"That's a we are well out of," he said when he had regained his breath. " Now where are we?"

He looked about. A light was glimmer ing from a habitation behind them, a short listance from where they stood. Becky could not walk without great pain, and Fred lifted her in his arms, and started for the house. It proved to be the dwelling of a small planter, who was not lacking in hospitality. Here there wants were quickly attended to, and under the cheering influence of warmth and shelter, Becky was

They drove home the following day, Fred having procured the loan of the planter's horse and chaise for the purpose, promising to return them by Mr. Newton's servant the day after. The morning was clear, and the fragrance of the orange groves was in all the air. Becky, who had maintained almost utter silence since their escape from the cottonwood, was no less silent now Fred himself did not appear particularly communicative; and many miles of the long ride were taken without a remark from either. It was Becky who spoke first.

There was another long silence broken only by the sound of the horse's hoofs upon the road. Fred himself seemed to have lost some of his habitual ease, for he kept his whip in constant motion, and held the reins nervously.

The cottonwood | the interest of the tourist. Something has retained a course nearly in middle of the been done by art to beautify certain localistream, too far from either bank to render ties in and around this famous watering place. There is the charming Congress Park, a pleasant place for a swift walk before breakfast to settle down the deluge of of his feelings on the piazza, he concluded no escape from certain death, eitheir by spring water you have swallowed to bleach the black bile out of your body. There is the fine pond, dignified as Saratoga Lake, to which leads a smooth carriage road, over which roll hundreds of magnificent turnouts for the standard afternoon drive. There is the Excelsior Grove, with its stately forest trees of oak and pine, and its romantic woodland walk, much affected by rambling lovers, who find two persons better company than the jostling crowds of the streets and hotel parlors. There is Glen Mitchell, a tolerable ravine overshadowed by forest trees, very pleasant for a drive amid the lengthening evening shadows. And this is about the extent of the catalogue of natural or semi-natural attractions of the place. All the way from Troy to Saratoga the railroad runs through a nearly flat country, with little to break the monotony. There is much finer scenery around Norwalk than can be found here. Nature does not lavish all her favors upon any one locality, but distributes them frugally here and there. Many of your readers have visited this place and know its appearance. But those who have not may like to form an idea of it. Conceive of four or five immense hotels, or rather caravansaries, each of them five or six stories high and covering a whole block, capable of accommodating from 800 to 1,200 guests. Add to these thirty or forty more of smaller size, with a capacity of 400 to 50; and a hundred or two of boarding houses taking smaller numbers. The resident population of the place is about eight or ten thousand; but in the height of the summer season it is swelled by the addition of 15,000 What brings so many people to Saratoga!

The first motive is health. Mr. Billious comes here every summer to wash the bile out of his liver with Hathorn or Congress water, and Miss Delicate to add a little iron to her watery blood by draughts of Washington or Columbian. Mr. Nervous, Mr. Dyspeptic and Mr. Rheumatic find in some of the springs relief from their several ailments. In fact, there is scarcely one of "the ills that flesh is heir to," for which the water of some one of the springs is not prescribed as a panacea. The truth of the matter in was checked; it plunged heavily and part this respect seems to be that these springs ly turned over, its top became entangled in are not really a specific for any disease, but that by purging and toning up the system in general they reinvigorate the health-giving forces of the body itself. It is a common thing to find here old habitues of Saratoga rebound that the two travelers were nearly to the annual recuperation they receive from these waters.

> Another motive is society. Man is a gregarious creature and loves to go where the in the stir and bustle of a multitude of people, especially when all are engaged in the same pursuit of pleasure and recreation. There is a loosening of conventional restraints and an abandon to genial and sponaneous social impulses. Hundreds of thousands of people of the best society in the country are here thrown into contact with one another, with not much to do except to enjoy society. Of course wealth and fashon come along with the rest. Mr. Millionaire comes here to spend his money free as water and show his magnificent state and equipage; and Mrs. Diamond to proclaim her vanity by the jewels that glittler on her costly dresses. But even fashion is here more free and less formal and exclusive than anywhere else. These great hotels are democratic. They welcome all who are ready to pay their $5 a day, and the gorgeous hotel parlors are free to all comers. Some one has well said that Saratoga is Fifth avenue turned inside out. But it is a mistake to think that it is only or mainly fashionable people who come here. The vast majority are people of the middle classes, business and professional men and their families who snatch a few weeks from their arduous toils for respite and ease, and find in the > throng of pleasure-seekers here just the social stimulus they require. A great variety of other motives add to the throng. Sight-seers, sight-showers, sellers of fancy goods, peddlers of Yankee no tions, sporting men, &c., &c., gather here as they always do wherever crowds most congregate. It is therefore an admirable place for the study of human nature. Men are never so natural as when they throw off artificial restraints in the pursuit of rest and

Yet it would be hard to find a better-be raved crowd than this. There is no brawling, no rowdyism. There is even less vice than might be expected. Almost every one remarks that there is very little drinking of intoxicating liquors. I do not remember ever to have seen a drunken man in Saratega. Few even at the large hotels have wine on their tables at dinner. In passing frequently the doors of the bar-rooms, I have noticed that they are usually nearly empty even of loungers. It is said that the free drinking of the waters destroys for the time the thirst for liquors, even in those addicted to their use. If this be so, one could wish a Saratoga Spring might be discovered in South Norwalk.

Among the South Norwalk people here are Mr. and Mrs. William Comstock, Mr. William H. Benedict, Mrs. George Benedict, Miss Gertrude Benedict, Miss Addie Cape, Mrs. Alfred Knapp, Mrs. Colfax.

A plan has been inaugurated in New York city for the establishment of Roman Catholic schools. The first step taken in the matter was the action of Father O'Farrell, pastor of St. Peter's Church, in establishing a new school for the First Ward. For this purpose a large six-story building has been purchased, and workmen have been busy during the Summer, fitting it up as a school, and it is expected that it will be open for the reception of pupils about the first of Sep-

With Roman Catholics, he says, the schools are but the stepping-stones to the Church, and the two should, therefore, be indissolubly united.

Whereupon the New York Times remarks "Father O'Farrel, in spite of his very ingenious manner of gilding the sectarian pill, is probably aware that, in the estimation of the people of this State, it does mat-ter a great deal whether the public schools are taught by an irresponsible society of Christian Brothers' or by the regularly aplegislature fails to reflect the popular deternation to keep the common schools free to raise such a storm as may not too nicely regard the vested interests of Father O'Far-rel and his friends. The Roman Catholic Church in this city has been dealt with for some years past on a footing of very exceptional liberality. In grants of property and actual pecuniary payments it has absorbed millions of public money. We greatly mis-take public sentiment if there is not a pre-valent disposition to treat it for the future on a basis of simple equality with other religious sects. This will probably not satisfy the priests, and the minority of intelligent laymen has, we fear, too much power to prevent the mass of Roman Catholies from trying to recover by political agi-tation their lost power over the disposal of

CORRESPONDENCE. To the Editor of THE SENTINEL: A balloon without gas is an incomplete thing for navigating. It is difficult for a balloon to rise without being "blown up" beforehand. There are various kinds of balloons; some are like the "Graphic Balloon," and some are not. There are several kinds of "gas;" some used for light, some for extracting teeth, and some are not. Some of the latter kinds appeared in the last Sentinet, and some of the same has shown there before. It strongly reminded us of the story of the old lady while on her first steamboat voyage. Being alarmed by the jarring of the machinery and the motion rections for means of safety in case the boat went down. After getting a rubber life-preserver under her arm, she started frantically around the boat, exclaiming at the top of her voice, "Blow me up! Blow me up! Will not some one blow me up before this boat sinks?" We think the old lady has appeared on board in our midst, and is only waiting for somebody to "blow her up." But gas and ignorance are both the narrows was charming. Passing Forts

Cruise of the "Prairie" Yacht Club. SOUTH NORWALK, Aug. 26th, 1873. To the Editor of THE SENTINEL:

The cruise of the Prairie Yacht Club, a we styled ourselves, now that it is ended, was very unlike a prairie in the general interpretation of the term, and instead of being a continuous, monotonous, and even tenor, it was as the Irishman takes his dreams, to the contrary. Our party consisted of Sailing Master, Capt. Wm. H. Ferris; Commissary, W. H. Jarvis; Pioneer, H. W. Lester; Secretary, D. E. Disbrow; Commodore, Henry R Fitch; General Manager, John H. Ferris; and Steward, Willie Lester. On Tuesday evening, at 9 o'clock P. M. found our stores, boxes and bundles, on the yacht and ready to sail for Sandy Hook and the blue-fishing grounds. Our general manager and commodore, by reason of business, would not be able to join us until Thursday at South Brooklyn. We started with a real Neptune breeze, (" straight up and down," ping of the sail started our captain, and we with a northeast wind, for the Hook. We made good time, wind not quite as heavy as the weather, and at 10:15 the general manager passed us on the Americus between Hell Gate and Throgs Point, who was surprised to see us so far advanced on our journey. At noon of Wednesday we anchored in Erie Basin, South Brooklyn, wind still N. E. and weather threatening. While there, we visited the shore for supplies, and passed the afternoon in sailing about among the Harlem Yacht Club fleet which lay at anchor in the harbor. The trip on shore for supplies was anything but pleasant, ten houses out of every twelve in a block being lager beer saloons and groceries combineda conglomeration not much admired by us. If you wanted clams for fish bait, go into a store where it said on the window curtain Lager Beer Saloon," there you would find them. Whether they made beer of them, I know not. During Thursday our pioneer. or as we now call him, "the Ax Slinger," had a Modoc war dance, in which he displayed his skill by throwing his tomahawk

overboard, marking on the boat where it went over, intending at a convenient time.

to fish it up, remarking that it had gone down to be ground. We thought so. Reader, if you don't think so, ax him. Through we less him at the helm to enjoy the sail, thunderbolts, rain in torrents, wet clothes, heavy fog, no land in sight, etc. A call for the compass put him square on his pins again, and after running very near to Sandy Hook light, he have up the helm, perfectly satisfied to change wet clothes for dry ones. We finally, near dusk, anchored in-aide Sandy Hook light in a good harbor, away from all storm and tempest, and with-in easy reach of the dreaded Jersey mosquitoes. A few of us went ashore to see the crowds leaving Long Branch take to the steamer Plymouth Rock for New York.

While there we were suddenly serenaded by the band on board the boat, which here we acknowledge. We had our blue shirts on, yed for stamps. All night we were ser

the day we had sunshine and shower, clear blue sky, and then rain. About dark we heard the familiar voice of Manager Ferris, 'Prairie ahoy !" and soon our boat brought to us Commodore Fitch and Ferris. Although we had a good time till then, our hearts were still merrier at seeing their faces, and as the rain came pattering down on the cabin deck, we were having a jolly time within. Friday morning at 11 o'clock, we set sail again for the Hook, wind N. E., no rain. The sail down the bay and through Hamilton and Richmond, Quarantine, Coney Island, we started for the blue-fishing grounds, which were out some miles to sea, the heavy weather having driven the fish out from shore. We had not sailed far toward Rockaway Beach before we noticed a thunder storm making up from the South It was at this point that our General Manager Ferris took the reins in his hands to run the machine. Coming about, we of course headed for the shower, and about 3 P. M.

kept out to sea about fifteen miles from Sandy Hook light. Sea gulls were flying about, but fish very scarce; fisherm plained of poor luck, few fish, &c., and after sailing back again, we at 8 o'clock P. M. under a heavy northwest wind, anchored again at Eric Basin, bound home. Sunday morning at 54 o'clock we started for home wind north, cold and blowing very heavy We passed Throg's Point at 8 o'clock A. M. and getting into the sea in the Sound parted our jib-stay, which forced us back to the helter of Throg's Neck to repair damages. This took us some two hours and at 10 o'clock again rounded the point for home. Head wind and heavy sea. The yacht worked admirably under mainsail only, that having a single reef in it. Commissary Jarvis was fortunate enough to haul in a fine Spanish mackerel off Sandy Hook lightship, while taking lessons in "heaving and ment: hauling" from the Scribe. Our luck every way was changeable; wind and weather, nine different kinds of fish caught and an eel, land and sea food, sunshine and rain, no sea-sickness, gales and calms. At 5 o'clock P. M. we beat up Norwalk harbor, head tide and Lead wind, the whole trip rather a queer one as regards these things, and still one to be remembered long with thoughts of pleasure. SCRIBE.

The Hartford Courant exposes a new danger to which good looking trunks are subject. It says: "The person in the game takes short trip and takes his trunk with him. It is well known that trunks have no legs and cannot run away; so, trusting in this fact, the baggage master in the smaller places are very apt to leave the trunks all in a heap antil the cars arrive. This is the opportunity that the designing traveler has in view. He steps up to see if his trunk is all right. In looking it over he takes its check off and puts it on the best looking trunk in the lot, and puts that trunk's check upon his piece of baggage. Then he wanders away takes the trunk to which his check entitle him and drives off with it. There are of him and drives off with it. There are or course, all sorts of chances in the matter, but the experiment always pays, since the piece disposed of is only ballasted and utterly valueless. The great difficulty, now that the game is exposed, is how to put a check to it. Mr. Cornelius Kemper, of Westport, was niured one day this week by the accidental lischarge of a loaded pistol while attempting to take it to pieces. The ball entesed the palm of the left hand and lodged in the wrist, where an incision was made and the ball removed by Dr. Hill, of this city.

Mr. Melville E. Mead offers for sale a tract of water-side property on Gregory's Point, containing about eighty city lots, facing East Avenue and extending to the Harbor. On the land is a neat cottage house, farm and out-building. The whole is offered for $5,500. Mr. Mead will be at the Point today, to eat clams and to talk business.

Rev. W. H. Thomas has returned from his summer vacation, looking hale and hearty and somewhat browned from exposure on the "briny deep," for which he has pulpit labors next Sunday. In the evening the subject of his discourse will be "The Application of Common Sense to Religion." No man is better qualified to speak on that subject than Mr. Thomas.

It gives us pleasure to hear of the prosperity of friend Wing at his home in Iowa. We clip the following from the Central Christian Advocate, published at St. Louis: Rev. H. E. Mr. Wing is comparatively a stranger in the Iowa Conference, but is succeeding admirably in his

The Fairfield County Planing Mill and Lumber Company, under the judicious management of Messrs. Knapp & Fitch, has grown into a large business, and is now one of our most important local industries. Its immense dock and yards are well stocked with lumber, and the machinery kept busily running. The back country trade which this company has secured is very large. We intend giving a full description of the concern at no distant day.

The feast of Bacchus was no doubt s great thing for its day, but neither Hooper nor Sholes was there with his inimitable roast clams, and the thing was probably a tame affair compared with the annual clam bake of America's big and mighty men. To-day, for the seventh time, the Fat Man's Association gathers at Gregory's Point for the purpose of feasting on what all epicures like, the delicious roasted clam. Hooper, this year, has undertaken the task of filling their rapacious stomachs. With a good deal of energy he is working, and having every facility to aid him, we cannot doubt the result. Sholes, too, announces a bake for fat and lean men and women to take place at the Grove House to-day.

Rev. J. M. Taylor, of the Baptist church preached a sermon last Sunday evening on the "Certainty of Punishment for Sin." He said the whole scope of Bible teaching on the subject, as well as human experience goes to prove that as surely as men violate either physical, moral or spiritual laws, so surely the penalty will follow. The sermon was replete with strong points, which were sustained by an abun quotations. There may be a seeming conlict between Mr. Taylor's views and the ous atonement, which no doubt can be easily explained. It is no uncommon thing, it these days, for the younger preachers of all lenominations to utter sentiments not exactly in unison with the musty creeds of the rest of the household had retired to revel in happy dream-land, and were ob out to all mundane cares. The conversation waxed lively and interesting, they hitches their chairs nearer together and the auspi clous moment was seemingly at hand when the momentous question would be proposed, when they were suddenly alarmed by noises about the house. Burglars were evidently at work and something must be done. Maternal aid was loudly invoked, but Ma wouldn't budge an inch. The other sleepers were aroused, but could not be prevailed upon to leave their downy couches and risk an encounter with lawless thieves. Finally the valorous swain plucked up courage and declared to his sweetheart that if she would stick by him to the bitter end, he himself would meet the nocturnal miscreants face to face. With lamp in hand and armed with deadly weapons, they cautiously proceeded to explore the dark recesses of the cellar. Sounds as from something near still continued, but no moving object was visible. Love inspired bravery, and they fearlessly continued the search. Finally the source of the sounds was discovered. It was the flapping of some large crabs of the genus Simulus, called in vulgar English horse-feet, stowed away in a small box. "Only this and noth-,ng more,"

Rev. Dr. Spencer preached an excellent ermon last Sunday evening, on the subject of "Confession of Sin," in which he took occasion to refer to the action of a body of English clergymen who have petitioned the convocation of the Church of England for the establishment of the confessional and appointment of confessors. He deprecated this action, regarding the office and duties of the minister not as judicial, but pastoral; To him the guilty, conscience-stricken soul unable, through the ordinances of the church, to rid itself of the sense of guilt, can go, not as to a judge, but as to a near friend, and pour out its griefs, and seek advice and consolation. His points were well chosen, illustrated and enforced. Dr. Spencer is an earnest and interesting speaker, a devoted laborer, and deservedly popular among the people of his charge and the inhabitants of our city.

CEDAR POINT REGATTA. The Regatta at Cedar Point, adjourned from Tuesday, 19th inst., to Tuesday, 26th inst., came off at the last mentioned date, with a good breeze, though not quite as much of it as most of the contestants desired. The race, this time, was from the judges' boat to stake boat; leave stake boat on starboard hand; return to judges' boat; leave judges' boat on starboard hand, and repeat, making very nearly a twelve-mile race. The following areathe entries, in order of position:

First Class. OWNER. WHERE FROM, LENGTH Estella, Francis Burritt, So. Norwalk Avengor, White, Jessie, M. B. W. Wheeler, Westport, Elia, Lewis Burr, Westport,

It will be seen that the Bridgeport boats did not come, a fact which gave rise to many congratulations, and they were well founded, as there was no betting on the race, and no swearing when the decision of the judges was announced. The third class boats were started at 12:41:20; the second at 12:47:40; the first at 12:58:55. The following is the time of passing the line at the judges' boat,—the actual time, corrected time, and time each boat was beaten, the allowance being one minute to

The very highest artist the artificial denture that will be in perfect harmon; with the features, the complexion, color of the lips and gums, and form of the person, so all should be rience, a good practice, and a close study of all aprovements that have been made in mechanica perative and surgical dentistry, we feel confiden at we can treat successfully and satisfactorily sistants none but first-class operators. Dr. Ferri will remain with us and continue to manipulat at the chair. As an operator, his superior cannot b found, and but few equals; a mechanic and a gentle man in every respect. Every operation will be performed upon honor and conscientiously. We wish to have all our dealings with our fellow-men of such a nature that we can be mutually pleased to continue the same. We offer no inducements to get work by naming low prices in advertisements, then when we get a customer in the office tell them that the best i he cheapest. We expect to do good work and get a fair price for it. There are but few who do not kno that the best goods are the cheapest in the end Who does not know that the high-priced boots and shoes or dress goods are the cheapest in the end for the poor as well as the rich. If you want a set of teeth for ten dollars, we will give them to you for it for if you cannot pay for more expensive work you comfort and health's sake. We shall charge no more than our work is worth. We are prepared to put up any kind of work that is wanted. But the public nust know that no dentist any scorer than any other business man is going to give you twenty dollars for ton. In these degenerate times no man is apt to give any more than he expects to get paid for. We give any more than he expects to get naid for. We intend to give value received for every dollar we take, and not sny more unless it is understood to be a case of charity. For extracting teeth we have the most approved instruments, some of jour own patterns, and the operation of extracting one or more teeth scarcely ever exceeds one second to each tooth. Where crowns of teeth are broken off and the fangs badly decayed, we use for the chill the gums, waking the operation almost manuface.

We would take this opportunity to thank our numerous patrons in this city, Norwalk and surrounding towns, for their kind support for the past year and respectfully ask a continuance of your patronage.
Our first year of business with you has far exceeded our antidipations, and so far as we know, our work and prices have been satisfactory, except in two cases. A word to those who forget that we have to use money to pay our debts: — We have a good many bills outstanding now, covering a period-upwards of six months, running from five dollars to fifty; please remember that we cannot pay our bills without money, and if you cannot pay all, pay part.

without money, and if you cannot pay san, pay part.
We have been to great expense fitting up our new office and have used all we could collect. I know that money is hard to get hold of now, but if each one would pay part of his bill it would furnish us with all that we need now. To those mechanics with all that we need now. To those mechanics (very few of them are on our books) who will come and show as that they do net drink whiskey, but by reason of sickness or no work they are unable to pay their bills, we will give them a receipt in full. Calls answered at all reasonable hours. Office over Swords' Clothing Store, where the gentlemen can go while we are making their teeth, and get a suit of clothes made from the very best goods, and in the intest styles.

THE "BARTRAM!" The Bartram Sewing Machine is the latest produ Simplicity of the Wilcex & Gibbs', but makes the lock-stitch with a revolving shuttle, which, revolving in its car-rier, is subject to no wear, and requires no ciling by which the thread would otherwise be soiled; and the wear and friction of a "race" is avoided. This style of shuttle moves with greater Rapidity and case of operation making one-third more stitches with the same motion of the foot, than any other Ease.

It is the easiest running of all the family of Sewing Machines. Delicate ladies who cannot use others can operate the Bartram without fatigue. Best Needle. It has the best needle in the world—short and straight with a flat shank. By simply pulling it up in the needle bar as far as it will go, it is set right and never has to be varied for thick or thin goods.

Durability. It is, without question, the most durable machine in the market, as it is so simply constructed (having but five working parts.) that friction is reduced the lowest possible degree. All the wearing parts are made of the finest steel, and beautifully finished.

General Efficiency. The inventor (Mr. W. B. Bartram,) has kept one important feature in view, viz., that it should be so constructed as not to limit its usefulness to any specialty of work, but to be adapted to do both light and heavy sewing equally well.

We Invite

the public to call at the agency and examine this nev and wonderful Machine, and allow the agent to prove all and mere than we have said of the merit of the "Barrham." JOHN SCOTT, Agent, At the Millinery and Dressmaking Rooms

PHOTOGRAPHER,

NORWALK, CONN. The time has arrived when, in the achievements of our art, success is no longer a question of experiment and time, but each sitting is a positive success, and the miracles that are daily wrough in the taking of children,—as by a lightning flash,—insures the public against any failure even with the most uneasy child. To obtain these results has taken many years of toil, and the study of books devoted to the advancement of Photographic Art; conventions have been attended, and every improvement adopted of real benefit to the public. All of which has been attended with heavy cost, and without the rewards that tended with heavy cost, and without the rewards that follow in the wake of other business. Hereafter CASH WILL BE REQUIRED IN ADVANCE OF SITTINGS. This rale has been adopted by the leading men in our business throughout the country, and is the only rule that will save Photographers from ruin. You will see the justice of this upon reflection. collect himself, and then goes for the nearest palsy, sprains, swellings, caked-breasts, man. He is referred to "the man in the other room," and the man in the other room on the human frame, and of strains, spavin, heaves a sigh as he sees him enter.

I dashed off the other day," says the young man, as he deposits the roll on the table; you can look them over, and I will call for the money on Saturday." He goes out, and the recipient of the roll unrolls it, feels his hair raise up as he sees that some lines have ten "feet," others six, and that a pile-driver could not drive the metre , into shape. He puts it away, and begins to dread Saturday.

Saturday, and the poet comes, and expects a check and a compliment. He sits down, and there is a long pause. The editor would rather tackle a Bogardus kicker than to say what he must say, but he finally gets round ah! hem! we haven't room for it just at present; you'd better send it to the New York Poet." That young man gets up with an awful look of contempt and revenge on his face, seizes the roll, and goes out feeling that he shall be an enemy of the paper, the editors, reporters, compositors, and apprentices forever after. This is only an illustrative case. There is the woman who has written nineteen verses on her dead baby; the old maid who has hashed up a ballad and wants to wound his feelings, and yet his feelings will and mothers may rest. he wounded. If he hadn't a cent in the world, and was in need of bread, he wouldn't feel half so bad to be refused a cash loan as he would to be told that his poetry wasn't first-class, and that he'd better turn his attention to a trade. The poets are not all. There is a man with the "Essay on Sober Second Thought;" the man with two columns on " The Degeneration of American Politics." and the scores of men with essays on this and that, which no one but the writer would read. They must be met, repulsed, and got rid of; and, though the editor is as tender as a lover, the chances are that within three days he will receive a letter reading some thing like this:

"DEAR SIR :- Owing to the fact that my article on the 'Rejuvenation of Mummies' did not appear in your issue of Wednesday. you can stop my paper. I shall subscribe to the Ark, which is a live, go-ahead daily, fully up to the times. CATO.

"History Repeats Itself."

The following I find in a Sandwich Island paper which some friend has sent me from that tranquil far-off retreat. The coincidence between my own experience and that here set down by the late Mr Benton is so remarkable, that I cannot forbear publishing and OAK, per Cord, commenting upon the paragraph. Sandwich Island paper says:

" How touching is this tribute of the late Hon. T. H. Benton to his mother's influence. My mother asked me never to use tobacco I have never touched it from that time to the present day. She asked me not to gamble, and I have never gambled. I cannot tel who is losing in games that are being played-She admonished me, too, against liquor drink ing, and whatever capacity for endurance I have at present, and whatever usefulness l may have attained through life, I have attributed to having complied with her pious and correct wishes. When I was seven years of age she asked me not to drink, and then I made a resolution of total abstinence: and that I have adhered to it through all time, I owe to my mother."

I never saw anything so curious. It is almost an exact epitome of my own moral ca reer-after simply substituting a grandmoth er for a mother. How well I remember my grandmother's asking me not to use tobacco, good old soul! She said: "You're at it again are you, you whelp! Now don't ever let me catch you chewing tob eco before break fast again, or I lay I'll blacksnake you within an inch of your life!" I have never touched it at that hour of the morning from that time to the present day . She asked me not to gamble. She whis pered and said "Put up those wicked cards this minute!-two pair and a Jack, you Blackberry, numskuli, and the other feliow's got a I have never gambled from that day to this-never once-without a "cold deck" in my pocket. I cannot tell who is going to lose in games that are being played, unless I dealt myself.

When I was two years of age she asked me not to drink, and then I made a resolution of total abstinence. That I have adhered to it and enjoyed the beneficent effects of it through all time, I owe to my grandmother-let these tears attest my gratitude-I have never drank a drop from that day to this, of any kind of water .- Mark Twain

A Canadian clergyman, not long since was called upon by an Irish girl, who inquired "how much he asked for marrying any He replied, "a dollar and a half," and Biddy departed.

A few evenings later, on being summoned to the door, he was accosted by the same person, with the remark that she had come to be married. " Very well," said the minister; but perceiving with astonishment that she was alone, he continued, "where is the man?" An expression of disappointment and cha-grin, too Iudicrous to be described, passed over Biddy's features, as she ejaculated "and don't you find the man for a dollar and

You know the Italian proverb: "Let your enemy occupy your house the first year af-ter it has been completed; let your friend inhabit it the second year; live in it yourself the third year." The truth of this proverb the third year." The truth of this proverb is so universally believed in Paris that thousands of families live without paying house rent. They are called "plaster vipera." They occupy houses the first year they are built. Owners are glad to give them lodgings free, for the house looks habited, and the walls are dried, and it is generally considered the "plaster vipers" pay dearly for shelter in the way of colds, brunchitis, rheumatism, and other ills superinduced by humanity.
