Bicentennial March Ready

According to Chairman Robert Watton, the parade orders for Enfield's April 24 Bicentennial are in the final stages of preparation. The final line of march information will be published April 14.

The parade begins at 1 p.m. at the Old Town Hall on Enfield Street and will march north past the reviewing stand located opposite High Street to the new Town Hall. Watton reminds all groups planning to march, but not yet registered, to contact him as soon as possible so they may be included in the parade orders.

Over 40 floats, more than 20 musical units and scores of marchers are scheduled to appear.

Rain date for the parade is May 1.

Frank Amell of Enfield with the stray cat he pulled from rain-swollen Freshwater Brook.

Teen Braves Current To Rescue Stray Cat

He didn't think much about what he was doing until it was all over, but when Frank Amell looks back he realizes he risked his life to save a stray cat.

Last week Amell, 17, of Martin St., Enfield, was exploring Freshwater Brook in Thompsonville.

Just below Prospect St. — in a space in a massive stone wall supporting a vacant building — Amell spotted an animal that appeared more than a little concerned that the rising water was going to reach its sanctuary.

"It was a cat and it looked half-drowned," Amell recalls.

Without thinking much about it Amell stepped into the chilling waters of the brook and moved his feet over the slippery stones below until he reached the wall.

"The water was up to my waist — and it was cold — but I made it across and back without falling."

Frank picked the frightened feline from the hole in the wall and carried her to the high banks behind a dance studio and pool hall.

It was raining hard and he wrapped the animal in an old shirt.

They ended up at Amell's sister's home on Till St. Mrs. Anita Sugalski says Frank and the cat were a pathetic sight when they got there.

"They were wet and cold and Frank told me how he crossed the brook to get to the cat. That was dangerous," she said.

It was dangerous. The rain-swollen brook could have swept Amell to the Connecticut River had he lost his footing.

Why get soaked to save a cat?

"I like cats," says Frank, "and the way the brook was rising I knew she'd drown in that hole."

So Frank has a cat. No name, no front claws; just a flea collar.

"I kinda hope nobody owns her; I'd like to keep her," he says.

His family seems to attract cats.

Somebody tossed one into his sister's car when it was parked at a shopping center in West Springfield. Around its neck was a note asking her to take care of the animal.

Returning to the spot where he had crossed the brook, Frank looked down the steep clay bank and across the stream to the hole from which he had pulled the cat.

Frank says he doesn't know how the cat got into the hole in the wall; the only likely way is the way Frank got there — through the water.

"I don't know whether the cat was thrown or fell into the brook, but I guess she was glad to see me coming."

Would he do it again, just to save a cat?

Frank thought for a moment, then said "Yeah, I guess I would."

"The First Flag"

The fourth grade classes at the Henry Barnard School presented a Bicentennial Program for the PTO last night. Mrs. Allison Boldra, music teacher with teachers Miss Kennedy, Mrs. Wadden, Mrs. Gaylor and their students worked to make the program a success. Part 1 of the program was a play called "The First Flag". This was followed by students in original costumes who read reports about famous Americans. The final part, was a demonstration Flag Drill. Included in the program were recitations of two famous poems and a variety of patriotic songs. Taking part in the "The First Flag" are front row from left, Bruce Vendetta as Colonel Ross, Michael Jones as Robert Morris, George Celi as George Washington and Kim Grunert as Betsy Ross. In the second row, same order are Betsy's daughters, Jill Kowalchuck as Penelope, DiAnn Jones as Hope and Lynn Johnson as Amelia.

German Students Arrive Here Today

Fourteen students and two teacher-chaperones arrive today to spend four days with students from Enfield High School. They will remain in Enfield until Sunday.

These exchange students come to Enfield as part of an exchange program which is co-sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and the Council on International Educational Exchange.

The German exchange students come to America for a period of three weeks. Most of their stay will be in New Jersey as guests of Roselle Park High School, a town about ten miles outside of Newark.

While in Enfield, the Germans will stay in homes of students studying German from Enfield High School. They will participate in classes tomorrow and a reception will be given in their honor tomorrow during the school day. Tomorrow night they will be guests at a potluck supper to be given by the hosting families. Saturday the students will travel to Boston to take in some of the Bicentennial sites.

Students from Enfield High School will have the opportunity this summer to participate in this exchange. A group of fifteen students from Enfield and from Roselle Park will travel to Stadthagen, Germany this August for a period of 3½ weeks. The students will travel in Germany for a couple of days and then will be housed in Stadthagen, from which the German exchange students come. The American students will participate in high school classes there and also experience the "German" way of life.

Two students from Enfield have previously participated in this exchange program. Dan Flanagan and Ted Wagner, two seniors from Enfield High travelled last summer to Stadthagen. Both students will host German students this year.

The program in Enfield is being coordinated by Mark Winzler, German teacher at Enfield High. He first became connected with this program when he was doing his student teaching at the high school in New Jersey who this year extended the invitation to have the Germans visit Connecticut.

Heart Association Special Program

A program of "Sharing and Caring," designed to help cardiac patients and their families adjust to life after a heart attack, will begin in Enfield April 22. It is being offered by the Heart Association of Greater Hartford.

The group will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. in Steiger's Employee Lounge located at Enfield Square. They will continue meeting each Thursday for ten weeks under the direction of Betty Brew of West Suffield, a trained group leader.

Sharing and Caring focuses on helping the cardiac patient and his or her family adapt to the changes in life style that occur following a heart attack. Resource people including cardiologists, psychiatrists and dieticians attend various sessions to answer questions relating to their particular field. Group participants can also share and discuss their feelings concerning individual problems.

Sharing and Caring is free of charge and open to heart attack victims and their families. The heart association recommends that husbands and wives attend together, and singles are also welcome.

Group size is limited and registration is required. For information or registration, call the heart association office at 522-6155 or 623-5545.

JC Wives To Meet Tuesday

The next meeting of the Enfield Jaycee Wives will be April 13 at the Central Library at 8 p.m.

The speaker will be from the Rape Crisis Center in Hartford with some information about rape, such as why it happens and how to protect yourself. There will also be an explanation on how the Rape Center operates. During the business meeting a slate of candidates running for office next year will be presented.

The Jaycee Wives, who are sponsoring Girl Scout Troop 431, have presented them with the proceeds from a recent Bake Sale. The Wives will also be helping out with the Cervical Screening Clinic to be held a second time during the month of April.

As a fund raiser the Wives are selling Big Mac coupons. Anyone interested in purchasing any may call Nancy Walker at 745-7892.

Weicker To Speak To Chamber

Sen. Lowell Weicker (R-Conn.) will speak at the 81st annual meeting of the Greater Enfield Chamber of Commerce Wednesday at the Hospitality Inn.

Weicker is scheduled to speak at the 8:15 a.m. breakfast which is open to the public.

Tickets for the breakfast are $3.75, available in advance at the Chamber office, 9 North Main St. Reservations may be made by calling 745-3363.

Tickets will not be sold the morning of the breakfast. According to Chamber President Dexter S. Burnham, the meeting will be the most important of the year for Chamber members.

He said the meeting will be used to report on the efforts of his administration during the past year and provide members with a forum to voice opinions on the organization's accomplishments and offer suggestions concerning the direction of the Chamber for the coming year.

Chamber officers for the coming year will also be elected at the breakfast meeting.

New Chamber members who will be welcomed at the meeting are:

A.F. & S. Construction, Buczkowski Insurance,

A Town Resident Answers Cressotti's Questionnaire

By ERNEST A. MOKUS

Rep. Richard Cressotti, Democrat of the 58th Assembly District, distributed a questionnaire to his constituents last weekend containing 16 questions involving state government.

I, although not a resident of his district but of the 59th, nevertheless, a resident and registered voter of Enfield and Connecticut, would like to express my opinion concerning his questionnaire.

Q. Which of the following courses would you prefer to see the General Assembly take for the 1976-77 fiscal year budget?

A. State Income Tax. b. Increase in existing taxes and fees. c. Cuts in state services.

A. This first question is really a tough one. I, personally, would not like to see the advent of any one of them. However, if the state really needed the money to offset its deficit, I would prefer a cut in state services rather than to take more money from the wage earner. Concerning a and b, we are taxed enough.

Q. Use of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Fund?

A. Definitely not. We needed these men (and women) and depended upon them some 35 years ago — now they need us and the fund.

Q. Forty hour work week for state employees?

A. Another tough question. However, if they can do their jobs, as they have been doing since the inception of the 35-hour week, then let it be. Anyway, nobody wants to work five hours a week for nothing — nor should they.

Q. Repeal of the Blue Laws?

A. Yes, they are antiquated, puritanical and of no benefit to the state in its governmental process.

Q. Horse racing in Connecticut?

A. Yes, horse racing would increase revenue for the state which in turn, could possibly decrease taxes and the specter of a state income tax. After all, we already have gambling in the form of a lottery and a dog track in Plainfield. Also, we will soon have a jai alai pronton in Hartford.

Q. Do you feel that you are well-informed on the activities of the General Assembly?

A. This depends upon the newspaper one subscribes to. Of the five daily newspapers circulated in Enfield, only one, a Hartford daily, covers this adequately. The other newspaper which covers the activities of the G. A. adequately is this, The Enfield Press. This is not being stated because this writer is employed by The Enfield Press. See for yourself, The Enfield Press has a Town Hall page, a Legislature page and articles of and by our local legislators interspersed throughout the newspaper every week.

Q. Raising of the drinking age from 18 to 21?

A. No. When this question came up in the G. A., the main argument for it was, "If they are old enough to go to war, they are old enough to drink." That still applies.

Q. Abolition of unemployment compensation for those fired with just cause or those who quit?

A. No, such workers have contributed a portion of their wages to this fund and therefore, are entitled to benefit from it, regardless of the cause of becoming unemployed. Also, it might prevent them from becoming welfare recipients.

Q. Abolition of the party lever in voting machines?

A. Yes, that and the primary.

Q. Increase in welfare benefits to reflect cost of living?

A. Another tough question. Can't a way be found to find work for the employable welfare recipient? Let's return the CCC and the WPA.

Q. Abolition of Las Vegas Nights?

A. No, but perhaps should be better regulated so that the non-profit and charitable organizations that usually sponsor them, could receive a greater percentage of the money.

Q. Financial disclosure by all elected and appointed officials?

A. Yes, especially in these Watergate-weary times of bribes, payoffs and secret contributions.

Q. Do you feel that the present PUCA is an improvement over the former PUC?

A. I don't know everything nor about everything, so I must confess I don't know about this.

Q. Unemployment compensation law revision and reform?

A. It has been a long time since I have been unemployed but from comments I have heard from some of the unemployed, if true and justified, I would say this law needs to be looked into.

Q. Making the position of state legislator full-time with the provision of staff and office space?

A. No, for two reasons. First, it would increase the cost of state government which in turn would need and seek additional revenue from its residents to maintain full-time legislators, staff and office space. Second, the General Assembly located in Hartford is within easy driving distance of any state legislator.

Hang Gliding Exhibit At ES Starts Today

The Northwind Hang Gliding School will present an exhibit on Hang Gliding at Enfield Square beginning today through Saturday. The display in the Steiger's court will include two hang gliding kites, informational material and films depicting this exciting and popular new sport.

The Northwood Hang Gliding School, located at Ski Sundown ski area in New Hartford, Connecticut, has a training center for people who want to learn and open flying for experienced gliders. Under the experienced direction of Charles Stetson and Michael Begin, flyers undergo training in various classifications progressing to higher elevations and difficult maneuvers. Both Stetson and Begin are members of the Connecticut Hang Gliders Association and Glider Sports International, organizations that encourage interest in the sport and provide safety regulations.

The public is invited to see the interesting display and learn about this fascinating sport.

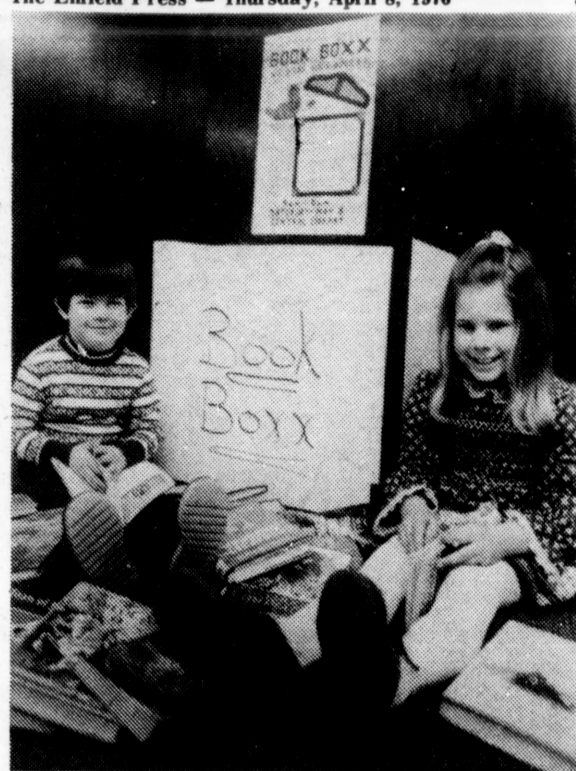

CRLC Meet Tomorrow

The CRLC, Enfield Chapter, will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Central Library on Middle Road in Enfield.

Anyone from the north central Connecticut area interested in obtaining information and in supporting pro life interests is invited to attend.

The Enfield group now in its formative stages, has met twice and is attempting to organize a charter study group which topic will be discussed at the upcoming meeting. Several activities concerning the group will also be discussed.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information should call 745-3848.

Jonathan Turi and Rebecca Cihocki, both 4, look over books at Enfield Central Library, one of ten spots in town where a Book Boxx drop box is located.

Book Boxx Drive Through May 3; Sale Set May 8

Used books. Hardbound and paperback. Adult and children's books. Old textbooks, manuals, encyclopedias and other reference works. Even comic books.

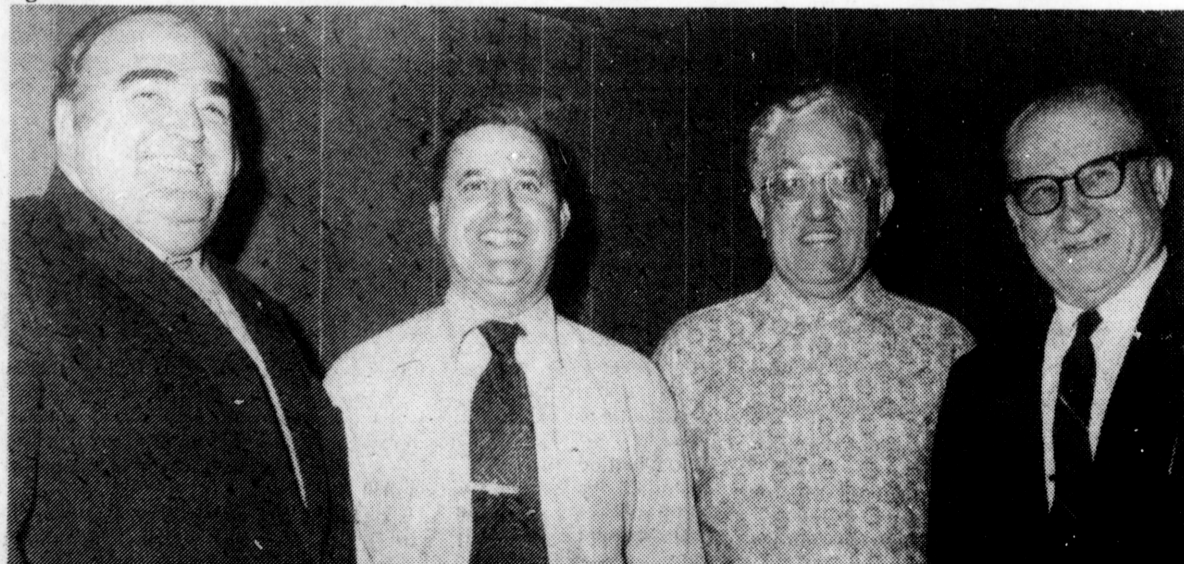

If you have them, and they're in good condition, the YWCA Suburban Women's Club wants them for the sixth annual Book Boxx drive and sale.

The town-wide drive continues through May 3; sale date is Saturday, May 8 at the Central Library. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Proceeds from the sale are used to buy educational equipment, visual aid materials and books for the Enfield library system, explains Sue Turi, chairman of the drive.

The sponsor has arranged to have book drop boxes at ten locations throughout town but Mrs. Turi says large quantities of books will be picked up. Questions should be directed to her at 749-2053.

Book drops are at the following locations. Enfield Central Library, Pearl St. Library, Asnuntuck Community College, the YWCA on Pearl St.; Enfield Neighborhood Activity Center, Scitico Market on Hazard Ave., Food Mart at Elm Plaza, Trade & Save off South Road, Stop & Shop off King St. and Shop Rite at State Line Plaza.

Music will be by Joe Annis. Roast Beef dinner served by Knights of Columbus and promises to be as delicious as in the past. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. with dancing following until 1 a.m. Tickets are $12 per couple and may be reserved by calling Bud Halpin at 749-9993.

Veteran's Council Officers

Airman LeGault Is Graduated

An official at Kessler AFB, Miss., has announced the graduation of Airman First Class Michael D. Le Gault, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald M. Le Gault of 16 Marion Place, Enfield, from the U.S. Air Force's telecommunications control specialist course conducted by the Air Training Command.

Airman Le Gault, was trained to monitor and analyze performance of radio and wire telecommunications circuits. Completion of the course enables him to receive academic credits through the Community College of the Air Force. The airman is being assigned to Yokota AB, Japan.

Airman LeGault, a 1972 graduate of Enfield High School, attended Western Connecticut State College at Danbury. His wife, April, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Percoski, 77 W. Shore Drive, Enfield.

Free Screening Clinic Is Set For April 11

There will be a free screening clinic in Enfield for Cooley's Anemia Trait, also called Thalassemia Minor, April 11 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church, Church and Chapel Streets, according to Nicholas J.

Lavnikovich, Director of Health.

Thalassemia is a genetic blood disorder affecting people who trace their ancestry to countries bordering the Mediterranean Sea, predominantly Greece and Italy.

The program is being sponsored by the women of St. Nicholas Orthodox Church, UNICO, a national Italian-American civic organization, the North Central District Health Department and the Connecticut State Department of Health.

Dr. John De Martino will present illustrated talks about Thalassemia to the Italian-American War Veterans April 5 at 8:30 p.m.

All people of Greek or Italian origin should take advantage of this simple blood test to determine if the trait is present. No appointment is necessary. Persons with the trait are not ill, but may have a mild anemia. Carriers of the trait who marry have a one in four chance in each pregnancy of having a child with Thalassemia Minor or Cooley's Anemia.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the North Central District Health Department.

Yellow To Boot

The financial fandango on Capitol Hill is revealing some rather curious and interesting choreography. A couple of recent swirls:

Frederic Rossomando, state personnel commissioner, is reported to have said over the weekend that as many as 4,000 state jobs can be eliminated.

The cuts could come "at almost any time if we really set our mind to it."

Rossomando has visited about 75 state departments, agencies and commissions.

"I'm firmly convinced," he said, "that while there are some departments that are understaffed, there are equally as many that are overstaffed."

He added that it would "not be difficult" to reduce the work force without loss of services.

He said the cuts could be made by layoffs, eliminating unnecessary positions, transfers, quits or retirings.

Rossomando complained that department heads are "practically autonomous."

Who's in charge . . . or do the fleas run the dog?

As soon as Rossomando's message reached Capitol Hill, it was greeted with a thunder of denials. Legislators and other officials were "greatly disturbed" by his "ill-advised and erroneous" claims.

All of a sudden, Rossomando squirmed and weaseled. He "misunderstood" the question. Baloney!

If he doesn't understand a simple question like that, what else doesn't he understand? And he heads an important department, or is it?

Perhaps Rossomando should be the first of the 4,000 to "terminate."

The other item concerns the Legislature. All eight Republican members of the Appropriations Committee joined nine Democrats in killing the longer work-week for state employees.

Up to now, we've been pointing a critical finger at the Democrats because they control the Legislature. Now the GOPers are no better.

They're either cowering before menacing threats of organized state employees or playing games. Either way it's pure politics.

Recall that all eight Republicans voted against the economy move. One Republican vote would have changed the outcome because it was a tie vote (17-17) and 17 Democrats voted for the longer work week.

It amounted to 30 minutes a day . . . big deal.

The Republicans elected to compound the chaos rather than face the issue.

They're all living in submerged submarines — and they're yellow to boot.

Today Is April 8, 1976

Today is April 8, 1976, the 99th day of our Bicentennial year, with 267 to follow.

On this date:

In 1500, a French army, aided by Swiss mercenaries, conquered Milan.

In 1730, the first Jewish congregation in America consecrated its first synagogue in New York City. The congregation dated back to 1655.

In 1826, Secretary of State Henry Clay fought a duel with Senator John Randolph of Virginia. Neither was hurt.

In 1873, a quick and inexpensive process for making oleomargarine was patented by Alfred Paraf of N. Y. C.

In 1939, King Zog of Albania fled as Italian troops invaded his country.

In 1961, a referendum in France approved a peace settlement with nationalist rebels in Algeria.

In 1968, the U. S. Supreme Court removed the death penalty provision from the Lindbergh kidnaping law.

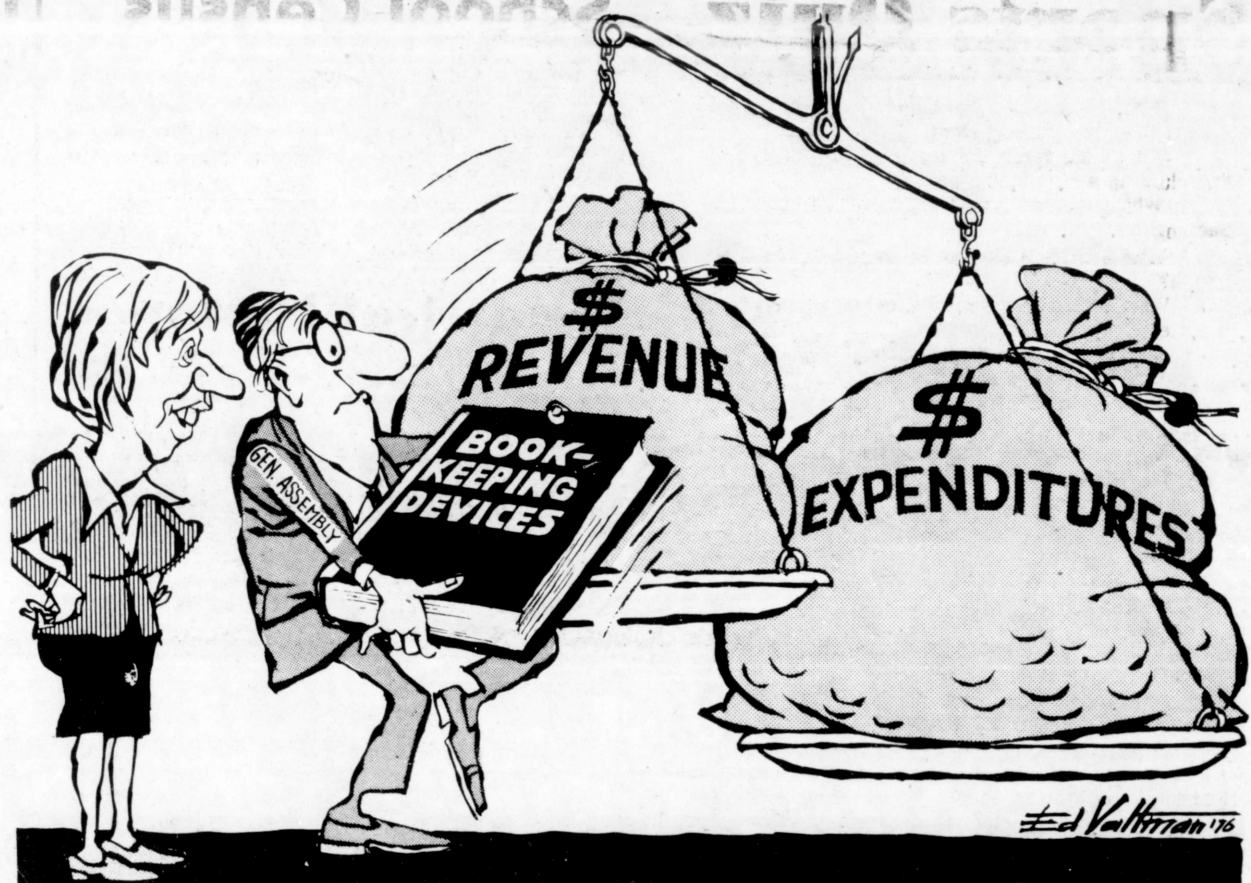

In 1970, 73 people died in an explosion of a subway under construction at Osaka, Japan.

Eleven years ago today a federal grand jury in Newark, N. J., indicted eight major oil companies on charges of conspiring to fix oil prices in N.J., Penn. and Dela.

Six years ago today the U. S. Senate rejected President Richard Nixon's Supreme Court nominee, Judge G. Harold Carswell.

The world's longest tunnel of any kind is the New York City-West Delaware water supply tunnel begun in 1937 and completed in 1945. It has a diameter of 13 feet 6 inches and runs for 85 miles from the Rondout Reservoir into the Hilview Reservoir, near the northern city line of New York City.

Thought for today: Rotten wood cannot be carved — a Chinese proverb.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Words To Youth

To The Editor:

Your editorial "Flaming Tantrum" was most relevant and important and I will always remember your words to the children: "how you must have been neglected" — I hope the educators and parents read your words carefully.

I recall my childhood as a reigning princess — the daughter of a mill hand — raised with luxuries and love — all items of laughter purchased with money earned through sweat and pain.

My father's influence has been a permanent part of my nature through my adult life and I have used this background of love and sacrifice to inspire my own children of their worth and value.

Some parents think truth is always beauty and pleasant sailing — how erroneous. Sometimes truth is devastating and responsibility has to be taken for actions — whether right or wrong — and the admission of wrong by the parents and a promise to work together better in the future, make the child respect and admire parents much more.

I hope you will write more editorials along these lines.

Pushy Parents

To The Editor:

Years ago people were so tired working with their hands and aching backs they were mainly encouraging their children to pursue education and go on to college.

Because the job picture has changed and jobs for educators or intellectuals are fewer, some parents are going to the other extreme and forcing children into trades.

Children without dreams and encouragement in their selected endeavors become apathetic, listless adults, unfulfilled during an entire lifetime.

The artists, intellectuals, etc. should not be discouraged or suppressed because the amount of money earned is not always the measure of success.

Concerned Citizen

Support Praised

To The Editor:

Thank you very much for your support of bus transportation for senior citizens in Enfield.

For the last two years this program has become a five day a week program, covering about 70 per cent of the populated areas. The bus makes regular stops at all malls, shopping centers, and every day to the Nutrition program.

For many elderly persons the bus is the only means to get to doctors' appointments and other important engagements. With the addition of the smaller bus the committee hopes to reach out to a greater proportion of elderly citizens who need this service. Thank you again.

Two Promoted

Two Enfield residents have been promoted at Aetna Life & Casualty recently.

Diane E. Milette of 16 Dorothy St. was promoted to senior analyst, group data processing. Thomas W. Goodwin of 1463 Enfield St. was named cash sickness coordinator, group new business review.

Mrs. Milette is a graduate of Westfield State College. She joined the company in 1973 as a programmer-analyst trainee and was promoted to analyst in 1974. She is a member of the Junior Women's Club of Enfield.

Goodwin joined the company in 1968 as an underwriter after a 20-year career with the U. S. Air Force.

Optional Anthem

To The Editor:

Action, please, for America the Beautiful!

Local surveys and increasing frequency of performances indicate that a large number of Americans are yearning to have America the Beautiful adopted as a second national anthem in addition to the Star-Spangled Banner. (Having two is possible: Australia has four.)

Selected For Yale Symposium

Joseph Nenichla and Eric Billings, Suffield High School juniors, and Richard Davis, faculty member of the school, were selected to participate in the 13th annual Connecticut Junior Science and Humanities Symposium held April 5 and 6 at Yale University.

In announcing their selection, Dr. Eric Berger, principal, said the symposiums were arranged to provide inspiration and encouragement as an unusual educational experience to promising members of the junior class and gifted teachers.

Readers who would like to see this come true during our Bicentennial year can help immediately by investing 18 cents in two government postals, writing their comment on the back, and mailing one to Sen. Abraham Ribicoff and one to Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., both of whom are at The Senate Building, Washington, D.C., 20510.

All U.S. senators have been approached by this committee through monthly publicity releases beginning last December, but their scattered responses have been politely noncommittal.

It appears that only a grand deluge of public opinion will start the action. That is why this letter is being sent to all Connecticut newspapers.

The movement began in Connecticut; let us now concentrate on our Connecticut senators by flooding their mail this week, telling them how much we want America the Beautiful as an optional anthem, with its dignified, singable music, lovely poem, and spirit of peace and brotherhood.

School Census

The annual school census will be taken during the month of April. Each year this census must be taken as required by laws of the State of Connecticut. Census takers will carry identification cards issued by the superintendent of school. This enumeration is of vital importance in planning the future school years. The cooperation of the public is needed so that accurate information can be obtained.

Theatrical Manager

Joyce Galasso of Suffield, a freshman at Centenary College, Hackettstown, N. J., is serving as production manager for a laboratory production of three student-directed one-act plays to be presented April 13 and 14. The plays include an absurdist theater piece, "The Sandbox", by Edward Allbee; a sociological comedy, "Overtones" by Alice Gesterberg, and a psychological drama, "The Other Player" by Owen G. Arno. Miss Galasso is the daughter of Mrs. Lawrence Galasso, 884 East St.

Marching April 24 in the Enfield Bicentennial Parade will be the Air Force Band of the East from McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.

Many of America's finest musicians are recruited for the band and have an average of ten years musical experience. They play in concerts and parades and hold clinics at high schools and colleges.

Many of the band members are also in one or more of the specialized units such as "MACPAK", the nine-man rock group.

The band will not be arriving by aircraft for this event but frequently travel by air for parades, concerts and special events throughout the Northeast.

Capitol Briefs

Deciding Vote

Cressotti Decision Final

Give And Take

While one arm of the legislature was giving help this week to financially strapped towns, another was taking some away.

The Appropriations Committee proposed to cut the $200 grant recommended for each school library for books. The grant would be too small to be effective, the committee said.

The Senate, meanwhile, approved a bill that would remove the town's responsibility to pay unemployment compensation in some instances.

The upper chamber approved a bill that would use federal money to pay aid to federally funded workers who are laid off when the grant is terminated.

In the Transportation Committee, a proposal to give away state-owned land and air rights gained approval. Under that bill, land left over from highway construction that abutted state roads would be given to the towns.

The land, one Hartford official said, could be put back on the tax rolls through development or used for public recreation purposes.

Alcoholism Disease

The General Assembly's Appropriations Committee has thrown its support behind a program to begin treating drunkenness as a disease rather than a crime.

The state is expected to decriminalize public drunkenness this summer. But in order to implement the program, officials must have detoxification centers where people picked up for intoxication can be sent for treatment.

According to Rep. John Anderson (D-Newtown), Connecticut loses about $367 million a year because of alcoholism's impact on business, families, juvenile delinquency, traffic accidents and court costs.

Health Contracts

Health clubs and figure salons would have to give their members a chance to get out of their contracts under a proposal approved this week by a legislative committee.

The General Law Committee aims to regulate health clubs to meet consumer complaints that they unwittingly get stuck in long contracts they can't break despite extenuating circumstances.

Connecticut Legislature

By Gail Collins

Closing Loopholes

A bundle of bills aimed at closing tax loopholes were debated this week before the legislature's Finance Committee.

Such things as meals costing less than $1 and unincorporated businesses like doctors and lawyers would be taxed under the plan.

Other bills would lop off the sales tax break gained by trading in an old car for a new one, and revamp the method for taxing capital gains on inheritances.

Emission Tests

Connecticut has the dubious distinction of having the second dirtiest air in the country, second only to Los Angeles County.

To combat that problem, state legislators have given initial approval to a plan that would require all vehicles in Connecticut to pass a yearly test for emissions.

The Transportation Committee has backed a plan for a statewide program that would test each vehicle's pollution control devices before it could be re-registered.

Special Ed Funds

The state's policy of paying towns back for two-thirds of the cost of special education will not be changed this year, according to the chairman of the General Assembly's Education Committee.

Rep. Howard Klebanoff (D-Hartford) said last week the budget submitted to the General Assembly next month will "in all likelihood" provide more than $43 million to pay towns for special education.

Enfield Democrat Richard Cressotti cast what was — in effect — a deciding vote against Gov. Ella Grasso's plan to extend the state employe work week.

Cressotti, a member of the legislature's Appropriations Committee, voted against a 37½ hour work week plan when the measure went down, 17-17.

Cressotti reminded the committee that the legislature had lowered the work week to 35 hours in 1967 in lieu of a pay raise for state employes.

"If we had given a pay raise in 1967, would we be sitting here tonight trying to take that money away?" he asked. "It's so wrong to take away something we have given for nine years."

Cressotti acknowledged that he might be criticized for bowing to state employe pressure "what with the high percentage of state employes in my district."

But he said he believed a vote against extending the work week was, if anything, the wrong move to make in terms of pure politics.

"I know the sentiment of the public is to extend the work week," he said. But he argued it was unfair to do so unless state employes were compensated for additional hours.

Cressotti responded to a speech by another legislator who said he had come prepared to vote against the work week bill, but had changed his mind.

"I came prepared to vote against this bill, and I'm still prepared to vote against it," he said.

Governor Grasso delayed the committee hearing for some time as she called potential "swing votes" into her office to lobby for longer work week. Three Democrats agreed to change their votes after the meetings, but the governor still fell one vote short of success.

Cressotti said he had not even been invited to a meeting. "I guess they knew I wouldn't change my mind," he commented.

Linked To Cancer

Upriver Tests For Toxic PCBs

Dangerous levels of the toxic chemical compound PCB have been found in striped bass taken from the mouth of the Connecticut River and plans are underway to conduct further tests upriver.

PCBs — polychlorinated biphenyls — are heat-resistant industrial chemicals that have been linked with cancer, skin disorders, and reproductive failure. They have been found throughout the state in varying concentrations.

High readings for the Connecticut River were unexpected, according to Department of Health Water Supplies chief Richard Woodhull. Six samples from the lower Connecticut River were tested together and the composite level of PCBs was 5.1 parts per million (ppm).

That exceeds temporary federal limits of 5 ppm and the government is considering lowering that standard to only 2 ppm, which is the current level allowed in Canada.

Fish with high concentrations that spawn in

New York's Hudson River have been known to migrate as far as the Enfield Dam along the Connecticut River, according to Robert Jones, the biologist who collects samples for the Department of Health.

New York officials banned striped bass from the Hudson last fall because and white catfish almost 10 ppm.

The state Department of Environmental Protection reports that the PCB levels have already "peaked and dissipated" since Monsanto, the nation's only producer of the substance, voluntarily restricted sales in 1971 when the dangers became known,

PCB Bill Sinks

A bill that would ban the sale, use, and manufacture of PCB suffered an unexpected setback in the House of Representatives.

The measure that was slated to receive unanimous approval was sent to the Appropriations Committee when the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) demanded $50,000 in state funding which they said they would need to enforce the bill.

discharges from the GE plant at Glens Falls, N.Y., were producing levels up to 100 ppm in the fish.

Although new test results may show lower levels, fish taken from Windsor Locks by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service until 1973 showed PCB levels well over the federal limit.

White perch averaged 14 ppm, yellow perch 12 ppm, and many other industries discontinued use.

In the past 40 years, however, the company has produced over 400,000 tons of the chemical that was widely used in such products as plastics, epoxy glue, lubricants, and inks, and in electrical products. Uses are now restricted to closed-system transformers.

The compound is practically indestructible, which means the majority of all PCBs ever used remain in the environment from lpast discharges, or when the products are disposed of.

Currently the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is testing the extent to which PCBs enter the groundwater through landfills or are transported through rainfall due to improper incineration.

"We don't know yet the relation between the sediment and the fish or whether traces of PCB concentrate in the food chain," said DEP's Charles Fredette, who is coordinating statewide tests of the sediment and of freshwater fish in cooperation with health department officials.

He explained PCBs settle with the mud at river bottoms and biologists think fish feeding on organisms from the sediment hold the substance in their tissue and pass it up the food chain in increasing concentrations.

EPA officials calculate that half the American population has one to three ppm of PCB in their fatty tissues.

Legislative Action

Town Committee Bill Approved

Local town committees will have to be chosen through open caucus or primary under a bill approved in Hartford last week.

The measure bans "self-perpetuating" town committees, which select their own successors.

Both the House and Senate acted on a number of non-controversial issues last week. Most of the bills approved received near-unanimous support.

The lone exception in the Senate was a measure permitting savings banks to sell larger life insurance policies. The bill, which supporters claimed would mean lower insurance costs, was killed 22-12 after a procedural wrangle.

The town committee bill was the most controversial issue before the House. The proposal has a long and rocky history in the General Assembly.

It was killed earlier this year by the Elections Committee, then resurrected in the form of an amendment to another technical elections bill. The Senate passed the amendment, but the House rejected it on a voice vote.

A six-member conference committee, called to settle the difference between the two chambers, suggested the House go along with the ban on self-endorsed town committees. Finally, the House accepted the recommendation 90-51.

All four local state representatives voted in favor of the proposal.

The "yes" votes were cast by Enfield Democrats John Morrison, Richard Cressotti and Cornelius O'Leary, and Republican Astrid Hanzalek who represents Suffield.

The only other major argument in the House involved a bill tightening regulations on door-to-door salesmen.

Opponents claimed the bill might impose restrictions on Tupperware parties, Boy Scout magazine drives, and the like.

After a series of amendments, however, the bill passed with only six dissenting votes.

Among other bills approved in the House or Senate last week were proposals to:

— Allow non-physicians to pierce ears;

— Provide for referenda on proposed oil refineries including all towns within 15 miles of the planned site;

— Give legal protection to health professionals serving on peer review committees;

— Raise from $1000 to $5000 the tax assessment necessary to enable persons who are not electors of towns to vote at town meetings;

— Raise the legal limit on raffle prizes from $7,500 to $10,000;

— Allow non-citizens to apply for professional and occupational licenses;

— Make sure cases in small claims court are brought in the geographical area where the defendant resides, is doing business, or where the transaction took place.

EHA Picks Manifold As Builder

Citing employment of Enfield residents, the Enfield Housing Authority has picked a West Hartford firm to build 75 units of low and moderate income housing on 10 acres of land in the Freshwater Pond urban renewal project.

In a brief meeting Monday, authority members selected Manifold Development Co., Inc., which is headed by former Enfield Democratic Town Chairman Dominic Cimino. Current Democratic Town Chairman Harold Cote is reportedly employed by Cimino.

According to EHA Chairman John Santanella, Manifold was selected because "it is one of our main interests to create a favorable local work environment and we have found that one half of the Manifold principals have disclosed local residence in our community.

"Since this element of corporate structure has a local share and interest in the community, we consider this a plus for the construction of the project."

EHA officials said they have had "considerable experience" with the Manifold Co. since 1950 when the firm was involved in the construction of Green Valley and subsequent design of elderly housing projects.

Also involved in the West Hartford firm are local attorney Charles Parakelis and bail bondsman Matthew Alaimo.

Manifold had been rated third on the list of five firms which had submitted proposals for the federally subsidized project.

Officials of the Enfield Redevelopment Agency had supported Housing Services Corp. and Freshwater Associates, both of Hartford, as its preferences for the task. ERA is in charge of the urban renewal project.

ERA Chairman Realtus McCuin said Redevelopment officials will decide at a meeting today whether to accept the EHA decision or challenge it by submitting that agency's choice to the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Federal officials in Hartford, though, have warned that disagreement between the two Enfield agencies may mean loss of funding for the project.

Cost of construction is pegged at $2 million; HUD has reserved $361,932 in annual rent subsidies for the project.

New Plate

Rose Sokol, a Town Hall employee, holds commemorative plate which will be introduced by the Enfield Bicentennial Commission at the Greater Enfield Chamber of Commerce Home Show which opens Friday at Enfield High School. The plate is the result of efforts by Arlene Wilcox, Thomas Parakilas and Larry Blanchard of Enfield. A limited issue of 500 plates is available.

Town Hall Report

Half-Way To EMIP Delelopment Goal

More than half the land at Enfield Memorial Industrial Park has been sold, leased or spoken for in the two years since the project was approved by voters.

According to Development Administrator Philip Forzley, the status is impressive "considering the state of the economy and what other industrial parks have been doing — which is nothing."

Forzley gives the following figures: Five parcels sold involving more than 51 acres valued at $550,817.

Owners of the land are: Dairy Mart, Inc., 7.75 acres for their processing, manufacturing and distribution facility.

United Engineers, Inc., 11.21 acres on which a research, production and office facility will be located.

Eli Lilly Co., 29.9 acres for their Northeast Region Distribution Center.

Bethel Latex Corp., 6.98 acres for location of corporate offices and a production facility.

Thomas Tyler and Patrick Reilly, more than 3 acres for an office building. This parcel was sold to certified public accountants Mercik & Viola but was the subject of a reassignment application at Monday's Town Council work session.

More than 162 acres have been leased to Enfield Greens, Inc., on which the Freshwater Brook Country Club is being built. "That means more than 213 acres totally committed," Forzley notes.

In addition, the administrator holds letters of intent from four companies who want to buy more than 20 acres valued at $215,572.

The total is 234.16 acres valued at $766,389 which have been sold, developed or spoken for at the 510-acre park.

Of the remaining 276 acres, 66 acres will be devoted to streets, drainage areas and other easements, Forzley said, leaving about 210 acres available.

Forzley said his department set a five-year development goal at EMIP. Approved in May 1974, he and his staff hope to have all 28 parcels totally committed by May 1979.

Less than two years since voters approved the park he has feels he is more than half-way to that goal.

T'Ville Sewer Study Would Cost $74,000

The Town Council is expected to decide Monday whether to hire a Boston Engineering firm to study the sewer system in Thompsonville.

The engineering firm of Metcalf & Eddy has offered to study the system's problems for $74,000; that study would be conducted over the next year.

According to Town Manager William McDivitt, Thompsonville sewers now take in a lot of ground water during heavy rains. That may mean pipe joints are not properly sealed.

The condition makes sewer treatment plant operations more costly, the manager said.

Engineers from the Boston firm were here Monday to explain to councilmen just what they would do for $74,000.

For one thing, nobody in town knows just how many manholes provide access to the system; some of them may have been paved over, one engineer suggested.

Once these access points are located, engineers would conduct a manhole-by-manhole survey of about 25 miles of sewer throughout the old section of town.

Their work would be to determine elevation of each manhole and measure the flow of water through the system at each point.

The flow measurement must be done during the wet season to insure accuracy, a company spokesman said.

Budget Hearing April 26

A public hearing on the town's 1976-77 operating budget is scheduled April 26 at 8 p.m. at the Enfield High School auditorium.

Councilmen are expected to act Monday on a resolution setting the date.

Councilmen D. Carl Scarfo and James Baum Monday suggested holding two hearings on the budget.

Scarfo wants the Council to first present the town manager's suggested budget, consider public reaction, then hold another hearing on the budget the council comes up with as a final spending package.

Baum simply wants two nights of hearings to give townspeople an alternate night to speak if they can't make the first hearing.

Mayor Armand Roy said Tuesday he doesn't feel two hearings could be held this year and believes the April 26 date will be the only hearing.

"I didn't see a lot of support for either idea but it is something to consider for next year," the mayor said.

Details of the town budget have not been made public but Town Manager William McDivitt forecasts a 10-mill tax rate increase.

Current tax rate is 47.8 mills and the current budget is $19.5 million. That includes a $12.25 million schools budget.

The Board of Education budget, sent to the Council for next year's spending program, increased more than $1.4 million.

McDivitt and Finance Director Vincent Santacroce have been meeting with department heads during the past few weeks trimming the town hall budget.

Officials have said they don't anticipate the 10-mill increase which McDivitt forecast two months ago.

EAHRC Proclamation

Enfield Mayor Armand Roy hands proclamation making April Retarded and Handicapped Citizens Membership Month to Mrs. Eve Semanie and Alice Boucher, left, representing the Enfield Association of Retarded and Handicapped Citizens. The organization is conducting a month-long membership drive. Contact EARHC officials at 741-2201.

Scitico Sewer Contract Let

Councilmen acting as the Enfield Sewer Authority Monday awarded a construction contract to Addison Construction Co. of Glastonbury.

Addison was the low bidder — with a figure of $297,000 — for the sewer project involving the eastern section of Scitico.

A spokesman in the town's engineering department said construction is expected to begin about the middle of this month.

A pre-construction conference between town and construction company officials will be held soon to determine where construction will begin.

FFA Alumni Charted

The Future Farmers of America (FFA) in Suffield have joined to charter the Suffield Regional FFA Alumni Association as a local affiliate of the National FFA Alumni Association.

This new organization is aimed at promoting a greater knowledge of the agricultural industry and supporting education in agriculture. It will not only provide past FFA members the opportunity to assist in and keep abreast of current activities but it will also give them an opportunity to strengthen and boost the current educational program.

Peter Burk has been elected chairman. Officers include: Dean Weaver, vice chairman; Judy Hubbard, secretary; and Ray Bartley, treasurer.

When asked, Peter Burk indicated the most important reasons for starting the association were "to promote agriculture, to try to improve education, to strengthen local chapters and to help members with any problems."

All former active, collegiate or honorary FFA or WFA members, vocational educators and others interested in the FFA are eligible for membership. For further information, call Peter Burk, 623-2170, or the Suffield Vocational Agricultural Center.

This Is EARHC Member Month

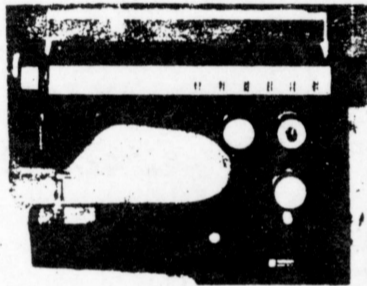

April has been designated Membership Month by the Enfield Association for Retarded and Handicapped Citizens, Inc. Mrs. Pat McGowan and G. Robert Richardson are membership co-chairpersons.

To acquaint the community with aspects of mental retardation and physical disabilities, Mrs. Janet Gove, library chairperson, has set up a display at the Central Library. Materials are available on loan and to be given out.

Persons interested in furthering programs and services for retarded and handicapped persons are invited to join. For additional information, call Evelyn Baron, executive director, E.A.R.H.C., 741-2201.

Water Study Bill Passed

State Rep. Cornelius O'Leary (Enfield-Windsor Locks) expressed his thanks that the House of Representatives passed a bill introduced by Senator Alfano and himself. The bill mandates a feasibility study of the expansion of the Metropolitan District Water Commission into areas presently served by the Connecticut Water Co.

was in response to many inquiries by his constituents that the MDC be allowed to serve their area. "This issue has been around since before I entered the legislature in 1973 and I hope that the feasibility study will help to point out whether or not this course will eventually lead to lower water rates", he noted.

The 2nd term state representative also noted that the issue had re-emerged this year over the question of whether or not Windsor Locks or the MDC should handle the waste sewage from Bradley Field.

O'Leary stated that he has been in contact with Neal MacKenzie, president of the Connecticut Water Co. and expressed his thanks to MacKenzie for his cooperation. O'Leary added, however, that since the bill came up this year he has only heard from the opposition to it. The one legislator who spoke in opposition to the bill, he added, "spoke exactly the same arguments the lobbyist from the water company offered me, so I feel we have to hear both sides of this argument. That is the point of a study to help resolve the argument".

O'Leary concluded that the study would cost very little and would depend on the Governor's appointing volunteers. Many commissions serve on this basis now. He stated, "A few public hearings on the subject will help everyone to better understand".

VA Will Supply Special Markers

The Veterans Administration announced that special memorial gravestones and markers will be provided to families of deceased Medal of Honor winners as part of the country's Bicentennial program.

Theodore J. Plamondon, Jr., local VFW service officer said the Medal of Honor markers "are intended to bear silent witness to a nation's eternal remembrance of the selfless deeds of these brave Americans."

The special markets will carry an enlarged representation of the Medal of Honor in gold leaf on marble or granite headstones and in bronze on the cast metal markers. The words "Medal of Honor" will also be highlighted by one of these methods, Plamondon said.

The VA Administrator said present headstones and grave markers will be replaced with the memorial devices only with the written approval of the next of kin or the person listed on the cemetery's records.

"Since the VA does not have burial records for many of the Medal of Honor winners who are buried in non-government cemeteries,

I am appealing to the families or friends of these men to advise us of their wishes as soon as possible," Plamondon said.

"It will also be of great assistance to us if local historians, or city, county or state officials who know of the location of a Medal of Honor winner's grave will contact any known relatives of the serviceman to alert them concerning this program," Plamondon said.

"I think it would be fitting if we could have all these stones in place on Memorial Day this year, but to do that we will need the cooperation of everyone who can assist us with information," he added.

Plamondon emphasized that there will be no cost to the families for the memorial headstones or grave markers.

Relatives of deceased Medal of Honor winners who wish to have the present grave markers replaced with the memorial stone should contact the nearest Veterans Administration Office, or they may write to the Director, National Cemetery Service, Veterans Administration, Washington, D. C. 20420.

The Medal of Honor was first awarded in 1863. Since that time 3,400 have been awarded.

Officials at Arlington National Cemetery estimate there are fewer than 200 Medal of Honor recipients buried there, and many of their graves are marked with private headstones.

Agency records show only 78 Medal of Honor recipients buried in the 103 National Cemeteries under VA control.

Streets Ready For Hook Ups

Sanitary Sewers are currently under construction in the Hazardville section of Enfield, and the following streets are ready for connections by the property owners as of March 31:

Allen Street, Ash Street, Cedar Street, Cooper Street from south end to within 300' of Hazard Avenue, portion of Elm Street from Georgetown entrance to point approximately 1,100 feet south of Moody Road, Fair Street, Gordon Lane, the previously unsewered portion of Grand Street, Hamilton Court, a portion of North Street from Grand to Hamilton, a portion of Powder Ridge Road and Ridgefield Road.

The property owners in these areas may engage the services of a bonded drain layer and make proper application at the office of the Town Building Department in the Town Hall, for installation of their house connection.

Hanzalek Supports Local Land Development

State Representative Astrid T. Hanzalek, R., of Suffield, today announced her wholehearted support for HB 5761 which mandates that the State must adhere to local charters, ordinances, and statutes when it develops any land it owns within a municipality. "The intent of this bill is excellent and such legislation has long been needed on our books. I am hopeful the leadership to the Democratic party support the measure or it will certainly not be successful during this legislative session."

Rep. Hanzalek said that the legislation would require the State to conform with local zoning ordinances, inland-wetland regulations, and other such requirements. "Right now the State can do whatever it wants with property it owns in any community. And, while the State usually bends over backwards to make certain it does not take action not in the community's best interest, our towns and cities need the protection on our law books."

Mrs. Hanzalek noted that the issue has been raised because of the Department of Transportation's interest in locating a commuter parking lot in Enfield's Historic District. DOT then approached officials in Suffield with a suggestion that the parking lot be located on the other side of the river in Suffield. Both Enfield and Suffield objected to these planned locations. As a result Enfield legislators requested this legislation which has been brought before the Government Administration and Policy Committee."

Mrs. Hanzalek, who serves as a member of that legislative committee, said "I intend to do all I can to make certain this bill gets a favorable vote and is sent to the legislature for action and adoption."

Popular Bus Driver

Joyce Estes, of 8 Laurel Park, Enfield, has been driving a school bus in town for the past 14 years. She started in 1962 with P. A. Crombie after she answered an advertisement. Following six weeks of training, she went solo and has not had a serious accident during her years of driving. Her run is to Enrico Fermi High School and is very popular with all her riders.

Do you know that it costs nothing to get a Central Bancard?

Q. What is a Central Bancard?

A. It's a card that can get you instant cash when your own runs out.

Q. How does it work?

A. Two ways. You can get instant cash right over the counter--at any Central Bank office--even without a Central Bankcheck account. Or as a line of credit up to a prearranged limit, it allows you to overdraw your Central Bank checking account any time you need a quick loan simply by writing a check.

Q. What are the advantages?

A. It's like having extra cash in your pocket--for an unexpected bargain that comes your way. Or for any emergency you couldn't have anticipated.

Q. How much does it cost?

A. Absolutely nothing for the privilege of getting your Central Bancard. In fact there's no charge of any kind until you actually use your card to borrow. When you do draw against your reserve, we send you a monthly bill so you can repay conveniently according to our agreement. Free life insurance included.

Q. How long does it take to get my card?

A. It takes about a week to process your application and send out your card.

Q. How do I get my card?

A. Easy. Come to any office. Or call Ralph Winchester at 238-2300 in Meriden. In Enfield call 745-6644 and in Mansfield call 429-6487.

GOP Raises Awareness

The Enfield Republican Women's Club has taken as its project in 1976 an educational program to help raise the awareness of the voting public to the contribution made by women in Town Government since the inception of the Charter Manager form of government in Enfield.

As a subordinate interest the club's executive committee would also note the necessity of having more women, in both parties, become interested in politics. One way to encourage this participation would be to encourage the Town Councilmen and the Town Manager to appoint more women to Boards and Commissions — particularly the Redevelopment Commission, the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals where at present one woman is participating in the decision making process.

Model Seder Sunday

The Enfield Jewish League will hold its fourth annual Model Seder to celebrate the Passover holidays, on Sunday, from 1:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. at the Grant Fellowship Hall of the Enfield Congregational Church on Enfield Street. The price of admission is $1.25 for member families and $2 for non-member families. The Seder, meaning order refers to the order of the Passover ceremony which commemorates the Exodus of the Jewish people from slavery in Egypt, will be conducted by Mike Meiberg assisted by the youth of the Enfield Jewish League.

For further information please contact Bob Ventimiglia, President; c-o EJL, P.O. Box 403, Enfield, Connecticut, 06082.

In this period of the Town's development we sincerely feel that women should not be excluded from these vital posts.

Future releases on committee reports featuring past accomplishments of female officials will be issued as compiled in 1976.

Spring Exhibit

Edgar H. Parkman School held its annual Spring Exhibit last evening in the school auditorium. A highlight of the evening was a short musical program presented by the school band and glee club at 8 p.m.

"I was cramming for an exam when I had a close call."

Right in the middle of the algebra and the geometry, the human equation will sometimes enter. A friend calling for help with her homework problems. Or maybe you want to be the one to call for help. An extension phone in the bedroom or study means lots of nice, close calls. Costs as little as $1.35 a month, plus a one-time installation charge for any number of phones. Call or visit the Phone Store. Or ask any SNET installer.

Enjoy close calls. With extension phones.

Brenden Gilhooly crashes to the mat and Joel Quail moves toward neutral corner as referee Sal Maltempo steps in at Enfield High School. More than 2,000 jammed stands and chairs to watch 20-bout boxing tournament sponsored by Enfield Parks and Recreation. It was the 31st year of the Youth Center tourney.

A Night At The Fights

The 31st Annual Enfield Youth Center Boxing Tournament was held last week at Enfield High School gymnasium before an estimated 2,000 spectators.

Twenty matches were held. Willie Pep was the featured guest.

Prior to the matches, the Eugene Girard award for the outstanding youth in the Enfield athletic program was awarded to Brenden Gilhooly.

Dana — "Atlas" Riley had his bout scratched but was given the "Most Dedicated Fighter" award. Tim Fortin won the "Best Boxer" award for the tourney.

Bout number 18 between John "Golden Boy" Sheppard and Mark "Jaws" Schmid was voted best bout of the evening. Schmid was the winner on a close decision.

Ray Fisher was the Spartans trainer and Joe Vesce was the coach. Jack Whitely was trainer of the Trojans and Lou Tallarita was the coach. The Spartans won the team championship with 12 wins and 8 losses.

In the first bout Pratson "Superman" Mallard defeated Chris "Spaceman" Ravosa in a windmill fight. Mike "Two Ton" Poppers then vanquished Dave "Bobcat" Schmid.

Andy "Catfish" Hunter outlasted Bill "Tiger" Garrity. Steve "Road-Runner" Russotto beat Bob "Sling-Shot" Sitler in bout 4. Ian "Rock" Hunter, wearing a scarf into the ring, won over Tony "Boom-A-Rang" Gonyea.

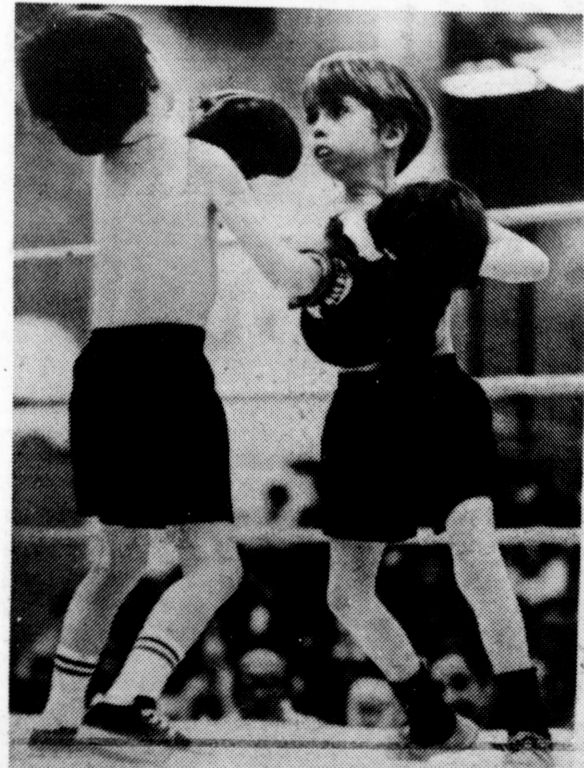

Joe "The Whip" Ravosa won out over Brian "Bang Bang" Boyington. Shawn "T.N.T." Akey defeated Darren "Bubba" George. Steve "Speedy" Sabellico beat Scott "Cannonball" Brayton. Tim "Hawk" Fortin scored a technical knockout over Darrell "Stinger" Crowley. Ricki "Boom Boom" Bonini beat Mike "Cyclone" Sears.

Joel "Poison Ivy" Quail defeated Brenden "Irish" Gilhooly. Tim "Torpedo" Quail outlasted Angel "Radar" Acevedo. Tony "Slammer" Sitler won his match with John "Whip" Sullivan. John "Popeye" Russotto beat Jose "Hot Tamale" Acevedo. Francis "Hurricane" Siana defeated Gary "Cobra" McCarthy. Asa "Gunner" Angelica beat Brian "Rock-A-Bye" Benoit.

Joe Ravosa gets a little carried away as he watches match pitting little Joe "The Whip" Ravosa against Brian "Bang Bang" Boyington at EHS. His cheering apparently worked; young Joe was declared the winner.

"Bobcat" Schmid takes a shot on the jaw from Mike "Two Ton" Poppers. Mike was the victor.

BOWLING

With Art Landry

The Pro-Bowlers' Tour had some low (for them) scores last week which made we average bowlers realize that they are human too. Glenn Pierce rolled 166, Don Johnson 174 and Les Zikes 182. How about that? Soutar won the final with 207.

ENFIELD LANES

For further information contact Ron Turcotte at 745-7003.

Dragon Latest Sizzler Entry

Harmon "Beaver" Dragon is the latest entry for the 5th Annual Spring Sizzler scheduled for this Sunday afternoon at the Stafford Springs Motor Speedway and no one can blame him if he comes to the track with a big point to prove.

Dragon, the 1975 Winston Racing Champion from the Plattsburgh International Raceway in upstate New York regularly pilots a NASCAR late model Sportman and will be making one of his rare appearances in a lighter open wheeled modified car. The last time that the Milton, Vermont resident strapped himself in a modified was in 1974 again for a Spring Sizzler. "I really wanted to try a modified and I just brought my helmet with me figuring if I got the chance to try one, I'd be ready." Dragon's chance came in the Dick Armstrong Pinto. In the qualifying heat, Dragon worked his way into a qualified position only to run out of gas two laps short of the finish. "That was a tough way to miss qualifying."

Dragon's entry into the 80 lap NASCAR Invitational event marks the 105th different driver and the 20th defending track champion to file for the $23,000 affair.

In addition to the Spring Sizzler on Sunday, the Stafford Springs Motor Speedway will also host a special 50 lap small block modified race on Saturday to complete the weekend double header.

Qualifying for the 33 starting spots in the main bout will again be determined through special qualifying heats and two consolation races with the finish positions of the preliminary rounds determining the starting grid for the 80 lap feature.

The fact that Dragon regularly drives a late model Sportsman boosts the number of different motorsports segments represented in the Sizzler Weekend entry list to five. Other segments of the sports represented include drivers from the field of Sports Car Racing (Bob Tullius), Drag Racing (Bill Flynn, Frank Federrichi), and Midget (Russ Klarr).

Enfield Hockey League Games

STATE TOURNAMENT SQUIRT A

The Enfield Squirts played an outstanding game and lost in the final minute to a strong Mid-Fairfield club. Enfield broke out to a quick 2 to 0 lead on goals by Gary Blackwood and Craig Janney. Assisting on the goals were Mike Bracci, Kevin Meunier, Jack Blatchford and Chris Smith. Goalie Sean Pagnum had 17 saves and played one of his strongest games of the year.

Enfield won its first tournament game against New Haven 6 to 1. Craig Janney played an outstanding offensive game and scored the hat trick. Others scoring were Chris Smith, Kevin Meunier and Jack Blatchford. Assists were credited to Blatchford 2, Smith 1, Janney 1, Kevin O'Coin 1, and Bob Townsend 1.

Enfield played its third State Tournament game in 2 days, falling to Hamden 2 to 1 in the last 3 minutes of the game. Enfield went ahead early in the first period on an unassisted goal by Kevin Meunier. Enfield, seeded 4th in the 8 team tournament, played an outstanding series, losing to Mid-Fairfield in the opener in the final minutes 3 to 2 and whipping New Haven 6 to 1 in the second game.

Aerial Act

John Howe of Southern New England Telephone climbs pole outside Kennedy Jr. High, Enfield, to show students what he does for a living. Howe, from East Windsor, is among 16 area people taking part in a 'Living Witness' program at Enfield's two junior high schools. The program is designed to cut the school drop-out rate by helping students prepare for a job before they graduate from high school.

Chess Tourney

Several Connecticut chessplayers have already entered the Massachusetts state chess championship to be held Saturday and Sunday, at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge in West Springfield.

Among those taking advantage of the fact that, for the first time in over 20 years, the Massachusetts Open is being held nearby are William M. Pryor, 1 Audrey Lane, and Scott Redfern, Somers, who tied to share in the prizes at the recent Eastfield Mall Open in Springfield.

Although the state championship title is reserved for the best performance by a Massachusetts player, out-of-staters are eligible to share in the $800 prize fund or to win one of the six trophies being awarded to class champions and to the best new player. Games will be played at 10 a.m., 3 and 8 p.m. on Saturday, 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Sunday.

While Massachusetts residents must belong to the state chess association, Connecticut players need only join the United States Chess Federation, unless they are already members.

Changes In Nursing Home Legislation Introduced

At its final meeting March 15, the Committee on Public Health and Safety gave approval to changes in the Omnibus Nursing Home Act passed in 1975, designed to protect the rights of patients in nursing homes and put the homes under closer scrutiny by the Department of Health.

Rep. John J. Morrison (D-Enfield), was a member of the subcommittee which conducted the original nursing home investigation, and an active member of the Public Health and Safety Committee, and participated in the drafting of the changes approved by the committee.

Morrison characterized the changes as "positive improvements to an already good statute," and summarized the legislation as follows:

The imposition of a system of citations, giving the commissioner of health the power to impose a wide ranging series of fines for violations by the nursing home which put any of its patients in danger of harm; expansion of the role of the patient advocate, created in last year's legislation to aid patients who have complaints about service or who need other kinds of aid; prohibitions against the use of a patient's personal funds without his written consent; increased access to nursing home inspection reports for persons interested in the home and clarification of the role of the medical director as a guardian of the quality of care provided in the nursing home.

"Our goal is to insure that nursing home patients are guaranteed that the care they receive is of a high quality and is provided at a reasonable cost. This legislation is a large step toward that goal," Morrison concluded.

elderly. The senior citizens have helped to finance the bus through membership cards, which permit members to ride for a year, bingos, bazaars and asking for help from businesses and organizations. This year the Bus Committee is adding another bus to give more service, especially to people living in outlying areas.

To do this the committee is planning to publish a new bus schedule which will include ads from people who are interested in helping to keep these busses moving. The following are suggested donations: a whole page $50 a half page $25 a quarter page $15 and an eighth page $10.

If you have any questions about the bus, the member who calls upon you will be happy to answer them or call Mary Ellen Whaples at 741-0622.

FINLEY DUMB?

Some people say that Charlie Finley must be dumb to trade away the likes of Ken Holtzman and Reggie Jackson. Charlie Finley is dumb like a fox. It is said that he has at least eight players on his club who are playing out their options this year. That means that, at the end of this season, at least eight of his players will be declared free agents.

Before this can happen and old Charlie gets stuck with nothing for his super stars he is trading them off for players he can sign to longer contracts. In my mind that is the smart thing to do. This could set a precedent for other owners and you are likely to see many super stars, and some not so super stars, get traded when they hit their option year.

If you think you have seen trades in the past just wait for what the future holds. The players will be moving around the country so fast they really won't find time to settle in anywhere. No club will really be able to build a dynasty unless they are able to sign players to a lifetime contract. If they did sign players to a lifetime contract it would probably be overturned by the courts anyway as being of unreasonable duration.

The players keep getting more and more and you can't really blame them. The only problem is that it looks as though they are about to cook the goose who lays all of those pretty golden eggs. All of us wish we could get paid what we think we are worth. If we did the prices would be at least 10 times what they are now and no one could afford to hire us.

This is what is quite likely to happen in baseball, and in all professional sports for that matter. They are going to price the game right out of reach of the fan. The players should remember that, without the fan, there will be no golden pay days. For many clubs there won't be any pay days at all. Rich owners don't mind losing a few thousand dollars a year on their hobbies but they will most surely balk at losing millions.

Yes, Charlie Finley is smart, he is getting rid of his "liability" assets while he can still get something in return.

WHALERS IN PLAYOFFS

Despite their poor showing this year the Whalers have made it into the playoffs by a hair. You might say they won the "Win By A Hare" contest themselves. Only the grace of the Stingers getting taken by Cleveland saved the Whalers as they didn't seem up to the task Sunday night.

I was talking to former player, former coach, and now scout Don Blackburn between periods Sunday night and asked him what he was scouting for. What kind of player the Whalers are really after.

Blackie answered that the club really needs some bigger men who can play hockey and who aren't afraid to check the other guy. It goes deeper than that though. The team also needs players who are willing to go out and earn their keep every time they step onto the ice. They have too many players now who turn in a good game once in a while and not enough who go out and hustle and hit and hawk the puck every time they play.

Danny Bolduc is a good example of the type of player the Whalers need. Bolduc is a hustler, he is a shooter and he is a checker. He puts out more than 100 per cent every time he plays and he is fresh out of college and the Olympics. Bolduc will get his share of goals and assists next year and I predict he will be right up their with the top Whalers; as long as he plays the way he is playing now.

The Racers are a good example of how a team can be turned around. Two years ago and even last year they had poor records. They hired a new coach. The new coach has replaced 20 of the original 24 players with men who hustle and you can see the results. The Whalers have only beaten them twice all season. They still have a losing record, but so does everyone else in their division. Watch out for them next year.

Some of the Whalers who are not putting out a full effort every game should not be in the market for buying a new home. They probably won't be around Hartford long enough to get settled in. I predict that the Summer break may lengthen into Winter for some of them. The Rangers are going through the same thing. The coach has been said to have told his players that he doesn't expect to see many of them next year.

Recreation Budget Up

The Suffield Recreation Commission submitted a budget of more than $59,000 for 1987-77 to the Board of Finance; an increase of more than $14,000 over this year. The 1975-76 actual figures for the budget are $45,400 and the proposed 1976-77 budget is $59,916.18.

A large part of the increase is a requested $3,500 for capital expenditure in land study and research. Tim Holloran, recreational director said the commission has refocused its priorities to studying possible land sites to improve the facilities for athletic programs. This is all part of the commission's five and ten year plans to improve recreation in the town.

A $900 hike in wages for the recreation director to $10,000 is being asked. Since the commission anticipates possible loss of their secretary who is employed through the Comprehensive Employment Training Act they are including a budget of $3,640 for a secretary-supervisor.

In the report the commission reported a notable increase of $1,629.60 can be seen for summer aquatic programs because of high public interest and par-

New Ed Board Member

Richard Stevens has been selected to fill the vacancy on the Board of Education of Suffield, caused by the resignation of Margaret Siver. He was chosen from a group of five candidates. He will serve until November 1977.

A resident of Suffield since 1964 and currently living at 1009 North St., Stevens was instrumental in forming the first high school Parents Association and served as its first chairman. He coached Little League for three years and was a committeeman and assistant scoutmaster for Boy Scout Troop 260 for six years. He has raised two of his children in the town school system and the third child is a seventh grader at McAlister Middle School.

Stevens has been employed by Pratt and Whitney Aircraft since 1963 as chief engineer, technical publication production. He graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1953 and received his degree from the U.S. Air Force School of Technology in 1957. He served in active duty for eight years and is now with the Air Force Reserve as a lieutenant-colonel.

Selectman's Budget

First Selectman Chester A. Kuras presented a Suffield selectmen's budget proposal for $48,538, up from $38,128 last year. Major increases were in salaries, town report printing, town meeting costs, a proposed grants specialist, and memberships in the Conference of Mayors and Municipalities (CMM) and in the Conference of Small Towns (COST).

In addition, he urged $1,500 expenditure for automatic payroll procedures.

The Board of Finance will study these, hear proposals from other boards and prepare an overall town budget for an early May public hearing.

Schools Request $400,000 Increase

In a budget report by the special finance subcommittee of the Suffield Board of Education the 1976-77 budget recommended shows an increase of $400,000 over this year's budget. The 1976-77 budget is listed at $3,564,080 while the estimated expense for the 1975-76 year is $3,153,298. After a four hour meeting March 24, the School Board could only agree to lower the total by $14,524, or about 0.5 per cent.

Increases in the budget include additional staff members for Special Education as mandated by the state, badly needed replacement of old and purchase of new equipment, salary hikes, expansion of the Vocational Agriculture Program, continued support of the ANISA and curriculum development and coordination.

Detailed worksheets for each proposed program and activity may be examined at the superintendent's office at Spaulding School. A summary of expenditures passed and proposed is available upon request at the superintendent's office.

LWV Studies Local Rule

A comparison of charters of other towns and a progress report on the current Suffield Home Charter being prepared by a town committee were discussed at the Suffield League of Women Voters meeting March 31 at the home of Mrs. Judy Gooch. The discussion was led by Mrs. Betsy Hedden, co-chairman with Mrs. Gooch, of the league study committee of alternative forms of town government to determine which forms would best suit Suffield's needs.

Mrs. Hedden reviewed possible forms of town government available and listed the town boards and commissions which are established by state statutes.

Mrs. Betty Brew compared the charters for Rockville, Guilford and Avon and their differing forms of government. Rockville has a council-manager form, with the mayor in addition as a "ceremonial" position. Most officials and commissions are responsible to the Council. Some officials, for example the treasurer are appointed for indefinite terms. The Council has hearings on the budget, but sets the budget itself.

Avon has a selectmen-town meeting form of government. The First Selectman is the administrative officer and serves as town manager, appointed by the selectmen. There are five selectmen who appoint town officers and commission members. There are only five elected boards, including the Zoning and Planning Commission. Central purchasing for town boards equipment and supplies is practiced. A tax of 2 mills may be levied for capitol expenditures in addition to other taxes. Town meetings may be called only by Selectmen, not petitioned by citizens.

Guilford has a selectmen-town meetings form of government with First Selectman having administrative powers and town meeting serving as legislative body. There are only three elected boards and the tax collector and town clerk are appointed by the selectmen for indefinite time.

Mrs. Judy Bunnell told about the charters for Cheshire and East Hampton. There are five selectmen in East Hampton, plus a chief administrator chosen by the selectmen. Legislative powers are shared by the town meeting and selectmen.

Cheshire has a town manager and town council with the town manager responsible to the Council which has the legislative power. The town manager appoints the chiefs of police and fire and the directors of finance and health. Each board presents its program and estimated expenses to the town manager. Capital expenditure plans go to the Zoning and Planning Commission. The manager prepares the budget. The Council holds one or two hearings on the budget before it is adopted by Council, which also sets the tax mills. There is a merit system for all but the Board of Education.

Miss Fran Bryant, a member of the Suffield Charter Commission, said the Commission does not propose any radical departure from the present three selectmen and town meeting form of government, but would like to give the First Selectman, as chief executive more power, including some limited legislative power. The commission is agreed also on giving the Board of Selectmen a greater say on the whole town budget by having the Selectmen review the budgets of all the town boards, including the Board of Education before they go to the Board of Finance. Now they go to the Board of Finance. The budgets would also include capital expenditures plans of each board and commission. The town budget would be more detailed and standard also. The Board of Finance may have hearings with the various agencies about their budgets, but the hearings must include the selectmen. The Board of Finance would still present the final budget to the town meeting.

The commission has also studied the problem of succession in office if a vacancy occurs. In the case of First Selectman, they suggest the selectman who received the next highest number of votes succeed until the next election, but 10 percent of the voters can petition for a special election. Vacancies for the other elected offices would be filled within 45 days by the selectmen.

Hide Unsightly Pipes And Duct Work The Easy, Economical Way With Owens-Corning Suspended Ceiling Panels From Moore's

Many of the textured Owens-Corning Fiberglas ceiling panels are designed to soak up to 70% of excess noise and feature a Class III flame spread classification! Owens-Corning panels remain washable for years and won't warp. They're easy to install with Moore's Flangeklomp Grid Systems — 2' and 4' tees, 12' main tees and 12' wall angles of pre-enameled metal make the job quick and professional for anyone to do. Owens-Corning Fiberglas panels are a practical, attractive way to hide unsightly pipes, duct work and wiring while reserving maintenance access. Ideal for lowering an old-fashioned high ceiling or installing within 1 1/2" of studs in new construction.

2'x4' ADOBE

These attractively textured ceiling panels are acoustical, flexible, completely washable, and won't warp. 1/4" panels absorb approximately 60% of the noise hitting their surface; make rooms more enjoyable to be in for everyone!
