NEW ADVERTISEMENTS THIS WEEK.

A new watch has been invented which the Waterbury watch company have begun to manufacture. It is a stem-winder and an improvement on the old Waterbury.

Mrs. LeGrand Jackson, who has just returned from a trip across the Continent and which she accomplished alone and unattended, without a single unpleasant incident, is filled with enthusiasm over the wonders of nature she saw both en route and on the Pacific Coast.

Our Little Men and Women come again with their twenty pages of stories and pictures for youngsters just beginning to read for themselves. It is as good for its use as a pair of perfect slippers and clear eyes for their use.

Mrs. Isaac Armstrong of Crawford county, Pa., was ill, and her son started out with his gun to kill a pheasant for her. He returned with a long hunt, without any game, but shortly after he had returned to the parlor, and a pump phlegm was heard on the floor with his neck broken.

Mr. R. W. Keeler announces that he will dispose of his business in North Wilton at a reasonable figure. He is doing a good general merchandise business, has four peddling routes, and receives a profitable income from the post office business, which would go to the purchaser.

Unmistakable evidences of an extinct volcano have been discovered around Mount Lamentation, near New Britain, and the fact has aroused the attention of Yale and Harvard professors. Several delugations of scientific men have visited the spot, and will be able to inform the people living near it there is any immediate danger of an eruption.

Rev. Dr. Robert Anderson, of Waterbury, is to exchange pulpits next Sunday with Rev. Colonel Anderson of our First Congregational church. Dr. Anderson's many old friends and parishioners will be glad to see him in his old Norwalk pulpit again, and our Waterbury friends will enjoy a rich intellectual feast in listening to our soldier pastor.

At a church entertainment in Washington recently, boxes of luncheon were sold to the young men, and in each box was the card of some young woman who was present. The purchasers were supposed not to know what names were in the boxes they bought, and each was expected to share his luncheon with the girl whose name he found in his box.

Alderman F. W. Bates, that Hiram Abiff of modern operative masonry, has punctured a hole through the immense granite blocks of the south east abutment of Norwalk Bridge, preparatory to extending the east side sewer conduit across the river to its intersection with the Water St. main.

Blind Tom, the world-renowned musical prodigy, is to give a concert in the Opera House Thursday evening. This will be a rare opportunity to hear one of the wonders of the age and of the world. Blind Tom's supernatural gifts are so well known that they need no special enumeration at our hands. The house should be filled to its utmost capacity.

Rev. Warner Nichols, Rev. S. B. S. Bissell, Col. F. St. John Lockwood and Judge Alfred E. Austin, represented Norwalk at the Yale Alumnae meeting at Greenfield Hill last week. The banquet was given by Rev. Mr. Nichols' brother and sister at the old homestead mansion. Col. Lockwood invited the Fairfield County Yale graduates to hold their next meeting here in Norwalk.

Illustrated papers in the forthcoming November Century will include one, on Augustus St. Gaudens, the sculptor, and his work. As St. Gaudens's statue of Lincoln, in Chicago, was completed since the article was written, Mrs. Van Rensselaer contributes a short supplementary paper describing that work, with a full-page illustration, engraved by Whitney. Mrs. Van Rensselaer considers this statue "not only our best likeness of Abraham Lincoln, but our finest work of monumental art."

L. W. Kervan, of Norwalk, Florida, an old soldier of the Fifth Conn. Vols., and who was for several years after the war an employe of the Healy Bros., started his first business here on Saturday. This is his first visit to old Norwalk for several years, and he was delighted to note the changes and growth of our town the past dozen years. He it was who founded and named the new and thriving town of Norwalk on the west shore of the St. John's river, and about one hundred miles south of Jacksonville.

The shore along Bantam lake near Waterbury has long been famous for the Indian spear heads and other instruments found. These have been so numerous that antiquarians are led to believe that those who do not have them are puzzled that no graves had been revealed. Last week several workmen while digging with some rare Indian weapons. They have been buried in a sitting position. One grave revealed an unusually large collection, and was probably that of a chieftain. The weapons showed no sign of use.

Tax Collector St. John has returned. He left next morning after his election, while the air was filled with the lamnate and given the funeral of the manest, and his mysterious absence for so long a period is only to be accounted for on the conjecture that these frosts might have turned his mind to a contemplation of the duty he owes his country and posterity, a duty so long neglected—and that he has endeavored to atone for in some piece of benevolent work at or near Saratoga Springs. But our taxes will be levied and collected all the same.

Mr. C. P. Huntington, and family, and a few friends, passed through South Norwalk in a private Pullman car last Thursday en route to Harwinton. Mr. H's dedication of a pretty chapel erected by him and given to the Congregational church and society of Harwinton, in memory of his deceased mother. Mr. H. writes us from New York, "I work on a treadmill a good many hours every day here, and occasionally I have to take a trip to Harwinton to see the place of my mother's repose." Mr. H. probably has never visited our Wilton. The chapel is said to have cost the railroad magnate over $60,000.

The tombstone of a man who was shot while gunning near Somers, Conn., in 1789, bears these lines:
All you that hunt in verdant woods
Will treasure your gun and your powder
Be careful when you give your piece
Lest your partner's blood do spill.

The largest gymnasium in the world is said to be that of the Young Men's Christian Association at Liverpool. Harvard is said to have the next largest. Ladies as well as men are admitted to the Liverpool gymnasium, and so enthusiastic are the members that they go out into the sun and induce the street arabs to come in and be taught the use of their muscles. Over 400000 have been taught in this way in one week. Until less than two years ago the association refused to allow boys in its gymnasium, but now it is boxing in its gymnasium, but now it is as freely inducted in as are other sports.

Company F will give their first sociable of the series of 1887-8, this (Wednesday) evening in the Armory.
—Read advertisement—We have found it—in the Mirror, Saturday, October 29—George W. Raymond.

Mr. F. E. Heenan, who has been sick at his sister's in New York for nearly a month, returned to Norwalk Monday greatly improved in health.
The post office safe in George Ford's store at Waterville and the Naugatuck railroad safe were blown open Friday night. About $800 in money and postage stamps was taken. Two men who tried to sell a horse there the same day are suspected; they have been traced to Troyville.

Gas monopoly has become a crying issue at Chicago and Louisville. The former has a "trust" and claims to be strangled by it, while the latter Louisville reasons that if the smallest city in Kentucky obtains its gas at 50 cents per thousand feet, Louisville ought not to be compelled to pay $1.50. The newspapers of Chicago are leading in a strong fight against the trust which forbids its overthrow, and perhaps the future control of the gas supply by the city.

Builder S. B. Wilson has probably thrown the old Fairfield Co. Ag. Society into bankruptcy. He has attached all the funds in the hands of its treasurer to pay a note of nearly $1,000 which was given him by the society and which, after carrying two years, was allowed to go to protest last week. This prevents Treasurer Curtis from paying any of the premiums or debts against the society and is likely to result in a foreclosure on their grounds and a general smash-up, unless friends come to its immediate rescue.

Jake Brown, the Bridgeport, wife murderer, has experienced religion and passes the greater portion of his time in reading the Bible and chanting gospel hymns. Brown is confident of the State accepting a plea of murder in the second degree, preferring, as he terms it, "of becoming a guest of the State during the remainder of his life in preference of being the chief actor in a necktie party." To all appearances he is the most unconcerned and contented prisoner in the jail, but was to be the poor unfortunate who is foolishly hoping to express an opinion that he will be hung, for then Jacob's "color" mounts to its highest notch, and forgetting his religion goes right back to the old "cuss" words again.

—We would call attention to the new advertisement in to-day's GAZETTE of the long established and famous S. O. Barnum & Co.'s clothing house, 196 to 200 Chatham square, New York. This is the house where Norwalk's favorite son, Benj. Barraclogg, presides with so much persuasive grace and generous courtesy, and so oft sends forth his Norwalk friends well "clothed and in their right minds."

This house has sent the GAZETTE its annual announcements for a period reaching back to nearly forty years, when the fathers of the present firm established this monster business in the custom and ready-made clothing line, and now the sons are treading in the footsteps of their honored and illustrious parental predecessors, both in business and advertising.

W. Warner is an unfortunate individual. He is generally unlucky in his business associations, several of his clerks and assistants having left him unceremoniously and with more or less of his money and property. His latest misfortune, however, laid him up with a broken collar bone and severe scalp wounds. He was driving from his home in company with W. M. Stevens Monday morning, when his horse bolted, causing a wheel to give way, and both occupants were violently thrown out. Stevens was practically unharmed, but Warner, who struck on his head and shoulders, suffered a broken collar bone and severe scalp wounds on the head and face. He was picked up unconscious, and taken to Mr. Stevens' house, where he is now rapidly recovering, under the skillful treatment of Dr. Murray. Some imaginative local correspondent sent an account of the affair to the New York papers, stating that both legs were broken and that Warner was dying.

—If you are wise you will get a dozen of these splendid photographs of head-aches before the holiday rush. Cabinets $2.50 per dozen.

The extension of the cotton manufacturing industry in India in the past few years has been remarkably rapid, as shown in the annual report of the Bombay Mill-owners' Association, which presents some very interesting facts and figures. The report for the year ending June 30, 1887, shows the number of spindles to be 57; the last report gives 103 as the number. In 1881 there were 1,513,096 spindles; in 1887, 1,421,900. In 1881 the number of looms was given as 13,707; in 1887, 15,536. In the past six years the number of hands employed daily has increased from 46,400 to 76,943 and the approximate amount of cotton consumed annually from 378,989 bales to 626,276. The number of mills and spindles has not only rapidly increased, but the producing power per spindle has undergone a rapid improvement. In this great extension of cotton manufacturing, my undoubtedly be found the cause of the decline of England's exports to India.

Sewer Italians are credited with having stolen two dozen bottles of champagne from A. H. Camp's cellar, the other night. Who it was that stole them is not known, but of having a headache.—Republian.

The above is an unjust imputation on our new "noble Roman" population. Norwalk and our neighboring towns have been cursed for several years with a gang of sneak thieves of the meanest sort. They evidently are one and the same gang, whether robbing cellars and hen roosts in Westport, Wilton or Norwalk, and go in force for the transportation of their plunder. It is to be hoped that the miscreants may either be arrested or shot down in some of the meanest spots. Of late our own town has received more than its due share of the attention of these disagreeable miscreants, and our police and people should watch them with increased vigilance.

Last week they entered the cellars of Geo. W. Sellock on Merwin street and stole a quantity of Scotch whisky of the meanest sort. They evidently are one and the same gang, whether robbing cellars and hen roosts in Westport, Wilton or Norwalk, and go in force for the transportation of their plunder. It is to be hoped that the miscreants may either be arrested or shot down in some of the meanest spots. Of late our own town has received more than its due share of the attention of these disagreeable miscreants, and our police and people should watch them with increased vigilance.

Ridgefield Press—Governor P. C. Lonsbury will call to Macon, Ga., this week.—Mr. John W. Ross, who has been in the place of absence to the Liverpool, has probably has never visited our Wilton. The chapel is said to have cost the railroad magnate over $60,000.

The tombstone of a man who was shot while gunning near Somers, Conn., in 1789, bears these lines:
All you that hunt in verdant woods
Will treasure your gun and your powder
Be careful when you give your piece
Lest your partner's blood do spill.

D. Lottrop Company, Boston, will send a sample copy for five cents in postage stamps, if they pay generously for getting subscribers.
Despite the fact that Mr. Franklin, the head of the great Hartford & Harlem Parallel railroad enterprise, is now in Ludlow street jail, the fact that there is to be a parallel built in the near future is positively asserted.

George C. Bonifacé will appear in the Opera House Saturday evening in that standard old production, the "streets of New York." Bonifacé comes well recommended and will undoubtedly give his spectators the full value of his company.
—Rec'd.—

Mr. Wm. E. Kellogg received by mail the other day ten rattles from an anonymous rattlemaker who was killed by his cousin Chas. W. Whitney in Hancock, N. Y. Mrs. O. S. Ferry and daughter Mary, having returned from their summer sojourn at Mt. Washington and Pittsfield, Mass., and are at Mrs. Van Hoesen's.

James Park and Miss Lizzie Gallagher, colored, both of Boston, were married at the residence of the officiating clergyman, Rev. P. M. Laws, over Hadden's building Tuesday.

"Uncle John" Collins of Danbury, formerly proprietor of the American House restaurant in New York, was in town on Thursday, looking as if the air and fresh of Beantown agreed with him. Gov. Latham has been called away South on business, and is liable to be absent from the state for ten days or more, so there is no chance of that extra legislative session for at least a fortnight to come.

Mr. W. E. Duncan and his charming wife, Tuesday from a delightful wedding tour, having visited Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other points of interest in the South, returned to Danbury next week assume his duties in Latham's drug store on Main street.

Raymond Brown's dock over the harbor at South Norwalk collapsed yesterday morning with eleven men on it. The men were almost buried beneath the debris, and stood deep in water until they were extricated. None of them were seriously injured.

Senator Hill visited Albany last Wednesday, but remembering with a thrill of horror the terrible experience he had with the Bible and chanting gospel hymns. Brown is confident of the State accepting a plea of murder in the second degree, preferring, as he terms it, "of becoming a guest of the State during the remainder of his life in preference of being the chief actor in a necktie party." To all appearances he is the most unconcerned and contented prisoner in the jail, but was to be the poor unfortunate who is foolishly hoping to express an opinion that he will be hung, for then Jacob's "color" mounts to its highest notch, and forgetting his religion goes right back to the old "cuss" words again.

A vestry meeting was held in St. Paul's parish rooms Tuesday afternoon to consider the proposed reorganization of the Rev. C. M. Sellock in meeting the expense of publishing his interesting and interesting book, "The History of the Church of the Holy Trinity, New York." The meeting was presided over by Mr. Sellock on the subject.

Wednesday morning Mr. Alonzo Nickerson, the popular carpenter, came walking briskly down Main street with a table on his head. In passing a lamp post near High street, the legs of the table struck against it, violently knocking Mr. Nickerson down. He fell against the table's struts, stone curbing and struck his head against the iron hatchway door, which was open, standing upright, inflicting an ugly scalp wound, which was plastered up by a doctor.

Rev. Charles H. Read, D. D., a native of Reading (which is said to have received its name, properly Reading, because of his ancestors), who has been pastor of the Grace street Presbyterian church in Richmond, Va., for 38 years, has recently resigned his pastorate, by reason of physical infirmities, and has taken a temporary leave of absence from his duties. He is elected pastor emeritus, with a stipend for life. The Richmond papers pay high tribute to Dr. Read as a learned, scholar and gentleman, and one of the most eloquent preachers and most beloved pastors in their beautiful city. He honors his ministry.

Mr. Gould D. Jelliff, of Ashbury Park, N. J., formerly a resident of Wilton, came to visit Mr. Eben Fowle on Main street on Wednesday. Thursday noon he went up to Wilton to visit his family plot in the cemetery, returning on "the train" and walking from the depot to Mr. Fowle's house, feeling apparently as well as ever. He went immediately to his room on some trifling errand, and no sooner had he entered than his daughter, who had accompanied him, rushed down stairs in alarm and reported that something was the matter with her father, but before anything could be done for his relief, he was dead from a heart affection. He was about sixty years of age and was well-known in Norwalk and Wilton and highly esteemed.

Raymond Brown's dock over the harbor at South Norwalk collapsed yesterday morning with eleven men on it. The men were almost buried beneath the debris, and stood deep in water until they were extricated. None of them were seriously injured.

Spent time should remember that although the quail and partridge law is off, the law which prohibits hunters going round shooting women remains in force all winter in the season. Last Saturday Mrs. Dr. F. Brady, of Wilton, while in her garden, saw a "sportsman" in a field and showed the number of miles to take to the gunner to the fact that she was not posing as a shooting-gallery target, and the young man, who was evidently near-sighted, being told how near he came to hitting what he didn't aim at, and how far he came from hitting the bird, which he did aim at, turned pale and solemnly promised Mrs. Brady that the next time he went hunting for birds, he would stick to the old method and put salt on their tails.

A Norwalk Lady Dead. Mrs. N. H. Clark, nee Miss Hannah Jennings of Norwalk, died suddenly at her home in Boston on Wednesday morning, the 19th inst. She was apparently as well as ever the day before, and complained of a severe headache just after supper, from which she nearly fainted away. She retired and grew rapidly worse, and despite the best attention and all that could be done for she died at 2 o'clock of congestion of the brain. The body was brought to Norwalk on Thursday, and the funeral occurred yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the residence of her brother-in-law, Mr. A. G. Betts, on Main street, Rev. Messrs. Clapp and Sellock officiating.

Mrs. Clark will be remembered by Norwalk citizens, having lived here until a few years ago, when she and her husband moved to Boston. At the time her father conducted the news and stationery store, now occupied by E. D. Stanley, deceased, she was almost constantly engaged in attendance upon the patrons of the store. She was 88 years and 8 months old, and her husband survives her.

Y. A. M. E. C. The second annual meeting of the Y. A. M. E. C. (Yale Alumni Association of Fairfield County) was held on Wednesday, 19th inst., at Greenfield Hill, the place of its nativity, in the spacious and substantial Nichols mansion, by invitation of Col. A. T. Nichols and his sister, Miss Susan Warner Nichols, whose brother E. H. Nichols, LL.D., of New York City, gave the address of welcome. After the opening address by Rev. G. S. Plumley, of Greenfield Hill, president of the association, presided over by Rev. S. B. S. Bissell, Her. A. Lewis, of Westport, read his report as secretary and treasurer, and Dwight and Professors Stocked and Newton, of the University. Papers were read by Rev. S. Scoville, of Stamford, and E. C. Goring, D. L. D., of N. Y. College. Songs and the Yale cries kept up the animation. The hospitality of the Nichols mansion was unobscured and highly appreciated. Theodore Bronson, Esq., an honorary member, conveyed the members and guests from here to Southport. The association already numbers over 130 of the 200 Yale Alumni of Fairfield County. President Dwight was enthusiastically received and applauded.—Rever.

REDDING. The Episcopal Society has received a grant offer with reference to the improvement of their church edifice. Two ladies of Newtown, Mrs. Johnston and daughter have assumed the expense of the addition and of its furnishings. The cost is estimated at about $1,000. The society will therefore be able to improve their edifice as they may desire, and make it worthy of its noble purpose.

Rev. W. J. Jennings attended on Wednesday the large and enthusiastic meeting of the Yale Alumni Association of Fairfield County at the residence of Col. A. R. Nichols at Greenfield Hill.

SOUTH-NORWALK. Mr. C. E. Jennings and wife are visiting for a short time in Brooklyn, preparatory to removing there for the winter. Dr. and Mrs. Orton soon go to New York, leaving their cottage on Elmwood avenue unoccupied until July, 1888. Officer Ireland has had a few days off, and has found it a "dear" trip, having killed and brought home with him a large buck, which is now at Klinefelter's market.

The war of the rival ropeliner lines goes bravely on. We hear that offers have been made to transport barrels of vegetables from New York for three cents each. On Monday morning there were standing on the Danbury and Norwalk railroad dock above the drawbridge, sixty-three cars loaded with coal and lumber awaiting transportation.

The Connecticut School Supply company are not to have it all their own way. The newsmen and druggists are prepared to offer as good line of school supplies at all less prices.

Mention has been made in some of the city locals of the tall "sycamore of democracy." Enquiries have been made by many persons if this tree is a new species, and what fruit it bears.

The "dairymaids" and the managers were so successful in adding a large amount to the church building fund, they propose to go to Georgetown on Wednesday and present the same "fantasia" to aid the church in that place.

There seems to be no little discontent in the mind of a few who are not satisfied with the result of the city election, and they are endeavoring to find a good reason for the recount of votes. Go ahead, gentlemen! Reason won't save you.

Teachers in public schools doubtless have much to annoy and perplex them, but they are paid for fidelity and patience and ought to learn the truth of complaints made by scholars before using harsh and sharp words in regard to a scholar's action. A teacher may sometime have to learn that "patience" is not a virtue.

About two hundred persons assembled at the Music Hall on Sunday to inaugurate a temperance campaign. The meeting was opened by singing "Hold the Fort." Rev. Mr. Bissell offered a fervent prayer. Speeches by Rev. Messrs. Deane and Read followed, and were well received. There was one very fatal mistake made in their construction. The vizio is only elevated 19° above a level instead of 29 as was proposed. As it is it gives no protection to the eyes, and is otherwise hard to wear.

The majority of the city council for 1888 are new at the business, and some of the duties which they are expected to perform. Upon inquiry they have already learned that "copies of the city charter" are somewhat scarce. All are surprised to learn that the present charter is the product of one man, and was approved not by a majority of the voters, but by the mayor and five councilmen only. For this reason some may refuse to qualify.
