Connecticut.

Goshen has only one pauper, a tax rate of 7 mills, an academy with 70 scholars, and a village improvement society. It is said that Matthew Arnold is to lecture at Hartford the 12th, and that he will be guest of David Clark, a rich clerk who embezzled $150 of the town's funds and obtained money on forged notes and worthless checks last summer, has been sentenced to a year in the

A large barn belonging to Samuel Foote, of Branford, was burned Sunday night with an adjoining house, barn and cow house. The barn contained 50 tons of hay, 100 bags of guano and several horses. The loss is about $4000, with insurance of $2100.

Two or three weeks ago a firm at Oyster Point could have sold their expected crop of oysters on their beds off Stratford buoy for $20,000. Now probably $1,000 would buy it. The star fish is at work, and many dealers are fearful of total destruction of their beds.

Amelia Lesche of Rockville, 13 years old, swallowed a shawl-pin, two inches long, with a black head, two weeks since She has had pain in her side once since and raised a little blood, but is now in excellent spirits, while the doctor and her people are wating to see what will happen.

The New York and New England road has been losing by petty thieving from freight cars for some time, and last week arrested John Sharper, a freight conductor, and Thomas Hart a brakeman, at Hartford, for breaking open cars and stealing boots and shoes. This one loss amounts to from $200 to $300, and the other losses have been considerable.

"Paddy" Ryan's big gang of postoffice burglars have had bad luck. Ryan and Bryon are in jail awaiting trial for burglary, "Larry" Quinn is in Sing Sing for 10 years and Frank Riley for five; Murphy, the telegrapher, is also in Sing Sing, and Walsh was killed in New York the other day. The only men at large are Farley, whose early arrest is expected, and Higgins, who got away from the sheriff after being sentenced t 10 years in state-prison.

Sam Pine, the assailant of Miss Slocum, of North Salem, N. Y., who was sentenced to the state-prison a few days ago for 14 years for burglary and horse stealing, and who was to have been transferred to Wethersfield last Saturday, made his escape Thursday night by sawing off two iron bars 3/8 of an inch thick on the cell door, he then passed up through the corridor, removed the lock on the door of the work-room then passing out through the scuttle. $1000 has been offered for his capture.

Hartford is having a mild excitement over the sale of oleomargarine. The last legislature passed a law requiring dealers in this substitute for old-fashioned butter to let their patrons know it by posting a sign to that effect in their places of business. The law says that the letters must be four inches deep, and that the sign "Oleomargarine for Sale Here" should be posted in a conspicuous place. Hartford dealers have evaded the law by having a black sign, with skeleton letters, ing a black sign, with skeleton letters, made and posted so that it could not be read at the distance of four feet. The Hartford chief of police has been looking up the matter and has informed the dealers that the black signs must go.
