Concerning Choir Singers. The New York Mail has been writing up choir and singers, and has the following among other things, about them:

Another old delusion of tenors is that they sing higher than they can. If the voice is capable of reaching a flat, they ought to be able to reach a G.

South Norwalk Sentinel. Wednesday, May 11, 1881. A LAST WORD FOR THE FAIR.

The Fair will be in full blast when the next SENTINEL makes its appearance. In our last issue we gave some account of the preparations made for the enjoyment and attraction of the public. We add a few items of interest to-day.

The Annex is to be made one of the most attractive features of the Fair. The fine art committee will occupy the rear portion, and will display a collection of pictures, oriental curiosities, objects illustrating the times of our forefathers, and all manner of beautiful and curious things—such a collection as has probably never been gathered in this vicinity. They propose also to entertain their guests with music, and they will have on sale paintings, drawings, decorated vases, and other articles suitable to their department.

The floral committee will fill the front portion of the Annex with their exhibition. In addition to the cut flowers already sold on such occasions, there will be plants for sale. All who contemplate having flower gardens should give them a call. They will make their space one of the most beautiful to visitors, with plants, vines, ice cream flowers, birds and flowers.

The home-made committee will have their stand here, also, and will be prepared to dispense to the crowds a drink made from water, sugar, and lemon.

The merchants and manufacturers are contributing liberally. The merchandise committee estimates its collections at about $50,000 in value. A few have not given, but probably will as they become convinced that the project is an assured success. We hope no one will fail to respond, for the Liberator's sake.

Now one word to our readers. Our people have given liberally, it will now be essential that they purchase freely. The goods are in the hands of the Executive Committee, but we must convert them into money. So if you want to see what they have at the Fair, before you purchase. If you want a carriage, a pair of boots, a pair of shoes, a pair of trousers, or some hardware, an apron for the kitchen or parlor, a rug, a table, a pair of ornamental needlework, a package of visiting cards, printed on the spot, for you, buy at the Fair. Buy tickets.

And one other consideration. Some have said "I'll spend money at the Fair. Now if you spend $10 for a barrel of flour, you get back your money, and make no sacrifice for the Liberator, unless it be in the mere matter of advancing the money at one. But if you buy a pair of trousers, and spend the money you must find elsewhere for some thing you don't need, but would of course like to have, then you are doing a good deed for the great object the committee has on hand. Buy necessities, but do not fail to buy luxuries. Eat, drink, smoke, fill your house with objects of art, pretty, attractive, valuable, and you will have your reward when the Trustees find the result so large as to warrant the immediate re-erection of a Library Building.

It is proposed that Malbone break the deadlock by withdrawing his resignation. In that case the republicans should do their part by dropping Graham. They have been fighting for a great principle represented by a small man long enough.

A recent change in postal regulations provides that insufficient paid letters of origin in either the United States or Canada on which a single rate or more of postage has been prepaid are to be forwarded to destination, the receiver to pay the amount due. The department has recently ruled that a printed circular may have an address, date, and name of sender written therein, but nothing else, and to be sent at regular circular postage. Drawings, plans and designs, which were formerly rated as fourth class matter, are subject to letter postage, and manuscript maps are subject to the same rule.

Some news papers are discussing the Chinese treaty, ratified by the Senate last week, as if it were a new thing. It is not a matter of fact it affords no check at all. It simply gives the United States government the power to regulate, limit or suspend the increasing of Chinese laborers, but not to prohibit it altogether. The Government may apply this power whenever the good order or the interests of the country are endangered, or are likely to be endangered, by that immigration. The power is to be applied only in case of illness, not in that of merchants. Legislative cases of Chinese subjects. Legislation to give it effect, however, will be necessary to give it effect. The commercial treaty prohibits the carrying on of the opium trade in American vessels, and extends to Chinese vessels in our ports the same rights and privileges that belong to vessels of other nations. The ratification of these treaties advances the long vexed Chinese question a long way toward a final adjustment. A full text of the treaty will be found in another column.

A new attempt to "reform" the republican party has been inaugurated, this time by a party of Philadelphia gentlemen who have banded themselves together under the name of the "National Republican League." A platform has been adopted which differs in one notable feature from those of the innumerable similar organizations which have gone before it. This feature is the plain recognition of the necessity of a "machine" to party success. The Philadelphia reformers do not propose to abolish the "machine," but simply to put it into the hands of men of superior character. They recognize the folly of expecting a party to succeed without an organization, and they also recognize the necessity of having that organization under charge of somebody, and all they ask is that that somebody is of superior character. The trouble with political reformers generally is that they know little or nothing about practical politics and of necessity blunder. "The Machine" is their bete noir, and nothing short of its immediate and complete abolition will satisfy them. Not being afflicted with this form of insanity this new band of reformers may possibly succeed in accomplishing some good.

Secretary Blain has written a letter to Congressman Russell of Massachusetts setting forth his views of what is necessary as a first step in the attempt to secure a revival of American commerce on the high seas. The removal of local taxation on vessels engaged in foreign trade he considers indispensable, and recommends a reduction of the tax upon their value.

American ships in the foreign trade do not sail under the same conditions with ships of European countries. We place burdens and costs and taxes upon our vessels from which vessels of foreign countries are exempt. In short, we load them down with exactions and oppressions, and then run our eyes and wonder that American ships do not hold their own in the world. There is not a manufacturing interest in New England or any part of the United States that would not be swept out of existence if subjected to the same conditions that for years has opposed American shipping. I believe the government of the United States will speedily remove every tax, restriction and discrimination which by its authority stands in the way of American commerce. To that end I shall assiduously labor.

The New Chinese Treatise. The Senate in executive session Thursday ratified the two important treaties with China that were signed in Peking, Nov. 17, 1880, by Commissioners in behalf of the United States and China. The first treaty permits a restriction of Chinese immigration by the United States, and the second treaty provides for the participation of Chinese and citizens in the opium trade in China. The immigration treaty passed the Senate with four opposing votes, and the commercial treaty by a unanimous vote. The following is the full text.

THE IMMIGRATION TREATY. Article I. In the eighth year of Hsin-fung, Anno Domini 1880, a treaty of peace and friendship was concluded between the United States of America and China, to which were added, in the seventh year of King Anshing, Anno Domini 1880, certain supplementary articles to the advantage of both parties, which supplementary articles were to be perpetually observed and observed.

Article II. The Government of the United States, because of the constantly increasing immigration of Chinese laborers into the territory of the United States, and the embarrassments consequent upon such immigration, now desires to negotiate a modification of the existing treaty, which shall have in direct effect the restriction of their number.

Article III. The Government of the United States, in the eighth year of King Anshing, Anno Domini 1880, appointed a plenipotentiary, and his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China has appointed a plenipotentiary, a member of his Imperial Majesty's Council, and his plenipotentiaries have agreed upon the following articles in modification.

Article IV. The plenipotentiary of the United States, on the part of the United States, and the plenipotentiary of the Emperor of China, on the part of the Emperor of China, have agreed upon the following articles in modification.

Article V. The plenipotentiary of the United States, on the part of the United States, and the plenipotentiary of the Emperor of China, on the part of the Emperor of China, have agreed upon the following articles in modification.

agrees that no other kind or higher rates of tonnage dues or duties for imports or exports on consular trade shall be imposed or levied in the open ports of China upon vessels wholly belonging to citizens of the United States, or upon the produce, manufactures or imports imported in the same from the United States or from any foreign country, or upon the produce, manufactures or imports exported from the same to the United States, or to any foreign country.

In our last week's items, with regard to Messrs. Croft & Knapp securing the services of English hat shapers for their upper shop, we made it, through mistake, to read hat "shaver." He is, however, a genuine English hat "shaper," and, with his family, has taken a house on Spring street.

Brown, Sherwood & Co. are again enlarging their already large and extensive hat manufactory. The extension is for the second floor—twelve by twenty feet, and leaving the first floor undisturbed. It is given expressly for their office, and will give more room in the trimming department. Major Crowe is doing the work.

George Claus, a Danbury hatter, has fallen heir to a small fortune in Germany, and leaves this month to get it. During the fall in the trade the Bethel hatters are making garden, and taking up the arrangements for the first picnic of the season. There's nothing like getting to work early.

Judge Robertson, the nominee for the New York Collectorship, is a cousin of Euton Boss, the hat machine manufacturer. He often visits Danbury, and has many warm friends there.

We are informed that the hatters of Danbury, Bethel, South Norwalk and Bridgeport are going to organize a funeral and society after the plan of those among the Masonic and other secret bodies. The idea is a good one, and would be a great benefit to many hatters' families.

Two men have left Norwalk, to go to the state prison at Concord, Mass., to start on their term of imprisonment. They were members of the Hat Makers' Association of that place, Norwalk, and paid in full the amount of their dues. They were familiar with the duties of the officers of the association, and were well known to the members of the same.

REFORMING OUR FIRST PRINCIPLES. An interesting movement has been made in the town of Danbury, Conn., to reform our first principles. The movement is being carried on by a committee of citizens, who are holding public meetings, and are circulating a petition, signed by a large number of the citizens of the town.

Decorated Day. One day in the day drawn upon by every soldier, sailor and marine should with reverence perpetuate the memory of their dead comrades by gathering together and strewing their graves with flowers.

Board Wanted. A board is wanted for a building on the corner of Spring and Water streets, Danbury, Conn. The board should be of a good quality, and should be able to stand the wear and tear of a large number of people.

Cows For Sale. A number of cows are for sale at a low price. They are of a good quality, and are well adapted for the purpose of a dairy.

Death of a Connecticut Man in Arizona. Mayor Bulkley of Hartford, has received the following letter in regard to the death of a Connecticut man in Arizona.

Dear Sir—A young man, whose residence is in Connecticut, and named either Fury or Melville, died in Bischo, Arizona Territory, on the 10th inst. He was of light complexion, light hair and mustache and delicate features.

The laborers of the gentlemen appointed to edit a paper in the interest of the Liberator, have nearly completed, and the paper may be expected to-morrow. The proof-sheets indicate that the printer's work will be well done, and the editors trust that the paper will be worth the perusal of all into whose hands it may come.

Those visiting the fair will have an opportunity to draw a check which will permit them to visit and go through the Norwalk Iron Works Co.'s building. This alone is inducement enough to go to the fair, as a chance to go through an institution like the Iron Works would be both instructive and interesting.

ROWAYTON. Our Sheetmen are making a point to give the public a good road to Roton Point grove.

Our quiet little village was disturbed on Tuesday by the appearance of a mad dog on the streets.

A book agent made a call in this town a few days since, and sold in one day sixty volumes of Webster's Dictionaries at $6.50 each.

John Row is reported to be doing well, and it is expected that he will fully recover, with the exception a stiff joint.

Robert Point, the Coney Island of South Norwalk, will be the place to spend your leisure this summer. The proprietor has studied the wants of the public and made an abundant supply.

Last Sunday morning we counted twenty-two sailing craft and two steamers all anchored within hailing distance on our river. This fleet belongs to our townsmen, with the exception of one steamer that belongs to Capt. Burbank of New York.

John Row is reported to be doing well, and it is expected that he will fully recover, with the exception a stiff joint.

Some twenty years ago, without solicitation on his part, Secretary Kirkwood received the republican nomination for governor of the young and growing state of Iowa.

He was a rather suspicious young man, and had heard much of the transforming charms of "golden fluid for ladies toilets." One evening his sweetheart laid down her hair, and tossing the yellow mass gracefully over her shoulders, exclaimed:
