Del Greco Performs At Carnegie Hall

ENFIELD — Paul Del Greco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Del Greco of Belgium, formerly of Enfield, graduated from Fermi High School in 1976 and attended the university of Bridgeport where he majored in music.

He studied accordion with Anselmo "Sam" Falcetti, owner of the Falcetti Music Centers, and over a twelve-year period was a consistent winner in state and national accordion contests.

For six years Paul was a member of the Springfield Accordion Orchestra, a well-known group which has concertized internationally with tours in Japan and Italy under the direction of Falcetti.

He is presently a member of the Holyoke Community College Accordion Ensemble, the 1978 National Accordion Ensemble winner. This group has been invited by the American Accordionists Association to present a concert at Carnegie Hall. This first concert in the "Young Artists" series will be held Saturday, at 2:30 p.m.

The ensemble will premier "The Polk Street Fantasy" by area composer, John Franceschina. One of the other six selections will be "Passacaglia and Fugue," another original composition by John and one which took first-place honors at the National Accordion Contest in New York City.

They will also perform "String Quartet in A Minor" by Robert Schumann, "Balkan Impressions" by Gerhard Mohr, "Burleske" by Fredrich Haag, "Revolutionary Disco", arranged by Franceschina and "Offertory from the Mass", an original piece by the same composer. John will make a guest appearance at this concert.

The ensemble accordionists, percussionists, vocalists and a flutist. They will share the program with the 1979 United States Virtuoso Solo winner, Donald Severs of Des Moines, Iowa, who will go on to France to represent the American Accordionists Association at the Coupe Mondiale in late October. Formed and directed by Falcetti in 1976, the eight-member ensemble performed at various concerts at Holyoke Community College with the Percussion Ensemble and the Woodwin Ensemble. They also performed spring concerts in 1979 at the St. Joseph Church in Springfield, MA, the Federated Church in Chicopee, Ma, and at the College in Fall River, MA. On the concert circuit, they have been very successful coping first-place honors in the annual 1977 and 1978 Massachusetts Accordion contests.

Ramp For Handicapped At Town Hall Is Dedicated

ENFIELD — Last Thursday marked an historic milestone for handicapped and elderly citizens of Enfield. Through the efforts of Enfield officials, the Office of Community Development, the Northern Connecticut Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, and the Greater Enfield Association for Retarded and Handicapped Citizens, Inc., the special ramp at town hall was dedicated and put into service.

This ramp meets all state and federal guidelines as well as safety codes for Enfield citizens. It should be noted that if people who have business with town officials on the second floor of the building, arrangements can be made to have their business conducted at the first floor level.

This occasion brought into focus the work of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, as well as the state and local Committee and their efforts. October is traditionally the month that the President's Committee, state, and local Committees promote National Employ the Handicapped Month. Approximately twenty-five million Americans have some type of handicap that interferes with their ability to find suitable and gainful employment. It is through the efforts of these committees which are comprised of thousands of volunteers throughout the country that have made a dramatic impact on the American economy since the inception of the Employment of the Handicapped in 1946. Cooperation of business, industry, local boards of education, and numerous community organizations have opened the doors of employment and other opportunities for millions of Americans.

The local impact of Career

Placement Center, a program of Greater Enfield Association for Retarded Citizens, Inc. is an example of what has been done over the past three years for the retarded and handicapped citizens of Enfield and surrounding communities. Over 371 job placements have been made in a 17 town area with 168 different employers for retarded and handicapped people age 16 years and above. The cooperation with the business community, town officials, and local Boards of Education, is an example of what can be done on a grass roots level. Retarded and handicapped citizens have proven over the years that given the opportunity for gainful employment, they are not only productive workers but conscientious, excellent on-time performance, which is superior in many cases to the work records of "normal" people compared under similar working conditions. Retarded and handicapped people ask only for the opportunity to prove themselves in the communities in which they work and live. According to Don Spencer, Volunteer Director of Career Placement Center and General Chairman of the local Committee, the following case histories greatly demonstrate where the retarded and handicapped citizens are performing:

John, a 21-year-old, mentally retarded, cerebral palsy, and epileptic young man was our first placement September 3, 1976 in an area restaurant as a kitchen utility worker. From a part-time employee, he quickly began full-time employment, received three raises, and was promoted to a Maintenance Man. We assisted him with his driver's license, purchasing a car, and establishing a savings account. He is one of six children.

Mary, a 57-year-old mentally retarded person was placed March 24, 1977 as a kitchen utility in a local nursing home. After 30 years in Mansfield Training School, she was placed in the Enfield Group Home. Her Supervisor told me this past week "she is an excellent worker, and the staff and patients just love her."

Joe, an 18-year-old, profoundly deaf young man from American School for the Deaf, living in Enfield, has worked part-time in a car wash for the past 20 months. Currently, he is attending a vocational college in New Hampshire where he is being trained in electronics.

Haigh Interested In Public Safety

ENFIELD — John Haigh stated recently at a campaign meeting that safety and security of Enfield's citizens is a prime concern of his. It is time for us to return to the days when we were all able to walk the streets after dark, report incidents without fear of reprisal, and be able to apply for and receive insurance at reasonable rates, both for businesses and home owners, without fear of cancellation due to vandalism. Enfield is no longer a small town, and small town methods of security must be reviewed and updated. Modern equipment, such as a vidual transmitter for instant location of police cruisers and personnel.

Efficiency in maintaining the public safety is paramount and modern equipment is a step in the right direction.

When elected, John continued "I intend to do all in my power to see that these things are accomplished.

Ballard Enumerates Democrat Deficiencies

ENFIELD — Bill Ballard, incumbent District 1 Councilman says he has lived up to his commitment concerning the development of Enfield Memorial Industrial Park.

"Parcels are moving and the word is out that Enfield's park is a good place to locate a business," he said.

In just two short years of Republican leadership, 31 acres of industrial park land has been sold for $341,150. "That's progress and its 75% more than what the Democrats accomplished in the previous six years," he added.

Ballard further stated that because of the stormy political climate while the Democrats were in power, the adverse publicity swayed businesses to locate in East Windsor, Suffield and Windsor Locks. The Democrats also failed to point out while in power that those same towns had identical soil conditions and water problems as Enfield. They also failed to point out that 85% of the drainage problems had been solved during the I-Park original development.

An outstanding Republican accomplishment has been the retention and expansion of Hallmark Cards with their $25 million facility. The Republicans have brought in almost 1000 new jobs and have proved they can do the job for the town as promised and will continue to do so.

Two Public Safety Units Seek Applicants

ENFIELD — The commander of the Enfield Fish and Game unit is seeking new volunteers to serve as fish and game constables or marine officers.

Both units are regular law enforcement agencies and the constables are sworn to protect the citizens of Enfield, as well as the participants of hunting and fishing sports. One of the most important aspects of their duties include control and care of all types of wild and domestic animals, excluding dogs.

Injured wild animals may be helped back to good health and then released, while nuisance-type animals are trapped with humane equipment and released into a new environment. "Animal complaints account for 50-60% of our time" Roger Olsen, commander of the fish and game unit stated. "It is rewarding work, maybe not financially, but in the knowledge that a helpless animal has been assisted in some way."

All successful applicants will be trained in law enforcement, trapping and capturing techniques for animals, snake identification, arrest procedures and firearm training. In addition, First Aid and CPR training is available.

Each regular constable is assigned one or two complaints a week and he is expected to perform a patrol occasionally in his free time. Constables are issued uniforms and other equipment necessary to perform their duties in a professional manner. Animal control equipment is also available to each constable.

Anyone wishing to serve the sportsman and the Town of Enfield, may apply for these positions of fish and game or marine officers. All persons applying must be 18 years of age and have an interest in hunting, fishing and the desire to help animals in trouble. They will deal with the public making a neat appearance essential. A high school diploma is helpful and all applicants should be in good health and be fairly stable in the availability for duties.

Interested persons should obtain an application from the Enfield Police Department. They should fill it out and return the completed form as soon as possible.

All applicants must be a resident of Enfield.

Moore's Requests Well Water Tests

ENFIELD — Councilwoman Marge Moore's has requested that well-water be tested in Enfield areas bordering the Kemet Land Fill Park.

Recently discovering of disposals of cylinder waste at the Kemet park leads to the question, How could it affect Enfield's well water?

Moore's feels that if any chance exists that Enfield water supplies could be contaminated the town can not afford to wait.

The town manager's office at the request of Mrs. Moore's is seeking the assistance of the state environmental commission to sample area water supplies.

Councilwoman Moore's feels that this is a good start but only a start.

"We must have a full evaluation of the dangers. The testing not be limited to one time and should be repeated over a period of time.

The Town of Enfield be supplied with a corrective plan of action to ensure removal of all disposal waste; that future disposals be regulated and enforced; and that any financial burden developing to citizens or the Town of Enfield clearly be defined so that the cost be directed back to the responsible ones," said Mrs. Moore's.

Moffett To Probe DOE Winter Program

WASHINGTON — U.S. Rep. Toby Moffett (D-6th, Conn.), Chairman of a House Government Operations energy subcommittee, says he has directed his panel to "begin investigating the winter weatherization programs" sponsored by the federal Department of Energy (DOE).

Moffett said the probe, now at the staff level, will focus on "funding, supplies, labor and, in general, DOE's leadership — or lack of it — in this critical area." Moffett himself has sponsored a House bill to increase the availability of weatherization products for low-income households.

He suggested that DOE may be "dragging its feet" on implementation of the current low-income program, and that the laws and regulations themselves may account for the lack of manpower to insulate and weatherstrip — even though the materials are already available.

"We've heard testimony that the program is at a standstill, even though winter is upon us," he explained. "There are reports that funds have been allocated, that supplies are stored in warehouses, and that some states can't utilize either the monies or the supplies."

According to one estimate, about $17 million in unspent weatherization funds remain in New England states. Citing DOE's own statistics, Moffett noted that Alaska has only 69 homes weatherized through the federal program. Vermont has 235, and Connecticut has a total of 115, as of December, 1978.

"Weatherization is a long-term energy and money saver," Moffett insisted. It's a meaningful form of conservation, unlike current short-term 'crisis intervention' approaches.

"But we're dealing with a situation similar to a huge, water-filled leaky barrel. Instead of fixing the barrel, we seem determined to simply pour more water into it."

Friday May Be The Fall Final

STAFFORD SPRINGS — For the third time in as many weeks, rain has forced Stafford Motor Speedway Promoter Ed Yerrington to postpone the modified half of the Fall Final until tomorrow.

As was the case last week, Yerrington made the decision early to save the fans and competitors a wasted trip.

Tomorrow's schedule will remain the same. Pit gates will open at 5:30 p.m., with admission gates opening at 6:30 p.m. The 100 lap NASCAR National Championship event will be green flagged at 8 p.m.

Rain checks will still be honored for Friday night. Anyone not having attended the rained out event, may purchase a ticket at half price, $5 for adults and $2 for children age twelve and under.

For more information, contact the speedway office Monday through Friday, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. or call 684-2783.

ENFIELD — Tanguay - McGill Post 80 reports that over 30,000 high school students, selected from their junior class last year, participated in the American Legion Boys State/Boys Nation program, representing an nationwide program of orientation in the operation of city, county and state governments. Fifty American Legion Departments conducted a Boys State program in the National Boys Nation Program.

At BoysNation, delegates visit federal agencies where they receive briefings on the functions of the various departments of the federal government, following which they themselves conduct hearings, act on bills in session and culminate their activities with an election of a Boys Nation President and Vice President.

Highlights of the Boys Nation programs are visits by the delegates with their respective United States Senators and Congressmen and the traditional visit to the White House to meet with the President of the United States.

Boys Nation serves as a unique governmental training program for the delegates and motivates their interest and concern in the federal government process.

YOUR NEWSPAPER
Something for Everyone

Free Press, Free People

By PHIL DESSAUER
President, The Society of Professional Journalists
Sigma Delta Chi

The newspapers of our country are most of the things their critics say they are.

They're nosy, noisy, aggressive, irreverent, occasionally arrogant. In some instances they embarrass people, distort the truth, get facts wrong and — Lord knows — misspell names. They are a long way from perfect. . . just as our society is.

But newspapers broaden our lives. They pursue justice, expose grafters and lawbreakers — ranging all the way from Boss Tweed to Watergate. They keep watch over taxpayers' money; patrol the world in search of news; give us "instant history," telling it as it is. They inform, entertain, stand guard. . . and feed us millions of words every day with remarkable accuracy.

Daily and weekly papers can do these things because they are free. In countries without a free press the people needn't worry about aggressive reporters or high-handed editors; newspapers simply dish out the party line. If they stray, their publishers get unscheduled, indefinite vacations.

A free press has all the flaws of a free country. It has good guys and bad, diamonds and duds. But you have to ask yourself, "If we didn't have the First Amendment and a free flow of information, what would be the alternative?"

Control. Government control. . . and still more control — until there would be no room for factual reporting, no tolerance for unfavorable news, no noise or dissent. Just the deadening drug of conformity — and submission to Big Daddy Knows Best.

Newspapers should be responsible, truthful and worthy of trust. The great majority of them are. But if a few don't measure up, we can stand that — for as long as they are free, we are free.

LETTERS

Letters to the Editor must be brief, legible and written or typed, preferably typed, on only one side of the paper. All letters must have the name, address and telephone number of the writer and should be signed. Letter to the Editor

Will Switch His Vote

To the Editor:

For many years, the Enfield vote for the Democrats was as automatic as a knee jerk. This kind of blind loyalty was indiscriminate and completely ignored the individual merits of the Republican candidates.

Two years ago, apparently

Defends GOP

To the Editor:

To that independent voter who continues his one-man attack on the Republican members of the Town Council through on-going letters to the editor, may I remind him of the following:

The Republican administration has a record of achievement.

1. We stabilized the tax rate to less than 2% per year in spite of double digit inflation;

2. We developed an energetic and successful effort to collect back taxes resulting in $1,268,000 of additional revenue;

3. We appointed a new auditor to determine Enfield's true financial picture;

4. We brought in $30 million of industrial development and almost 1,000 new jobs to the town in less than two years;

5. We created a capital improvement fund for badly-needed public works projects;

6. We resolved the Freshwater Pond urban renewal project problems;

7. We planned new congregate housing for senior citizens; and

8. We created a town beautification committee.

These things were accomplished by six Councilpersons who promised leadership and an energetic term of office. We have fulfilled our promises and will continue to do so. Enfield is finally on the move, on the way up, to take its rightful place as a fine, strong community in this area of Connecticut. And its about time.

Bill Ballard
Republican Town
Councilman
321 Abbe Rd.
Enfield, CT

wary of unfulfilled promises and the obvious inability of the Democrats to control property taxes, the Enfield voters gave the Republican party its first majority on the council and its first opportunity to demonstrate its ability to manage the town prudently.

The Republican majority on the council has not disappointed the town voters who gave it this chance.

For the past two years, the Republicans have given Enfield the best town government since the first two or three Democratic councils that were elected after the change in town government.

During these same two years, the Democratic minority on the council worked hard to thwart and frustrate sound Republican initiatives, and has also shown an overwhelming obsession with trifles. The council Democrats' greatest contribution to the town welfare during the last two years was and is the Beech Road traffic problems in which Mr. Rocker, a Democrat, is using his position on the council to force the town to convert this public street into a private lane. Mr. Rocker is a resident of Beech Road.

In a similar display of political disorder and crassness the Democrats on the Board of Education have publicly repudiated an agreement they made with the council concerning the use of surpluses to cover an anticipated oil account deficit in the school budget.

I have been a Democrat for fifty years and have always voted for the Democratic party. But seeing the silly political posturing of the Democrats on the council and the unethical conduct of the Democrats on the Board of Education, I can no longer vote for the Democrats in good conscience.

This year, I intend to vote for the Republican party in the town elections. The performance of the Republican majority on the Council deserves consideration from every voter in town.

Where's the Gumption Gone?

Sometimes it seems to us — maybe to you, too — that there's an awful lot of negativism around. Wherever one turns, it's anti-this and down with that. Naysayers are loud in the land.

Their abhorrence of so many of society's institutions and structures is often unleavened by balance or constructiveness. Rarely do they offer practicable alternatives to whatever it is they're against.

They demonstrate in opposition to nuclear energy — but neglect to tell us where the country is supposed to get all the electricity it needs. They denounce defense spending — but fail to propose sensible strategy in the face of a military balance that is shifting away from the U.S. toward the Soviet Union. They hurl themselves against the tide of science and technology — but without suggesting the means they would bring to bear, with technology tuned down, on society's problems.

What's most troubling about all the negativism is that it seems to be symptomatic of an ebbing of can-do, a flagging of creativity, a diminution of imaginativeness. It reflects timidity, fearfulness, anxiety — an obsession with risk avoidance.

Henry Fairlie, the U.S.-based British journalist and author, has put it this way: "The once rambunctious American spirit of innovation and adventurousness is today being paralyzed by the desire to build a risk-free society." Such a desire, he says, "has always been a sign of decadence." It has meant that a nation has given up, no longer believes in its destiny, and has ceased to aspire to greatness.

Fairlie points to overreactions to the Three Mile Island nuclear accident and the DC-10 plane crash as examples of what he sees as the risk-free preoccupation running through the whole of American life, "draining the spirit from America's inventiveness and from its hope for the future."

Are we losing our fire, our drive, our initiative? Is daring giving way to faint-heartedness? Are we turning into milksops? Let's hope not. America didn't reach greatness by cowering at challenges and flouting progress. Earlier generations didn't — couldn't afford to — curl up in cocoons of self-indulgence and -delusion.

What the neo-negativists evidently aspire to is an all-protecting society, wholly without peril. Spare the risks. Reject growth, experimentation, innovation. Stand pat. Never mind that we're in deep trouble with energy; that U.S. economic leadership is being snatched away by competitors in Europe and Asia; that we're stumbling behind other industrialized nations in productivity growth; that our national defense isn't what it should be.

The stand-patters profess concern for the human condition. Yet the things they're against — forward movement, development, progress — are precisely what are needed if opportunities are to be opened up for the deprived among us, let alone future generations.

The negativists in our midst would serve better by turning their energies to productive pursuits and to rekindling vision and venturesomeness. And they'd do well to understand that a society totally free of risk is beyond attainment.

Henry Fairlie again: "Risk-free? Living is sweat, danger, and death. From those comes the laughter. And curiously, from those comes also the ease of heart."

Less Government

To the Editor:

Tens of thousands of New Englanders will lose their jobs in the next few months as the long predicted, long expected recession turns newspaper headlines into reality.

There will be an onslaught of political remedies coming to the forefront as one incumbent after another attempts to curry favor with the voter and win re-election in the fall of 1980.

Business is the first to admit that federal government policy is the root cause of the current inflationary recessionary cycle and it will have to be an alteration of government policy by the politicians that will turn the economy around.

The tendency in the past has been for the politicians to vote to give us more government as the solution to unemployment . . . to put the unemployed on the federal payroll in some way or other . . . and to expand the role and influence of government by manipulating government spending, money supply, and federal regulations.

There is increased recognition that continued expansion of government as a solution to the problems of unemployment does little more than make the problems worse.

Each recession is a little longer and a little deeper than the last one. Output per worker has fallen to totally unacceptable levels and now rank fifth among the nations in the world in our productive capacity.

Government has established itself as the employer of last resort and continually resorts to increased government spending to mollify the masses so that the bi-annual election doesn't produce too many surprises for them.

Politicians dismiss the obvious solutions as business community rhetoric and too simplistic. In order to have less unemployment we need less government spending, less government regulation, less government taxation, and less government rhetoric.

New England should suffer less during this current recession because of the tens of thousands of new private sector jobs created here since 1975 by profit seeking private enterprise corporations providing high technology products in a worldwide marketplace. Tens of thousands of additional jobs will be created by this industry, either here or abroad, in the next few years . . . and where they are created depends on the politicians we have in Washington.

Less government is what the job creators want and my guess is that what the unemployed want . . . more than an unemployment check, more than a 12 month CETA job, more than a welfare dole . . . is good old fashioned private sector employment.

Could it be that the captains of New England industry, the people who have promised to create the jobs if they get relief from government, might just be correct? It sure seems worth giving their ideas a chance.

Do Drop In

To the Editor:

Some drop-in . . . others drop out. It's hard to cope and perhaps that's the reason why so many are benefiting from the new program emphasis of the Connecticut River Valley Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Yes, support groups and 'dropping-in' are evolving throughout the chapter's six-county area.

And, the first and third Wednesday mornings of each month finds MS'ers gathering at the Enfield Neighborhood Activity Center from 9:30 a.m. to noon. If you're in the area, drop in.

Wants New Faces

To the Editor:

In reviewing the past several years I discovered that the so called "goodie council" that we have serving us now, brought to the surface the so called discrepancy regarding our Industrial Park money transactions at election year time very convenient for political gains that they hope to capitalize on in the coming election.

They forgot one thing, one very important point, a point that I will remind you of. There always was at least three Republicans on the council. Why didn't they reveal the so called underhanded manipulation of funds at the time of the manipulation, no they wait for election time to reveal it

Somers Candidate Writes

To the Editor:

Will the quality of education improve in Somers? If quality is to be enhanced, how will this improvement be achieved?

A positive response will be given by current Board of Education members as well as the administration to the first question. However, a satisfactory answer will not be readily available to the second question. To have an answer to the second question would require a definite plan, and planning has not been performed effectively in the Somers school system.

Any organization to meet future needs must develop short term, medium, and long range plans. Furthermore, to plan well, realistic goals must be established. Goals must be determined by the Board of Education. Plans to achieve these goals must be a cooperative effort between the Board of Education and the Administration. Currently, the school system is lacking both specific goals and definite plans for the future.

To establish realistic goals, the Board of Education and the administration must be willing to admit that there is room for improvement in the system. Both are very defensive whenever the quality of education and discipline in the system are hoping to win a council seat.

Well people, you make your own assessment of this and let your conscience be your guide. I would recommend voting for new faces that could help Enfield to go forward for a change. Also, let's hope that candidates signs will not be pulled down before election as was done in our last election. Anyone caught doing that should be punished by law and exposed to the public.

In closing, I have always stood for honest, sincere compassion and fairness to the best of my ability, and I will continue to do that as a registered independent voter.

Victor H. Scussel

questioned. By not admitting the need for improvement in the system, the Board of Education and the administration could be condemning current and future students to an education which may have an adverse effect on their entire future.

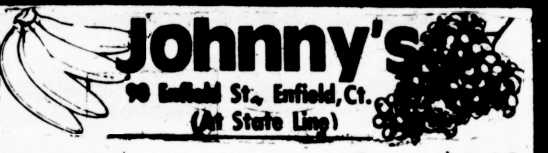

The administration must be given specific goals to improve the quality of education in Somers over the next five years. Progress toward achieving these goals can be measured annually with various test scores. Discipline, especially self discipline, is a skill or attitude which students must learn if they want to be achievers. Discipline must be stressed in the high school in lieu of privileges.

Buczowski Begins Campaign For Seat On Town Council

ENFIELD — Democratic Council Candidate "Ted" Buczowski kicked off his campaign for the District 3 Council seat on Saturday with an organizational meeting where he appointed Andrea Campbell and Bill Summers as Campaign Co-Chairpersons. Buczowski, a Safety Engineer for the Hartford Insurance Group, was recently selected to replace Councilman Jerry Rocker on the November ballot. He called upon all Democrats, in District 3 and throughout the town, to rally support for his late starting campaign and vowed to finish first on election day despite the time handicap.

According to Buczowski, his campaign will concentrate on exposing him to the voters and will be based upon, "his background and qualifications for the council and his concerns for the Town of Enfield and the Third District." Asked to elaborate he noted, I am a lifelong Enfield resident and a product of the Enfield Public Schools and I have lived on Hazard Avenue in District 3 for the past 27 years. My record of service to the community includes: Chairman of the Enfield Safety Committee; Vice-Chairman of the Fermi High School Building Committee; Enfield Scholarship Foundation President; and PTO President at the Hazardville Grammar School. I am also an active member of the Elks and the Knights of Columbus."

Asked about his concerns for Enfield and its government, Buczowski responded that his greatest concern was for planned growth in the community. "Specifically, I am concerned that the town is getting involved in too many projects without completing those already started. I would like to see a sound business planning approach taken with regard to the community's future. I believe my background and exposure in the business community as an engineer and as a Director of the New England Bank have provided me with the ability and understanding to foster this planning attitude. Just one example of my abilities and professional standing in my selection by the U.S. Department of Labor to twice conduct seminars on Industrial Safety in Poland as their representative."

Another concern regarding local planning relates to disposition of school properties as the buildings are closed. Buczowski notes that demographers are predicting another upsurge in births and he feels that the uncertainty necessitates "careful planning so that provisions for system re-expansion are taken into account should they be needed in the future." He also notes, "other local communities have found themselves building new schools just a few short years after closing and selling off good buildings because they did not make adequate provisions for population changes."

Buczowski also expressed concern about the public schools and specifically about the inadequate levels of books and educational materials in libraries and classrooms. He noted, "It is important to get the greatest possible value for our tax dollar in educational spending as well as for other government services. We must also set priorities on the use of those tax dollars allocated to education. Once satisfied that we are obtaining a true value for dollars spent we must be prepared as a community to make appropriate investments to meet the educational priorities of our school system. The money invested will pay dividends in attracting to the community new business and resident taxpayers. I share the hope of others in the community that the increased levels of state spending and declining enrollments will reduce required levels of local spending but we must guard against cutting local funds too quickly and sacrificing quality in our public school system."

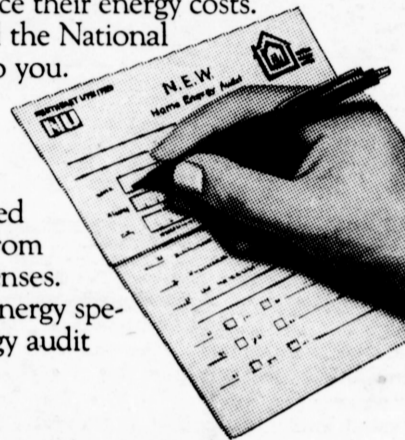

Summarizing his approach to the campaign and to serving as a councilman, Buczowski said, "I will use my knowledge of the town and the district together with my experience in community affairs to serve Enfield and represent the people in District 3. My approach to issues will develop based upon a blend of personal philosophy and constituent views. I believe this reasoned and balanced approach to local government is long overdue and will serve the town and district well."

To combat our rising operating costs, Northeast Utilities has been implementing important economy-minded measures. In that spirit, we have developed a program to help our customers reduce their energy costs. This broad energy conservation program is called the National Energy Watch (N.E.W.). Here is what it means to you.

Your personal energy audit.

To help you save energy and money, Northeast Utilities is making available to its customers an energy audit questionnaire. This form asks detailed energy-related questions concerning everything from your appliances to your heating and cooling expenses. Your questionnaire will be analyzed free by our energy specialists. You will then receive a personalized energy audit of your home.

Tailored energy action program.

This N.E.W. energy audit will offer conservation suggestions applying specifically to your home. It will pinpoint energy-saving improvements that can be made in areas such as insulation, storm windows and doors, caulking and weather stripping, and controlled water heating.

In addition, we will estimate improvement costs and the expected savings to you.

Improving the value of your home.

When you take advantage of this service offered by Northeast Utilities, your home will become a more valuable asset because you've made it more energy efficient. And as proof of your efforts, Northeast Utilities will issue an energy efficient home certificate if your home meets N.E.W. standards. To receive your energy audit questionnaire and participate in this important conservation program, simply write to: Ralph Marrone, Northeast Utilities, P.O. Box 1953, Hartford, Connecticut 06144.

Around Town...

By YVONNE PRESWICH

Margaret sat waiting patiently in her wheelchair in the hall of the nursing home. Her hair was combed and she was clean and fresh, awaiting her visitor.

Margaret was old and who knows what her thoughts were as she sat waiting there... maybe waiting away the rest of her life... ticking off seconds, minutes, hours. Precious days. Weeks. Years, perhaps.

But her letter must be written. Today. And because she couldn't do it herself, she would wait patiently for that volunteer lady who promised to come help her write it.

The letter was to her friend in Pennsylvania who wrote Margaret three times a week. Margaret's second stroke had left her unable to hold a pen, and goodness, what would her friend think having no answer in such a long time. Maybe her friend would stop writing, feeling Margaret didn't care.

But Margaret, at 80, cared very much.

Her volunteer finally arrived, 20 minutes late, and after the nurse wheeled Margaret back to the comfort of her room with the volunteer in tow, alone, they began to put it together... the letter.

It was immediately apparent that Margaret's stroke had left her unable to speak clearly, and the words and sounds she struggled to make were unintelligible to her visitor.

The volunteer was new and this was her first assignment. Margaret's clear blue eyes misted over out of the frustration of not being understood. Her mouth drooled from lack of control. She began to cry. The volunteer choked up in sadness and despair.

It was during this anguished, tense moment that an unspoken determination was born between the two women that this letter somehow would be written to answer Margaret's pen pal.

And so they began again, the new volunteer and Margaret paralyzed by her stroke, unable to communicate. The volunteer asked many questions of Margaret. Do you think it's a beautiful autumn day? Can you see the leaves changing color from your window? Margaret nodded her head yes and the letter began... "Dear Joanne, It's a beautiful autumn day here in Connecticut and I can see the leaves changing color from my window."

Margaret looked at the words written on the note paper and began to cry again. Tears of joy. Relief. She was making a letter happen and she and her volunteer were both pleased with themselves to discover a way.

A full two pages later, feeling flush with victory, Margaret and her volunteer decided to finish the letter outdoors, to enjoy the beautiful autumn sunshine and to get a little fresh air to enhance the creative process.

Once outside, the two of them sat there for a long time, not talking, just enjoying the view and listening to the hum of traffic from I-91. In their solitary communion with the beauty of the scene and the sounds, Margaret began crying again and it was all right.

Page three of the letter was polished off in all good time and when an autumn chill set in, Margaret was wheeled back to the warmth of her room. The visit was over, the letter was written and ready for mailing, and the volunteer said goodbye. The day was a success for both of them.

Margaret had written a letter to her friend and it was a triumph for her.

And for her volunteer.

Says Council Should Push Transportation

ENFIELD — The Town Council should be more aggressive in advocating better transportation services for Enfield's residents, Carl Becker said.

Becker, who is the Democratic nominee for the First District's seat on the council, said, "The council should be spearheading an effort to expand residents' transportation options."

Becker said that as councilman he will work to improve transportation services in four categories: buses between Enfield and Hartford, carpooling, in-town buses, and establishment of a regional transportation center.

"Improved transportation is especially important to the first District," he said, "which is far from I-91 and the town's commercial and industrial centers."

Becker, who formerly served on the town's Transportation

Committee, said that as councilman he will work to achieve the following goals:

1) The timeliness and quality of bus service between Enfield and Hartford should be improved.

"The Enfield - Hartford buses are too often late and crowded," he said. "Commuters have experienced long waits for buses, and many must stand all the way to Hartford and back. Council should represent the town's commuters in demanding that the state upgrade this service."

2) The town should sponsor a system to help residents form carpools for driving to jobs and activities in Enfield and other areas.

"I would like to see the computers in Town Hall used to match up residents who can share the driving to work, civic functions, school activities, and shopping," he said.

Becker, who is computer programming manager at Hallmark, Inc., said that as councilman he would be able to contribute expertise in the establishment of a computerized carpool program.

3) A practical system of buses should be created to link the town's residential areas with commercial and industrial areas that provide jobs for youths and others without their own transportation.

"Intra-town buses are needed," he said, "to give youths, senior citizens and members of one-car families better access to jobs and recreation and to reduce traffic on busy streets."

4) Council should support establishment by the state of a transit center close to the rail line in Thompsonville, which would bring a coordinated approach to the rail and bus transportation system that will serve the region in the long-range future.

"Transportation is an issue that is vitally important to our citizens," Becker said, "and one in which the Town Council should be taking a leadership position."

Introducing our NEW AND EXPANDED COMMUNITY ADVISORY BOARDS

WHAT IS A BANK COMMUNITY ADVISORY BOARD?

Our definition of a Bank Community Advisory Board is a group of individuals who meet periodically with members of the bank's management for the purpose of providing the bank with information concerning the local community, including local credit needs and also as a source for the bank to disseminate information.

WHO ARE THE MEMBERS OF OUR COMMUNITY ADVISORY BOARDS?

Members of our Community Advisory Board are men and women who reside in and/or are involved in the business life of the local community. We have made an effort to draw these individuals from every facet of community life.

WHY DO WE HAVE THREE SEPARATE COMMUNITY ADVISORY BOARDS?

We recognize that we are primarily involved in serving the communities of Suffield, Enfield and Windsor Locks although we have over 27,000 account relationships with many depositors and loan customers living in other communities. We further recognize that while each of these communities have similar needs, they are each unique enough to require separate boards. It's our way of providing custom service.

HOW CAN YOU BENEFIT FROM OUR COMMUNITY ADVISORY BOARDS?

Our Board members will be keeping us informed about our local communities and their credit needs. We will make a sincere effort to act wherever and whenever it is possible so that we are serving our communities as a responsible citizen.

HOW CAN YOU ASSIST OUR ADVISORY BOARD MEMBERS?

Our purpose of running this ad is for you to become acquainted with the members of our Community Advisory Boards so that you can provide them with information that you believe we can act upon to help benefit our communities.
