Student Union Honors UN Day With Native Dances, Songs, Handicrafts Exhibit

Kennedy Club Schedule, Coffee

Art Frost, program committee chairman and vice president of UConn Students for Kennedy, announced a coffee to be held tomorrow in the HUB immediately following a rally in the little theater starting at 7:30.

The rally will be addressed by Chester Bowles, James Michener, and Bill St. Onge.

The meeting at the Little Theater is open to all students and faculty. According to Mr. Forst, "all interested people are urged to come regardless of party affiliation, voting status, or preference in the election."

The coffee, however, will be limited to members of the Students for Kennedy club and interested faculty.

Mr. Forst commented that since this program had unusually qualified speakers he hoped every interested student would attend.

James Michener, one of America's leading contemporary authors has had five best sellers. His career was highlighted by a Pulitzer prize for "Tales of the South Pacific."

Chester Bowles has been Governor of and congressman from Connecticut. He has served as Ambassador to India and Nepal. He has also been chairman of the 1960 Democratic Party's Platform Committee.

Bill St. Onge has been a judge, state representative, state central committeeman and is now a congressional candidate in the second district.

UC Directs 4-H Tour Of Careers

Fifty-four Connecticut 4-H club members will be afforded a chance to explore career opportunities at a two-day 4-H Career Exploration Tour scheduled for Hartford, Friday and Saturday.

Sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck foundation, the tour is being directed by state 4-H officials from the University of Connecticut and business, professional and industrial leaders in the Hartford area. Headquarters for the tour will be the University of Connecticut's School of Social Work in Hartford.

Each 4-H member will be able to learn about careers in special fields with the aid of persons now working in the field. A member will be able to participate in two selected occupational fields.

Following a get-acquainted period Friday, the 4-H members will spend the rest of the day talking with persons in the career field of their choice. A banquet at the Hartford YMCA will be held in the evening with Joseph P. Dyer, assistant director of the Connecticut State Employment Service, the main speaker. The group will meet at the School of Social Work Saturday morning to discuss the preceding day's visitations.

Persons assisting with the tour will be Ethel deMattia, departmental assistant in the School of Home Economics; Mrs. Marie Helmboldt, home management head, School of Home Economics; Albert I. Mann, assistant dean of the College of Agriculture; John Powers, director of placement; Maurice L. Hill, state 4-H club specialist; and Noreen Ray, associate state 4-H club leader, all of the University of Connecticut; and Dr. Garland Fitzpatrick, guidance program development consultant, State Department of Education.

Others assisting will be Richard Welch, guidance consultant of the East Hartford school system; Mrs. Kathryn Connor, supervisor of professional and clerical services and Joseph Julianelli, Hartford area manager, both with the Connecticut State Employment Service; and Dorothy Drysdale, acting librarian at the Hartford Public Library.

Reds Back Out

United Nations, October 25—(UPI)—The Soviet Union has formally announced that it will refuse to pay its share of the UN appropriation for the Congo. UN Secretary General Hammarskjöld had requested nearly 67,000,000 to cover the first six months of the UN peace mission in the African nation.

By MEL HORN
Campus Heeler

In honor of United Nations Day Monday the HUB presented an exhibition of foreign handicrafts and dancing in the Ballroom.

The handicrafts of more than a dozen nations documented artistic ability of foreigners. Each exhibit was explained to viewers by a student representative of the particular country or region.

The materials for the exhibits were gathered from faculty members and foreign students.

Many of the foreign students dressed in native costumes.

Hand made jewelry from Turkey, sari cloths from Pakistan, wooden shoes from Holland and intricate wood carvings from Lithuania were on display in the Ballroom.

The evening was highlighted by an array of folk songs, folk dances and group singing.

Countries presenting their musical heritage were: Ukraine, South America, Spanish America, Lithuania, Israel and United States.

The Ukrainian Circle performed the Sabre Dance. The South American and Spanish American regions of the world were represented by several songs and dance.

A dance of Lithuanian harvesters, employing precise steps and two long poles over which the dancers hop and jump, was among four dances executed by the Lithuanian Circle.

A Zionist student group danced two Israeli dances and with the audience's participation sang several songs popular in Israel.

Miss Marnie Miller, English Department, sang songs typical of the southern mountain region of the United States. She accompanied herself on the dosmer, an instrument brought from Northern England and Ireland by the early settlers of the southern mountains.

James McKiernan, chairman of the exhibit, hopes that United Nations Day exhibit will become an annual event.

Pay TV

Washington, Oct. 25, 1960—(UPI)—An executive says subscribers to a proposed experimental pay-TV operation would have to spend at least 75 cents a week. Thomas O'Neill, president of RKO General Incorporated, said he is not sure whether there would be a 75 cents rental charge or a minimum. O'Neill also assured the Federal Communications Commission there would be no commercials during the try-out period.

Greenglass Atomic Spy On Parole

The prison gates are about to open for a member of the Rosenberg atomic spy ring. The name: David Greenglass, now serving 15 years for his part in the theft of atomic secrets for Russia, a conspiracy that brought death to his sister and her husband. Washington says Greenglass will get out next month.

Greenglass testified that he gave a description of the atomic bomb to Rosenberg while working as a technical sergeant at the Los Alamos Atomic Research Center in New Mexico in 1945.

The Rosenbergs were convicted of slipping atomic secrets to the Soviet Union and died in the electric chair in 1953.

Greenglass was allowed to plead guilty to the lesser charge of conspiracy and sent to the federal prison at Lewisburg, Penn. He entered prison in July, 1951.

Under the law, his mandatory date for release is May, 1961. But a justice department official said today he will be released November 16 "because of credits for good behavior." He will be on parole until 1965.

R.N.S. RAE, of Bangalore, India, is seen at the Indian display at the United Nations Day observance in the HUB Monday night. Mr. RAE is a graduate student in engineering. The celebration presented displays from a dozen foreign countries. The display from each country was explained to the many interested UConn students by a foreign student. Due to the success of the affair, it is hoped it will become an annual function. (Howland)

Workers Needed By Nixon Group

The University of Connecticut Volunteers for Nixon with the assistance of E. Scott McAllister, the chairman of the state Volunteers for Nixon, are sponsoring a campaign to get out the voters.

All students who are interested in giving up one hour or more of their time a week are urged to help. The drive is being coordinated by Mr. McAllister. Those students interested in assisting are asked to contact Mr. McAllister in his office in room 405 in the School of Business for instructions.

There is a drive this year on the part of both parties to get the voters out. This stems from the fact that we in the United States have the lowest rate of voting of any country. Only about 65% of those eligible to vote do so. Mr. Bain sighted work of this kind as a "valuable educational experience." This type of work he said is instructional to all those interested in working with people.

The Volunteers for Nixon, in conjunction with the state Citizens for Nixon, and the Republican State Central Committee, will be providing cars to take students home to vote. This service is also being offered by the C.I.S.L. and the Students for Kennedy.

Platform Is Released By ISO Seniors

Gary Holten, ISO nominee for Senior Class president, has released the ISO Senior Class Platform.

1 We will organize the class of 1961 alumni while the class is still on campus.

2 We will make the class councils a grounds for discussion and expression of the class' will on Student Senate business so that the president can truly represent class on the Senate floor.

3 We will recommend and support Student Senate action to obtain an itemized breakage fee bill.

4 We will recommend and support Student Senate action to obtain a change in University regulations so that a student under 21 years of age may legally live off-campus.

5 We will support the Company in their attempts to obtain needed facilities. We will also urge them to avail themselves of their opportunities for representation in student government.

Gary Holten said, "This platform is both realistic and practical."

"I am especially interested in the fifth plank concerning the Commuters. They deserve many facilities at the University which are not now available to them and we will devote our efforts to provide those for them."

Engineers To Select Their First Queen

Ray Coniff To Appear Next Week

Ray Coniff "Concert In Stereo" will be making his first personal appearance at the UConn Auditorium Monday, October 31, at 8:15 p.m. Tickets are now on sale at the Auditorium ticket office and at the control desk in the Student Union. The tickets are unreserved for one dollar.

Coniff is presenting the first live stereo concert ever to take place in this area. The complete orchestra and chorus will feature a two-hour show in stereo. With the aid of an elaborate system of amplifiers, speakers, and a reverberation unit worth over thirty thousand dollars Coniff's first appearance here on campus should induce enthusiasm into the student body.

Musical Family

This is not the beginning of Coniff's career. Born in Massachusetts in 1916 into a musical family, his father, leader of the Jewelry City Band and his mother a pianist, Ray had his first professional job of importance as the arranger-trombonist in the Buny Berrigan band. From here he was hired by Bob Crosby for the "Bobcats" and then joined the organization of Artie Shaw. Before entering the Army, Ray worked with the Glenn Gray orchestra and with Harry James when he got out in 1946.

In the 1950's Ray got his big break when Mitch Miller of Columbia Records signed him. From here on Ray backed many popular recording stars and he was on the way to the top.

Today some of his best known albums are: "Wonderful, Concert in Rhythm Vol 1 and 2, and It's the Talk of the Town."

Now students at the University of Connecticut have a chance to hear this leading orchestra and chorus of Ray Coniff.

NAB Cautioned Avoid Gov't Rule

Page 1 — For Tom Lynch .. Denver, Oct. 24 — (UPI) — Broadcasters were advised by an official of the Industry today that they must "remain free and unfettered by Government control" to continue to operate in the public's interest.

In an address to the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB) fall conference at the Denver Hilton Hotel, Howard N. Bell, NAB Vice President for industry affairs, said the broadcasters must widen their contacts and "mutual understanding" among public officials at all levels.

"The additional contacts you establish, the mutual understanding which flows from public officials and broadcasters knowing each other better," Bell said, "are the essential ingredients of a formula for improved government relations and for the preservation of our freedom."

Another speaker, Vincent T. Wasilowski, vice president for national affairs of the NAB, reviewed governmental activities of the NAB since a year ago, and said: "In my considered judgment, the legislation which resulted from this Congress is 95 per cent acceptable, or even desirable."

Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, president-elect of the NAB, told the group in a message today that, "the greatness of the broadcasting industry and of America are inseparable."

Their statements came during the afternoon session of the conference. Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the conference, Merrill Lindsay, a member of the NAB policy committee, said recent actions of the federal government were aimed in the direction of relaxing too rigid controls, but warned they increased the responsibilities of the individual broadcasters.

Any Engineering Student May Nominate Candidates

The School of Engineering will select an Engineering Queen for the first time this year. This queen will be crowned at the engineer's dance in the spring.

Any engineer can nominate a candidate by securing a picture of anyone they wish to nominate and sending it to Connecticut Engineers, the engineers student publication.

Besides this way of nomination, there will also be a selection committee composed of Joseph Bittner, Donald Sericelli, Paul Louis, Peter Chenusky and Don Remine who will choose nominees.

This committee will select nominees by going around campus and interviewing various girls. They will take the name and campus address of any girl they choose and will then send a photographer to take her picture.

Pictures of all candidates will then be sent to the staff of the Connecticut Engineer who will choose eight semi-finalists.

This publication, which is published twice a year, once in December and again in February, will contain the picture of the eight semi-finalists chosen by the staff. Four of the semi-finalists will be pictured in each issue.

After these semi-finalists have been selected, there will be a coffee at which time the faculty members will select the queen.

The queen, who will be crowned this spring at the engineers' dance, will also be eligible then for the Community Chest Carnival's Queen of Queens.

Commuters Locker Poll Progressing

The Commuters' Locker Survey, sponsored by the UConn Commuters' Organization for the purpose of determining proper locker facilities for students living off campus, has been running almost a week now and is showing a very good response.

For the convenience of those who have not yet filled out the Survey sheet, which will also act as a locker application, forms are still available at the Information Desk of Administration and the Control Desk in the HUB. Please cooperate as soon as possible in order to obtain locker facilities in the near future.

Survey Questions Applications will also be distributed at today's meeting of the Commuters' Organization in HUB 207 at noon. The survey includes such questions as, "For what purpose would you use your locker?" It also welcomes comments from students on the proposed plan for a centrally located Commuters' Lounge.

At the meeting today, leaders of the Student Senate, the USA and the ISO will briefly explain opportunities for participation in student government on campus. It is hoped that this will serve to encourage greater participation by commuters in the coming class elections.

Other business to be covered will be the acceptance of reservations for the dinner party and jam session to be held at the Red Apple, Saturday, October 29. These reservations will not be accepted after October 27.

Commuting women will also receive free gifts through the courtesy of the Marketing Club. Distribution of these will be in the HUB lobby today between 12 and 3 p.m. as well.

Commuting women are also urged to submit their names as candidates for the ROTC Co-ed Colonel. Further information can be obtained from the HUB Bulletin board.

Cuba Seizes

What little was left of U.S. property in Cuba was taken over by Fidel Castro today.

One-hundred-66 firms were confiscated, bringing the last of an estimated $1,125,000,000 worth of U.S. assets under government control. For the first time, the seizures directly involved the U.S. government.

The Nicaraguan Mining complex headed the list of confiscated companies. A government decree signed by Castro said the action was in reprisal for the recent U.S. embargo on exports to Cuba.

After the government nickel plant the biggest firm seized was the F. W. Woolworth Co., with 11 branches valued at $16,000,000. The total value of the new companies seized was estimated at $200,000,000.

One businessman remarked: "Ten days ago Castro killed capitalism with the seizure of 282 firms and today he has given it the coupe de grace."

PR Initiate; Seek Coed Sponsorship

Thursday marked the official start of pledging into the Pershing Rifles for 1960 when 125 Army and Air Force cadets were initiated into pledging company F-12 of the Pershing Rifles. The pledging date will continue for seven weeks, ending December 1.

The Pershing Rifles are sponsoring a drive again this year for Company F-12 sponsor. All women interested in competing for sponsorship, should notify Bill Curtin in Hartford Hall before October 30.

Five Finalists

Early in November, there will be an informal coffee held at Chi Phi, at which time five finalists will be selected. These five finalists will be presented to the company on the following Wednesday night, when the brothers will vote for their choice for Company Sponsor, 1960-61. On December 2, the five finalists will be expected to attend the Honor Ball. The coed Sponsor will be announced at this time.

Saber Guard

The Coed Sponsor 1959-60 for Company F-12, Miss Jackie Delhaie, was chosen to represent New England in the National contest, by the 12th Regiment.

At Homecoming twenty of the Pershing Rifle pledges received some experience of show. Sixteen of the twenty were presented in the Saber Guard, drilled by 1st Lt. William Curtin and commanded on the field by 2nd Lt. James Waddington. The remaining four Pershing Rifle pledges acted as escorts for the Homecoming Court.

Mobutu Warned

The United Nations appears to have taken a tougher stand in the Congo.

UN Troops are reported to have taken up positions along the Leopoldville-Thysville highway to prevent an armed brigade of Congolese troops from moving into Leopoldville. Informal sources say the UN forces are armed with anti-tank guns and other heavy equipment.

The UN special military adviser warned Colonel Mobutu, the Congo strongman, not to try to bring his Congolese troops into the capital.

The Mobutu information office issued a statement which says the UN elements are planning to disarm the Congolese Army . . . seize the national radio station, impose a government of their choice by force and reconvene parliament.

The Mobutu statement said the moves against his regime are being readied by certain Afro-Asian nations. The statement specifically named Ghana, Guinea and Morocco.

International House

International House will show an Indian and a Dutch film tonight at 8 in HUB 101. Everyone is invited. Admission is free.

UPI Briefs

King Sentenced

Atlanta, October 25, 1960—(UPI)—A county judge in Atlanta has sentenced integration leader Martin Luther King to a four-month term at a public works camp. King drew the sentence today for violating terms of a suspended sentence he received on a minor traffic charge. King is expected to appeal the sentence which grew out of his arrest last week in connection with an Atlanta sit-in demonstration.

U.S. Denies Charges

Washington, Oct. 25, 1960—(UPI)—The U. S. says today's action by the Cuban government of seizing 166 more U.S. firms was taken to further the purposes of international Communism. The State Department also said it deeply regretted that the people of Cuba will suffer economic hardships resulting from the establishment of a Communist regime. And the department denied Cuban charges that the U.S. was involved in an alleged plot to invade Nicaragua from Cuba.

Illinois, Oct. 25, 1960—(UPI)—Senator Kennedy is rushing through rigorous day of campaigning in Illinois, with 20 speeches scheduled. He told his audiences that Vice President Nixon has created what Kennedy called a "political bogeyman" to defeat federal aid to education. The Democratic nominee urged voters to decide whether they want to be comfortable or concerned.

Havana, October 25, 1960—(UPI)—The government of Cuba has grabbed 166 more American firms today in retaliation for the U.S. economic embargo against Cuba. The total value of the seized property was estimated at $300,000,000. The seizures included the $100,000,000 U. S. government-owned Nicaro Nickel Mines.

Political Bogeyman

Kennedy said Nixon was misleading the people by creating what Kennedy called "a political bogeyman" to defeat federal aid to education. He said Nixon's explanation for voting against the education bill was that he feared federal control. Kennedy said the federal government has been providing federal aid to education for years without having anyone complain that federal control resulted.

Fairfield Poll

Fairfield, Oct. 25 —(UPI)—The students and faculty at Fairfield University favor Senator John Kennedy as the next President of the United States.

A vote taken among the students resulted in 573 voting for the Democratic presidential hopeful and 266 for Vice President Richard Nixon. The faculty voted 31 to seven in favor of John Kennedy.

In 1956, the school favored the Republicans and President Eisenhower by a similar margin.

Insurance Program Subject Of Debate

The Debate Council will hold its weekly debate meeting on tomorrow night at 7:00 in HUB 207. The meeting will consist of the second practice debate of the semester.

Four students will again be debating the merits of adopting a program of compulsory health insurance for all citizens. The participating students are: Michael Ambrose, Robert Beldon, Michael Mitias, and Richard Wallace.

Critique to Follow
Following the debate, a critique will be held, analyzing the arguments used and discussing the use of the techniques and principles of debating.

An open discussion will also be held so that the members of the Debate Council will be able to question the students participating in the practice debate. Suggestions and comments from the floor will allow an opportunity to consider alternative ideas and arguments to the issues discussed.

The Debate Council again extends an open invitation to any students interested in debate activities. These practice debates serve as a demonstration of the activities conducted by the council. Anyone interested in listening to these debates for the purpose of learning how a debate is conducted is cordially invited.

Debate Meets
The Debate Council has accepted an invitation to debate with Fairfield University at Fairfield, Connecticut in November. Later in the year, Fairfield University will send debaters to the UConn campus for a return debate.

In addition to the trip planned for the inter-collegiate debate tournament at Central Connecticut State College next month, the Debate Council is also making plans to attend a debate tournament at Trinity College in December.

Philip Morris Appointment

Joel Richard Berman has been appointed campus business representative for Philip Morris Inc.

As part of its Work Scholarship program, the company has appointed him for the full academic year as liaison between the campus and the New York City Philip Morris offices.

He will develop and work on advertising and promotion projects for the King Size Commander, Philip Morris, Parliament, Marlboro and Alpine brands.

This appointment is part of the company's financial assistance to undergraduates.

New Loop For Uconn

Playing The Field

By DAVE SCHANCUPT

After Uconn's defeat of Boston University on Saturday, and considering the rather lopsided scores by which the Huskies have continued their dominance over Yankee Conference football this year, a recent proposal was brought to my mind in a discussion with members of the Boston University News Sports department. In this writer's opinion, the proposal has a good deal of merit, so I introduce it here.

The specifics include formation of a new football conference in New England, to consist of the major independent teams and Uconn. As of the moment, under consideration are Boston University, Boston College, and Holy Cross as the other three teams. Included in the plan is the suggestion that Uconn should withdraw from the Yankee Conference in football, and play a predominantly "major" schedule.

As far as Yankee Conference participation is concerned, when the Conference was originally formed in 1947 consisting of the six New England State Universities, five of the teams were considered "small college" and relatively obscure in football circles. Uconn was the only team that had been recognized throughout the East and most of the country. The Huskies had had the nation's leading scorer in 1945 in Walt Trojanowsky, and had played many key regional teams with much success.

At the time of formation of the Conference, there was a great deal of argument on the merits of Connecticut's becoming a member. Many felt that the strict conference eligibility rules and the limitations placed on school support of athletes would result in many athletes from Connecticut high schools going elsewhere than to Uconn.

Presently this issue is no longer important since the NCAA and ECAC, both of which contain Uconn as a member, have similar rules for most colleges around the country. But a major objection was the limitation it placed on scheduling and the class of competition.

Since 1947, Uconn has won the YankCon title six of 13 times, and has finished second three times. In the past 18 games, they have not lost once and have played two ties. Nor are the prospects very good that the Huskies will lose possession of the Beanpot for quite some time to come. Uconn has been making great strides toward "big-time" football, and if they ever arrive there it would be folly to even compete in Yankee Conference play.

GREAT STRIDE FORWARD

The inception of a new conference in New England, as was outlined earlier, would be a great step forward in moving Uconn toward "major" football status. The athletic department has already taken steps in this direction by adding Holy Cross to the schedule for this year, leaving only Boston College, out of the possible teams for this league, to be added to the slate.

By dropping Buffalo, a game which this year could be an indication of relative Uconn strength against a strong "small-college" team, or expanding to a 10-game schedule as we played in 1957 and 1958, Uconn could find room for that one extra "major" opponent. (To be considered "major", a team must play at least one half its games against "major" opposition for two successive years).

UConn YC Future

But what of the future of Uconn in the Yankee Conference? If the Freshman team can offer an indication, they have defeated the Bridgeport freshmen 36-0, and the Rhode Island frosh 30-0. The freshman line is big and strong, and the backfield shows a great deal of promise. With those men on the squad next year, and with this year's sophomores having two years left, Uconn should remain as undisputed conference kingpins for many years to come.

Many argue that it is better to be a "big fish in a small pond" than vice-versa. In some instances this might be true, but in the world of intercollegiate sports this is not the case. By competing in the Yankee Conference, Uconn is not looked upon with the respect due them, and must win the "major" games by a larger score than otherwise to overcome this respect deficit. Conference competition also makes it difficult to schedule "major" teams, since preference in date selection must go to conference opponents, and only left-over dates may be offered to other schools.

At the time of its inception, the Yankee Conference had been a proposal of President Jorgenson and many of the athletic department brass. But it is high time that these people re-evaluate Uconn's position with respect to the "major" college schedule it hopes to achieve in the near future.

It is also time that these men seriously consider the formation of a new conference as has been proposed, either for exclusive competition or for simultaneous play with the Conference schedule we now play. Only by taking these steps forward can Uconn achieve the status it rightfully deserves among eastern colleges, and insure its recognition as a "major" team.

PROGRESS, NOT REGRESS

As someone, (not the Greek Orestes), once said, "nothing ventured, nothing gained". This is the situation. Until Uconn goes after the recognition it deserves, it cannot expect to make great strides forward on the field of play. Let us not let Uconn become bogged down in mediocrity, but rather let us accept the challenge of a major football schedule and a conference which can adequately test the relative merits of good football teams.

The Sports Department of the Daily Campus is most anxious to hear the opinions of the Student Body on this proposal, and worthwhile letters concerning this topic will be printed in the Campus. This is an opportunity for student evaluation of the Yankee Conference, and a proposal for a "major" conference being established with Uconn as a member.

OOMPH — Hard tackling Tony Magaletta brings down a Terrier. This is the kind of tackling that puts us out of the Yankee Conference. Uconn's surprise defeat of BU was just a teaser, now if the Huskies can only beat Holy Cross and Buffalo they may be on the way to breaking out of the shackles of Yankee Conference football. The Uconn team put on a good performance against Yale even though they lost; but Rutgers was another story. Their team wasn't impressive but even Syracuse has off days. Are the Uconn ready? The Holy Cross and Buffalo games will tell. (Campus Photo-Curran)

Post - Season
Baseball Roundup

The New York Yankees called two news conferences. In the first one Stengel calmly told newsmen:

"I was told that my services will not be desired any longer."

The 70-year-old manager was obviously upset by it all. He said he doesn't have any plans in baseball for the present time.

Casey never one for lacking words came right to the point.

He said that the Yankee owners were in agreement that there should be an age limit.

And he added "I'll tell you this, Mrs. Stengel thinks I'm a very good manager."

Second Conference

Two days later the Yankees held their second news conference and announced what had been expected, that Ralph Houk as the new manager.

Houk a one-time catcher with the Yankees, signed a one-year contract. He has been a coach for Stengel for the past three years.

He has piloted Denver of the American Association finishing third once and second twice.

Make Decisions

Houk said that he intends to make the decisions and that the responsibility will be his.

Casey had broken into organized baseball as an outfielder in 1910. He played for Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, the New York Giants and Boston Braves.

Later he managed the Dodgers and Braves before taking over the Yankees in 1949.

In 12 years as Yankee pilot, Stengel won 10 American League pennants and seven World Championships.

Dewitt Resigned

Another veteran baseball man bowed out last week.

Bill DeWitt resigned as president and general manager of the Detroit Tigers. DeWitt had been a controversial figure with Detroit. Late this past season he made the sensational managerial swap with Cleveland.

Jimmy Dykes went to the Indians and Joe Gordon became Tiger manager, but he quit at the end of the season.

Both Dykes and Gordon accused DeWitt of front office meddling in the ball club.

New Franchise

Baseball took a big step forward with the announcement that franchises had been granted to New York and Houston.

National League owners met in Chicago last Monday and voted the two new franchises for 1962.

Only a few problems have to be straightened out and National League President Warren Giles said he didn't expect any trouble.

Houston must "clear" the area by paying indemnities to the American Association and its club there.

Gabe Paul

Baseball executive Gabe Paul is switching from the Cincinnati Reds to the new Houston Club in the National League.

Houston was granted a franchise last week along with New York, and will begin operating in 1962.

Paul resigned as vice president and general manager of the Reds to sign a three-year contract as general manager at Houston.

George Kirksey, executive secretary of the Houston club, said the hiring of Paul was the first of several contemplated moves to build a strong major league organization. He said Paul will fly to Houston late this week and take over his new duties as soon as possible.

Paul has spent 39 years in baseball, filling every job from bat boy to chief executive.

He was associated with Warren Giles, now president of the National League at Rochester and later at Cincinnati.

When Giles became National League president in 1951, Paul succeeded him as general manager of the Reds.

Parker's Pen

By NED PARKER

The Yankee Conference is shaping up much as expected with Uconn assuming its usual dominance over the rest of the teams.

This brings to mind the point brought up in Dave Schanupp's column on the other side of the page. That is of forming a new New England conference based around Uconn and the New England Independents such as Boston University, Boston College, and Holy Cross Perhaps up and coming conference teams like Uconn could be added as they became stronger.

This is an interesting idea but is Uconn really ready to move out of the Yankee Conference? True Uconn has had an easy time with YanCon foes so far this year but they meet a determined New Hampshire quad this weekend. Last year it was this team that almost ended the Uconn winning streak in conference games when they fought the strong Huskies all the way finally losing by one point.

It was the New Hampshire passing attack that almost upset the Huskies but the improved Uconn pass defense should end all attempts in that direction this year. Not to be too optimistic the Wildcats could be surprising but we expect the Huskies to repeat their performance in the Umass and Maine games.

Certainly the Uconn eleven defeated Boston University but they still have two rough games left in Buffalo and Holy Cross. The Buffalo game will give us an indication of what the Huskies can do against one of the strong small college teams and the Holy Cross game will be just plain rugged.

Earlier this season Boston University downed Holy Cross so they will be trying to knock off Uconn to avenge this defeat. Holy Cross has a powerful team this year in spite of this defeat at the hands of BU. They held strong Syracuse scoreless until the last play of the third quarter. Of course Syracuse was looking ahead to the Penn State game the following week but still Holy Cross caught them off guard with more power than was expected.

The outcome of these two games may well put a new light into the present Yankee Conference situation for if Uconn should lose, all hopes for a new conference will be gone, at least for the moment. On the other hand wins would tend to back up the position of proponents of the new conference.

The sports department would like to hear the views of the student body on this proposal and in order to accomplish this we are inaugurating "Letters to the Sports Editor"

Especially welcome are constructive criticisms of the sports page and suggestions for improvement.

A FRAT TO REMEMBER

Every year, as we all know, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Collegiate Fraternities awards a highly coveted prize to the fraternity house which, in its judgment, has done the most to promote and enhance the fraternity way of life. The prize this year—eight hundred pounds of white putty—goes to the Sigma Phi Nothing chapter of the South Dakota College of Dentistry and Renaissance Art.

The award this year is exceptionally richly deserved, for the Sigma Phi Nothing house is the very model of all a fraternity should be. It is, first of all, a most attractive house physically. The outside walls are tastefully covered with sequins. Running along the upper story is a widow's walk, with a widow stationed every three feet. Moored to the chimney pot is the Graf Zeppelin.

Indoors, the house gives an impression of simple, casual charm. The chapter room is furnished in honey maple and chintz, with a dash of verve provided by a carp pool three hundred feet in diameter. A waterspout rises from the center of the pool with the housemother bouncing on the top.

Members' rooms are gracious and airy and are provided with beds which disappear into the wall—permanently. Each room also has a desk, a comfortable chair, a good reading lamp, and a catapult for skeetshooting. Kidney-shaped desks are available for kidney-shaped members.

Perhaps the most fetching feature of the house are the packs of Marlboros stacked in heaps wherever one goes. If one wishes to settle back and enjoy a full-flavored smoke, one needs only to reach out one's hand in any direction and pick a pack of Marlboros—soft pack or flip-top box—and make one's self comfortable with a filtered cigarette with an unfiltered taste—that triumph of the tobaccoist's art, that paragon of smokes, that acme of cigarettes, that employer of mine—Marlboro!

The decor, the grace, the Marlboros, all combine to make Sigma Phi Nothing a real gas of a fraternity. But a fraternity is more than things; it is also people. And it is in the people department that Sigma Phi Nothing really shines.

Sigma Phi Nothing has among its members the biggest BMOCs on the entire campus of the South Dakota College of Dentistry and Renaissance Art. There is, for instance, William Makepeace Sigfoos, charcoal and bun chairman of the annual Stamp Club outing. Then there is Don Rarin, winner of last year's All-South Dakota State Monopoly Championship, 135 Pound Class. Then there is Rock Schwartz, who can sleep standing up. Then there is Tremblant Placebo, who can crack pecans in his armpits. Then there is Ralph Tungsten, who went bald at eight.

But why go on? You can see what a splendid bunch of chaps there is in Sigma Phi Nothing, and when one sees them at the house in the cool of the evening, all busy with their tasks—some picking locks, some playing Jacks-or-Better, some clipping Playboy—one's heart fills up and one's eyes grow misty, and one cannot but give three cheers and a tiger for Sigma Phi Nothing, fraternity of the year!

And while you're cheering, how about a huzzah for the newest member of the Marlboro family of fine cigarettes—unfiltered, mild, delightful Philip Morris king-size Commander! Have a Commander—welcome aboard!

Ohio University '59GARY WOERNER
Newark College of Engineering '59

Not all sure of the area of engineering (development, design, test, manufacturing) which would interest him most, Jim has been most impressed by the way Kearfott Project Engineers STAY WITH A PROJECT from study phase right through to production, assuming full technical and financial responsibility for the quality and reliability (price-wise) of the finished hardware. He finds that this Kearfott philosophy enables him to operate across the broad spectrum of engineering... Coming from out-of-town, Jim was also pleasantly surprised by the wide choice of living quarters readily available.

The very advanced nature of many Kearfott projects fired this engineer's imagination. He joined the Electronics Systems Lab, where he worked on the development of a tiny counter—part of what is believed to be the most accurate test equipment yet devised for missile guidance systems. After exposure to the diversity of the projects in the Systems Lab, Stan has decided to look no further, but requested permanent assignment here, where work ranges over space navigation, digital computers, guidance systems, solid state physics, industrial automation systems and diverse electronic systems.

Len is pleased with his six months' experience at Kearfott on two widely different counts. First is the combination of both theoretical and practical knowledge he has gained in a field that has fascinated him for a long time—transistor applications. The other is Kearfott's location. Finding midtown New York only 40 minutes away by car, Len, a veteran, is planning to continue his studies for an MS at one of the many colleges in the New York/New Jersey area: Columbia, N.Y.U., Stevens, Newark College of Engineering are all close by. This semester, Len has enrolled for two Kearfott sponsored courses taught at the plant.

Gary has worked by choice in two laboratories since he joined Kearfott last June—Astronautics and Electronics. He values the opportunity he had to work in direct contact with senior engineers and scientists who have played a leading role in developing the Kearfott inertial systems and components which have been selected for application in over 80 aircraft and 16 major missile systems. Gary now leans to the choice of a permanent assignment in the Electronics Lab but has decided to work a few months in the advanced Gyrodynamics Division, before coming to a decision.

Opportunities
are expanding

Long occupying a unique position in the fields of electronics and electro-mechanical components and precision instrumentation, Kearfott—in recent years—has moved more and more into the development of complete systems. This has led to major staff expansion at all levels, including a sizable number of positions for recent graduates in all 4 major company units:

The Systems Division
The Gyrodynamics Division
The Electro-Mechanical Division
The Precision Component Division

Through its flexible TRAINING PROGRAM, Kearfott offers young engineers freedom to explore the field, before selecting the broad area best fulfilling individual interests.

Remarkable rapid professional advancement is possible—and likely—through the PROMOTION BY MERIT POLICY. For detailed information, see the Kearfott representative on campus.
