THE LOOM OF LIFE.

All day, all night, I can hear the jar Of the loom of life, and near and far It thrills with its deep and muffled sound, As the tireless wheels go always round. Busily, ceaselessly, goes the loom; In the light of day and the midnight gloom The wheels are turning early and late, And the woof is wound in the warp of fate.

Click, clack! there's a thread of love wove in: Click, clack; another of wrong and sin; What a checkered thing will this life be When we see it unrolled in eternity!

Time, with a face like mystery, And hands as busy as hands can be, Sits at the loom with its arm outspread, To catch in its meshes each glancing thread, When shall this wonderful web be done? In a thousand years, perhaps, or one: Or to-morrow, Who knoweth? Not you or I. But the wheels turn on and the shuttles fly. Are we spinners of wool for this life-web, say Do we furnish the weaver a thread each day? It were better, then, O my friend, to spin A beautiful thread than a thread of sin.

Ah, sad-eyed weaver, the years are slow, But each one is nearer the end, I know; And some day the last thread shall be woven in God grant it be love instead of sin.

Entering upon its fourth season with many valuable improvements, the CROWN OIL STOVE will commend itself to every one who examines it closely. Simple in its construction, yet possessing all the features to make it a first-class stove. Having added to our already large line a new Three, Five, and Six Burner, we can offer anything in the shape of an oil stove that is desirable. With its many articles of furniture we make is a Patent Broiler, which prevents any drippings from the meat from falling into the flame, and upon which a steak or fish can be broiled in the most approved style, and without the least taste from the oil, All our stoves have caps and partial ... will not smoke or smell more than a lamp on your table. If your lamp smokes it is immediately attended to. Why not attend to the stove? Cut the wicks perfectly true, and even with the burners, using sharp shears; cut a little off each corner. Keep the mica clean by subbing with a cotton rag. After lighting do not go off and leave the stove, as when the burners get hot the flame increases. Turn the wicks only high enough to produce a clear, brilliant flame. When the flame is clear the combustion is perfect and the heat most intense. Use white oil. Keep the tank full and the stove clean, and out of a draft. Should there be any difficulty in turning the wicks up or down, squeeze the tube together, thus giving the ratchet a firmer hold. By observing the above directions your stove will work perfectly, and be found a great comfort and convenience.

It is perfect and simple; neat, durable, and clean; no smoke, no smell, and non-explosive. Don't buy your Oil Stoves until you have thoroughly examined the Crown.

MANURE .- " Last Spring I used Bradley's Superphosphate on three and one-half acres of corn, at the rate of two hundred pounds per acre in the hill, without any other manure. The land was greensward years. The result was a good crop of sound cora, which was ripe Sept. 1st, and yielded, when husked, 325 bushels of ears. I have used Bradley's Phosphate for several years, on different crops, and in every case I have been well compensated by early maturity, and marked increase of crop."

Messrs. Lewis & Co., New Haven, Conn. Gentlemen-I have suffered with the Chills and Fever and Malaria for the past two years, residing during that time at 780 Chapel street, New Haven. I used quinine in its various forms, and a great deal of it. While I could prevent the Chills I could not rid myself of the poison. For some time last summer I was so weak that I could sit up but very little, my countenance was swollen and quining failed to give me an appetite or to act per-ceptibly as a tonic. In this condition, I began the use of your "Lewis' Red Jack-et Bitters." I immediately felt their effects, in two weeks I was nearly in my usual health. I used two bottles since that time. Whenever I have a recurrence of malaria symptoms I use a few doses of the Red Jacket Bitters, and I certainly consider them a most reliable remedy. They are my medicine. Yours respectfully,
