SOUTH NORWALK, CONN., SATURDAY, JUNE 8, 1878.

SOUTH NORWALK, a city of 5000 inhabitants, is situated on Long Island Sound, the New York and New Haven Railroad, and at the terminus of the Danbury and Norwalk Railroad; 42 miles from Grand Central Depot, New York; 22 miles west from New Haven; 16 miles frem Bridgeport; and 22 miles south of Danbury. It has probably, the most complete and economical Water Works in the country, and is thoroughly protected from fire and supplied with excellent water for culinary and laundry purposes. Fourteen passenger trains arrive from and 15 depart for New York, and 5 to and from Danbury daily. A line of freight propellers runs regularly to and from New York, and a large and commodious passenger steamer makes daily trips during the summer months, conveying passengers at the low fare of 35 cents a distance of 45 miles, or the trip to New York and return, 90 miles for 50 cents. The sail is delightful, and connections are made with 'he New York & New Haven and Danbury trains. The steamer Young America runs to and from Huntington, L. I., on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Friday's. Vessels drawing 12 feet of water discharge their cargoes at the wharves. South Norwalk has grown rapidity and substantially, more than doubling its population within the past ten years, and is now one of the most important stations on the New York and New Haven Railroad. The chief pursuits of the inhabitants are the manufacture of machinery, steam engines, locks, hats, straw goods, ship building and the cultivation of oysters. Hundreds of barrels of oysters are shipped daily to the large cities, where they are appreciated on account of their extra size and peculiarly fine flavor. As a location for manufacturing establishments it offers unusual facilities. Here are the Norwalk Lock Co., man-ufacturers of Locks, Knobs, Bronze Goods: The Norwalk Steam Engine and Earle's uffects and the latter five are six was hat manufacturers: Lounshury Bros., & Rockwell, shoe manifacturers of the Norwalk Steam Engine and Earle's University of the Steam Panet and Contractors, l

For Husbands.

Don't think when you have won a wife hat you have won a slave. Don't think that your wife has less feeling than your sweetheart. Her relationship to you is simply changed, not her nature. Don't think that you can dispense with all the little civilities of life toward her on marrying. She appreciates those things

At last she heard, from several sources, of a lady surrounded by every comfort, and possessing a husband who seemed to think of nothing but making her happy. The old lady hast ned to her, and made known her wish; the lady made no reply, but took her visit it into an adjoining closet, where she was horror-struck at beholding a skeleton suspended from a beam. 'For twenty years have I been married," said the lady, 'I was forced to marry my husband while loving another; shortly after our wedding, my former haver came one evening to bid me farewell forever; my husband surprised us while together and instantly stabbed him whom he urjustly suspected to the heart; he then caused his skeleton to be preserved, and every day he makes me visit it." The widow concluded that no one was without trouble, and as her son had desired she became reconciled to the idea of her loss. Every one has his troubles-there is a skeleton in every house.

RELIGIOUS.

The man who studies to be revenged only manages to keep his own wounds green. Adversity exasperates fools, dejects cowards, draws out the faculties of the wise and industrious, puts the modest to the necessity of trying their skill, awes the opulent and makes the idle industrious.

The pleasures of this world are deceitful; hey promise more than they give. They trouble us in seeking them, they do not satisfy us when possesing them, and they make us despair in loosing them.

What we want in religion is not new light, but new sight; not new paths, but new ng man be bald?" the Norristown Herald | zeal and earnestness to walk in the old paths that have led such multitudes safely to heaven; not new duties, but new strength from on high, to fulfil those that are plain before us.

The man who does not drink, may not be a saint. He may have other faults enough. He may be a cold calculating villain. In so far, he is better than the inebriate. To talk as though there was an intimate connection between drunkenness and generosity is a falsehood, and like all falsehoods it is harmful.

It is better that men should soon make up heir minds to be forgotten, and look about them, or within them, some higher motive, in what they do than the approbation of men, which is Fame; namely, their duty; that they should be constantly and quietly at work, each in his sphere, regardless of effects, and leaving their fame to take care of itself-Fame comes only when deserved, and then is as inevitable as destiny, for it is destiny .- | Longfellow.

It is said that many in these days are sound in their morality, though they reject creeds. To which we reply, first, that the ou dity of the outward morality is deteminred by the inwardspirit. The motive stamps the action-and so the acceptance of that morality as before God, depends on the love of the heart to Him, and love rests on faith. Thus again we get back to the creed; for though faith lays hold upon a person, it cannot do so intelligently without having some

No delusion is more common than that illness is conductive to saintliness, and that God sends sickness upon us to make us holy. On the contrary, sickness is the penalty of wrong doing, either by ourselves or out ancestors, and in many cases should make us ashamed and truly penitent. The most deyout Christian will have the nightmare if he eats rich mince pie before going to bed, and a crusty temper next morning, I'll warrant you, and his spiritual agonies will not save him in the future, unless he adds to his faith

If in a dish of sand I should look with my eves for the articles of iron, or feel for them with my fingers. I might be unable to tect them. But let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how would it draw to itself the most invisible particles by the mere nower of attraction! The unthankful heart, like the fingers in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and as the magnet finds the iron in God's sand is gold .- [O. W.

We are like men that travel in mountain ous countries. That which seems to be the opmost hill is no sooner ascended than there is seen beyond it one that is still higher; and no sooner is that reached than, behold, another that is higher yet looms up in the distance. So life is one perpetual series of ascents; and no child ever gets beyond the necessity of self denial. He enters upon it, not only more frequently, and under complex difficulties. It is the condition of everything in life which is desirable that it must come with effort.-[B echer.

God rates and guages our praying very -what they truly represent. There is any amount of paper on the market to day. Some bring its face, some bring a premium, some goes at a discount, and some, alas! is good for nothing at all. It represents nothing; what it claims to represent, is fictitious, what it once represented is gone. How is it about our praying? Does it go at its face when brought to GoJ, or is it at a discount?

Go your way, friend, and let your farthing rushlight so shine before men that others, seeing your good works, may giorify your Father who > Infidelity is negation. It is nothing positive. It is paralysis to the mind and feebleness to affectionable nature. Without an active faith in God there can be no deep or permanent love. If there be no high and glad future, incentives to exertion are of the lowest sort. Wendell Phillips said the other day before the Free Religious Association in Boston: "I am proud to be your lecturer, but your dortrine will not work. Tested by history, tested by human nature, you will find that it will not work." It has not and cannot work except for evil, and the havoc it has wrought proves to be powerless for good.

Napoleon said that the man who never nakes a mistake never makes war. Those who content themselves with standing aloof from revival and temperance work, and devote their energies to pointing out the mistakes and blunders of those who are in the struggle, are making, themselves, the greatest of blunders. Nothing is easier than fault auding. No talents, no self-denial, no brains, no character, are required to set up in the grumbling business. But those who are moved by a genuine desire to do good have little time for murmuring or complaint. -[Advance.

O PAY! NO PAPER Temperance Revival Meetings.

The temperance movement which was lagurated on Wednesday the 27th ult., has laued and gathered strength day by since last Sabbath. Notwithstanding the very stormy weather on Sunday aftermoon the orchestra of Music Hall was well filed, and a very interesting meeting held. The meeting was opened with prayer by C. W. Kaudsen, and the speaker of the day, Geo. B. Graves, of Waterbury, was introduced by Rev. W. H. Boole. Mr. Graves addressed his speech to Christian and moral men and women, showing them that they had an important part of the temperance work to perform, and appealed to them to throw all the safeguards they could around their sons and daughters. He drew a touching picture of the recent Niagara accident, whereby two partially intozicated men by their foolishness were carried over Niagara falls, as no friendly voice warned them of the danger of their course because they were experienced boatmen and accustomed to navigate the river. He told a touching incident of a mother refusing to sign the pledge for her boy's sake, who afterwards saw that boy brought to his home drunk. Mr. Graves is a very affecting speaker, and though a workingman and for twenty-two years a hard drinker has a power of oratory that holds his audience spell-bound and often affects them to tears. At the close of Mr. G's remarks Mr. Boole called upon those who were 'n favor of the following iron-clad pledge to raise their hands: "Trusting in God for daily help, I hereby totally renounce the use of cider, beer and wine, and all other intoxicating drinks." The showing of hands was large, and afterward a paper was circulated for signers to this pledge. The ushers passed through about half the audience and secured over eighty names, when Mr. Boole said they would not fluish at that time, but that on Monday evening the pledges would be ready, and then they could come forward and sign. The meeting was closed by singing "Hold the Fort," and the benediction by Rev. J. M. Taylor. On Monday evening at the appointed time audience had assembled and Rev. Mr. Boole opened the meeting by giving out the hymn "The Great Physician," which was followed by a prayer from Mr. Lvon, and the singing "Precious Promise" by the audience. After a few remarks from Mr. Boole he introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Graves, and said he would talk to the work ingmen. Mr. Graves then gave a sketch of his life from the time of his burhoud to the present. He told how he had taken his first glass at the age of thirteen, and from that commencement he drank more and more until he became a confirmed drunkard. He told of the misery and trouble he brought tried to reform, and even threatened his own life and said it was only through the providence of God that he was able to break loose from this most damning of all curses—strong drink-and stand a free man and to exhort men, especially the young to abstain from strong drink. He wound up his remarks with an carnest appeal to the workingmen to sign the pledge, and used some very strong arguments why they should do so. After a few remarks Mr. Boole said the sign, and one hundred and eight amid clapof hands stepped for ward and put their names to the roll.

On Tuesday evening the hall was well filled, and after the usual singing and prayer Mr. Boole said Mr. Graves would again speak which he did for about an hour, bringing forth very forcible arguments showing hose who were abdicted to strong drink the manner in which they were depriving their families of the necessities of life, and were filling the coffers of the rum-seller with their hard-earned money, and after a few well directed points, taking illustrations from his own life, he convinced many of the curse of themselves and families. Mr. Boole then recited a poem which had a good deal of to come forward and sign the pledge and a

On Wednesday evening the attendance was larger than at any previous meeting, and the enthusiasm very great. Turee reformed men from Meriden—one a notorious drinking, and their happy deliverance. The scholars. reformed liquor seller gave a history of his own case, and the manner in which the business was conducted, how the drinkers were duped, their money taken from them, and the vile compounds which were sold.

Mr. Boole then read the copy of an ordinance that he had had drawn. He would read it again on Thursday evening, and on Friday evening it would be brought before the citizens for their consideration, and a vote taken upon it. Following is a copy of the proposed ordinance: AN ACT RELATIVE TO THE SALE OF INTOXI

CATING LIQUORS IN VIOLATION OF LAW: Be it Enacted by the Board of Councilmen of the City of South Norwalk: SECTION 1. The mayor of the city is hereby authorized and empowered to employ and appoint any number of special policemen or other persons in his discretion for the detection and arrest of any person or persons violating within the city limits the No-License Law, and for the arrest of the in violation of law.

SEC. 2. The major is hereby requested of its regular monthly meetings the number of special policemen or other persons appointed under Section 1 of this ordinance, the number of arrests made during the month for drunkenness or for the violation of any of the liquor laws,—the names and residences of the persons so arrested, and the disposi-tion made of each individual arrest.

he had long felt the necessity for some measure that would compel the officials to perform the duties of their offices. He had written a communication to the SENTINEL demanding this thing, but it had fallen dead.

He then asked the policemen why arrests for drunkenness were not made and they had informed him that it was of no use as possible, if they would have them keep up without trial. He with their classmates.

He said he had but little experience in temperance movements but this had his full sympathy and he would do all he could to advance it. 'His speech was a frank, manly utterance of a sentiment that brought out a hearty response from the large audience.

Mr. Boole said he was glad that Mr.

Taylor had said what he did. It cleared the atmosphere, and would give new life to the movement. The invitation was then given to all to sign the pledge, and many responded. Mr. Boole urged all Christians to sign, but the response was not what would naturally be expected.

During the week there had been a desire of that Mr. Boole would take an and speak. This he announced he is on Thursday evening, and the an-ment filled the hall. The meeting the proposed ordinance, which was received with applause. "Precious Promise" was then sung and Mr. Boole took the floor, and for an hour and three quarters he held the closest attention of the audience. His speech was a strong argument. He said he would try to avoid too much spirit in his remarks but consider three propositions. First, That the liquor traffic is the crime of crimes, or as John Wesley said of slave tade "It is the sum of all villanies," the concentration of iniquities, the destroyer of the peace and best interests of community; it is the hellhound that ravishes, desolates and brings lown to absolute dispair unnumbered houseolds. When you have weighed all other evils in one scale and throw the liquor trade into the other, its down weight kicks the beam at the other end; second, that the only and total prohibition by the state; third, we hold within our grasp all means necessary to the abatement of this evil if with wisdom and energy we use them. At the close Mr. Boole called upon all who were in sympothy with the pledge and the general temperance movement, and would sustain it in all surtable ways, to rise, and it seemed as if the whole audience of about a thousand rose simultaneously to its feet. "Hold the Fort" was then sung, a quartette composed of Mrs. Raymond, Miss Platt, Messrs. Pennell and Hill sang a fine selection, and the meeting was declared adjourned to this (Friday) evening, when Rev. S. H Platt, who is now stationed at Ridgefield, will speak, and a vote be taken upon the proposed ordinance.

School Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Union School District was held at the Franklin street school house on Monday evening last, and despite the other attractions of council and temperance meetings the attendance was quite large. A. J. Crofut was appointed chairman, and the business was trassacted as per call of the meeting.

Committeeman T. I Raymond read the report which gives in so explicit a manrer all the information relating to the district that it should be read by every citizen. It is the best document of the kind every given to the voters of the district, and perhaps the only one that ever old the whole story. The showing is creditable to the committee, who have lapured realously for the school, and have succeeded in keeping it up to a high standant. They deserve a vote of thanks for for the exercises to commence, a large their successful management of the schools

> SOUTH NORWALK, June 31, 1878. ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SOUTH NORWALK UNION SCHOOL DISTRICT COMMITTER.

The year has been one of progress, and to a careful observer the advancement has been in the right direction. We feel justified in stating that the results accomplished amply reply all the care, vigitance and expense which have been developed to an extense which have been derived to our school. ADMINISTRATION There have been several changes made in he administration of our schools during the year. Miss Gorrende Sutherland, Miss McClure and Miss Pennell having resigned. on his family, and how many times he had Miss Cornelia Dickerman, a lady of experi-tried to reform and even threstened his own ence as teacher in graded schools, was enguged to fill vacancy made by resignation of Miss McClure; Mrs. Hattie V Evans, a lady of experience in primary schools of New York and Brooklyn, to fill vacancy made by Miss Pennell, and Miss Maggie Weed, for-merly assistant reacher at the Concord street at the Franklin street school: Miss Harmon promoted to grade 4; Miss Nettle Ball to No. Miss Julia Grumman to No. 6; Miss Alida Ball to No. 8; and Miss Mattie Grego late assistant to Miss Vinton, to No. 9. Miss Vinton, Miss Selleck, and Mrs. Camp pledges were raidy for those who wished to | were retained in gra les No. 10, 3, and 1 respectivety, because of their peculiar fitness for such grades. In order to avoid overcrowding of the primary rooms during the summer months, Miss Lizzie Dayton was engaged for the last fourteen weeks of the year, and a small class of pupils from these ooms placed under her charge in the Frank!in street school house.

PRIMARY ROOMS. Acting upon the suggestions made by the Board of School Visitors in their last an nual report, special attention has been given to the primary and intermediate grades. During the year care has been taken that nese rooms should not be overcrowded, and that both scholars and teachers should be supplied with everything necessary to com-fort and improvement. Black board work has been increased, and slates supplied when rum and the ruin they were bringing upon necessary. Good results are already manifest. HIGHER GRADES.

The special branches, drawing, singing, and gymnastic exercises have received more effect on the audience, and then invited all than the ordinary amount of attention, without distracting the mind of the scholar from the more solid work of the school. EXAMINATIONS.

Written examinations are now an estab lished feature of the school, and are, we be-lieve, one of the secrets to our present success. The examinations, both oral and written at the close of last term, were unusually satisfactory, and gave evidence of diligent count of their slavery to the habit of rum and taithful work, both by teachers and

Nowhere are the direct influencesof home felt so much as in the advancement or promotion of scholars. Parents should there-fore, thoroughly understand the subject, and make a careful investigation before censur-ing the action of principal and teacher in the promotion of their children. It is an astic applause, and Rev. J. M. Taylor said established fact that pupils of the same class are not, nor can they be made, equal in capacity, for while some may be quick to learn and easy to comprehend, others may be slow, but yet surer in their progress. Again, some are strong and vigorous, while others

In Memoriam. At a meeting of classs A of the Congrega tional Church Sunday School it was Resolved, That we record and publish as expression of our deep sorrow, in view of the bereavement we have suffered in the sudden death of one of our number, Wm. T. Comstock. We had known him for many years as an upright citizen, a kind neighbor, a genial friend; but of late we had known him as a fellow pupil in the school of Christ, an earnest seeker after divine truth; had men by June 17th inst. noticed his humble, teachable spirit, and his evident delight in the truth, as it became more and more clear to his mind; and we cherished high expectations as to his future advancement in the Divine knowledge, and his usefulness in the kingdom of Christ, But God has removed him to another and higher sphere and we bow in submission to his righteous will, though the vacant seat will oft remind us of him who is gone, and cast a shade of sadness over our meetings. We deeply sympath'ze with the afflicted family, and pray that our God may comfort them with his consolations which are neither few nor small, and that we all may be made the practicability of changing it in part, or more dilligent in our work, more earnest seekers after truth, and more ripe for heaven, under the dealings of our loving Father. who doth not afflict willingly but only for our DENNIS PLATT, Chairman. Editore SENTINEL-I would like to know as an outsider, if the road money this year is all going to be expended in the center. Some of our back street are just awful, Bouton's lane, some portions of the turnpike and upper end of Chapel street, also the Wilson's point road. It does seem as though outsiders were entitled to a little attention. But when I go down into the centre and see the force the city have got on the roads this summer, I almost dispair of having much done any where.

I hope you will have no more buildings put up if the city has to dig the cellar. We had Barney and his snails, Dibble leaning on his hoe handle, but they were nothing compared to the twins. How long, Oh Lord, and how much have corporations got to suffer. Men never do their own business Say, commence at the west side of the bank. and run a twelve inch sewer around the corner past Mr. Dibble's, Mr. Hanford's and others that need it so bad, and empty in Pine Island creek. That sewer, of course, would be the one that Adams Bros. would tap, and would carry their dye stuff up where it would certainly do the oyster interest no harm. Then commence at the south side of the Opera House block and run a twelve inch sewer around Lauder's corner, down Washington street, and you have all the sewerage this city wants for a great-many years.

Messrs. Editors of the SENTINEL :- I suppose our present Board of Councilmen feel as though they had weighty responsibilities upon them just now, with the sewer and Brother Boole's new ordinance at once. They ought to feel a little quickened conscience. They can soon settle the ordinance question we massing it and most everybody will be pleased, but the sewer question is a larger job, and it will be a west ut matter to please everybody. All supposed at the city meeting that the councilmen would go right along without any unnecessary delay and build the sewer according to the plan mapped out by Gen. Tayler. It did look feasible as presented by that gentleman, but I think if a large sewer is to be built a

The only objection that comes that is at all serious, comes from the oyster interest.

They complain that if a large trunk sewer empties itself from the foot of Washington outlet and, the oyster is of such a delicate nature that so much filth would certainly injure them to such an extent that they entirely. Our oyster interest is perhaps the argest we have here, and if not injured stands a good chance of being very largely increased, I presume it would be safe to say here. We draw it from all over the country. and it is just so much clear gain. The oysterman can be put on an equal footing with the agriculturist. What he digs out of the other digs out of eath. I don't believe there a thing to injure so vital an interest. Rather sons that are out of the oyster trade that that has been done has been thoughticasly.

The great objection to this plan is, I am afraid, we could not use up that thousand dollars the city voted. Of course, the exnenses of these small sewers would be assesed upon the property along the line except Read this to your Husband.

No woman will love a man the better because he is renowned or prominent. Though he is the first among men, she will be prouder, not fonder; but as is often the ease, she will not be proud even. But give her love, appreciation, kindness, and there is no sacrifice she would not make for his content and comfort. The man who loves her well is her here and her king. No less a here to her though he is not to another; ne less a king, though his only kingdom is heart and home. It is a man's fault if he is unhappy with his wife, nine cases out of ten. It is a very exceptional woman who will not be all she can be to an attentive husband, and a very exceptional one who will not be disagreeable if she finds herself wilfully neg. lected. It would be easy to hate a man who, having bound a woman to him, made no effort to make her happy; hard not to love one who is constant and tender, and when a woman loves she always strives to please. The great men of the world have always been unhappy in their domestic relations, while mean common men have been exceedingly happy. The reason is very plain. Absorbed in themselves, those who desire the world's applause, were caareless to the little world at home. While those who had none of this egotism strove to keep the hearts that were theirs, and were happy.

A working girl said she thought Arizona would be a good place for her. "Yes," we said, "wages are good there, and the prospects of a husband are no doubt better than here in Connecticut." "Oh," said she, "I am not enough forehanded yet to marry, I could not support a husband." What a no-ble array of young men there is wating for that girl to get ready.

Turs standard article is compounded with the greatest care. Its effects are as wonderful and as satisfactory as ever.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color. It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff. It gives the head a cooling, soothing sensation of great comfort, and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties it estores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong. As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable. A. A. Hayes, M. D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully
