan to offer a broader range of services to its industrial and governmental clients.

EARHC Meets

On March 17

The Enfield Association for Retarded And Handicapped Citizens, Inc. will hold a general membership meeting March 17 at the Hazardville United Methodist Church, 330 Hazard Avenue at 8 p.m.

Gabriel Simches of the Connecticut State Department of Education will be the Guest Speaker and his topic for the evening will be "Special Education State Laws — Implications for Local Districts."

At this time, a discussion will be held on a recent Survey of the Association's Upcoming Swim-Gym Program and the Bicentennial Flea Market sponsored by the Knights of Columbus to benefit the association, which will be held April 25 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Also, this month, the association is assisting the Food Shelf Program and would appreciate members bringing in any amount of canned goods they may wish to contribute to this program.

Well Child Clinics

Today, March 18

The Enfield Visiting Nurse Assn. will sponsor well-child clinics from 9 to 11 a.m. today and March 18 for Enfield residents.

'It's Worked For 62 Years'

Don't Argue —

Well, Perhaps Just A Bit

"We got along pretty good right from the start," explains Jack Boland. "Agnes is a good woman."

"Jack is the best man in the world. Everybody knows that. He's been wonderful to me," says Agnes.

"We never argue," Jack adds.

"Well, we have our spats, but never anything serious," corrects his wife.

"Sixty-nine cents for a few prunes," Agnes mutters as she tosses a cellophane bag into a grocery cart. "But the grocery store is about the only place we have to spend our money."

How did Jack meet his wife?

Agnes responds: "It wasn't a blind date or anything; we were introduced by friends."

Aside she whispers, "Jack doesn't hear so good sometimes, so I answer for him."

Was it love at first sight?

"Must have been," says Jack, "and it's worked for 62 years."

The Bolands were married in Toronto in 1914. It was Feb. 18.

"St. Helen's Church," recalls Jack.

The Bolands met when Jack — a man of 21 — left Enfield to take a job in a Canadian carpet mill. He had learned the trade at the mills in Enfield. He was born here.

Agnes was 18 when she stepped down the aisle to marry Jack.

She recalls their first years together.

"Things were tough at first. We didn't have much money but we made up for it with laughs."

The carpet industry was going through hard times then so Jack took a job making ammunition at a Canadian explosives plant.

After eight years in Canada, he and his bride packed up their belongings and came to Enfield to live and raise their family.

Four children. Two boys, two girls. A dozen grandchildren. Eighteen great-grandchildren.

Jack worked in the carpet mills as a weaver.

"We're a close family," says Agnes. "Our kids have been good to us."

They have outlived their two sons. One daughter, Mrs. Edward Pohorylo, lives in town; the other, Mrs. Arthur Rossi, lives in Shrewsbury, Mass.

Jack is 83. He stands straight. He carefully considers questions, then answers quietly. A real gentleman.

Three years Jack's junior, Agnes does most of the talking, and most of the shopping. Jack handles the heavy items, like the sack of potatoes.

The Bolands live at Enfield Terrace. That's where most of their friends are. That's where they play bingo. They are active in some organizations but have curtailed activities in which they got involved just after Jack retired.

"Seemed like we were getting elected to something every week," he muses.

They shop together at a leisurely pace. "We have two hours before the senior citizen bus comes around again; we're in no hurry."

What advice do they offer young couples who want a lasting marriage?

"Don't argue," says Jack.

"Well, it's alright to disagree," adds Agnes. "Just do it lovingly. It works."

It must.

Russell Heads Town ACS Crusade

George W. Russell has been appointed to lead the Enfield Crusade of the American Cancer Society. As town chairman, Russell will direct the work of committee heads in planning the course of the annual campaign beginning in April. The fund raising efforts will place strong emphasis this year on house-to-house solicitation, special gifts and business and industry appeals as well as a variety of special events. Funds raised through the Crusade will support research, service and rehabilitation programs for cancer patients and their families. Public and professional education programs aimed at altering people to the ways in which they can help safeguard against cancer are also priority efforts.

About one-third of all people who get cancer will be saved. The progress that is being made in curbing the nation's second leading cause of death is financed substantially through the annual Crusade. Russell noted that during the Crusade the Cancer Society hopes to encourage Enfield citizens to contribute to a cause where they can see their dollars at work in the community and also to familiarize the community members with the safeguards against cancer. Russell, a graduate of Holy Cross College, is the district manager of Connecticut Light and Power. He is active in the North Central Junior Achievement,

GEORGE W. RUSSELL

Greater Enfield Chamber of Commerce and is president-elect of the Enfield Rotary Club. He issued an appeal to anyone interested in doing volunteer work during the 1976 Enfield Crusade to call the Hartford Unit at 527-2133.

Banjo Duet

Dan Russell of Manchester and Eric Schmidt of Enfield are among the entertainment groups that will perform at the Greater Enfield Chamber of Commerce sponsored Home Show on Sunday, April 11. Both are two-year Gurley music students. The home show will run April 9, 10 and 11. Booths are still available and can be obtained by calling the Chamber office at 745-3363. The show will be at Enfield High School.

Al Dinner Is March 20

Legionnaires of the Tanguay-Magill AL Post No. 80, will join with millions of fellow members in a globe spanning celebration of the American Legion's 57th Anniversary during March, Post Commander Joseph L. Beninato announced.

Here in Enfield, the 57th Anniversary will be highlighted with a dinner dance honoring all the past commanders and their wives March 20 at the post home.

The dinner committee consists of past commanders John Bartley, "Bill" Fritze, and "Ben" Gambino. Scheduled for the evening are a cocktail hour 6-7 p.m., dinner 7-9 p.m. and dancing 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tickets are available by calling 745-8817 after 4 p.m. Reservations close March 15.

Beninato also stated that the meeting night for the submitting of applications for the State of Connecticut Soldier, Sailor and Marine Fund will be Mondays effective April 5, at the American Legion, 566 Enfield St., Enfield for qualified veterans of Enfield and Suffield at 7 p.m.

Armand R. Roy, Mayor of Enfield, will be the principal speaker, at the past commanders dinner.

Pageant Fashion Show At The Square Today

Enfield Square will present the Miss Enfield Scholarship Pageant contestants during a gala evening of fashion and talent entertainment today. The pageant, sponsored by the Enfield Jaycees, selects a young woman to represent the Enfield area in Miss Connecticut and Miss America competitions, along with awarding scholarships.

Emcees for the evening's activities will be Cindy Lou Riley, Miss Enfield 1975, and Robert Marx, Regional Sales Manager for Hospitality Inns. They will introduce the contestants and supply background information on each girl. A fashion show featuring spring outfits modeled by the girls will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the center court. The Fermi High School Stage Band will provide background music and will present a program of Bicentennial music. Following the fashion show, the Fermi High School Lamplighters will give excerpts from their upcoming production of Arthur Miller's "Crucible", a dramatic depiction of the Salem witch trials.

An exciting talent review will begin at 9:30 p.m. in the center court. Each of the 13 contestants will present a glimpse of the creative programs that will be judged at the pageant. The performances will include various music instruments, dramatic readings, and even a balance beam program. The public is invited to attend this free evening of entertainment and to meet the Miss Enfield Scholarship Pageant contestants who proudly represent this area.

Tickets will be available to the March 27 pageant at St. Joseph's School in Enfield.

Jr. Womans Club To Meet Today

The Enfield Junior Woman's Club will hold its monthly meeting today at the Central Library. The speaker will be Jerry Mon, whose topic is "Body Language Is Not Dirty Pool"! Mon is a part-time professor of speech and drama at Assunpink Community College. He is also a full-time real estate broker, employed by Colli-Wagner in Enfield. The program will begin at 8 p.m. All members are invited and are encouraged to invite their husbands.

The club will hold its third annual fashion show March 15, at the Mountain Laurel Restaurant for the benefit of its scholarship.

The fashion presentation, titled "The Total Woman" will be in three parts. Mrs. Sally Middleton, commentator of the event, will show slides on trends in fashions, give a make-up demonstration and model clothes from Luitgens, Ltd.

Chairmen of the program are Ellie Landry and Joyce Frangiamore.

Petticoaters Hold Signups

The Hazardville Girl's Petticoat Softball League is holding its 1976 registration sessions this Friday and a week from Friday from 10-12 a.m. at the Enfield Central Library on Middle Road.

A parental signature and a birth certificate is required at the time of registration. The girl need not be present to sign up. Girls who are 9 years of age before May 1 and have not turned 16 before July 15 are eligible to play in the league.

Further information may be obtained by calling Marie Williams at 749-9493 or Deanna Binnenkade at 749-7776.

Coaches and assistant coaches are desperately needed this year. Coaches must be 18 years of age or older, male or female, and it is not necessary to have a child in the league to become a coach. Those interested in coaching may also call the ladies mentioned above or appear at the library during the registration sessions.

Gertrud Aebi holds abandoned puppy outside Canine Control Center. She says she feels very sorry for the many unclaimed dogs that are there.

Exchange Student Loves Working With Animals

By ERNEST A. MOKUS

Gertrud Aebi is a 17-year-old, personable, happy and intelligent exchange student from Switzerland who is a senior at Enrico Fermi High School. She came to the United States last August and to Enfield where she lives with her host parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Belluntuono of Scavotto Avenue. When she asked how she became an exchange student, she said she came here through the "Youth-In-Understanding" exchange student program. She was chosen because of an outstanding essay she had written about her life.

To look at and to talk to Gertrud, one would think she is a typical American-born teenager. That is because she looks like one, talks like one, and acts like one.

Gertrud came here from Brugg, a town with a population of 8,000 in the north of Switzerland near the German border. The town has two main industries, a chemical plant and a steel plant. Most of the men of the town work in either of these plants, including her father, who is a manager in the steel plant, called Brown-Boveri, which manufactures machinery including turbines. There is no high school in Brugg so most high school students attend the one in Baden, including her older sister, Annagret, 18. Baden is four miles or 10 kilometers east of Brugg. Both towns are in the Canton of Aargau. The states or provinces of Switzerland are called Cantons, of which there are 22.

Although Gertrud is a senior here, when she returns to Switzerland in July, she will have two more years of high school because in most European countries, students must attend 13 years of school prior to college.

Upon graduating from high school back home, Gertrud plans to attend the University of Zurich, where she wants to study to become a veterinarian. When asked why and when she desired to be a veterinarian, Gertrud said that she loves animals and has had the desire of such a vocation for a very long time.

Almost from the time she has been here, Gertrud has assisted Bob Rookey, the town assistant canine control officer, on many weekends. When asked how she got to assist Bob, she replied that her host "father", Tony Belluntuono, who is an Enfield Fish and Game Constable, was instrumental in her obtaining the non-paid but highly rewarding work.

"Gertie", as she is called by all her friends here, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Aebi. She has two brothers and two sisters. Her brothers are Markus, 20, who is attending the University of Zurich, studying bio-chemistry and Nirto, 17, an apprentice television serviceman. Her sisters are Annagret and Isabel, 11, an elementary school student.

At Fermi, Gertrud was manager of a girl's field hockey team and a girl's basketball team and a member of the International Club. In comparing Fermi with her homeland high school, she said there are many and more varied courses to select here. She likes Fermi and thinks it is a very beautiful school. Her hobbies are volleyball, skiing and horseback riding. One other pastime she enjoys is browsing in Enfield Square with her school friends and her host "sister", Rosemarie Belluntuono, 17, also a Fermi senior.

Gertrud, who loves this country but who loves her own homeland more, would like us to know something about Switzerland.

Switzerland, she said, has a population of 6,480,000 with an area of 15,941 square miles. That is about twice the size of New Jersey. Switzerland, whose capital is Bern, is the most mountainous of all European countries. The Alps cover 60 per cent of the land area. Swiss lakes are famous for their beauty. The Rhine, Rhone and feeders of the Danube and Po rivers originate in Switzerland.

Switzerland is one of the world's great banking centers. Service in the national militia is compulsory which is comprised of 600,000 men. The air force has 300 combat aircraft.

Credit Union Meets Mar. 25

The Enfield Community Federal Credit Union will hold its annual meeting March 25 at the Mountain Laurel Restaurant beginning at 7 p.m.

He also had a son, Kenneth J. Mix, who was a fighter pilot and was shot down over Germany on Christmas Eve of 1944.

A memorial service will be held in The First Church of Christ Congregational, Suffield at a future time to be announced. Burial was in Woodlawn Cemetery, Suffield, at the convenience of the family.

JOHN O. BASSETT

John O. Bassett, retired head of the Keller Oil Co. in Enfield, died March 2 in Medical Center of Western Massachusetts at the age of 75. He lived at 1 James St.

Mr. Bassett was born in Cadyville, N. Y. and moved to Enfield 25 years ago, purchasing the Keller Oil Co. in 1950. He retired in 1960.

He was a member of Doric Lodge 94 AF and AM.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Alice (Shepherd) Bassett, he leaves one brother, Wayne of Cadyville, N.Y.; two sisters, Mrs. Pearl Ryan of Saranac, N.Y. and Mrs. Valida Mattoon of Dannemora, N.Y.

The funeral was March 5 in St. Mary's Episcopal Church with burial in Springfield Cemetery.

CHARLES FALZONE

Charles Falzone, 64, of 99 Windsor St., Enfield, died March 4 in the Medical Center of Western Massachusetts, Springfield.

Born in Naro, Italy, he lived in Enfield the last 62 years. He was employed as a photographer for the Brown Studio of Springfield 30 years, retiring six years ago. He was a member of St. Patrick's Church.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Josephine Grillo Falzone; a brother, Joseph Falzone of Enfield; and a sister, Mrs. Josephine Vella of Enfield.

The funeral was March 8 at Browne Funeral Home with a Mass of Christian Burial in St. Patrick's Church. Burial was in St. Patrick's King Street Cemetery.

FRANK WEGIEL

Frank Wegiel, 83, of Enfield, formerly of 30 Rapalus St., Indian Orchard, died March 8 in a local nursing home.

Born in Poland, he lived in Indian Orchard for 56 years. He retired in 1968 from Monsanto Co. as a pressman. He was a member of the Polish National Alliance Group, 1484, Indian Orchard.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Helen Bak of Enfield, and Mrs. Sophie Kivior of Ludlow, Mass.

The funeral was March 10 at Nowak Funeral Home, Indian Orchard, with services in Immaculate Conception Church, Indian Orchard.

Unemployment

In addition to its other problems, the State of Connecticut owes the federal government $300 million for unemployment loans.

This represents the loans to date to the Connecticut Unemployment Compensation Fund, which is broke.

The fund is bankrupt for two reasons: the high rate of unemployment and the excessively liberal payments to the unemployed.

Unemployment funds come from a tax on business, not on the general taxpayers. Nor do employees contribute directly to the fund. So, it is a tax that must be added to the cost of doing business.

Consequently, for Connecticut to be known as the most liberal in payment of unemployment compensation, is nothing to brag about.

It's nice for the recipients, but bad for business. The reason is very simple: the increased expense must be added to the price of the product which must compete in the national and international market place.

This is no small amount. Between 1971 and 1975 this tax bill for Connecticut business rose from $63 million to $141 million.

Further increases in this tax will change an unfavorable business climate into one that is positively antagonistic.

There is a great deal of chiseling. How much is anyone's guess. But every employer knows of cases, and perhaps even winks at them rather than go through the trouble to press for correction.

He probably feels, and perhaps rightly so, that the ill will resulting from complaints would not be worth the trouble. Another example of apathy compounded by permissiveness.

Connecticut is now paying the highest benefits of any state in the nation.

The "waiting week" before benefits was repealed in 1967. Repeal of this week has cost thus far $65 million.

Benefits are paid to people who quit voluntarily, are discharged for misconduct or refuse suitable work.

This is an outright abuse of the real purpose of unemployment compensation — help for those who are out of work through no fault of their own.

Correcting this would save an estimated $30 million.

Is the problem really serious for industry? One fact alone speaks eloquently to this point:

Connecticut, since 1967, has lost more than 100,000 manufacturing jobs to other states where the climate is more favorable. This is a tremendous loss of income and wealth for the state.

Bills to correct these abuses are now before the General Assembly. We urge our representatives to give them a close look. They must realize that what is good for business is not necessarily bad for the rest of us, especially the unemployed.

Saving Women

Some years ago the American Cancer Society set itself a worthy goal for this Bicentennial year. They set up a task force whose aim was to get every American Woman to have a Pap test before the end of 1976.

Many thought this was a good slogan, but suspected that it was somewhat utopian as a goal. However, there has been such amazing headway made in this life-saving campaign of the Society that it remains a practical and realizable objective.

The Pap test itself is a quick and painless procedure for detecting cancer of the cervix (neck of the womb) in the earliest possible stage when it is practically 100 percent curable.

An ACS study two years ago showed that a steadily growing number of women reported having had the test. It rose from 48 per cent to 78 per cent between 1963 and 1973 and undoubtedly the figure is higher today. Studies have also shown, however, that it is among low income groups, non-whites and rural women that a higher percentage have still not had the Pap test.

We think the efforts of the American Cancer Society to reach these women in order to wipe out cervical cancer as a cause of death is a most laudable way of celebrating this country's 200th birthday.

When ACS volunteers ask for contributions during this year's Cancer Crusade, remember you are giving practical assistance to saving the lives of American women.

THE CLOSED CIRCLE

The Innocent Bystander

By DICK HARTFORD

Generally speaking, politicians are nice people, naturally. That is the reason why they are politicians.

Contrary to what most people say, most politicians are not crooks. The average politician is as honest as the average non-politician.

That's why most people suspect them, because most people know how dishonest most people are.

Politicians and lawyers are friendly, affable, and frequently seedy. Doctors and Ministers, on the other hand, are stiff, stuffy, overly fastidious, and stuck on themselves.

Politicians and lawyers are very human, down-to-earth. They have few delusions of grandeur. With doctors and ministers, it's different.

They pass out pills, placebos and platitudes to people with woes, sniffles and crud. The people recover, sometimes in spite of, more than because, of the treatment.

But the people don't believe this. They think it was the doctors who cured them. They shower the doctors with adulation.

After a while, the doctors begin to believe they are as great as their patients say they are. They become god-like.

You can't really blame them. If people told you day after day how you saved their lives or the lives of their loved ones, your noggin would swell up too.

Of course, there are exceptions. We all know them. They will include the first, and all doctors and ministers, who confront me on these observations.

Doctors have a very high opinion of their views on all subjects, not just medical ones.

Engineers are a notch above doctors in being infatuated with their own opinions. But the most opinionated of all, are chemists.

Perhaps this is true because of the nature of their profession. Doctors practice an art that they come to believe is a science.

Engineers and chemists deal in hard, cold facts and they see everything else in the same manner, black and white.

What about journalists? We plead the First, and the Fifth.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Now Sorry He Backed "Old Bunch"

To-The Editor:

What's being done in Enfield these days is no news to me. I know just how those construction workers feel. Here they live and pay taxes in Enfield, and there are jobs being done in Enfield, paid for by their tax dollars, and those who are out of work cannot find jobs which are being paid for with their tax dollars.

Let's reminisce awhile. I recall many years ago, when I was approached by our present town leaders to help them change our form of government, because they said that the old form was outdated. Well, I, like a lot of other people, believed they were right.

I was told, "Stick with us and you will never be sorry."

I campaigned for their causes every time they asked me to. I went door-to-door, delivering their messages, and I remember what these leaders said to me, "Don't worry, Vic, there will be plenty of jobs for you to choose from — just wait and see."

So, I worked hard at my regular job for 28 years — and then I no longer had a job — and I was faced with the need to find work.

Lo and behold — the stories I got from my "buddies" — to whom I had given so much! I was told that I didn't qualify for this — I didn't qualify for that. I was told that I had no education, no experience in town work — and I didn't hear one good word about what I could do.

Well, you see, I didn't qualify for paying jobs. The only jobs I could qualify for and get were the free jobs, like being constable, or serving on the drug committee, or on school committees, or as umpire for the Little League, passing out flyers, or ringing doorbells.

I always had first chance on being given "collecting for anything" honors! I always got those calls for use of my free time — it never failed — they always knew my 'phone number then. But when I called them for work that paid wages — I could never get through.

Let me say that I worked 34 years in store management positions, where you had to perform — or out you would go. I could buy things. At one time, I offered my services to the chairman of the School Board — I knew I could buy, and buy right — saving the town money at every turn. But — no luck.

As we all know, since the new form of government went in, most jobs in this town have been given to outsiders. I remember one person in this town who had three jobs — and I couldn't get one! There are plenty of jobs in this town that can be done by anyone.

The old saying is, "Give a guy enough rope, and he will hang himself." That's what Enfield will do to itself. And all the local people will have to continue to pay the piper.

I hate to have to say that I was wrong when I went against the old reliable bunch — but — I was.

Victor Scussel,
Citizen of Enfield

On Local Hirings

To The Editor:

I have forwarded some correspondence to Governor Grasso which I received from an Enfield taxpayer. He informed me that in the past he was not as concerned as he should have been regarding the appointments made at Town Hall.

However, within the past few months his wife has lost her job at a local store which has gone bankrupt and the establishment he works for will soon close its business in Enfield.

He worked to educate children and hoped they would continue to make this All-America City of Enfield their lifetime home. To date most of his relatives and friends have moved from town or have been residing here, frustrated and disappointed — always rejected for the local position.

Some other businesses and companies are also lax in their commitments regarding employment of local residents for responsible positions.

It was particularly disturbing receiving this news from this taxpayer as the family has lived here many years and has built this community through the depression, WWII, recession; uncomplaining, and always paying bills and taxes promptly.

I hope more citizens write the Governor if they have had this experience in town.

State Above Local Zoning

REP. CORNELIUS O'LEARY

A conflict over a commuter parking lot in Enfield may lead to a whole redefinition of state power to ignore local zoning regulations.

State Rep. Cornelius O'Leary, D-Windsor Locks, said he discovered by chance recently that "the state doesn't have to abide by local zoning — they don't even have to hold public hearings. They can simply go in."

O'Leary, who represents part of Enfield, was talking with a Department of Transportation official about a DOT plan to put a commuter parking lot in an historic district.

The plan was dropped after area residents opposed the proposal. But O'Leary said the DOT official casually mentioned to him that the department could have carried out the project if it chose to do so.

O'Leary asked a legislative staff member to investigate the question and discovered the state is not bound by local zoning.

"In practice, they're responsive to the town's zoning, but they don't have to be, and I'm sure there have been cases where they have not," O'Leary said.

He has since introduced a bill that would force the state to conform to zoning statutes "just as any private builder would."

There are instances, according to O'Leary, when the state might actually need the power to ignore local zoning. "Sometimes the state builds a regional facility and none of the communities involved want the aggravation of having it located in their town — like a highway garage," he said.

If the state deserves to keep the power, he added, the burden of proof should be on the state to justify its authority.

The bill has been raised for public hearing by the Government Administration and Policy Committee.

O'Leary said he expects state agencies — "or at least some of them" — to oppose the measure.

Courts in two states have recently ruled that the state does not have to abide by local zoning regulations. It is possible, O'Leary said, that his measure could be passed, and then thrown out in the courts.

Gay Rights Bill Fails In House

Enfield state representatives all voted in the minority last week as the House defeated a homosexual rights bill 84-62.

Reps. Cornelius O'Leary, John Morrison and Richard Cressotti, all Democrats, voted in favor of the measure. Republican Astrid Hanzalek of Suffield opposed the bill.

The bill would have prohibited discrimination in areas such as housing, employment and credit based on a person's sexual orientation.

The vote indicated the majority of state legislators have not changed their feelings about the proposal since last year, when it passed the Senate but was killed in the House. In addition, the lawmakers apparently don't want to discuss the issue any more.

There was no debate on the measure, which sparked more than an hour of speeches in 1975. Only eight lawmakers changed their votes this year, with five deciding to support the measure and three who backed the bill last session voting no.

All local legislators' votes were the same as the ones they cast on the bill in 1975.

Supporters of the gay rights bill lobbied hard for the proposal over the last few weeks. At recent public hearings they marshaled extensive testimony aimed at assuring the public that homosexual teachers do not have any influence on their students' sexual preference, and that most child molesters are not homosexuals.

One major issue this year was affirmative action. Opponents of the bill claimed the measure could lead to regulations requiring business to hire a certain number of homosexual workers.

In order to combat those rumors, sponsors added an amendment prohibiting any affirmative action for homosexuals.

One gay rights spokesman attacked that move, claiming it would be unfair to gay workers. But the homosexual lobbyists for the bill quickly labeled the criticism as the work of a "splinter group."

They claimed any affirmative action plans would be unconstitutional anyway, since employers would have to violate workers' rights to privacy just to find out how many homosexuals they already employed.

Several legislators said after the vote last week that they planned to speak on the measure when it came before the House. But all decided to remain silent when they realized no one else was going to start the debate.

Liquor Law Stands

There will be no change in the state-enforced prohibition on the selling of liquor to non-members by private clubs.

The ban on sale of alcoholic beverages to non-members provides for "competition and fairness to the public," according to Rep. William J. Scully Jr., D-Waterbury, chairman of the legislature's Liquor Committee.

State law allows clubs to sell drinks only to non-members who are guests.

Restaurant owners strongly supported the law, pointing out that while clubs pay an average of $800 for a liquor license, a restaurant must pay $1250, often employ union labor, and stay open longer hours.

How They Voted

Here's how your legislators voted on some of the major issues before the General Assembly last week:

Enfield's state representatives are Democrats John Morrison, Richard Cressotti and Cornelius O'Leary. Republican Astrid Hanzalek represents Suffield.

Sen. Charles Alfano, D-Suffield, represents both towns in the Senate.

On a $37 million deficiency appropriations. The bill would pay for the rest of the state's share in local special education costs and give more money to the welfare department and other agencies which ran into the red this year. (Passed in the Senate 31-5, and in the House 123-15.)

In the Senate: Alfano: Yes.

In the House: Morrison: Yes; Cressotti: Absent; O'Leary: Yes;

Hanzalek: Absent.

On a proposal to ban welfare payments to workers who are on strike. (Failed in the House, 86-52.)

Morrison: No; Cressotti: Absent; O'Leary: No; Hanzalek: Absent.

On the "gay rights bill" banning discrimination in hiring or accommodations based on sexual preference. (Failed in the House, 84-62.)

Morrison: Yes; Cressotti: Yes; O'Leary: Yes; Hanzalek: No.

To provide state regulations for presidential preference primaries (Defeated in the Senate, 20-16):

Alfano: No.

To eliminate the requirement that candidates for nomination for the General Assembly or probate court must have at least 20 per cent of the delegate votes at the party convention in order to qualify for a primary against the party-endorsed nominee. (Defeated in the Senate, 24-12):

Alfano: No.

be free.

Each town is required, under state law, to provide a waste disposal area, and to pay the costs for disposal when no local landfill is available.

The measure now goes to the Senate for action.

Dump Fees Ahead?

Towns would be able to charge fees for use of their dumps, under a bill approved by the House of Representatives last week.

The measure would leave it up to the local legislative body to decide when a charge should be levied and when use of the dump should

Doctors Screened?

A proposal aimed at weeding out incompetent doctors will probably be approved this year by a legislative committee.

But the powerful Connecticut Medical Society is opposing the bill before the Public Health and Safety Committee that would create a new commission to deal with sick, disabled, alcoholic or drug-addicted physicians.

A society spokesman called the proposed commission "unwieldy, the start of a new bureaucracy." He claimed it represented "an affront on professionals that has not been justified."

The society challenges estimates that five per cent, or about 265 Connecticut physicians, are unfit to practice.

Prayer Bill Rejected

Expanded provisions for prayer in public school were rejected, 11-8, by a legislative committee last week.

The General Assembly's

Education Committee voted not to approve a bill calling for prayers before classes at public schools for all those who wish to take part.

Blood Pressure Unit?

At a hearing in Hartford this week, legislators were told that 350,000 persons in the state have high blood pressure.

They asked the Public Health and Safety Committee to approve a bill that would establish an office of high blood pressure control within the state Health Department.

Among its duties, the office would set up a registry that would keep track of diagnosed high blood pressure cases, making it easier to call people back for treatment.

It is a relatively cheap program to carry out; most of the screening and treatment in clinics around the state is done by volunteers.

Road Salt Called 'Slow Fuse'

A substance so common we see it on our tables every day is polluting the state's public and private water supplies.

Salt used to de-ice winter roadways is leaching into reservoirs and wells, raising the sodium level in 101 of 750 water sources to an unacceptable level, according to statistics from the State Department of Health water services division.

"The problem is a slow-burning fuse," says Rep.

Russell Post, R-Canton, who is calling for immediate attention by various state agencies and town selectmen across the state.

While the state has taken action on the problem, it has no jurisdiction over salt and sand application on town roads and local salt storage. Department of Transportation officials report that some towns leave salt piles exposed to rain, often causing severe well contamination.

84 Enfield St. Enfield 745-1639

Enfield Mayor Armand Roy explains Town Council reaction to the Board of Education budget to teachers at Kosciuszko Junior High School Tuesday. Teachers from local schools attended two 'Awareness Workshops' at the Big K.

'First Steps' Taken To Aid Jobless

Councilmen passed two resolutions they hope are "the first steps" to helping ease unemployment in Enfield.

In a meeting Monday attended by about 50 unemployed construction workers, councilmen sat through a period of verbal attacks by a few members of the group who feel the local legislative has done little to help them get jobs.

Once the council ended the public comment portion of the meeting, councilmen disposed of several matters that had been pending since the last work session.

Councilmen passed a resolution to encourage contractors to hire local help for town-administered construction projects. In a related move they voted to require the hiring of local residents for jobs paid for by local tax dollars.

The town contract resolution has no legal clout but is intended to sway builders to hire local laborers when they win town contracts.

The municipal hiring resolution, on the other hand, states that all town employees hired "shall be residents" of Enfield. The move excludes the positions of town manager, manager's assistant and department heads.

In other action Monday councilmen voted to sell Brainard School to Control Module of Enfield for $91,500 and lease Hazardville Grammar School to the YWCA.

Sale of Brainard School will put the property on the tax rolls; the YWCA will make space available at Hazardville for use by several local organizations.

Both schools were abandoned by the Board of Education due to declining enrollment.

A resolution was passed to demolish Hazardville Youth Center. The aging structure does not meet zoning requirements and is of no value to the town, officials said.

A portion of State Street was abandoned to allow developers to use a 10,000-square-foot wedge of land along Enfield St. It is reportedly to be used to erect a sign for Hospitality Inn.

Councilmen added $6,000 for overtime to police. The overtime fund is nearing its $15,000 limit, according to police officials.

Two Democrats were appointed to fill vacancies on the Zoning Board of Appeals. They are Robert DeKam of Spier Ave. and Patricia McGowan, Overhill Rd.

Also approved was the consolidation of the town's property tax bills being mailed with fire district levies.

Awareness Workshops

'Give And Take' All For Students

Teachers say it was great. Students say they learned a lot. Officials say they'd like to come back. Organizers say they'll do it again. Dan Michael says "it was worth it."

Michael and a committee of five other teachers at Enfield's Kosciuszko Junior High School put together two 'Awareness Workshops' designed to help teachers understand more about the community and become "more sensitive to the total needs of students."

It was a lot of work, explains Michael, "but we'll do it again if the feedback is favorable."

Workshops were held March 2 and 9 at the Big K. Local teachers, students and public administrators took part and it appears they all learned something about each other.

Students told teachers what they like and don't like about teachers and school; teachers told kids what they like and don't like about students and school, administrators explained why they do what they do and town officials explained how Enfield intends to support local education.

"From the talk I've heard in the hallways we achieved what we hoped to accomplish," Michael said. He is chairman of the Principal's Advisory Committee at the Big K.

The committee invited members of the Town Council, Board of Education, Police juvenile officers, a lawyer, administrators, teachers and students to participate.

Mayor Armand Roy stood before a group of teachers and answered questions about what happens to the school budget when it goes to the Town Council. Roy explained how officials regard the schools budget and how the council has to take a financial overview of spending the taxpayer's money.

"I liked it," Roy said. "It was the first time anyone tried to understand why the council has to consider the school budget. We just didn't have enough time to talk things over."

School board officials explained how they go over the superintendent's budgetary proposals and come up with a financial package to support schools and teachers for the next year.

Most important, says Michael, was the "give and take — the dialogue established between teachers, students and town officials." He said he was impressed with the "friendly atmosphere" between the seemingly warring factions of the people who must raise the money and the people who must spend the money to educate Enfield students.

Teachers, he said, were impressed with students on the panel. "They were mature and sophisticated and very able to express how they feel about school," he said.

Student panelists were Robin Gilmore, Debbie Graham, Francis Koperniak, Tom Keegan, Sally Griffin, Laurie Simpson, Scott Lundquist, Ann Mesinger and Sue Sheehan.

Faculty panelists were Thomas Kozaczka, Harold Piligian, Josephine Goldin, Connie Boyajian and Gary Blanchette.

Organizers were Michael, Mrs. Boyajian, Debbie Bileca, Janet Holmquist, Debbie Solomon and Florinda Santos.

Officials Told To Reapply For HUD Renewal Funds

Local administrators played a hunch and it appears they bet on a winner.

After a federal judge ruled against the town's application for federal renewal funds, officials corrected deficiencies and reapplied.

Officials in other towns waited to see whether the ruling would be appealed.

Last week officials of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development informed officials here and in six other Connecticut towns that HUD will accept reapplications for $4 million in grants blocked since January.

Enfield anticipates $1.2 million in first-year community development funds.

Town Manager William McDivitt said it appears officials "made the right choice" by reapplying before HUD told them to. He said the move by HUD was "really good news."

It may mean stabilization of the Freshwater Pond urban renewal project.

Last month Mayor Armand Roy said the delay in getting expected federal funds jeopardized the project. He indicated that the project could be closed down by the end of June if the town didn't get nearly $800,000 from either the state or federal governments.

Enfield was to get more than $900,000 from the state in urban renewal funding but when the state ran into financial troubles the money wasn't made available.

Gov. Ella Grasso appointed a task force to determine how much the state could pay. Last week that unit came up with a figure of $350,000.

It isn't what officials expected, but "any money we receive will be helpful," said McDivitt.

The task force plan must get through the legislature, then be signed by the governor.

Honored By Council

Six foreign exchange students hold resolutions from the Enfield Town Council presented Monday. From left are Gertrud Aebi, Switzerland; Leiv Askvig, Norway; Teresa Verraga, Mexico; Cristina Barios, Chile; Patricia Gonzalez, Chile, and Mamiko Oda, Japan. Each lives with a local family and attends high school here. Resolutions will be sent to two students who have returned to their homelands, Walter Loesener, Guatemala, and Julio Samayoa, El Salvador.

Traffic stacks up on Elm Street as shoppers try to get to Grant's going out of business sale.

Shoppers carry several bags from Grants store off Elm Street, above; Mrs. Donna Corriveau, right, takes time to feed son Robert Jr., 2½-months; and Holly Emonds, 3, holds down chair until her mom gets back with help to carry it out of the store, below. Once shoppers found their bargains they waited a long time to pay for the goods, below right.

More Power For Capital Expenditures Commission

Suffield First Selectman Chester Kuras believes the town needs a watchdog over its capital expenditures to supply the town with a direction as it continues to expand in population and budget.

The Advisory Commission on Capital Expenditures resigned last November citing lack of power as the main reason for their resignation. Kuras would remedy this by endowing a new commission with more legislative power, rather than must being an "advisory" body.

Under Kuras' plan the commission would become more of a planning unit and its function would be similar to the Zoning and Planning Commission. It would be responsible for all the planning and development of all capital expenditures in town. He even sees the responsibility extending beyond capital expenditures to overseeing the tax structure and possibly predicting the mill rates.

Kuras would make it mandatory that all capital expenses be subject to the commission's scrutiny and recommendations, making it impossible for any other commission to bypass it in a proposal.

The commission would be answerable to the Board of Selectmen, the Board of Finance and to a town meeting. They should make the plans and the Board of Finance would put the recommendations into effect.

"We must have long-range planning for expenditures", Kuras said. At the present time, the only long range planning of capital expenditures being done is bonding by the Board of Selectmen and the treasurer.

Tax Aid

Elderly town residents in Suffield may obtain aid with taxes in the Town Hall if the combined income of husband and wife, older than 65, is less than $6,000. They may fill out a form to choose whether they want help under the circuit-breaker law or freeze. Deadline to apply for this benefit is May 15.

organization to contribute to the Girl Scout program. More than 200 Suffield girls are members of 10 troops. Funds raised are essential to help provide services to adult leaders and troops in the local association, as well as the varied camping opportunities and special programs offered the girls year round.

Suffield is one of fifteen community associations in the Connecticut Valley Girl Scout Council. The council served more than 14,000 girls during 1975 and provided camping opportunities for over 9000 Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Kolnsberg, of 1090 Ratley Rd., West Suffield, has been active in Girl Scouting for more than ten years, beginning in the Greater New York council. She is enthusiastic about her role as Sustaining Membership chairman for the Scouts. She is president of the Suffield Woman's Club and vice-chairman of the Suffield Bicentennial Commission. She has long been active in PTO activities. A major concern for Mrs. Kolnsberg is about the values affecting today's children.

"Girl Scouting offers girls an opportunity to share in the natural environment and to share concern for one another," Mrs. Kolnsberg asserts. She feels this is a positive alternative to the artificial stimulation and sometimes thrill-seeking activities besieging our youth, and hopes parents and friends who support the organization will contribute during the drive this month.

School Board Vacancy

The resignation of Suffield Board of Education member Margaret Siver, accepted this past week, leaves a vacancy on the board to be filled. Mrs. Silver, a Republican, served on the board for almost five years before her resignation.

Anyone interested in serving on the board is asked to write to board chairman, Robert Sheldon, in care of Supt. of Schools Dr. Malcolm Evans by Mar. 21. The board will appoint a new member at a special meeting March 30 to fill Mrs. Siver's unexpired term.

Bicentennial Decoration Committee

Suffield American Bicentennial Commission chairman Roger Loomis has announced that a decoration committee, headed by Mrs. Howard Alcorn and Mrs. William Leete, will be in charge of the town decoration for Bicentennial events.

So far, about 200 out of the total 500 commemorative Bicentennial spoons have been sold, Loomis said.

The commission is looking for volunteers for the July 3 picnic committee, the chairman said.

Other big Bicentennial events coming up are the visit of the Connecticut conestoga wagon at the Hatheway Barn for the Boy Scout special Bicentennial event in April; and the House and Barn Tour of historic buildings in May, Loomis said.

Demo Officers

The Suffield Democratic Town Committee has elected Matthew Tynan as chairman; Susan Kaplan as vice chairwoman; Brian Fitzgerald as treasurer; and Carol Hoffacker as secretary.

Zoning And Planning Action

The Suffield Zoning and Planning Commission has approved the subdivision and site plan for 25 more units at the Suffield Meadows development near the Suffield-Enfield Bridge.

Architect Robert Andrews of the Tinkham Development Corp. stated that the units would be contained in five buildings. There would be ten two-bedroom units and 15 two-bedroom and a den unit. The additional development, which will be erected on 2.81 acres, is the fourth of its kind in the Suffield Meadows 85-unit complex.

The subdivision was approved by the commission on the grounds that certain provisions be complied with and they have the right to have the consulting engineer, Edward Kant, inspect the area upon completion.

The commission also gave approval to the First Church of Christ, Congregational to convert the Mather House, which was willed to them, from a one family to a three-family home. The house built in 1794 by Timothy Swan had been the property of the Mather family for 100 years when it was willed by Amy Mather and her niece, Lucille Mather Wilson to the church.

Local Firm Hired For Road Building

The Suffield Board of Selectmen approved hiring Ayotte Brothers Construction, Inc. of Suffield to build a 906 foot road off East Street in the industrial park zone. The road will provide access to a warehouse now being built by H. Ginsberg Sons of Windsor. The approval was given Mar. 4.

The Ayotte firm was the lowest bidder of seven for the road project, which includes installing storm drains and sewers. The bid by Ayotte was for $58,87.55, with a 5 per cent bond. The town had approved $65,000 for the road project which it hopes will also encourage additional industry into the park.

Once the company has been notified of the board's decision, it has 10 days to enter into the contract at the risk of forfeiting its posted bond, after which it has 160 days to complete construction.

Approved

In other action, the Suffield Board of Selectmen approved hiring a person to handle grants under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program. Job applicants may contact the selectmen's office to arrange for an interview with First Selectman Chester Kuras.

The selectmen appointed Warren Fuller to the Historic District Commission to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Howard Alcorn.

SnowDays Calendar

The Suffield Board of Education has voted to retain the original calendar for snow days.

Snow days, when schools are closed because of stormy weather, will be made up during the first part of the summer vacation. The alternative to this which was rejected was to conduct make-up sessions during the April vacation.

Chief Appointed

Suffield Police Chief Frank Sutula has been appointed by Governor Grasso to the Municipal Police Training Council. He succeeds Chief Hamlin A. Bell of Clinton, and will serve until Sept. 30.

Road Sign Grant Received

First Selectman Chester Kuras reports that the U.S. State Department of Transportation has approved a grant of $12,100 to update the town's road signs so they conform with federal regulations. The grant, sought by Police Chief Frank Sutula, in the name of the town highway department two and a half years ago, includes the purchase of 280 regulatory and 167 warning metal signs. Federal regulations will standardize all municipal and federal signs in the country to become effective in January of 1977.

The town highway department is responsible for maintenance of the signs.

Police Recruit Cadets

Two Suffield police supernumeraries, Michael Lewandowski and Joseph Winter, have volunteered to recruit members for the local Cadet Police Unit among high school students between 15 and 20 years. Police Chief Frank Sutula said he was happy to receive names of five interested teenagers and would like to expand the group to ten.

The Cadet Police Unit program was initiated in Suffield in 1970. Lewandowski was one of the first six cadets. The others were Donald Fulton, Gary Higginbotham, James Balch, Steven Atkinson and David Winter. They assisted the regular patrolmen with paper work, desk duty, filing, dispatching calls, traffic control, radar work and investigation for a minimum of eight hours a week.

Police Chief Sutula views the cadet unit as a liaison group between the police department and their own age group. The cadets take the same training courses as the regular supernumeraries.

 Your personal friend

Beginning February 29, at all of our offices you can open a personal check/savings account that earns 5% interest — it's called "Savings Plus".

Take a good look at these Free PLUS features Suffield Savings Bank offers as standard equipment on this check/savings plan.

PLUS: Extra Income . . . at 5% a year—Many checking accounts pay you nothing for the use of your deposited dollars. Our "Savings Plus" checking account earns 5% interest for you—from the day of deposit right up to the day your checks are actually paid.

PLUS: No complicated fee schedules—just a 15¢ per check charge for each check cleared.

PLUS: No Charge for Checks—There's no charge for checks. They're pre-numbered and personalized with your name.

PLUS: No Minimum Balance Restrictions—Unlike some checking and N.O.W. accounts, there's no minimum balance requirement.

PLUS: Automatic Transfers—Convenient automatic transfer from your "Savings Plus" account to your other savings or loan accounts—helps you save regularly and build good credit.

PLUS: Overdraft Protection—You'll never have a check bounce again. If you happen to write a Savings Plus check for more than your balance, don't worry. We'll automatically loan you the money you need to cover your check (based on your available line of credit).

PLUS: Combined Statement—Each month with your cancelled checks you will receive a detailed checking account statement showing the interest your deposited money has earned, a numerical listing of all checks which readily identifies outstanding checks and complete records of other savings, loan or mortgage accounts.

PLUS: Bank by Mail Convenience—You can handle your account in person and by mail. For your convenience, we supply all the free, pre-addressed, postage-paid envelopes you need.

PLUS: More Interest—Remember, the other savings accounts at Suffield Savings Bank earn the highest rate allowed by law.

Engagements

Miss Jacqueline Marie Morin

Morin - DeVoe

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kirby of 14 First Ave., Enfield, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Jackqueline Marie Morin, to Gerald DeVoe, son of Mrs. Jennie DeVoe of 42 Whitworth St., Enfield.

The bride's fiance is employed at Montgomery Co. of Windsor Locks. Wedding plans are still being made. After their marriage the couple will live in Whittier, Cal.

Witnesses Convene

Jehovah's Witnesses from the Enfield congregation attended a two-day convention last week at their new assembly hall in Natick, Mass. Norman J. Haskell, Jr., presiding overseer of the group said, "The program highlighted the importance of being doers of the word of God, not just readers of the word. Those who thus apply themselves to do what God requires have sound reason for confidence that God will perform all the things that he has promised."

The 135 local delegates watched on closed circuit TV as one (1) person from the Enfield congregation symbolized his desire to do

God's will by being baptised in the indoor pool by complete water immersion. Sunday afternoon, the 1,247 in attendance heard district overseer, William Martin deliver the main address, "Doers of the Word are Happy", in which he stressed the need to adjust one's life to better conform to Bible principles.

The Witnesses saw demonstrations and heard discussions on how to apply the Bible in their daily living. They were encouraged to continue preaching as Jesus did despite worsening world conditions.

St. Joseph's Dance Success

The St. Joseph School Parent Educator Group held a fund-raising dance Feb. 28. Those who attended danced to the music of "The Brothers," while hot popcorn, tap beer and grinders were provided for all.

Doorprizes included: $25 gift certificate to The Hospitality Inn, dinner for 2 at Coachlight Dinner Theatre and Hotzy's Restaurant, $10 gift certificate to Puleri's Sporting Goods Store, tennis racket from Spree, hammer from Kelly-Fradet, also contributing doorprizes were The Tree Hut, Enfield Mall, Enfield Twin Rinks, Franklin House Restaurant, Suffield and Lions Club of Enfield.

EJL Presidents Honored

At the Enfield Jewish League's paid-up dinner on Saturday, February 28th, president Bob Ventimiglia presented engraved gavels to Irv Abramson, Mort Brown, and Marty Dressler, our past-presidents.

The Enfield Jewish League was begun four years ago by three Jewish mothers looking for something Jewish in Enfield for their children. It all began with a small party for a few children, and has expanded over the years as an existing and growing organization offering a large social calendar, friendship, news and views for the expanding Jewish Community in the Enfield area.

Anyone wishing further information on the Enfield Jewish League is asked to contact Bob Ventimiglia, Enfield Jewish League, P.O. Box 403 High Street, Enfield, Connecticut 06082.

Girl Scout Drive Begins

Mrs. Edward Johnson, chairman of the Sustaining Membership Enrollment drive for the Enfield Girl Scouts has announced the drive will be held during March, offering parents of Scouts and friends of the organization an opportunity to support the Girl Scout program. "Enfield is the largest association in the Connecticut Valley Girl Scout Council," reports Mrs. Johnson, "serving 1,259 girls in 63 troops." Funds raised supplement support from the United Way, helping to provide services to troops and their adult leaders in the local association, as well as the varied camping opportunities and special programs available to the girls year round.

Twins' Parents Dance

The Twins' Mother's Club of Greater Hartford will sponsor a Spirit of '76 Dance, featuring the Main Street Dance Band, on Friday, Apr. 2 from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., at BPOE, Elks Club, Roberts St. East Hartford, BYOB. Tickets are $10 per couple. To purchase tickets, contact Mrs. Steven Stelmack, Enfield, 745-4253.

Enfield is one of fifteen community associations in the Connecticut Valley Council. During 1975, the council served over 14,000 girls in 500 troops, and provided camping experiences for 9,000 girls.

Mrs. Johnson lives at 379 Hazard Ave. She has been in Girl Scouting for eleven years, having served as Brownie leader, a member of the local nominating and resources committee, and on the day camp staff. In addition to her duties as Sustaining Membership Chairman, she is a leader of Junior troop No. 392 and is Community Association Chairman. She is active in PTA activities and is a member of the Joy Singers, an ecumenical folk group.

In expressing her hope for a successful drive this month, Mrs. Johnson spoke of the things Girl Scouting offers girls. "In addition to troop meetings the girls participate in many special events including the fall field day, the town-wide caroling, Scout-a-rama, and a variety of camping weekends for Brownies, Juniors, Cadettes and Seniors, girls from six to seventeen."

Woman's Club Competes

Three of the six judges of the Arts and Craft Show sponsored by the Woman's Club of Enfield are pictured above from the left, Mrs. Henry C. Mercik, Sewing and Needlecraft judge; Mrs. John O'Connor, Jr., Arts and Crafts judge and Mrs. David Baxter, Sewing and Needlecraft judge. Some of the first place winners of the Arts and Craft Show sponsored by

Chester Brainard Nurseryman, Dies

Chester F. Brainard, 93, of 21 School St., Enfield, horticulturist and nurseryman, died in Johnson Memorial Hospital, Stafford, March 4.

He was a life-long Enfield resident. Mr. Brainard started the North End Nurseries in 1905 on Enfield Street where the Enfield Shopping Plaza now stands.

In 1911, his brother, the late D. William Brainard, became a partner and they also did a cut-flower business, which was discontinued in 1914. D. William Brainard withdrew from the partnership in 1917.

The business name was changed to Brainard Nursery & Seed Co. in 1914 and later the business was expanded into a retail and wholesale outlet selling seed, greenhouse plants, nursery stock and garden supplies. It did a large mail order business.

For many years Mr. Brainard was the town's largest private employer. The area off Elm Street where the Brainard Nursery grew evergreens, shade trees and shrubs is now St. Thomas Street.

In 1955, Mr. Brainard sold most of his Enfield Street site to Alan Heflin of Bristol for a shopping center, moving a few buildings to the south side and in late 1956 opened a new business, Brainard Seed Co.

He continued this business until September 1959, when he sold out to Floyd A. Oatman of Adams Nursery, Westfield, Mass. The nursery continued the business as Adams-Brainard Inc.

Mr. Brainard was a former tree warden for Enfield, former member and president of the Connecticut Nurserymen's Association, former member of the New England Seedsmen's Association, a former member of the Old Thompsonville Board of Trade and later the Enfield Chamber of Commerce and a former trustee of the Enfield Cemetery Association.

He was one of the founders of the association which sponsored the western Massachusetts flower shows. He also was the oldest member of the Enfield Society for the Detection of Thieves and Robbers, a social group, and a charter member of the Enfield Historical Society.

Mr. Brainard was former member of the First Presbyterian Church and its treasurer many years. Later he was a member of the Hazardville United Methodist Church.

He leaves a son, Chester F. Brainard Jr. of Enfield; a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Abell of South Glastonbury, and a sister Mrs. Edith B. Claderwood of Springfield.

The funeral was March 7 at Leete Funeral Home. Burial was in Enfield Street Cemetery.

Pancakes for All . . .

Recently the Enfield Lions held their annual "Pancake Breakfast" at the Enfield St. School. Project Chairman, Joe Cimino, reports that the committee fed pancakes to over 400 people and sold many gift like products that were produced by the blind. All proceeds will be returned to the community through Lions sponsored programs. Photos show Ralph Fiore and Joe Cimino mixing up another batch of pancakes while Nick DeCaro and John Buckley cook up the pancakes.

BOWLING

With Art Landry

Many of the league races are tightening up as we come down to the last few weeks of the winter bowling season. A little practice once or twice a week might help some teams catch up. Something to think about?

BRADLEY BOWL

Kathie Martin was the big gun in the Enfield Emblems with 190-523. Darlene Jacobs bowled 176-499, Millie Majewski 173-489, Rita Menoche 192-471, Barbara Landry 468, Carol Jordan 177 and Barbara Piedmont 173. Manhattans are leading Zombies by a half point, Pink Ladies by one and a half and Stingers by four points only. A tight race indeed.

Larry's Auto Supply Sponsoring Tullius

Bob Tullius of Leesburg, Va., one of America's top sports car drivers, will be a competitor in The Race at Stafford Speedway on April 10 through the sponsorship of Larry's Auto Supply in Route five in South Windsor.

Tullius will drive the number three modified originally slated for Dick Dunn. The car, owned by Peg Gaudreau and prepared by Al Gaudreau, won the 1975 New London Waterford Speedbowl Championship.

Tullius has twice won the Champion Spark Plug Road Racing Classic at Atlanta and is the current defending champion of that event. He is a five time National SCCA driving champion who has also competed at Daytona in Grand Nationals, in oval racing with NASCAR Grand Americans, in the 24 hours of Daytona, at Sebring and Le Mans.

He is currently sponsored by Quaker State Motor Oil and the British Leyland Motor Company. He is Jaguar's factory driver for their V-12 car, a machine capable of racing at 175 mph. Tullius' organization, called Group 44, travels throughout America for British Leyland competing regularly in SCCA National events.

Tullius says that he is particularly excited about competing in The Race at Stafford because, "I've heard so much about Stafford Speedway that I'll be really looking forward to racing on it."

Larry Duprey of Larry's Auto Supply is the sponsor of Tullius' effort. Duprey is a long time race supporter who, in addition to bringing Tullius to The Race will also be bringing dozens of race car drivers, movies of racing, manufacturers reps and race cars to his grand opening on March 20. Tullius will also be there to tell race fans about his feelings in going against the heavies of the modified set when he runs for Larry's Auto Supply in The Race.

Tankers To Hold Carnival

The Enfield Tankers Swim Team will hold a Championship Relay Carnival at Fermi High School on March 21. Enfield will be hosting the seven towns in this year's Winter schedule.

The Tankers held a Swim-A-Thon last Saturday to raise funds for the team. The swimmers did 50 yard laps with pledges from their sponsors for each lap completed. Matt Williams was the champ with 250 laps completed. This was equivalent to over 7 miles of swimming. Shelly Oppenheimer had over 40 sponsors and completed 32 laps. The team stands to collect over $1100 for their efforts which were sponsored by the Parent's Association.

The Tankers defeated Wethersfield 259-217 under the tutelage of Coaches Charlie Dougan and Bob Beigel. Kim Kowalchuk won the freestyle and breaststroke for girls 8 and under. Kay Dugan won the freestyle and individual medley for girls 11-12. Matt Williams won the butterfly and freestyle for boys 13-14. Erin Lynch won the girls 9-10 butterfly and individual medley. Louis Gomes took the individual medley and butterfly for boys 11-12. Bill Ball was first in the backstroke and breaststroke events for boys 9-10. Guy Williams was first in the boys 11-12 backstroke and breaststroke.

Other winners included:

Questions On School Funds EHS Seniors Designated As State Scholars

The first round in the struggle over school construction funding was completed peacefully at the state capitol last week.

But legislators who are working on the problem said all the major questions are still to be resolved.

The General Assembly's Education Committee, one of three groups tackling the issue, voted last week to draft a massive collection of new school construction legislation.

The bills would allow the state to set aside a certain amount of money each year to help towns pay for the cost of building or refurbishing their public schools.

The State Board of Education would then be allowed to decide which towns would get the money, and how much they would receive. The measures were proposed, not surprisingly, by the State Board of Education. But chances are the board will not have the kind of latitude it is looking for in the final bill.

Many legislators are still angry with the board for allowing the school construction fund to go dry without warning the General Assembly it was running out of money.

Until last summer, the state routinely paid half the cost of any local school construction project. Regional school districts got even higher reimbursements.

Now that the money has run out, however, the legislature does not plan to return to the old system. "We've been spending at the rate of $50 million a year and we haven't been evaluating the buildings at all," complained Finance Committee chairman Sen. Audrey Beck, D-Mansfield.

As State Scholars

Leo Yaconiello, Principal of Enfield High School, announced today that twenty five members of the Class of 1976 have been designated as State of Connecticut Scholars. They are among the 2500 scholars to receive this honor from a group of 9500 applicants. Selection was based on a combined score which weighted academic performance indicated by rank-in-class and academic ability as evidenced by scores earned on the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board.

In announcing the names of the recipients, Mr.

Yaconiello said that "Designation as a State of Connecticut Scholar is a high honor. We are proud of our students accomplishments".

The students receiving this honor are eligible for the State Scholarship Program. They are: Elizabeth Albert, Elizabeth Baer, Linda Bombola, Patricia Cabrera, James Ciemniowski, Joanne Clark, Kathleen Clark, Kathleen Coakley, Charles Creedon, Anne Desrosiers, Mark Dripchak, Cynthia Eimann, Susan Garvey, Linda Giguere, Jennifer Goguts, Carol Hayden, Charlene Hoxie, Edward McCoy, Marie McGuire, Sharon McMahon, Michael Netkovich, Kathleen O'Donnell, Lillian Sheridan, Mary Sullivan and Ted Wagner.

Little League Sign-Up

The Hazardville Little League will hold its final sign-ups at Eli Whitney School this Saturday from 1-5 p.m. and this Sunday, from 2-5 p.m.

Registration is for boys and girls between the ages of eight and 15, and each registrant must be accompanied by one parent. Anyone signing up for the first time must bring a birth certificate. The fee for registration will be $5 for the first family member, $2 for the second, and $1 for each additional member.

Coaches, managers, umpires, and auxiliary volunteers are needed and are urged to sign up during registration. For further information call President Ron Turcotte, 745-7003.

TLL SIGN-UPS

The Thompsonville Little League will hold sign ups for boys ages 8-15 March 13 from 1 to 4 p.m.; March 19 6:30 to 8 p.m. and March 20 1 to 4 p.m. All sessions will be at the Town Hall on Enfield Street.

Fees are $4 per boy with a maximum charge of $10 per family. These will be the only sign up opportunities. Boys who do not register at one of these sessions will not be able to play little League ball this year.

The Board of Directors of the Thompsonville Little League will hold its meeting March 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Hall.

LEGAL NOTICE WARNING HAZARDVILLE FIRE DISTRICT ENFIELD, CONN.

The legal voters of the Hazardville Fire District within the Town of Enfield, County of Hartford and State of Connecticut are hereby warned that the Annual Meeting of the District will be held at the Fire Station on Hazard Ave. in Enfield, Connecticut on Monday, March 15, 1976 at 8:00 o'clock in the evening for the following purposes:

ARTICLE I
To receive and act upon the reports of Board of Fire Commissioners and other officers of the Fire District.

ARTICLE II
To elect a Board of Fire Commissioners for the ensuing year.

ARTICLE III
To see what action, if any, the District will take towards authorizing the Board of Fire Commissioners of the Hazardville Fire District to contract for the installation of sanitary sewer line to the new sewer main line installed by the Town. To install 310'-12" concrete storm drain pipe with three (3) catch basins and connect to State storm sewers. Install new curbing and regrade rear driveway - gravel and then blacktop. Cost to be taken from Reserve Fund for Capital Improvement.

ARTICLE IV
To see what action, if any, the District will take towards authorizing the Board of Fire Commissioners of the Hazardville Fire District to add an amount of Twelve Thousand Three Hundred ($12,300.00) Dollars as budgeted for the ensuing year to the Reserve Fund for Capital Improvements. That the Board of Fire Commissioners also be authorized to increase the amount at their discretion at the end of the 1976-77 fiscal year from unexpanded amounts in the budget or from funds that may be collected in excess of amounts anticipated in the 1976-77 budget.

ARTICLE V
To see what action, if any, the District will take on the budget submitted by the Board of Fire Commissioners and to make appropriation for the fiscal year July 1, 1976 to June 30, 1977.

ARTICLE VI
To see what action, if any, the District will take on laying a tax of one (1) mill on the Taxable Property within the Hazardville Fire District to provide funds for the appropriation authorized under Article V.

ARTICLE VII
To transact any other business that is proper to come before said meeting.
Dated at Enfield, Connecticut this 1st day of March, 1976.

By order of the Board of Fire Commissioners of the Hazardville Fire District.
Robert A. Weisleder
Gerald E. Donnelly
Robert H. Starr

NOW

A new kind of account that pays bills like checking and earns interest like savings.

NOW Accounts — an exciting new concept in banking services. You can use this single account like an ordinary checking account and it pays you a full 5% interest from day of deposit to day of withdrawal, compounded continuously and credited monthly.

Why keep your ordinary checking account, when you can collect interest with your NOW Account? This revolutionary new savings service is now available at all offices of State Bank for Savings.

Here's more good news: your interest-paying NOW Account is completely free of all service charges, if you keep just $500 in your account. And — don't forget, you earn interest on every penny, just like a savings account. If you prefer not to keep the minimum balance, your checks are only 10¢ each.

Come in today or call to find out how you can earn 5% interest on the money you use for writing checks.
