Selectman Daskam is working his level best to have an electric bell placed at the railroad crossing on the New Canaan road.

Concord Division, S. of T., held an interesting entertainment, last evening. Despite the storm there was a fair attendance.

The West avenue whist club "turns the trump" for the first time this season on Friday evening, at the residence of Mr. Wm. A. Curtis.

It is expected that the dedicatory exercises of the new Congregational church at South Norwalk, will commence on Sunday, Dec. 15th.

The attempt to get up a religious war out in Kansas was a pitiable failure. Neither side seemed to have religion enough to fight about.

Henry J. Pointer, ex mayor of Newark, N. J., was married last Wednesday in that city. He is eighty-nine years old, while his bride is twenty-six.

At the home of the bride, in East Norwalk, Rev. C. M. Pegg on Wednesday evening made Fred Benedict and Miss May Allen man and wife.

Frank W. Hyatt, of Brooklyn, formerly of Norwalk, now the largest safety pin manufacturer in the United States, was in town Thursday.

The Rev. F. E. Hopkins, of the Congregational church, New Canaan, who has been visiting the Paris Exposition, arrived home Thursday evening.

Mrs. Robert McQuhae, of South Norwalk, died at the home of her parents, in New York, on Tuesday last, of typhoid pneumonia.

The school teachers' strike at Lynn is different from the orthodox, old-fashioned sort, in which the birch in the striker's hand did all the mischief.

It costs over $35,000,000 a year to run the city of New York. No wonder every other Gothamite you meet is a born politician with a natural craving for pap.

The engagement is announced for Mr. William Beers, of New York, formerly of Norwalk, and a son of the late Isaac S. Beers, to a wealthy lady of Philadelphia.

President Harrison's message to congress will be put in type-written copies at the White House, and not printed at the government printing office as heretofore.

Senator Platt returned home, Saturday, from his trip to the Pacific coast. He will go to Washington in a few days to be present at the opening of congress on Dec. 2d.

There is a great deal of interest in the results to be attained by the successful appeal from the will of the late Captain John Brooks, which was decided some time ago by the Supreme court of this state.

—Marcus I. Finley has sold out his clothing establishment on Park Row and returned to his former position at the great ready-made clothing house, corner of Fulton and Nassau streets, New York.

The Simonds Manufacturing company is to leave Norwalk in the Spring. What is being done by our Board of Trade or any one of our citizens towards their retention or in efforts to secure any other manufactory to take its place?

Mr. Dudley P. Ely, who for nearly twenty years has held the position of president of the Norwalk Gas Light Company, has sold his stock and is to retire from the company. His stock has been purchased by E. J. and Eben Hill.

Rev. Mr. Torrey, of the Baptist church, will address the next meeting of the Bridgeport Christian Endeavor Union on the topic: "Work for Associate Members." The meeting will be held Dec. 2, at the First Baptist church.

John T. Hayes is the editor of a paper called the Nunda, which dropped into the Norwalk newspaper arena, this week. It is published in the interest of St. Mary's church fair, which opens at the Opera House, next Friday evening.

Councillors Curtis Thompson of this city and Hurlbutt of Norwalk, worked hard in the interests of their client, Angeline E. Perry, to break the will of Sally Ann Patrick of Westport. The jury, however, did not consider the evidence sufficient, and after being out an hour returned a verdict sustaining the will. —Bridgeport Standard.

The South Norwalk fire department fair at Music Hall, last week, was a gratifying success. There was a large attendance every evening. The fair closed Monday evening. Ticket No. 910, held by Frank H. Baxter, drew the handsome bedroom suit.

That was a delightful treat at Hillside last Friday evening when Miss Galloway gave her lecture on the "Romance of Chivalry." This week Friday evening at the same time and place she is to give her second lecture on the "Ethics of Courtesy."

The concert given by St. Paul's church choir, under the direction of Mrs. N. L. Huntington in the Opera House, Monday evening, was a grand success. The recitations by Mr. Burdett were heartily enjoyed as was also the musical part of the programme.

I hear that genial Sam Fessenden's broken limb is not coming properly after all, and that he is heading down from Stamford for a course of expert surgical treatment at one of the York hospitals. Everybody who knows the Nunda State politician will be sorry to learn that his injury has proved so severe. —Herald, in New York Press.

—The oyster crop in Quabbaug Cove, near Mystic Bridge, is a total failure. About 5,000 bushels of seed were planted in the spring and a good share of them are dead. The trouble is laid to a cabbage-like plant which entirely covers the bed in its growth.

Captain George Bartlett and wife of Guilford have just returned from New York city, where they went to celebrate the sixty-eighth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. Bartlett entered his ninety-second year October 24, and his wife is in her eighty-ninth.

A birthday surprise party was given to Miss Emma Mann, at her home in Wilton, Tuesday evening. The weather was unpropitious, but it did not prevent quite a number of Miss Mann's Norwalk friends from being present and participating in the happy occasion.

A new teacher in a Middletown school has instituted a new code of discipline, which deserves the attention of the state humane society. She punished an unruly boy by placing cayenne pepper on his tongue; but her favorite chastisement was to confine the boys in the closet and turn on the steam from the radiator.

—Bets & Farrington have a novelty in the way of pitted Olives. Try them.

The annual meeting of the Shepaug, Litchfield & Northern Railroad company was held at Litchfield, Wednesday. The officers elected are, President, George D. Chapman; vice-president, Harold Clements; secretary, W. J. Brown; assistant secretary, W. L. Ransom; treasurer, C. H. Coit; superintendent, Alexander McNeil.

General Manager Stevenson is authority for the statement that a new train will be put on the Hausatonic main line next season, from New Milford, which will arrive in Bridgeport, about 8 a. m. This will allow business men along the line of the route an hour more at home in the morning and will also give them ample time to reach New York by 10 a. m.

The handicap billiard tournament at the rooms of the Norwalk Club began Monday night. In the opening games E. H. Parker beat J. H. Lee; L. C. Green beat C. W. Many; Royal Adams beat Thomas S. Morison. The tournament will be continued each evening during this week.

Col. Seely G. Blakeman, 17th Conn. Vols., is spoken of for Department Commander of Connecticut, and George I. Buxton as Senior Vice-Commander. The southern part of our state has not thus been honored heretofore, and is deemed entitled to it.

Invitations for the sociable given by Pioneer Hook and Ladder company, on Thanksgiving night, are being issued. Everything, so far as arrangements have been completed, points to this sociable being the most successful and enjoyable of any that the company have given heretofore.

Compulsory notification of the presence of contagious disease, in order that healthy children or adults may not be unwittingly exposed, and that proper measures of isolation and disinfection may be now demanded in all municipalities that keep abreast of the times.

The craze for chrysanthemum exhibitions has led the editor of the Arizona Hooper to announce that he will hold a jimson weed exhibition in his back yard in a few days. He says he'll be warned if he is going to take a back seat when it comes to getting prizes for weeds, and he allows that the jimson weeds in his yard will lay over anything in the country.

A large number of tickets of Company F's minstrel to be held in the Opera House, Thursday evening, December 5th, have been sold. The price is only 50 cents to any part of the house. Charts will be opened at Hale's drug store, uptown, and Plaisted's drug store, South Norwalk, where the tickets may be exchanged for reserved seat coupons.

Horse-car driver Schuyler Taylor is reported as having eloped with the wife of Irving Taylor, a blacksmith, and everything points to the truth of the report. Taylor leaves his wife and four children in destitute circumstances. For some time he had been allowing his wife the magnificent sum of $8 per week for household expenses, out of a salary of $12 per week.

"Did you ever study the human laugh as an index to human character?" asks a Chicago philosopher. "It is an infallible test, my boy. Did you ever know a man who simpered and giggled like a girl who wasn't a sneak in his heart? And, on the contrary, did you ever know a fellow who laughed squarely out with a good, honest roar who wasn't the prince of good fellows?"

Anon's Sentinel.—This is going to be a cold winter. When George Washington Gilbert, the only true and genuine hermit in Fairfield county, with hundreds of testimonials from respectable citizens, goes barefooted until November 1st, a mild winter can be looked for. If he dons his shoes October 1st, it is blizzards to come. As he began to wear shoes about that time this year the Ridgefield Press has taken in its thermometer and is putting weather strips on its back door.

Senator Farwell, of Illinois, has thoroughly committed himself to the scheme of free international commerce. He said to the delegates: "We must offer to you our exports as cheaply as others do; and to that end I will favor such legislation as will bring about this result, even to the extent of uninterrupted trade between all the countries of this hemisphere." If a majority of our statesmen are of Senator Farwell's mind there should be no reason why the Pan-American Congress may not be a glorious and complete success.

—The rush has already commenced at Readman's for holiday pictures. Come early and you won't get left.

Thomas M. Clarke, a prominent and well-known citizen of Winsted, died on Thursday on board the incoming steamer from Liverpool, on which he was returning from Europe, where he had been for a couple of months seeking relief from a serious ailment. The remains were brought to Winsted and will be interred to-day. Mr. Clarke was about 60 years old and was founder and for a long time editor of the Winsted Herald. For some years past he had been engaged in manufacturing in Winsted. He was prominent in all public undertakings in Winsted and wielded a powerful influence in the politics of the county. —Record.

One of the Pioneer boys received a letter a few days ago from the West. The letter states that he had a very narrow escape from injury in a railroad accident shortly after leaving Chicago for Pueblo. The train, on which he was a passenger, was derailed and two or three of its cars were turned upside down. One man in the seat behind of Mr. Nesbitt had several ribs broken, and a man in a seat rear of him had his leg broken. Fortunately Matt, only received a shaking up.

Rev. Dr. Noble and wife have engaged board at Mrs. Sylvester VanHoosear's, on West avenue, for the winter. They do not expect to occupy the Congregational parsonage till after April next. The Doctor expects to preach to the people of his new charge the first Sunday in January.

"Uncle Bill" James, despite the perversity of the electric wires on the roof, has succeeded in putting the best roof ever known in this section of the country on the GAZETTE building. Mr. James is without doubt the oldest roofer in the state, having worked at the roofing business 37 years ago.

Dr. W. Fletcher Hall, chief consulting physician of the Polyopathic Medical Institute of Boston, was seen in Milford yesterday undoubtedly on a professional visit to Mr. Wm. M. Merwin, who we understand is improving quite rapidly under treatment by the Polyopathic system. He returned to Boston on the midnight train.

Ex-borough clerk Perry has certainly done himself credit in the clear, distinct and entirely honest method adopted by him in preparing the annual borough report of receipts and expenditures for this year, for the public. It is true his method uses up a whole page of a paper instead of two columns as heretofore, with its additional cost of course, but it is worth the difference.

The reminiscences of Andersonville prison life were given last Friday evening before the G. A. R. boys and a full house, with thrilling effect. The Opera House was uncomfortably chilly and many caught severe colds in consequence, but all were determined to hear the eloquent speaker to the end of his two hours' address. The venerable Rev. S. B. S. Bissell was the interested listener.

When Nellie Bly started on her tour round the world the other day, a man-reporter was sent to the dock to describe her appearance. This is the horse reporter's version of her dress:—

There were three buttons up on the upper quarter of the left chest and another lonely trio of big buttons down on the left side of the waist band. There was a close-fitting slab of plaid cloth down the front of the upper section of the garment and then the skirt end was plain blue cloth with a sort of feisty tail of plaid cloth again on the nether side.

The suit of James Cody of Oyster Bay, L. I., against Frank P. Dudgeon for $10,000 damages for causing the death of Kitty Cody, the plaintiff's daughter, will not come to trial. A settlement was reached a few days ago, Dudgeon agreeing to pay $3,000 to Mr. Cody and $1,500 to Col Townsend, who was Mr. Cody's legal adviser in the matter. Dudgeon is still under $10,000 bonds for trial, charged with causing Miss Cody's death, but in view of the settlement with the dead girl's father it is thought that some of the important witnesses for the state will be missing at the trial. Dudgeon is quite well known among the sporting fraternity hereabouts.

Rev. E. R. Brown, rector of St. John's Episcopal church in New Milford, has been attacked with nervous prostration, resulting in aberration of the mind. Falling off in his congregation and a consequent reduction of salary is supposed to have been one of the causes. He conducted services in his church as usual last Sunday, and beyond a little hesitation in speech nothing unusual was noticed about him. On Monday, without waiting for breakfast, he boarded a train before daylight and paid his fare to Middletown to consult Bishop Williams. The Bishop immediately saw that he was not in his right mind and told him to go home at once and prepare to retire from all work. He returned home on Tuesday accompanied by a nephew, and that night his mental condition became alarming.

The following is copied from the New York Journal, but it lacks confirmation: The death of Blanche Douglass, which occurred in Chicago last week, will probably prove the last act in the sensational Jennie Cramer tragedy at New Haven eight years ago. The scene was laid in a low brothel in the most sinful quarter of Chicago. Blanche Douglass, the notorious witness in the Malley trial, died after suffering most horrible torture in body and mind. Before she died the woman tried to tell what she knew about the Jennie Cramer murder, but she could not speak, and her secret was buried with her in the Potter's field. During the trial Blanche Douglass had falsely given evidence as to her New York connections. Her record was exposed, and then the whole story of her relations with Walter Malley came out. She was arrested for perjury and taken back to New Haven. After her release she went to New York, and began a wild, mad career of dissipation. She went to Chicago under the assumed name of Jessie Hilton, and revealed her identity to the mistress of the low resort where she lived in degradation.

Now that Colonel Cockerill, of the New York World, has denied that he has bought the New York Mail and Express and Colonel Arkell, of Judge, has denied that he has bought the New York Press, it seems to be a fitting time for us to state that one of the huffiest of our standing candidates for local office has not bought a year's subscription to the GAZETTE since he became a voter, although he is interested enough in its contents to hoister a near neighbor's life out of him, borrowing his paper every week.

The skeleton of a woman was found at New Haven Tuesday by workmen while digging a cellar. The bones were about two feet below the surface and had probably lain there for 30 years. The medical examiner says the woman was about 20 years old and had probably been murdered, as marks evidently made by the point of a knife were found. Another skeleton of a woman was found two weeks ago at New Haven which had also been buried several years. It was in a similar position and also bore evidence of murder. Coroner Mix says he does not believe an investigation into these cases would be a proper expenditure of public money, as it would be a despairing case to attempt to find the guilty parties. He will, however, give attention to all clues that may be presented. The others advocate a thorough search for the history of the two women. An old Indian occupied the space where the bodies were found about 30 years ago, and it is thought he may have had a hand in the crime. Another theory is that the women were camp followers at the time of the conscript camp at Grapevine point.

About 4 o'clock Monday afternoon the large barn belonging to Charles Remson, in East Norwalk, was discovered to be on fire. The fire spread rapidly on account of the strong wind, and in a very short time the structure was enveloped in flames, the sparks of which were driven upon Mr. Remson's residence, on the opposite side of the road, which was saved from catching fire by the people round about organizing themselves into a bucket brigade. The Mayflower Hook & Ladder Co. and Volunteer Hose Co., as soon as he news of the conflagration reached them, immediately started with their apparatus to render what assistance they could, but their efforts were of no avail as the fire had gained too much headway before their arrival. The loss must be heavy, but at present cannot be approximately stated. The barn, contained among other things, which were consumed, a quantity of straw, which had been carefully bundled for use in filling mattresses; about sixty tons of hay; a fine colt valued at $500, a horse, a cow, a bull, and a hay press, which Mr. Remson had hired for baling up the hay preparatory to selling it. The barn and its contents were fully insured.

—There are many ways by which merchants may call attention to what they have to sell, out in the most instances brief words with weight of meaning go farthest. Thus, the word Bank implies notes discounted, money loaned, drafts forwarded and checks cashed, without the form of words to tell the whole story. When a retail firm gains the confidence of the people, they do not need to go on the street to publish what they have to offer, but a word or two by way of a hint is all sufficient. But, while this is strictly true, what would a live community like this think, were the space in newspapers silent as to what a dry goods firm, which caters to all the ladies, has in hand that everybody wants. It certainly would conclude that such a firm had grown cold in its reticence, and that reticence was an invitation to go elsewhere to trade. According to the record W. B. Hall & Co. have made many declarations in print, but never one that could not be more than substantiated by the facts. High sounding words are well enough, but they invariably tend to the real injury of the parties using them unless the subject matter upon which they are based proves them. Now in the case of W. B. Hall & Co. with a $35,000 stock of dress silks, a $10,000 array of seal and seal garments, and nobody knows how many thousand dollars worth of general dry goods, must in justice to themselves, speak of them with emphasis, for the reason that truth will stand the test of the strongest descriptive adjectives. Shoppers often are heard to say, "If we had only known this or that, etc." Now, W. B. Hall & Co., understanding the theory of this, go right into the columns of the papers and announce what they have to offer. It is a wise method and the facts brought forward in the shape of the goods which impelled them to speak have always been fully supported. Presently, in view of the approaching holiday season, an array of new truths as to silk and other dress goods, and all else proper for winter will be touched upon by the press in this firm's behalf, and readers may rely on every word as meaning just what it purports. Thanksgiving is coming towards its apex. There is a satisfaction to be enjoyed in connection with that day through the assurance that all that could be done for the comfort of one's self and those dependent, and the needy poor as well, has been performed—that the preliminary steps to make ready for winter have been taken. This great firm have been for weeks preparing for the merging of autumn into winter, and since the equinoctial storm have had their agents at all centres where bargains are to be had to make not only Thanksgiving but the holiday season succeeding it, one of the brightest—filling their store with the most complete variety of chances to obtain novelties as well as substantial in their line.

Ingersoll in Indiana.

Indiana's Journal: Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll and four or five friends were chatting pleasantly, when a Journal reporter joined the group. "Oh, come, now," said the colonel, his smooth round face beaming like the harvest moon, "I don't want to be interviewed about the election. That is like asking a corporal about a battle; go to the general—go to General Harrison. I haven't really been taking any note of affairs. I supposed everything was all right and I went to sleep. Now a great many things seem to have gone wrong. Here the colonel tried to turn the tables on the reporter and interview the interviewer, when the subject of prohibition came up. "Prohibition is a troublesome question in Iowa as everywhere else," said the Colonel. "People in that State appear to be thoroughly dissatisfied with the working of the law yet it doesn't interfere to any great extent with drinking. A house in which liquor is sold can be torn down, but in the little city of Council Bluffs there are sixty places where liquor is to be had, and a still greater number in Des Moines. The sale of liquor goes on in Iowa. There are eighty-four places in Leavenworth where a man can get a drink. They had it in the hotel where I stopped, and in other places one could look in any time in the day and see fifty men standing up against a bar. I hadn't been in Topeka an hour before twenty-five or thirty men asked me if I didn't want something to drink, and they were nearly all of them intoxicated. I asked one of them how it was possible to get liquor when there was such a stringent law. 'Why,' said he 'I'll (hic) tell you; thirty of us have bought a barrel of (hic) whiskey, rented a room, and each of us has a (hic) key. Doncher see? I suppose all the other men I had met were operating the same whiskey joint, and each was afraid that some one else would get more than his share of the contents of that barrel.'"

With this the Colonel reiterated his determination not to be interviewed, and started toward the United States circuit court room, where he was to deliver an argument.

Companion Pictures.

Another handsome reminder of the continue enterprise of The Youth's Companion, the favorite family paper, has come to us in the form of a Colored Announcement Card, printed in fourteen colors. It is folded in the centre, and has on either cover companion pictures.

Spring is represented by a beautiful maiden who is returning through the fields, her hands filled with trailing arbutus—that delicate spring flower which grows so plentifully in many localities. On the companion page, the farmer's daughters is pictured coming through the harvested grain, carrying a well-filled pitcher and basket. The bearer of the noon-day lunch is a welcome sight to the hungry reapers. The interior of the card contains an array of authors and articles for the coming volume unsurpassed by any papers.

This beautiful Card is only an indication of the great enterprise of The Companion which has made it a National Family Paper, with more than 430,000 subscribers. Nowhere can there be obtained so much entertainment and instruction for so little money (only $1.75 a year).

If you subscribe now you will receive the paper free to Jan. 1, 1890, and for a full year from that date. The publishers offer to send specimen copies and this Colored Announcement Card free. Address The Youth's Companion, Boston, Mass.

Little Helps.

Clothes that have been sprinkled will not mildew for days, even in summer, if kept away from the fire.

Use a silver spoon when cooking mushrooms. The silver will be blackened if any injurious quality is present.

Air the house thoroughly every day, even "though the rain comes down in torrents or the snow beats in drifts."

Do not be deceived by agents who have a "superior furniture polish" for sale. Use linseed oil; there is nothing better.

Be ashamed to iron a limp shirt bosom! Men do not so much care for a polished shirt front as they do for a stiff one.

It is a good idea for a tall woman to have her kitchen table and ironing board a little higher than ordinary. It will save many a backache.

Use great care in serving food for the table as the smallest splatter of grease or gravy changes the appearance and spoils an otherwise pretty dish.

Glasses and dishes wipe to perfection when washed in very hot water. Use a dish mop, soapshaker, an iron dishwasher. These also expedite the labor, as very hot water can be used.

A few years ago a fashionable table was so piled with dishes that it was impossible to see one's vis-a-vis without peeping under the heavy laden silver and glass ware. Now a table is considered vulgar when not laid in a low simple manner.

When decanters and carafes become so discolored inside that shot or fine coals will not cleanse them, fill the bottle with finely chopped potato skins, cook tightly and let the bottle stand for three days, when the skins will ferment. Turn out and rinse. The bottle will be as bright and clean as when new.—Good Housekeeping.

There are about 170 building associations in New Jersey, 156 of these have 37,730 shareholders holding 204,653 shares; net assets were $9,849,517.46, nearly $60,000 to an association. Nearly two-thirds of the members are wage-workers, over one-fifth are borrowers, and over sixty per cent of the latter are workmen. The profits of 142 associations were $1,706,640 and average of $13,018 for $50,764 paid in dues—23.7 per cent. for average time (34 weeks) the shares have run, about 94 per cent a year. For 110 associations the incidental expenses averaged $353 annually. The formation of a building association league is agitated in this state.—Meriden Building News.

MAKING POSTAL CARDS.

HOW THE POPULAR LITTLE MESSAGE BEARERS ARE PUT UP.

Reducing Rags to Cards and Then Printing Them—A Little Town Where This Is Done—Immense Increase in the Demand for Postal Cards.

American postal cards made their appearance in May, 1873, since which time the sale has grown so rapidly that over 1,000,000,000 have now to be manufactured every year.

REUNITED.

HE KILLED THE BEAR.

HOW FARMER JASPER'S OLD MUSKET GOT IN ITS WORK.

An Explosion Which Strongly Resembled an Earthquake—But the Leader of the Mutton Samplers Carried Away Nine Buckshot in His Heart.

"Two more of them sheep lugged away last night, and by the same infernal old bear, I know!" exclaimed Farmer Samuel Jasper.

Farmer Jasper's premises lie along Sly's Run, three miles south of Sol's Ridge, and for two weeks some of the best hunters in the region had been taking turns in hanging around the farmer's place on the watch for a bear that had been living high on his sheep...

IN BATTLE ARRAY.

Farmer Jasper is no bear hunter, and all the firearm he possesses is an army musket of ancient pattern. When the farmer shouldered his gun the night he went out to show the muzzling bear that some things could be done as well as others, he could not recall the time the weapon had last been used.

The night was bright starlight. The hired man, who did not relish his job, lay down by the stone wall inside the lot. He was not armed, but had instructions to give the alarm in the shape of bear stealing into the field.

"Why She Likes a Duette." "I'll take two yards of that," said a tall, slim woman, pointing to a piece of dress goods...

"I do not believe, say some, that any one has willingly crushed a lady bird. 'Lady bird, lady bird, fly away home,' has been sung by the children of many generations, and little hands have opened to let fly the tiny beetle that will fold its gauze wings under the hard shield it wears over them, and lay still feigning death.

"Common thing! Why, certainly it is. That woman has had hundreds of dollars' worth of goods from this store this season, and has smuggled every cent's worth of it over."

"Bears! bears! bears!" he yelled. Then he scrambled over the wall and lay down in the bushes. A few seconds later he heard the bears charging back toward the spot where they had entered the pasture.

LOOKING OVER THE FIELD. The bear had hardly passed over the hired man when a second one plumped down, one paw actually striking the man in the back. That bear was quickly followed by a third, and so much of its body struck the hired man that it left him almost breathless.

Two Men's Lives Saved by a Dog. A dog saved two men from death at Waukesha one night recently. The dog aroused his master, named Nagel, and after persistent efforts succeeded in getting him to follow him to the railroad track.

To Editor Sad. We mix in the great international jam; we crowd and push and rush and worry. And I roll for what? Over in the graveyard yonder lie the hopes, ambitions and dreams of a thousand men who rushed and worried, who pined and struggled only to find a narrow prison cell where no hope or thought or love can come.

The Great Russian Novelist. Count Tolstoi, the famous Russian novelist, is a keen eyed, serious looking, earnest mannered man of commanding presence, with a bald, broad forehead and a patriarchal white head.

A Luminous Fluid. To make a luminous fluid that will distinctly shine in the dark, dissolve a little sulphur in essence of cloves or olive oil, and keep the solution in a bottle which must securely stoppered.

THE SPARROW PLAGUE.

BIRDS THAT ARE DESTRUCTIVE WHEREVER THEY GO.

History of the Feathered Colonizer—A Curse to Farmers in England and America. Their Rapid Increase in Numbers—Laws for Their Extermination.

Were it not for the serious interest involved the recent history of the sparrow would almost be uninteresting. From the time when Catullus lamented the death of Lesbia's pet up to now the common little bird, whether leading a sooty existence "on the housetop lonely" or out in the open, has inspired a certain semi-contemptuous affection, a diminished form of the feeling that made Burns turn the weeder-clips aside and spare the thistle.

During the fifty years intervening between 1838 and 1881 no fewer than sixteen attempts were made in as many different places to introduce the bird to the States. Nor was sentiment the only motive at work. It was vigorously asserted that the sparrow was a faithful ally of the farmer and a wholesale devourer of insects.

Probably encouraged by such an overflow of kindness, this time they settled down in earnest to the work of colonization. As soon as a few of them became accustomed to the climate they built nests and spread and multiplied over the face of the earth until, in the words of a recent agricultural report, they in 1880 occupied an area of 88,000 square miles and were still increasing.

One of the most curious things about it is that once it gets established in a foreign land it adapts itself with wonderful rapidity alike to extremes of heat and cold. And it is one of those birds which are not easily driven by an accident. It will go to sleep in an empty railway carriage, to be transported hundreds of miles without visible discomposure.

The development of such an abnormal aptitude for reproduction has had the effect of entirely changing the attitude of the public toward the sparrow. Whereas, a few years ago, it was cheaper to import the bird from England than to buy it in New York, a reward is paid for their destruction. For it has been proved beyond question that, far from being a friend of the farmer, the sparrow is his bitter enemy.

The farmers of the north of England have combined to pay the destroyers of their eggs, and the necessity for a similar organization in the Midlands has been mooted. Where they are in large numbers there is scarcely any limit to the mischief they are capable of doing, and men who are not prone to exaggerate declare that on the headlands, which are in proximity to such cover as a thick hedge, the crop is frequently reduced to the extent of 50 per cent.

When disturbed in one part they remove to another, and although a tremendous slaughter may be accomplished by a wide muzzled gun charged with sparrow drift, they soon get too artful to expose themselves to many shots of that kind, the old cock giving the alarm as soon as an approach is made.

In Great Britain the increase seems to be due to two causes. Although the sparrow is not included in the schedule of the wild bird protection act, it shares indirectly in the immunity provided by that measure, as country people who have never seen the so-called "interceptor" "wild birds" as meaning all wild birds. Secondly, in the days anterior to the issue of gun licenses, cottagers reduced the number to protect their own little gardens, and there were plenty of humble sportsmen ready, for the fun of the thing, to shoot them of the remote districts.

It is not in the fields alone, however, that the sparrows are mischievous. The gardener has even more reason than the farmer to desire, if not their extermination, at all events a diminution of their number. During early spring they seem to have a special liking for the tender young vegetables, and pull them up immediately they thrust their first shoots through the mold—peas, lettuce, cabbage plants and beans being especial favorites.

They also play havoc with the fruit trees and delight to nip the buds of gooseberry bushes, peach and pear trees. Indeed, they are naturally so restless that if they have nothing else to do, and are not hungry, a flock will destroy fruit or vegetables apparently for mere amusement.

In California they are charged with an offense even more dire. They do so much harm to the vines in the grape growing districts that they are told, "unless steps are taken to wipe out the pest at the earliest possible moment, the result probably will entail a loss to the state of many thousands if not millions of dollars."

Nor can it be said that the case against the sparrow rests on indefinite evidence or careless observation. Some time ago Professor Riley examined the crops of 523 birds sent to the American Department of Agriculture, and as a consequence, found nothing whatever to say for them. In only forty-seven did he find noxious insects, while useful insects were found in 70, and harmless insects in 31; but 827 had been dining off oats, 71 on maize, 57 on fruit, and 219 had "undetermined vegetable matter" in their stomachs. Nor is that all.

While the examination was going on, America was suffering from a number of baleful insect pests, with none of which did the sparrow seem to have interfered—no elm leaf beetle, no bagworm, no blischoch moth had formed part of their food. The case against the sparrow in America, seems to be, therefore, that it exacts a maximum of wages for a minimum of useful work. Not only so, but it attacks the nests of the swallow, and is unquestionably insectivorous bird in the United States.—London Graphic.

St. Paul's Church, Norwalk, Conn.

The rectory, a charming and spacious house, whose diamond paned windows are in keeping with the old trees in front and the moss grown stones in the church yard near by, is situated next to the church. In its library are kept some interesting old books, a Bible of 1760 and a prayer book of 1770 in whose litany changes had been made after the revolution.

One would need almost an inspired pen to describe the surroundings of this historic church. That and the rectory form a picture not easily forgotten. It is said that a great traveler who once visited Norwalk remarked on looking at the buildings transfigured by a flood of moonlight, "It is more like an old English church scene than anything I have looked upon in America."

Photo-Wood Engraving. A method of photo-engraving direct on wood is announced from Russia. The wood is boiled in a solution of sulphate of copper and afterward in a solution of carbonate of soda, which fills the pores with insoluble carbonate of copper.

A Race with a Car. It is a common enough thing to see pedestrians run after cars, but it was reserved for a well known society gentleman to hire a cab to overtake a car. The Olive street owl was hastening westward at half past 12 o'clock the other night, and was rolling along down the hill from Seventeenth street at a lively rate.

A person using a word possessing two meanings, can dodge either, as circumstances occur; but a word can only have one true meaning, and therefore words are given two meanings, to give a falsehood the appearance of being the truth.

What is a cold in the head? Medical authorities say it is due to uneven clothing of the body, rapid cooling when in a perspiration, &c. The important point is, that a cold in the head is an inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose, which, when unchecked, is certain to produce a catarrhal condition—for catarrh is essentially a "cold" which nature is no longer able to "resolve" or throw off.

No man is a communist after he has property of his own. Those people who want things divided even, have nothing to divide. The anarchists who would blow the world up with dynamite, would have first to steal the dynamite.

Those persons who do not need iron, but who are troubled with nervousness and dyspepsia, will find in Carter's Little Liver Pills a most desirable article. They are mostly used in combination with Carter's Little Liver Pills, and in this way often exert a most magical effect. Take just one pill of each kind immediately after eating and you will be free from indigestion and dyspepsia. In vials at 25 cents. Sold by all druggists.

OBITUARY.

Thomas M. Clarke.

The sudden, and to most of his many friends, unexpected announcement of the death of Mr. T. M. Clarke, of Winsted, will come with a painful shock and a deep feeling of personal loss and bereavement.

And thus the heart of sorrow moans and bleeds, and ever bleeds and will not be restored - Knowing its hopeless hope is all in vain.

What It Was.

Among the many interesting items in the annual Borough Report, we clip the following curiosities: - Order No. 3,743.-C. B. Coolidge-Sums paid for legal opinions for self and Court on electric light matters from others than the borough attorney and in opposition to his opinion, $31.50.

Insurance that Insures. The many policy holders of the National Life Association, of Hartford, Conn., in Norwalk and vicinity, must feel very contented carrying insurance in a company that pays its claims as promptly as was done in the following case:

New CANAAN, Ct., Nov. 14, '89. National Life Association, Hartford. GENTLEMEN:—I am in receipt of your check at the hands of Mr. S. B. Hoyt for the full amount of the insurance on my late husband, who died on the 11th of November; proofs of his death being furnished you on the 14th, the same day it is paid.

Our New York Fashion Letter.

Stylish cloaks for slender young ladies, are made in nun or peasant shapes, of cloth in new colors of tan, gray, crimson, dahlia, Eiffel brown or old rose, and lined with fur, the kinds most used being squirrel lock or Iceland lamb, though a minority of expensive garments are made warm by mink.

For boas afford such possibilities of coquetry, warmth and graceful finish to a costume, that they seem more popular than ever, being three yards long and exclusively of fluffy fur, either dark or light and the same can be said of trimmings, in which medium shades have given way to extremes.

Leather work trimmings are stylish in applique patterns and embroidery of metal or jet beads, while kid is worked in silk and with addition of pearl, silver or gilt beads, is refined and showy.

Striking hats or bonnets are of black felt or velvet trimmed with ribbon in flaring shades of green, red or orange. Immenie Gaietyborough or Directorate shapes in felt, are lavishly adorned with upright loops of ribbon on the crown and clustering feathers.

The cash trimmings are an excellent finish both for your own and your children's underwear and also for sheets and pillow slips. They are manufactured of fine cambric or Victoria lawn and in much difference of width and are all provided with a drawing thread woven in the top, which saves the trouble of gathering.

Elegant brocades are used for long cloaks and a garment in that style will suit a slender figure. Vandylke and Eiffel Tour points are leading styles in trimmings and are made in silk embroideries, gimp or fine jet passementerie.

The Consolidated Road. The directors of the Consolidated road held an important meeting Saturday, at which a number of matters of public interest were determined. The usual quarterly dividend of 2 1/2 per cent was declared payable Jan. 2. This is the first dividend on the new stock, being declared upon $13,600,000 instead of $15,500,000 of capital.

A number of stockholders have not yet taken the new shares to which they are entitled, and on each of which there is a handsome profit in premiums. The directors voted to extend the time for taking such stock until the closing of the books, Dec. 10.

It was voted to go to work at once upon the double tracking of the Shore Line and to complete the work as soon as possible from Clinton to New London. It was also voted to four-track the main line for five miles south from New Haven. These four tracks will make easier the handling of trains which flock into New Haven very near together.

Republic of Brazil. The New York Press says: A political earthquake that will shake the thrones of the world when its vibrations reach them has visited the only empire of the Western Hemisphere, the great nation of Brazil, with its population of over 10,000,000 and an area of over 3,219,000 square miles, or only 888,990 square miles less than that of the United States.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve. The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. On Sunday notices were given in all the churches, that the Board of Trade proposed to hold a fair in the L and Improvement Company's building, inviting the ladies to meet to-morrow (Thursday), evening with the special committee of the Board of Trade in Sons of Temperance Hall, Hurlbutt's block, to perfect arrangements. The board, having voted at its last session to reimburse the town in the sum of $100 for sums advanced for the support of street lamps, hope through this fair to not only raise the $100 but a large sum besides. As this fair's proceeds are to be employed wholly for the benefit of the people, it is hoped and believed that not only the ladies, but everybody in town will co-operate to the extent of their ability.

The ladies of Christ church will hold a supper and give a series of tableaux in the church parlors, this (Wednesday) evening.

Wednesday morning Mr. John W. Gauß while at work on William J. Woods new house on Wright street, slipped and fell a distance of twenty feet to the ground. Dr. L. T. Day was called, and pronounced the injuries very serious, and that they were internal. Blood issued from the mouth, and there was a large bruise on the left temple. He was removed to his home, and with slight intervals excepted, has been unconscious since the accident, and it is feared he may not recover.

Stephen Hodges, proprietor of the Saugatuck House opposite the railroad station, died Tuesday last week of Bright's disease, after a short illness, aged 48 years. He served during the war in the 12th Conn. Infantry, taking part in all the battles which that regiment encountered, and was promoted. He recently received a pension. In 1872 he was Chief of Police at South Norwalk, serving several years. The funeral was held on Thursday, and the remains taken to Wilton for burial.

The appeal of Angelina E. Perry and others, to have the will of the late Mrs. Sally A. Partrick set aside, on the ground that either undue influence had been exercised by those near the testator when the will was made, or that she was incompetent to make a will, was tried in the Superior Court Bridgeport last week. The jury sustained the bill. About $7,000 were involved.

Rev. A. D. Miller of New Haven, officiated in the Memorial Church of the Holy Trinity, last Sunday, preaching forcible sermons morning and evening.

To-morrow evening the pupils of Staples High school will hold a fair in Assembly hall.

Grading in front of Christ church on Burr avenue to make the walks conform to the line of the street since it was cut down and leveled, is in progress. Some new arrangements of concrete walks are also being made.

H. E. Burr, is about to open a meat market on the west side of the bridge, near the First National bank.

Mr. John Robinson has taken his son from the state reform school, on account of illness. He is now at home.

Thieves seem to take a special liking to Greens Farms of late. One day last week Mr. William Harris went to his residence which is only occupied in the summer, and found that it had been entered by thieves, who had nailed down all the curtains, boxed the furniture, carpets, pictures piano and all other articles in readiness to be removed. It is believed the parties are none other than those who recently stole the organ from the Congregational church. Mr. Austin Jennings' premises were visited early last week by day. Mrs. Jennings was at home alone. The thieves paid no attention to her protestations, but went to the barn, loaded their wagon with produce and drove off. Mrs. J. did not recognize the parties as residents of the town.

John Peters, the man who fell over the ledge near the late home of Aunt Freelove Hurlbutt, sustained injuries in the head which left a portion of the brain exposed. Dr. Day attended to the case, and though it is a serious one, the man at last accounts was improving.

The next move of the Board of Trade will be the establishment of a telegraph office in the village. It is believed that such an office can be made to pay.

The Memorial church society and the directors of the First National Bank have adopted resolutions in the death of Elijah S. Downes.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hurlbutt expect to spend a couple of months this winter in Baltimore.

Schooner Sarah B. Buckley, from Perth Amboy with coal for Hubbell & Bradley has arrived.

There are three men in this village who improve every opportunity to speak in a disparaging way of the town, calling it slow and not fit to live in, and yet these three have confidence enough in the town to loan it money, and their names are on the list of those holding orders on the town at 4 per cent. interest.

Mrs. A. R. Hill left on Monday, for her home in Portland, Oregon. She came east during the summer in part to visit friends, and to attend the sessions of the Episcopal triennial convention in New York.

Dr. and Mrs. W. Eno, will go to New York for the winter about Dec. 1st, but they propose to return to their beautiful home early in the spring.

NEW-CANAAN.

Rev. F. E. Hopkins arrived home last Thursday afternoon looking hale and hearty.

It has been decided that Main street and Railroad avenue shall have the gutters paved, where curb and sidewalk are in good condition, at the expense of the town.

John Tucker has been engaged as borough officer and night watch to take the place of Ezra Hall, who has resigned after thirteen years service and will move to Bridgeport in the spring.

The borough with its sixty-odd good lights makes a beautiful night picture from the surrounding hills.

The principal of Center school is seasoning a hickory stick for use in improving the behavior of some of the pupils. Hickory tea, when made in the old fashioned way by distilling the tea from the eyes on application of the hickory to the hand, beats all the new fangled methods of curing a refractory school urchin who has been spoiled at home.

A party of six New Canaanites spent Saturday morning in the art galleries of New York, and in the afternoon went to see Edwin Booth and Madame Modjeska in Hamlet.

The fox hunters and hounds are having good sport making the acquaintance of six Reynards, who had left New York state on account of the bounty on their heads.

F. E. Weed & Co. have opened and are now grading a new street on the William St. John property, which will open for sale some of the most desirable building sites in the state. Rumor has it that it is to be called the St. John Park.

The Messenger is trying to buy property on Main street, its present quarters being too small for its increasing business.

S. M. Monroe, Sr. and Jr., have purchased the store formerly owned by H. B. Hoyt, adjoining their New Canaan drug store property. Some alterations are contemplated, we hear.

The attractions of the post office building are being increased by a new perfume factory, which is lasting if not sweet.

Rev. F. E. Hopkins was greeted Sunday morning by a large and appreciative congregation. His sermon was one of his best, and certainly was one of the most interesting that his congregation have had the pleasure of listening to in a long time.

St. Mark's church has a new oak altar and brass altar rail. Its interior, since its restoration, is the most artistic of any country church it has been the good fortune of your correspondent to visit.

A new street is being opened and graded from South avenue west to Park street, near the old Sidney Lockwood property.

Stephen Hoyt's Sons have received a splendid sorrel mare from Wyoming Territory, purchased there and forwarded by Stephen Hoyt, son of Edwin Hoyt and grandson of the founder of the largest nurseries in New England.

Wanted.—Better sidewalks in the borough of New Canaan.

Franklin Stevens will erect a large barn and stable adjoining his old stable to accommodate the increasing business of the Lockwood Bros.

Rumor has it that there will be half a dozen weddings in town during Thanksgiving week.

REDDING.

The number of children between four and sixteen enumerated this fall was 241, which is eighteen more than last year and which are distributed among the districts as follows: Center, 31; Ridge, 28; Couch Hill, 21; Diamond Hill, 17; Boston, 43; Hull, 2; Umpawaug, 39; Louetown, 30; Foundry, 25, and Pickett's Ridge, 5.

Last week Wednesday afternoon occurred the funeral of Mr. Peterson, at the Congregational church. Rev. W. J. Jennings, the pastor, conducted the services and there was singing by the choir. Mr. Peterson rode, on the preceding Monday morning, to Bethel. Soon after his arrival he was seized with a violent headache, which terminated in supposed apoplexy. He was brought home in the afternoon, and died there about an hour afterwards. Deceased was 39 years of age. He had been a very robust and strong man, but his health had been poor for some time. He leaves a widow and two children.

Mrs. Thomas Sanford and daughter went to New Haven on Thursday to spend the winter. The daughter expects to attend Mrs. Cady's school. Hon. T. Sanford will follow his wife soon to their new home.

Last Thursday Mrs. C. D. Smith went to Thomaston to spend the winter. She intends to return here in the spring.

Friday a valuable heifer belonging to Mr. J. B. Sanford died after a few hours illness.

Women with pale, colorless faces, who feel weak and discouraged, will receive both mental and bodily vigor by using Carter's Iron Pills, which are made for the blood, nerves and complexion.

Our Bridgeport Letter.

Thy many friends of Judge Sidney B. Beardsley will be glad to know that he is recovering from his late severe illness. He has been troubled with nervousness and irregular heart action, and was threatened with apoplexy.

A reception was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Wheeler Bishop, last Friday evening, at Elmwood, the beautiful residence of Dr. and Mrs. I. De Ver Warner. The attendance was very large and the floral decorations were beautiful. The caterer, Mr. Andrews, of the Seaside Institute, prepared a table that was equal to Delmonico's.

Last Thursday evening Miss Emma V. Platt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Platt, was married to Mr. Walter H. Redman, of New York city, at the residence of the bride's parents, 561 Iranistan avenue. Rev. W. V. Garner, of the First Baptist church, officiated. After receiving the congratulations of their many friends the happy couple left on the 9 o'clock train for an extensive wedding trip in the southern states. They were the recipients of many handsome presents, many of them being useful as well as ornamental.

At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Miller, their only daughter, Lottie, was united in matrimony to William A. Arnold. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. G. S. McNeil, pastor of the South Congregational church. Among the relatives and friends present from this city were guests from Washington, D. C., Newark, N. J., and New York. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold received many handsome wedding presents.

Rev. Charles Rhy Palmer, pastor of the North Congregational church, returned from Europe last week, where he has been attending the opening of Mansfield college. During his absence his colleagues of the Yale corporation took the opportunity of conferring upon him the honorary degree of D. D. His many friends in Bridgeport and elsewhere are deeply gratified, with the bestowment of an honor so fitting and so well deserved. Mr. Palmer's parishoners gave him a reception at his home on Golden Hill last Thursday evening. He received many congratulations upon his safe return and the honor that his colleagues had conferred upon him. Mr. Palmer has been pastor of the North church about 20 years.

This evening the new Barnum gymnasium will be opened in the brick building on Water street, recently erected by Mr. Barnum. Mr. H. E. Bowser, secretary and agent for Mr. Barnum has had full charge of the enterprise, in fact it is Mr. Bowser's work, as he has in connection with Mr. Barnum, been in favor of a gymnasium for both ladies and gentlemen.

Judge A. B. Beers, ex-Senator E. G. Burnham and Frank Armstrong have returned from Europe and report a good time. Among other places of interest visited by them was the Paris Exposition. Judge Beers went for the benefit of his health and came back very much improved.

The many friends of Walter J. Hall, who is well-known in Norwalk, will be glad to hear that he is not going to leave Bridgeport. He gave a musical recital at his residence on State street, Wednesday evening, which was greatly enjoyed.

There has been a great deal of speculation and interest manifested in reference to the outcome of the will of the late Captain John Brooks, which has been declared invalid by the Supreme court of the state, but the following synopsis, will give the present standing of this case. On the 10th of August, 1887, D. T. Hollister, the surviving executor of the will settled his accounts with the probate court. Jan. 24 1888, John Brooks of Wayzata, Minn., appealed from the order accepting the account of Mr. Hollister. The remaining heirs on Feb. 1, 1888, applied to the probate court for the distribution of such part of the property as intestate. A hearing has been held on this latter motion in the probate court, but nothing could be done until the appeal before the Supreme court was decided. Consequently the hearing before the probate court has been adjourned from month to month, while the appeal was pending. The hearing before Judge Beardsley in the probate court was again adjourned, not long since for one month. Now that a decision has been received from the Supreme court the heirs hope that their request will soon be acted upon. No reasons have yet been handed down from the Supreme court judges and before the matter can take any definite form, advice from the Supreme court must be given the Superior court. The latter then advises the probate court what disposition to make of the property. w. g. l. Bridgeport, Nov. 18.

C., Located at the National Capital, adjacent to all the Executive Departments, gives me superior advantage in the prosecution of Claims against the United States. INCREASE YOUR PENSION. Many pensioners are entitled to a much higher rate of pension than they now receive. In a great majority of cases in which pension was granted for disease, the pensioner is entitled to an increase of rate, and in most cases where it was granted for wounds or injuries the disability increases each year. As time passes the disability of all classes naturally increases. Many were at first rated too low, and it often occurs that pensioners are unjustly or erroneously reduced by examining surgeons. A pensioner is entitled to increase on a disability not set forth in his original declaration. The pension laws are more liberal than formerly, and better rating can be had for many disabilities. I make a specialty of Neglected and Rejected Claims, and if you will present me with a brief statement of your case, stating by whom it was presented, I will obtain a rehearing of your case, and, if it has merit, will procure a favorable settlement. Many claims are abandoned for want of attention. If you only require a competent attorney to make them good cases. Soldiers suffering with disabilities contracted in service, who have not applied for a pension, should do so as to their right. SOLDIERS OF THE MEXICAN WAR, Who were in that service sixty days, (or their widows if not re-married) are entitled to $8.00 per month from January 29th, 1867. 1720

Bohemian Women Workers.

Their food consists of a meal of thick soup at night made of lentils and bacon, with black bread and perhaps a few raw garlics. The other two meals consist of black bread, hard and sour, cheese and raw bacon, with beer for a beverage. At noon time garlic also is eaten raw. This is their regular diet year in and out. Sometimes on feast days they get a little mutton or roast pork, or sometimes a goose and potatoes, the height of their ambition.

On Sundays and feast days the whole number appear in clean clothes, remarkable for their barbaric display of color and ornament. On these occasions the women have clean long sleeved chemises, with black velvet peasant waists, embroidered with colored threads and silver, and a brilliant kerchief is tied over the head, and shoes and white stockings are worn. Children are dressed in the same picturesque style. It makes no difference to them what the physical condition of the woman, she must keep on working, and it is not uncommon to see women on the verge of motherhood climbing the ladders with heavy loads of brick or mortar; but these Bohemian women workers form one of the most picturesque sights of Vienna at work or in the streets.

They Needed Stretching.

A well known business man is very particular about his dress, and is seldom seen out, even on a week day, unless dressed genteelly. He is, however, extremely absent minded, and a funny thing happened to him the other day. His church was giving a sociable, and he promised his wife, who had gone early to assist in the preparations, that he would come in the evening. He remembered, however, that he had also promised her that he would put down a chamber carpet for her at the first opportunity, and it occurred to him that no better time could offer, as he was alone at home and had the time.

So he changed his $12 wide cut pants and put on an ancient pair that had hung unused for a long time, for he wished to save the wear and tear the new pair would get by wearing them while putting down the carpet. When on they reached to a point half way down between his ankles and knees; he then recognized them as ones he used in washing his carriage, which accounted for the shrinkage. The carpet job taking longer than he had expected, he found that he must hurry a little to be in time, and he forgot all about the short pants, while he put on some fine style in the shape of high collar, fancy tie, low cut vest, etc., and hurried off to the festive scene.

Arriving in the ante-room, and taking a glance at the mirror to be sure that everything was all right, he entered the hall and looked around for his wife. He noticed that people looked at him rather hard, but he thought it must be on account of his more than ordinary tony appearance. Finally he saw his wife coming toward him. She stopped, white as still as Lot's wife, for one brief moment, then grasping him by the arm, she dragged him out of the room.

"What in thunder are you trying to do with this coat? Do you want to stretch it into the shape of a night shirt?" said he.

"Stretch your coat! No, sir! I should say that your pants needed it more!"

Then for the first time this absent minded man glanced down at his legs, and realized the situation. Now when he plans to go into society his wife insists upon inspecting the dressing before starting and not waiting till he arrives on the scene.—Springfield Homestead.

Noble Unselfishness.

On the 27th of December, 1885, one of the American line of steamers, the Lord Gough, while on its way from Liverpool to Philadelphia, sighted a Gloucester fishing schooner in distress. The wind was blowing a gale, and the schooner, almost disabled, and with three or four of her crew already washed into the ocean, was flying the signal for help.

Capt. Hughes of the steamship saw the fearful peril which a rescuing party must encounter, but his call for a volunteer was promptly answered by the mate and a crew of brave men, and preparations were made for the desperate trip. To the astonishment of all, while the boat was being lowered, the flag of distress on the schooner's mast was hauled down.

Perplexed at this movement, the harry rescuers hesitated; but it was finally decided that the boat should go. With great difficulty the schooner was reached, and on her deck were found twelve men utterly without hope except from outside aid. It was necessary to make two trips, and the bold sailors of the Lord Gough took half the suffering men and toiled through the wild waters to their own ship, and returned as soon as possible for the others.

When all were safe on the steamer Capt. Hughes asked the schooner's master, Capt. George W. Pendleton, why he had lowered the distress flag. The reply was:

"We saw that you were preparing to make an effort to save us, but we saw, also, that it was a sea in which it was very doubtful whether a boat would live. I said then to my men: 'Shall we let those brave fellows risk their lives to save ours?' and they answered 'No!' Then I hauled down the flag."

The story is a noble one on both sides. The men of the schooner were worth saving, at all hazards; and the men on the steamer were worthy to save them.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Moorish Cup of Tea.

When a party of guests enter the house or the tent of a rich Moor one of the near relatives of the host is charged with the duty of making tea. He squats in one corner, having on either side of him a large silver or platter. Upon one of these servers is a number of cups, and upon the other a sugar bowl, a box of tea, a pile of fragrant menthe leaves, a copper apparatus for heating water and a tea urn. The tea-maker sets the water to boiling with a little fuel, and then pours the boiling water into his tea urn, quickly adding to it some tea and some sugar, and allows the compound to steep a few moments. Then he pours out a cup of the tea and tastes it, smacks his lips, sniffs the odor of the liquid, and draws a deep breath—all with an air which says, "I am going to get this tea just right."

The chances are that he does not find the compound to his taste at the first attempt, for he pours the tea in his cup back into the tea urn, adds a little sugar or a little tea, and pours out another cup for a second test. This process goes on, the tea-maker tasting his tea and pouring it back again, until he gets it just to his mind. Then the guests are called, and if any one of them does not finish his cup, he is expected to pour it back into the urn, for it is the custom in Morocco to take three cups in succession, and the tea making has to be begun over again. The first of the three cups offered is plain tea with sugar, and the two succeeding cups are perfumed with menthe leaves. In preparing these successive kinds of tea, the cups go back to the tea-maker, and change hands at the next serving without any washing.—Montreal Star.

A Queer Phenomenon.

Capt. Thompson, of the schooner Challenger, has in his possession a little black earthenware jar which was taken, with valuable jewelry, from the tomb of one of the Peruvian Incas near Pisagua. No tinted pottery is made by modern Peruvians, and it is estimated that this jar was made in the time of Cortez. The captain also secured one of the Inca's teeth. He visited the battlefield of Tarapaca, where the Chilians and Peruvians met Nov. 17, 1879, and the Peruvians, after losing 4,000 men, were forced to retreat, leaving their dead unburied.

"In any other country," said the captain, "these unburied corpses would have been reduced in a few weeks to skeletons by wild animals or the elements, but for over 100 miles on either side of the battle ground there is not a spear of grass. There are, consequently, undisturbed by them. The soil, too, is strongly impregnated with nitrate of soda, and this, in connection with the hot, dry atmosphere, has converted men and horses into perfect mummies. Seen on a bright moonlight night, as I first saw it, the battle appears as if fought but a day or two ago, the colors of the uniforms being still bright, and the steel of their weapons un tarnished. Inspection by daylight, and a curious phenomenon is observed. The hair of the bodies of the men has grown since death to a length of from two to four feet, and the tails of the cavalry horses are now as long as alive, if they would trail far behind on the ground."—San Francisco Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

IN THE YUKON RAPIDS.

EXPLORER HAZARD WELLS' PERILOUS SHOOT THROUGH THEM.

Thrilling Adventures in the Great Alaska Canyon—The Hardships Attending Explorations in the Great Northern Territory.

The evening of July 2 and part of the following day were spent in making an examination of the Grand canyon, through which we had been in imminent peril of making an unexpected and involuntary trip. We found it to be a crooked passage of about three-quarters of a mile in length, in which the water turns and twists between two perpendicular walls of basaltic rock forty feet high, confronting each other at a distance of about 150 feet. Midway of the canyon is a gigantic basin, in which the stream pauses and whirls around as if hesitating to make the final plunge through the lower half of the way. For purposes of navigation the southern half of the canyon is the more dangerous, because near the entrance the walls rapidly approach each other, and the stream surges through the contracted channel with terrific force. We were glad, however, to observe that there were no rocks to be encountered, and that the only real danger to the raft would be that of striking against the sharp angles of the winding walls of the canyon. From miners at Juneau we learned that the canyon can be "run," and we made up our minds that we would run it.

CHALLENGING GALORE.

We had been told, however, that cargoes are always portaged, and that only rafts, without crew or cargo, are allowed to drift through. Even skiffs and boats are portaged to the smooth water below, and skids have been erected with a windlass for the purpose of raising boats from the water to the top of the bluff. The trail is on the right side of the canyon, and is well beaten by the passage of hundreds of miners, who have used it during the past ten years.

As the City of Paris is a staunch and well built raft, which can easily be enlarged and strengthened, we determined to make the run with crew and cargo on board, instead of spending time and labor in making the portage.

Having come to this conclusion, we indulged in a little sport with rod and line. In the great whirlpool near which our raft lay we observed grayling leaping out of the eddies after the small brown millers with which the air was filled. Taking the hint, we offered inducements to the finny beauties to make other experiments. In a very short time I had landed fifteen of them, and some of them weighed over a pound. I found a brown huckle answered a very good purpose and fished with it most of the time. De Hass had an odd experience. He had a leader sinker about twelve inches above his fly which seemed to attract particular attention, the grayling leaping fully a foot out of the water to catch it, and taking no notice whatever of the fly. Presently he lowered the sinker to the fly, and with excellent results, as he presently had seven fish on the bank beside him.

We spent the anniversary of national independence in repairing and strengthening the City of Paris, adding two heavy side logs and staying her with four additional and well pinned cross beams. The hurricane deck was strongly braced and the mast removed; and when daylight was passing into twilight, White, who is a veteran river miner, declared our raft to be the stoutest he had ever seen.

By 9:35 a. m., July 5, the cargo was all aboard the raft, well secured and carefully wrapped in tent cloth to protect it from the wet to which it was soon to be exposed. The raft was towed several feet up the whirlpool basin, so as to get her near the main current; the lines were cast off, we jumped aboard and the descent was begun. The bow and stern ones were vigorously plied as we swept into the tumultuous waters, and with head on the City of Paris went boldly on her way, turning the corners of the canyon with perfect ease and grace, and shipping hardly any water, so that our freight was quite unharmed. Six minutes from our start we shot out of the canyon without starting a log or touching an obstruction.

THE WHITE HORSE RAPIDS.

When a portage is made on the right of the Grand canyon the rafts have to be captured at the mouth and reloaded for a short trip of only two miles to the opposite side of the stream, at the head of the White Horse rapids, where another portage is always made. The White Horse has an evil reputation. It is two miles long and obstructed by broken rocks, dividing the stream into narrow channels, the largest of which is near the left bank, and is sixty feet wide. From the head of the Grand canyon to the foot of the White Horse is a distance of four miles, with a fall of thirty-two feet, most of the descent being in the White Horse. To run an empty raft, and never with a boat, the government explorer, Lieut. Schwatka, did indeed make the passage on a raft without cargo; but, though piloted by several stout men, he did not pass unscathed.

Three Frenchmen were less fortunate. Having portaged their boat around the Grand canyon, they failed to get across the stream to take the next portage on the left bank, and were drawn into the suction of the rapids, which whirled them into the torrent. Their boat was swamped, the cargo was lost, and two of the three men were drowned. The third managed to make his way to Juneau. A brief account of this tragedy we found written on a board and posted on a tree at the foot of the White Horse.

Notwithstanding the bad reputation of these rapids we concluded, after a careful exploration, to make the run with crew and cargo on board our raft, so as to save the labor of a portage and establish the reputation of the City of Paris as the staunchest and ablest afloat. Our boat, however, was left behind to be afterward "smashed down" at our leisure. Having so decided, our raft was cast off and got into the current, and down we went over the mile stretch, steadily holding the middle of the channel. In just eight minutes from the start we were riding safely in smooth water, with the White Horse foaming behind us.

I confess I cannot understand why this place has so terrible a reputation, unless it be that the water is sometimes much higher than it is now. Perhaps the White Horse is not really so black as it has been painted; but be that as it may, the City of Paris is the first craft, so far as we know, that has ever made the run of the White Horse with crew and cargo. Next day we snubbed our boat down and did not fail to post an account of our exploit for the information and envy of future voyagers.

From the White Horse to Lake Labarge the river varies greatly in width—at some places being little over 300 feet, and at others nearly a mile across. The current runs about two miles an hour. At 4:45 p. m. of July 6 we passed the mouth of a large muddy river, the Tahk-benah, which empties its muddy stream into the Yukon, changing the color of the latter to a light brown.—Yukon River (S. C.) Letter to Scripps' League.

THE PITCHER AT THE WELLS.

John B. Jeffery, the publisher, is a great traveler, but sometimes great travelers get left. Jeffery got left recently. He was coming on from the east with his wife and family, and they arrived over the Canada Southern road at the depot in Detroit. Mr. Jeffery left the car while the Michigan Central train was being made up, and strolled through the depot for a stretch before resuming his journey. All of his belongings were in the car with his family. He passed out of the gates, walked a block or so up the street and then returned. The gate to the train was closed, as the gong had sounded for starting. The tall publisher tried to pass through, but the uniformed guard stopped him. He tried to explain, and he talked in his sweetest and most persuasive key, but all to no purpose. The rules of the depot were most stringent and could not be overstepped. As he pleaded in vain he saw his train pull slowly out of the depot, carrying his family with it. He was left. Investigation developed the sad fact that he had but a single silver dime in his clothes; but that was nothing. "Put John Jeffery on a desert island and he'll 'fetch.'"

He went up town, found an old friend and followed his family to Chicago on the next train. But he would hate to have any one know that he had been left.—Chicago Herald.

A Mysterious Bird.

At the north end, in the field just beyond the Washburn car wheel works, and near the line of the Springfield railroad, was found recently in the gutter an unusual bird. It was evidently a young bird, and was about the size of a duck; but it had a bill something like a woodcock's. It seemed clearly to be a young bird that could not fly. Its legs were placed far behind like a loon's, but its feathers were not blue checked. It was taken to the car wheel shops, where they endeavored to find out what it would eat. The only thing it "went for" (except the hand of the man who caught it) was a piece of turf, turned over, and that it eagerly explored, apparently for worms. A full grown loon is a great bird, nearly three feet long. This bird was probably a grebe. It died at night.—Hartford Times.

A New-Found Organ of Sense.

During the last few years certain physiologists have been working out a curious puzzle, and have found that a remarkable organ—existing not only in man but in all mammals and in birds and most fishes—is the seat of a special sense. This organ is a membrane of the head, lodged in a bony labyrinth consisting of a vestibule and three semicircular canals and continuous with the cavity containing the hearing apparatus. The organ was long supposed to play some part in the perception of sound, but it has now been demonstrated by Mach and others that its function is to show us both the direction and the amount of all rotations performed by the head or by head and body together.—Arkansas Traveler.

The Name Catches Them.

A London paper announces that a Worcestershire village, from the fact of its being called Broadway, first attracted the attention and then the visits of Americans, and now there is quite an American season, and a small artist colony, which is six miles from a railway station. The American artists have established a Broadway school at this spot, which, with its ivy and creeper covered Worcestershire houses, is regarded by them as the most typical of English villages. The object of Mr. Alma-Tadema's special journey to this favorite resort was to paint some wild roses growing in a cottage garden.

Meat in Paris.

The animals killed annually in the Paris slaughter houses include some 250,000 oxen, 60,000 cows, 250,000 calves, 2,000,000 sheep, 250,000 pigs and 8,000 horses, and it is calculated that these yield over 400,000,000 pounds of butchers' meat.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

A Dangerous Animal.

"You have one wild animal in this country that is unknown to us," said a delegate to the Pan-American convention. "What is that?" asked Secretary Blaine. "The newspaper reporter," replied the man from South America.—Texas Sifting.

THINGS IN THE BOTTOM DRAWER.

There are whips and toys and pieces of string; There are shoes which no little feet wear; There are bits of ribbon and broken rings, And tresses of golden hair; There are little dresses folded away Out of the light of the sunny day.

There are dainty jackets that never are worn, There are toys and models of ships, There are books and pictures, all faded and torn, And marked by the finger tips Of dimpled hands that have fallen to dust; Yet I strive to think that the Lord is just.

But a feeling of bitterness fills my soul Sometimes, when I try to pray, That the Reaper has spared so many flowers And taken all mine away; And almost doubt that the Lord can know That a mother's heart can love them so.

They wander far in distant climes, They perish by water and flood; And their hands are black with the direst crimes That kindle the wrath of God. Yet a mother's song has soothed them to rest, She has lulled them to slumber upon her breast.

And then I think of my children three, My babies that never grow old, And know they are waiting and watching for me In the city with streets of gold. Safe, safe from the cares of the weary years, From sorrow and sin and war, And I thank my God, with falling tears, For their things in the bottom drawer.

The Black Valise Baby.

"This is our valise baby," said the sister superior of the House of Providence, pointing to a mulatto babe that looked as though it enjoyed life in its snowy cradle.

"One night about 12 o'clock there was a quick ring at the door. The moment we heard the summons we knew it was a 'baby ring,' and the portress hastened to take in the waif. So sure were we that a little outcast would be on the doorstep that sister took a shawl with her to use in case of necessity. When the door was opened one could see nothing and hear nothing but the wind and rain.

"We returned to our rooms, but the echo of that ring on such a fierce night disturbed the portress so that she could not rest. 'Mother,' said she, 'we must go and search the yard. I fear that ring was for some purpose.' I went down and together we searched the yard. Under that syringa bush we stumbled on an old valise. When sister picked it up there was a cry from within, and there was our valise babe," said the lady, softly rocking the cradle and fondling the dark little cherub as she told his story.

"Any wardrobe with the little one?"

"Not a stitch. It is a wonder that the child was not smothered, for no precaution had been taken to provide fresh air. If the valise had not been so well worn we would surely have found our baby dead."—Detroit News.

HOW TO READ A STORY.

One midsummer night a farmer's boy living about ten miles from the city of Cincinnati was following a bridegroom through a dense and dark forest. He had been searching for some missing cows, and at nightfall found himself a long way from home and in a part of the country with which he was but partly familiar.

It is first for the day, and the conversation of the two had not been interrupted. "Do you mean to say," Marsh began, "that if I take the trouble to observe your directions—place myself in the condition which you demand; solitude, night and tallow candle—you can with your ghostliest will give me an uncomfortable sense of the supernatural, accelerate my pulse, make me start at sudden noises, send a nervous chill along my spine and cause my hair to rise?"

It was the beginning of that journey to New England which the President desired should be unostentatious, but which the people of all ranks made an occasion for the expression of the love and reverence they deeply felt.

BOSTON CORRESPONDENCE.

The Polypaths.—A Visit to their Magnificent Buildings.—Remarkable Success of the Polypathic System.—Many Persons of "Distinction Bear Unimpeachable Testimony."

TO THE NORWALK GAZETTE:—A new school of medicine is always sure of awakening public interest. The dream of the ancient philosophers was the discovery of the secret of immortal youth, and the constant efforts of science to subdue disease and conquer the ills that flesh is heir to are evidence that the progress of the healing art is still the great hope of mankind.

When a new discovery of the treatment of disease is made public, opinion at once divides itself into two camps: scepticism, jealousy and envy ranges itself on one side and cries "quackery," and eager credulity rushes in on the other side to give it unreasoning and wholesale acceptance.

Out of all this division of opinion and public controversy progress unquestionably comes. Intelligent people no longer greet every new announcement with the cry of "quackery." They remember that Harvey and Jenner were called "quacks" in their day, although to-day their names are written among the highest on the role of medical pioneers.

Neither are the thinking people ready to accept without question the loudly trumpeted claims of this or that new system of practice. The order of the day is "investigate, test, prove."

For a long time there has been established in Boston the Polypathic Medical Institute, where a new departure in treatment has been made, whose results are claimed to be in many respects remarkable.

The Institute is conducted by H. Nelson Brown, M. D., and W. Fletcher Hall, M. D., who are the owners, founders and sole proprietors of the polypathic system, and so far as their financial standing and credit are concerned their references are good and ample.

At the request of several friends in your section, who read my former letter, and at the same time to further inform myself of a matter of much interest to me, I paid another visit to the Institute one day last week. Knowing that all Washington street cars pass the place, I boarded one of these, which in about ten minutes brought me to a large and imposing building, beautifully situated at the corner of East Brookline and Washington streets, and fronted by a handsome park, and directly opposite the New England Conservatory of Music.

In answer to his ring your correspondent was shown by a polite usher into one of the reception parlors, which was well filled with the sick and suffering, all awaiting their turn for a call to the consultation offices, the streets without resounded with the rattle of carriages and vehicles of all descriptions filled with the wealth and fashion of Boston, while the poorer class were coming and going, whose poverty had increased their ills.

In conversation with a number of those under treatment, while waiting, I heard the same strange stories which had awakened my interest to make this investigation. One old lady had been completely cured of cancer, after being given up by seven other physicians to die. Wm. H. Rogers, a prominent citizen of Foxboro, Mass., cured of consumption, said he believed they were the greatest physicians living.

Mrs. M. Metcalf, of No. 44 Spring street, Providence, had a fibroid tumor removed without any surgical operation in just one year by this polypathic system. This lady was not only pronounced incurable by the leading physicians of Boston and Providence, but those in the Rhode Island Hospital refused to even operate, for fear she would not live through the same.

"I would like for you to give me some one with whom I can confer in each disease."

"Yes, sir; we shall be glad to accommodate you. Diabetes—Reference, Sidney Barker, box 12, Warren, R. I. Bright's disease—Reference, Patrick Sullivan, 700 High street, Providence, R. I.

Probably a large number of those who read this advertisement will say "another humbug, we will have nothing to do with it." But before you utterly CONDEMN Let us appeal to your REASON

Let us give you the history of this medicine. It was originally a prescription of a country physician with a large practice, across the water. One of those men who get to know certain things well, and he evidently knew COUGHS from their ABC.

A patient of his coming to this country brought the prescription for family use, and it came to our attention. We found it good but knowing how much money could be thrown away, unless it proved to be more than GOOD we experimented with and tested it for over a year. We GAVE it away to everybody who would take it. We were more than convinced. Requests came to us from all sides to put it on the market, and we have started it on a SUCCESSFUL CAREER.

We have only begun to advertise it, and it is already placed in towns all over the Eastern and Middle States, and in some localities in the West. Some people think that because a medicine is what they call PATENT it cannot be good.

But is this not prejudice? Undoubtedly there are poor remedies cheaply advertised, but in most cases do not Proprietary Articles, spring from prescriptions which have been found EFFICIENT in private practice, and are they not compounded by bright men whose constant aim is to improve them?

If our remedy was not what we claim, who would be the greater loser? YOU who only spend 25 cents, 50 cents or 75 cents for a bottle, and then throw it away or WE who pay ADVERTISING BILLS that cost more than hundreds of bottles. No, the SECRET is, we know we have a good thing, come to stay, and that if you try it, it will become a STANDARD REMEDY in your home, and be recommended by you to your neighbors.

Our SUCCESS will be in a firmly established business, built up and founded on MERIT. We ask you then to lay aside all PREJUDICE for your own good, and try it. Our remedy is compounded from eight distinct species and herbs, is pleasant to the taste, quick in its action and is absolutely HARMLESS. It does not check a cough merely for the time, but heals the lungs. Follow the directions closely, using in moderate doses, as long as there is irritation and always keep it well corked when not in use. We wish to say one word more about CONSUMPTION. We cannot cure it in its last stages, but we can Relieve it, and we can cure INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION. It is prepared in three sizes, price 25c., 50c. and 75c. per bottle. If the cold is slight, in most cases the 25c. size will effect a cure. But in more obstinate cases you will need the larger sizes. The 75c. size is the most economical as it contains twice the quantity of the 50c. bottle. We have placed the remedy on sale at F. H. Baxter's, South Norwalk. I. M. Hoyt's, South Norwalk. J. C. Stillson's, South Norwalk. J. G. Gregory's, Norwalk. J. R. Hale's, Norwalk. J. A. Riggs', Norwalk. William A. Vogel, Norwalk. PREPARED ONLY BY IVNOKOF MFG. CO., Limited No. 1 East 89th St., N. Y.
