McCRACKENENDORSES MOV FOR POST OFFICE

STUDENT COMMITTEE ASKED TO CONSIDER MAIL SERVICE NEEDS

President Will Present Matter to Trustees This Week; Greatly Improved Service Anticipated; "Campus" Action Praised

"Without any question the college needs a regular post office instead of a sub-station," was the reply of Dr. Charles C. McCracken, president of the Connecticut State College, given Thursday when asked what he thought of the campaign initiated by The Campus to secure a regular third class post office at Storrs. At the same time he expressed his intention to have a student committee appointed by George A. Potterton which will organize and present data pertinent to the establishment of a third class post office.

President Endorses Movement

Dr. McCracken had been faced with the problem of inadequate postal service before and during the past year he had been planning to secure a remedy for it. When he heard that the campaign initiated by The Campus and carried on by John J. Bednarz had brought the matter to a head, he gave his wholehearted endorsement and said that he would take steps to make a formal petition to Washington after the Board of Trustees had considered the matter.

ALUMNI SPONSORS NAME CONTEST FOR MASCOT

Varsity Teams May Be Designated By Whatever Name Is Chosen; More About Mascot

A name is the only thing lacking for the twenty-three week old Eskimo dog which has become the Connecticut State College mascot. The dog, a gift of the Alumni Association of the college is now permanently established at the Windham home of Professor Herbert F. France, director of music who is closely connectcd with a number of student activities on the Hill.

Alumnus Offers Prize

The Connecticut Alumnus, official monthly news organ of the Alumni Association, has offered a prize for the person sending in the best suggestion for a name for the mascot to the Alumni Office. The winning name may not only become the name of the mascot, but it might also be used in his biennial report now being printed, according to news released last week by the President. Of these projects, two are new, while the others have been requested of the Legislature in other years.

New Heating Plant Principal Item

An expenditure of $723,000 for five building projects at this college during the next two years, will be requested of the 1935 General Assembly by President C. C. McCracken in his biennial report now being released, according to news released last week by the President. Of these projects, two are new, while the others have been requested of the Legislature in other years.

H. P. S. String Quartet To Play At Convocation

Ralph Baldwin, Distinguished Organist To Play Accompaniment Here Friday Night

The Hartford Public High School String Quartet will present a program of varied musical selections in a special Convocation program on Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Storrs Church. The presentation of the H. P. S. string quartet was made possible by the cooperation of Sigmond Adler, their vocational director. Ralph L. Baldwin, director of public school music in Hartford, will play the piano accompaniment for the talented quartet. Mr. Baldwin

PRES. MCCracken REVIEWS PAST YEAR

Says Progress Consisted of Assimilating Past Growth and Strengthening for Future

Summarizing the year 1934 at Connecticut State College, at the request of the Campus, President C. C. McCracken pointed out that the period afforded a very necessary opportunity for "assimilation of the rapid changes" which have accompanied its growth, and that the "ground work for further advancement" was being formed. While not a year outstanding in achievements, steady progress was seen. The President's complete statement entitled "1934 In Retrospect" follows:

1934 In Retrospect

To many it may seem that 1934 was not an outstanding year so far as achievement in academic lines is concerned. It is true that no notable changes were made but it is also true that we did not fail to make (Continued On Page Nine)
PROFESSOR DODGE IS GENERAL-EDITOR OF GEOGRAPHY TEXTS

Dr. Carter Will Assist in Preparation of One of the Publications

A new series of texts in college geography under the general editorship of Richard E. Dodge of the Connecticut State College and his son, Stanley D. Dodge of the University of Michigan, has been announced in the 1935 Textbook List of Doubleday, Doran Co. Dr. William H. Carter of Connecticut State College will collaborate with Mr. Dodge of this college in the publishing of one of the books in the series.

The following books are already planned:

"Geography of South America" by Preston E. James, University of Michigan. (In preparation).

"Physiography of United States" by Frederick B. Locken, Amherst College. (In preparation).

Professor Dodge explained that his unique plan was to have a series of textbooks written by selected men who, although still young, are top-notchers in their respective fields and who will in a very few years become the leaders and torchbearers in the scientific study of geography.

Mr. Dodge, who received his A.B. and A.M. degrees at Harvard, is at present Professor of Geography at Connecticut State College is nationally known as a teacher and author of textbooks on geography. He is a Fellow of the N.Y.A. Study of Sciences of the Geological Society of America, and a Past President of the National Council of Geography Teachers and of the American Geographers. He is the author of the following books: "Reader in Physical Geography for Beginners," "Dodge's Geographies," "Dodge's Geographical Notebooks," "Dodge-Luckey Geographies."

A college boy to whom his mother had sent a jar of branded cherries, wrote her as follows:

"Dear Mother, I do not particularly care for branded cherries, but I certainly appreciated the spirit in which they were sent.

Sorority Co-Eds Plan for Annual Inter-Sorority Dance

Collegians to Furnish Music for Af-fair Saturday Evening

The second Annual Inter-Sorority Dance given by the Co-eds of Connecticut State College will be held Saturday evening in Hawley Armory. Only sorority members and their patrons and patronesses will be in attendance.

Each Sorority To Have Booth

The Connecticut Collegians have been engaged to furnish the music for the Armory’s first class war, and booths for each sorority. Dorothy Heilman, '36, of Gamma Sigma Sorority, and the junior representative to the Pan-Hellenic Council of each sorority has been delegated to lead one of the various committees. Delta Chi Omega and Sigma Upsilon Nu are in charge of decorations and Phi Delta is in charge of refreshments. Gamma Sigma is ordering the programs.

Lists of guests have not been completed as yet, but a record attendance is expected.

Howard-Wesson Co.

To Engrave 1935 Nutmeg

Yearbook to Come Out During Junior Week, Sutliffe Designs Cover

For the second successive year the Howard-Wesson Company of Worcester, Mass., have been granted the contract for engraving the 1935 Nutmeg Yearbook to Come Out During Junior Week, Sutliffe Designs Cover. The printing contract was awarded to Doubleday, Doran Company, Inc. of Garden City, N.Y., last fall.

Work on the business and editorial staffs of the publication is reported to have reached an advanced stage. Dean James H. Johnson, and Miss Thomas Sut- liffe, business manager and editor-in-chief respectively, Mr. Sutliffe has designed the cover for this year’s book, and contrary to previous agreements, the printing contract will include the making of the cover. Books are expected to be distributed during Jun-ior Week each wrapped in a glassy paper cover. Through the aid of its extensive mailing list the business board has been able to secure many advertisements and it plans to canvass the local concerns before the close of the semester. In an effort to reach a maximum circulation the business board intends to contact the faculty and graduates of the classes since 1930.

George Adams Sez

Poor Joie has been so disillusioned!! Ever since he got his new specs he has been running around complimenting on the women here at Connecticut, because he says he now sees them in the real light. "Why didn't someone warn me?" he moans . . . Never mind, gold, my friend, think of what would happen if more of the women here began to wear glasses???

. . . Never mind, Gold, my friend, Connecticut, because he says he now starts to hold a gal's hand:!!!

It was not so long ago that I told you about little Janie Pratt growing up and believe me, it certainly is becoming evident lately . . . According to my best snooper, she has been holding hands with bashful Howie Martin (that handsome mountaineer from Meriden) and apparently enjoying it. Carvel, my little cherub, you know the consequences when a lad starts to hold a girl's hand:!!!

We are presenting something educational this week as we have had a few complaints asking for something of real value for the benefit of our intellectuella (7). This is an English story with a moral and lesson combined. Professor Adams speaking: "You see a beautiful girl walking down the street. She is of course, feminine. If she is singular, you become nominative. You walk across to her, changing to the verbal, and then become active. If she is not objective, you become plural and walk home together. Her brother is an indefinite article, and her mother is accusative and becomes imperative. You speak of the future and she changes the subject. Her father becomes present, and you become the past participle." . . .

I was engaged in a very interesting discussion of ideal women with Jim Moore, that Irish dynamo of a football coach, the other evening, and the big fellow imparted a few fine opinions of his own which were well worth listening to. Space will not permit me to print our entire discussion, but I am sure that the gentle Jim would oblige any of you ladies and lads with a separate session at any time. The wisest statement of the "Voice of Experience" was contained in his concluding statement, which was:

"Well, George, I look at the whole thing like this: When a girl is beautiful, that's good. When a girl is good, that's beautiful. But when a girl is both beautiful and good, that's a shame! . . ."

And now as I know that you are all ears to find out the lucky recipients of the loving cup this week, I had better loosen up and tell you. It all started in the Beaury one fine day when the lad sent the little gall a note via a hustling bus-boy who discarded his thrice daily role to play Dan Cupid. The little girl blushed and smiled a pretty, "Yes", to her over-weight Dan Juan not five tables apart. It was fast work all right and immediately that spark of affection kindled into a flame, and the cute little couple have been in hot water ever since. I suppose you have all guessed by now, have you not? Yes, it is Green and Payne. Congratulations, my chiccadees, and I hope now that Dick will stop running after me asking if he please couldn't have the Loving Cup, because he was bashful and afraid to tell the gal what he really thought of her by himself. Can you imagine a "200 pound plus human" actually fearful of the little woman? Ah me, such is love, my friends. It reduces a mountain to an ant-hill . . .

Comptroller R. I. Longley left for Florida, on Saturday, December 29, on a combined vacation and business trip. He will confer with officials at the Scottie Owls in St. Petersburg, and the state's other colleges on the way. Judge Storr accompanied Mr. Longley.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

(During Christmas Recess)

MARGARET LOUISE CARPENTER

CLIFFORD R. MASON

The engagement of Miss Margaret Louise Carpenter to Mr. Clifford R. Mason was announced while Miss Carpenter was visiting friends on Staten Island during the Christmas recess.

Miss Carpenter, daughter of Mrs. Alice Carpenter of Phoenix City, Alab- ama, will graduate in June from the Science Division having majored in bacteriology. She is president of the Gamma Sigma Sorority, a member of the Pan-Heleneic Council, and the Varsity Basketball Squads.

Mr. Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mason of Storrs, was graduated from Connecticut State College in 1923, and is at present employed at Camp Graves in Stafford Springs, the Forestry Camp. While in college Mr. Mason was a member of Theta Sigma Chi Fraternity and the Soccer and Basketball Teams.

As yet no date has been set for the wedding.

THE LEGISLATURE’S DUTY

1935—A new year, faces Connecticut State College. That it will be one of progress and improvement consistent with our constant growth in the past is shown by the announcement of the acceptance of this college as a member of the National Association of State Universities, and the revelation of a wise policy of expansion beginning with the current request for five necessary building projects.

It is true that some events have occurred which the College is in some manner responsible for. Two, the first of which, is the announcement of the mezzanine floor and the stacks of the Library being placed under the supervision of the State Library and the latter of which is the announcement of the building of a new library. The Library stairway in the Beach Building is much improved and the stacks have been set aside and the mezzanine floor and the stacks of the Library have been placed under the supervision of the State Library. This condition will be corrected before the end of the year.

The second event is the announcement of the building of a new library. This condition is due to the arrangement of the mezzanine floor and the stacks of the Library being placed under the supervision of the State Library and the latter of which is the announcement of the building of a new library. The editors find fault with the operation of the Dining Hall. The lack of proper lighting and the absence of a regular post office are two problems that have been raised in the past. The College has been in possession of a regular post office for several years and it is only in the past two years that it has been possible to operate it properly.

The editors note that the College has been in possession of a regular post office for several years and it is only in the past two years that it has been possible to operate it properly.

The Math Club will hold its next meeting January 16 rather than next Wednesday as originally scheduled.

At the club's last meeting Aladar VonSaabo, '36, of Shelton and Stanley Bernet, graduate student in mathematics from Alabama were the principal speakers. Mr. VonSaabo presented a solution of "Squaring the Circle With Ruler and Compass" which Dr. Cheney, Jr. discovered and will soon publish. Mr. Bernet spoke on "Approximations By Use of a Convergence" and was able to obtain some surprisingly accurate results.

SPECIAL OCCASIONS
State Engages Clark
Here Tomorrow Evening

Coach John Holdman’s basketballers—fresh from a victory over American International College of Springfield, are anxiously awaiting their Wednesday night clash with Clark University of Worcester. Rumors from up Worcester way credit the Maroons with having a fast capable outfit and a torrid encounter is looked forward to by all.

State Exhibits Weak Defense

In defeating the Alumni and the A. I. C., the Blue and White has shown some of its best work, but has been pitifully weak on the defense, and act like a bunch of total strangers when they get on the court together. The Maroons played when a checkup was made on the number of shots attempted and made. As A. I. C., the Blue and White player put it “The All Burnside no longer have the slightest claim to the high class nickname of the Shooting Circus.”

Holdman to Start Same Lineup

Indications are that Coach Holdman will spend the two remaining sessions ironing out the glaring faults present in the past two games and will start Gold and Daniels in the forward line, Lewis at center, and assign Greasley and Captain Lipman to the backcourt positions. Poland, Lipman, and Lewis are fast capable outfit and a torrid encounter is looked forward to by all.

20-32 in Opening Game

The girls' varsity basketball team met a 20-32 reversal when they met American International College here at Storrs last Saturday. The Connecticut cut team did not get started until the second half, at which time A. I. C. had a lead of 7 points.

Seager and Phillips, A. I. C. forwards could not be stopped by the local guards and they showed that they surely can make baskets. Ham- man, Connecticut forward, also played a starring role in the Connecticut display of ability as a player at both positions.

NEW HEATING PLANT TO COST $435,000

$250,000 for Home Ed. Building

The sum of $250,000 is asked to construct the so-called Home Eco- nomic Laboratory, also previously requested for and for which plans are now complete.

The building will house the home economic laboratories but will be for more general class room purpos- es and its facilities which include a small hospital, will be used by the entire college. A third repeat project presented is the drawing up of plans for an engineering building. $10,800 is asked to cover the cost of the plans.

New Projects Include Plans for Library

The new projects appearing in the President's report, are the prepar- ations for a library building and the construction of an Ani- mal Disease laboratory. The plans of the library building have been drawn and estimated cost of $10,000. The sum of $15,000 is asked for the building in which research work in animal dis- eases can be carried on under military conditions with complete iso- lation and hospital facilities. This part of the college's work brought to it wide recognition in the field.

When questioned as to his opinion of the probability of favorable ac- tion on this program, President Mc- Cracken said that the present condi- tion of state finances is so uncertain that no definite prediction is possible. Much depends on whether a bond issue is authorized and new taxes are levied. However, he be- lieves that the need for a new build- ing plant can no longer be dis- regarded and that at least this project will be granted.

Outlook for the Future

In viewing further needs of the college for the near future, the President mentioned the desire for development of a fine arts center to allow the present rate of expansion of the Music Department to con- tinue and to provide a place for the Louise Crumle Beach art col- lection to be displayed in proper surroundings.

The Armory which now must serve as auditorium, gymnasium, and mili- tary training center, is much too small and inadequate. An enlarge- ment of facilities for feeding stud- ents and guests must also be made in the near future.

The Housing Problem

Another serious problem facing the college officials is the student housing shortage. Scarcely, one-half of the students enrolled in the college are housed in dormitories and the fac- ulty situation is equally as worri- some. The policy as stated by Dr. McCracken is to provide adequate classrooms and facilities for teaching and research before additional dorm- itories are added. Relief in the housing situation will be sought through the construction of additional- al fraternity and sorority houses.

Committee Appointed to Make Study of Athletic Awards

President Names Eriksson, Wood- ford and Johnson

President Charles C. McCracken appointed a committee consisting of Niles Eriksson, chairman, Barbara Woodford and Reuben John- son to study the present athletic letter award system of major and minor letters, and to submit a report to the Faculty Advisory committee of their findings. The task of the committee is to look into the advan- tages and disadvantages of Con- necticut system and the various systems employed in other colleges and universities, to interview and record the student opinions, and to approach the athletic coaches upon the subject.

In the past few years, there has been some dissatisfaction amongst the student body as to the awarding of letters and numerals to athletes, and the committee will hear all opinions and suggestions. Any stu- dent who is interested in the prob- lem is asked to write his or her opinion and suggestions and send it to Niles Eriksson. All letters will receive due consid- eration.

and the use of private capital. The President has said that it would be a poor practice to allow students to enter in unlimited numbers only to find no facilities provided for their instruction. In mentioning the law limiting the number of students residing in dormitories, he was held to be of little significance. The original intention of the law was to limit the enrollment to 500 but the fact that facilities are at present be- ing provided for over 750 students repeals the law by implication.

In the memorable year of nineteen-fours, a few outstanding students formed the organization which they called the Cosmopolitan Club. The club grew rapidly and became a powerful and flourishing organization. With the entrance of the United States into the World War, most of the original members enlisted, and when hostilities finally ceased only a few were still able to go on. These few, however, determined to form an organization which would embody the ideals and aims of the charter members and live on through the years. From this nucleus has arisen the present Sigma Phi Gamma Fraternity.

WINS SCHOLASTIC CUP FOUR TIMES
As the years rolled by the fraternity grew and became an esteemed and creditable brotherhood. The high standards and aims of its members distinguished them from their fellow students. The members of Sigma Phi Gamma have always been prominent in all social, dramatic, and scholastic fields. In the eight years that the scholastic cup has been awarded to the different fraternities Sigma Phi Gamma has held it four.

The Connecticut State debating team equaled its score with America International College for this year, defeating the latter team by a unanimous decision on the question, "The World Should Agree to Prevent the International Shipment of Arms and Munitions". The three men who debated for Connecticut on Friday night were Richard Barrell, '37 of New Haven, Russell Brooks, '33 of New Haven, and Eugene Kone, '27 of Hartford.

A. I. C. TAKES AFFIRMATIVE
A. I. C., upholding the affirmative side of the question, "the proposal would put an end to aggressive wars and would also reduce the causes of war," said that the profits of the munitions makers who they claimed, are ceaselessly agitating for war in order to increase their profits.

Points Out Dangers
The Connecticut debaters, on the other hand, held that "the proposal was carried out it would greatly increase the chances of another international conflict, that is not the result of munitions makers' propaganda but of the attitude of the peoples of the nations of the world, and if such a proposal as the above was enforced the international designs of various countries would be encouraged. Large stock of arms within their boundaries while other nations that possessed munitions factories of their own would be left defenseless.

Gemmell's "True North." She is black and white. Her father was a large white Husky owned by Mr. William D. Shew of Hartford, Connecticut. The mascot's sire and grandsire were both white or buff white. Her mother is the chief character in Merriam's "True North," used by John Michelin for trapping and guiding expeditions. His grandfather, or our pup's great-grandfather, was on one of the dogs with Perry at the North Pole. Her breeding is attested to by Lord Grenfell at the Grenfell Mission at Labrador.

"The father of our pup is a large white McKenzie River Husky, owned by Mr. William D. Shew of Hartford, Connecticut. The mascot's sire and grandsire were both white or buff white. Our dog, although progeny of the Keith Circuit for a number of years and was brought South to the States by Mr. William Bloomburg of Minnesota, who was brought up north. His mother performed on the stage and was able to walk a tightrope. Our pup is one of the Keith Circuit litter of six born July 23, 1934 at Huntington, Connecticut."

DEBATE FOR MASCOT

All the students are urged to submit their choice of a name for the dog with a hope that it might be judged the most suitable. All suggestions should be addressed to the Alumni Secretary, Connecticut State College, Storrs, Conn.
Evidence that Connecticut State College men are more than holding their own is shown by the positions of the faculty in the National Guard is amply supplied by the recent promotions of Elmer S. Watson '29, L. Stuart Champeny '30 and James Gwin '31.

Elmer Watson was major of the R. O. T. C. Battalion here at Connecticut State in '28 to '29. He also managed to give some time to the Campus Board and the varsity baseball team, and in addition was a member of Theta Alpha Phi and Gamma Chi Epsilon. At the present time Mr. Watson is a member of the Arthur A. Watson Insurance Company in Hartford.

Mr. Champeny who is chemist at the Reservoir in Unionville, was a member of Gamma Chi Epsilon and on the Campus Board. He held the position of sports editor of the Nutmeg, and was captain of his company in 1929.

Mr. Gwin, who graduated in 1931, was a major of the Battalion that year. He was on the track team, a member of the Student Senate, the Campus Board, Theta Alpha Phi and the Druids. Mr. Gwin is now with the Bureau of Markets at the State Capital in Hartford.

All three of these men were members of Theta Sigma Chi fraternity, and their readings in room purposes, it includes two seminar rooms and a magazine and newspaper room. While this addition does not in any sense eliminate the necessity of an appropriate library building, it does give some relief to those using the library. If we can continue to add books at the rate that we have during 1934, we shall soon be unable to accommodate them in the present stacks. It appears also that the use of the library has greatly increased since the mezzanine floor was added.

Great State Night, sponsored by the Alumni Association, was held on the evening of October 11th and marked a new era of interest and cooperation on the part of the alumni of this college. Meetings in various cities of the state and in the other states as well were held with a great deal of success.

We feel that we have an Alumni Association that is willing to support the college in any or all of its various phases of activity and one that is willing to cooperate and the college, which will afford real help to the college.

Athletic Agitation Settled

During the early part of the year considerable agitation arose in regard to athletics. It took two forms. One was a study by a committee of students in an attempt to define the relationship existing between the athletic association and the college, with particular emphasis on the

and it is anticipated that the coming year will hold in store brighter prospects than for several years.

Careful Financial Management Necessary

The past year has been a difficult one from the standpoint of finances, both for many of our students and for the college. The introduction of FERA labor has been a great boon to many and our small loan fund has been used to its limit to help students carry through this critical period. It is unfortunate that the college does not have money for scholarship purposes. The college finances have been very carefully guarded in order that we might not have to cripple our program or decrease our staff as many colleges and universities have had to do. The increased indebtedness on the part of the state for current expenses caused us to help in every way we could to conserve both state and federal monies. The sympathetic cooperation of the officials in Hartford deserves our utmost appreciation.

On October 1, 1934 the enrollment figure stood at 787. It is encouraging to note that this increased enrollment was caused by the return of a larger percentage of former students and an increase in our graduate enrollment.

New Attitude Seen

The coming year holds forth promises of continued growth and development for the college. A gradually increasing interest and friendliness on the part of the state at large is evident. This will undoubtedly be reflected in the legislative halls. It seems more than probable that the state will recognize the need for development of the college and will see that such growth is made possible.
