

NORWALK GAZETTE, Tuesday, Feb. 23, 1886.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTERS. WASHINGTON, Feb. 22, 1886. DEAR GAZETTE:—After a week of wrangling the house passed the Fish-John Porter bill, and on Friday actually passed three private bills, when, exhausted, as it were, by the Herculean labors, it adjourned over till to-morrow, Tuesday. Almost three months of the session have now passed, and yet the large and dominating democratic majority of the house has not yet introduced any legislation. The senate has worked with a becoming diligence and sense of appreciation of its responsibilities and the public needs. The public may fairly say the diligent adherence to work and duty on the part of the house, and the school boy waste of time and the consequent delay of the senate, and the examples of republican and democratic methods of doing the public work. There is little hope that the democratic house will meet the just expectations of the country by the enactment of any of the great public measures. It will probably go to the end in its present slipshod way, rushing through such appropriation and other bills as must be passed and then, when the heat of July or August dissolves their body, adjourn and go home and ask the "dear people" for another two years lease of power.

THE PRESIDENT AND SENATE. At a Wednesday caucus of the senate presented and had unanimously passed resolutions condemning the action of the administration in removing ex-Union soldiers and sailors and appointing in their places civilians, in refusing information on the part of the department when asked for the same, in explanation of the causes of removals made pending the unexpired term of the incumbent's commission, the same being unprecedented, indefensible and most reprehensible, and declaring that in all such cases the nominations for removals, and the heads of departments refuse to give the senate the information called for, the nominee shall be rejected. These resolutions were referred to the judiciary committee, and it is reported that the senate will not vote for the removal of the president's prerogatives. It calls for no private papers, no confidential communications, no documents, without which it cannot possibly discharge its constitutional duties. It asks for them, not for the purpose of reviewing the acts of the president, but to guide its own acts. The president's right of selection is not questioned, nor are his demands asked for, and it would seem that in the contest the senate was master of the situation, inasmuch as the official favorites of the administration cannot hold their offices or draw their pay although Postmaster-General Vilas has illegally drawn pay, but there will be a very serious stop to that proceeding.

THE FAIRFIELD COUNTY SEAT DEPUTE has only begun in its fierceness. Hitherto it has been a petty squabble, but now it will be a battle of giants. Norwalk has taken up a strong position, and has many reasons for doing so, such as a geographical center and exemption from tax for new buildings. Hartford is at some distance from the cause of controversy, but she will watch the battle with interest.

taken at Warrenton at an early period of the war.

Ed Nelson has turned out an elegant piece of work in his carriage factory on Knight street, in the shape of a farm wagon adapted to all modern usages and equipped with every convenience. It was ordered by Mr. J. M. Betts of Wilton and is a marvel of fine workmanship.

The Frazar Degree in Music Hall last Tuesday evening was attended by one of the largest audiences ever assembled in the hall, and gave universal satisfaction.
The hall was well filled and the net proceeds were something handsome.

A prisoner in the Bridgeport jail made a desperate attempt to escape last Wednesday but was recaptured by a couple of deputies before he got outside the jail premises. When Sheriff Swartz asked him whether he wanted to go to the penitentiary, "Ah—pretty question to ask a prisoner, ain't it? I wanted to go away, of course."

Mr. E. Whitworth of New York has pur-Mr. Charles W. Seymour will deliver his illustrated Lecture on "Spain, Her Romance and Reality," at Norwalk Opera House next Friday evening under the auspices and in aid of the Norwalk Library Association. Mr. Seymour's Lecture on Mexico delivered here last month under the auspices of the same association was highly enjoyed by those present on that occasion, the audience being composed of the best people of Norwalk, and judging from the reception they accorded him, he will have a large audience next Friday evening. Mr. Seymour is endorsed by the press as a lecturer of the highest order and one who holds his audience from the beginning to the close of the lecture deeply interested. The views on Spain are said to be much finer than those on Mexico and the lecturer equally interesting.

Chas. Frank Schnabel, 62 years old, born in Germantown, Pa., latter by trade, employed in Croft & Knapp's, attempted suicide between 3 and 4 o'clock on Monday morning, in the waiting room of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad by stabbing himself with a large pen knife one inch below the heart. He reported what he had done to Officer Wheeler, who happened to be in the baggage room. The officer at once called in Dr. Pardee who attended to Schnabel's injuries which proved not very serious.
The wound closed and he was taken to his home on Monday, who had no other recourse but to let him go. The temple was made white and washed under the influence of liquor, and caused by some reliability and are sold by Glover & Olson, Norwalk, H. S. Brown, South Norwalk, and Mr. Jerman, Stamford.

The burial of Marcus Krieger, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Krieger, occurred at Cypress Hill cemetery on Wednesday. Mr.
Krieger was a young man of high character and scholarly attainments. He was a general favorite with those to whom he was known and his death thus proved a severe blow to his many friends.

The party given at the residence of Mrs.
George C. Chowell on High street last Thursday evening proved to be the event of the season, both in point of numerical attendance and richness of costumes.
The floral decorations were elegant, Meosini of New York furnished music and the entertainment was served by a New York caterer.

Elliott Barnes, who made many friends here a few weeks ago in a week's engagement at the Opera House, has organized a company of his own and will give a week's engagement in Music Hall beginning March 1st. The repertoire is given in another column. Miss Lillian Elma, who with her company made herself quite a favorite with Norwalk theatre goers at a recent performance here, is appearing here on the 1st of next week.

Rev. Mr. Anderson preached an eloquent and touching discourse, Sunday, on the life and incidents in the life of John B. Gough. Mr. Anderson was an intelligent friend of Mr. Gough's, the friendship beginning in boyhood and continued without a break to the latter's death. Mr. Anderson related many incidents in Mr.
Gough's life which were never published and which were of absorbing interest. A friend suggests that the sermon be changed to the form of a lecture and repeated soon.

It is said by those who claim to

President Barnum of the Housatonic road, has it in view to make a shorter route to New York for the fast trains on his road, to accommodate summer travel, and was in town on Saturday on this business.
The idea is to take branch to Danbury, thence to New York, via the Danbury & Norwalk road. The connecting track would be on the same old one of the former New York, Housatonic and Northern, which was taken up years ago, starting out somewhere in the vicinity of the New England crossing."

Among the multitudinous tribulations of a dramatic company, is the usual trick, as witness this from the Ansonia Standard of last Monday: "A dramatic company came to Ansonia on the 8:30 p.
m. train Saturday, expecting to appear at the Opera House in the evening in a play called 'Partners in Crime,' but on arrival found they had not been billed for that date. The misunderstanding was the fault of the advance agent. The company numbered twelve people, and had come through from Roudout, N. Y., which they left at 5 a. m. They took the 7:11 p.
m. train for South Norwalk where they
appear here later on."

Mrs. Samuel Daskam died last Thursday at the great age of 98 years. She was born in New Britain in Connecticut and had always been remarkably free from sickness. Her maiden name was Lucretia Fitch and she was a great-grand-niece of Thomas Fitch, the first governor of the Connecticut colony. Tender tributes to her innate goodness have been bounteously offered by the friends and the community, and her death is a sad loss to the community.
She leaves two children, ex-Warden Daskam of Norwalk and Mrs. George Bradley of New Haven. A brother also survives her, Lewis Fitch of New Haven.
Her funeral was numerously attended in the evening at the residence of her son, the interment being made in the town cemetery.

B. Gough. Mr. Anderson was an intelli-
out a break to the latter's death. Mr. Anderson related many incidents in Mr.
soon.

It is said by those who claim to know," says the Danbury News, "that President Barnum of the Housatonic road,
to New York for the fast trains on his road,
in town on Saturday on this business.
The idea is to take branch to Danbury,
would be on the same old one of the former
out somewhere in the vicinity of the New England crossing."

company came to Ansonia on the 8:30 p.
m. train Saturday, expecting to appear at
the Opera House in the evening in a play
called 'Partners in Crime,' but on arrival
left at 5 a. m. They took the 7:11 p.
m. train for South Norwalk where they
appear here later on."

and she was a great-grand-niece of Thomas
her death is a sad loss to the community.
Bradley of New Haven. A brother also
survives her, Lewis Fitch of New Haven.
the evening at the residence of her son,
the interment being made in the town
cemetery.
