Bonitati Protests Budget Slashes, Monetary Policy

Freshman Weekend Funds Cut By Finance Committee

Robert Bonitati, freshman class president, in referring to the Freshman Weekend budget which has recently been cut, has called the move "entirely the fault of the Finance Committee." He went on to say that "they seem to think the seniors should be able to spend more money, as they saw fit to recommend $4,000 to the senior class. Some allotment should be made for the freshmen who pay $6 a year, a total of $9,000." He mentioned that the freshmen have shown much enthusiasm, as evidenced by the large attendance at Council meetings.

According to Bonitati a budget for $2,300 had first been made and was slashed to $1,000. At the last meeting of the Senate Finance Committee the weekend was completely eliminated and the freshmen were granted $32 for the purpose of printing a newsletter.

In a statement to the Daily Campus George Coates, chairman of the Finance Committee, mentioned that the committee "feels that a weekend at this time of year, regardless of freshman, sophomore or junior class will not be successful because of the keen competition and expense of many sorority and fraternity weekends. We have lost a great deal of money trying to compete in this area and feel it unwise to recommend or underwrite class weekends in the future."

Coates added that the freshman class "can carry on activities without a great deal of money. A $32 appropriation would be made so that the freshmen could communicate by means of a newsletter, which would be a worthwhile expense."

The situation will be discussed at a meeting of the Freshman Council today at 4 p.m. in the HUB United Nations Room.

HUB Activities Announced By Recreation Committee

The HUB Recreation Committee is sponsoring a series of six dance lessons by Miss Pat McCaffery. She has worked with Dale Dance Studios and will give instruction in the Foxtrot, Waltz, Lindy and Cha-Cha, and other dances. The six lessons at the HUB Ballroom begin tonight at 7:30 and will continue until March 20. The charge for the six weeks is $1.00.

Fishermen should take notice of the series of Fly Tying instructions starting tomorrow and running for six weeks. No equipment or basic knowledge is necessary. Interested students are requested to sign up immediately at the HUB Control desk, since there is only room for a limited number. Classes will be divided into beginner and advanced sessions, the former meeting at 7:00 to 8:30 and the latter from 8:30 to 10:00. This series will also be $1.00.

Photography-minded students are reminded that Friday will be the last time to sign up for the Lens and Camera Club. Those who have had some developing experience will be checked by the committee to make certain that they are qualified to use the equipment. Those with no experience are welcome to enroll in a four week instruction series.

On Monday, February 18, Husky basketball coach Hugh Greer will show films of some of the team's activities this year. The highlight of the evening will be films of the Orange Bowl Tournament. The coach will give a running commentary with the films and will answer any questions from the audience. The program starts at 8:00.

On Wednesday, February 20, the HUB Recreation Committee will sponsor the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament. There is an entrance fee of $5.00 per person for the contest, which will be held in Room 207. The deadline for signing up is Wednesday, February 13.

Trophy For Blood Donations

Philip Kaplan (center) awards a trophy for the highest percentage of blood donations from a living unit, to Dominic Cavaliere, the president of the winning house, Sigma Chi. Kaplan and Audrey Delaney (left) are Co-chairmen of the annual Red Cross Bloodmobile drive. The Bloodmobile this year will be on campus Tuesday and Wednesday, March 5 and 6. Students interested in contributing should get in touch with their house chairman. (Campus photo—Goldberg)

Angel Flight Elect New Head; Sets Plans For New Semester

BY DORENE MELENDY
Daily Campus Staff Writer

At their meeting last Thursday evening the members of the Angel Flight elected Elaine Carol Leary, Kappa Alpha Theta, to fill the office of Flight Leader. This office is comparable to that of president in a non-military organization and was left vacant by the resignation of Edna Shipka, 2-C. Janet Nelson, also of Kappa Alpha Theta was elected to the office of Adjutant Recorder. This position accords the rank of 2nd Lieutenant had been held previously by Cadet Major Leary.

Comprehensive Exams Seen As Unnecessary

BY RUTH HUSAR
Daily Campus Staff Writer

At the present time the deans of the schools in the University of Connecticut do not believe that the system of comprehensive examinations is necessary. According to John Flahive, president of the Student Senate, the individual deans felt that there was no pressing need for this type of examination. The majority of those people questioned stated that the system of examination now in effect fulfills the needs and requirements of their respective departments.

IFC Panhellenic Will Hold Dance At Hartford Club

The Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council is sponsoring a dance to be held on March 1 at the Hartford Club. The music will be provided by Bob Kay's orchestra, featuring a female vocalist and an orchestral quartet.

A king and queen will be selected for the "Greek Letter Dance." The sororities will be asked to nominate someone for king and each fraternity will nominate a candidate for queen. There will be a limited number of tickets available for the dance. Carl Larabee, Chi Phi, is chairman from IFC, and Joan Miller, Delta Zeta, is chairman from Panhellenic.

Class Ring Sale Scheduled Today

Class rings for juniors and seniors will be on sale today from 2 to 5 p.m. in the HUB Lobby. Joe Cranwell the representative from the Dieges and Clust Company will be on hand to assure each ring a proper fit.

Students who have not picked up their rings from previous sales can get them at today's sale.

Tested Seniors

Until 1950 the University employed comprehensive examinations as a means of testing the knowledge of all seniors. After that time the matter was left to the discretion of the individual deans. This practice could be instituted again at any time if the University Senate voted to adopt it.

The Steering Committee of the Student Senate had investigated the matter and sent a letter to Provost Waugh declaring that "The Senate planned to propose a recommendation to the Senate concerning comprehensive examinations for all seniors in their major fields of study."

Concerns Educators

Provost Waugh stated that the problem seems to be primarily one concerning the educational program of the institution and to have little direct bearing on student self-government.

A system of comprehensive examinations was instituted in 1930. It was effective for students who entered the institution that fall and the college catalogue used to carry a statement which ran, "Beginning with the class of 1934 a general examination must be passed by each student in his field of major and closely related work before a degree is awarded."

TOMMORROW'S CAMPUS

The full story on Winter Weekend will appear in tomorrow's Daily Campus. A complete schedule of events plus a complete list of participating candidates will appear.

The Angel Flight plans for the spring semester are to include a possible field trip to a nearby air force base, a coffee for members of the advanced AFROTC unit, and marching with the Uconn Air Force detachment on Armed Forces day in Hartford. The group also plans participation in Military Day here on campus and the Military Ball.

Recently acquired new military uniforms will be worn by members of Angel Flight for drill, meetings and participation in all military events. The uniforms include Air Force blue skirts and sweaters, capes of the same blue lined with white satin, regulation WAFS overseas caps and tailored white gloves.

Gave Coffee

During last November the Angel Flight gave a coffee for the Air Force commissioned officers and their wives. Members of the faculty and administrative personnel attended the coffee as well as representatives from the Arnold Air Society. In addition, the Flight organized a Christmas party for the children of all Air Force officers on campus.

At present there are thirteen members in the Angel Flight. These girls drill every Thursday from 7-8 p.m. under the direction of Master Sgt. James A. Campelle.

A WAF recruiting program will be held on campus from Monday, February 18, through Friday, March 1. Women students interested in procuring additional information are asked to contact recruiting chairman Lynne Pennick, Delta Zeta, as soon as possible.

Cadets Can Buy Ball Tickets Now

ROTC students who wish to be sure of obtaining a ticket to the Military Ball in the auditorium on March 9, should pick them up this week at the Air Force Detachment building or in the Army hangar. The advance sale of tickets to ROTC cadets lasts only until Friday and the price per couple is $3.50.

Richard Malby's orchestra will be the featured group at the dance. Vocalist for Malby is Miss Frankie Crockett, who was Miss Florida of 1955.

Flahive Disputes Rumor Of Senate Bankruptcy

Judiciary Board Suspends Fraternity On Rush Charge

Last night the FRATERNITY JUDICIARY BOARD handed down a decision of guilty as charged against the Kappa Psi fraternity for violating IFC rush rules in the Board's first case since it was initiated by the Inter-fraternity Council last fall.

The decision of the Board was unanimous and called for a one hundred dollar fine, and a suspension of all rushing, pledging, and initiations by Kappa Psi from Feb. 18th through April 25th.

This charge of illegal rushing was presented against Kappa Psi by two other fraternities, who claimed that the house held a rush party on the night of the IFC Freshman Smoker last week.

The complainants said that they saw men at the rush party who they knew were freshmen and that was why the complaint was registered with the Judiciary Board.

A main point brought into the case was a quote from the IFC

Rushing Rules which states, "No freshman shall be admitted to fraternity houses before freshman tapping except at times authorized by the IFC. These dates (Sept. 27, Nov. 1, and Nov. 22, 1956) are the only dates until Feb. 11th that the freshmen will be allowed into fraternity houses."

One of the five judges on the Board withdrew from the case at the start of the hearing since he is from one of the houses that made the complaint. Commenting on his action, he said, "I eliminated myself from the Board for this particular occasion because it would be fairer to all concerned if I did not act as a judge. I think that no judge on the Board should be prejudiced in any way, which might be the case in my position."

The hearing followed a procedure established by the Board. First the complainants were heard from and then those who witnessed the charge were called in.

$5,000 More Than Estimated Finance Committee In Error

BY KENT McKAMY
Daily Campus Staff Writer

In a statement to the Daily Campus yesterday, Student Senate president, John Flahive stated that contrary to rumor, the Senate is "far from bankrupt." Instead of the previously estimated figure of $46,000 dollars, the Senate has closer to $51,000 at its disposal.

The Finance Committee of the Student Senate, under the chairmanship of George Coates, made the error in estimating the funds available to the Senate, but President Flahive, after a meeting with the central treasurer, found that the Senate's working funds were some 5,000 dollars more than had previously been reported.

Flahive stated that the figures break down as follows: the estimated incomes from the Daily Campus, Nutmeg, and WHUS total close to $18,735. The funds available from the fall semester are $12,994.48. This amount is made up of three figures: as of February 1, 1957, the Senate had $9,707.50 in their checking account, $423 from deposits in transit, and accounts receivable from the fall semester's activities fee totaling $2,863.98.

Spring Fees

The funds receivable from the Spring semester's activities, fees are approximately $19,000. Advances to the university equal $792.36. The total of these figures is $51,521.84. This is the amount the Senate has to work with this semester.

With the new figure comes new allotments. More money will be given to the Freshman Handbook, and the budget for WSGC's Blue Book will be increased.

Flahive has presented the freshman class with a plan for collecting money, under the auspices of the Senate. The Freshman class has never received money from the Senate before. "In order to carry the plan out effectively," Flahive said, "the freshman class will have to get behind it one hundred per cent."

Sub-Committee Investigates

There is a subcommittee of the Senate investigating salaries for the Daily Campus, WHUS and the Nutmeg. Whatever their recommendations are, the Senate will back them all the way.

"The Finance Committee, under George Coates, has been doing a good job," Flahive stated, "but they have miscalculated in certain areas."

Freshman Class Plans Meeting

All members of the Freshman Council should attend the very important meeting scheduled for this Thursday at 4 p.m. in the U. N. Room of the HUB. The recent Senate appropriation to the Freshman class will be the main item of business according to President Robert Bonitati.

Jr. Council Meets Thurs.

The Junior Class Council will hold its last meeting as a complete body tomorrow at 4:00 in the United Nations Room of the Student Union Building.

At this council meeting, committees will be chosen to work on Junior Class Day, and these committees will meet regularly and report their progress to the Executive Council.

Bob Cieszynski, Junior Class President, urged all representatives to attend today's meeting in order that each may decide upon which committee he may wish to work. The general committee will be: Social, Tickets, Refreshment, Publicity, Entertainment; Graduation; and Newsletter.

Progress is also being made on the Junior Class Newsletter. If anyone has any material concerning junior activities or individual members of the class, it should be brought to the council meeting today or submitted to Margo Nelson, Phi Mu, before Monday.

Union Workers Walk Out Amid Bargaining Talks

Dock workers in Philadelphia and New York jumped the gun and went on strike while negotiations were in progress.

Negotiations in New York gave no indication that a settlement was near, and it may not be long before some 45-hundred dock workers from Maine to Virginia join the strike.

In New York, longshoremen on Pier 84 in the Hudson River left their jobs as the American Export Line's luxury steamship "The Independence" eased into her berth without the aid of tugboats. Tugboat crews have been on strike in New York Harbor for 12 days.

In Philadelphia, an official of the Longshoremen's Union said, "We haven't heard any word from New York and, as far as we're concerned, the strike is on."

The longshoremen walked out with Union leaders and representatives of the New York Shipping Association in the midst of down-to-the-wire bargaining talks.

The Chief Federal Negotiator said differences between the groups had been, quote, "Narrowed substantially." A spokesman for the shippers said the sides "had never been closed."

Required Meeting For Campus Staff

There will be an important Daily Campus staff meeting on Thursday at 4 p.m. in the newsroom.

Attendance will be required and checked at this meeting. The only excuse will be permission from the editor, William England.

Second In A Series

College Is Important Intelligence Source

BY A. N. JORGENSEN
University of Connecticut President

The increasing importance of our colleges and universities as the source of trained intelligence is clearly indicated by the following: in 1900 training for the professions and semi-professions accounted for less than 30 per cent of the activity of our institutions. Currently, it accounts for about 45 per cent. In the future it might well account for about 50 per cent if the requirements of our expanding economy are to be met. To meet these requirements, all qualified youth of the college-group must be given the opportunities for post secondary education.

We might expect to find that practically all high school graduates who rank among the top 25 per cent of their class would be going on to college. The fact is that one out of every three in this top ranking group is not going on to college.

Obviously we need to do much more toward finding our gifted young people and measuring their aptitudes for future leadership while they are in the secondary schools.

In the face of the fact that each year at least one hundred thousand young men and women with superior qualifications for college and university education are not continuing beyond high school, it has been broadly believed that the answer could be found in improved financial aid. But that is only part of the solution.

Scholarships can lower the barriers for those desiring to go to college and not having the necessary funds; they cannot reach the talented young person who simply is not motivated. This is where the able and understanding teacher becomes invaluable.

And, just as we cannot afford to lose good minds because of lack of motivation, so we must put an end to losing many of them through lack of money.

The doors to higher education must be kept open through scholarships, through grants, through loans, through every way that is feasible and right.

Let's assume that a variety of influences is successful in inducing our talented young men and women to continue their

Walter Thinks Refugees Reds

The chairman of the House Immigration Subcommittee says a vast majority of the Hungarian refugees were Communists.

Representative Francis Walter of Pennsylvania then went even further and said, "my feeling is that every one of the 62-hundred were Communists." He was referring to the first group of refugees who were given permanent visas.

Walter said the first group were Communists fleeing from Hungarian freedom fighters and the second merely are interested in bettering their economic conditions.

The Democrat made the remarks to back up his belief that the refugee program should be immediately stopped. He said he is thinking about asking the administration to take such steps.

BILLY GRAHAM AT YALE

Evangelist Billy Graham, opening a four sermon stand among the hallowed ivy walls of Yale University said this week that he is convinced that religion is at a "high point" with college students today.

Spelling Course Needed

There are a number of compulsory courses offered at the University of Connecticut, some that serve their purpose and some that don't, but there is one that should definitely be offered to students here if we are to end a problem that plagues a large percentage of the student body. We speak of a course in elementary spelling, and the problems in spelling today.

A frequent reference made today when discussing the educational training of American students concerns the prevalence of poor spelling among high school and college graduates. And judging from our own observations and remarks made by instructors at the University, students here rank with the best when it comes to misspelling words.

And the ironic part of it all is that the students often know that they are misspelling a word but are too lazy to look up the correct spelling of the word. These same students do not seem to realize that their grammar and spelling are weighed heavily when applying for a job.

Poor training in the elementary school may be at fault, but it is not altogether to blame. Good training is essential in the lower grades, but it must be practised and improved each year of a person's life. A student may learn to speak a foreign language during high school, but if he does not put that language into use during the following years it soon becomes useless.

The whole problem can be summed up in one sentence: words are an inexhaustible supply of knowledge, but the average student of today seems to be too exhausted to bother with them.

A business executive said recently that jobs have been lost on the grounds of a letter injected with misspelled words, while employers frown on work that contains illegible writing. He also commented that advancement opportunities are practically nil when a person spells and writes poorly.

A large number of professors subtract valuable points from examinations at this University because of poor spelling. The difference between one grade or a higher one can be caused by just a few errors on each exam during the course of a semester. Perhaps they should count spelling even more seriously, for then students might be induced into opening a dictionary more often.

Whether lack of training or a lack of intellectual curiosity be the reasons for poor spelling, the final blame can be placed on the shoulders of the individual. It's never too late to start learning, so if you are one of those who has been slacking your duty as far as looking up the correct spelling of words is concerned, why not get started. At any rate, with the increasing dissatisfaction arising from misspelling today, perhaps good spelling will once more assume its importance in the three R's.

File Those Senior Data Sheets Now

"As a result of our recent interview with you at the University of Connecticut, we are pleased to make you an offer to join our organization after you have received your degree at the starting salary of $300 a month..."

Have you seniors received letters with similar contents yet? If not it is probably because you have not as yet filed your senior data sheets with the placement office.

"File your data sheets with us," is the slogan of Mr. John Powers and his placement staff, and their facilities justify the persistence with which they follow this line. The sooner these sheets are filled, the more opportunities for an interview.

When prospective employers come to campus for interviews they look over the data sheets, so if yours is not there, you lose. It is from these sheets that the department, after obtaining written references from the persons listed by the students, selects seniors for interviews.

But this is not the end of the useful sheets. They are kept on file for years. A student who graduated years ago can still refer a prospective employer to the placement office for references.

Students who already have jobs for after graduation, who are "all set", as the saying goes, should still not miss the opportunity of filing their data sheets now. For if they decide to change jobs in a few years they will have to refer their prospective employer to the University for information.

If they have not filed their own data sheets, in doing so selecting for references professors and personnel who will praise them, the placement department is forced to solicit references for them. And these may not be the people that you wish to have speaking for you.

Maybe they will write to the counselor you never did get along with, or the prof who had that 8:00 a.m. class that you never quite made.

Get the point? If so, get your senior data sheet filed today.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

Early last semester George Coates (Senate Finance Chairman) moved that the Student Senate be dissolved because, he felt, it was nothing but a financial committee. I infer from Mr. Bollig's letter (Feb. 11) that the Student Senate is not even a well-run financial committee. If the students of this campus are going to continue to receive the same poor government that they have received thus far this school year, then it would be much better for them to have the Student Senate dissolved.

One learns in Government 131 that a constitution is the people's way of limiting the powers of a governing body. On campus one finds that the opposite is true. Between the students' so-called representative body and administration the rights of the students are slowly being crushed.

Michael D. Norman
408 McConaughy Hall

To the Editor:

I noticed at the end of last semester that Fairfield Hall has put up a coat-of-arms.

What is going on there, is Fairfield becoming a fraternity?

I became suspicious of Fairfield's intentions when they had the freshmen clean the lounges. When they were accused of going "frat" last semester they strongly denied the charge.

Now with the putting up of a coat-of-arms, is there any doubt left?

BREAK FROM KITCHEN WORK

Enthusiastic Students Combine Work And Study

BY JULIE MURANO AND JOE SONFINI

Many students at the University of Connecticut are paying for their education completely by working not only during the summer and Christmas vacation, but also while they are attending college. Some students are working on campus to earn extra spending money. Others work to get training in a field they may want to enter.

With this in mind, several students were asked, "How do you earn extra money working on campus?"

A part-time student at the University, Miss Connie Pelletier, (upper left), carries a full-time job working for Mr. Reuben B. Johnson, assistant director of Student Personnel, in the Administration Building. Connie lives at Cottage 4 and works for Mr. Johnson five days a week.

Roommates at 7A, Miss Betsy Quinn and Miss Dixie Reddon (upper left), earn their spending money by working for Miss Elna Daniels in the Unit 7 dining hall. Betsy is a 4th semester student in Arts and Sciences and works in the kitchen during the noon hour. Dixie, a sophomore in P.T., works at night.

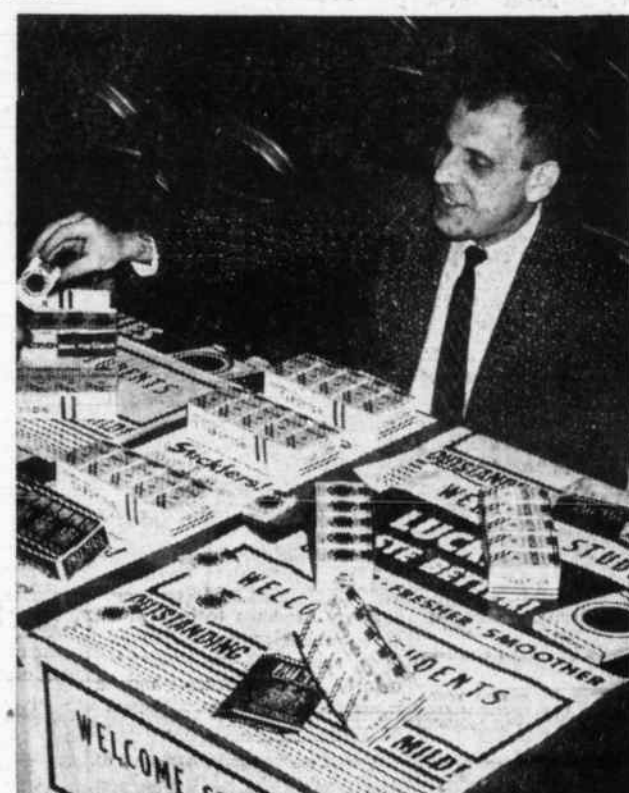

Besides working for Miss Daniels, Dixie has another job, this one being very different than anything she has done before. She is earning her food money for the next six weeks by being a participant in the Diet-Study Nutrition Research Project under the direction of Ellen Morse. This special diet is aimed at finding out what effect a certain type of pill will have on a student when he eats only specially prepared foods.

Sophomore Al Hajjar, right, a student senator from Sigma Alpha, can be seen going about the men's dormitories distributing samples of Lucky Strike, Pall Mall, and Hit Parade cigarettes. Al's job is working for the American Tobacco Co., through the Student Marketing Institute, and he spends an average of 15 to 20 hours a week giving out his samples.

Working in the kitchen and dining halls of the student's dormitories seems to be about the most popular job on campus. Bob McClure, (lower left), a junior in Theta Xi, has been working as a dishwasher in the kitchen of Phi Sigma Sigma since his freshman year at Uconn. The money he earns working two hours a night, five nights a week, helps him pay for those long-distance phone calls he makes to New York!

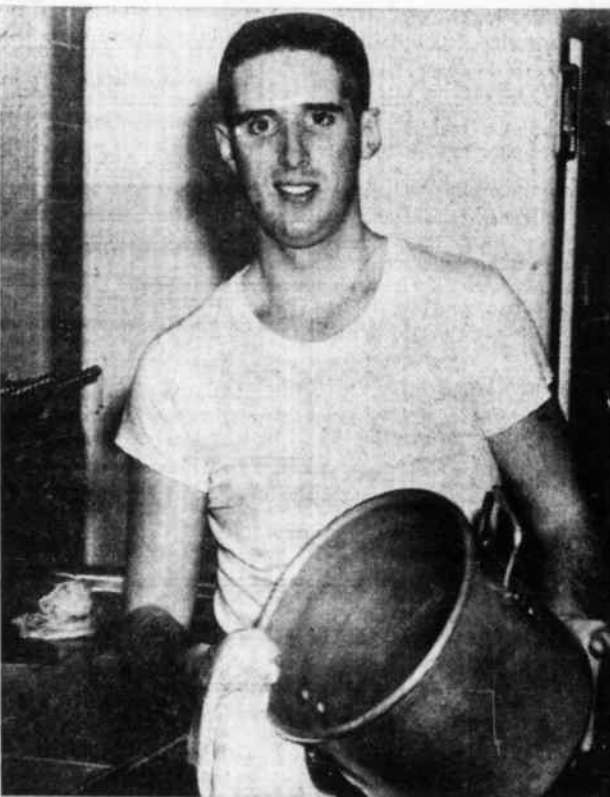

Besides carrying six subjects and taking part in six outside activities, Miss Anne Carr, (below, center), a junior in 3B, also finds time to handle two jobs. She spends 14 hours a week working at the Wilbur Cross Library and the rest of her spare time working as a student assistant to Dr. Baldwin of the Philosophy Department.

Larry Constantine, (lower right), is one of the many familiar persons seen working at the popular "Nutmeg", Larry, a brother of Lambda Chi, transferred from Texas A. & M. this year and is now a sophomore. Both he and his brother Al can be seen taking orders and cooking food behind the counter of the "Nutmeg" most any afternoon or evening.

BEHIND THE SCENES

CAN I HELP YOU?

HASH-SLINGER

The Collegiate Atmosphere

FRESH START

(ACP)—If you are looking for ways to flunk courses with the least possible effort, you can rely on the system devised by the Oregon State Daily Barometer a few years ago.

Enter the course as late as possible. By changing your mind about the curriculum after the semester starts, you should be able to avoid classes until the second or third week.

Do not bother with textbooks. They're expensive and you won't use them very often anyway.

Put your social life ahead of everything else. If necessary cultivate a few friendships in the class. Interesting conversation should be able to drown out the noise of the lecture.

If you must study, try to lump it all together and get it over with. The most suitable time would be the last week of school.

Avoid bothering with notebooks. If you plan to use one anyhow, so that you can doodle during the lecture, try to follow the simplest arrangement: keep all the notes for a given day on the same sheet of paper.

Review only the night before examination, and confine this to trying to guess what the prof will ask.

Stay up all night before important examinations. You can spend the first half of the evening discussing your determination to "bone" and the latter half drinking black coffee.

DORM GOURMETS

(ACP)—A pop corn popper may be the only cooking equipment a dormitory coed may have at hand, but if she follows the lead of the young women who attend Texas State College for Women, she can be quite a cook.

Boiling water for coffee or tea in the popper is elementary, says the Daily Lasso, Texas coeds make oyster stew, pudding, chili and chow mein in theirs for midnight snacks, and use the popper to warm rolls, boil eggs and make cereal at breakfast time.

Stick to the popper for making pop corn, they advise. One coed tried to use her electric coffee pot to make pop corn—with sad results.

NYU "Crisis"

Wires Crossed On Air; Radio Station Suspended

The grass is not always greener, or crisis at a "big-city" school.

"Radio Station Suspended By Discipline Committee" reads the headline of the New York University Heights Daily News. The story following explained that through the irresponsibility of one of the WNYU radio operators the telephone wires of the radio station and the psychology laboratory were crossed, enabling WNYU to make phone calls on the department line. The article implies that the psychology lab staff was not too happy about the situation.

KID ORGANIZATION
In trying to correct the telephone failure at the radio station the evening of December 26, a staff member inadvertently made this "Boo-Boo." Consequently, he was placed on disciplinary probation and the radio station was suspended for a two-month period, labelled "an irresponsible kid organization." Besides not being able to broadcast any of the schools' activities for the next two months, the radio station is sustaining a heavy financial loss. Its advertising contracts with the American Tobacco Company and with Barnes and Noble will have to be broken, involving a loss of approximately $800.

And you think you have troubles...

Googins Tells Function Of Goodwill Committee

"The Goodwill Committee is a group organized to present, from the student's viewpoint, high school and Connecticut citizens with information pertinent to all phases of university life," states Robert Googins, chairman.

The committee was originally formed in the school year 1950-51 under the auspices of the Student Senate. At that time it was felt that the public relations program of the university was inadequate. Mr. Reuben Johnson has been faculty advisor for the group since its origin.

A fact that few students might be aware of is that the committee has traveled over 17,000 miles and has told the "Uconn Story" to well over 30,000 students and adults.

Robison To Talk On Math Topics

Dr. Gerson B. Robison, instructor in mathematics at the University, will speak at the Mathematics Colloquium of the University of Connecticut this afternoon at 5 p.m. in Room 32 of Building 21 on South Campus.

His topic will be "The Imbedding Operators on a Partially Ordered Set."

At 4:15 p.m. just preceding Dr. Robison's talk, there will be an informal tea in the Mathematics Seminar Room.

Tonight Dr. Robison will speak at the Mathematics Club meeting in HUB 214 at 8 p.m. His subject at this meeting will be "Mathematics Without Numbers."

Googins further adds that the committee and the university can tell that the program is effective by reports which are received from high school students who have heard the program and by the fact that many schools write and request that the group come again to present their program.

Before this group begins its annual program there is much organizational work that must be done. Correspondence is sent out to high schools, and a schedule is arranged. Each member is then assigned a certain day to go on a trip. The University supplies the group with a car which the faculty advisor drives.

Of the three or four students who make each trip the main speaker talks on the history of the University, its traditions, program of studies and its requirements. The next step is for a girl to give a commentary on a set of slides. The remainder of the time is devoted to a question and answer period. "This year's schedule is an active one, and we have about 25 trips to make," commented Googins.

In order to be a member of this committee of thirteen, the applicant must have a good speaking voice, have a good scholastic record, be active in extra-curricular activities and be interested in the University of Connecticut.

Aside from these basic requirements, prospective members are expected to present an 8-10 minute speech on two or three aspects of the University before the chairman and a member of the Speech Department.

Art Showing Starts Today

The Annual Salon of Photographic Arts will be held beginning today and running until February 22 in the lobby of the HUB. The contest will be held in conjunction with Kappa Alpha Mu, National Press Photographers Association and the Encyclopedia Britannica, with the cooperation of the Association of College Unions.

Three trophies and honorable mentions are awarded to top pictures, and the winners of this local contest are sent to the national contest. The winning pictures will be announced this Friday. Judging the pictures will be Solomon Wollman, University Photographer, Walter Meigs, associate professor of Art and the head of the Art-Department, and Donald Nelson, radio and television co-ordinator.

The Student Union Cultural Committee sponsors the Salon, and chairman Maurice Leonard, Phi Mu, urges all students who are interested to stop in at the HUB some time this week. Marge O'Neill and Betty Farrell are members of the committee.

Inn Reopens On Route 195

The Altnaveigh Inn on Spring Hill and Route 195, long famous for excellent food and service in a colonial atmosphere, has recently been renovated and reopened under the management of William Naden. After being closed for many months during which time students and other patrons have had to go elsewhere for similar food and service, the Altnaveigh will now seek to win new friends for its expanded facilities.

Alterations in the two hundred years old structure have resulted in an expanded seating capacity in four separate dining rooms. A private dining room for six or eight people is available upon request at no extra charge. A new innovation for the old inn in hi-fi music piped to each dining room.

A "tea and sandwich" hour will be featured from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. For the price of fifty cents a customer can get a plate of sandwiches and a cup of tea or coffee.

Amy Dzvovichik, operator of Lindy's Restaurant in Willimantic, is the new owner of the Altnaveigh Inn which also has accommodations for nine overnight guests. Mr. Naden, manager of the inn, is a graduate of the Culinary Institute in New Haven.

The Altnaveigh, which is Scotch for "High Hill," will be open for luncheons and dinners from 11:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. daily except Monday.

Clings to the road like a stripe of paint!

The '57 Chevy can give lessons on taking curves and holding the road to just about any car going. Few cars at any price are so beautifully balanced and so smooth, sure and solid in action.

A car has to have a special kind of build and balance to keep curves under control. And nobody outdoes Chevrolet in that department! It "corners" with all the solid assurance of an honest-to-goodness sports car. Chevy doesn't throw its weight around on turns because it carries its pounds in the right places.

And if the road should turn upward, Chevy can take care of that nicely, too—with up to 245 h.p.*

IN YOUR CAREER

There's no question about the importance of engineering at The Babcock & Wilcox Company. In whatever activity you choose, you'll work with engineers at B&W. Engineering is emphasized throughout the company, from Management through the diversified activities of Sales, Manufacturing, Quality Control, Field Erection, Service, Research, Development, and Design.

Engineers at B&W are the key men—or those who will become key men. And your progress is not restricted to a special phase of engineering because of the very nature of the company and its integrated products, services, and activities. There is much to choose from—enough to give you every opportunity to make sure you're doing what you want to do, and to grow in your job.

Ask any member of your faculty about B&W's engineering, business, and financial reputation. And for details about what the future can hold for you at B&W, our booklet "Opportunities with Babcock & Wilcox," details our training plan. Varsity Swimmers Oppose Jeffs Here Today

Many Events Hold Appeal This Week

By AL COLINA
Daily Campus Sports Writer

The Winter Weekend will not be lacking in matters of interest for the Uconn sports fan. In addition to the feature basketball game on Saturday night, there is a varied and attractive athletic schedule designed to pletaste the appetite of the most discriminating Husky rooster. This special program was arranged in this manner to help make the weekend as appealing as possible.

The varsity swimming team will launch the big sports weekend by participating in a meet against Bowdoin at 4 p.m. on Friday afternoon in the Brundage Pool. Later in the evening, at 7 p.m., the Varsity Fencing team takes on the Boston University fencers at the Field House. The varsity swimmers to date have posted a creditable 2-0-1 record with their last effort being a 43-43 tie against Williams College, last year's New England champions and a strong contender to repeat. The fencers have split two matches, defeating Bradford Duffee, 18-9 and losing to M.I.T., 16-11.

The varsity track team starts Saturday's list of special events with their first meet of the Spring season against the Black Bears of Maine. This event will be held at 1 p.m. One hour later, the wrestling team grabs part of the spotlight, engaging the Long Island Tech maulers.

Continuing this three ring circus is the freshman swimming team, who square off against Torrington High at 3 p.m. The freshmen will be aiming for their sixth win of the season, having turned in wins over Windham, Sacred Heart, Springfield Tech, LaSalle Academy from Rhode Island, and Manchester. Their sole defeat was inflicted by Lewiston Academy. The wrestlers have two wins and one loss to show for their efforts. They have defeated Umass twice and in their last engagement, dropped a tightly contested bout to Springfield College.

While the swimmers are concluding their meet, the varsity rifle team will cap the afternoon's activity with a good old-fashioned shooting match against our traditional rivals, Rhode Island. The rifle team presently is ranked No. 1 in New England and 17th in the country.

If this round of whirlwind activity is not enough, then there is still a big evening of basketball against none other than the Rams from Rhode Island. The Rams stand 3-1 in Yankee Conference games and are the only obstacle between Uconn and another Conference title.

Before the Huskies take the floor in the attempt to clinch the title, the Pups will tangle with the little Rams and will try to stretch their winning streak to six games.

HC Game Tickets Are Still On Sale

Athletic Ticket Manager Dick Barry has announced that tickets for the February 26 Connecticut-Holy Cross game to be played at the Boston Garden are now on sale at the ticket office in the Field House lobby.

There is an unlimited supply of these tickets at three prices: $1.25 and $1.00 with I.D. cards for reserved seats and $1.25 for unreserved seats.

Speakers Are Top Features Of Symposium

Three prominent specialists in the field of physical education were featured in a Symposium on New Dimensions in Physical Education, sponsored by the University of Connecticut School of Physical Education at the Student Union Ballroom on February 11. The Symposium was part of a series of events marking the observance of the University's 75th Anniversary year.

The three symposium speakers included Dr. Ruth V. Byler, state consultant for Health and Physical Education in the State Department of Education; Joseph Prendergast, executive director of the National Recreation Association; and Dr. Ray O. Duncan, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, West Virginia University, and president of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Health Education

Dr. Byler, who spoke on Health Education, has been active in the field of physical education in Connecticut for almost two decades. She is the author of many magazine articles and has helped to develop the Standard Cumulative Health Record Card for Connecticut Schools. Dr. Byler also has served as co-executive secretary for the Connecticut Advisory School Health Council which developed the State Health Policies Guide, has held a variety of offices in the Connecticut State AHPER and Health Policies and has served as AHPER chairman of the Elementary School Health Section. She received her doctor's degree in education from Teachers College, Columbia University, 1953.

Qualified Speaker

Mr. Prendergast, 8 McDougall Alley, New York City, who has been an Executive Director of the National Recreation Association since 1950, talked on recreation. A native of Chicago, Mr. Prendergast is a graduate of Princeton and Columbia universities and holds the rank of Major in the Armored Reserve Corps.

Uconn's undefeated, but once tied swimming team returns to action this afternoon at 4 when it faces Amherst College in Brundage Memorial Pool.

The Husky squad, fresh from its surprise tie with Williams, last year's New England champions, will be out for victory number three of the season. A win over the Lord Jeffs could stamp the Huskies as strong contenders in the New England Championships next month here at Storrs.

Lost To Yale

Amherst will pose a stiff problem for the Huskies despite their poor showing last week against Yale. In losing to the Elis 72-14 the Jeffs faced a powerful team which was at full strength. This was unusual because Yale coach Bob Kipphuth ordinarily benches some of his star swimmers except in championship meets. Amherst's poor showing against Yale, is therefore explained in part by this fact.

Soph Stars

The man to watch on the Amherst squad is sophomore Bill Jones. Both breaststroke events are his forte and in these events he will face stiff competition from Connecticut's Doug Fingles, Steve Pinney and Dick Beauvais which could prove interesting to watch.

Uconn men who have turned in winning performances so far this season and who will be counted on for strong performances this afternoon are Chuck Andrews, Bill Tanner, Gill Stuart along with co-captains Doug Fingles and Ken Cucuel.

Backstroke Duo

The backstroke duo of Tanner and Andrews has been all victorious so far this season. Either one or the other has been able to take first in that event in the three meets held. Andrews, a sophomore has won it twice and Tanner, a senior once.

Cucuel and Fingles have proved to be heavy pointmakers in the longer freestyle events while Stuart has turned in strong showings in diving.

Today's meet opens a busy week of swimming competition on the Husky athletic scene. The varsity will face Bowdoin here on Friday afternoon and frosh team faces Tolman High of Pawtucket, Rhode Island, here on Thursday.

Conference on State Parks, the Board of Directors of the United Community Defense Service, and the AHPER.

Prexy Grooms Members

Dr. Duncan of West Virginia University spoke on Physical Education. Prior to joining the University staff at West Virginia, he was Director of Health, Physical Education and Safety with the State of Illinois. A native of Illinois, he holds A.M., Ed. M. and Ed. D. degrees from the University of Illinois and is co-author of two texts, Physical Conditioning and Administration of Physical Education.

Uconn Pups Face Nichols

The University of Connecticut frosh basketball team will be seeking its sixth consecutive victory tonight as they oppose Nichols Junior College in the Field House. The contest will start at 7:30 p.m., contrary to the usual starting time as there will be no varsity game after the freshman meeting.

Still Unbeaten

A win in tonight's battle will put the Husky pups one step closer to an undefeated season, close to the zero mark in the loss column since he came to the university. With last year's great squad he compiled a 13-1 record losing only to a strong Roslyn, Air Force Base five.

The frosh quintet will use the same starting lineup as they have all season with Jack Rose and Burt Brown at the guards, John Pipczynski and Glenn Cross at forward slots, and Ed Martin at the center post. Nichols Junior College is one of the new opponents added to the Uconn frosh basketball slate this year.

Tackle Enos May Sign Pact With Pro Giants

Although he was not selected in the recent professional football draft last month, Ed Enos big tackle on last Fall's Yankee Conference champion football team has received word from the New York Football Giants that they are interested in signing him to a contract for next season.

ROTC Requirement

Enos has not definitely accepted the offer, however, as he must attend summer camp with the Army ROTC as a prerequisite to being commissioned as a lieutenant in the Infantry. His orders for active duty have not come through as yet and if he is not called by the service before the opening of the Giants Summer practice sessions at St. Michael's College in Winooski Park, Vermont, Enos has indicated that he will report to the Giants.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Manager Joseph S. Manning discusses a customer service request with Office Supervisor Catherine Hazleton.

"Like having your own $3,000,000 business"

Joseph S. Manning graduated in 1950 from Wesleyan University with a B.A. degree and a major in Bio-Chemistry. But chemistry, he decided, was not to be his career. He became intrigued, instead, by the opportunities in the telephone business, and joined New York Telephone Company in 1951.

Today Joe Manning is Business Office Manager in Parkchester, Bronx, New York. In this position he is responsible for about 27,000 telephone accounts which bill some $250,000 a month. 35 people work under him.

"It's like having your own $3,000,000 business," Joe says. "And it's pretty much an independent operation, which I enjoy. I'm in charge of all business office functions, and of personnel training and development. I also spend a lot of time out with my customers, making sure that they have the telephone service they want and need. It's an absorbing job.

"The phenomenal growth of the business is one of the reasons why advancement opportunities are so good in the telephone company. Since 1943, for example, the number of telephones in our area has almost tripled. Growth such as this, going on all over the country, makes the telephone business especially attractive to anyone seeking a career with a future."

Bell Telephone Companies offer many interesting career opportunities, as do Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer has more information about all Bell System Companies.
